Ice About to Break Up at Dawson and Pool of $8,833 Will be Won by Some Lucky Person Soon; Tenana Already Out

DAWSON, May 8.—With Nenana pool of $53,000 decided and won by Alaskans as the result of the breakup of the river at that point at 4.25 p.m. Sunday, Dawsonites anxiously await the crack up here.

The pool is the first mammoth ice derby attempted in the Yukon and totals $8,833.

The ice front at Dawson is holding fast but it is breaking all along the line to the South Klondike which is partly out and spewing a big volume of water and ice into the Yukon south of the city.

Iceologists predict a grand breakup today or tomorrow. Private betters are active and much money has already changed hands. The winners' names will be broadcast by radio from here to all parts of the world. Never before has there been such intense excitement over the annual breakup in front of Dawson as there is this spring.

Excitement in Roumania Over the Peasant Movement Led by Maniu Government Active in Own Defence

BUCHAREST, May 8.—All Roumania is filled with political excitement today as Julius Maniu, peasant leader, prepared to present to the regency the peasant's ultimatum for the immediate overthrow of the Britiano government. If the regency refuses, as seems certain, Maniu is expected to continue to arouse the peasantry to exert the necessary pressure.

The government has stationed troops at all vital points and all foreign newspapers containing Carol's recent gesture to return have been confiscated.

Largely on account of rain and fatigue most of the peasant marchers from Alba Julia have been disbanded.

Prince Carol Invited Leave Britain Because of Issuing Manifesto

British Government Looks Upon it as Intrigue Against Friendly Foreign Power and Follows Usual Custom

LONDON, May 8.—The Mail today says the British government has decided to ask Prince Carol of Roumania to leave England.

The Prince has been visiting at a country estate in Surrey for the past week. Yesterday he admitted responsibility for a manifesto printed in London which declared he awaited only a call from Roumania to assume its throne in place of his young son, King Michael.

The newspaper said the British government had warned Carol to abandon that course while in the country.

Late editions of other London morning papers also said the government had decided to request Carol to leave.

The Mail says the action of the government is in accordance with the usual procedure when a foreigner uses English territory as a centre for intrigues against a friendly government. This is what Carol and his advisors are accused of doing by their manifesto.

The manifesto was issued at a time when there was a possible upheaval in Roumania as a result of the big peasants' congress at Alba Julia and the request sent by the peasants to Bucharest asking for the resignation of the government and the placing in power of the peasant leader Julia Maniu.

LONDON, May 8.—The Home Office in informally announcing that Prince Carol had been asked to leave the country, said the matter had been placed in the hands of suitable authorities to see that the order is carried out.

Carol admitted he might go to America. He declared himself confident the British had never done such a thing on their own account but must have been actuated by Roumanian intrigue.

Sir William Joynson-Hicks, secretary of state for home affairs, told the House today he had caused Prince Carol to be informed his presence in England was no longer welcome. He said he took the step after consultation with Sir Austen Chamberlain.

Daly-Gerard Interests Plan Big Things at Stewart—Activity in Portland Canal Continuing—Extensive Survey at Alice Arm to be Made

That the Daly-Gerard interests are going into the Portland Canal section in real earnest is evidenced by a deal consummated last week whereby they have acquired all the holdings of a newly incorporated company known as the Bear River Mining Co. which owns several groups totalling some thirty claims and fractions in the vicinity of Stewart. According to the terms of the deal for this additional ground, the purchasers are committed to an expenditure of $10,000 per month. The Daly-Gerard interests now control 3,000 acres of highly mineralized ground at the head of Bear River upon which they will spend $25,000 per month. It is said that it is the intention to thoroughly explore the holdings with a staff of geologists and engineers. Daly-Gerard already have control of the Rufus-Argenta and Red Top in the upper Bear River section.

A compressor arrived last night at Stewart for the Engineer Mine Syndicate which is doing a large amount of construction work. George H. Bunn is manager of the syndicate. Considerable repairs are to be made to the trail leading to the property.

Under the direction of William Bunting, eight men are now working on the Cascade group of the Premier Border Mining Co. which is incorporated this spring with Winnipeg capitalists in control. A camp is being built on the Cascade ground and a compressor is being moved over from the Virginia group. This will be in operation within two weeks with the objective of tapping a big ore zone. Later in the season an ambitious program of development will be opened on all the company's holdings.

New York interests have taken an option through A. H. Jarman on the Stampede group of claims in the Rainy Hollow country forty miles back of Haines, Alaska. The owners are William Bunting of Stewart and "Stampede John" Stembraton.

The sum of $40,000 is now available for the development of the two properties of the Silver Crest Mining Co., the Silver Crest at Stewart and the Saddle on Hastings Arm near Anxox. A tramline on the latter property is expected to be erected this spring. It is hoped to have development operations underway at the Salmon River property within thirty days.

The Revenue Mining Co. of Vancouver, which is active at Kluze Inlet down the coast from here, has shipped a diamond drill to Stewart to be used on the Independence mine which was recently bonded by the concern. Work will be started on the vein system at an elevation of 1800 feet.

John P. Kendall of Toronto and associates announce that $350,000 program will be shortly commenced on the Bush Consolidated property at Stewart. Arrangements have been completed whereby a New York syndicate has purchased a large block of stock on the understanding that the amount referred to would be disbursed over a period of months. The Kendall interests retain control of the property.

W. S. Sullivan is starting work this week on the Star Pointer group of eleven claims in the Texas Pass section of Salmon River in which William Finn of Cordova and Tony Lundstrum of Ketchikan are his partners. The first work to be done will be the erection of camp buildings.

The Vancouver Mines Ltd. has elected directors as follows: president, Matthew J. Phillips, New Westminster; secretary, Samuel Deschamps, Stewart; treasurer, J. A. Hall, Hyder; Col. William T. Perkins, Seattle; Christopher Reid, Kelowna; E. D. Haddon, Hyder.

Ten men are being put to work this week on the Northern Light property in the Portland Canal district. One of the government road camps will be used as headquarters until the mine camp is constructed. G. R. Bancroft is managing engineer and Angus McKenzie has been secured as superintendent.

Joe Jackson has arrived at Stewart from Vancouver with equipment which will be used for operating properties down the canal from Stewart. The properties, totalling eighteen claims, include the Rex, J.J.J. and Lucky Strike group located between Marmot and Georgia Rivers. A company has been incorporated known as the Portland Canal Gold Mines, Ltd.

Complete surveys of the possibilities of the mineralized zone around Alice Arm will be undertaken by the Geological Survey of Canada this year in cooperation with the provincial Department of Mines. Engineers will cover the entire mineral field area tributary to Alice Arm and the survey will commence as soon as weather conditions permit. Despite its well known mineral wealth, the Alice Arm territory has not been active during the past few years as conditions would seem to warrant. This survey is expected to focus greater attention to it.

Diamond drilling on the Topley-Richfield mine at Topley started at the end of the week. Before summer, it is expected, more complete reports as to the value of the Topley properties will be available. The first drill hole will cut into the mineralized zone and will reach contact about 150 feet below the present underground workings. The mining machinery, camps and supplies are now in condition for complete operation. H. L. Batten, consulting engineer, states that work done to date has been very encouraging and has shown the mine deposit to be a very large mineralized zone with high grade ore. Additional claims have been obtained to cover the vein which runs underneath this season.

Story of Mining in B.C. and Particular of George Copper Is Told Most Picturesquely

Kenneth Drury of Victoria Publishes Interesting Tale of Discovery on Bear River That Made District Famous

British Columbia has gone mining mad according to Kenneth Charles Drury of Victoria who, in an article entitled B.C. Goes Mining, in the May 1 issue of MacLean's Magazine, tells us that the excited welter of speculation, has completely eclipsed the land boom of the early part of the century. Western newspapers flash the news of the mining market on their front pages; Toronto and Montreal papers carry on their financial pages special dispatches from the coast. Radios are broadcasting their mining hours. Chatter at society teas has assumed a new interest and significance since mining gossip and tips have taken precedence in conversation. Brokers' offices blaze under full illumination until after midnight. Geology has become popularized; technical terms such as greenstones, argillites and batholiths are bandied about on every street corner with professional authority. Sporting page fans have deserted bookmakers taking bets on the daily racing at Tia Juana and are devoting their talents and coins to the gaming quotation boards. Money is pouring in over the river from the east and south, and even from Europe. The Bear River mine has been largely financed in the Amsterdam, while early in March the Duke of Devonshire and some of his associates in London West End clubs invested $250,000 in a Salmon River property. Mining profiteers are wonderful pickings for automobile salesmen with the result that flocks of new cars, paid for by cheques from brokers' cashiers, are helping to make more serious the parking problem in downtown Vancouver and Victoria.

But back of all this welter of feverish speculation is the story of the fabulously rich Portland Canal country and its discoverer, "Bill George." As Mr Drury tells it, it is an enthralling story.

In 1909, Mr. George was sent by a group of men to report on a certain mining property on the far-off Portland Canal. His report was that he didn't think much of this particular property, but the country there was the best he had ever been in. So promising in fact, did it appear to him that he decided to remain there and explore for himself. He went up the Bear River to the trapping grounds of the Naas. While passing through the narrow Upper Bear Valley, between the mountains that reached to the glaciers, he stumbled on a boulder of copper that had apparently rolled down from above. He marked the spot and came back in the spring to find out exactly where that boulder had come from. He worked his way to the heights of the mountain on the south bank of the river, and, there above the timber line and below the glacier, he found great copper veins, running as high as thirty-five per cent copper with high gold values, which literally formed the whole top of the mountain. That was the start of the George Gold Copper.

Seventeen years ago that was and "Bill" George was to have a long, hard struggle before he gained recognition for his discovery. The property was far up in an unknown country and there was no access to it except by a crude Indian trapping trail through the northern valley jungle growth.

But Mr. George had seen enough to make him a believer in spite of all difficulties. He sacrificed everything he had or hoped to have to make good with his discovery. A little group of old friends in Victoria, including P. M. Linklater, a merchant, and Richard Jones, a government official, believed in this man who told them of his great mine prospect in the north. They helped him now and then with funds, while he went ahead to show up what his mountain was made of.

For years he plugged away, without reward, but never with the thought of giving up. He hewed out of the perpendicular, solid-rock mountain side, a zig-zag trail, which enabled horse pack trains to climb with their loads to the 4,000-foot elevation. Then he followed along the great veins, open-cutting them every couple of hundred feet and exposing the bonanza ore. The showings and their extent were amazing. But still after a decade and a half of the hardest kind of physical labor, he was a long way from having a producing mine, as it required capital and lots of it to handle such an immense development.

"Bill" George persuaded the engineers of the Consolidated Mining & Smelting Company to turn their attention to the Portland Canal, and specifically to his copper mountain, which he had been feverishly along for seventeen lean and lonely years.

As a result of what engineers saw, the Consolidated at once—in the spring of last year—took over from Mr. George a controlling interest of fifty-two per cent of the stock of his company. Then through the Bank of Montreal, they got enough more under option to make a total of ninety-three per cent of the stock leaving only seven per cent scattered in the hands of the few old friends of the prospector who had stuck with him and his discovery through the years of struggle. As soon as the snow had receded from the altitudes, Consolidated diamond drill crews were sent up by horse pack trains to the 4,000-foot level. They drove two exploratory holes into the bowels of the George Mountain before winter came on and forced them from the heights. The results were so confirmatory of what had been anticipated that this spring enlarged crews are being sent up the hill to drive a whole series of holes to cut the big veins at depth, and over a quarter of a mile from the surface, and thus be able to form something of an accurate estimate of the millions of tons of high grade copper-gold ore awaiting the Canadian miner in this massive deposit.

Foreseeing the immensity of the development involved, surveyors were sent up the river, where they acquired for Canada's greatest mining organization all the adjacent claims into which the George copper veins would likely lead, and also the townsite claims in the river valley flat, thousands of feet below the diamond drill workings. Altogether they acquired forty-three claims covering 2,000 acres, making possible a development that will rank as one of Canada's major mining operations.

Bill George's fortune was made and so was the start of another large Canadian mining centre.

Bandmaster Wilson reports that the program is now completed for the vaudeville concert which will be held next week in aid of the Boys' Band. The plan will be opened at Orme's drug store on Thursday of this week. A heavy sale of tickets is reported.

VILLAGE FINED FOR NEGLECTING TO PASS VACCINATING ORDER

HULL, May 8.—For having failed to pass a compulsory vaccination bylaw, as ordered by Dr. A. Lessard, Director of Health for the province of Quebec, the Municipality of Gatteau Point was condemned this morning in Hull Court by a judgment rendered by Magistrate Roland Millar to pay a fine of $5 a day from March 1 last. Immediately after the judgment was rendered, Louis Cousineau, who acted for the municipality, stated that he would enter an appeal.

The defense set up by the village was that when the order of the department reached the Municipal Council the epidemic of smallpox had ceased some two months before and the Provincial Health Department had been no authority to order the council to enforce compulsory vaccination.

THOMAS MEIGHEN AS A MUSICIAN AND A PUGILIST

In the picture being shown here tomorrow night "We're All Gamblers," Thomas Meighen is both a musician and a pugilist. He becomes a night club proprietor whose playing in front of a big audience is colorful enough to stir their enthusiasm. Knowing it would be impossible to do real playing in this way in the short time available, Tom had a piano moved into one corner of a big stage. Here he began doing variations of "My Old Kentucky Home" with flourishes of the arms. His fingers ran up and down the scales with gay abandon, he pounded the bass notes with the vigor of Rachmaninoff, he threw his head forward and backward with the grace of Paderewski and he bounced up and down on his bench like Vincent Lopez. The sounds that issued forth would have started a riot among the neighbors in any crowded apartment section, but under the vaulted roofs of the studio stage they were lost in a jumble of echoes that sounded like a Rhapsodie in B flat major, Opus 29.

When it came time to film the scene, Meighen had the old southern melody as completely dissected and rearranged that its oldest friends wouldn't have recognized it. However, for picture purposes it was great.

MRS. BRADY SPEAKS TO YOUNG PEOPLE

Interesting Reading on Life and Works of Francis Thompson, English Poet. Last Evening

Mrs. J. C. Brady read a most interesting and splendidly prepared paper before the Young People's Society of First United Church last evening on the life and works of Francis Thompson, noted English poet. 10 Commandments for Cyclists

- 1 Keep to the right and near the curb.
- 2 Meeting traffic pass on right, overtaking traffic pass on left.
- 3 Turn right close to curb. Turn left around centre of intersections.
- 4 Raise one arm when stopping, and slowing up and to indicate direction when turning.
- 5 Ride straight. Don't wobble.
- 6 Watch for STOP signs and traffic officers' signals.
- 7 Give traffic coming from right the right of way at intersections.
- 8 Do not hang on to moving vehicles.

"THE BICYCLE

is one of the safest vehicles of locomotion," says Mr. J. F. H. Wyse, General Manager of the Ontario Safety League.

Let's make it safer.

Last year out of over five thousand traffic accidents, in Ontario, involving automobiles, trucks, busses, bicycles and pedestrians, there were only five fatally serious bicycle accidents involving children under 16.

But even these may be lessened. They can be reduced to zero. Let motorists show every care for cyclists. Let bicycle riders this year ride still more carefully. Obey the traffic rules and signals. Safety First! Watch out for the traffic. Take no chances. Don't be a jay rider.

Ride a Bicycle You Can Depend On

The C.C.M. Bicycle is a strong, sturdy, reliable piece of conscientious workmanship in its every part. You can depend on the Hercules Coaster Brake in any traffic emergency. Cold drawn seamless steel tubing, reinforced joints,

WHY THE LAUNDRY SHOULD DO MY WASHING

"I am a happy wife. I am a happy mother. I send my washing to the laundry. "Gone are the hours of stooping over a steaming wash tub. Gone is the aching back and the rough, chapped hands and brittle nails caused by plunging the hands into hot and cold water and by hanging the family wash out in the wind. Gone are the evenings of morose silence in our family sitting room because it was wash day and mother is too tired to speak a pleasant word. "The laundry gives me more hours for mothering. I have two children of pre-school age, the most impressive time in their lives, who need every spare moment for supervision and organized play that a mother can possibly give. I have more hours for pleasant social activities and community work. I let the laundry be the drudge. "Laundry service is cheaper. Counting the labor of the wife at even twenty-five cents per hour, or the wage per hour of the laundress plus the inconvenience and expense incurred by her, plus materials and depreciation of equipment, there can be no doubt of it. "The laundry saves time, saves health, saves money, saves clothes. Those reasons should be sufficient to convince the housewife that her laundry is a community blessing." Won by Mrs. A. W. Thomas, West Allis, Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

MAGICIAN WITH BAG OF TRICKS RIVALS MEDIUM

PRODUCES BETTER LUMINOUS GHOST AND HANDWRITING OF LATE HOUDINI

NEW YORK, May 8.—A magician with a big bag of tricks stood victor over countless mediums in having produced what Mrs. Harry Houdini declared was the best spiritualistic manifestation of her late husband she had ever seen. Joseph Dunninger, the magician, undertook the experiment to disprove the spiritualistic claim of Nino Recoraro, a self-styled medium, who had sought to bring to earth the spirit of the late magician and thereby win a $21,000 prize offered by Science and Invention. Recoraro's seance was given at the offices of the publication several days ago and the best he could do after five hours was to produce a voice purporting to be Houdini's which seemed to have nothing of importance to say. Dunninger last night, before the same audience of thirty some newspapermen and women, and under identical conditions, produced a luminous ghost resembling Houdini, a message in Houdini's handwriting, some snatches of oral conversation, and a paraffin cast of an ectoplasmic hand which is to be examined for Houdini's fingerprints. Mrs. Houdini declared the handwriting

NO MORE HELP FOR VANCOUVER

HOPE FOR SECURING ADDITIONAL GRAIN STORAGE AND PIER FACILITIES NOT VERY BRIGHT

VANCOUVER, May 8.—F. R. McD. Russell, chairman of the Vancouver harbor board, has returned to Vancouver after a trip of several weeks to Ottawa, the Atlantic coast and the prairies. As previously indicated by press despatches from the national capital, he was unable to announce that Ottawa would grant appropriations for additional storage elevators and piers at the port of Vancouver this summer. A complication appears to have developed in the efforts to obtain the added facilities. Although hope has not been given up, the chairman is not optimistic as to the probabilities of action by the federal government in the immediate future. Mr. Russell visited St. John, N.B., while on his trip, and stopped at Winnipeg and Calgary while returning.
