Canadian Soldiers Tell at Currie Libel Trial What Took Place on Armistice Day in City of Mons

COBourg, April 19.—In the Currie libel case in which Sir Arthur is suing the writer and publisher of an article in a small eastern newspaper, the defense brought a number of ex-service men to testify they saw bodies of Canadian soldiers lying in the streets and some related that they heard gunfire in the city at a certain hour on the morning of November 11. Others testified to knowledge of their comrades having been wounded by machine gun or other gunshot on that day.

Yesterday was the third day of the trial and for the most part the evidence dealt with the spectacle seen in the city of Mons by Canadian soldiers when they visited it around armistice time.

Nearly three thousand questions and answers were contained in the examination for discovery of General Currie.

J. C. Brady Urges Development of Prince Rupert Port Instead of Quebec and Stevens Vancouver

OTTAWA, April 19.—During a discussion of a resolution in the House yesterday authorizing eight and a half million dollars loan for the Quebec Harbor Commission, J. C. Brady, member for Skeena, said the future of shipping would be on the Pacific. What was the government doing to develop the great Oriental trade which must be handled either by Canada or the United States? "The port of Prince Rupert was conceded to be a second Portsmouth." The government should direct its attention toward the development of the port of Prince Rupert.

Hon. H. H. Stevens declared as "sheer nonsense" to suggest that the Quebec Harbor Commission was to earn anything commensurate with its needs out of storing grain, as was intended. The fact of the matter was the Port of Quebec had never attempted to pay interest on the advances made by the Federal Government. He said Vancouver was handling a much larger quantity of grain than Quebec through an elevator with smaller capacity.

Hon. P. J. A. Carlin said it was impossible to take advantage of the reduced rate on flour over the transcontinental railway to Quebec with the present facilities. Progress on the resolution was reported.

Inquest Opens Into the Death of Esther Killas

Identification Established and Inquiry is Continuing This Afternoon Before Coroner Norman Watt in Police Court

After thirty-six hours of continuous investigation into which the entire police strength of the city has been thrown, solution of the killing early Tuesday morning of Mrs. Esther Killas was apparently vague this morning. Police are understood to be working on several underground clues, details of which were not to be learned. One belief seems to be that the killer is still lurking in the city and, possibly, in view of the lack of evidence, it may be necessary to wait him out. Circumstances point rather strongly to at least one conclusion—that it was a man who committed the horrible crime on Comox Avenue.

INQUEST into the death of Esther Killas, found brutally murdered at 857 Comox Avenue on Tuesday, was opened before Coroner Norman A. Watt in the city police court late yesterday afternoon. Evidence of one witness, Harry Levin, in the matter of identification was taken and the inquest adjourned until this afternoon at 1:30 when doctor's evidence will be taken prior to further adjournment, pending completion of police investigation.

The jury consists of W. W. Wright (foreman), Alex. McLeman, Claude V. Symes, Joseph Brown, George Frizzell and William Blair. Provincial Constable Wm. Smith was sworn as interpreter.

Before opening the inquest, Coroner Norman A. Watt, in view of his belief that the case was a particularly serious one, gave some special instructions to the jurymen as to the nature of their duties. It was their duty to determine the causes and circumstances of the deceased's death—how, when, where and in which manner death had occurred. If it was found that it was a case of murder or manslaughter, it was also the duty of the jury to determine the person or persons who had caused death or any accessory or accessories to the fact. The instrument causing death, if possible, should also be ascertained. In this connection the jury would have the opportunity of viewing the body. Care should also be exercised in identifying the deceased. There would be witnesses to assist the jury including the doctor who had performed the post mortem. Finally, it would be the duty of the jury to bring in its verdict and for that the jury and not the coroner was responsible.

Before the jury left the courtroom to view the body, Inspector Spiller, appearing for the province, explained that all the evidence to be presented to the jury at this time would be in the matter of identification. Later the inquest would be proceeded with. Meanwhile the investigation of the police, which had merely been started, would be proceeded with.

IDENTIFIES WOMAN

Harris Levine testified that the body was that of a woman he had known since the summer of 1914. She was known as Esther Solomon then. Two or three years later, she was married and he knew her as Mrs. Killas. Later she had reverted to the name of Mrs. Esther Solomon. He believed that she was 39 or 40 years of age. In response to an enquiry by the coroner, witness said he had no doubt that it was Esther Solomon.

Inspector Spiller asked that the precept to amended to read: "Mrs. Harry Killas alias Esther Solomon." Her husband had predeceased her, the inspector stated.

In asking for adjournment, Inspector Spiller asked that as much time as possible be on time. (continued on page three)

THE MURDER CASE

Prince Rupert has generally been very free from crime of any kind and the present sensational affair is very deeply to be regretted. It is to be hoped that the culprit will quickly be taken and justice meted out to him.

The difficulty seems to be to find a motive for the horrible deed. It would seem as if it must be the work of a drug fiend with all sensibilities dulled or of a man crazed by liquor who became sobered later by the sight of the nefarious work he had done. Seldom has the city been stirred as it has been by this awful thing that has happened. Many wild rumors were current at first, unallayed by an official statement, but today it is realized that it is probably the work of some person only partly responsible for his act who will probably have to expiate his crime in the customary manner.

It has always been considered that one reason for the absence of crime here has been the knowledge that escape would be almost impossible owing to the difficulty in getting away from the city. The police say they have been watching all the ordinary avenues of escape so the culprit is probably still here. The least suspicion as to the perpetrator should be reported to the police.

JUDGE COULD NOT STOP HIM

The despatches report that Colonel Jack Currie, a witness in the General Currie libel suit, was so anxious to talk in the witness box that even the judge found it difficult to stop him. He had something to say and he was bound he was going to say it.

Colonel Jack is a member of the Toronto legislature and talk comes as natural to him as it does to a great many other people and he, like they, could not understand why it was everyone was not anxious to listen. The judge found the only effective thing to do was to put the colonel out.

There's a moral to this story. In fact there might be a number of morals drawn from it. We offer a prize of a week's subscription to this paper to the person sending the largest number of lessons to be learned from this incident.

OFFICIALS ALWAYS WELCOME

Railway officials are always welcome to Prince Rupert. In the first place, railway officials are experts in the art of enjoying life and in the second we like to be able to talk over little difficulties with them and straighten out tangles.

The spring business is about due and we look to have a pretty lively time of it soon. It is well for the railwaymen to keep in touch with it and with us. They have it in their power to help us improve conditions and they also by indifference can hold things back. We are particularly glad to have those officials visit us who once lived here and who feel more or less that this is their home town.

TREATMENT OF YOUNG CHILD

INTERESTING PAPER BEFORE PARENT TEACHERS' ASSOCIATION BY REV. A. WILSON

The regular monthly meeting of the Prince Rupert Parent Teacher Association was held on Wednesday, April 18, in the Borden Street school at 8 p.m. There was a large attendance of members. Owing to the illness of the president, Mrs. Boddie, the meeting was presided over by Mrs. Arnott.

The treasurer's financial statement showed that there was a bank balance of $103.96 and that the recent candy drive brought in the sum of $57.30. A vote of thanks was accorded to all those who helped the committee to entertain the winners of the "Good English Bee" who visited Prince Rupert during the Easter vacation.

The speaker of the evening was Rev. A. Wilson, B.A., minister of the United church who gave a very interesting and instructive address on "The Son of Justice in the Child."

By the age of five or six, the speaker said, there emerges in the mind of the child a fairly definite sense of justice, and when the child reaches the age of early adolescence this sense of justice is well developed. It is very important that parents and teachers should not encourage this sense of justice in the child. A boy or girl unjustly treated in childhood may resolve not to do those things for which he was punished in a wrong manner, or he may react to the ill treatment in the contrary manner and perpetuate in his life those wrong things. It is not so much the punishment itself that causes resentment in the child's mind but it is more often the illogical reason for that punishment and the manner in which it is inflicted. The speaker gave several illustrations from his own observation and experience to prove this.

AN ILLUSTRATION

A boy of seven was sent by his mother on an errand for butter. This boy had the child's natural love of lay and beauty. On his way home he topped at a lilac hedge. He always had the ambition to climb that hedge and get some lilacs. He was given permission to do so and went home proud and happy. When his mother opened the basket part of the butter was mingled with the wickerwork. As a young man he does not remember whether he was chastised or not but he does remember that his mother picked up his lilac flowers and threw them in his face. His mother had touched something very sacred and tender in his young life and his sense of injustice was aroused.

Quoting from Scripture: "We love him because He first loved us" the speaker reminded his audience that children react to love and encouragement. If parents and teachers rightly develop this sense of justice in the life of the child they will make an important contribution to the welfare of humanity.

MUSICAL NUMBERS

During the evening Miss Jackson and Mr. McPherson sang songs which were very much enjoyed. Accompanist: Miss Lorna Tite.

A hearty vote of thanks was accorded to all those who helped to make this one of our most successful meetings. Refreshments were served and a social half-hour was enjoyably spent.

BORSTAL PLAN IS ADVOCATED

ENGLISH METHOD OF DEALING WITH YOUTHFUL OFFENDERS EXPLAINED BY SPEAKER

EDMONTON, April 19.—A strong plea for the establishment in Canada, by the federal government of a system similar to the British Borstal Institution, to take care of the boy or girl over the "juvenile age" (10 years in most provinces) for whom there exists today only the jail or the penitentiary after one promotion has been granted to a first offender, was made at an Optimist club luncheon at the Macdonald hotel, by Alan B. Harvey.

Mr. Harvey, during his recent sojourn in England, had ample opportunity to examine the Borstal system and its effect in the turning of potential young criminals into ways of earning an honest livelihood at a trade, and he returned to Canada convinced that the solution of the "juvenile criminal" problem in this country depends upon the establishment of some system of this kind.

INTRODUCED IN 1908

The Borstal system, Mr. Harvey told fellow Optimists, was introduced in England by the Prevention of Crime act of 1908. In the period from 1910 to the end of 1927, 6,140 boys and 896 girls had passed through the Borstal institutions, and despite the fact that many of them were beyond the "first offenders" stage, between 65 per cent and 75 per cent of these boys and girls have made good, and are now leading honest lives.

In Canada, Mr. Harvey pointed out, offenders over the juvenile age are placed on probation for a first offence. For the second or subsequent offence there remains only the jail or the penitentiary—the direct road to a life of crime for a large proportion of these young people who first set their feet on paths of ill-doing.

PLACED ON PROBATION

The Borstal system provides that where a boy or girl over 16 and under 21 years of age—and who may have offended four, five, six or more times had been placed on probation—shows tendencies of becoming a habitual criminal, the offender is sent to a Borstal institution—of which there are four, three for boys and one for girls, with a fourth one to be built soon for boys—for a term of two or three years.

Here, vocational training for various trades is put into effect, and under expert artisans, the boys and girls learn the trade to which they appear to be best adapted.

Rudimentary education goes hand in hand with the vocational training, and life in the institutions follows closely along the lines of the great British public schools—Eton, Harrow and others.

LIKE BOARDING SCHOOL

Each boy is assigned to a "house" under a "house master"—usually an Oxford or Cambridge graduate with particular aptitude for "getting under the skin" of the youths. The boys play games, house against house, and later, institution against institution, and the monitor system is in vogue, with special privileges to the "monitors" which promotions are eagerly sought.

The highest grade in the institutions wins a "blue," and "blues" wear a blue suit instead of a brown one, are allowed to go out to technical classes and the like without supervision, and in general are placed on their honor, with excellent results.

The average daily population of the institutions is 350 each, yet the average number of escapes from the institutions is only about 5 per year. Remission of sentence for good conduct is provided.

JOBS ARE FOUND

But it is in the after care for the Borstal boy or girl that the system particularly shines. Borstal associates all over the country are assigned the task of finding jobs for these boys and girls, of seeing them settled in good homes, and of receiving frequent reports from them during their "license" period, which is usually for one year.

MY KITCHEN NOTEBOOK by Mary Blake Domestic Science Counselor

The Art of Second-Day Serving

Why do women apologize for serving leftovers? I consider it rather an evidence of good management. Today's creamed potatoes placed in alternate layers with grated cheese in a baking dish, covered with crumbs and browned in the oven, will provide a delectable dish for tomorrow's luncheon.

Carnation is nothing but the finest of pure, fresh, whole milk, of uniformly high quality. It is evaporated to double richness, so that every drop has a double helping of enriching cream. Then it is sterilized for safekeeping, making it absolutely dependable, no matter what the weather.

Carnation Milk has another vital quality. It is "homogenized"—the cream globules broken up into minute particles and distributed throughout every drop of milk, imparting to foods an unusual smoothness and fineness of texture.

Because of its double portion of cream, Carnation effects a big cooking economy, saving on butter or cream in nearly every dish in which it is used. And because it is always dependably good there is no waste.

Use Carnation Milk for all your cooking. You'll find it in new convenience and economy. "My Hundred Favorite Recipes"—the Carnation Cook Book—will give you many cooking suggestions. It is free. Address Carnation Milk Products Co., Ltd., 134 Abbott Street, Vancouver, B.C.

Carnation Rice Pudding

2 cups Carnation Milk diluted with 2 cups water, grated rind of 1/2 lemon, 1/2 tsp. salt, 1/2 cup sugar, 1/2 cup rice. Combine washed rice with other ingredients; pour into buttered baking dish; place in pan of hot water; bake in 300° oven 3 hours, stirring several times during first hour to prevent settling.

The Smooth Richness of Carnation Dishes

It is indisputable that dishes made with Carnation Milk have a richness, a smooth creaminess, a fragile fineness of texture that even the best of bottled milk cannot equal. In the first place,

ROTHERMERE NEW SCHEME IS DENOUNCED

DIRECTOR OF EDUCATION EXPRESSES FEAR OF HUGE SYNDICATE IN NORTHERN ENGLAND

LONDON, England, April 19.—Dr. James Graham, director of education for the city of Leeds, has publicly voiced his apprehensions of the possible results of the invasion of Northern England by a great London newspaper syndicate, headed by Lord Rothermere. He was speaking at a gathering of a social character promoted by one of the old-established Leeds evening papers.

"This proposal to establish new evening newspapers in all the leading provincial cities fills me with anxiety and alarm," declared Dr. Graham. "These papers can succeed only at the cost of the life of some existing local newspapers. Suppose Lord Rothermere does succeed in setting up completely efficient papers that are the last word in modern evening journalism, what will be the price which the public in the provinces will have to pay?"

"It means that instead of the organs that are locally controlled, that are really native to the city and the county, that understand and express our local provincial sentiment, there will be a ring of gramophones that have their inspiration from a high and mighty potentate in London. And it is not in the public interest nor to the public benefit that this individuality shall be destroyed in a common mould. Automatic operated from a London office are no satisfactory substitute, alternative, or exchange for a living individuality such as the local evening papers possess."

"Our local papers are our friends. The feelings of the people react on the paper, and the paper reacts on the people. The effect is to develop and bring about an improvement in the working conditions, in the purity of public life, and in a hundred and one ways to bring about the betterment of the city and country as a whole."

able to be granted so that the police officers, who had been up all night and had been working right to the time of the inquest, might have the opportunity of continuing the investigation.

The evidence of Dr. J. A. West being ready today, adjournment was taken until this afternoon.

NO STATEMENT YET After the inquest, Inspector Spiller stated that the police had no official statement to make yet. Apparently, the investigation had so far been rewarded with little success.

The police are known to have made enquiries as to whether a man with a cut right hand had left the city. The imprint of a bloody right hand had apparently been left on the washbasin in the house of deceased where the assailant is believed to have washed his hands of blood after the gruesome deed. A close watch has been kept of all departing boats and trains and a number of officers have been detailed to take part in the investigation.

Women next door to the house of deceased are reported to have heard a commotion in the house early Tuesday morning. They had thought of calling the police but, as the noise stopped, this was not done. The same women state that they heard a man's steps leaving the house soon after the noise.

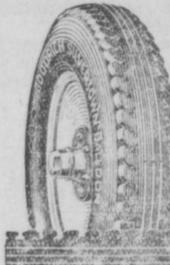

The woman's body was found stretched on a bed with the head leaning toward or on the floor. Her head was covered with bed clothing and it is believed that she was given no opportunity to scream as the lethal weapon severed her throat to the neck. She was partially disrobed.

It was Jack Joy, driver of the Pioneer Laundry, who, when delivering laundry, perceived the lights on in the house early Tuesday evening. Thinking this unusual, he informed the police and Sergeant J. P. M. Hannah found the body.

SORDID DETAILS The revelation of further sordid details makes the circumstances of the killing even more revolting and ghastly. The partially dressed body was smattered

CAT TRAVELED 100 MILES TO OLD HOME

LONDON, April 19.—Six days after a cat had been missed from its home at Framlingham, Suffolk, it was found sitting on the doorstep of the residence of Dr. W. Dunn, of Uppingham to whom it had belonged until a few weeks earlier. The cat, a gift to Miss Walker, of Framlingham, had walked a distance of 100 miles from its new home in Suffolk to its old home in Rutland, and was no worse for its long tramp. How the cat found its way is a mystery. It had experienced bad weather on the route but it was not footsore or fatigued.

DISTRICT ENGINEER INSPECTS DRY DOCK

J. P. Forde Not Yet Informed of Action Toward Providing Fishermen's Floats Here

J. P. Forde of Victoria, district engineer for the federal department of public works, is here to make his annual inspection of the local dry dock. Mr. Forde had no comment to make upon rumors that the dry dock is to be closed and that the marine station is to be moved from Digby Island to the dry dock. Neither matters came under his jurisdiction, he said.

Mr. Forde said he had not been advised as to any steps being made to put in the fishermen's floats here. If they were to be provided for, it would probably be in the supplementary estimates, he said.

ANOTHER RUMOR IN REGARD TO MURDER DENIED BY POLICE

Included in the various rumors pertaining to the Esther Killas murder that have been circulating today was one that a man had been taken off the steamer Catala by police officers from Ocean Falls on suspicion in connection with the affair. This was denied at the police station where it was stated that there had been no new developments in the case.

The steamer Catala left here this afternoon of the crime for the south and the police are understood to have had the vessel thoroughly checked up for suspects while enroute to Vancouver.

YOGEN MARU IS HERE FOR GRAIN

JAPANESE VESSEL WHICH WILL LOAD PART CARGO FOR OIL, IS NEARLY LINED

The Japanese freighter Yogen Maru, Prince Rupert's twenty-sixth grain ship of the season, arrived in the harbor at 8:30 last night, tying up later at the ocean dock where lining will be completed preparatory to taking up berth at the elevator where a part cargo of grain will be loaded before proceeding to Vancouver to complete with logs. Capt. T. Kondo, master of the Yogen Maru, reports an uneventful voyage under favorable weather conditions from Muroran, Japan, which port the vessel left on April 1. The Yogen Maru was here last season for grain.

Both the Yogen Maru and the Indian City were tied up at the ocean dock this morning completing lining.

The Yogen Maru, it is expected, will move down to the elevator tomorrow to start loading. The Indian City will probably be ready to go on berth on Monday.

During the past twenty-four hours, 24 carloads of grain have arrived from the prairies for the elevator.

WAS MISTAKEN FOR MURDERER

WRECKED FISHERMAN NEARLY PLAYED UNPLEASANT ROLE IN POLICE SEARCH YESTERDAY

Al Johnson, the Ketchikan trawler, who arrived in the city after his boat had been run down and damaged by the steamer Prince George, nearly figured in an unpleasant role in connection with the Esther Killas murder case yesterday afternoon. Johnson, whose hand was rather badly cut and his face gashed in the accident, had occasion to call upon the United States consul. As he passed up Fulton Street toward the cinder trail up the hillside he was seen by a citizen who excitedly informed the police that here might be the man they were looking for. Sergeant Hannah dispatched two officers on the trail but, in the meantime Johnson's identity had been made properly known and he was allowed to proceed on his way without interruption.

John McKeenan and is unloading at the lumber assembly wharf, will be here for a couple of days.

EDMONTON WORRYING OVER ITS CENOTAPH

Newspaper Asks for Plebiscite to Determine What Form it Shall Take (Edmonton Bulletin)

The proposal to submit a bylaw for $15,000 to help meet the cost of placing a cenotaph in one of the public streets is one of which few people will feel like offering criticism. To do so would seem to show a lack of proper regard for the memory of the men who gave all that they had to give in the service of their country; and nowhere in Canada is that regard more general or more sincere than in Edmonton.

But is it quite safe to assume that a cenotaph is the kind of memorial that citizens generally would have erected in a busy thoroughfare? In a cemetery or a park nothing could be more appropriate. But a tomb does seem to be somewhat out of place in a street. Would it, in such a location, express the thought which Edmonton people want to associate with the service and sacrifice of their townsman who went "over there"? Is it the thought they want to impress upon their children; that the path of duty in the hour of national danger leads but to a tomb?

Why not accompany the bylaw with a plebiscite; allowing the taxpayer to say whether he prefers a cenotaph or some other form of monument which would signify what the Edmonton men stood for and achieved in the time of crisis? Or—if it is a cenotaph or nothing—allowing the taxpayer to say whether he prefers that this be placed in a street or in one of the city parks?

WORLD SERIES POLO GAMES

THAT IS PROPOSAL NOW MADE AND AUSTRALIA WANTS TO BE IN ON IT

LONDON, April 19.—A polo "world series" is being advocated by polo experts here and in the British Dominions. Australia and particularly New South Wales, together with South Africa and Canada especially want to be represented in an annual international match.

The four strongest countries at polo at present are the United States, England, India and Argentina. But the Dominions say they have strong teams which would put up a good showing against this quintette if given a chance.

A step in the direction of bringing the Dominions into international polo contests and making a world series possible in polo already has been taken. New South Wales has invited the Indian Polo Association to send a team to Australia this season to compete in tournaments at Sydney. The Indian Association has accepted.

42 LIVELY CLUBS

New South Wales has developed a considerable interest in polo, and there are now 42 lively polo clubs in existence. In 1925 New South Wales entered three different teams in the tournament for the Australasian Cup.

Australia, Canada and South Africa expect to send a team each to London in the near future to compete for the Prince of Wales' Empire Cup at Hurlingham.

A suggestion has been made that the Westchester Cup, which the United States retained last summer against the challenge of an Army-in-India team, should be thrown open to competition to countries other than the United States and Great Britain. This could not be done, however, because the deed of gift which the cup was provided specifies that England and the United

SPORT CHAT

Of course, at this early stage it is hard to tell but, nevertheless, speculation on the merits of the Big League teams is interesting even at the expiry of the first week's campaign. Although they have only played three games while some of the other teams have played as many as six, the New York Yankees have made a good start in winning those three and, no doubt, they will again be serious contenders for the flag which they have monopolized for so long. Cleveland Indians, so long out of the picture, look good this year, standing as they did yesterday with five wins, the most of any team so far this year, and but one defeat. Washington Senators are also strong and St. Louis Cardinals again promise to be a factor. Connie Mack's come-back campaign looks weak so far with the Philadelphia Athletics so far failing to win again while they have lost in three starts—against the Yankees, of course.

NEW YORK FIRM IN LEADERSHIP

Both Yankees and Giants won their games yesterday. (Special to Daily News.)

NEW YORK, April 19.—New York confirmed its hold on both the National and American League leadership, yesterday. The Yanks won their fourth straight victory without a loss in a free hitting affair to a score of 10 to 7 with Boston which was further relegated toward the basement. The Philadelphia Athletics lost their fourth straight game without a win on being defeated by the Washington Senators who are safe for a while in third place and who are threatening the second position of the Cleveland Indians who advanced their early season winning streak to six games by winning again over the Chicago White Sox.

Brooklyn Dodgers advanced to second place in the National League by defeating the lowly Bostonians and the Cincinnati Reds are in third position by defeating the Chicago Cubs. The Giants beat Philadelphia 5 to 1 and St. Louis Cardinals and Pittsburgh Pirates were idle.

Yesterday's scores were as follows:

NATIONAL LEAGUE

Boston 5, Brooklyn 10
Philadelphia 1, New York 5
Cincinnati 9, Chicago 6

AMERICAN LEAGUE

New York 10, Boston 7
Washington 11, Philadelphia 6

Around The World With Sport Fans

(By The Tramp)

Fred Orden is the handball champion of Toronto.

When Otto Kemmesich in making the longest continuous swim in human annals started with his pet lion, Leo, as a companion, it was freely predicted that the amphibian would surely outlast the human. But after ten hours Leo dropped asleep in the water. He was roused by a luscious meal of fresh herrings and started up again. All told, he disposed of 35 pounds of herring, but became increasingly languid and finally at 2 o'clock attendants took Leo out of the water. He had been in the pool 42 hours.

Ottawa Hockey team has been negotiating with Dave Trotter for next season's play.

Frederick Wilson writing in the Toronto Globe says all obstacles to the Tunney-Heenev battle in New York having been removed, and the top price for seats at the ringside having been fixed at forty dollars, all that remains to be done is the "smoking up" process. A great deal of high-pressure press-agent activity will be required to put the bout on the ostensible plane of the Tunney-Dempsey engagements, and even they were not regarded in the light of some of the mischievous weight-jousts of other days. There is not apt to be much speculation as to the verdict, but the ring-enthusiasts may exact some interest from the smoke screen by guessing at the duration of the contest. And there are the motion pictures to be considered.

The English cricket team which goes to Australia in the autumn will pass through Canada in September and it is probable will play a number of games in this country. This will give the Vancouver and Victoria cricketers an opportunity to try their skill against one of the world's best teams.

Apparently Heenev has his backers in the proposed fight against Tunney. While betting if there is any, is said to be about ten to one on the champion, there is a feeling steadily growing that the fight is not to be such a one-sided affair as some people think. Tunney has been doing gym boxing and Heenev real fighting and has been steadily improving. Possibly there may be a surprise for the fans in store.

A tennis tournament to decide the championship of Alberta will take place in Edmonton July 9 to July 14.

RHEUMATISM

Rheumatism is caused by certain irritating elements manufactured by the body in such excessive quantities that the eliminative organs are unable to dispose of them. Therefore they lodge in localised areas, "usually in the joints," causing swelling, redness and great pain. Primarily this condition is brought about by bad living habits and augmented to a climax usually by physical exertion or atmospheric exposure.

Joints affected by Rheumatism over a sufficient period will become permanently enlarged or deformed and although it is possible to reduce the inflammation in such instances, the joints thereafter will always be deformed. The longer a rheumatic condition exists, the deeper seated it becomes and the harder to uproot.

By my natural methods, I overhaul the entire system, restore nervous energy and advise as to correct living habits, and thus give the patient a new lease of health.

Laundry Washed Clothes Are Not Rubbed

YOU know how you douse your dainty lingerie up and down in a bowl of sudsy water... that's the way your clothes are washed in a modern laundry. They are not rubbed or scrubbed but are gently swished back and forth in warm filtered rainsoft water until the pure soap actually foams. Every particle of dirt is loosened without unduly lessening the tensile strength of the fabric. Then come many rinses of rainsoft water so that your laundry washed clothes not only look and feel clean but are scientifically clean.

FRIENDSHIP AS GREATEST THING

THOMAS McClymont Addresses Rotary Club on Matters Pertaining to Members

"Friendship is one of the greatest things in the world and it is because of friendship that I attend Rotary Club lunches," declared Thomas McClymont, in addressing the local club this afternoon. This was the primary object of Rotary and the most important.

The speaker said all the organizations on this continent were simply copies of the older ones with the one exception of Rotary. That was started in the United States and was the only original one of which he had heard. Canada, because of her British traditions could not follow the American ideas always and for that reason perhaps some of the Rotary methods did not appeal to Canadians. It was for them to adapt Rotary to their own conditions.

Illustrating the difference between a resident of Great Britain and the United States, he said that he as a broker acted for clients in both countries. He found that if some other agent wrote to his old country client saying he had a customer and asking to be allowed to sell the property, the matter was referred to him, but if they wrote to a United States client the right to sell was given without reference to him and without even notifying him. That was one difference. The British had their own traditions, which were along the lines of Rotary ethics of which so much was said.

Mr. McClymont urged members to give good club service first before community service as that was the best way to succeed.

CO-EDUCATION IS ADVOCATED

IN LECTURE TO TEACHERS TELLS OF EXPERIMENT WHICH IS PARTICULARLY SUCCESSFUL

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., April 18.—Co-education, "under the right conditions," is ideal, Mrs. Beatrice Ensor, chairman of the International Council of the New Education Fellowship, told an audience of teachers and parents here. Mrs. Ensor is former inspector of schools in England and the council of which she is chairman is composed principally of educators in European countries. She is making a tour of America in company with Dr. Elizabeth Rotten, head of the German section of the council.

"At our school, which is a preparatory school for the English universities," said Mrs. Ensor, "we have boys and girls of the ages of four to eighteen. They are taught in the same class rooms and live in the same buildings. They learn of the beautiful and big friendships that can exist between opposite sexes. They do not care for nor experience the silly, stupid sentimental relationships occasioned by the usual segregation of the sexes during adolescence."

Recommending a change in class room methods, Mrs. Ensor said that too much emphasis was given the intellectual and academic departments. "We need more art for the children," she said, "more drama, poetry, literature and music in our schools. We need more opportunity for beauty to seep into the soul of youth. We should pay more attention to our teaching staffs. You cannot fool a child. It knows instinctively its teacher's character and whether she practices what she preaches."

Among the "outworn trappings still hampering education," Mrs. Ensor objected to examinations, homework, grading marks, prizes and the competitive spirit aroused among students.

EXERCISE FOR LONG LIFE

But Don't Over Do It Says Felix Harbic, Aged 97

OTTAWA, April 19.—If you would live long and die happy, take plenty of outdoor exercise but don't overdo it. Keep regular hours and retire early at night; eat plain food and not too much of it—and never worry.

This is the recipe for the enjoyment of good health and long life offered by Felix Harbic, one of the oldest residents of the Ottawa valley, who was born in the lumbering town of Hawkesbury, on the Ottawa River, ninety-seven years ago, and has lived there ever since.

Mr. Harbic, who stands nearly six feet in his stocking feet, looks a hardy type of citizen even with his weight of years upon him, and is very confident that he will celebrate his centenary three years from now. He takes a drink occasionally and has smoked a pipe, an ancient affair, generally filled with "tabac Canadian," as long as he can remember.

"Tobacco never hurt anyone I ever knew," said the aged citizen, "but I can't see anything in those cigarettes, there isn't enough to them."
