Foreigners Are Killed When Nanking Shelled; Fire Opened by Ships

MANIFESTO ISSUED BY SOUTHERN COMMANDER URGES REVOLUTION BUT COUNSELS AGAINST PROPERTY DESTRUCTION

SHANGHAI, March 24.—Nanking and Chinkiang fell to the Nationalists today, the latter without fighting. Shelling resulted in the deaths of several Americans at Nanking. Dr. Smith, British, was wounded.

Foreigners were concentrated for evacuation on a hill and when British and United States warships standing by learned that they were being attacked they opened fire on the area surrounding the hill in order to clean out the attackers.

Although the general strike has been called off here, railway men, post office staffs and customs men were still out this afternoon.

ORIENTALS WHO CAME IN 1926

Of the Chinese, none of whom were immigrants, 32 had already left the country.

The Japanese, who included 109 farmers and 154 unskilled laborers, were divided as follows: males, 119; females, 216; children, 108.

Earlier in the day Jacob had gone to town and turned over his bank balance of between $600 and $700 to the credit of his father.

APRIL 2 LAST DAY TO GET ON LISTS

Big Gap Between Provincial and Federal Lists Being Filled

Just two weeks remain in which to plug the vast gap in the provincial voters' list revealed by the Dominion election last fall. Special revisers held in August and September for the Dominion election do not place voters on the provincial list. Those who registered specially for the Dominion poll must register again if they wish to be on the list for the next election, federal or provincial.

Time for filing applications ends Saturday, April 2. The court of revision sits Monday, May 16, to pass upon the applications.

Objections to names already on the list may be filed with the registrar of voters up to 30 days before the court of revision.

TRAGIC DEATH JAMES ARTHUR

PASSED AWAY IN HOSPITAL THIS MORNING AS A RESULT OF BLOOD POISON—FAMILY SURVIVES

Under the most tragic of circumstances, the death occurred at 3 o'clock this morning in the Prince Rupert General Hospital of James Fulton Arthur, 453 Seventh Avenue East.

Last Tuesday, deceased, who was employed at the time in a local wholesale house, scratched his thumb on an orange box. On Wednesday night, there was pain, infection having set in. His condition rapidly became serious and on Friday he was admitted to hospital. The spread of the infection became out of control and yesterday his condition was announced to be critical. Medical skill was unavailing and his death resulted.

The late Mr. Arthur, who was born in Glasgow, Scotland, 37 years ago, came to Prince Rupert some seven years ago. For a while he was employed in the post office and in other capacities. Last summer, he was engaged in fishery patrol service and worked for a while at the elevator. At the wholesale house, where he sustained the seemingly slight injury which was to prove fatal, he had been working only a few days.

Deceased leaves to mourn his loss a widow and four children—Joan, aged 12; Betty, aged 7; Jimmie, 4, and Helen, 2. A brother is Robert Arthur and there are four sisters; Miss Helen Arthur, Miss Annie Arthur, and Mrs. Bell, all of Glasgow, and Mrs. Stillborn of Hoquiam, Washington.

Funeral arrangements are in the hands of the B.C. Undertakers. Interment will take place on Sunday.

As a result, five Chinese are dead while three were wounded.

TEXAS MAN IS BEING BOOMED

GOVERNOR DAN MOODY IS BEING MENTIONED AS DEMOCRATIC PRESIDENTIAL NOMINEE

EL PASO, March 24.—Declaring that eastern politicians are seriously considering Dan Moody, governor of Texas, as presidential choice, Congressman Claude Huddspeth, of that state, raised the belief that he measures up, to presidential timber.

"The Texas representative said: 'Fairly many men came to us in Washington, D.C., and offered to let Texas which always has been an over-represented Democratic state, name the largest of our national jobs.'

"Our reply was that we would get them one better by making the head of it. We named Moody. We will hear they could put Moody or any one else on the ticket but we would name the head."

"They now have our proposition under consideration."

Huddspeth's announcement of the plans of the Texas delegation was made before the convention of the Southwestern Cattle Raisers' Association.

STEWART MINE IS SOLD TO EASTERN INVESTORS IN HALF MILLION DEAL

EXTENUATE PROPERTY PURCHASED FROM GRANT MAHOOD
BY JOHN P. KENDALL CO. OF TORONTO AND GROUP OF BANKERS

VANCOUVER, March 24.—The purchase of the Extenuate mine in the Portland Canal district from Grant Mahood of Vancouver and Seattle by the John P. Kendall Co. of Toronto and a group of Eastern bankers is announced here. The purchase is said to represent an investment of some $500,000. The newly formed directorate includes General A. E. Ross, M.P., Kingston, Ontario; Edward H. Earne, Toronto; George Kendall, Salt Lake City; H. B. Robertson of the Anglo-London Corporation, New York and London, and Ald. Frank Woodside, Vancouver, president of the British Columbia Chamber of Mines.

Several weeks ago Mr. Mahood and Mr. Kendall, the latter being the head of the John P. Kendall Co. of Toronto, a financial concern, were in Prince Rupert on their way East from Stewart. Mr. Kendall, in an interview with the Daily News at that time, said he had made a thorough examination of the Extenuate property with which he was very pleased.

TORY LEADER HAS NO REASON TO BELIEVE VOTES OF ANY MEMBERS INFLUENCED; TWIGG SAYS RUMOR

VICTORIA, March 24.—R. H. Pooley, Opposition leader in the Legislature, yesterday told the commission investigating campaign fund contributions that he had not the slightest reason for supposing that campaign fund contributions in 1924 had influenced the vote of any member of the Legislature.

H. D. Twigg, M.L.A. for Victoria, said the first time he had heard any suggestion of improper influence was when it was made before the Odium select committee. Mr. Twigg confessed to having no knowledge regarding beer transactions and said that all he knew regarding campaign funds was general rumors regarding whiskey. He suggested that the commission inquire into the appointment of agents handling whiskey. Commissions paid such agents he thought should be saved to the province.

T. H. Kirk, member of the Vancouver Conservative executive, said that he was a candidate in the provincial election in 1924 but he had nothing to do with campaign funds for his party on that occasion. That he had never received any contributions from liquor or brewery interests and that he had never heard any suggestion of improper influence was his testimony. J. R. Hamilton was chairman of the finance committee of the Vancouver Conservative Association during 1924.

Breton S. Brown, provincial secretary of the Liberal Association, said that, although something might have been contributed by the brewers to 1924 Liberal campaign funds, it had not come under his jurisdiction.

The commission adjourned until Wednesday next.

ALASKA FLYER REPORTED SAFE

ED. YOUNG FOUND AND CARED FOR BY INDIANS ON KUSKOKWIM RIVER

McGRATH, Alaska, March 24.—G. E. (Ed.) Young, missing aviator, has been found and is alive and well in an Indian settlement on the banks of the Kuskokwim River.

Young, who dropped out of sight a week ago, shortly after he took off from McGrath for Bethel, in the lower Kuskokwim country was forced by engine trouble to land when he was within 75 miles of his destination.

Seeking shelter in the spare timber which lines the Kuskokwim, he succeeded in starting a fire, although a 60-mile gale was blowing down the river.

He was found by the friendly natives, who fed him and gave him medical attention.

NEW FREIGHTER FOR COASTWISE COMPANY

Increasing Ore Shipments Bring Fine
Vessel to Coast From Alabama

VANCOUVER, March 24.—S.S. James Griffiths, new 5500-ton freighter purchased a few weeks ago by the Coastwise Steamship and Barge Company for their British Columbia-California coastwise service, arrived here today from Mobile, Alabama.

Bringing a full cargo of rice from Mexican ports, the vessel docked at Evans Coleman Wharf for discharge, after which she will be placed on her new run. The company's fleet is mainly devoted to carrying ore and general cargo to and from northern ports, and the necessity for a larger vessel to cope with the heaviest ocean storms off the Oregon and California coasts brought about the purchase of the big freighter.

Built in 1920, in Mobile, and launched as the City of Lordsberg for United States Shipping Board, the vessel has been comparatively little service and is regarded as practically new. Measuring 324 feet in length, she has a beam of 46 feet and a depth of 25 feet.

OUTSIDERS CAN SEE FUTURE.

It has often been said that it takes outsiders to perceive the possibilities of Prince Rupert or any other place under similar circumstances for that matter.

Perspective seems to some extent to have been lost by many people who have been on the ground here for some time. Their anticipations were too high when they came and certain measures of disappointment have distorted some views till they are now unduly pessimistic.

Losing sight of possibilities diminishes the facility of grasping opportunities. The optimistic person is the one who is able to take occasion by the hand. There is everything to be gained and nothing to be lost by optimism. Pessimism is just the reverse.

The Edmonton Journal paints a pretty picture of the possibilities of Prince Rupert. Can it be that outsiders can see the future of this place and that local residents have lost sight of it?

ROYAL COMMISSION ON CAMPAIGN FUNDS.

The royal commission sitting in Victoria now to investigate campaign fund contributions does not seem, to date at least, to be serving much of a purpose. The commission has two duties—first, to find out any wrongdoing there may be, and, secondly, to make recommendations for its rectification. In neither case does it appear that the royal commission is going to be productive of much value. As for the wrong doing, if it may be called such, it has already been proven, before this commission ever started to sit, that both parties have been equally culpable. No less clear is the remedy for the situation and the application of that remedy lies only in the power of the political parties. Commissions can probe such matters and governments can legislate against them but it will be of no avail if the parties themselves are not inclined to clean house. The people have a fair enough idea now of what has been going on and it does not need a royal commission to tell them what must be done.

LONELINESS OF THE GREAT.

The wages of public life is loneliness upon retirement. Great careers do not always last until death, so in the interim between the end of the career and death there must be years of comparative seclusion away from the glamor and numerous associations of public life and with days of solitude. For those who outlive their allotted time in the public spotlight there are years to be lived in the past with memories for company.

Just as poverty is the cause of more misery to those who have always been rich than to those who rose from want to wealth and tasted poverty again, so loneliness, which may be sweet to those accustomed to it, may be torture to one who has lived in the very midst of things. The busy man weighted down with cares often dreams of the time when he can leave them all behind and seek sweet solitude only to find, when his dream comes true, that his own company is poor company. Habits of life are not so easily discarded.

But many men of affairs have experienced a feeling of loneliness at the height of their careers. It seems the greater the decisions they have had to make the more lonely have been the great figures of history. Nothing is so calculated to create this feeling than opposition—something, it seems, no great career has been without.

Premier Baldwin, of England, has joined the silent band of lonely men, announcing in a recent speech that with the passing of years he feels extremely lonely. Disraeli, Gladstone, Lincoln, Napoleon, Cromwell and Carlyle all voiced this sentiment. Milton was a lonely figure while writing his greatest works. These modern dictators, Mussolini and de Rivera, are pitiful in their loneliness, for the cares of state have crowded out of their lives cherished associations.

"Better be a poor fisherman than meddle with the government of men," cried Danton as he mounted the guillotine.

Report of Engineers on Peace River Outlet Rapped by Lands Minister—Unfair to This Port

In an interview given out in Vancouver, Hon. T. D. Pattullo, minister of lands and member of the legislature for the constituency of Prince Rupert, took exception to the report of the engineers appointed by the Dominion government to investigate the question of railway outlet from the Peace River country to the coast.

In this connection, Mr. Pattullo said: "There is one paragraph in the report to which I would like to make particular reference and which in detail discusses the relative merits of the ports of Vancouver and Prince Rupert as the Peace River. It is an old saying 'comparisons are odious,' and so it is in this case. This objectionable paragraph could have been deleted without detracting a particle from the value of the report and in fact it drew to my attention other phases of the report to which I feel sure exception will be taken.

"The report has all the evidences of prejudice in its inferences and I think I can show from a single aspect that what purports to be fact may very well be questioned.

"One sentence in the report says: 'Vancouver seems to have all the things to attract people and trade while Prince Rupert has but few.'

"No one questions the superlative natural advantages of Vancouver and it is already on the map as a world metropolis, but the inference left with regard to Prince Rupert is calculated to create an impression in the public mind not justified by the facts and to the injury of the city.

DEFENDS PRINCE RUPERT

"Prince Rupert is the terminus of the Grand Trunk Pacific portion of the Canadian National system and it is admitted has great natural advantage as a trans-continental outlet, especially by reason of its nearer proximity to the Orient than any other Pacific port.

"Then what of the local situation within the confines of British Columbia? If British Columbia were an island, there would be a line of railway from Prince Rupert to what is now the Alberta boundary, which would be supported entirely by the country through which the railway passes. I doubt if there is another similar stretch of territory anywhere in the world more favored than the portion of British Columbia from Prince Rupert to the Alberta boundary.

Northern and central British Columbia constitutes one of the most highly mineralized belts in North America; contains vast stands of excellent quality of timber, the largest area of high quality mixed farming lands in British Columbia; more than a quarter of the fishing business of Canada; game, than which there is no more valuable in the province; climate exceedingly favorable; lake, river and mountain scenery unsurpassed, while the townsite of Prince Rupert is picturesque to a degree and offers no real difficulties in development as the efforts of its indomitable people have already evidenced.

"Prince Rupert survives and continues to grow in spite of accidents of fortune over which it had no control.

"The inspiring head of the Grand Trunk system went down in the 'Titanic.' The war came on just as the road started. The railway went into the hands of a receiver, under the same conditions that confronted the Canadian Northern and is now merged with the Canadian Northern in the Canadian National system. Instead of remaining a separate entity to fight for itself, it is controlled by a single authority divided in its jurisdiction.

FORGING AHEAD

"Yet, the little city of Prince Rupert continues to forge ahead and does so because of its strategic position in the midst of a wealth of natural resource.

"I submit that the report of the engineers as a whole will create a harmful and a wrong impression. It smacks of the same kind of stuff as the report on the Pacific Great Eastern railway made by J. G. Sullivan."

CANBERRA MADE TO ORDER CITY

AUSTRALIAN CAPITAL HAS BEEN 11 YEARS IN MAKING—GARDEN CITY OF CLIMATE AND SCENIC BEAUTY

MELBOURNE, Australia, March 24.—(Canadian Press.)—Canberra, Australia's new Federal Capital, to be formally opened as the seat of government by His Royal Highness the Duke of York on May 9 next, has already a population of about 5,000 persons. Incidentally, it is CANBERRA, not CanberRA, the accent being properly on the first syllable. Canberra is 75 miles inland from the east coast of the continent and in respect to population, is practically centrally situated, being 150 miles direct from Sydney, 240 miles from Melbourne, and 500 miles from Adelaide, Brisbane and Hobart.

The "made-to-order" city has been 11 years in the making. Canberra was first settled in 1823. It was accepted as the seat of future government and was ceded to the Commonwealth by New South Wales in 1909. Commonwealth ownership became active in 1911, and constructional activity commenced with its official naming by Lady Denman in 1913. Designs for the best possible city were called for, and engineering works and some architectural construction was proceeded with until 1916. The activities which ceased then, were renewed in 1921 when the government appointed the Federal Capital advisory committee. In 1923 the sitting parliament decided its successor should meet at Canberra, and appointed a Federal Capital Commission, which concentrated upon the question and accelerated all activities. Private enterprise was admitted to share in the development in 1925, leases being sold in the city in December, 1924. Canberra land is not to be disposed of for any estate in freehold, so that and surrounding the actual city is leased for terms not exceeding 25 years. Land within the city limits is leased for not more than 99 years, and buildings constructed must be approved by the government.

ATTRACTIVE CITY

The result of this guardianship is that Canberra, now an established city, is growing gradually according to the accepted design, and is already exciting the admiration of visitors. It has prospects of becoming not only a city of political and commercial importance, but also by reason of its fine climate and scenic beauty a city particularly attractive to tourists.

The city area is of 12 square miles. The Government Area lies around the major central elevation on the slope of which Parliament House has been erected—a massive white structure fittingly dominating the surrounding landscape. Department buildings are also in the Government Area, as well as the National Library and Public offices now under construction, and the already-erected post office and telephone exchange. The areas between the various buildings are in course of preparation for gardens, for the city itself is designed as a "garden city."

The main commercial area surrounds the second central elevation on the opposite side of the river, the focal point of which is a large hexagon containing the Civic Centre. This will be occupied around its circumference by more important buildings of a public or semi-public character, and its centre will form a park hill, the summit of which will probably be the site of the Town Hall. Certain shopping blocks have been leased in this area, and development is being undertaken. The complete scheme for city ornamentation includes the formation of artificial lakes in the centre, the flood area of the Molongio being the basin.

SCHOOLS AND CHURCHES

The social condition of Canberra is advancing with the progress of construction. A finely-equipped public school has been erected at Telopea Park, and now provides accommodation for 50 pupils. The early erection of an additional public school at Ainslie is contemplated, as is also the provision of technical education. The establishment of a small university is under consideration.

The only ecclesiastical buildings at present in the city area are the eighty-year-old Anglican Church and rectory—the latter now a Girls' Grammar School—and a newly erected vicarage. Sites have been allotted, however, to the other principal religious denominations, who are now preparing to undertake construction.

Ten Years Ago in Prince Rupert

Harry Hamblin, formerly of the city police force, returned from Vancouver today. He has enlisted with the Forestry Battalion and will return south shortly.

Captain L. W. Kergin has reached Bombay en route to England after serving with the British Military forces in Mesopotamia.

The Marquis of Queensbury left for Toronto this morning on business and expects to return to Prince Rupert very soon.

The steamer Prince George will leave the dry dock tomorrow and take the run south in place of the Prince Rupert which is stranded on Genn Island.

MILK is a fragile food, easily spoiled. That is why Carnation takes such extraordinary care with the milk which goes into the Carnation tin.

Carnation quality starts at the farm. Selected farms—selected herds—the Carnation Field Force performing an endless service of inspection and education on the farms—rapid handling—scientific treatment—these are the secrets of Carnation purity and quality.

You'll like Carnation Milk. It is just pure, fresh milk made doubly rich by evaporation and kept safe by sterilization. Use it undiluted in place of cream at one-third the cost of cream. Use it diluted in all cooking—with better results and less cost. Order several tins or a case of 48 tins from your grocer.

With the exception of water, tea is the cheapest and most widely consumed drink in the world. As a drink it is good when made from good tea, but it is a terrible disappointment if cheap tea is used.

CAMBRIDGE IS FAVORED CREW

LIGHT BLUE APPEARS TO BE MORE EVENLY BALANCED THAN OXFORD FOR FAMOUS ANNUAL BOAT RACE ON THE THAMES

LONDON, March 24.—(Canadian Press Despatch).—The great annual boat race between Oxford and Cambridge, to be rowed over the time-honored stretch of the Thames from Putney to Mortlake, on Saturday afternoon, April 2, will dramatically climax the 10 weeks of humdrum but severe training undergone by both crews.

"Rowed" gives a poor indication of the thrilling nature of the race, which is a gruelling struggle exerting towards the close of the 4 1/4 mile course every ounce of stamina the crews possess. Impartial critics believe Cambridge's crew this year a shade better than Oxford's, although conceding that the Oxford crew's training form may be improved by the day of the race. Cambridge has won the last three races in succession, and in fact every one since the war except one, in 1923. On the whole series, however, Oxford has a majority over the Light Blues, having won 40 to Cambridge's 37. The other race bringing the total to 78 was a tie, in 1877. The first contest was in 1829, but the race did not become an annual event until some years later.

CONTESTANTS

The Light Blue crew is exceptional this year for its "length," or reach. R. J. Elles, stroke, is a stylist with excellent rhythm. About a month before the race he was kept from training by indisposition, but it was believed that he would be fit for the actual race, and would return to training before the day approached. The crew as a whole is rhythmical, with an impression of real "stride" and their rowing is easy. J. A. Brown, the Old Blue who is again coxswain, has steered Cambridge to a win in each of the last three years.

The Oxford crew is not so even as the Light Blue. Their defeat last year was very unfortunate, caused as it was by the collapse of H. R. A. Edwards, old Westminster boy, who was a passenger for the last half of the race. One of the Dark Blue's main hopes this year is E. T. C. Edwards, Christ Church, who at Number seven has been, in training at least, a little below the high standard expected of him. Kingsbury and Rathbone, six and five respectively, are as good as the six and five of Cambridge, and with the aid of Edwards, if the latter regains his form, will turn the crew into a really fast eight, according to the experts.

Hundreds of thousands of people will watch the race, from all conceivable points of vantage along the whole course, and the celebration in London's east End, particularly if Oxford wins, will be a Boat Race Night to be remembered for a long time.

THE BOATS

The Oxford boat is practically the same as that used by Oxford in last year's race, and is an abandonment of the extreme stream-line type of boat of earlier post-war days. It has been designed for a crew averaging 174 pounds. The Cambridge boat is on the orthodox lines of recent years and is of such dimensions that there is no fear of the Cambridge crew being underpowered. It has been designed for a crew averaging 177 pounds.

The race this year will be umpired this year by Col. G. D. Burnell, old Oxford oarsman, who succeeds F. I. Pittman, famous Cambridge oar of days gone by, who umpired the race for the last quarter of the century. Col. Burnell, like his predecessor, has been connected with the Henley Regatta for many years. He rowed for Oxford from 1895 to 1898 and was in the Magdalen College crew in 1895. He also rowed in the historic race between Leander and Cornell, when Leander was left at the post.

The crews, in order and weights, are as follows:

Two Kinds

You can get Quaker Oats in two forms—the large, plump whole flake or the half flake, rolled thin, and partly cooked. Both are of the same Quaker Quality, famous in 58 countries.

If you wish to make porridge while you boil the coffee, or make the toast, use Quick Quaker. It cooks in 3 minutes.

Physicians urge satisfying breakfasts because in the forenoon most people are called upon to do two-thirds of their most important work.

To enable body and brain to reach their highest capacities in the shortest time, digestion must be easy and quick.

The delicious taste of Quaker Oats invites digestion. Gratefully warm, it is welcomed by the stomach. It assimilates quickly and its bulk and tender bran assist in the assimilation of other food. They aid in a function which doctors say is the first essential to good health.

And Quaker Oats sustains throughout the day's most vital working hours. No other cereal has such perfect balance of food elements. It contains 16% of the tissue builder, protein; 65% of the energy producer, carbohydrates; and the all-important vitamins and mineral salts.

If you are not using Quaker Oats at breakfast, start now. You will take up your morning work more eagerly and will feel more vigorous and alert throughout the day.

SPORT CHAT

Tomorrow night in Vancouver the Varsity Grads of Toronto will meet the Fort William hockey team in the first game for the Allan Cup. The Toronto team had little difficulty in disposing of all competitors in the eastern part of Canada while the Thunder Bay team have met and defeated the provincial champions of the four western provinces. The games should be evenly contested and will probably be witnessed by the largest crowds attending any hockey fixtures in Vancouver this season. Fort William should be used to the Vancouver rink now, having defeated Trail in two well contested games and perhaps the Grads will be handicapped for this first tussle. However, if they are in the same class as their competitors, this should count for little as both teams will be playing on neutral ice.

The Maple Leafs basketball team plays its first game with Smithers tonight. Little is known of the interior team's ability, but it would be a distinct surprise and shock to local fans if the Maple Leafs were defeated in either of the two scheduled games. Granby, it is said, will send a team here to play the winners of the series sometime in April.

Turfgoers travelling to the famous old Epsom Downs, near London, at the opening of racing there in April will find the new stand to be one of the finest race course buildings of any in the world. The modest stand which until last year attempted to accommodate the enormous crowds gathered to watch the running of the blue riband of the turf, was more than 100 years old. Directly last year's Derby had been decided the work of demolition began. Erected partly on the old site, but extended west and east, the new stand has been specially designed to give a more comprehensive view of the course than the old. The building is sited round to give a more frontal view of the straight, and it is estimated that practically every person in the stands will be able to see the complete race for the eDrby from start to finish. An idea of the extended character of the building, on which hundreds of workmen have been busy for months past, is indicated by the fact that the approximate length is 700 feet, or twice the length of the old stand. There will be over two hundred private boxes, and so much has the general accommodation been increased that there will be room for 20,000 spectators, exclusive of the available lawn space. The Royal apartments, the designs of which have been specially approved by the King and Queen, are embodied in the chief stand, together with the accommodation for the Jockey Club and the members, the Royal box being immediately opposite the winning post. Each section of the building is being constructed on self-contained lines, with separate luncheon rooms and general accommodation. Special consideration has been given to the chief requirement of the spectators, which is to see the racing in comfort. For this purpose, and to enable an uninterrupted view of the racing to be obtained, all the spans of the main girders have been kept six feet apart, while the lowest tier is twelve feet above the level of the course.

Don't Neglect Deafness or Catarrh!

Catarrhal Deafness, Head Noises, and Nasal Catarrh generally grow worse when neglected. Authorities claim that ninety per cent of all deafness is primarily caused by catarrh of the head and air passages. Others state that nasal catarrh often causes indigestion, rheumatism, catarrh of the stomach, and many other diseased conditions. If you suffer from partial deafness or nasal catarrh, do not neglect this condition.

There are thousands, who are now practically stone deaf, whose hearing could no doubt have been saved had the right measures been taken in time. I have personally restored hearing in hundreds of cases, where the patients were so deaf they could hear nothing. I want to prove the value of my treatment to you entirely at my own risk and expense. I will gladly send it without cost. Just fill out and mail the coupon.

Send Coupon Today!

Just fill in the coupon below and I will send you a demonstration treatment by prepaid parcel post without any cost or obligation on your part. I want you to try it at once, so send the coupon today.
