MUSSOLINI WILL HOLD ON TO POWER

GOVERNMENT HAS HUGE MAJORITY ON SOVIET INCIDENT

Italy Will Get Rights Recognized When Army and Navy Strong Says Mussolini in Speech to Chamber

His successor not born yet so he will rule Italy for ten or fifteen years if necessary he declares

ROME, May 27.—"Italy will be able finally to see her rights recognized between 1935 and 1940 when we have a strong navy, a huge air force and will be able to mobilize an army of five million men." Mussolini made this pronouncement in the Chamber of Deputies yesterday in a speech in which he stated for the first time the definite goal he had been aiming at for the past five years. He declared further:

"I thought after five years I would have finished the major part of my work but now I see I have not. I am convinced that despite the gradual creation of a directing class, despite the discipline of the people I must assume the task of governing the Italian people ten or fifteen years more if necessary, not because I am lustful for power, but because it is my precise duty." Then he added dryly, "My successor is not born yet."

LABOR REQUEST FOR AN INQUIRY IS TURNED DOWN BY BRITISH HOUSE OF COMMONS ON VOTE OF 367 TO 112

LONDON, May 27.—After an exciting debate yesterday the House of Commons passed the following resolution: "This House, while appreciating the long forbearance of His Majesty's Government and their many efforts to maintain friendly diplomatic relations with the Soviet Republic in the face of acute provocation, applauds their decision to withdraw diplomatic privileges which have been so gravely abused, while at the same time putting no obstacles in the way of legitimate trade relations with Russia."

Prior to the passing of this motion a Labor motion moved by J. R. Clynes, that the country ought not to be committed to the Government's policy of severance of diplomatic relations with Russia until after a full inquiry, was defeated on a vote of 367 to 112.

Speaking to the Clynes motion, Sir Austin Chamberlain told the House that the Government was not prepared to accept the motion asking that an inquiry be held into the Government's charges of Soviet propaganda in Britain which resulted in the decision to sever diplomatic relations. He declared that the Laborite motion amounted to a vote of censure and if it were carried the Government would know what steps it would be its duty to take.

Following the blast the little oil town commenced frantically to remove frame buildings from the vicinity of the blaze which roared all night fanned by a high wind. Teams and tractors dragged some away on skids while the towns water supply was played over the others to prevent their catching fire.

The flames raged to a height of two hundred feet for many hours.

When the explosion occurred, the earth vibrated for a distance of several miles.

Urges Prince Rupert People to Cultivate an Optimistic Spirit and Stop Knocking

"If you want to do something for this town, suggest to the people of Prince Rupert that they stop knocking each other and try to make the most of what they have," declared C. E. Forbes, logging manager of the Powell River paper mill with headquarters at Vancouver. "I have been in the city several days and I never came across as pessimistic a lot of people as I met here. Prince Rupert is a good city with enormous possibilities, but it can't succeed if everybody is working at cross purposes. The only road to success is to stop knocking and unite on mutual improvement and mutual help. I think the service clubs should unite on this. Let them deliberately ostracize any who knock their neighbors and try to get rid of that pessimistic spirit. It has a particularly bad effect on visitors."

Mr. Forbes was here in connection with the marketing of the hemlock and cedar logs for his company and he was very active while here. He spoke most enthusiastically of the improvement he saw in the city since his last visit. Incidentally he said he read yesterday's leading editorial in the Daily News and wished to congratulate the writer. He agreed with every word of it. He looked to see Prince Rupert grow very considerably within the next few years but it could not succeed unless the citizens were willing to help each other and to speak well of each other and the city instead of looking for the flaws.

Mr. Forbes spoke most enthusiastically of the development of Powell River by his company. He mentioned that it meant little to say that the output was between four and five hundred tons a day. To show better how much paper they made, he said if it were cut in a strip four feet wide, the strip made in one day would reach all the way from Vancouver to Montreal. This was done six days in the week and fifty two days in the year.

Mr. Forbes left last night for Vancouver on the steamer Prince Rupert.

POPULARIZING WESTERN HEMLOCK
 There is at present a campaign being conducted by the lumbermen of this section of the continent to popularize western hemlock, one of the best commercial trees growing in this part of Canada. Already the efforts are meeting with considerable success and the demand for that lumber is growing throughout United States and Canada.

The effect of this movement should be very beneficial to northern British Columbia where there are some fine stands of western hemlock. In the past it has been difficult to market this lumber but from now on it may be expected that hemlock will be an asset to a lumber district rather than a drawback.

"So's your old man," replied the fond parent when his son wrote asking for money and saying he was broke.

If men could be convicted for their thoughts, I know at least one who would be in jail.

MINIMUM WAGE LAW
 The minimum wage law has for some time been operative in the lumber industry in this province and preparations are being made to extend operation of the law to other callings. The object is, not so much to set a standard wage as to prevent employers taking advantage of local conditions to obtain labor at sweat-shop rates. It is, as one of the commissioners expressed it here, to protect the under dog from oppression.

Investigation has shown that very low wages are paid in some callings, so low that it is an inducement for those so employed to live criminal lives. For the protection, not only of these people, but for the good of the whole community it is desirable that a living wage be paid in all industries. At the same time it is wise, from the labor standpoint, to guard against stifling industry and thus prevent the development of the country.

A fat person enjoys a laugh much more than a thin one because there is so much more to take part in the process.

It's the photographer who knows just how much truth a woman likes.

RAPID OR SLOW DEVELOPMENT IN CHILDREN
 Some children develop rapidly and become infant prodigies while some develop very slowly and are often classed as dunces; yet often in the race of life the slow developing child lives to look miles below at the infant prodigy. It is doubtful if rapid development of the child can be a thorough and lasting development. That is where intelligence tests fail. They do not mean much because the child is changing constantly. The tests measure rapidly of development but not undeveloped capacity. Usually these tests are so much wasted time and effort.

Then again there is a brightness which is possessed by a class of people who never capitalize it and never make anything of it in their lives because they lack balance. Brightness does not always mean intellectuality, the power to reason or invent or control. Those who have played parlor games will realize exactly what is meant. People who are quite impossible in parlor contests often are those who control big affairs, who direct the thought and action of nations and who instigate world policies.

There is no way of measuring the potential ability of a child and any attempt usually ends in ridicule.

Ignorance is bliss, so why ask questions?

Gambling is inherent in the human race. We all take chances, gambling with fate every day of our lives. We get married, eat eggs and sometimes cross the street.

Work and smile and on occasion keep a stiff upper lip and success is yours. The worst enemy to success, is a grouch.

It certainly is a long, long winter!

Dr. Toimie says that Canada needs more unity. He means that the country should unite under him.

CANADA FORCED TO SEARCH FOR NEW MARKETS

U.S. TARIFF HAS HAD EFFECT ON RELATIONS BETWEEN TWO COUNTRIES

DETROIT, Mich., May 27.—(By Canadian Press)—Canada, which was described as "the best customer" of the United States, is gradually being driven into closer trade relations with other countries through the imposition of prohibitive tariffs. Traverse Sweatman, past president of the Winnipeg Board of Trade, told delegates attending the National Foreign Trade convention here.

"The subject of tariffs is of course part of the internal or domestic concern of each nation and Canada has no right to complain of the tariff raised against her by the United States, on the reverse," Mr. Sweatman declared. "But," he added, "the fact cannot be ignored that existing tariff barriers have forced Canada to look for new markets and there is always a risk that where business is forced into new channels by methods of this kind, it will not readily return."

NORTH AND SOUTH
 On account of Canada's political boundaries there was a tendency of trade between east and west over long lines of expensive communication, whereas the economical and natural way would be to trade north and south, the speaker said. The logical customers of British Columbia were the people of the United States who lived along the Pacific coast. The natural markets for the farmers and stockmen of Alberta and Saskatchewan were Chicago, Minneapolis, St. Paul and all the large centres of the northwestern states. Moreover, Mr. Sweatman asserted, there were no geographical reasons why the two peoples should not easily exchange products and raw materials without restrictions or restraint.

"We speak the same language, enjoy the same institutions of government. We have the same religious and social ideas. In short, the forty-ninth parallel is solely a political barrier. It seems to me, therefore, that the practical problem to be solved in so far as we can, is to modify these trade restrictions without injuring the industrial, commercial or agricultural interests of either country. Political demands for prohibitive tariffs are often granted as matters of expediency, and very frequently worked great hardships without accomplishing the results expected."

URGES REPEAL
 Mr. Sweatman appealed for more cordial trade understanding between the two nations and urged repeal of such tariffs as were proving harmful to mutual trade expansion. He criticized the emergency tariff policy of the United States which he claimed, had the effect of discouraging Canadian manufacturers from entering into the American market. Canadian manufacturers were naturally afraid to spend the necessary capital to establish a market for the goods when they knew that the moment the market had been obtained it would be taken away from them.

The United States could not afford to overlook the importance of Canada as one of the principal producing nations in the world. In volume of trade, Mr. Sweatman pointed out, Canada stood fifth among the nations of the world. From forty-eight and a half million dollars in 1868 Canada's exports had increased to one billion three hundred and fifteen million in 1926. In this period Canada's trade with Great Britain had increased approximately twenty-eight hundred per cent, compared with an increase of nineteen hundred per cent with the United States. In contrast imports during this period from Great Britain had fallen down from 17.6 per cent while the figures showed an increase of 65.7 with the United States.

ON THRESHOLD
 Canada was just on the threshold of expansion, Mr. Sweatman said. Millions of acres were awaiting settlement; the unlimited resources of this vast Dominion were largely undeveloped and there was available water power to provide for the establishment of almost boundless industrial expansion.

"Having regard to the progress which we have made during the past twenty-five years, I think the United States would be well advised to accord Canada the treatment which she ordinarily grants a most valued customer," Mr. Sweatman concluded.

WINNIPEG MUSIC IN THE ARCTIC CIRCLE

Eskimos Enjoy Concerts by Radio and Dance to Manitoba Music

WINNIPEG, May 27.—In far away Aklavik, somewhere near the Arctic Circle in the North West Territories, the Eskimos no longer huddle of night in their igloos.

For in Aklavik, 1,800 miles north of Winnipeg, voices from Canadian radio stations make themselves heard on certain nights when Aurora Borealis is in good humor. Then the dogs cease to howl at the painted sky and the Inuit flappers and sheiks gather on the frozen snow to dance to strains of Winnipeg orchestras.

Lieut. Kluff, who is stationed at Aklavik on government work, sends this information by telegraph to the Manitoba government station "C.K.Y."

The lieutenant has a good radio set with a loud speaker, and on nights when conditions are favorable he tunes

ROYAL YEAST CAKES

Reception is usually good, he says, and the concerts are much enjoyed.

The eskimos, he telegraphs, are keen fans and look forward to the coming of the "voice from the sky." As the eskimo, as a rule, is keenly appreciative of white men's music and quickly learns to dance in the modern way, they thoroughly enjoy the concerts and dance music, Lieut. Kluff writes.

HAD ARGUMENT WITH A BEAR

GRIZZLY DID NOT SEEM TO UNDERSTAND ENGLISH BUT LISTENED TO PERSUASION OF LEAD

If anyone unfamiliar with the ways of the wilds doesn't know what to do when he meets a bear, and feels that the time at his disposal is not sufficient to get legal advice or to look up the chapter in the book of etiquette, headed, "Bears, and How to Greet Them," then let him read the advice given by A. E. Denny, a trapper from northern B.C., who has probably killed as many specimens of ursus horribilis as any man alive, says the Edmonton Journal. But Denny still says that the best way to deal with a bear is to give him the right of way.

That's the way to avoid trouble, insists Denny, but there are times when a bear turns into a hog, and the man either turns into a corpse, or the bear into veal or pork, or whatever it is that the butchers label dead bear.

SOUNDED LIKE FOGHORN
 Denny was blazing his mountain trapline one day last fall, when his attention was aroused by hearing a faint sound like the foghorn of a steamer being blown in his right ear.

Mr. Denny idly searched the landscape with his eagle eyes and got a front view of a monster grizzly at a range of about 30 feet. Being the sort of man who doesn't believe everything he sees, he took another look. Sure enough, there was the bear, still showing a front view, and now about 20 feet away.

"Shoot! Go away, I haven't lost any bears," complained Mr. Denny. But the bear appeared to be an ignorant and unlearned sort of animal and did not understand English.

THREW IN THE CLUTCH
 With a bored air, Mr. Denny picked up his faithful Winchester and threw in the clutch, sending a stream of lead into the bear, which crumpled up with a smart at the trapper's feet with five bullets embedded in its carcass.

"What could I do, I asks you?" said Denny, unrolling the eight-foot hide in William Wolfe's taxidermy store and displaying the huge skull garnished with a row of cruel fangs. "I was willing to let the bear alone, but he was after my hide—so I got his."

A Bad Case of Eczema

Are you reading the weekly Canadian letters, telling stories of suffering from skin diseases and how relief was effected?

Here is part of a letter from Mrs. E. Gibson, Box 1136, Midland, Ont. Write her if you desire. "I had a very bad case of eczema on my face and neck, also scalp. Could not find anything to give me relief. One small bottle of D. D. D. gave me great relief, so then I secured a large bottle, and I am now without a blemish."

The proof of the pudding is in the eating. When a prescription for skin disease has letters of endorsement from nearly every city and town in the Dominion, surely it is enough to convince the most skeptical.

Immediate relief is afforded by D. D. D. today on the positive guarantee. And D. D. D. Soap, too.

(New York American)
 "From the drums and bugles of 'The Big Parade,' King Vidor has turned to the harps and muted violins of 'La Boheme.' Henri Murger's famous story has been made into a film opera with a delicacy and hit all its own. This time Vidor was given pure romance to direct. It is pure romance, with all its lightness and poetry, which comes to the Westholme Theatre tonight.

"Wistful is the obvious word for Lillian Gish. Wistful she is in a part which calls for her unusual poetic quality. Her interpretation is delightful. She as always seems the youngest actress on the screen. It is this quality of youth which is her greatest contribution to the screen. As the little seamstress who loves a playwright and cares for nothing else in all the world, she dances through the picture. Miss Gish has never seemed so spontaneous, so unaffectedly happy, as in 'the gayer part of the picture.' King Vidor has counteracted Miss Gish's wistfulness with the exuberance of John Gilbert's work. The joy of life is his, the happy-go-lucky joy of the Latin quarter. 'La Boheme' is a picture that will be enjoyed by all who have ever felt the call of romance. It is a love song translated into pictures."

NO process in the world can make good milk out of milk which is poor to start with.

So Carnation's milk supply is protected at the source—the farms. Carnation quality begins with the cow.

The Carnation Milk Farms are operated solely to improve the Holstein breed and enable dairy farms to produce more better milk.

The Carnation Field Force spends its entire time selecting the farms from which we obtain milk and inspecting them regularly.

These great investments of time and money aim only at one result—to keep Carnation the world's first choice in evaporated milk—double-rich, full-cream flavored, pure.

HOW CARTOON PICTURES MADE

THOUSANDS OF DRAWINGS FOR ONE SHOWING OF AESOP'S FILM FABLES

"Isn't it marvellous how they make those wonderful animated cartoons? I wonder how they do it?" How many times have you asked that question of yourself or your companion when the funny Aesop's Fables are shown on the screen at the Westholme?

A visit to the studios of this movie concern is a most novel and educational trip behind the scenes. At least twenty artists leaning over drawing boards and busily sketching, as their nimble fingers make the needle-pointed pencils fly, is the first thing that meets the spectator's eye. So as not to get ahead of our outline, let us start with the birth of the idea.

A conference is held and each artist has the chance to express his views and suggestions as to the theme and characters in the proposed scenario. All suggestions are taken down by the stenographer and typed, and a scenario is thus formed by the head of the department who practically boils down the score or more of suggestions, into a short story that is filled with humorous situations and screamingly funny gags. With the characters decided upon, the scenario is developed in detail. Scenes, actions and titles are put into proper continuity in the same manner as a scenario for an eight reel extravaganza.

BACKGROUNDS FIRST

Backgrounds are the first pictures to be drawn. These are sometimes exterior scenes showing woodland country or mountains, or if it is a picture of the Far North, the background is of the icy hills of the Arctic regions. Interiors of rooms are drawn or closeups of windows, doors, as the case may be. After artists immediately set to work animating the various scenes. This means that thousands of drawings must be made for each release so that a life-like effect is the optical illusion when the various drawings are shown on the screen consecutively and in rapid succession.

Each animator is assigned a series of scenes and his drawings are made on translucent tissue paper. Thus, the animator may see the lines of the preceding drawing as he places a new paper over each completed sketch. On the new paper he traces the previous drawing, but moves the arm or leg or head, as the case may be, up to give the started or completed action of the character. This means that each drawing of the character is made in an entirely different position and the mere action of Farmer Al Falfa taking his pipe from his mouth may mean a series of forty to fifty separate drawings. After the picture has been completed by the total number of drawings being made on the tissue paper, these pictures are handed to the "tracers" who transfer the drawings from the tissue to celluloid sheets, which are of the same size as the paper.

Both the papers and the celluloids, or "cells" as they are more commonly known, have been perforated at the top with two holes. These holes on all papers and cells are of the exact distance apart and fit snugly on two pegs that are at the top of the animators', as well as the tracers' drawing boards.

BODIES BLACKED

Tracers then fill in the "blacks," or bodies. As we know, Henry Cat is a black cat and Milton Mouse is also of a very dark hue. Water colors, black and white, are always used so that after the cells have been photographed, they may be washed and used again. The completed drawings are numbered by the supervising artist and the number of photographic exposures necessary to register the desired action is made.

The ordinary motion picture camera takes sixteen pictures or "frames" per second, but the cameras used in photographing Aesop's Film Fables are so arranged that only one "frame" or picture is taken with each turn of the camera handle, which is so arranged that the photographer merely pushes a foot pedal to make the exposure. The entire cartoon release is handed over to the photographers. It is usually between ten and twenty thousand sheets of celluloid. Then the photographer sets to work. He first places the background under the camera eye and fits the celluloid over two pegs that protrude from the camera table. These pegs are, of course, the exact distance apart as are the pegs on the animators' and tracers' drawing boards. The first action picture is placed over the background and as all pictures of action are made on "cells," the background shows through to give the necessary effect.

Upon the completion of the photographing process, the exposed negative is sent to the laboratory for developing. The negative is then developed and a master print made, and after the cutter rearranges this into proper continuity, the picture is ready for projection.

ACTION EXPRESSED

To present an idea how the photographer or cameraman does his part in the making of animated cartoons, let us suppose the scene is to show Henry Cat emulating Robin Hood sending an arrow into the air. Sherwood Forest is pictured on the "setting sheet" or painted background. This drawing is placed under a frame directly beneath the camera which is focused from overhead. A celluloid sheet bearing a drawing of Henry's body in standing position is superimposed over the Sherwood Forest background. This shows Henry in a natural position for archery—with these exceptions, his arms, bow and arrow are missing. These members are on a second or a third sheet of celluloid, which when superimposed over the first, complete the cat, Robin Hood, or if you prefer, William Tell. Then, the superimposed sheets and background are photographed. To show the cat shooting the arrow the arms are made to draw back the arrow on the string by substituting various sheets with drawings of the arm and bow and arrow in progressive stages of movement. Just the required number of exposures of each combination of drawings and background are photographed to make the action natural and life-like.

the fringe of Canadian civilization. But this represents only a small percentage of the would-be workers, stated the registrar. Many thousands will remain to fight for temporary niches in the wage-earning strata of city society.

Strange and various are the positions into which these collegians annually drift. Many a freshman, rich in the brand new veneer of sophistication painstakingly acquired during his first year, finds himself officiating as bell-boy in a summer hotel; or, napkin on arm, precariously balancing the 35c meal so loudly advertised by a restaurant, which a month before, he would not have deigned to patronize.

Twenty years ago every college boy whom necessity drove to holiday employment seemed to take up book selling. The rural districts were overrun with young men who sought to wheedle the thrifty agrarians into purchasing sets of Stevenson, or Atlases of the Holy Land, or profusely illustrated accounts of the Chicago fire to aid them in their laudable pursuit of learning. The college student of today is less restricted by convention. He may drive a taxi or stoke on a harbor tug without suffering any loss of scholastic dignity.

McGILL UNIVERSITY

MONTREAL, May 27.—With the beginning of the coming academic year McGill University will offer a full course in Canadian history for the first time. Honor students in history will be allowed to choose Canadian history for their special subject, while graduate students, proceeding to their master of arts degree, may take a selected period of Canadian history for special study, on which to prepare a thesis. The new curriculum marks a distinct change in the arrangement of the history course at McGill with emphasis given to American and Canadian conditions.

EMPLOYMENT OF COLLEGE BOYS

FIFTEEN TO TWENTY THOUSAND STUDENTS IN CANADA LOOK FOR SUMMER JOBS

TORONTO, May 27.—Early in June, a new army of work-seekers will be turned loose in the country. Between 15 and 20,000 college students will be looking for vacation employment in order that they may help pay the expenses of their education. The University of Toronto alone will release 5,000 young men, the majority of whom according to the registrar of the university, expect to earn at least enough to maintain themselves during the holiday period.

Of course a certain number of those students taking such technical courses as engineering, forestry and agriculture will be provided for by organizations in charge of these industries; some will be absorbed by the government forestry services. A few of the theological students will go to mission stations on

Neglected Eyes

NEGLECT is doubtless the cause of most of the ills that afflict humanity. This is so self evident that it seems hardly necessary to tell you. If your eyes are giving trouble, have them attended to—and at once.

OF ALL absurdities in the kingdom of foolishness, surely the loss of eyesight through neglect is the most inexcusable. DON'T lose health and efficiency through neglect. Come and see!

COURT REJECTS BEALE APPEAL

CONVICTION OF MAGISTRATE ALLOWED TO STAND IN DECISION OF JUDGE YOUNG IN COUNTY COURT

The conviction and fine of $300 imposed in city police court last fall by Magistrate McClymont on Arthur Beale, who was found guilty of selling liquor at the premises of the Great War Veterans' Association, was sustained in County Court by Judge F. McB. Young who gave his decision yesterday afternoon. His Honor briefly announced that he had considered the evidence and saw no reason for reversing the decision of the magistrate. E. F. Jones, city solicitor, appeared for the crown while Beale's case was taken by S. W. Taylor.

SHIP BUFFALO TO THE NORTH

FIRST MOVEMENT OF ABOUT TWO THOUSAND TO BEGIN ON JUNE 7 FROM WAINWRIGHT

EDMONTON, May 27.—Continuing the successful shipment of young buffalo from the Wainwright park to the Wood Buffalo preserve at the junction of the Slave and Peace Rivers, the first movement for the present season will commence on June 7, states D. H. "Buffalo" Christie, of the department of the interior, Ottawa, who is now in the city, completing arrangements for the annual movement.

About 2,000 animals will be moved again this year, states Mr. Christie, and the same plan will be followed, of shipping yearling and two-year-old stock to the far north.

Mr. Christie has gone north to Waterways, to take a final look over the arrangements at the end of steel, where corrals have been strengthened and every preparation made by Colonel J. K. Cornwall and his men to handle the animals in transit, with the same smoothness and facility that has characterized the entire movement, year after year, since it was inaugurated.

To Mr. Christie himself goes a great deal of the credit for the splendid working of all the arrangements. He it was who laid the first plans and supervised the first shipments, and it was due to his foresight and care that, even with the first shipment of buffalo, there was not a single hitch in the plans as laid down.

PITTSBURG INCREASES SUPREMACY IN NATIONAL LEAGUE—CHICAGO CLOSING IN ON NEW YORK

NEW YORK, May 27.—Pittsburgh Pirates increased their lead in the National League yesterday when they defeated St. Louis Cardinals in a pitchers' duel by a score of 2 to 1, for their eighth consecutive victory. Chicago defeated Cincinnati 11 to 2 and now shares second place with New York which was still idle.

In the American League, Chicago continued its winning streak by defeating Detroit 4 to 3 and is now but one game and a half behind New York for the leadership. Philadelphia and Boston split a double-header.

Dripping skies over the eastern sector of the baseball wars have not only tightened the pennant races but have set the Yankees and Giants to wondering just what the Weather Man has against them. In the past two days, the rampaging Chicago White Sox have taken advantage of the Yankees' inactivity to win three ball games.

Rain has also kept the Giants idle. The day's scores were as follows:

NATIONAL LEAGUE
St. Louis 1, Pittsburgh 2.
Cincinnati 2, Chicago 11.

AMERICAN LEAGUE
Philadelphia 3-3, Boston 1-4.
Cleveland 1, St. Louis 2.
Chicago 4, Detroit 3.

URGES EMBARGO ON RAW MATERIAL TO THE UNITED STATES

Walter McRay, Canadian lecturer and entertainer, addressed the Rotary Club yesterday on Canada's resources, taking particular exception to the invasion of American capitalists who were, he claimed, depleting the timber and other resources of the Dominion. He stated that they owned 82 per cent of the pulp and paper industry in the country. An embargo on raw materials was strongly urged by the lecturer.
