HON. FRANK OLIVER TELLS OF CROPS USEFUL INVESTIGATIONS BY BIOLOGICAL STATION HERE

Vitamins Proved to be Present in Oils Made from Livers of Dog Fish Caught This District

Experimental Biological Station Now Wrestling With Second Phase of Investigations Connected With This Product

The fact that "Vitamin A" is proved to be present in oil manufactured from dog-fish livers in approximately five times the quantities found in the best grade of cod-liver oil is possibly the most important discovery yet made at the Prince Rupert Biological Station. The work has been done by H. N. Brocklesby, who has charge of that particular branch of the work just now and who, during the absence of D. B. Finn, is in charge there. If it can be shown that "Vitamin D" is also present the value of the oil will be increased. The possibilities of the oil from a medicinal point of view make the discovery extremely important. Possibly there is a fortune awaiting the man who can successfully market the product as a proprietary medicine and there is no good reason why it should not be done in Prince Rupert.—Editor.

By H. N. Brocklesby, Fisheries Experimental Station (Pacific) of the Biological Board of Canada

Few people realize to what extent they are dependent on fats or oils. The food they eat, the clothes that they wear, and the houses in which they live all are made possible by the use of either fats or oils. The morning shave is performed by a razor whose keen cutting edge is manufactured by oil tempering. Leather is made pliable by oiling, clothes are dyed by the aid of oil mordants. Paints are essentially nothing but oils. Then there are the soaps, varnishes, lacquers, lubricating and dressing oils, insulating varnishes for electrical machinery and a host of other essential commodities which are manufactured from oils or fats. The maintenance of the supply of such valuable material is therefore a question of utmost importance.

PRINCE RUPERT TO SOON COME OF AGE

The "Twenty Years Ago" column of the Vancouver Province gives reminder of the fact that Prince Rupert is now nigh coming of age as a place on the map. In that column on Friday last, the Vancouver paper said: "F. W. Morse, vice-president and general manager of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, will arrive in British Columbia next month to confer with Premier McBride for the purpose of negotiating settlement of the moot question of the ownership of the Indian Reserve at Prince Rupert." At this time in 1907, some of the hardy pioneers, a few of whom are still here, had already arrived on the scene.

Other smaller improvements have been made, all tending to increase the stability of the line and the efficiency of the service and also preventing expenditures on future heavy replacements.

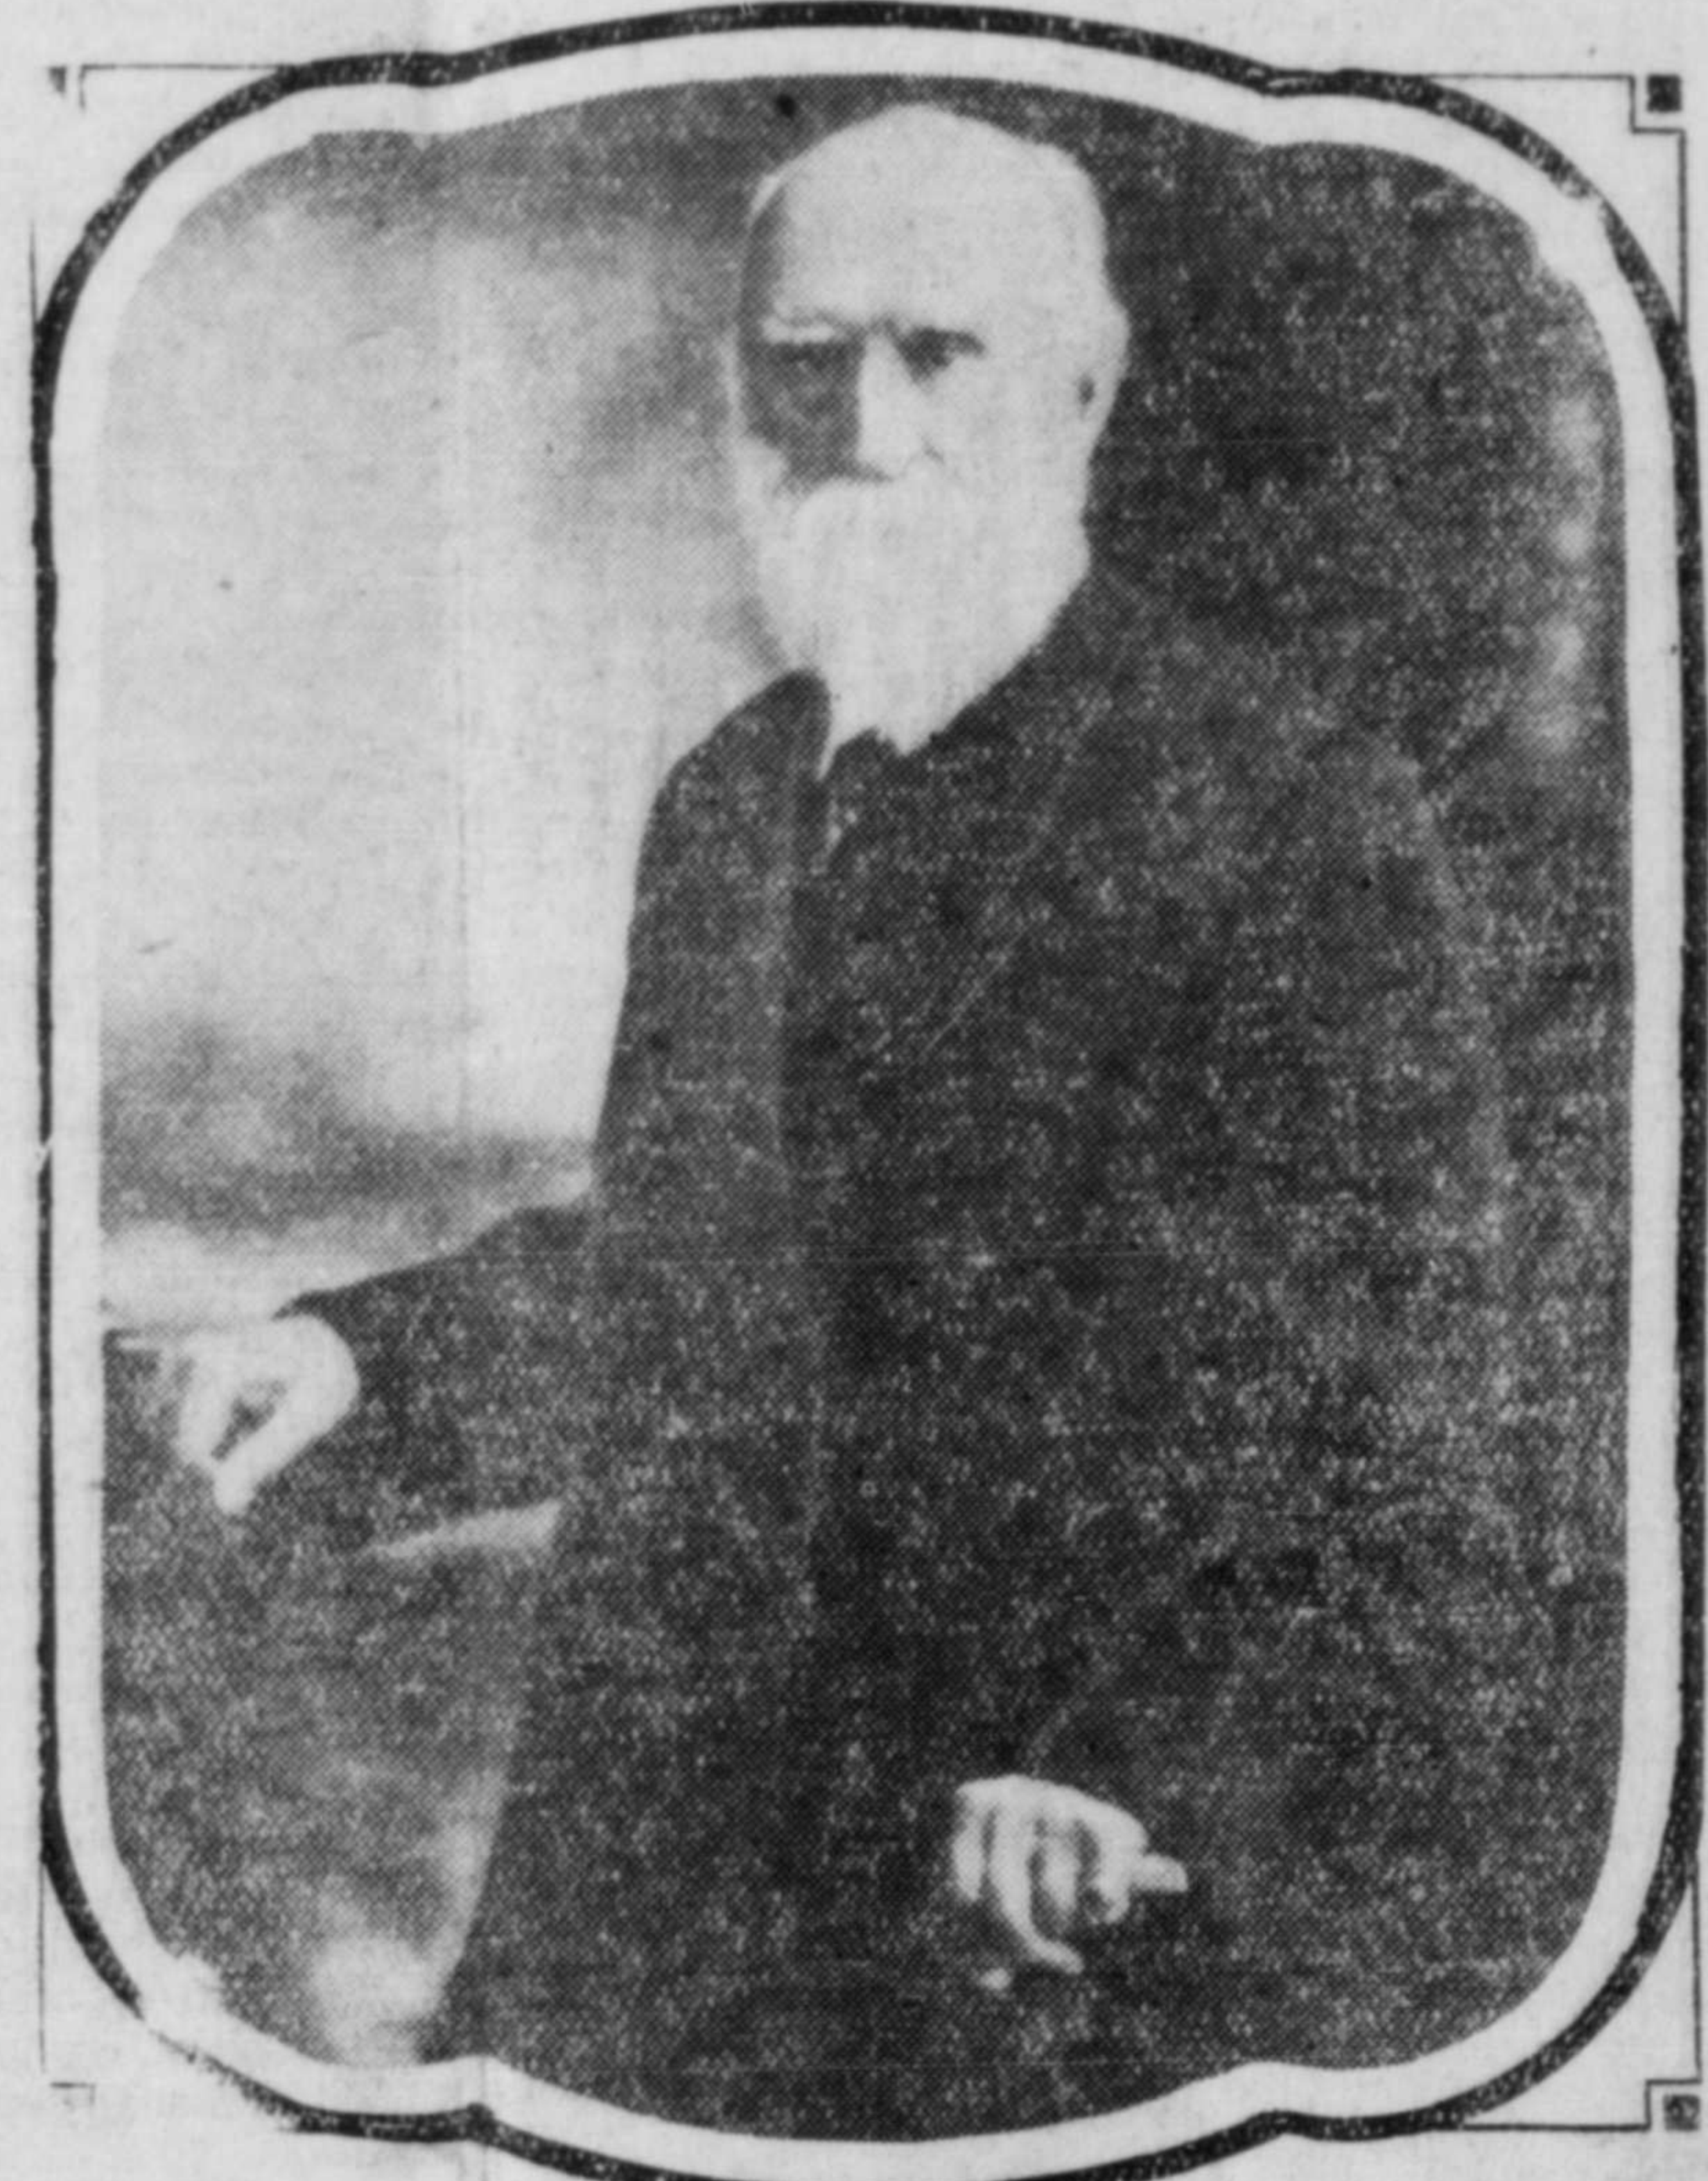

LOCAL MEMBER RETURNS HOME

Success of Winnipeg Convention Was Brilliant as Sun That Shone, Says Mr. Brady

J. C. Brady, M.P. for Skeena, likens the success of the big National Conservative convention in Winnipeg last week to the brilliant, sunny weather that blessed the hub of the prairies during the days of the great gathering was on. Winnipeg had stormy weather just before the convention and the convention had something of a storm during its early hours but weather and convention alike, before the end, both cleared up and the atmosphere prevailing was both congenial and fortuitous. "It was a wonderful success and the trip was a memorable one for me," declared Mr. Brady who returned to the city on yesterday afternoon's train from Winnipeg.

One of the all important matters of the convention was the selection of the leader and in that Mr. Brady is well pleased. A new and greater era of Conservatism than Canada has ever known is in the morning he asserts. Under the leadership of Hon. R. B. Bennett the party will march forward, he says, resolutely imbued for the scaling of greater heights. Frank if somewhat heated discussions only went to cement the unanimity of Conservatism, Mr. Brady declares.

Nor was Prince Rupert forgotten in the organization of the big convention. J. A. Kirkpatrick, local business man, was appointed to the party's organization committee for British Columbia of which the other member is Keith C. McGowan of New Westminster. The convention, which included 1600 delegates from all parts of Canada, was a remarkable and inspiring spectacle states Mr. Brady. The delegates from the various provinces were imbued, the local member says, with the one thought, namely, that if Canada was to forge ahead, there must be unity (continued on page six)

GOSSE CONFERS WITH FISH COMMITTEE OF LOCAL TRADE BOARD

During his visit to the city Richard J. Gosse had a conference with the fisheries committee of the Prince Rupert Board of Trade, consisting of John Dybbavn, S. E. Parker and C. E. Starr, and matters generally in connection with the proposed changes to the salmon fishery regulations were discussed. Mr. Gosse, who had intended going to Ottawa from here, was somewhat mystified as to why the delegation of which he was to have been a member had suddenly decided not to go East. Accordingly, instead of carrying out his original plan, he returned last night to Vancouver.

Hon. Frank Oliver Says Crops in Edmonton District Best He Has Ever Seen But Season Late

The finest I have ever seen in the district." Such is the way Hon. Frank Oliver of Edmonton, a member of the Canadian Board of Railway Commissioners, describes the crops this year in Northern Alberta. As Mr. Oliver has been a resident of that district for several decades his statement may be taken to mean that the crops there are the best in history.

Mr. Oliver explained that recent rainy weather has caused delay in getting the wheat threshed, this being the reason why its movement to Prince Rupert and other British Columbia ports has not started ere this. The rains have not been heavy but there has been just enough precipitation to hold operations up. However, on Thursday, when he left Edmonton, there had been an improvement in the weather and threshing had started with the outlook favorable for an era of speedy and general handling.

Mr. Oliver was interested to hear about what was going on at Prince Rupert in the way of grain handling. Of course, he is known to be one of the old friends of this port and it was gratifying to him to learn that Prince Rupert expected to ship twice as much grain this season as it did last.

Mr. Oliver arrived here with the railway board on Saturday afternoon and, while here, took the opportunity of making the week-end trip to Stewart mining camp, going south on the Prince Rupert Sunday night.

SECOND CARLOAD OF GRAIN COMING HERE

The second carload of grain for the Prince Rupert elevator this season will come from the Vanderhoof district, the Central Interior Co-operative Grain and Hay Pool of that place having shipped a carload at the end of last week. No definite advices of grain loadings on the prairies for the local plant had been received up to today but it is expected that the movement will be under way within a few days. It has already been announced that the first boat of the season to load grain here, the Fish Pool, is due about October 28.

ENDORSES PROJECT OF WESTERN OUTLET TO PEACE RIVER

"A noticeable feature of the National Conservative convention in Winnipeg," states J. C. Brady, M.P., who attended the big gathering, "was the deep interest shown by the delegates in the development of the Peace River country, one of the most important matters that Western Canada is now concerned with. It was made evident that the port of Prince Rupert is and will be an important factor in that development."

SUTTON FOUND NORTHERN B.C.

Got Lost on Trail and Was Not Found Until Saturday Afternoon

VANCOUVER, Oct. 17.—General Sutton, who was reported lost last week in the Hudson's Hope region of the Peace River district, was found safe on Saturday after wandering for twenty hours in the trackless wilderness, unable to find his way out.

The General went alone on Friday to survey a water power project from his camp about 20 miles from Hudson's Hope in Northern British Columbia. He lost the trail and spent the night in an abandoned cabin. Search parties searched all night and on Saturday until he was found in the afternoon. The searchers were organized by Noel Humphrey, a Vancouver engineer, and J. M. Brian, M.L.A., members of the Sutton party.

POLICY OF PROTECTION

The Conservative party in Canada is still as strongly protectionist as ever. The convention at Winnipeg failed to make any change such as was very generally forecasted. Here is what the Edmonton Bulletin has to say about the subject:

Congratulations are also due to the Conservative party of Canada because it is still that, and because the "bull moose" movement, which was supposed to destroy its identity beyond recognition of western voters, is as dead as the dodo.

The Winnipeg convention adopted a resolution which, if it means anything at all, reaffirms the party allegiance to thorough-going protectionism. It is not so much a "plank" as an argument, but there is no room for a doubt where the argument leads to. By no distortion could it be made to represent a demand for tariff reduction; nor even for leaving the tariff as it is.

Thus ended the scheme of Mr. Guthrie and some of the Southern papers to have the convention do a little flirting with the low tariff idea in hope of attracting western support. Their proposal did not even get far enough to attract the attention of the delegates. It was not given the recognition of a formal application of the steam-roller. It was just ignored, and died on the door-step, without ever getting into the hall.

MUSIC IN SCHOOLS

Terrace people are asking that there be more singing in the schools. In a good many other places more musical education is asked. In some parts of the continent singing is taught as one of the regular subjects of the curriculum but mostly it is left to the teacher to do as she wishes. If she is musical, she gives plenty of it but if she is not, the subject is neglected.

In British Columbia we seem to go on the happy-go-lucky, hit or miss system. There does not seem to be any established rule, or if there is, it is not carried out.

We all know how difficult it is to teach all the subjects on the long curriculum and do it well, but after all, the whole end and aim in life is not the passing of examinations, the promotion of pupils or the taking of high marks. Music is something that adds to the enjoyment of life just as much as mathematics, perhaps more. A very few minutes devoted each day to singing in the class room has a wonderful effect on developing musical taste. Also after a hard lesson it has a reviving effect on the pupils, acting somewhat as a tonic. The difficulty is that while some teachers devote a lot of time to the subject, others devote none and the gap in the continuity of studies as the pupils pass on is discouraging.

In city schools where there are always plenty of musical teachers, there should be no difficulty in teaching enough singing for the unmusical teacher to carry on the regular practices.

DOMINION PUBLIC WORKS

Hon. J. C. Elliott, minister of public works, announces that now the country is prosperous, there is justification for the government proceeding with needed public works. Perhaps under these circumstances this would be a good time for turning the attention of the government to the situation in Prince Rupert. Here we have no federal building. The postoffice is housed in a wooden structure at great risk to the people of the city. The Dominion has to pay rent when it should be doing business like any up-to-date concern in a building of its own.

When the post office was moved to the present building we were told that this was more or less a temporary move until such time as a proper building should be provided.

RAILWAY BOARD VISITED HERE

Inspected Site Where Albert & McCaffery Plan Putting in of Level Railway Crossing

To make a personal inspection in connection with an application that had been made by Albert & McCaffery for permission to construct a private level road crossing across the Canadian National Railway tracks near the supply company wharves here, the board of railway commissioners visited Prince Rupert at the end of the week. The party arrived on Saturday afternoon from Edmonton aboard the commission's private car, Acadia, attached to the regular passenger train and called last night on the Prince Rupert for Vancouver. During Saturday afternoon the members of the commission visited the site of the proposed road.

Members of the commission in the party were Dr. S. J. McLean, assistant chief commissioner, and Calvin Lawrence and Hon. Frank Oliver, commissioners. Officials accompanying the commissioners were George Spencer, chief operating officer; Col. Parks, divisional engineer for the board, and R. Richardson, secretary and registrar of the board.

JOHN McLENNAGHAN IS DEAD IN VANCOUVER

Father of Mrs. McClymont Passes Away in Vancouver on Thursday Last

John McLennaghan, aged 79, father of Mrs. T. McClymont of Prince Rupert, passed away on Thursday in Vancouver. The late Mr. McLennaghan made a visit to Prince Rupert during the past summer and, soon after his return to Vancouver, his health commenced to fail. A couple of weeks ago it was realized that the end could not be far removed and Mr. and Mrs. McClymont were summoned to his bedside. Mrs. McClymont was present when death occurred and attended the funeral which took place on Saturday afternoon. Rev. E. McGowan of Chalmers United Church officiating with interment in Ocean View Burial Park.

The late Mr. McLennaghan farmed for many years near his birthplace, Perth, Ontario, and later went west to Portage La Prairie, going in 1920 to Vancouver. He is survived by a widow; a son, James B. McLennaghan, Conservative member of the Manitoba Legislature for Selkirk; and six daughters.—Mrs. McClymont; Mrs. H. L. Midforth, formerly Miss Myrtle McLennaghan of Prince Rupert, now of Winnipeg; Mrs. J. H. Surtess, Miss Gertrude McLennaghan and Miss Elsie McLennaghan, Vancouver, and Miss Jessie McLennaghan, director of home economics for the Department of Education, Victoria. The deceased was a distant relative of Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, former Premier of Canada.

Many will recall her delightful narrative, "A Walkabout in Australia," with foreword written by her brother, General Sir Tom Bridges, Governor of South Australia, in which he describes several venturesome journeys through unexplored territory, and relates the daring lady's experiences among the pearl fisheries of Polynesia and during her tramp across Papua. Miss Bridges has the distinction of being the first white woman who ever crossed the Main Range of Papua. In her book "Green Wave of Destiny," she has given an insight into the manners and customs of the Chinese of today.

PARENT TEACHERS AT TERRACE PROPOSE SINGING IN SCHOOLS

Money to be Expended on Purchasing Books for Library; Many Members for Organization

TERRACE, Oct. 17.—The monthly meeting of the Parent Teacher Association was held in the school house on Thursday evening with the newly elected president, Rev. Wm. Allan in the chair. Routine business was conducted. Mrs. Scamen reported thirty-four names on the membership list for the new year. Mr. Holmwood told what new athletic equipment had been bought and what was still needed. He reported that Capt. Colthurst had turned over a considerable sum of money collected for athletic equipment, with the promise of more to be collected. It was decided to buy a rubber cover for the piano, the price quoted by a Vancouver house being satisfactory.

The money left over from last year's Xmas tree funds, which was to be used to buy books for the school library, but which was held over until the present school year so as to profit by a similar amount in the form of a government grant, was turned over to the book committee, who were to investigate the library needs and purchase for either public or high school what seemed most necessary.

A motion was almost unanimously passed suggesting that there be more singing in the class rooms. The Parent Teacher Association had worked energetically to put a piano in the school and had completed the payments on it, but the children were receiving very little benefit from it.

At the close of the business meeting, Rev. Wm. Allan sang two solos and Mr. Holmwood, public school principal, gave an interesting and instructive talk on "The Project Method" and showed how it might be applied in various ways in the teaching of practically all the subjects.

Boys Have Become Men

Since starting our business in Prince Rupert we have seen boys become men, girls grow to be women. The automobile has displaced the horse. This city has grown from a collection of shacks to a thriving city. The hope for a railroad has become a busy actuality. This ever present growth and progress has been a constant incentive for the improvement of our own prescription service.

BEBE DANIELS AS CABALLERO

Masquerading as Boy Famous Actress Fights Like a Devil but Falls in Love

According to all the signs Francesca Hernandez should have been born a boy. At the hour of her birth, thunder and lightning filled the air. At the age of twenty she is able to do anything that a man can do in the field of sport. She can ride, shoot, and is handy with a sword.

At the ancestral Hernandez ranch in South America, Don Francisco's fortunes are ebbing through the depredations of his ancient enemies the Oliveros. All these years he has believed that the grandchild born in San Francisco is a boy and in his hour of need he sends for the "grandson" whom he has never seen. Bebe responds believing that her grandfather will be reconciled to her sex when he sees her. But she is apprised of the situation when she reaches South America, and realizing her grandfather's need, she impulsively dons the garb of a swashbuckling caballero and appears before him as the boy he believes her to be.

With her background of sports, and with her skill in riding, shooting and fencing; with her high courage and her impulsive daring, Bebe enters enthusiastically into the spirit of the situation. Rallying around her the caballeros of the Hernandez household and the vaqueros of the rancho she brings confusion upon the Oliveros in a series of sensational episodes that recoup the fortunes of the family, and restore to the Hernandez name the repute it had seemingly lost.

In the meantime, Roger Oliveros, son of her grandfather's ancient enemy, returns from Europe wholly unaware of the extent to which his cousin Ramon has outraged the precepts of family honor and has descended to virtual banditry and cattle rustling. Bebe's courageous relieving of the Hernandez property is presented to him as sheer outlawry, and he vows eternal vengeance on all of the Hernandez name.

Into this situation steps Fate. Bebe in the preservation of her masculine masquerade is wont to bathe in a nearby pool. Here Roger comes upon her unexpectedly. She has time to wrap herself in a serape. He does not realize that she is the redoubtable enemy for whom he is searching. And she falls in love with him not knowing that he is an Olivero.

At the Fiesta of Roses, Bebe meets Roger again and they declare their love. Roger declares his intention of engaging his enemy Francisco Hernandez in a duel with swords. Bebe still believing that Ramon is the head of the Oliveros family forces the issue and a duel ensues in which Ramon is hopelessly routed. Later she is brought face to face with Roger and the necessity of fighting the man she loves.

For the Oliveros under the leadership of Ramon attack the Hernandez home and are put to rout by Bebe.

"SEE YOU IN JAIL" WESTHOLME TONIGHT

What's in a name? The movies now come forward with a cinematic answer to the question.

John Jones, a plain citizen, undertakes a given thing and it may be foredoomed to failure. John Jones, multi-millionaire, attempts the same thing and it is an assured success even before it is started.

This fact is emphasized by "See You in Jail," the new First National picture showing at the Westholme tonight, with Jack Mulhall featured and Alice Day playing opposite him.

As the jobless hero, he accepts a chance to make ten dollars a day by going to jail in place of a famous financier who has been sentenced for speeding. Other millionaires have not been so fortunate and are serving their own sentences. They think he is the great financial giant and when he undertakes to float an invention, all are anxious to join the company.

Naturally, it is a success. If he had not been mistaken for the financier, he wouldn't have even received a hearing!

Ray Rocket produced this comedy-drama for First National Pictures and it is directed by Joseph Henabery. A fine cast supports the leading players, including Mack Swain, George Fawcett, Crauford Kent and others.

"SONORA KID" SEEN TOMORROW IN MOVIES

The story of a girl who reads and dreams of romances in the old days of chivalry and who meets the knight of her dreams right on her father's ranch, is told in "The Sonora Kid," an F. B. O. production starring Tom Tyler which is to be here tomorrow. Tyler, of course, is the handsome hero who not only measures up to her ideal man, but to complete the enchantment, when she is in distress he rides to her rescue, not in sombrero and chaps, but in medieval armor. Tyler's securing the ancient suit of mail is one of the high spots of comedy in the picture, but his adventures after the disguise is donned are replete with thrills. There are many novel situations which are unraveled at a top-notch rate of speed and keep the picture humming with action. Tyler again displays his supremacy as a horseman and as an expert in the art of fisticuffs.

"STELLA DALLAS" GRIPPING PICTURE WELL PHOTOGRAPHED

A heart-gripping picture with undeniable audience appeal, "Stella Dallas" easily registers as one of the season's most poignant screen studies in human emotions. It is well directed, beautifully photographed, cleverly acted and strikes the key-note of sincerity with unflinching touch. The hapless Stella is so clearly the victim of temperament and environment that she gets sympathy even in the early stages of her career when she pursues the giddy course that ultimately wrecks her home. And none will refuse her the tender grace of pity that at last, when, her self-sacrifice complete, she stands without a window in the beating rain and watches her beloved daughter's marriage ceremony, until a gruff cop bids her to "move-on." Nothing conventional about this ending, as the heroine's pathos vies with joy, but its artistry will appease even the fan-

mainder of his life, talents and wealth to further the interests of Canada was undoubtedly the most thrilling episode of the whole convention. The sincerity of the man was evidenced by the fact that the very day following the completion of the convention, Bennett was on his way to New York to act as he had said he would. Furthermore, the great evidence of unity toward the new leader was most striking. All were loyal and proved their loyalty to Bennett. The result is so far reaching that I do not hesitate to say that the Conservative party with a leader of such courage, ability and energy will reach a height equal if not greater than the Conservative party enjoyed in the days of Sir John A. Macdonald."

NEWSPAPERMEN THERE
Mr. Brady referred to the important delegation of newspapermen that attended the convention. "Sixty-four press representatives, the cream of Canada's journalistic profession, sat in that convention but not until the smoke of battle has cleared away, will the dramatic and soul inspiring spirit of the convention be revealed by them to the outer world. "Very Rich"

"I first tried half fresh and half Pacific Milk in a cake. It was too rich. A second trial, less butter, did not taste right. I tried again, reduced Pacific Milk to one part Pacific against three parts fresh milk. It gave what I wanted. But I had found that Pacific Milk is very rich."—From Mrs. McDonald's letter referred to Saturday.

Does It Pay?

to wash at home

Many thousands of women are standing at the family wash tubs every Monday morning under the impression that they are saving money by doing their own washing. In the course of their studies in household economy in an eastern university, four of the students decided to make a test of this for themselves.

They visited a home consisting of five persons, the parents and three small children, and actually did the weekly family wash, accomplishing the work complete in three hours, using a $150 electric washing machine.

Being students of economic costs, they were careful to accumulate cost data and this is what the wash cost without any labor charge:

Deterioration of machine	50c
Electric current	10c
Water	05c
Fuel	15c
Soap (actual cost)	10c
Washing Powder	05c
Blueing	02c
Total	97c

The same washing done at the laundry would cost $1.00. Would you wash all day for three cents? The answer is obvious. Send it to the
