THERE is one name we all love well. We learnt it ere we learnt to spell: A name that stands beyond compare, For patience, love, and tender care.

The name of "MOTHER" who will say She's not our best friend night and day? Her good advice and Mother's love Will guide us on our way above.

When other friends do us forget There is one that remembers yet: And she will be the one true friend, Who's faithful to us 'till the end.

Her greeting when at home we come, Where all is peace, and rest, and love: Her noble acts, even great or small, Bring happiness to one and all.

The noblest name there is on earth: The one that always should come first. And though we may forget each other, Let us revere the name of "MOTHER."

Halibut Schooner June Ashore on North End of Dundas Island and Pachena Gone to Rescue

A MERICAN halibut schooner June, Captain G. S. Wahlund, when on her way from Prince Rupert to Ketchikan, went ashore on a reef at the north end of Dundas Island at high tide and is still high and dry there. The captain and crew, five in all, arrived here this morning in a trolling boat and arranged for the Pachena of the Prince Rupert Salvage & Towing Co. to go out and float the boat at the next suitable tide.

The boat is not badly damaged and it is thought that if the wind keeps to the westward she will be all right. Should a south-easter blow, however, it may prove disastrous.

The June is a fifty foot boat and is well known at this port. She sold her catch here just previous to going ashore.

PAGANISM IN BRITISH COLUMBIA

When we heard that an English bishop speaks of paganism in British Columbia the first thought is to give an angry retort and remark that there is probably more paganism in England than in this country. But mature consideration shows that an English bishop may well be misled by the appeals for funds from missionaries in Canada who try to make the appeal as forceful as possible.

It must be admitted that there are a few out of the way settlements where no religious services are held, but that does not mean that the people who live there are pagans. It simply indicates that they are rather foolish for going so far away from civilization and losing contact with their fellows. Many of the men are those who have been educated in the English public schools or universities and who have become tired of the kind of Christian life they live in England. They prefer the "paganism" of the far west to the Christianity of the bishops in the crowded centres of the Old Country.

Pagans are not necessarily bad people. Today Christians do not agree and they hate each other intensely. The essence of Christianity is love and tolerance but the opposite is what is seen today among a great many churchmen.

Christianity is the greatest thing in the world, but many so-called pagans are much more Christian in their action and general attitude toward their fellows than some of the professed followers of the man of Nazareth.

In judging the bishop, we must remember that he is appealing for missionary funds and a little hyperbole is sometimes allowable under such conditions.

INJURING OURSELVES

"If I were a stranger coming to Prince Rupert and found the people in the mood in which they are here today, I should at once leave and give up any project I might have in view," declared J. R. Morgan in conversation with the Daily News yesterday. He says it is about time the people here were getting rid of the idea of expecting to be helped and would get down to bedrock and help themselves. Eventually we have to be self-supporting. We cannot always expect elevators and court houses and public works to keep things going. Mr. Morgan says that the mental condition of the people does not affect his business as he does not look for much local trade in Prince Rupert, but he thinks it does the town harm and keeps things back.

In Prince Rupert we get these periodic doldrums and we get unduly elated over things which do not often mean much. What seems desirable is to have a more constant faith in the city and its future and to try to look forward a little and make our plans accordingly.

The Daily News has explicit faith in Prince Rupert. We believe we are going to build a great and beautiful city here and to raise it on solid foundations, and we think it is just such work as is being done by Mr. Morgan that will make it great. Because fish does not sell well and there is a quiet spell, is only one of the periodic recurrences which have come in the past and will come again. Possibly in a few weeks we shall be thinking quite differently.

POWER FROM KITSELAS CANYON

The water power at Kitselas Canyon is being investigated with a view to interesting capitalists in the matter of development. It is well known that in the country above the canyon there is plenty of timber to keep a pulp or paper mill going indefinitely. The timber could be driven down the river for many miles while at Ushk and in all the other valleys of the neighborhood there is a plenteous supply of logs.

It is possible that a big power plant at Kitselas would solve Prince Rupert's power problem. The fall there is probably sufficient and the body of water is much larger than at any other point in this neighborhood.

It has often been said that promoters of power distributing plants prefer a big concern to several small ones. That is why Kitselas would appeal to them if it is possible to get sufficient fall.

SIMONDS SAWS

Cross-cut, Crescent Ground, will saw 10% more timber, time and labor being equal, than any other made. This guarantee has never been challenged.

TEACHERS HEAR REPORTS FROM THE DELEGATES

J. S. WILSON, MISS MERCER AND GEORGE STOCKS TELL OF ANNUAL MEETING

At the meeting of the Prince Rupert Teachers' Association in the Booth Memorial School, J. S. Wilson, the president, reported on the business meeting of the annual convention which, as a member of the executive and geographical representative of northern B.C., he had attended. Registrations totalled 896 which resulted in one of the most successful conventions in the history of the federation. Resolutions passed at the meeting were discussed. The success of the superannuation scheme was assured. Some changes in the curriculum were recommended. Mr. Wilson had also attended sectional meetings on social science course and English in the Junior High School.

Mr. Stocks discussed some of the leading features of the High School sections. Changes in the curriculum were also advocated and some suggestions towards the use of less expensive books in some cases.

Miss Mercer reported on the chief speaker of the convention, Dr. Rufus von Klein Smid. Dr. Klein Smid emphasized the amount of knowledge that was available and stated that it would take three generations to assimilate all the new knowledge that was already accumulated, mostly within the last fifty years. The trouble today was to evaluate the knowledge. Science of education was the main solution. With so many new ideas it was necessary not to discard the old till the new were found better. Quoting the British Ambassador to the United States, Dr. Klein Smid said that the world was on the threshold of the greatest epoch it had ever known. The faith of the people in education was a challenge to all educators and must not be disappointed. Not only was there more intensive education but it was being sought after by people of all ages and conditions. The character of teachers, what they taught and how they taught were vital. A re-evaluation of life seemed needed. People rushed through this world but did they really live? What is living? In another talk Dr. Klein Smid stressed the need for a better geographical knowledge of the world as a means toward world peace.

Official government relations and commercial relations had failed to bring about that much to be desired international amity. Personal contact between the peoples of the nation was necessary. Get to know people well and there will be no war.

Miss Mercer also reported on some of the sectional meetings she had attended.

Mrs. Walker told of the special demonstration in games for the school as part of the physical training course. These games she had already tried out and found valuable and very much enjoyed by the pupils. Other meetings were a great success in the public schools.

Miss Hartin spoke of some of the most recent development in the arts in primary classes, the use of clay which can be painted instead of or as well as plasticine. A display of this work proved of exceptional interest. A new method of teaching reading was also of interest, and already in practice had been found valuable.

Arrangements are under way for the next meeting to take the form of a social as a wind up to the year's activities.

A man is tight when his mouth and his morals are loose.

Did you ever hear of the man who never mislaid a collar button and never blamed anybody? You may have done so but it must have been a long, long time ago in the golden age.

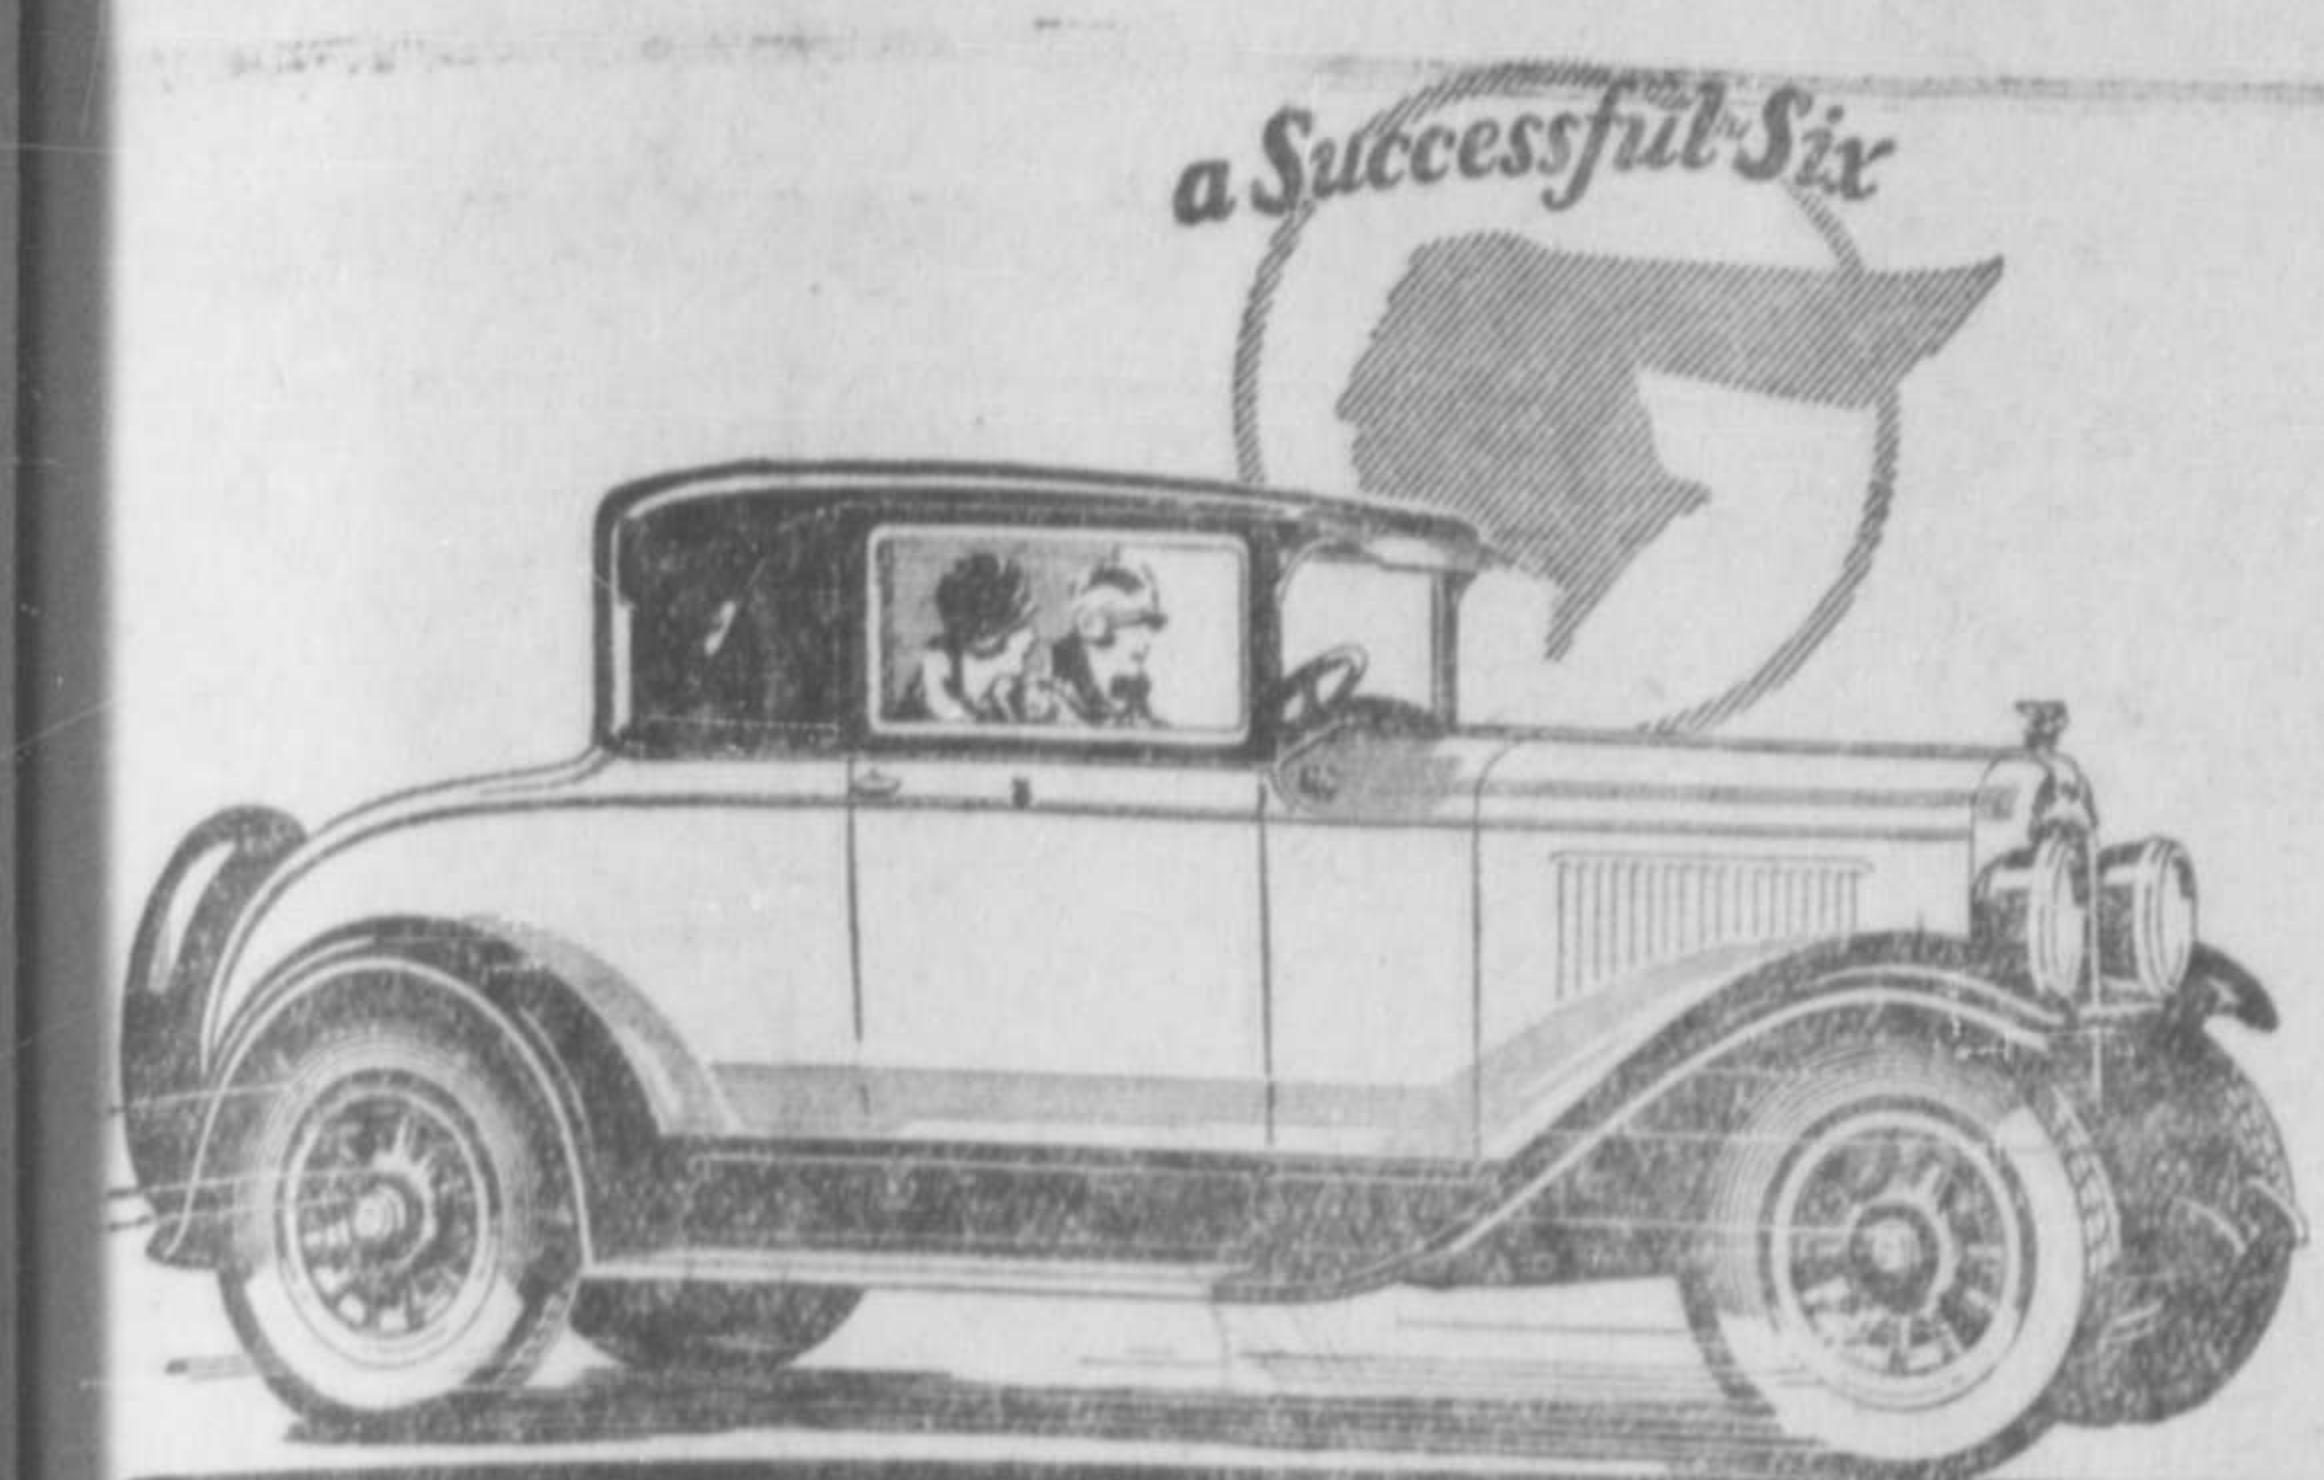

He never lost a collar button. His temper too kept him. He was a very virtuous man. Most always when he slept.

The man who is paid all he thinks he earns will not live long. How can he?

If all were paid just all they earn, If all were satisfied, We'd know millennial days had come Or else we'd know they lied.

Halibut Landings Hold Lead Over 1927—Cape Spear Mishap Proves Not Very Serious—Cannery Business Slow This Year

Halibut landings at Prince Rupert for the 1928 season to date are still substantially in excess of the record in 1927 at a similar date. Up to yesterday a total of 7,755,100 pounds—5,724,500 pounds American and 2,030,600 pounds Canadian—had been landed as compared with the total at the same time last season of 7,076,200 pounds made up of 5,299,600 pounds American and 1,776,600 pounds Canadian. The past week saw a number of broken catches landed on account of unfavorable weather outside but the total fares for the week were above average at 829,000 pounds—669,500 pounds American and 159,500 pounds Canadian. The week started fairly well as far as the price situation was concerned but, toward the end, a slump was recorded—the bids going back to the level where the difference between profit and loss becomes a serious question. The high price of the week for American fish was 14¢ and 7¢, which the Lansing received for a catch of 15,000 pounds while the highest bid for Canadian fish was 12¢ and 6¢ paid the Zeballos for 3,500 pounds. Low prices of the week were 7¢ and 4¢ for American halibut and 7.2¢ and 5¢ for Canadian.

The Canadian Viking I. yesterday landed her seventh trip of the season having, so far, made more landings than any boat of either fleet this year.

After having spent some two months at Bella Bella Indian village rebuilding the wharf for the federal department of public works, the John Currie & Son pilddriving outfit returned to port yesterday morning with the personnel

ENGINE IN CHUCK

As Arthur Kerr was having the Ford marine engine, which had been out for overhaul, lowered into his open boat at the end of the Union Oil Co.'s dock on Sunday, something happened to the block and tackle and the machine was precipitated into the harbor. Various attempts were made during the week to grapple the engine out but, so far, without success thought it had been hooked onto and they at least know where it is. It is reported that the young yachtsman himself had a narrow escape from being struck by the falling machinery as it dropped. It is hoped to yet recover it from the water.

The old Shockley woodworking shop at the Market Place near Cow Bay much resembles a young shipbuilding yard these days. Kenny Rood is building a new speedboat there for himself and Donald Ross is also fabricating a distance burner for Doug Stork, in addition to which a number of rowboats and small boats are being built by youngsters. It is at least not a dead industry.

M. M. Stephens, concluding extensive improvements that have been made to the vessel during the past winter, has been busy this week at the Yacht Club floats erecting a couple of masts on his well known cruiser, Vera S. Frye.

The Doctor

It is essential that my car should always operate properly and accordingly I use Champion Spark Plugs.

Champion is the better spark plug because it has an exclusive sillimanite insulator specially treated to withstand the much higher temperatures of the modern high-compression engine. Also a new patented solid copper gasket-seal that remains absolutely gas-tight under high compression. Special analysis electrode which assures a fixed spark-gap under all driving conditions.

A CANADIAN-MADE PRODUCT

Spear's trouble occurred and it turned out to have been not nearly as serious as at first might have been feared. As a matter of fact, one of the engine cylinder heads sprung a "leak" at the point where the sand is taken out of it in manufacture. A makeshift plug might have allowed the vessel to proceed on her way temporarily but those in charge evidently believed the trouble was more serious as help was called for. To bring the boat all that distance for the sake of a minor repair which could be made for a few dollars was rather a joke on the boat owners. She was towed here by the Salvage Princess and was off again to the fishing grounds the morning after her arrival.

Ivor Wick's trolling boat Seminole is undergoing an engine overhaul at the hands of the Star Welding Works. The vessel was engaged in fisheries patrol last season and will probably be used similarly again this year.

John Bergman had a new air tank fitted for the diesel engine in his trolling boat Linne by the Star Welding & Repair Works this week.

Waterfront business concerns report having received very little cannery work so far this season. Usually at this time, there is as much or more of this trade than can be handled. Nevertheless, there is considerable business offered incidental to the opening of the salmon fishing season and the waterfront is quite brisk these days. There is a general campaign of putting seine-boats, gillnetters, trollers, etc. in order. Many Indians have been in port during recent weeks.

H. K. Yamanacka is engaged in rebuilding a small pleasure boat under the Cow Bay bridge. The upperworks is being renewed.

GILL NETTER FINISHED
Y. Suehiro, Cow Bay Japanese boat builder, has completed the building of thirty-foot gill netter for Louis Jacobsen. A new style 6-7 Yale engine has been installed. Suehiro expects to close a contract for the construction of another similar boat within a few days.

Boats going on the Ward Ways since the first of the month for hull painting and overhaul have included the trolling boat Karen II., cruiser Laura F., halibut boat Marguerite, and troller, Nellie.

Peter Leighton of Metlakatla has been giving his seineboat Dickie Boy a general overhaul on the Ward Ways. A gurdy has been installed for trolling in which the vessel will be engaged until the opening of the salmon season.

Dr. W. T. Kerkin will have the big cruiser Full Moon taken out on the Ward Ways at the first of next week for the installation of a new wheel. This, it is hoped, will aid the new engine, recently installed, to turn up the speed which it is expected of it.

Bill Shelim has the Kelpie out on the old McLean ways in Cow Bay for a much needed job of bottom painting. Reports, upon which Bill maintains a suggestive silence, indicate that he may travel extensively in the near future. The Kelpie should be good for anything he would try, even though it should be to the Cocos Island treasure hunt.

Having in tow the 750,000 feet of logs which the Pacific Mills purchased at sheriff's sale here, this week, power tugs Salvage Princess and M.T.S. left on Wednesday morning for Ocean Falls. Return to port is expected late next week and the boats, coming north, will pick up a tow of logs from Louis Locker's camp at Lewis Island for delivery to the Big Bay Lumber Co.'s local sawmill.

CLEANING HOPPERS
R.M.P. power tug F. H. Philipp, Capt. Handsome Jim Morrison, has spent the week on the Skeena River cleaning offal hoppers at the various canneries in anticipation of the coming season.

R.M.P. power tug P.R.T. Captain Harris Kerr, left Thursday morning with supplies for the company's dogfish camp at Jap Inlet, returning yesterday. Dog fishing is continuing steadily though with no spectacular results as yet.

No trace has been found of William Dunn, Morse Cove fisherman, who has now been missing for nearly two weeks. The police have taken his trolling boat, Owl, in charge and the vessel is tied up at the floats of the Prince Rupert Towing & Salvage Co. It is feared that Dunn lost his life by drowning in the harbor though there is no definite evidence to this effect.

An extensive overhaul is being given to the engine of the Prince Rupert Towing & Salvage Co.'s cruiser "28." The vessel has also been painted from stem to stern and looks trim and slick again.

A facility which has been missed since it was taken down several months ago, the staircase from the upper end of the ramp leading to the Canadian National wharves is now being replaced. This will relieve the congestion for pedestrian traffic which has prevailed during the reconstruction of the overhead, also giving a short cut to establishments on the west end of the wharves.

The cruiser Surveyor, attached to the Prince Rupert Fisheries Experimental station, is being redecked with a much needed coat of paint.

SOMETHING UNUSUAL

Shef Thompson, genial caretaker of the Prince Rupert Rowing & Yacht Club, having a moment of leisure indulged in a cribbage game with a friend Thursday afternoon.

Judging from inquiries that are being received by the Prince Rupert Towing & Salvage Co., the fame of Prince Rupert as an outfitting point and centre for big game hunting must be spreading. Many letters have been received lately asking for particulars from various points in the United States as far removed as Virginia state.

No doubt, arrangements will soon be made for the bringing of some parties here. Grizzly bear and mountain goat seem to be the most popular big game results as yet.

Billy Bacon, son of the head of the Bacon Fisheries and well known along the "front," sustained painful hurts and a badly injured eye when he was accidentally kicked while playing for Booth School in a Junior League football game Wednesday evening. He has been confined to the hospital since the accident and his many friends hope that there will be no serious or lasting effects.

Powerboat "23" of the Prince Rupert Towing & Salvage Co.'s fleet, is receiving a general overhaul and it is planned, if present weather conditions keep up, to have her resume the ferry service to the Salt Lakes next week.

E. C. Powell arrived in the city on Thursday afternoon's train from the University of Saskatchewan and will join the staff of the Prince Rupert Fisheries Experimental Station for the summer months as laboratory technician.

To attend the annual meeting of the Biological Board of Canada which will open in Ottawa on May 23, John Dybahn, member of the board representing the Pacific Coast fishing industry and D. B. Finn, director of the Prince Rupert Fisheries Experimental Station, will leave for the East at the first of next week. Mr. Dybahn will go by train Monday morning while Mr. Finn will travel via Vancouver, leaving on the Catala next Tuesday evening. The meeting will merely have its statutory opening at Ottawa on this occasion and will adjourn to Winnipeg where the sessions will continue in conjunction with the convention of the Royal Society of Canada, to which scientific organization several members of the board and departmental officials belong.
