Surveying Route Up Skeena River For Highway to Terrace and Bridge; Road Will Probably Pass Canneries

H. C. Whitaker, locating engineer for the provincial department of public works, and party of twelve men are now engaged in making a reconnaissance between Galloway Rapids and Tyee, a distance of some thirty miles, for a route for the continuation of the Skeena River Highway from this end. A survey for a bridge across Galloway Rapids is also included in the work being undertaken by Mr. Whitaker.

According to present plans, the road after passing Galloway Rapids will skirt the water and pass various cannery points on this side near the mouth of the Skeena River. From Tyee it will probably turn north and pass near the head of Wark Channel on the way to Terrace although this will all rest on future determination.

Mr. Whitaker's party is at present making headquarters at Phelan.

DANGER OF MANY PARTIES

There is grave danger in a democracy with many parties. Take the present case at Ottawa. We for a robber. Happily the Ottawa government is not in such a position to- with Gordon in pursuit. The detective day that it can be clubbed into submission. It can stand out against tracks him to the outlaws' lair, where any unjust demands.

There have been cases in British Columbia when similar things | the stolen treasure. have happened. A small party has controlled a large one simply because it happened to hold the balance of power. That meant the "FOREIGN DEVILS" FOR government of the country was in the hands of two or three or half a dozen men not representative of the people as a whole but of a small section.

INCOME TAXES

The federal government at Ottawa is being criticized for lowering the income tax. It is pointed out that while the income and inheritance tax in Great Britain amounts of 45 per cent of the total revenue and in United States it is 64 per cent of the total taxes of the country, in Canada it is only 14 per cent. It is forgotten by first scene, but whose sinister influ-flying splinter, fraying rope, rolling gun TT'S all right to occasionally share the critics that the provinces of Canada also have the right to levy ence is manifest during the entire and tattered canvas. income taxes and that in British Columbia there is quite a heavy story is an unusual feature of "The You don't need to know who Nel- be generous enough to take them all levy made by the provincial government which has to be paid by Crystal Cup," the First National productions son's captains were, that band of glori- some to her. the same people that pay the federal tax.

We are not now trying to defend the government. We believe mid-week. the income tax is a perfectly legitimate form of taxation and quite in line with Liberal principles of making the wealthy pay, but in a country where we are appealing to the wealthy to invest their money in order to develop the natural resources, a high income tax would be fatal. .

Tom Mix Thriller is Filmed on Banks of Beautiful Colorado

A running gun battle. Bullets whizzing by and ripping through the sagebrush of the Colorado desert. A beautiful girl in the saddle with him.

This s the situation confronted by Tom Mix in the opening sequences of "The Great K & A Train Robbery" here

Tom Mix is right in his element in this drama, which is based on the great story by Paul Leicester Ford. Tom gets in his masterly work with the lasso, his guns and Tony, the wonder horse, during the course of his portrayal of Tem Gordon, detective, who has been assigned to nip the progress of railroad bandits. Experts who have previewed the film declare it to be the finest thing that Mix has ever done.

"It has as much action as a cyclone," one reviewer remarked.

Lew Seller, who has directed many a success for Fox Films, was behind the megaphone during the filming of "The Great K & A Train Robbery." He has Z tucked away another big success. He 15 took the company to the Royal Gorge of the Arkansas River, Colorado's love-Lest scenic spot. Royal Gorge lends itself nicely to the thrilling action of the picture and in addition gives theatrecers an opportunity to see one of the most beautiful spots in the world.

BUILD WORDS OUT OF

Word building is a pleasant and profitable pastime for the whole family. It is lots of fun twisting the letters around and making up words. It is quite simple and there is no catch in it whatever.

All you have to do is to take the letters contained in "SHAMROCK BACON" and build as many words as you can. The letters you may use are as follows: A-A-B-C-C-H-K-M-N-O-O-R-S

No letters other than those above can be used because they are not in "SHAWROCK BACON." For Example:--The words "arm" and "rock" can be used but not the word "mat" because there is no "T", nor the word "roar" because there is only one "R."

Now read the rules in the other column. They are simple and easy to understand. Start right in to have fun and try to win one of the cash prizes.

GEORGE BUSHBY OBJECTS TO ILLE-GAL EXPORT OF HERRING WHE HE GETS NONE

The plant of the Rupert Marine Products Ltd. is today shut down because they cannot get the herring to keep them going whereas fresh herring caught in Pearl Harbor are being shipped in bulk to Ketchikan. Against this George Bushby, president and general manager of the company makes a strong pro-

Mr. Bushby says that this spring he made all preparations for the opening of the season, instaled a new engine in one of his boats and put the plant in order. He took about 500 tons of fish and got under way when, owing to regulations discriminating against him he has had to pay off his men and

When it was a question of local fishermen getting their bait, Mr. Bushby says he made no complaint but he does not think a local industry should be closed down when fish are being exported in bulk instead of boxed as per regulations and caught in seines instead of gillnets contrary to regulations.

Early in the season a fishery regulation was passed stating that no herring should be taken in Pearl Harbor and no herring pound established there. Both these regulations were broken and fish Women of Mooseheart Legion St. were taken there in quantities and a pound established. That was the only place the fish could be obtained. Then on application to Ottawa, American I shermen were allowed to take these closed down.

In the local reduction plant the fish is converted into edible fish meal for poultry feeding purposes and the oil used for soap making. These are manufactured products worth more than the fresh fish and employing local labor in producing them. The shutting down of the plant is a serious loss to Prince Rupert and one that should not necessarily be permitted.

Campaign Commenced About Same Time Germany is Also Testing Popular Opinion

PARIS. March 5.-The election campaign in France may be considered to have opened. A general election can seldom have involved decisions of such grave importance, not to France alone, but to Europe. Concurrently with the elections in France there will be a general election in Germany, and the two together may well determine the future of Europe for some time to

In the circumstances it cannot be regarded as an accident that two great speeches, both involving questions vital to the future of Europe, were delivered the one by M. Poincare in the Chamber on the financial position of France. and the other by M. Briand in the Senate on the relations between France and Germany in particular and their reaction on the world in general.

M. Poincare's masterly exposition of the financial operations destined to lead to the stabilization of the franc was in the nature of an election address combined with munitions for the campaign of his supporters. In effect he invites the conclusion that, once the franc is stabilized, legal stabilization must follow as a natural consequence unless confidence is destroyed German Nationalists. It is an appeal likely to have its effect on that ing of the "iron curtain" that separsection of the electorate which has ates them. It has been indicated t anything to lose, and the retort of the Opposition-namely, that in the same the German offer, though it might be circumstances which operated in M. made more gracefully were it not in-Poincare's favor they would have done even better-is not likely to carry great

The progress already made between France and Germany in respect of such industries as coal, iron, steel, potash, chemicals, and electricity is probably but the beginning of a new supplement politics, is proving a useful extension of them at a difficult stage. GERMAN CLAIMS By skill of dialectic rather than any new piece of constructive policy, M. Felber, Vancouver; S. Sjostrand, Ter-Briand, in his speech to the Senate, race. succeeded in creating the impression that France was so united in her attitude towards German claims that the McKay, Port Simpson; Mr. and Mrs. G. whole problem could well be left out E. This, no doubt, was the meaning of M. Briand's remark that he "did not think the year 1928 would end without witnessing the settlement of great questions." The inference drawn from the remark here is that something beyond a fresh settlement of the Rhineland occupation was in his mind, and that he had in view the problem of inter-Allied debts. The two assertions of Herr Stresemann and M. Briand's rejoinder are crystallized in French opinion very much as follows: The Germans have no claim by promise or treaty to unconditional evacuntion. But the Rhineland occupation is guarantee for both security and payment of reparations. If security, including the interest of France's smaller Allies, can be guaranteed by some measure of disarmament and inspection, whether under the League or otherwise, the occupation could be ended at an earlier date than 1935 in exchange for a satisfactory settlement of reparation debts.

BEDTS OF ALLIES

It is clear that there is a good deal of hypothesis about the proposal, in that it reopens the whole question not only of France's own debts to her Allies, but also their debts as between one another, which brings the United States into the orbit of the dispute. M. Briand has always been well in advance of public opinion in France on this subject, and held in check only by the French Nationalists, whose opposition on other ground to the principle of Locarno is no less sincere

MR. THOMAS GRAHAM. "I am sixty years old and tried all kinds of medicines for bladder and kidney trouble, which used to keep me from work a month at a time, until I started taking 'Fruit-a-tives'. Thanks to 'Fruita-tives' I have worked steadily for four years without a sick day. I have never felt better than I do now," writes Mr.

Thomas Graham of Oshawa, Ont. Because it is made from the juices of fresh, ripe fruits, intensified and combined with strengthening tonics, "Fruita-tives" soon brings radiant health to those who suffer from constipation, bladder and kidney troubles. ONE NEW CASE UP FOR HEARING- AWAY ANOTHER TRANSFERRED TO SUPREME COURT LIST OF ACTIONS

Only one new case has arisen for the consideration of the County Court this month. This is the action of three Port Clements plaintiffs who are suing Alex Yeltatzie, seineboat owner, for work done aboard a boat on which they were employed in addition to their duties as fishermen. The claims aggregate some $300. The defence is that the work in question is generally considered to be-included in the duties of men employed upon fishing boats. The case of B. Brynildsen & Sons, Ltd. vs. Gus Egan et al, which has been on the County Court list for some time, has been transferred to the Supreme Court for hearing. Plaintiff originally claimed $818.25 on a promissory note but a counter claim exceeding the County Court jurisdiction of $1000 has been entered. Cost of machinery alleged by defendant to have been removed by plaintiff and damages is sought.
