PAINT OFTEN TO KEEP PLACES BRIGHT.

It is no-reflection on the painters and paint dealers of Prince Rupert to say that the paint used here does not last long and that the exteriors of the buildings need freshening up quite often. There is something about either the salt air or the fresh water here that gets under the skin and turns the color. It darkens the white paint and fades out the dark. It is useless to say the building was painted the year before last if the place looks faded and worn and shabby. What is needed at such times is a new coat of paint. It is good for the building and good for the town. Save the surface and you save all.

Now folks, don't forget; "nothing but the truth" from now on.

SHIPPING BONES ACROSS PACIFIC

It is announced that the bones of seven hundred Chinese are to be shipped to China. This is a distinct loss to Canada because the material which is used in the construction of bones is one of the finest known stimulants to plant growth. Also it is foolish and a waste of time and money. Of course the Chinese think otherwise. They imagine that those bones will not rest comfortably in good Canadian soil or perhaps the spirits that once inhabited the frame are not satisfied. The fact that this is a better country than China, that the former owners of the bones thought it was a better country and that it is attractive to the Orientals that it has to be fenced off, does not seem to make any difference. They think it is not a good place for dead bones so they transport them at great expense back to the land where they decompose more rapidly and more in accordance with Chinese traditions.

Some people work only for money and other really live. There's a difference.

LITTLE THEATRE MOVEMENT PRAISED

In connection with the development of amateur theatricals in the community the works of a famous English writer, lecturer and playwright should prove of interest.

"I think the future of the English stage depends upon the Little Theatre," said Jerome K. Jerome in a speech at Bristol Little Theatre. "The big theatre must attract a big audience or go bankrupt." he declared. "A play to be successful in the west end of London must draw nearly £2,000 a week. When riches like that come pouring in through the box office window, Art flies out at the stage door."

The big manager, Mr. Jerome explains, does not ask whether a play is good or bad. He asks: "Has it got a punch in it? Will it bring them in?" By "them" he means the people who regard the theatre as an interlude between a dinner and a dance—the people who go to the theatre in the hope of being excited by sensationalism or by sexuality.

"An appetite grows by what it feeds on," he continued. "There is danger of the British stage becoming a sink of sexuality. To be successful every new play has to go a bit further. The thing works in a vicious circle."

"In the provinces," he said, "there are not so many difficulties to contend with. The Little Theatre gets known. It enters into the life of the town. I should like to see a Little Theatre in every town of more than 40,000 people. And it can be done. The Little Theatre is needed to keep alive the English drama. Today half the theatres in London are controlled from America. The other half soon will be. It is only a question of time."

"London isn't all England—not yet, thank God," he added.

There's no harm in praying to win, but also insert a petition to make yourself a good loser.

Everything is in a state of flux, even our opinions of each other.

Nothing in this world can be annihilated. Form is changed but the elements remain ready for the play of the evolutionary forces of tomorrow.

Every musician knows the difference between unison and harmony. We do not have to hold the same opinions as other people in order to feel in harmony with them.

GYRO HOEDOWN FINE SUCCESS

WAS BEST YET FROM STANDPOINT OF CROWD'S SIZE AND GENERAL ENJOYMENT

In the size of the crowd present and from the standpoint of some four hundred or more persons in attendance, the hoedown dance held last night in the Auditorium by the Gyro Club equalled if it did not excel any such event of the past. While interest and enthusiasm for the ordinary kind of dancing seems to have been waning in the city, this manner of entertainment, it may be judged from the success of last night's function, has lost none of its popularity. Formalities were waived and the big crowd, from the first dance at nine o'clock to the last after 2, gave itself fully over to an evening of hilarious though orderly fun and was loath to quit. With the hall appropriately furnished for the occasion and country and novelty costumes the order of the evening, the atmosphere was distinctly rustic and happy, some special dances further enlivening the proceedings. As a result of the affair, a substantial sum will be realized by the Gyros for their playground work.

The general committee in charge of the affair consisted of Norris Pringle, chairman, Bob Robertson, Jimmy Farquhar, Norman Freeman, Bill Watts and Leo Waugh. Lionel Holby was a usually capable master of ceremonies and music was furnished by an orchestra led by Miss Jean Currie until Gyros Charlie and Billy Balagno arrived to take charge. Responsible for the decorations was a committee consisting of Dave Balfour, Doug Stork, Charlie Mills, Bill Nelson and Morris Blott.

One of the features of the evening was a country store, raffles being held in quick succession by Ralph Le Pipe, Glen McMillan, Eddie Mann, Stan Taylor and Miss Gonzalez. Refreshments took the form of hot dogs dispensed by Bill Tobey, George The, Lou Kergin, Roy Nichols, Roy McNaughton, Doug Stork, Norris Pringle and Harold McEwan; cider, poured by Bill Nelson and Charlie Mills; ice-cream, served by Charlie Starr and Joe Greer, and buttermilk sold by Norman Freeman and Bill Watts. Bob Robertson, Howard White and Morris Blott comprised a prowler squad. Mort McLachlan acted as cashier and Bill Cruikshank and Frank Dibb took turns in tending the door. Tickets were arranged for by Leo Waugh and the advertising of the event was conducted by Claude Kirkendall, Alex. Hunter, Doug Stork, Frank Dibb and Roy Nichols.

GHOSTS ON THE GIVENCHY

Editor, Daily News.
On the trip up the coast of the patrol cruiser Givenchy to Prince Rupert a great mass of valuable and unusual scientific phenomena was observed by the scientists aboard.

When off the west coast of Vancouver Island the captain reported observing a great mass of fur seals proceeding in a vertical direction and called all hands to witness the phenomena, but upon all hands reaching the deck the seals had completely disappeared.

At a certain point also on the West Coast of Vancouver Island the ship has a private oyster deposit and a call was made to obtain supplies owing to the supply of fresh meat having given out. Here again an unusual occurrence took place. The chief engineer who is a very religious man and who keeps oysters separate from the rest of the stock, noticed after several days of careful feeding and watering that the oysters had taken unto themselves wings and had flown to parts unknown leaving nothing but the empty shells.

At Sandspit on the Queen Charlotte Islands one of the party purchased a bottle of cream for a very old and infirm lady at Queen Charlotte City, but upon arrival there it was found that the fresh cream had for some unknown reason turned into canned milk much to the chagrin of the would be benefactor. At this place also some of the oysters which were taken to help build up the constitution of the old lady again developed some peculiarities, on this occasion they were so vicious that they had to be opened with an axe.

One of the officers of the ship has recently taken unto himself a wife and suffers terribly from loneliness when at sea. In order to correct this state of his health, he indulges in a special cereal for breakfast. Here another unusual condition developed on the trip which is all the more remarkable owing to the fact that he keeps this special food in the ship's safe. At Port Clements it was found one morning that his special breakfast food had suddenly become charged with sawdust.

The ship also has a large and massive Aberdeen mud hound measuring 9 x 12 inches, answering the name of "Whiskey." This animal has a very taking way with the ladies and at one port of call he took a lady's beautiful garter and is now proudly wearing this around his neck.

All have survived the severe trip so far but by the time the ship reaches Victoria it is confidently expected that a large addition to the already long list of unusual phenomena peculiar to the Pacific Coast will be added to the archives of the Dominion.

SKIDEGATE

The provincial Government public works department opened a road camp at Lawn Hill recently and another midway between Queen Charlotte City and Skidegate. Charlie Ault, the new superintendent, is making good headway with the work.

Rev. Dr. Darwin, inspector of United Church Methodist missions, visited Cape St. James light house on the mission boat Thomas Crosby and also called at all ports and camps on the way. Services were held at Sandspit, Queen Charlotte City and at the Dufferin Pastoral school here. Rev. Mr. Scott accompanied him on the trip with Captain William Oliver in charge of the boat.

Miss C. Bertram, school teacher at Skidegate left on the Prince John for Vancouver. Her departure was much regretted.

Logs are being loaded on the log carrying barge towed by the tug Lorne at Gillespie and Pahl's camp.

Good progress is being made constructing the new Imperial Oil Company's station here. Everything is ready for the tanks and work is commencing on the docks next week.

Good Fortune Follows Chance Meeting

Advice to Take "Fruit-a-tives" Results in Perfect Health

MR. E. LE MAY

How often chance meetings mark turning points in our lives. Mr. Emory Le May of Montreal owes his health to just such a meeting. He writes: "I was always constipated, bilious and weary until one day I met a traveler who recommended 'Fruit-a-tives'..."

The Givenchy called at Jedway and Lockport on the way north and will visit Massett, Port Clements, Buckley Bay and then proceed to Prince Rupert.

Spring salmon are running in the Inlet and a good many rowboats have been out with fair success.
