He and Lady Willingdon were greeted by Secretary of State Frank Kellogg and Mrs. Kellogg, the chiefs of staff of the navy, army and marines and other high officials. Crowds of citizens also crowded the station.

SLUMP TODAY STOCK MARKET

Recession Very Marked in Many Important Issues at Opening of Exchange

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—Sharp recessions in the stock market in many important issues of from one to four dollars or more per share occurred at the opening today. Selling was attributed to President Coolidge's reiteration of the statement that he would not be a candidate for nomination and perhaps fears that a shipment of bullion gold to England might be followed by other transfers and lead to higher interest rates.

MINER DIES AT KETCHIKAN

A company of United States marines formed a double line from the train to the president's office in the station where the visitors were formally welcomed by Mr. Kellogg.

This afternoon the Governor and Lady Willingdon called on President and Mrs. Coolidge at the White House and the call was returned before dinner.

FIRST VOLUME WRITTEN FROM PRINCE RUPERT

Essays of Late Archbishop Du Vernet Published in Book Form

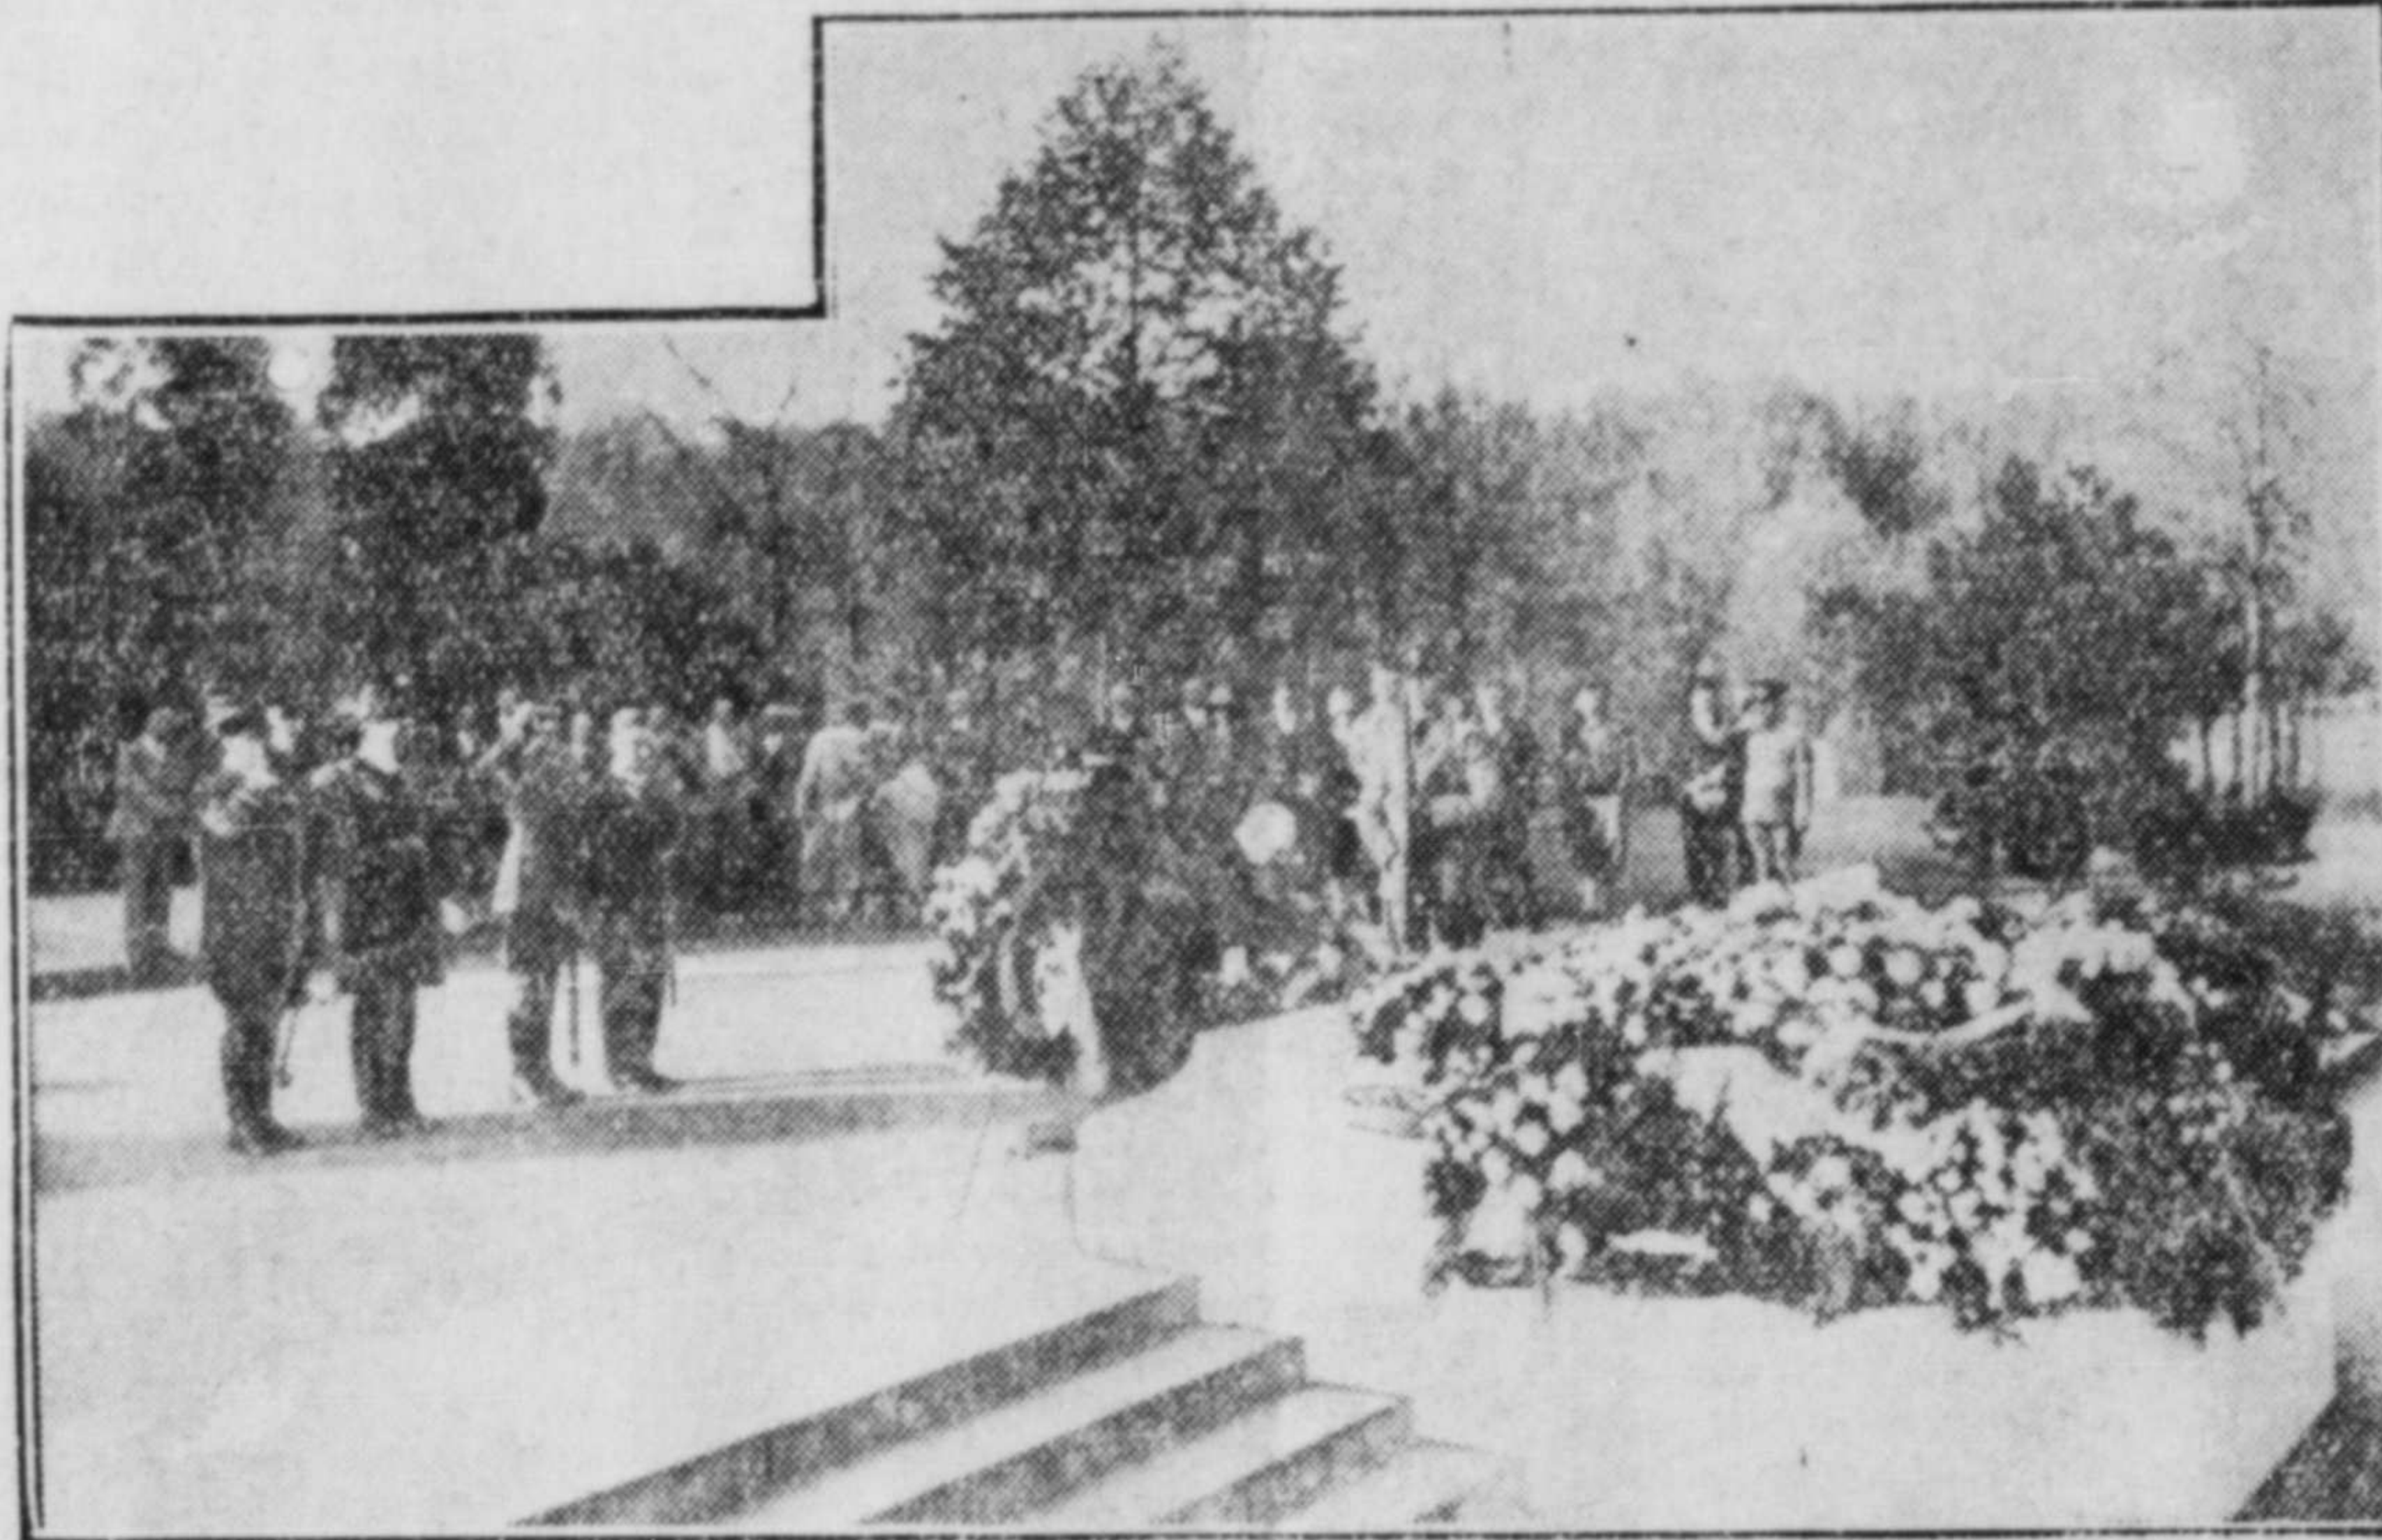

What is probably the first book written by a Prince Rupert person in Prince Rupert is that just published of the essays of the late Archbishop Du Vernet. These brief essays were almost all published in the Daily News at the time they were written as well as in the Montreal Star and Vancouver Province. They were very widely read and attracted much attention at that time. So many people had asked for them that it was thought wise to republish them in book form. The publishers announce that the book is out and copies are being distributed to the retailers. The work of compilation has been in the hands of Rev. Robert Connell of Victoria, who has written a great deal and who is in full sympathy with the aims and ideals of the late divine. The book is given the title "Out of a Scribe's Treasure." The brief articles deal with the new movement in religion, its philosophy, psychology, science, spirit of unity and economics as well as Christmas and Easter messages.

GOLD SENT TO ENGLAND

Million Dollars in Bullion Transferred From New York Today

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—Shipment of a million dollars in gold to England arranged by international acceptance bank made today is the first transfer since exchange rate on sterling reached parity two months ago. Some surprise was expressed at the shipment as it was not thought the point had been reached where the shipment could be profitable. Various explanations are given. OTTAWA, Dec. 7.—The gold shipment from New York to London is doubtless due to the fact that England has her exchange above par in New York and therefore it is cheaper to ship gold than to buy exchange, the Canadian department of finance stated today. This is the first movement of gold from New York to London since 1914.

ALASKA PACKERS SUED BIG SUM

C.N.R. Engine Rolled Down Embankment, Turned Over and Almost Dropped Into Fraser

VANCOUVER, December 7.—Striking a slide which covered the track near Boston Bar, the C.N.R. passenger train locomotive left the rails and nearly dropped into the Fraser River this morning. The engine plunged down the embankment, turned over, and stopped not far from the river. The crew of the engine remained in the cab and rolled down the bank holding on for dear life and thinking every moment their last hour had come, yet they escaped almost miraculously with only a few scratches. The engine broke away from the rest of the train which remained on the rails.

Dominion Revenue Shows Surplus for Eight Months of Sixty Million Dollars

OTTAWA, December 7.—With eight months of the fiscal year closed the surplus of Dominion revenues over expenditures stands at more than $60,000,000. The prospect for a substantial surplus in the next budget with a consequent reduction of taxation is therefore regarded as bright.

During November the debt for the Dominion, largely the result of interest payment on bonds increased by $17,750,000. For the eight months, however, the reduction of the net debt was $60,750,000. The debt decrease is $15,000,000 ahead of the same date last year. The total revenue over the eight months shows an increase of $20,000,000 more than for the eight months of last year. The total expenditure showed increases of $5,000,000.

The customs duties less are up $9,000,000, excise duties $5,000,000, income tax $6,000,000, post office $3,000,000, and the excise tax is down $10,000,000.

Catala Expected to Arrive Here This Afternoon and Will Go Into Local Drydock for Inspection

The putting on of temporary patches having been completed late this morning on the beach at Pearl Harbor where the vessel was lodged following her release from Mist Island, where she was stranded since November 8, a month tomorrow, Union steamer Catala, it was announced this morning by the B.C. Towage & Lighterage Co., which has taken an active part in connection with the salvage, is expected to arrive in Prince Rupert, if all goes well, between 3 and 4 o'clock this afternoon to go on the local dry dock. On the pontoons here, the plan is to make further temporary repairs to the vessel as well as permit of inspections being made preparatory to tenders being called for her permanent repair. The Catala will arrive in tow of the big salvage steamer Salvage King which has been by the wreck for nearly a month.

The dredge Lion, her work in connection with the wreck finished, returned to port last night in tow of the Salvage Princess which went out again this morning to assist in the final floating of the vessel. Other salvage equipment will be brought in as quickly as possible.

Delivery to the local dry dock will mark the completion of the salvage of the Catala, one of the most extensive and perilous jobs of its kind which has been attempted on this coast for several years.

Word received at noon by the B.C. Towage and Lighterage Co. was to the effect that the vessel had been refloated and left Pearl Harbor at 11 o'clock this morning, being due to arrive here at 3:30 this afternoon.

The game between Toronto and Ottawa was a listless and uninteresting one. Pittsburgh in the game against the New York Rangers made the second tie but no victory yet in seven starts. Frank Boucher for the Rangers heads the list of goal scorers with seven and two assists.

Scores were: Toronto 0, Ottawa 0. Canadiens 1, Boston 1. New York Rangers 2, Pittsburgh 2.

INTEREST TO SALMON FISHERMEN

The Daily News does not presume to interfere in matters pertaining to the fisheries interests but simply draws attention of the fishermen to the fact that the meeting called for December 12 in this city is a most important one and all should attend.

Making changes in the regulations which will satisfy the canners and the fishermen is a most difficult matter and there will have to be some give and take. However, this the time to act. Fishermen should not depend upon having said something once. A new issue has arisen and the fishermen should act on it just now. It is to be assumed that further information in regard to the scheme will be available soon and then the people interested in the industry must make up their minds for or against it.

It is important that the meeting which has been called shall be thoroughly representative of the industry. While everyone cannot speak, their presence at the meeting helps to give it force.

U.S. AND CANADA INTERLOCKED

The interests of Canada and United States are so much interlocked that any move on the part of one country is bound to affect the other. When the government made the British preference operative only for goods carried through Canadian ports it seemed a fair enough proposal and yet it has been one of the matters to arouse the commercial interests of the United States and possibly may be the means of tightening up of the laws which at present allow Canada to get a good deal of business which she cannot well afford to lose.

Canada and United States lie side by side over so long a stretch of territory that what benefits one part may tend to injure another. While 60 per cent of the freight passing through Vancouver may originate in or be bound to the United States, to offset against this, huge quantities of Canadian wheat that go through American ports should pass through Canadian. Everywhere interlocking interests are found and it is dangerous to interfere with these at any time. What benefits one part is apt to injure another.

TWO GREAT PROBLEMS

There are at present two great problems interesting the people of Prince Rupert. The first of these is the question of giving Peace River grain its natural outlet to Prince Rupert and the other is the building of the road between Prince Rupert and Terrace. These problems overshadow all minor ones and will continue to do so until solved. The best efforts of the community should be devoted to their solution.

NOMINATIONS FOR PRESIDENT

Much discussion is going on over the nominations for president which take place next year. Determined efforts are being made to nominate Governor Smith of New York as Democratic candidate. He is a wet, a Catholic, a Tammany man and a New Yorker. The result is that he is opposed by the dries, the strong anti-Catholics, the anti-Tammanites and the anti-New York people. Antipathy to him seems particularly pronounced in the south. In order to give him a chance to get past the various antis there is a proposal afoot to demand only a majority vote instead of 75 per cent of the convention. The fight is going on but whether Smith will win out or not only time will tell. He certainly is the most advertised man in the United States just now and he bids fair to remain in the limelight until after nomination. Then he may be chosen representative of the great Democratic party and possibly be elected to the presidency of the United States or retire once more into obscurity, never again to emerge.

THERE ARE KIBITZERS IN PRINCE RUPERT, TOO

Bridge has come to be a highly intellectual pursuit. Not only does one have to keep studying the fine points of the game as exemplified by its most distinguished practitioners, but as a sport is required to keep up with its vocabulary. When word came through from the congress at Chicago that "kibitzing" was going on there even the Journal experts were mystified. But it did not take long to find a man who could give the meaning of the term. A person, as was explained at the foot of the despatch, kibitzes when he refuses to play but stands around and criticizes those who do. In other, than bridge circles the need has been felt of such a word.

MANSON SPEAKS TO VICTORIANS

Urges That Slogan of all Should be: "We're Here to Stay"

VICTORIA, Dec. 7.—Expressing the fact that he had no regrets that he had left the eastern part of Canada, and thrown in his lot in British Columbia, Hon. A. M. Manson, Attorney-General of the province, before the Junior Chamber of Commerce, advocated every member of that organization to use his influence in keeping the young men in Canada, and in British Columbia, the land of opportunity.

"I'm here to stay" should be the expression of everyone," he said.

"The foundation of the western part of the Dominion has been laid by the courageous youth of the country," said Mr. Manson, who went on to tell of the early couriers de bois and fur traders, who in later years had been followed by farmers' sons from the older province of Ontario. In this latter connection, he said, that on his recent visit to the East he had been touched on his tour of the farming sections to see so many farms that had been deserted.

THE CONFERENCE

The first part of the address of Mr. Manson was devoted to the expression of some of his impressions drawn from the recent interprovincial conference at Ottawa. In doing so, he said that he was glad to be able to discuss with the young business men of the capital city subjects like this without introducing party politics. Of the latter he said that he thought that there was too much of it discussed.

It was fitting, he said, that the conference should be held in this year of the Jubilee of Confederation. The spirit that had been aroused by the celebration was in evidence throughout the gathering. A real Canadianism was manifested at all times.

Confederation had conserved to the British Crown the western part of Canada. The bringing about of this confederation by the Fathers of Confederation, and the construction of the railway across the continent, had frustrated any chance of any part becoming lost to the British flag.

It was fitting, he said, that the conference should be held in this year of the Jubilee of Confederation. The spirit that had been aroused by the celebration was in evidence throughout the gathering. A real Canadianism was manifested at all times.

Confederation had conserved to the British Crown the western part of Canada. The bringing about of this confederation by the Fathers of Confederation, and the construction of the railway across the continent, had frustrated any chance of any part becoming lost to the British flag.

At the conference the Attorney-General said that he could not help being struck by the fact that when they entered the place, the representatives from all the provinces left outdoors their political mantles. They had not the press present, and they were able to talk in the freest manner.

The delegates met, not with the intention of attempting to take from one province or from another, but a spirit of mutual helpfulness for the making of a greater Canada was always in evidence. As a result, there was a more thorough understanding of the problems that faced each of the provinces reached.

At the final gathering, when the Prime Minister of Canada and the delegates present from all the provinces were the guests of the Canadian Club of Ottawa, was sounded a high note of Canadianism. Every man who spoke rose to the occasion. In this matter he praised the speech of Premier Maclean of this province. All the speeches breathed a spirit of greater optimism, and of a greater Canada.

The latter part of the speech of the Attorney-General dealt with the development of British Columbia in the last ten years, the figures being taken from the booklet recently prepared. He dealt specifically with four of the industries—agriculture, lumbering, mining and fishing.

In connection with the first-mentioned industry he pointed out that in the early days of the province there had been no occasion to classify agriculture as one of the basic industries. This had been changed with the advance of time, and they had now in the north the Peace River, which was able to produce on a most gigantic scale the best of wheat. As they came south the area of mixed farming, of stock raising, and of fruit growing, were in turn met with in the Fraser Valley there was a rich dairy area that would favorably compare with the best in this line that would be found in any other part of the world. Then on Vancouver Island there was a very rich farming district of wide resources.

Showing the increase in agricultural production in ten years, Mr. Manson said that it had gone up by 171 per cent. It was gratifying that imports were decreasing in this line, and exports increasing.

The lumber trade and its increases were told, and in the mining line the minister said that there had been really only a scratching of the surface in this line. It was gratifying to know that seventy-eight per cent of the mineral mined in the province was refined here, and that twenty-three per cent more was partially refined. In the matter of fishing, he was glad to say there had not been absolute depletion. He had every hope that while the returns from the fisheries were increasing, that an understanding would be reached with the United States that would result in the conservation of the resources in this respect and still further increase the industry.

Going into the general figures as to the conditions in the province, Mr. Manson said:

FOR MEN OF COURAGE
 "A man with courage in his heart could not leave Canada, because of the opportunities here."
 With respect to the finances of the province, he warned them against listening to the politicians, because they had briefs. Financially, he assured them British Columbia was all right, which was proved by the fact that the loans were given at the best rates of any of the provinces, or even of the Dominion itself.

On the conclusion of his address, the Attorney-General was thanked by the president of the Chamber, Archie Muir, who referred to the valuable information conveyed by the address.

In The Letter Box

MAYOR SAYS HE IS ON THE JOB

Editor, Daily News.

According to press reports covering the last meeting of the Board of Trade, M. P. McCaffery offered considerable criticism over what he characterized as inaction on the part of the local authorities with respect to the Peace River Railway situation.

If this were altogether true, instead of his attempting to attack even the president of the Board of Trade over the matter, why, might I ask, has he sat in many, many Board of Trade meetings without raising or trying to force the issue? What's the big idea, anyway, at this late date, of his beginning so excited as to propose to excuse himself and attempt to censure all with myself being specifically mentioned?

That being the case, I wish to assure the citizens that Mr. McCaffery is not only unfair but is entirely wrong so far as I am concerned at least. It is true I have not been advertising myself over what I have been endeavoring to do for the city with respect to the Peace River Railway proposals, but, nevertheless, I have been quietly doing my best along that line.

It will be remembered that some time back I succeeded in securing a joint committee to deal with the matter, with the result that much valuable data was gathered and embodied in the Prince Rupert booklet.

Then followed Sir Henry Thornton's statement that nothing would be done with respect to a Peace River Railway until that portion of the Dominion was able to produce ten million bushels of grain. For the time being it then seemed useless to further press the matter.

The unexpected happened, however, through the Peace River country this year having produced the stipulated amount of grain. Thus the railway project suddenly became a live issue once again.

This led me to suggest to the city council, not long ago, the wisdom of taking further action, but it was thought better to still await further developments.

Then I recently attended the third annual meeting of the Western Canada Development and Unity League, and there, through being an executive member and also a member of the resolutions committee. I did my part towards again securing the League's endorsements, for the third time, of pressing upon the Dominion authorities the wisdom of immediately proceeding with the construction of such a Peace River railway as will prove the most practical, as will best open up the country, as will best serve its settlement and as will give it the shortest route to the Pacific. With the adoption of this course, at a time when southern influences were most actively engaged otherwise, I felt Prince Rupert had everything to gain and nothing to lose.

There matters stood until I had occasion two weeks ago to go south again. Upon arriving there I read of the Peace River proposals for the creation of a new province. Being away from home I naturally took no action insofar as that is concerned.

Before returning home, however, I did give considerable time to a proposal which has a bearing upon a more vigorous presentation of Prince Rupert's advantages with respect to the Peace River railway project, and I propose to place this matter before the city council at its next and first meeting since my return.

With these explanations, surely the public will realize that I have not been asleep at the switch, as Mr. McCaffery would have the people believe.

As a result of recent developments, though, I do feel the time has arrived when we should be prepared to spend some money in order to better establish our Peace River advantages. It is all very well for us to believe that we possess the most feasible and shortest route, but Ottawa will doubtless expect us to substantiate our belief. If we fail to do so on account of expense we may yet miss what otherwise might be ours.

Within the past two weeks we have had demonstrated to us more fully than ever that the sentiment of the Peace River is with us. That in itself is a big advantage.

Lets drive it home then, together with our other advantages, even if it costs some money.

Yours respectively,
 S. M. NEWTON,
 Mayor.

PLAYERS CLUB MAKES SUCCESS

Notable Achievement of Popular Local Organization Last Night at Westholme
HAPPILY SELECTED CASTE
Several Discoveries for Stage Made in Putting on "Adam Eva"

Something new and distinctly refreshing, a tale with a moral, well acted and well directed, the three act farce "Adam and Eva," the latest production of the Prince Rupert Players' Club, is probably the most notable achievement to date of the Prince Rupert Players' Club which, through an organization of comparatively brief history, has already a record of many splendid successes. "Adam and Eva," on its premiere night drew a large audience which took all desirable seating in the Westholme Theatre and over-crowded into the farthest reaches of the gallery. With as happily selected a cast as the club has ever brought together, including several actors who made their debut in an entertainment of such nature, the play went over strong leaving little to be desired. Each role was carried out well and the only criticism that might be made was that on a few occasions the voices of those on the stage failed to reach the audience and to some extent the audience might be held to blame for that on account of its audible comments. The play was presented in aid of Hill 60 Chapter, Imperial Order, Daughters of the Empire, hospital children's ward which with another full house promising tonight, should benefit handsomely as a result.

Briefly, the play revealed the doings of the extravagant members of the family of a New York millionaire with their transition from wasting parasites to workers in the business of life as its motif. This introduced a moral and interest into the thing which proved refreshingly novel. With the usual web of romance, the story is an attractive one which, having yet to be seen by many, it might for their pleasure be

TOO HONEST IN POLITICS

That is Opinion of Conservative Party Expressed by Dr. Manion
(Edmonton Journal)

Dr. Manion told a Conservative gathering in Toronto that the party had been "too honest in the past in strictly defining its position and policy on controversial and sectional questions." He was talking at the time of the changes that were necessary if success at the polls was to be won. His other ideas as to how this can be brought about are sound, but that quoted as all wrong.

The sidestepping of big issues and taking of different stands with regard to them in various sections of the country cannot work out for the permanent benefit of a political cause, whatever may be the temporary advantages obtained.

Mr. Meighan must be given credit for enunciating the same policies wherever he happened to be speaking and for making his position at all times quite clear. However much one disagreed with his opinions, his courage and sincerity had to be admired. It was not these qualities of his leadership that it failed to produce larger results. They should and, no doubt will, be characteristic of Mr. Bennett's as well. It is inconceivable that he will pay heed to the advice that Dr. Manion offers.

unfair to further disclose at this time. The costuming was of an elaborate nature carrying its need of interest and attraction for the ladies.

INDIVIDUAL PLAYERS
Louis F. Smith, as Adam Smith, the business manager of the wealthy man, James King, is the moving spirit in the play. In Mr. F. Smith is, apparently, a new "find" for the local amateur stage. He carried out probably the heaviest role of the play in excellent manner. His elocution was of the best and dramatic powers leaving little to be desired. In an altogether bright cast, he splendidly bore the outstanding role. Sharing the "heavy" role, Miss Irene Morrison, as Eva King, the flapper daughter, made an excellent impression in which was also her first attempt in such an entertainment. Both in her long island splendor and in her chicken farming adversity, Miss Morrison was demure younger daughter and all in all, she was an excellent leading lady.

Some of the other parts could hardly be described as secondary. Outstanding among these were James Farquhar, who portrayed the part of the boisterous father, James King, for which he was well suited, in excellent form; George Mitchell, who as the parasitic yet reforming son-in-law, Clinton De Witt was exceedingly funny yet capable.

A special word might be said of the performance of Mrs. Howard White as King's elder daughter, Julie, and the youthful wife of Clinton De Witt. In Mrs. White, the amateur stage of this city has a talented lady whose future appearances will, doubtless, be keenly anticipated.

In the character roles and, they are always of much importance in such productions, J. Dougherty, as the lovable yet decrepit uncle, and D'Arcy Marsh, who proved himself something more than a mere fortune-seeking "son of a noble peer," were splendid. They shared to the full in the generously expressed appreciation of the audience.

Miss W. D. Rushforth, as the maiden aunt; D. A. Balfour, as the youthful and conspiring physician, and Miss Caroline Mitchell, as a winsome maid who in the course of the story became something more than a mere maid, completed a cast of great capabilities.

HAND BEHIND SCENES
A. A. Cannon, as director of the play, was largely responsible for the scoring of this new success. This time, Mr.

Canon did not have a role himself but his good work in preparation and behind the scenes was amply evident. H. A. Ross was the stage manager with George Mitchell, business manager.

Furniture, which was attractive and well arranged, was loaned by Barrie's Home Furnishings; handsome gowns and dresses by Mrs. H. S. Parker, and extra lighting effects by Parkin & Ward.

Ladies' costuming was in the capable hands of Mrs. David Thomson while Jack Dougherty looked after the men's costuming.

Miss Vi Cameron acted as prompter but if her services were needed the most of the audience was unaware of it.

Will Lambie was house manager with Bert Walters as cashier. Acting as ushers were Misses Willis Dyer, Jean Grieve, Molly Cross, Frances Cross, Marjorie Shiell and Margaret Maguire.

After the show, the Players' Club was host to the members of the caste at a dinner in the Commodore Cafe. Tonight, they will be entertained by Hill 60 Chapter at a dance party in the O.D.E. Hall.

SPORT CHAT

Billy Townsend, Vancouver's latest athletic star, has been signed to meet Tommy O'Brien, of Portland, in the six round main event of the American Legion card at Bellingham on December 7. Townsend is being hailed by boxing critics as the most promising 130 pounder in the Northwest, next excepting "Wildcat" Carter. Carter has so far refused all offers to meet him.

Disclosure in a Cincinnati court that Benny Kauff, former member of the New York Giants, was barred from baseball in 1921 by K. M. Landis, high commissioner of baseball, dispelled some of the mystery that surrounded the centerfielder star's departure from the national pastime six years ago. Baseball authorities declared that the disbarment of Kauff was the result of a "gentleman's agreement" following Kauff's acquittal in New York in 1921 on charges connected with the theft of an automobile.

USE LOUD SPEAKERS IN LONDON STATIONS
Information Conveyed to Passengers by Number of Instruments.

LONDON, Dec. 7.—The Southern Railway has installed at London Bridge Station, as an experiment, a number of loud speakers for the direction of passengers. Great interest was taken in these instruments at their first trial. The announcer, who was able to see each train before it entered the station, called out the platform from which the next train would leave and the stations at which it would call. He generally finished each announcement with "Hurry along, please." By means of a switching device he was able to control the loud speakers installed on the separate platforms. The experiment, said to be the first of its kind held in London, was carried out between the hours of 4 p.m. and 6:45 p.m.

In addition to Southern Railway officials from other railway companies attended the test. Similar tests have been carried out recently at Scarborough, York, and Newcastle railway stations.

BIAS BAY IS HEADQUARTERS FOR PIRATES

Chinese Brigands Divided Into Two Distinct Groups and are Well Organized

HONG KONG, Dec. 7.—Bias Bay has been the headquarters of pirates since the Ming Dynasty, according to Chinese tradition. At Penghoi and the islands around the bay there are the ruins of several stone castles which can still be seen today. These castles were built by the Chinese authorities hundreds of years ago as protection from the attacks of enemies from abroad. As these islands are remote and seldom reached by the arm of the law during the Ming Dynasty pirates, either local ones or strangers from abroad, made Bias Bay their rendezvous.

During the Manchu Dynasty pirate activities grew less when for the first time in the history a governor, called "The Penghoi Governor," was placed in the Penghoi district. Unfortunately this local government passed away with the Manchu Dynasty in 1911 and after the revolution of the Chinese Republic a new governor was never replaced at Penghoi, and pirates became active again.

TWO KIND OF PIRATES

Roughly pirates in Bias Bay can be classified into two different groups. The first group aims at steamers and bigger vessels while the second group attacks only cargo junks and small craft. The first group has headquarters in Shanghai and Hong Kong or Macao and receives more exhaustive reports of cargo and passengers carried by various steamers. It is said that thousands of dollars are spent in organizing coups.

The pirates have fixed rules for dividing booty, but generally the power is in the hands of the chief who distributes the booty to his followers according to the work they have done. Those whose work it is to rush the bridge, to attack the engine and the wireless rooms are rewarded with bigger portions of the booty. The pirates have succeeded in capturing a vessel then abandon it and make good their escape at the small villages of Taichow and Shumok.

THE SECOND GROUP

The second group is not so enterprising and they attack only the cargo junks which pass near Bias Bay. They do not have to spend large sums to organize attacks like the other group. Their headquarters are in the Shunliu and Sunkong districts in Bias Bay and these districts are said to be mountainous and most difficult to explore.

The notorious chief of this group is Ng Dai-kin, who has spent many years in the Bias Bay. It is also known that owners of cargo junks passing Bias Bay frequently get in touch with him and pay tribute. After the payments of tributes a secret password is given by the pirate chief. Sometimes it is in the form of a password, while at other times the hoisting of a flag of certain color or of some article of clothing are used as signals. It is a known fact that most of the cargo junks from Chaochow and Swatow regularly pay tribute to pirates in Bias Bay.

INDIANS TOLD CLAIM USELESS

Contributing to Funds For Seeking Redress is Only Throwing Money Away

VICTORIA, Dec. 6.—The spending of more money by the natives for the purpose of getting their claim to the lands of the province forwarded is just wasting it and they will be so advised. Now that the sum of $100,000 has been voted by Parliament to be used in improving the condition of the natives in this province, the lands question is closed and any further efforts to open it will be useless.

W. E. Ditchburn, Indian Commissioner for British Columbia has issued a friendly warning to the Indians to abandon all attempts to appeal to King George or to the Imperial Government or more generous treatment. All Indians in the Province will be told that they will be wasting their money if they contribute to any more funds to finance such appeals.

"The decision of Parliament absolutely disallowing the requests of the Indians for compensation because of their land ownership all over the Province is final," Mr. Ditchburn said. "The new plan under which $100,000 will be spent annually for the benefit of the Indians in addition to the usual appropriations will stand and further appeals by the natives to the British authorities are useless. In the past Indians in many districts have spent a great deal of their money paying for the cost of sending chiefs to London to see the King and ask for more generous treatment. We are warning the Indians now against such expenditures because they would just be a waste of money."

TO INFORM TRIBES

Mr. Ditchburn will commence immediately to distribute among the educated Indians who can read them, copies of the report of the special committee of Parliament which considered the claims of the Allied Tribes in June, 1926, and the recommendations on which the present Indian policy is based. In this way all the natives will be informed of the final decisions of Parliament on their case.

More money will be spent to assist the Indians of the Province next year than ever before, the Indian Commissioner said. In the present fiscal year of 1927-28 $365,000 is being spent for general Indian administration here, besides $508,000 for Indian education. Next year to these appropriations will be added the new annual grant of $100,000, making a total of at least $973,000.

SPENDING THE MONEY

The Indian Department is now working out details of the $100,000 expenditure which will be devoted to technical education, provision of hospitals and medical attendance, and in the promotion of agriculture, stock-raising, and fruit culture and in the development of irrigation projects.

Figures contained in the report of the parliamentary committee which considered the claims of the Allied Tribes of B.C. show that since 1871 the Federal Government has spent $10,800,300 on the natives of this Province. The expenditures rose from $500 in 1871 to this year's appropriation of $973,000.

Ten Years Ago in Prince Rupert

DECEMBER 7, 1917.

There has been much devastation and death in the Naas Valley as a result of recent floods. Official reports of the disaster have been received by Indian Agent C. C. Perry from Miss P. Capper, field matron at Aiyansh.

At a meeting of barbers of the city in the Empire Theatre last night, it was decided to make a small advance in the price of haircutting.

The session of the Supreme Court Assizes here came to a close yesterday with the hearing by Mr. Justice Clement of a number of minor civil actions.

WAS NOT DRUNK BUT FACIAL CONTORTIONIST

Grimaces of Sergeant Got Him Into Trouble and Also Caused Acquittal

LONDON, Dec. 1.—The spectacle of a court-martial being convulsed with laughter—and convinced of the prisoner's innocence at the same time—was furnished at Aldershot when Sergeant William Henry Burden, 1st Royal Ulster Rifles, was arraigned for being drunk in the sergeants' mess.

The Regimental Sergeant-major deposed that the prisoner grunted and grimaced to such an extraordinary extent that drunkenness seemed the only explanation of his condition.

For the prisoner it was urged that another sergeant was singing an old Irish song, called "The old sow teaches the little pigs to grunt." The refrain comprised a combination of grunts and squeaks, with comical facial contortions. Sergeant Burden, the prisoner, was doing his best to render the chorus worthily, and succeeded so well that he was put under arrest for drunkenness.

The court-martial directed the accused sergeant to repeat forthwith his rendering of the little pig's chorus. He did so readily. The court, from the president to the junior subaltern, hardly attempted to conceal their laughter at the result. The court, having in part recovered its gravity, acquitted the prisoner.
