PREPARING FOR ANTI-WAR TREATY

DIRECT INVITATION FOR CANADA AND IRISH FREE STATE

Britain, Dominions and India All in Accord Accepting the Principle of Outlawing War

Sir Austen Chamberlain sends note to this effect to Secretary Kellogg with explanations regarding self-defense

WASHINGTON, May 21.—Secretary of State Kellogg will invite Canada and the rest of the British Dominions within a few days to participate in a league to outlaw war, which the secretary is seeking to form. Mr. Kellogg so informed the Canadian press, following receipt of the British acceptance of his peace proposals.

WAS PIONEER BUSINESS MAN

F. E. CLAPP SUCCEDES SATURDAY NIGHT AT HOME OF SON

FORMER ALDERMAN

Death removed one of Prince Rupert's most esteemed and pioneer businessmen in the person of Frank Edwin Clapp, after a lengthy and serious illness, passed away at 12:05 midnight Saturday, at the home of his son, Edward Clapp, 1654 Atlin Ave., Westview. The late Mr. Clapp had been in ill-health for the past two years and seven months ago he suffered a paralytic stroke. His subsequent condition was such that recovery could not be hoped for. Only ten days ago he was brought home from Los Angeles, California, where he has resided intermittently for the past few years, to end his days in the city where he had pioneered it for so long and which he was known so well.

Born in Wisconsin on July 4, 1867 the late Mr. Clapp was approaching his sixty-first birthday. He came west some thirty years ago and was successfully located in Cranbrook, Spokane, Victoria and Vancouver. Attracted by the promise of the new town, Mr. Clapp came to Prince Rupert in July, 1909 and soon established here the well known Beaver Bottling Works business which he had since successfully conducted. The late Mr. Clapp had extensive realty interests here at one time and also had a farm property near Terrace. He was an ex-alderman of the city, having served in that capacity for one year. He erected the building on Third Avenue which is now the Moose Hall.

The late Mr. Clapp was an active member of the Masonic Craft, having been a member of Tsimpsaan Lodge A.F. & A.M.; Kaien Chapter, R.A.M. Kincaith Preceptory K.T.; and Gizek Temple, A. & A.O.M.S. He was also a member of the Prince Rupert Shrine club.

Besides his widow, the late Mr. Clapp is survived by his eldest son here, Edward, and a younger son, Chester, at San Diego. The family will have the genuine sympathy of many friends in its bereavement.

Full Masonic honors will be paid at the funeral service tomorrow afternoon in the Masonic Temple, Sixth Avenue and Bowser Street services both at the temple and at the graveside will be ritualistic conducted by the officers of Tsimpsaan Lodge. Pall bearers will be C. H. Orme, Thomas McLymont, Joseph Greer, Robert Gordon, G. T. Moore and George Eckerman.

Cannery Tender Hope Destroyed by Fire Yesterday at Inverness Following Explosion on Vessel

AN explosion took place yesterday afternoon at Inverness aboard the cannery tender Hope belonging to J. H. Todd & Sons of Victoria. This was followed by a fire which burnt the face and hands of the engineer and totally destroyed the boat. There was nobody aboard the boat at the time except the young engineer, a lad from Vancouver. She had been oiled an hour before with the intention of bringing her here this morning and then going south to Beaver Cannery at Rivers Inlet. It was about 3:30 when everybody on the river was started to hear an explosion and this was followed by fire with clouds of smoke.

The man aboard got ashore without help and the Kientu Cannery, another tender, brought him to Prince Rupert where he was taken to the hospital.

The Salvage Princess went out from here but the boat was so badly burned it seemed useless to try to salvage her. This morning Hubert Ward, representing the underwriters, visited the scene to decide what shall be done with the remains of the tug.

Howard Chambers on the telephone this morning stated to the Daily News that there was nothing to indicate what caused the explosion. They had investigated as thoroughly as possible without result.

Canada Likely to Make Separate Arbitration Treaty Settle Disputes

This Will be Separate From the Outlawing of War Pact but Part of the Machinery of the Kellogg Scheme

WASHINGTON, May 21.—The British government as well as its self-governing dominions and India are all in accord with the general principle proposed in the treaty of Secretary Kellogg for the renunciation of war and will support the movement to the utmost of their power. Sir Austen Chamberlain thus replies to American proposals in a note received Saturday by Mr. Kellogg.

Sir Austen said the government found nothing in their existing commitments which prevents their hearty co-operation in the new movement for strengthening the foundations of peace. Inasmuch as Secretary Kellogg had made it clear that the right of self-defense was inalienable, the note said Britain felt no addition to the text of Article 1. of the American draft was necessary.

Chamberlain's note points out that there are certain regions of the world, protection of which against attacks is to the British Empire a measure of self-defense.

REVISION COURT IS BEING HELD

TODAY PROBABLY LAST OPPORTUNITY OF GETTING ON LIST FOR NEXT PROVINCIAL ELECTION

Possibly the last opportunity people who have not already qualified by registration will have to get on the voters' list for the next provincial election will be by appearing personally before Government Agent Norman A. Watt who is holding court of revision today between 10 a.m. and 5 p.m. If an election should be held within six months from this date, which seems to be generally expected, it is not likely that there would be another court of revision intervening but the list tabulated after this court would probably be used.

WHAT WE HAVE WE HOLD

Most aggressive nations, including Great Britain and United States have adopted the principle "What we have we hold." Once they get a hold on a weaker nation they usually retain that hold for a long time. It is the same with Japan. That nation has extended her territory in the Orient very considerably by a policy of aggression. Now she is worming her way into China and has taken possession of Manchuria, declaring practically a protectorate over that province.

It is easy enough for a country to take control of another country but very difficult to let go. It looks as if China would pretty soon come under Japanese control if she does not soon put a stop to her internal wars.

WAITING FOR PREMIER MACLEAN

The province is waiting for Premier MacLean but the Premier is not planning to open his first campaign as leader of the Liberal party in British Columbia without proper and careful preparation. He is a careful man and if he is as careful in looking after the affairs of the province as he has been in political affairs he should make an excellent head to continue the control of the government.

Most of the candidates in the province are nominated except in a few places such as Prince Rupert where the Liberal choice is a foregone conclusion or like Victoria where there is evident dissension in the Conservative ranks, or as in Vancouver where they want to know something about the government policy before they declare themselves.

WHAT WILL THE POLICY BE?

When Dr. MacLean took over the leadership of the government he simply declared a policy of carrying on and finishing Oliver's work. To a large extent that is now finished. The freight rates case has been won, the railway lands are to be returned and what the country is looking for is a declaration of what the future is to be. Will the government simply carry on or will it declare in favor of a forward policy which will keep British Columbia in the forefront of the industrial world?

We are inclined to think there will be some declaration of a forward move that will carry the country with it. It will not be spectacular such as the McBride policies were for MacLean is not a spectacular man. He is too careful for that. At the same time he is a man of courage and good judgment and the probability is we shall hear from him in such a manner as will meet with general approval. At any rate there is an air of expectancy in the country and it is to be hoped the Premier will not prove disappointing.

MINING INTEREST SPREADS

Up to recently, few people outside of British Columbia and Spokane knew that we had any mines on or near the Pacific Coast in this country. Today the mines of Portland Canal and other sections of the country are in the minds of most mining men and of a good many speculators and investors. Eastern Canada and Great Britain are both becoming acquainted with the situation and the result indicates a great forward stride. With the establishment of confidence through the paying of dividends it is possible to get more money for development purposes.

PROSPECTS FOR CROP ARE GOOD

WHEAT PRACTICALLY ALL SOWN ON PRAIRIES AND COARSE GRAINS WELL UNDER WAY

It's well above the ground in all of three provinces. Manitoba is the farthest advanced of the three provinces. Excepting one or two isolated cases, all the wheat is in and the sowing of coarse grains is 60 per cent completed. The province benefited from general rains during the week.

WINNIPEG, May 21—Ideal weather conditions exist over the whole of western Canada, says the third weekly crop report of the Canadian National railways, and prospects for an excellent crop are brighter for the period of the season than for several years. Wheat seeding generally is almost finished and what little remains to be done will be completed this week. The sowing of coarse grains is proceeding rapidly and at least 75 per cent of a considerable amount of flax is being sown out and barley should be in the ground by the end of this week. Early More wheat than usual is being sown and wheat is thriving splendidly and in this area also.

JACKIE COOGAN AT WEEK-END

Famous Boy Star in "The Bugle Call" Voices Plea for Children

Just as "The Big Parade" took the love of a boy and a girl, and surrounded it with the surge and thunder of war to achieve one of the epic dramas of the day, so has "The Bugle Call" taken the problem of a child's life-of-motherhood and stepmotherhood, with battle and spectacle surrounding it, gives an audience a glimpse into the heart of childhood.

This is what Jackie Coogan's new vehicle has done—he has voiced the plea of the thousands of children with step-parents—and has given a solution to one of the nation's gravest problems.

It is all done in a sort of fairy story—a romantic tale of Indians and adventure here at the week end—but underneath the thrills, the spectacle, the adventure—and a great deal of comedy—there is a mighty lesson to parents. It is a picture every father and mother should see.

Jackie plays an orphaned son of an army captain, stationed on the frontier in a cavalry post in the 70's, when the United States cavalry carved a path for Western settlers over the historic Bozeman Trail. Jackie's adventures with the Indians—his saving of the fort—the battles on the plains—these are all gigantic situations and wonderful spectacle and thrill.

JANNINGS IS COMING IN "LAST COMMAND"

Famous Actor Uses Pantomime a Good Deal to Help Out His English

Although greatly handicapped because he was only able to speak German, and understood no English, Emil Jannings, who appears at the Westholme theatre in Paramount's latest production, "The Last Command" on Wednesday and Thursday, was able to cope with the situation as he employed pantomime, in the art of which he is a master mind.

As his admirers already know, Jannings was imported to this country from Germany by Paramount where he had held the undisputed leadership in the theatre and motion picture work for many years. Although born in Brooklyn, Jannings has spent the greater part of his life in Europe, which places this account in a more or less peculiar twist.

During the filming of "The Last Command," Jannings employed the art of pantomime throughout when he wished to speak to a player or one of the staff, to make his wants known. He was understood in every instance.

The great actor is fast learning English, however, and is adding daily to his vocabulary, but he still makes use of his powers of gesture to convey thoughts.

PRINCIPLES OF CHIROPRACTIC

THE CONDUCTION PROCESS OF THE NERVES

In order to appreciate properly the effects of pressure upon the nerves we must first look into the nature of the transmission of impulses along the nerves, namely, the conduction process. Many views have been advanced as to the nature of the conduction process, among which are the following: that the whole nerve moves like a bell-rop, that the nerve is a tube and a biting acid flows through it; that the nerve contains a fluid that moves in waves; that it conducts an electric current like a wire; that it is composed of definitely arranged electromotor molecules which exert an electro-dynamic influence on each other; that it is made up of chemical particles each of which excites its neighbor; that the molecules of the nerve-substance undergo a form of vibration like that of light.

None of these theories has been proven as the only correct one, and it is likely that the conduction process is simply a property of the living substance of the cell. It is a state of activity which spreads like a wave in all directions through the living substance. It is markedly changed by chemical and physical influences. Protoplasmic continuity is absolutely essential to conduction. Hence, as will be shown in later articles, any pressure upon the nerve which breaks protoplasmic continuity impedes the transmission of impulses along that nerve, to the extent that ill health invariably follows. Good health follows chiropractic adjustments. Phone Blue 85, or call on R. E. Eytolfson, the Chiropractor at 623-3rd Ave., West, for an appointment.
