ROTARY GOVERNOR URGES FIGHT AGAINST WAR MENACE

Hon. William Sloan Suddenly This Morning

Passed Away in Hospital After Seizure When Attending Theatre in Victoria Last Night—Had Been Ill Some Time

VICTORIA, March 2.—Hon. William Sloan, minister of mines, died at five minutes to one this morning, a few hours after he had suffered a stroke while attending a local theatre last night. He was taken to St. Joseph's hospital where death occurred.

Mrs. Sloan, who was summoned from Nanaimo, arrived by motor car shortly before the end came.

The minister had attended the afternoon session of the Legislature and appeared quite well. However, he was not robust, he never having fully recovered from the illness which seized him last year and which made it necessary recently for him to transfer the provincial secretaryship to Hon. T. D. Pattullo.

DEATH CLAIMS

MRS. MARY SIM

Was Pioneer and Highly Respected Woman of Prince Rupert and District

Many friends will sympathize with the mourning members of the family in the death, which occurred at 2 o'clock this morning in the Prince Rupert General Hospital, of Mrs. Mary Sim, 1431 Atlin Avenue Westview, pioneer resident of this city and district. The late Mrs. Sim was widely acquainted here and greatly respected, her kindly disposition and generous help having endeared her to a wide circle of friends.

Born at Fraserburgh, Scotland, some sixty years ago, the late Mrs. Sim came to Canada about 1900 and for some years resided in the vicinity of Halifax, Nova Scotia. From that point she and her young family moved a few years later to British Columbia and first settled in the Fraser Valley near New Westminster. Later they moved north and took up a homestead on Poreher Island, coming into the city in 1917 to assume residence.

Besides her widower, William Sim of Poreher Island, the late Mrs. Sim is survived by seven children—Alfred Duthie, local fisherman, and Mrs. J. McIntosh (Maggie Duthie), by a first marriage, and William Sim of the C.N.R. service; Miss Mary D. Sim, local school teacher, John Sim, at present sick at Kamloops, James Sim, who recently shipped for Europe aboard the grain ship Sagoland, and Helen Sim, who is still attending school.

It was only recently that Mrs. Sim entered the hospital although she has been ailing for some time. She was a member of the Ladies' Orange Benevolent Association and also of the Women's Auxiliary to St. Andrew's Society.

Funeral arrangements, which are in the hands of the B.C. Undertakers, will be announced later.

VICTORIA, March 2.—Interest on all farmers' loans issued by the Land Settlement Board will be reduced from seven and a half to six per cent to tide the agricultural industry over a difficult time. A bill to give effect to this is being introduced by Hon. E. D. Barrow on behalf of the government.

Hon. Dr. King Spoke of Beneficial Effect of Tariff Changes on the Basic Industries of the Province

States that Conservatives Never Did Anything to Cope With Oriental Problem, Liberals Being Only Ones Taking Action

OTTAWA, March 2.—Speaking on the budget yesterday afternoon, Hon. Dr. J. H. King said that despite what was contained in opposition speeches, those engaged in mining, fishing, agriculture and lumbering in B.C. were aware of the government's action during the past few years with regard to the tariff respecting these basic industries.

The minister said the same Conservative arguments were being heard this year as in others. Canada, they said, was a good country to live in because of the Liberal party and the Liberal government. Such methods encouraged immigration.

It was amazing, Dr. King said, that none of the opposition referred to the resolution passed at Winnipeg. Apparently those resolutions were not intended in any way to cramp the style of the party but were passed for use in the locality where they could serve good purposes.

Speaking on Oriental immigration, Dr. King challenged the Conservative party to show any act of any Conservative government which undertook to control this movement. Only the Liberal government had attempted to meet the problem.

LEGISLATURE STANDS ADJOURNED TODAY IN RESPECT TO WM. SLOAN

VICTORIA, Mar. 2.—The Legislature adjourned this afternoon out of respect to the memory of Hon. William Sloan, minister of mines, who passed away suddenly at St. Joseph's hospital early this morning.

Tom Heaney of New Zealand Tugged and Bruised His Way to Decision Over Jack Delaney

NEW YORK, March 2.—Tom Heaney of New Zealand won a fifteen round decision over Jack Delaney, French Canadian, in the heavyweight elimination series.

The fight was a tugging, bruising contest, tiresome at times from incessant close range fighting. Delaney outslugged, outroughed and outclassed by one of the most rugged present day fighters but not until he had made the finest showing of his heavyweight career.

The result of the fight did not meet with the unanimous approval of the crowd and it seems likely that Heaney will have to meet the winner of the Sharkey-Risiko fight to qualify to be a contender for the title against Gene Tunney.

Rotary Governor Urges Counteract War Mania Using Peace Influence

Addresses Local Club at Luncheon and Tells of Marvellous Growth of Idea Which is Rapidly Spreading to all Countries

Urging that Rotarians through their international organization should counteract the war mania, think peace and encourage it and thus head off the armaments race which is at present carrying the world in the direction of another great war that would break down Anglo-Saxon civilization, Hank Manny of Seattle, governor of Rotary District Number One, gave an eloquent and powerful address to the local Rotary Club yesterday afternoon.

Mr. Manny told first of the tremendous growth of Rotary during the past few years in 44 countries. Today there are 2,700 clubs with a membership of 145,000. This was a tremendous force in the direction of international peace and he felt that this along with many other peace factors would be able to control governments and prevent another great war. He urged that the sixth object of Rotary, the cultivation of international peace, should be the outstanding feature of the membership.

In opening his address Mr. Manny explained that Rotary stood for the building up of fellowship, bringing together men of different viewpoints and giving them a broader understanding of the work all were doing. He said there were two kinds of Rotarians, those who demonstrated the ideal of service and those who attended meetings of the club for what they could receive. No one could estimate the harm this second group did both inside and outside the club. Rotary was progressive and expanding.

It was only 22 years ago that the first Rotary club was founded by Paul Harris in Chicago, the idea being to encourage friendship. The second club was formed in San Francisco, the third in Oakland and the fourth in Seattle. The work proved very receptive to the idea which expanded and grew until today it had reached 44 countries and was still spreading. Friendship, fellowship and helpfulness were its chief features.

In the year 1910 there were forty delegates attending the international convention and in 1925 this had jumped to 12,000. Telling of some of the countries in which clubs had been formed, Mr. Manny said there was one in Newfoundland, 86 in Canada with 17 others in process of formation. The United States had 2,200 clubs, Alaska one at Anchorage, Mexico had 24 clubs but many more were being formed there today. Cuba had twenty. There were clubs in most of the countries of South America. Practically all the cities of Australia and New Zealand had clubs. Japan had six, China three, India two, Ceylon one, South Africa eight, Italy had 17 and one had been formed in Jerusalem. Czechoslovakia is one of the progressive countries with ten and a number more in formation. Germany has two, the formation of these being requested by both France and Great Britain.

Until recently there was only one club in London with 550 members but this club has been abolished and 39 new district clubs had sprung up to take its place with a huge membership.

Mr. Manny spoke briefly of the objects of the club, stressing that of service and world peace. He explained that today there were larger armies in Europe today than in 1914 before the war. England had just built the largest battleship in the world and the United States would soon have in commission the fastest and strongest battle cruiser. In view of this, businessmen the world over had a duty to perform in using their influence against preparation for war with its inevitable consequences.

MANSON THINKS GAS TAX SAFE

Challenged by H. D. Twigg Who Claims Bill Invited Adverse Fate

VICTORIA, Mar. 2.—That the Government might expect a lawsuit if the proposed tax on gasoline were passed was suggested by H. D. Twigg in the debate on the second reading of the bill yesterday. He said he could see no reason why the bill should be in such form as to invite the fate of the fuel oil tax.

The Attorney General replied that the bill had been drafted with great care and there was every probability that it would be sustained if it was ever called into question.

UNIQUE VIEW OF RELATIONS WITH BRITAIN

Letter to Manchester Guardian From United States Sets Forth View of American Group

An interesting letter by a writer from the United States complaining of British treatment of Americans in the press and giving the United States view was recently published in the Manchester Guardian as follows:—

Sir,—The modest public library of this small city enjoys two weekly pleasures: one the receipt of your weekly issue, and the other the receipt of the Illustrated London News. Both are eagerly and carefully read by our citizens. In a recent leader note you make the very wise observation that there is a large class of Americans who do not seem to receive much notice in your cabled news. It is very true that there is in America a class of people, perhaps as numerous as your whole population, which, so far as culture, education, and general plans of living are concerned, seem to be as fine as anything you may offer. The fact that they are ignored in your press I cannot believe is due to lack of knowledge of them.

A REAL NATION

I know that Europeans have hard work to understand that this is a real nation concerned with its own affairs and having a patriotism of its own. Too often we are deemed merely a convenience bureau for the dumping of surplus populations and the target for all interests except our own. The large moderately wealthy section of the American public, which is the real backbone of America, is composed of those people who are descended from the first-comers of 1620-1650 and who have a straight line of American ancestry associated with all phases of our history and development.

This class of Americans is the one which during the war gave of its means "until it hurt" to buy bonds for the Liberty Loans to feed Belgium, and ate cattle feeds that white flour might be sent to your shores. Somehow we thought we had been rather generous and had done considerable for the Old Country. Reading the tirades on things American from some of your prominent citizens we are sorely puzzled. We read in your press of events which we never dreamed of; we see featured scandals and crimes unknown to us. We see accounts of all the floods and calamities, but we see no mention of the labors we are prosecuting around the world for the good of mankind, or of any mention of the huge movements for uplift and philanthropy in our own land. No good thing about this land appears to be welcome reading to the English.

EUROPEAN BARNACLES

Then, having received to these shores sections of Europe who are like barnacles on the ship of state and we do not become assimilated, an element responsible for a large share of the crime and trouble which you like to read about, we, the native American stock, find ourselves held up to blame and censure for the faults of that very European culture which you believe we lack. I believe we have a sufficient amount of European culture settled on our ends to last us a great while, and we are thankful for the restriction laws, which are our sole guarantee for preservation on the lines the fathers laid down. In the recent Sacco-Vanzetti case, what does this class of Americans read in your press? What violent attacks upon our courts and governor, all for the sake of two scoundrels who were supplied with funds to take advantage of every loophole in the law to delay justice and secure liberty! In the endeavor to be fair to criminals our mercy to them is accounted a crime.

Many of our middle-class Americans have visited your shores and know the joy of visiting those shrines which are the common possession of our race. I have sat in Westminster completely overwhelmed by the contemplation of the Abbey and the partial realization of its history. Is not Shakespeare our possession as well as yours? Did not our ancestors assist in the erection of all those historic buildings which are the glory of England? Is not your literature our especial joy? Do not our authors and travellers give grateful tribute to it all? What do we receive in return? Does it help friendliness? Of all the pests that afflict these shores the worst is the Johnny Bull who is never satisfied with things American, although he seems to stay and thrive. Usually his bragging remains until his first return visit to his old home. Thereafter he is usually silent.

AMERICAN PESTS

We do not judge all English people by the samples we receive here. Fortunately for you that we do not! So we would ask for your charity when you
