Premier MacLean Sees Tolmie Policy Complete Endorsement His Own

VICTORIA, June 27.—Dr. Tolmie gives a complete endorsement of Liberal policy in his manifesto, declared Premier MacLean in an address here. Four-fifths of that manifesto is approval of the present government and there is nothing new or outstanding or important in the other fifth. Commenting further on the Conservative platform the Prime Minister said:

"I have seen a good many political platforms, and I have always found in the platform of an opposition party some new policy. I am going to ask you what there is of outstanding policy in this Conservative platform."

"Let me characterize it. In the first place it's too definite. They're going to do everything possible for the settler but they don't tell you what. To encourage the consumption of B.C. products, but they don't tell you how. To co-operate with the Federal Government, but will the Federal Government co-operate with them?"

He pointed out that the Conservative platform dealing with maternity benefits said that they approve the principle of maternity benefits.

"But approving the principle won't be of much assistance to the expectant mother," he commented.

MATERNITY

"We have given legislation of that sort consideration. The Conservative party heard of it and a resolution on the subject went before the Conservative convention at Kamloops. It came out of the resolutions committee committing the party to immediate introduction of maternity benefits. But when the resolution passed the convention it merely 'approved' the principle of maternity benefits. The first resolution, on being submitted to the whole Tory party lost all its definite character and became meaningless as it is now."

"You can read the political history of every province of Canada, and you will find that not in one instance did a Tory party ever put any one of social legislation on the statute books of Canada," the Premier said.

TOLMIE APPROVES LIBERAL PLATFORM

The most remarkable feature of the Tolmie manifesto, he went on was its endorsement of the Liberal Government's work and policies.

"Four-fifths of it is approval of the present government."

"Dr. Tolmie says in effect in his platform, 'We have nothing new to offer, but the Tory party has been in opposition for twelve years and would like to get into office.' The Premier went on.

"On the P.G.E. Dr. Tolmie gives us a complete endorsement of our policy, but is not half as definite."

He recalled that Reginald Hayward had advocated the scrapping of the P.G.E. and the sale of its rails.

And yet the leader of the Opposition comes along and issues a manifesto that he is endorsing our policy," he went on, recalling that Mr. Walkem, another conservative in the House had also come out against spending another dollar on the P.G.E.

"What did they do at the Kamloops convention about the P.G.E., our greatest problem? They had not one single word to say about what they would do with the road! Now they say they will adopt our policy."

"While the Conservative party may put all they wish in their manifesto, all they need carry out is what they put into their platform at the Kamloops convention," he said.

"They say they'll encourage capital to come to British Columbia. In 1917 there was invested in our British Columbia business $650,000,000. Today there is just four times as much. Capital has faith in British Columbia.

ELECTION PROSPECTS

Dealing with election prospects, the Premier declared that in 1916 there was every indication that the Conservative government was going out of office while at the present time there was only indication that the present government was going back into office with a very much enlarged electorate in the Province, and with the backing of the various elements.

"We have excellent candidates. We have an excellent legislative record. Our financial affairs are in good shape. We are a Liberal Government, but we are getting the support of Conservatives and of Labor men all over the Province. Ours is a party that appeals to all our people. Where are Conservatives going to get support? From Labor? No, because the Conservative record on Labor legislation is not good. We have general Labor support in the country and in the Legislature because Labor knows what we have done for it and what our attitude to it is."

The Premier asked whether the Conservatives were going to get any particular support from the women, in view of that party's history on women's franchise and on minimum wage. "Can they look for support from business? Business is fairly well satisfied with our Government and is taking no chances on disrupting the present condition of prosperity and this govern-

NOT WORRIED PUBLIC DEBT

SINKING FUND BEING PROVIDED TO PROVIDE FOR TAKING IT UP AT MATURITY

KASLO, June 28.—Premier MacLean, speaking at a banquet tendered to Captain Leary, Liberal nominees for the Kaslo-Slocan riding, stated that no Conservative government in any province of Canada had enacted definite social legislation. He had no apology to make for money spent on road building and was not worried about the public debt, he stated. The burden of debt was always relative to wealth. Sufficient money was placed in the sinking fund to wipe out all debts at maturity.

James McDonald was tendered for cross-examination. He said he was intoxicated too and did not remember much about the fight.

Staff Sergeant Alex McNeill testified as to a voluntary statement accused had made as he (witness) was escorting him to Prince Rupert from Stewart following the preliminary trial.

Accused, witness asserted, had told him that he wished to get "the shooting of Ritchie off his chest." Ritchie had admitted that what the witness had said at the preliminary was correct.

He tried to get the party out but could not so he got the rifle to scare them.

As he was standing at the top of the stairway something must have bumped the gun for it went off in his hands and the next he knew Ritchie had fallen to the floor. He had had no intention of shooting and had not thrown the rifle into the snow.

Constable Poterton, recalled at the request of His Lordship, stated that he had no opportunity to send for the police or for a doctor after Ritchie had been shot. There was nobody left in the place. He could not say if the gun was cocked and he did not know how it had gone off when it struck the railing. Nor could accused recollect what he had told Poterton, he was so excited. He did not remember saying that he had gone for a pail of water and found Ritchie's body when he came back. Whatever Poterton said would be right, accused said. He did not know why he had not told Poterton the details when he first came in.

To his counsel, Rivard said he had never had any experience with guns and knew little about them. Accused told His Lordship that he could take guns apart and clean them. He could also load them. He had never, however, fired a gun previously. Mr. Justice Gregory inquired from Rivard what he knew about O'Donnell's fighting proclivities.

"I don't think he could even beat me and I am an older man than you are," remarked His Lordship.

"But, perhaps, you are a better man than I am," replied Rivard. He had just heard "other fellows" say Paddy was a fighter.

Court adjourned at 12:30 until 2:30.

ACCUSED ON STAND

Rivard, on taking the stand, stated that he was born at Three Rivers, Quebec in 1882. He had come to B.C. in 1911 and followed the occupation of a cook. He went to Stewart in 1919 and worked in a cigar store, later getting a cigar store of his own, as well as the second hand shop. Accused described the details of his premises, lighting, etc. The rifle belonged to him. He had bought it from Owney McFadden. He had taken it upstairs, where he sometimes traded in winter owing to there being no heat in the store, to show it to Eli Watlund who wished to buy a rifle. He had put the cartridges in the gun at that time. Watlund, however, did not buy it and it was left upstairs.

Rivard Broke Down in Witness Box This Morning As He Recited How William Ritchie Was Killed

Taking the witness stand in his own defence at the Supreme Court Assizes this morning before Mr. Justice Gregory and, breaking down when he described the moment of William Ritchie's death at Stewart early last New Year's morning, Henry Rivard, the accused, in telling his own story of the tragedy, admitted that it was a bullet from the gun in his hand which killed Ritchie but declared that it had been entirely an accident. Rivard swore that he was afraid of the drunken party which was fighting in his house would knock over the stove and burn the place down. He was also afraid that he himself would come to accident. Therefore, he had gone to a room and obtained the gun, intending merely to "bluff" them out with it. He denied that he had ever had any intention of actually shooting.

Following an alteration with Paddy O'Donnell, whom Rivard evidently considered the most troublesome of the party, accused stated that he was standing at the bannister of the second floor, O'Donnell having by this time left the place though he feared he might return, and, as he wheeled around to put the gun away, the weapon struck the railing and discharged. Then he saw Ritchie throw up his arms and drop backward to the floor. Horrified, accused testified, he then dropped the gun and, with both hands raised to his head, staggered to a chair. He had had no intention of shooting anybody, accused swore, much less Ritchie with whom he had been friendly. Rivard was broken down as he related this story out in examination by his counsel, Gordon Wismer of Vancouver.

Accused, who was subjected to a stiff cross-examination by A. M. Johnson K.C., and was also closely questioned on certain points by the judge, was the last witness in the case. Court adjourned for the luncheon hour after which addresses of counsel and the charge of the judge were to be delivered. The case will probably go to the jury late this afternoon.

ONLY HAZY RECOLLECTION

The first witness on the reassembling of the court this morning was Sam McDermid. He was one of the party which had visited Rivard's and, having been drinking all day, was intoxicated. He gave details of the melee in accused's place, stating that Rivard seemed "kind of angry." Under cross-examination, McDermid stated that he only had a hazy recollection of what had taken place.

JAMES MCDONALD was tendered for cross-examination. He said he was intoxicated too and did not remember much about the fight.

Staff Sergeant Alex McNeill testified as to a voluntary statement accused had made as he (witness) was escorting him to Prince Rupert from Stewart following the preliminary trial. News of the Mines AROUND PRINCE RUPERT

Premier Building for Permanence—Rich Silver Strike on Ruby Silver—Developing Marmot Engineer

Though there have been reports that the property is close to being worked out, the whole operation at the Premier mine, according to reports reaching the city, points even to greater permanency. In place of the buildings that were destroyed by fire a few months ago, larger and better structures have been rushed to completion. Two buildings have been erected to take the place of the four old ones, the new ones being 87 to 110 feet with steam heating and hot and cold water throughout. The new mess hall is one of the finest in British Columbia and has all modern appendages. In the same building is a large gymnasium and library. No. 1 camp, which has always been the headquarters of the mine, is now being dismantled and the whole moved down the hill to Camp 4 where the old bunkhouse is being converted into offices etc. A new hospital and other buildings are also being erected at Camp 4.

EVIDENCE IN RIVARD CASE

CROWN WITNESSES TELL WHAT THEY KNOW OF SHOOTING AT STEWART NEW YEAR'S EVE

IT WAS DRUNKEN PARTY

EVIDENCE SAYS THAT ACCUSED WAS DRIVEN TO SHOOTING BY THE MEN VISITING HIM

In the case at the Supreme Court Assizes here in which Henri Rivard is charged with the murder of William Ritchie at Stewart on New Year's Eve with the exception of one witness, all crown evidence was in when the court adjourned yesterday afternoon at 4:55. While there were some marked variations on certain details, the story of William Ritchie was generally corroborated by crown witnesses, most of whom, by their own admissions, were more or less under the influence of liquor on the occasion of their celebration of the advent of the New Year. It was the contention of the crown through its evidence, that Rivard had shot Ritchie, following a brawl in his place, as he was about to leave the premises. That it was not Ritchie but another member of the party and a crown witness, Paddy O'Donnell, to whom he was going in to develop the big copper showings. The silver-lead lead carries good values and will be easily developed. Mr. Bunn started a tunnel on it and had said: as he stood over the body in the course of doing his assessment immediately after the killing: "You work, which he drove 15 feet. This is boys drove me to it." There were evidently no witnesses who actually saw the lead and gaining a depth of 300 feet with 100 feet of tunnel. In the Provincial Constable Poterton of meantime a foundation is being graded for the compressor plant near the camp, which will develop the copper lead upon which most of his work has hitherto been done. The old prospect tunnel reply to a question by Gordon Wismere may likely be abandoned and a new working tunnel driven in approximately the same location.

G. H. Bunn, manager of the Marmot Engineer at Stewart, has started a crew to work on the silver-lead lead, which is about 1000 feet higher up the hill than the camp, where the machinery is going in to develop the big copper showings. The silver-lead lead carries good values and will be easily developed. Mr. Bunn started a tunnel on it and had said: as he stood over the body in the course of doing his assessment immediately after the killing: "You work, which he drove 15 feet. This is boys drove me to it." There were evidently no witnesses who actually saw the shooting.

The Provincial Constable Poterton of

Stewart was again on the stand when court reassembled yesterday afternoon.

After some objection by A. M. Johnson,

K.C., crown counsel, he was allowed to call his defense counsel, as to the character of

Paddy O'Donnell. Poterton stated that he knew O'Donnell as a drinker, and that not so much as a fighter. He knew O'Donnell had been a football player. O'Donnell had been in Stewart four months and had worked a small portion of that time, witness stated. While witness would not say that O'Donnell spent the most of his time drinking, he would say that he would drink whenever he could get liquor.

DRUNKEN BRAWL

Fred Thorpe, machine miner, was one of the party which visited Rivard's place that night. Eight of them went to Rivard's about midnight, were treated by Rivard to drinks and then went away and came back to Rivard's about 2:15. Rivard "set up" the drinks again. Rivard appeared to be perfectly sober although the rest of the party had had some six or seven drinks and some of them were showing the effects. It seemed that Rivard took exception to O'Donnell and said he was going to put him out. O'Donnell started for Rivard and one of them held him back. There was a general melee and O'Donnell went to the floor. Accused then seemed to get very excited and said: "I will put the whole bunch of you out." Then he went out and came back with a rifle. Meantime, witness and O'Donnell were going down the steps and they met Rivard who swung the rifle at O'Donnell. When they had got further down the stairs, Rivard aimed the rifle at O'Donnell who said: "If you do that, Henri, you will be sorry." Witness declared that he had heard the rifle click. Soon after they had gone outside, they heard a shot. Ritchie had been with the party all evening and had drunk as much as the rest. He was very quiet, however, and did not show much effect of liquor and did not say very much. It was 12 or 15 minutes after Rivard had ordered them out that he heard the shot, witness said. Other members of the party came down after them, stated witness. One of the party had gone back to get O'Donnell's coat, vest and hat which had been left behind. This was before the shot was heard.

INSULTING NAMES

Under cross examination witness stated that he knew of no trouble between Rivard and Ritchie. They were apparently on friendly terms. Witness admitted that O'Donnell had said to Rivard

"You are only bluffing. You would not shoot." O'Donnell had also called Rivard insulting names such as "you French s--- of a b---" and a four flusher." Witness was endeavoring to get O'Donnell out though he, apparently, wanted to stay. There was a danger, witness admitted, of the stove in Rivard's place being knocked over in the melee and the building burned down.

Edward Ladel testified that it was he who went back to get O'Donnell's coat, vest and hat. He saw Rivard pointing the rifle down the stairs and had said: "For God's sake, don't shoot." He (witness) assured Rivard that he would take O'Donnell out and see that he did not come back. He heard the shot. Under cross-examination, witness said that he did not think the door was locked when they went to Rivard's place. He had not seen a stove in the big room.

Patrick O'Donnell claimed that he was pretty sober and not quarrelsome when he went to Rivard's place the night of the tragedy. Witness described the furniture of the room in detail, this including a heater. He (witness) was taking a pinch of sugar from a package on the table when Rivard came in and said: "What are you doing there?" Witness replied: "Nothing, just taking a pinch of sugar." Accused had then said: "Get out of here, you s--- of a b---" and had hit witness with his right hand. A tussle followed and Rivard, witness said, later hit him on the head with a bottle. Then, again, as they were going down the steps, accused appeared with the rifle at the top of the stairs and said "Get out of here, you s--- of a b---, before I shoot." "Go ahead and shoot," witness said he replied, "you will be sorrier than I." Accused swung the gun and hit him (witness) on the back of the head. O'Donnell swore. Witness admitted that he was in a fighting mood by the time he had been hit twice by accused. He, however, left the building. Witness told of a dispute he and Rivard had had some time previous when he had gone to Rivard's to "bum" a drink and was told "you will get no drink here unless you have the money." Get out, you s--- of a b---." The next day, witness said, accused had apologized for this abuse and, subsequently, their mutual feelings were apparently of the best.

DENIES MALICE

Under cross-examination, O'Donnell maintained that Rivard had hit him in the head with the bottle. Jim McDonald had not banged his head against the wall in the scuffle. Witness denied that he had discussed the case with Jerry Mulvihill, stating that "if my evidence can hang Rivard, he will hang." He had not called accused insulting names but he had dared him to shoot him. He had not wanted to get out. Witness said he was outside the place when he heard the shot.

Donald Hugh McLeod stated that he was with the party which visited Rivard's at 2:15 a.m. He had been drinking but he was not drunk. He told of Rivard coming out with the gun stating "I am the boss of this house." When "Boston" (Thorpe) and Paddy were going down the stairs, accused put the gun to his shoulder and he, witness, heard it click. Then Rivard went back to his room with the gun. Later, witness swore, while he was in another room, smoking a cigarette, he heard the gun go off. He went to the door and saw Bill Ritchie stretched on the floor. Henri was in the hallway but there was no rifle in his hands. Witness and Ed. Casey examined the body. Rivard inquired, "Is he dead?" Ed. Casey replied: "Yes, he is shot through the heart." Then Rivard said: "You boys drove me to it." Jim McDonald and Bill Bosence were still in the big room. Sam McMurchie was with witness and Casey, the remaining members of the party having already gone. Witness went for the police officer with whom he returned. He could not recall what Rivard had said to the officer.

Under cross-examination, McLeod reiterated that he had not heard Rivard tell the policeman it was an accident. He was sure Rivard had not said "You boys were the cause of this accident." Rivard had said, "Jesus Christ, you boys drove me to it." Witness told defence counsel he was 25 years of age.

MEMORY THAT CLEAR

The memory of the next witness, Will Bosence, was not very clear although he remembered being in a melee. He had had about fifteen drinks that night and was pretty drunk.

Edward Casey, a withered 71-year old resident of Stewart for eleven years, was tendered for cross-examination. To Mr. Wismere, he denied having thrown the gun out of back door or window into the snow. The only time he ever saw the gun was in the courtroom. He had never told Sam Deschamps that he had thrown the gun away. He had not any knowledge of having ever seen Deschamps. Mr. Justice Gregory inquired how many more witnesses there would be. Mr. Johnson said there would be one more crown witness and Mr. Wismere said there would be two or three defense witnesses. Counsel stated they expected the case could be finished today.

Court adjourned at 4:55 until 10:30 this morning.

Edward Ladel testified that it was he who went back to get O'Donnell's coat, vest and hat. He saw Rivard pointing the rifle down the stairs and had said: "For God's sake, don't shoot." Court adjourned at 4:55 until 10:30 this morning.

The accused evinced considerable though somewhat monachal interest throughout the proceedings. At times he showed certain signs of nervousness.

At other times he smiled from an evidently merrier countenance. A well known man in northern mining camps, and probably about fifty years of age, he was nattily attired in a blue serge suit with white stiff collar and spotless handkerchief peeping from his pocket.

ON THE club-house veranda after those 18 holes—the best you've ever played! As you watch the other players trooping across the links, call the steward and order a bottle of "Canada Dry."

In its cool crystal depths, there's a flavor and tang which picks you up—cheers you—puts zest in you—and brings you to your evening meal with an appetite sharpened by this delicious beverage.

For "Canada Dry" is a dry ginger ale, made from finest quality Jamaica ginger and other absolutely pure ingredients. That is one reason why it mixes well with other beverages. It is mellow and the ingredients are blended under laboratory methods which insure purity. Because of this unequalled purity, it is really good for you in hot weather.

PASTOR WAS SPEAKER BEFORE GYRO CLUB AT LUNCHEON WEDNESDAY

Rev. A. Wilson, pastor of First United Church, delivered an illuminating address before the Prince Rupert Gyro Club at luncheon in the Commodore Cafe yesterday afternoon. The speaker dealt with moral character in relation to every day life and urged upon his hearers a love of country and inspiration for its development along the proper lines. He referred to the work that such organizations as the Gyro Club could do along this line.

At the close of his address, Mr. Wilson was thanked by President L. W. Waugh who occupied the chair. There was a good attendance of members at the luncheon and a few guests.

At a luncheon to be held next Wednesday or Friday, the Gyro Club will be addressed by Robert Watson of Winnipeg, eminent Canadian novelist and writer and president of the Canadian Authors' Association.

Henry Hellbronner, who is a student at the Royal Military College, Kingston, arrived in the city on yesterday afternoon's train from the East to spend the summer vacation with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Max Hellbronner.

On and after July 2, 1928, Borden Street, will be closed for construction of a macadam road from Taylor Street to Bigger Place. All interested kindly make provisions for approximately six weeks supplies.

MUSKRAT FARM AT MASSETT

ESTIMATED POPULATION NOW EIGHT THOUSAND AND THEY ARE INCREASING RAPIDLY

FEEDING CRESS AND RICE

MARKETING WILL COMMENCE NEXT YEAR WHEN NUMBER OF PELTS WILL BE SOLD

From a start of twenty pair two years ago, the population of A. D. Hallett's muskrat farm near Massett has now increased to an estimated eight thousand, reports Mr. Hallett who has been in the city for the past few days. The little fur bearers have multiplied by leaps and bounds under conditions which seem to be altogether favorable, each pair maintaining at least an average increase of thirty-six and the new animals breeding a few months after birth.

To supplement the natural feed on the ground, Mr. Hallett has planted his half section of land extensively in water cress and wild rice. The fur farm is about three miles from Massett on the Dekata side and the muskrats run at large in a sort of natural amphitheatre, few if any having ever strayed away.

Next March Mr. Hallett expects to start pelting a large number. Then he will begin to realize on an investment which he states has now stood him something over $11,000.

STEWART

Some $4,000 has been subscribed by Hyder citizens for protection of the town against the encroachments of the Salmon River. A breakwater is being put in which will leave the town in perfect safety.

Fencing was removed yesterday from around the new building of Ross Bros. on Second Avenue just west of Sixth Street, revealing another structure, of concrete construction throughout and fireproof, which will be a credit to the architecture of the city as well as a testimony to the progressiveness of its citizens. Good progress has been made in construction by the contractors, Mitchell & Currie, and the building is to be ready for occupancy about August 1. Exterior work is practically completed, attention now being devoted to the interior.

Measuring 100 by 25 feet, the full size of the lot the building is one storey in height with fifty foot basement. The main floor, containing billiard hall, cigar store and taxi stand, has a fourteen-foot ceiling and the basement ceiling is nine feet. The billiard hall will contain eight tables, two large and six small.

On a lot just west of the Marnot Hotel which he has purchased from the Stewart Land Co. W. R. Tooth has commenced the construction of a two storey building which will have stores downstairs and offices upstairs.

Mrs. H. Pinder of Bridlington, England, is visiting here with her brother, Stipendiary Magistrate J. P. Scarlett. She is enroute to Auckland, New Zealand, where she will visit with a son.

H. A. Hallum, owner of the Last Chance group, adjoining the Cantu at the foot of Salmon Glacier, has arrived from Seattle, accompanied by E. Bergman, a geophysical engineer, who will apply this new method of ore finding to Mr. Hallum's property.

Howard Campbell, well known mining man of this camp, has returned from the East to take charge of operations for the Coast Silver Co.'s interests which include a group of claims adjoining the Silver Bell on the south. Money will be spent on this property with a view to future development on a large scale.

SKIDEGATE

I. Martin, forest ranger stationed at Queen Charlotte City, went to Massett on departmental business.

N. Newman of Hazelton, teacher of the Queen Charlotte City school has returned to Hazelton. It is hoped he will return.

C. W. Horner has been covering the islands in his office as assessor.
