Canada Feels Herself Badly Used at Olympiad Criticism Outspoken

Officials Subject to Petty Annoyances Following Protest of Decision on Which Judges Themselves Could Not Agree.

AMSTERDAM, Aug. 2.—Officials of the Canadian Olympic committee have become outspoken of their criticism of the management of the games and are charging that Canadians are unfairly treated while the United States has been favored.

P. J. Mulqueen, president of the Canadian committee said the Canadian officials have no quarrel with American officials. One American official offensively played to the gallery but we do not hold all American officials responsible for his conduct. The rough ride Canadians have received must necessarily raise the question of

REBUKE GIVEN TO MINISTERS

BRITISH PREMIER TELLS MEMBERS OF CABINET NOT TO TALK TOO FREELY POSSIBILITY OF SPLIT CABINET HAS NOT YET DECIDED WHAT ITS POLICY WILL BE ON TARIFF

LONDON, Aug. 2.—Differences in the cabinet over the principle of safeguarding British industries which were indicated during the past few days were composed at a confidential meeting of the cabinet, it is generally understood in political circles.

Sir William Joynson Hicks, home secretary, and other ministers who have been openly advocating protection as an election slogan for the Conservative party, were rebuked by Premier Baldwin at yesterday's cabinet session, and it is understood that henceforth individual ministers will refrain from expression of their personal opinions on such matters too openly, pending a decision as to what will be the general tariff policy of the cabinet.

A small party of men left Anyox yesterday to institute development work on the property.

Outclassed Montreal Nationals 6 to 1 in Final Last Night

WINNIPEG, Aug. 2.—With a decisive six to one victory over the Canadian Nationals of Montreal, New Westminster Royals last night won the Connaught Cup and Dominion football championship. The Royals were vastly superior in play.

Emphatic denial was given rumors which followed the non-appearance of three star New Westminster players in the lineup Monday night that they were held out so that the Nationals would win, making the third game necessary. It was also denied that the Pacific Coast players demanded money for playing. In making the denials, S. V. W. Sortwell, secretary of the Royals, said the players were left out because the club trainer said they were unfit to play.

Fishing Begins Well at Queen Charlotte Islands and Trollers Are Getting Plenty of Cohoes

Seining Near Naden Harbor Gives Canneries a Good Start—Pinks Being Fairly Numerous at That Point.

While the run in the Massett Inlet itself has not yet commenced, trolling for cohoes and seining for pinks immediately outside is now in full swing and, during the past two or three weeks, the five canneries in the inlet have made their first production of the present season. Indications are promising and the prospect is that there may be some realization of the expectation of a large run and pack this season—This is the cycle year for a big pack on the Islands.

Seining so far has been confined to the vicinity of Naden Harbor, where a good run of pinks has developed during the past fortnight.

Full advantage is being taken of the opportunity to take the first harvest of fish there and this week some twenty two boats have been engaged in seining there. The highest catch by a seine boat for a single day to date is reported to have been some 9,000 fish.

There has not been enough fish yet, however, to keep the canneries in full operation. The Langara Fishing & Packing Co. at New Massett is reported to have packed close to 6,000 cases to date. This cannery is taking considerable cohoes from native trollers. The Massett Cannery at Old Massett are reported to have 2,000 cases and the B.C. Packers at Watun River probably have a similar if not a little larger quantity. So far the B. C. Packers at Shannon Bay and the floating cannery Lauriel Whalen at Ferguson Bay, both further up the inlet, have hardly commenced to pack but were sending seineboats out of the inlet for fish this week.

Native trollers as well as Massett are engaged in trolling all the way from North Island to Rose Spit and are doing very well. The high boats in one day to date had from two hundred to three hundred fish. Forty-five cents a fish is being paid for cohoes. Around Rose Spit there are a number of Prince Rupert trollers operating, some of whom are delivering their fish to the mainland.

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—Rain cancelled out all events in the National League yesterday and the status of the American League also was pretty much unchanged because while the Yankees won their game the Athletics did the same, though they showed some slackening of the brilliant pace which has made them serious contenders for the League leadership for the past week or so.

Premier Now Making Highest Production—Consolidated Takes Property Up Telkwa River—New Strike at Topley-Richfield

The Premier gold mine is now milling over four hundred tons of ore daily in addition to shipping over five hundred tons which is to date the highest point in the property's production. The company is carrying on extensive operations in preparation for the commencement of production from the Porter Idaho, Prosperity and Silverado properties on Marmot River. There will be accommodation for 500 workmen and by October the management expects to have a continuous flow of high grade ore over its tramline from the Prosperity which is under construction. It is also taking active steps to develop the Silverado.

With the taking over of the Big Missouri by the Consolidated attention has been directed to the Silver Crest group just north of the Missouri. Consolidated officials announced publicly that they were highly impressed with the mineralized zone north of the Premier. Development of the Big Missouri this year will greatly increase the value of the Silver Crest group and help the whole area. Further consolidation of properties by the Consolidated is considered to be by no means impossible.

Angus Chisholm, prospector, has made a new find of high grade galena ore with excellent values in silver on a part of Hudson Bay Mountain near the Silver Lakes, twelve miles from Smithers.

According to reports received at Smithers from Topley, very rich ore is being taken from the shaft constituting work on the Golden Eagle property which is owned by Heenan and Matheson and is under option to T. D. Pickard of Vancouver. The option was taken on this property last fall and work was commenced by the original owners in the way of a shaft, some fine ore being encountered in the course of operations. Nine men are employed on the property and work is progressing at a good rate of speed.

G. H. Kilburn, representative of the Consolidated Mining & Smelting Co., and party left Telkwa, recently to examine the Contention and Duchess groups of claims situated on the south fork of the Telkwa River about thirty miles from the Telkwa station. These properties were brought to the attention of Consolidated by F. M. Dockrill. In 1904 and 1906 Col. Topping, Jack Howson and Harry Howson induced New York capital to perform certain development work on the properties and later Frank Dockrill and the late Thomas Jefferson became interested in the development. The Contention group comprises three claims and the Duchess eight. Ore is of a copper pyrite and hematite character and samples on a face showing a ledge of eighteen feet with eight feet ten inches of ore ran very high. There are reported to be a number of ledges of good width and continuity.

Several shoots of ore carrying heavy mineralization of gray copper with silver values of approximately two hundred ounces to the ton have been opened up.

Quaint Village on the Skeena River

By M. Molland Cox, in Canadian National Railway Magazine

There are many little settlements tucked into folds of the hills along the Skeena, but for charm of situation and atmosphere Osland, the only Icelandic village on the coast, is probably the most picturesque.

Some years ago a few adventuring families, hoping for a more generous existence than is possible in Iceland, set out for Canada. They took land near Winnipeg and worked hard in the fields; but the Icelandic is seafaring and on the broad, fertile prairies they were sick for the grey mountains, salt coves and ships to which they had been accustomed from time immemorial. Then, one day a man who had travelled far returned to their settlement and told of a wondrous country in the west where fish could be caught by the millions, where fuel was to be had for the cutting and there was no long, icebound winter. So they packed up their belongings, many of which had been brought from the Old Land, and followed him to the swift flowing Skeena where they located on the Blind Slough, on Smith Island. Traffic flows up and down both branches of the broad river, thousands of tourists pass by it on the Canadian National Railway, across the water, but little Osland remains to the general public only a name, and one scarcely known, at that.

There are in it but a scant hundred inhabitants, whose wooden houses are scattered in an irregular row along a narrow fringe of terrain between mountain and sea. There are no shacks; the comfortable homes stand in gardens gay with old-fashioned flowers which grow with almost tropical luxuriance and brilliance; and in order to create these homes, the pioneers, men and women both, had to give months of back-breaking labor. They were told that apples would not grow so far north; yet trees planted three years ago are bearing prodigally now, and currants, rhubarb, strawberries and all sorts of vegetables grow wonderfully there. It takes a great deal of labour to prepare the garden soil, but gradually encumbering undergrowth and stumps are being destroyed, and each year sees conditions becoming better.

There is only one street, a winding plank way which follows the shore contours, and there are neither horses nor cows on the island, though a few goats supply milk for the children. For some years there were a number of sheep raised mainly for their wool which the women card and spin into yarn for knitting sweaters and mittens; but a wolf took up quarters in the hills close by and helped himself to several.

Behind the village is a lake, of two coves joined, with a sandy beach. It lies in the cup of an old volcano and a creek runs from it through the village supplying good drinking water; in years to come it will probably be harnessed for light and power. Across the near hills lie snowcapped peaks, the tide rises and falls at their very feet; nature is bountiful on sea and land, and in these conditions the settlers have found life good.

The men are salmon fishers, working for the canneries or independently, and are marvellously dexterous with their boats. They are the blue-eyed type, big and fair, as a rule, hardy and long-lived, taking life philosophically, and have a positive thirst for learning which expresses itself in the schoolhouse, community-built (the government supplying the teacher's services only), which serves as a social centre. Osland is unique in that it has no church, hospital, store, bank, cemetery or public building except this schoolhouse and in it are held business meetings, wedding receptions, dances and Christmas celebrations.

Mail comes across the water from the Cassiar canneries twice a week—an event of importance to the small village—and the Northern Cross, the Anglican mission boat from Prince Rupert, drops in regularly every month to hold services and as occasion requires, to baptize and marry. The first house erected on the site still stands, a monument to industry, every log used in its construction hand-hewn, and the fence palings surrounding it are also fashioned by hand. These people have adopted Canada as their very own, and no lovelier or more peaceful spot can be found in all British Columbia than this small garden of transplanted Iceland.

NEWS CAMPAIGN GAINS IMPETUS

MANY READERS COMING TO NEWS OFFICE AND PAYING SUBSCRIPTIONS IN FAVOR OF CANDIDATES

Interest in the Prince Rupert Daily News campaign seems to be increasing, particularly on the part of the readers. During the past few days the campaign department has been flooded with votes sent in by friends for their favorites.

Every day brings inquiries, though now the greater part of them are accompanied by votes from persons, who, having been nominated, have thought it over carefully and have decided that the opportunity of securing one of these handsome motor cars or a part of the hundreds of dollars in cash prizes and cash commissions, is too good to pass by.

ENROLL HELP OF FRIENDS
Evidently some of the candidates who have been less active up to now have enrolled the help of their acquaintances for yesterday saw an unusual increase in the number of subscriptions paid at the office and credited to various entrants.

Indications are that some of the candidates who have been lower down in the lists now starting their campaigns in earnest and if the management is not mistaken some of those who have been leading will have to look well to their campaign or they will be passed by.

Candidates are not restricted as to where they can get subscriptions. The districts are only for the purpose of assuring an equitable distribution of all the prizes. Just because some candidate has been working in a given territory or section is no reason why another should not also work there. Perhaps one salesman has more ability than another. Perhaps the prospect has changed his mind since someone else called. On the other hand, perhaps the person who is to become a subscriber is "feeling better" now than before. Every person is a prospect until someone writes him up and then he is still a prospect for an extension subscription.

WORK NOW BRINGS RESULTS
Candidates eventually will realize that work done now will produce subscriptions which count more votes than the same subscriptions could possibly be worth later. A lead secured now will be harder to overcome as the time for ending the campaign draws near for the voting value of subscriptions grows steadily less.

Another point to consider in securing subscriptions is this: You will not write up every person you approach. Maybe many will turn you down. Then again maybe you'll do mighty well. You must not be discouraged. Every salesman has both "good" days and other days. But the law of averages will work for all. If you see enough people you are bound to secure subscriptions. And subscriptions mean votes. And votes mean cars. Whatever conditions confront you are quite likely to also confront others. The world is not made for any one person. All have to meet about the same conditions and the same problems.

ALL ON SAME FOOTING
While you may be expecting someone else to be making startling gains and getting along famously, others are no doubt thinking the same about you. All you have to do is do your best. It isn't what the other fellow does that counts for you. It is what you do yourself. Winning is a positive proposition, not a negative one.

Today's opportunities may not be here tomorrow. If you are entered it is time now for you to be active. If you are still contemplating entering it is time now for you to enter. Everything in this campaign is in favor of those who work this big first period when votes accumulate several times faster than they possibly can later on. Campaign headquarters will be open tonight and each week day evening until 8 o'clock. Phone 543. You are invited to participate.

C.P.R. steamer Princess Louise, Captain Arthur Slater, arrived from the continued south to Vancouver with call north at 3:45 yesterday afternoon and ready list of passengers.

Captain Middleton Was Distinguished Military Officer And Son of London Man

J. S. Wilson left this morning on the eastbound passenger train for Smithers to attend the funeral of the late Captain Stephen Middleton who lost his life in a railway accident near Houston on Tuesday night.

Captain Middleton was the youngest son of the late Reginald Middleton, of Notting Hill, London, a well known civil engineer, famous at the time in connection with the construction of the famous Forth Bridge, in Scotland.

His son was at London University when war broke out and soon after received a commission in the Royal Garrison Artillery. He was severely wounded in the great German advance of March, 1918. Later he served with the Imperial forces in Ireland.

More recently he has been "roughing" it in the interior where he has mining claims but was planning to return to England next year. He is survived by his mother in England, three brothers, Fairfax a civil engineer of London, Cunliffe in India, Gervase, Lieutenant-Commander on the H.M. Nelson and two sisters.

R. W. CAMERON'S STOCK ON SALE BEFORE MOVING

WHOLE STOCK OF HIGH GRADE JEWELRY AND SILVERWARE OFFERED AT COST PRICE BEFORE MOVING TO NEW PREMISES

Owing to business conditions being rather quiet and as the rent of the store is rather more than I can pay in my present location, Mr. Gurvich has been kind enough to allow me to break the lease which I now have with him. I am therefore moving to a smaller store on Sixth Street, next door to Bryant & Greer where I will confine myself more to the expert repairing of watches, etc., than I have done in the past. But before moving, my entire stock goes on sale at what it cost me to land it in the store and you will get any article at this price. Everything in the store will be offered at cost price. And remember, this stock is new stock—no old shop-worn or scratched goods in the place.

I have been here since the beginning 1906 and still believe there is a great future for this town—hence my determination to stay with it. This annual Cost Sale is now on and the stock comprises all well known and standard makes of goods. Everything in the store is on sale now. Come while the choice is good.

Man in the Moon

The best Government is the one that governs least. That was thought to be true in the old days before the idea of marketing control.

When you read the numerous magazines you often find jokes that have been going the rounds of the newspapers for years. That shows how difficult it is for a joke to permeate the mind of a jockeyster.

When prominent people are bad tempered they are said to be temperamental. When poor people are that way they get fired promptly.

The greatest enemies to democracy are the stupid people who can be herded like sheep.

It reminds one of politicians when the fleas on a dog begin to bite each other.

There's always something wrong. If you don't go to church you are ungodly and if you do you are a darned hypocrite.

Jake had a bad cold and he did not know whether to stuff or starve it, so he settled the matter by flooding it. He doesn't know whether it was effective or not because he has not yet sobered up.

Who would be a public official? They are usually sworn in and then cussed out.

Ten Years Ago in Prince Rupert

There was a lull in the Allied advance yesterday, but artillery bombardment of the enemy positions continues. The Canadians are again in the trenches.

A scow carrying four donkey engines, thirty thousand feet of lumber and the latest accessories is said to have turned turtle in Swanson Bay and the outfit has been lost.

The post office employees who were on strike at Winnipeg have returned to work. Though there has been no strike locally, business has been badly tied up.

There is great activity on Louise Island, Q.C. Islands, where eight donkey engines are hauling out spruce for aeroplanes.

F. W. Debert, manager of the Royal Bank in this city has been advised of his promotion to the position of supervisor of Bank Premises in the provinces of Alberta, Manitoba and Saskatchewan with headquarters at Winnipeg.

TEST YOUR EYES

If you can read the few facts below without straining your eye muscles you may not need glasses.

Three out of every ten persons under thirty years of age need glasses; seven out of every ten persons between the age of thirty and forty years should wear glasses to be free from eye strain while doing reading or any close work.

Ninety per cent of all headaches are due to strain of the eye muscles.

Many persons with perfect vision for distance, require glasses to prevent strain when reading or doing close work.

Complete relaxation of the optic muscles and nerves is not possible during an extended period of reading ordinary newspaper, for any man or woman who has reached the age of forty years or over.
