GREAT TRIBUTE TO NEWSPAPERMAN

It was a great tribute that was paid to Hon. Frank Oliver the other day at Edmonton when the Pioneers' Association laid the foundation for a bust in his honor which is being erected in the Alberta capital. It is a tribute of which any man might be proud. Speaking of his active newspaper life another of the pioneers said of the former owner and editor of the Bulletin:

"He was plain, rugged, honest, and sincere. He could not be bought or bribed. He was a good fighter and a hard hitter. A strong and forcible speaker and writer, and a man of great ability. He had strong and steadfast principles, and never hesitated in championing any cause that he stood for and believed to be right. He held very decided opinions about politics and politicians who did not agree with him, and those who differed from him or whose actions while in office he did not approve of, must often have winced at the strong things he said about them and the manner he handled them both on the public platform and in the Bulletin."

"Notwithstanding all this he won the admiration of both friends and opposition on account of his sincerity of purpose in always working for the best interests of the West, and the appellation of those who knew him best as 'Honest Frank.'"

Just jump into the car and take a run to Terrace for a game of golf this evening. Summer, 1932.

LOST OUT IN GOOD CAUSE

Hon. Frank Oliver lost his newspaper. He was too outspoken in the cause which he believed to be the right one, not remembering that half the people who supported him held different views. Gradually his financial interest in the paper dwindled until today it is all gone and is in other hands. He has a good position on the Board of Railway Commissioners but the weapon he used has been ruthlessly torn from his hand by a cruel world.

Under these circumstances the words of the speaker at the Pioneers' Reunion must have been particularly pleasing to the man who had lost in his efforts to advance what he believed to be a great cause.

In some of the book shops a person is apt to slip a popular novel out of sight when he sees a friend coming.

ALL SORTS OF OPINIONS AMONG READERS

Readers of newspapers hold all sorts of diverse opinions and no effort is made to cater to these opinions by the average newspaper writer. There is no reason why he should and if he did he would fail for there are too many opinions. At the same time he has to bear in mind that while he believes a certain course to be right, there are hundreds of his readers who believe otherwise. There is scarcely any subject he can touch on which is not opposed. If he discusses politics, religion, morals, customs, books, trade, commerce, industry, social life, or even newspaper making, he will find that a large number of his readers think otherwise. If he realizes this he will not dogmatize quite as much as he otherwise would and he will have always in mind this hydra-headed public that reads and criticizes and occasionally applauds. The writer is entitled to his opinion but he is not entitled to try to force that opinion upon others, no matter how convinced he may be of its truth.

Hon. Ernest Lapointe should be given an appointment as permanent travelling ambassador to the world for the Government of Canada. He seems to be that, anyway.

One way to kill the radio would be to broadcast the proceedings of the city council, and then for a post mortem tune in on the Legislature or possibly the Ottawa talkfest.

PATTULLO TO THE RESCUE

CAME TO DEFENCE OF PRINCE RUPERT AND QUEEN CHARLOTTE ISLANDS WHICH HAD BEEN MISREPRESENTED

The other day at Victoria, Hon. T. D. Pattullo came to the rescue of the fame of Prince Rupert and Queen Charlotte Islands when they had been the subject of misrepresentation by a writer in the Sunday Colonist. In an article entitled "The Other Canada" J. B. Tyrrell, mining engineer stated:

"My years in the Klondike were a great pleasure, and the Hudson Bay country is much the same. It is all much more pleasant than a district like Queen Charlotte Islands or Prince Rupert, where the salmon fisheries are, with their excessive rain and fog."

Mr. Pattullo says: "The article 'The Other Canada' is designed to show what a wonderful opportunity there exists in the far northern clime, and Mr. Tyrrell is reported as supporting this view. I am well acquainted with Mr. Tyrrell, who is a most estimable gentleman and one of the outstanding engineers of the continent, and there is no doubt that one can get great enjoyment living in an Arctic climate. But Mr. Tyrrell, if correctly reported, makes the mistake of endeavoring to establish one set of circumstances by leaving a wrong inference in connection with another set."

RESIDENCE IN NORTH

"I was in the Klondike longer than Mr. Tyrrell, and also lived for years in Prince Rupert, and have visited the Queen Charlotte Islands many times during the past fifteen years, so that I know both the Klondike and the Prince Rupert district. Mr. Tyrrell never lived in the Prince Rupert district, and can only speak of it on information conveyed to him."

"There is no doubt that the Klondike has a wonderful climate. There are really just two seasons—Winter and Summer. On first going to the Yukon in 1897, myself and associates bought personal outfits to make the trip. I took along with me a complete summer outfit, including a white duck suit, much to the amusement of my associates who confined themselves to heavy woollens and big, coarse mackinaws. The temperature the following summer reached 96 in the shade. Curiously enough, the ground one foot below the surface, even with this temperature, was solidly frozen. The reason was that the super-surface acted like saw-dust on ice. As soon as this super-surface was removed the ground thawed for several feet and the rich alluvial soil, the warm weather and the long daylight produced a very rapid growth. No finer vegetables in the world can be grown than in these northern climes, as I demonstrated in my own garden in Dawson. After Dawson became a more settled community and families were brought in, the Twenty-fourth of May was always the signal for the women and children to come out in white summer clothes, in spite of the fact that the ice had only gone out of the river a week or ten days previously. The winter climate is looked upon as severe, but apart from about forty days in the year when the thermometer stands at from forty to sixty below zero, the winter climate is delightful. At forty to sixty below zero, people travel as little as possible."

FOGS IN SOUTH ALSO

"I agree with Mr. Tyrrell that one can live in a northern clime with great comfort and pleasure. Where Mr. Tyrrell makes his mistake is in the inference he leaves with regard to the climate of the Queen Charlotte Islands and Prince Rupert. Speaking of fog, I lived in Prince Rupert for years and have never seen anything like as much fog in that district as I have seen in the delightful climates of Vancouver and Victoria. As far as rain is concerned, the precipitation is considerably heavier than in Vancouver and very much heavier than in Victoria, but in considerable measure the larger annual rainfall is due to heavier precipitation during the time of the fall, rather than from the duration of the fall. Because of the exceptionally heavy precipitation and the storms occurring at intervals, an impression has been given of the climate of the country that is not justified. The climate is temperate and exceedingly agreeable."

"The Queen Charlotte Islands are the western outpost of the Dominion of Canada. They have great variety of resource and a delightful climate. Development is gradually going ahead and, with the general increase of the population in Canada and British Columbia, the Islands will become more accessible by more frequent transportation service and will be the home of thousands of happy contented people."

Ten Years Ago in Prince Rupert

JUNE 8, 1917.

Many persons expressed their views at a public meeting in the city hall last night called by the council for the purpose of canvassing the possibilities of having the local dry dock placed in operation. Mayor McCaffery presided and it seemed to be the general impression that various strong organizations were placing obstacles in the way of having the local plant used.

At the second night of the Catholic bazaar, children of the school contributed to the program. Those taking part included Wendell Murphy, John Barton, Aubrey Sweet, Winnifred Flitton, Lorna Tite, Kermit McDonald, Flora Burrill, Rita McLean, Margaret Palmer and Agnes Gratten.

Repairs to the steamer Prince Rupert, following her recent contact with Genn Island, are now well in hand and the vessel will soon go on the Alaska run, alternating with the Prince George.

EDMONTON IS FORGING AHEAD

BUILDING FIGURES GO UP AND FEELING OF CONFIDENCE ABROAD IN CITY

EDMONTON, June 8.—Edmonton is forging ahead. The whispers of confidence of a few years have now developed into real loud talk. Just ahead the flicker of prosperity's light may be seen. And there's a real good reason for this optimism in the opinion of Commissioner D. Mitchell, who is in a particularly advantageous position to know of what he speaks.

Perhaps the most outstanding feature is the pronounced building and construction program which is now well under way. With the new C.N.R. depot tenders being considered at Winnipeg, the construction of the 109th street subway, the erection of new business blocks, coupled with the unprecedented home building boom, the outlook seems rosy.

BUILDING PERMITS SOAR

While the 1926 building permits were $1,481,890 and showed a substantial increase over the preceding year, the present figures for 1927 indicate a decided increase over 1926. Amongst the most important buildings for which permits have already been issued are: Edmonton City Dairy, $135,000; Cromdale Separate School, $48,000; Empire block (alterations), $13,800; Painter Garage, $10,000; Metals Ltd. (addition), $20,000; Motordrome, $18,000; and McDougall & Second store, $11,000. The C.N.R. depot

If Disaster Strikes! THE RED CROSS as Your Agent gives Relief

A RED glare in the sky . . . the crackling roar of flames as they sweep from tree to tree . . . none but those who have been through it can fully sense the terror and suffering that a forest fire brings to Canada's hinterlands.

In a flash, a whole community may be made homeless . . . without shelter, without food, suffering frightful injuries or mourning for dear ones caught in the talons of the red demon.

Such catastrophes wring our hearts. Fires . . . mining disasters . . . disease epidemics . . . happily they occur but seldom. But when they come, they find the Red Cross organized to render prompt relief.

In every Province, the Red Cross is prepared for instant action in such emergencies . . . In the stricken area confusion reigns . . . In the nearest Red Cross headquarters, the machinery for prompt, efficient measures works quickly and smoothly, drawing on a Canada-wide organization for help if need be.

Medical supplies are kept ready. Nurses and doctors can be quickly mobilized. Tents, blankets, field kitchens, oil stoves, iron beds, mattresses from the Government's military stores are at the instant disposal of the Red Cross. As fast as trains can travel, aid is rushed to the sufferers . . . no confusion or delay.

When the town of Bowden, Alberta, was partially destroyed by fire, the Red Cross furnished assistance for some 88 families made homeless. . . . Similar aid was given to the village of St. Joseph d'Alma, Quebec. In the disastrous forest fires that swept Northern Ontario in 1923, and in the Cochrane typhoid epidemic, the Red Cross played an efficient part . . . In these and scores of other cases the Red Cross relieved and succored thousands of sufferers.

By supporting the Red Cross, YOU make efficient relief measures possible. If disaster should strike any community, the RED CROSS is YOUR AGENT to give relief.

AUTOCRATIC METHOD OF SCHOOL BOARD IN N. CAROLINA VILLAGE

(Edmonton Journal)
The New York Nation publishes a contract into which a young lady who teaches school in a North Carolina village was required to enter. It calls upon her to abstain from all dancing, not to go out with any young men, except in connection with Sunday school work, and "not to fall in love, or become engaged." If she violates any of these clauses, her salary is to be immediately stopped. The problem of retaining young and attractive school mistresses is a serious one in western Canada, but no such autocratic method of doing so has been, or is ever likely to be attempted here. If it were, the school would remain teacherless.
