FAMINE STALKS IN WAKE OF STORM

SASKATCHEWAN BISHOP TAKES STAND ON IMMIGRATION

Crimes on Murder Farm Said to Have Been Committed by Ape Man Over Whom None But Indulgent Mother Had Control

Gruesome Inhuman Story of Killings in Which Scene Shifts to Saskatoon and Vancouver as Well as Riverside, California

LOS ANGELES, September 17.—Talking like a streak and piling sensation on sensation, Cyrus G. Northcott today had added another murder to the four in which his son Gordon Stuart Northcott already had been accused of having been involved. The Riverside authorities said murder complaints would be filed today against Gordon Northcott and his mother, Louise Northcott.

The father had previously denied knowledge of the murders when first taken into custody as a material witness after his fifteen year old grandson Sanford Clark had told the amazing story of torture and slayings on the Northcott farm last night. However, the elder Northcott said Gordon and young Clark had told him of the murders but he did not believe them.

The new slaying he told of was that of an elderly man which he said took place in a miner's cabin on the desert. He said his son and a miner were in the cabin when the miner's partner arrived. There was argument over the profits and the partner was killed by the other two.

The father painted his son as an ape man whom only an indulgent mother had any control. He also charged his wife and son with repeated attempts on his life. He said he had left them and gone to Canada but they followed him. The last attempt on his life was six weeks ago at Riverside Ranch.

Yesterday half a dozen bones still linked by the flesh and skin and a toe nail were discovered which are believed to be from a ten-year-old boy. They were dug up and will be tested to determine whether they are from a human body.

There was a difference of opinion as to whether the bones previously found were human or not.

SASKATOON, September 17.—Fifteen-year-old Sanford Clark, who told the California murder ranch story, is a Saskatoon boy whose father lives in the outskirts of the city. The boy's father, John Clark, is a teamster. The boy's mother is employed at a local department store. She is separated from her husband.

Mrs. Louise Northcott left Saskatoon accompanied by Mrs. Winnie Clarke, mother of Sanford Clarke, according to information given here today. Mrs. Northcott is said to have arrived here Tuesday and left for Vancouver. She is said to be a sister of Clark's father.

Vancouver in Limelight

VANCOUVER, September 17.—Gordon Stewart Northcott sought the services of J. A. Walker, chief of coast detective agency here on September 8. Mr. Walker said Northcott acted in a strange manner. He told the story of controversy with relatives over valuable securities and lands, of marrying a wealthy 64 year old Los Angeles woman who, he said, was waiting for him in a palatial yacht at Seattle and also asked the detective to find out if there were any charges against him in Los Angeles.

Mr. Walker saw Northcott and his mother again on September 10. He has since tried to pick up their trail without result although he believes they are still in the city.

VANCOUVER, Sep. 17.—That Mrs. Louise Northcott left Gordon Stuart Northcott, her son, in Vancouver when she went east to the prairies is now believed by local police. On her return journey to Vancouver, they state, she stopped at Kamloops Saturday to send a wire to her son. The telegram, they said, was addressed to a local barrister, apparently for him to turn over to young Northcott. It was worded in a rambling manner but analyzing it the police believe it was a warning for him to remain in hiding. "Only perfect rest and quiet is needed," reads part of the message. It is presumed Mrs. Northcott was on her way to Vancouver where she would have arrived Sunday morning.

Bishop Loyd Again Attacks Immigration Europeans to Country

HAMILTON, September 17.—British connection in Canada, the preservation of British sympathies and deals and even her language are all threatened to a very grave extent by the "wide open and unrestricted immigration which is flooding the three prairie provinces with non-preferred continentals," Rev. George Loyd, Bishop of Saskatchewan, said here yesterday.

The most serious aspect of the problem, Bishop Loyd said, is the agreement with the railways respecting immigration. "The only people who can advocate the wide-open door policy are either those who are ignorant of the situation in the west or are animated by the selfish desire for cheap labor."

Alex. Macdonald with a party consisting of Alex. McRae, W. Wilkinson and C. A. Kirkendall went to Winter Harbor in the northern game district to hunt birds and returned aboard the Vacquero last night with eight geese and a duck.

George Hill did not go far to be successful, bagging a deer across the harbor.

Will and Fred Kergin went to Porcher Island aboard the Full Moon and bagged a deer.

George Bryant and party left yesterday morning aboard the Harla for a three day trip to Porcher Island.

Famine Stalks in Wake of Storm and Disease is in the Offing: Country People Flock Into Towns Begging for Food

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, September 17.—With the hurricane toll conservatively estimated at one thousand, the spectre of famine stalked through Porto Rico today. At least three hundred thousand persons were stated to be hungry and disease threatened. Half the population of the islands, at least two million, are thought to be homeless.

It is feared that property damage will pass one hundred million dollars.

On one of the islands with 77 towns it is reported that more than 250 are dead. It will be weeks before accurate reports can be received from the rural sections in which more than seventy per cent of the people live. The known dead in towns reporting were: Gaeyey 75, Guyama 60, Sumacao 50, Ponce 25, Arecibo 15, Acudilla 10, Neguado 10, Las Piecrass and Fajardo 3.

Most of the feed crops have been destroyed and half of the homes, even those of thatch, were destroyed or damaged beyond repair. A university teacher at Vegeta said the country people were coming into town by hundreds begging for food. The hard pressed merchants gave them as much as they were able.

News and Views In The World of Sport

SPORT CHAT

Judging from the way things went this year, inter-town baseball and football games, which have always up to this year been held in connection with the Exhibition, are still better and more popular attractions in the way of outside sport at the Fair than are such innovations as the Stampede. No other conclusion can be drawn from the fact that on Friday afternoon, which was not too bad from the weather standpoint, less than half a dozen people turned out for the stampede. Never, even in the rain has inter-town baseball or football games fallen so flat. It is generally hoped in sporting circles that such games will be resumed next year. It has been so customary to hold them that they are now expected by the public with which they have always proven popular. Next year it might also be well to give better supervision to the native football series. The Indians were disappointed this year that neither series were finished. Of course, the unfavorable weather upset things generally and the sports and attractions committee of the Fair cannot be held responsible for that.

George Young came back, spurred on by the deafening cheers of almost 200,000 wildly enthusiastic spectators, the hero of Catalina stroked his way through the waters of Lake Ontario to a thrilling victory over Norman Ross, Chicago, in a three-and-one-eighth mile swim off the Canadian National exhibition waterfront. After his defeats in the Wrigley swims this year and last, Young's marvellous exhibition of swimming prowess reinstated him in the affections of his fellow townsmen. Mendell Burditt, another Torontonain came third in the race, which was opened to the 14 swimmers who received gratuities from the exhibition for their showing in the 15-mile marathon.

Around The World With Sport Fans

(By The Tramp)

Johnny Farrell, copping of $1,500 in spending money by grabbing the annual prize for the fanciest rigged golfer, has started even the tough professionals reading style books and the golf writers have to write as much about the costumes on the course as they do about the strokes. Charley Paddock, in the final Olympic trials, outraged A.A.U. sartorial conventions by appearing in baby blue trunks and when the purists couldn't keep him off the team by calling him a professional they tried to bar him for being a dude. But when the team sailed to Amsterdam the reporters assigned to give all the important details of the departure committed themselves to the following: "Lawton Robertson, head coach of the team, was attired in a stunning costume. He wore white buckskin shoes with tan trimmings, water green flannel trousers, a camel's hair jacket, a sky blue silk shirt with collar to match and a rich purple silk cravat and he carried a leghorn straw hat."

CONSOLIDATION BROADCASTING

AUSTRALIA IS JUST NOW WRESTLING WITH PROBLEM IN THAT COUNTRY

WASHINGTON, Sep. 17—With several proposals for the consolidation of the country plan-ning committee to avoid the tangled situation, radio men here are watching the situation in Australia, where a big move is under way.

The New South Wales Broadcasting Company, with a capital of $4,000,000, has been formed at Sydney to take over the control of the two central stations in that city. This move is expected to result in the merging of all the important stations in the commonwealth. S. M. Lawton, U.S. consul general at Sydney, has informed Department of Commerce.

Following continuous complaints from listeners about the duplication of programs and poor reception caused by interference, Prime Minister Bruce is urging the holding of the Class A stations in all the states except Queensland, where broadcasting is under state control. The quality of local programs, particularly in New South Wales, is a minor question, Mr. Lawton says. The public complains that there is a lack of variety and quality. About 75 per cent of the programs are musical numbers. There is much interference, which is caused, Mr. Lawton says, by failure of the four high powered stations to keep in their assigned wave lengths. Another disturbing factor is the complaint of the Post Office Department that the broadcasts of racing and other sports events cut heavily into the tele-graph revenue.

TIN WHISTLE OF PAT DALY, MINER

VANCOUVER MAN WRITES INTERESTINGLY ABOUT PIONEER OF PORTLAND CANAL

(Charles L. Shaw in Financial Post). Pat Daly is plying his tin whistle again, and that means everything is going right with Pat, the most picturesque character that the mines of northern British Columbia have produced. Just now he is playing his weird tunes back in the lobby of a Stewart hotel, but he would rather be out where he says he belongs—in the bald, rugged mountain country close to the Alaskan boundary watching them hoist out ore from the mine that made him a millionaire and world famous.

Pat would sooner part with life itself than the tin whistle that has kept him company during those struggling, prospecting years. "Those tunes I played first in the gold hills, and when I play them now they bring back the gold hills to me," he says, and so plays on.

But playing crazy tunes on a tin whistle isn't the only thing Pat does with complete success. The thing that brought him to the forefront among the veterans of the northern gold trails was the development of the Premier mine, the wonder property of the Portland Canal country which has paid more than $12,000,000 in dividends.

BLAME THE WHISTLE

"Don't thank me for that," Pat will tell you. "You can thank me whistle. If she'd failed me I'd never have stayed in that forsaken country and you'd be without yer famous Premier and all its millions. Me whistle was me company and made it worth sticking."

No one knows how old Pat is, and he says he's forgotten himself. "It's no-where near a hundred years since I was born," he tells you with a twinkle of his Irish eyes. But Pat Daly has been a familiar figure in the British Columbia mining country as long as most people care to remember. Life wasn't always easy for Pat, but usually he found it pleasant. His cheery disposition saw to that, and the tin whistle helped, of course.

Most of the old-timers who lived to grow rich in the Portland Canal country went there by mistake, thinking it was somewhere else. Such was the experience of Clay Porter, who went back to his home in the Middle West a few weeks ago worth more than a million dollars after toiling like a horse in the northern wilderness in his successful quest for minerals. Pat Daly, like Porter, probably "played a hunch" when he went north and stayed at Portland Canal mere by coincidence than by design. Long, lean years followed and they found Pat working in half a dozen different camps as laborer and prospector. "It was tough going," he admits, "but there was no use grouching. It could have been far worse."

MUST BE WORKED

Others with hearts less stout deserted Portland Canal in that period of depression, but Daly hung on and, partly, that was due to a piece of property that caught his fancy. It was the Premier mine and at that time O. B. Bush and Grant Mahood were running it. Times grew worse and Bush, one of the most optimistic mining men the north country ever bred, was forced to close down. It meant that Pat Daly was out of a job, but that did not concern him so much as the thought that the mine was idle. "A good mine should be worked. She's no utter use laying still." That was one of his slogans. The situation displeased him greatly, but he played his tin whistle and kept smiling. And then someone made a daring proposal to him. "Why don't you work the Premier yourself, Pat?"

As well ask a stoker to operate an ocean liner by himself or a porter to run a train. But Pat Daly played with the idea for a while and it fascinated him. He whistled louder and oftener and made up his mind. "Sure I'll run it, if they'll let me," he announced.

FINE NATURAL PARK IS NOW OFFICIALLY OPENED: A portage at Spruce Lake, in Prince Albert National Park, which has just been opened by Premier Mackenzie King.

The necessary authority was forthcoming and for months he single-jacked with hammer and drill, alone, and borrowed money for dynamite with which to tear away the surface of the wonder mine. He took tons of ore out of the mine, but the Premier was not easily accessible. Aerial tramways and other transportation facilities have been built since, but there were none of these in the days when Pat toiled alone in the wilderness. He just pried his ore outside the workings so that those who passed that way might see.

GOT BIG MONEY

Things couldn't go on like that forever. He often talked to Bush about the problem of financing—doing things in a big way, as they should be done. Mining experts talked to Pat Daly and his tin whistle and thought everything he did was funny, especially his single-handed job at the Premier. But when he went out for Spokane, whistled some more crazy tunes, got R. K. Neill, noted engineer, to smile and then by majority induced him to inspect his mine. Neill sampled the ore and stopped smiling. "You've got something here worth while," he told the old prospector.

How Neill went home and with O. B. Bush interested A. B. Frites, W. R. Wilson and R. W. Wood in the Premier, how a single blast of dynamite worth eighty dollars revealed a cross-fracture of high grade ore and made the Portland Canal world famous as a mining country—these are now matters of mining history.

Pat Daly was handsomely rewarded, as most men are who know real values and remain faithful to their hope. He's a rich man now and every time the Premier pays another dividend he plays a sweeter tune.

And now, back in Montreal, he is playing again. He's not such a very old man—"nowhere near a hundred years since he was born"—and he's off for the northern trails again. He's organized a new company and plans to develop a claim on American creek—perhaps another Premier. Who knows? The only thing that's certain about it all is that when Pat heads north again he'll have his tin whistle with him. It keeps him company.

RANTANNING IS USED TO SUPPRESS GOSSIP

LONDON, Sept. 17.—The old English common law which made "acting as a common scold" a misdemeanor has not been recently invoked in the old country, but the villagers of Quadring, Lincolnshire, revived an even more ancient punishment against a woman "whose tongue was likely to run away with her." The woman has gossiped unkindly, it was said, about a girl in the village. The indignant villagers resorted to the old Saxon "rantanning," which consists in gathering about the offending gossip's house and making noise by beating sticks upon tins and cans, buckets and kettles, playing mouth organs, beating, shouting and singing.

CATCHING HIM OUT

A college professor is said to have asked one of his class to tell him exactly what "electricity is."

"I did know, sir," said the student, "but I have forgotten."

"This," said the professor, "is one of the world's greatest tragedies. Here is the only person who ever knew exactly what electricity is, and he has forgotten what he knew."

MINING
1916	$4,200,000
1927	$11,100,000
Production Increase 1916-1927
$24,898,320	58.9%

The World's treasure house!

TWENTY years' mining in British Columbia have yielded nearly $800-million dollars. The last ten years have increased production by 58.9 per cent.

The value of all Canada's production is $25.70 per citizen, British Columbia's production today, if distributed, would mean $111.96 per person annually! Our mined and treated tonnage of metalliferous ores reached a record of more than 5-million tons for 1927.

The value of the mining industry to the Province is in the distribution of money in wages, supplies, transportation services, etc. And in this respect, 1927 was a record year!

The 14,000 employees of the mining industry were paid wages totalling 23 million dollars... or nearly $1,760 each... the highest average for any Canadian Province.

During the year, distribution of eight million dollars was made in dividends!

British Columbia mines approximately 40 million dollars worth of copper, zinc and lead, a year... more than the rest of Canada. In gold and silver, our production ranks second... in coal, third; our total annual mining production today being exceeded only by Ontario.

Sound legislation, good mining laws and low fees have encouraged this development and stimulated growth. Although the provincial mining area has only been superficially prospected within the transportation belt, new fields are developing, new roads and trails constantly being built.

Chattering drills sink deeper and deeper into the hills... heavy ores rumble through the concentrators... fortunes come tumbling from the treasure chest of British Columbia! What was once only imagined about our mining potentialities, is now proven knowledge. Mining has become our third largest industry... showing over 67 million dollars revenue a year... proof that prosperity flourishes in British Columbia.

Capital from Eastern Canada, the United States, Great Britain, France... seeks investment. Our great wealth of production, developing so steadily during the past ten years, has established confidence and aroused keen interest in British Columbia's mining future the world over.

Read these announcements and understand your province's progress... clip them out and send them to friends. If you desire extra copies of these announcements a note to this newspaper will bring them. Advertise your Province!

U.S. TROLLERS IN B.C. WATERS

LETTER IN REGARD TO MATTER RECEIVED FROM DEPUTY MINISTER AT OTTAWA

Last evening at the meeting of the board of trade a letter was received from W. A. Pound, deputy minister of fisheries, in connection with foreign boats fishing in Canadian waters as follows:

"I wish to acknowledge with thanks your letter of the 20th instant, further with regard to reported fishing by United States salmon trollers in Canadian waters.

"Your criticism of the 'Malaspina' is noted, and there is no question that from certain standpoints it has force, but the department's experience is that those concerned soon come to know any boat that is used for protective purposes, and that all things considered speed is an outstandingly important factor in patrol boats dealing with foreign fishing vessels. When dealing with Canadian boats speed is not such a dominant factor, as such boats are liable to seizure at any time after having been known to violate the law.

"If the department could have the co-operation of the Canadian halibut boats, as well as other Canadian fishing boats, there is no room for doubt that the situation could be most efficiently and satisfactorily handled. If such boats, when they found a United States boat in Canadian waters in violation of the law, would make a careful observation of where the boat was at the time and what it was doing, and would furnish the information to this department, it would make it practicable to seize such boat whenever it would be again found in Canadian waters, and to take the necessary court proceedings looking to its condemnation.

"The department feels that you will not misunderstand the above. It is its earnest desire to prevent all such illegal fishing, and is not seeking to sidetrack any of its responsibilities, but your board will realize that in its efforts to prevent infractions of the law reasonable economy must be exercised. Your board may rest assured that this department is following the situation from all standpoints as closely as it can with the facilities at its disposal, and these are being increased continuously to meet growing requirements.

"W. M. A. POUND,
Deputy Minister of Fisheries."

SID CHAPLIN MISSING LINK

One of Funniest Pictures Says Expert Regard to Week-end Film

Moving picture directors are not usually moved to laughter by the performances they call into being, but in several of the sequences of the jungle jamboree known as "The Missing Link," Charles F. Reisner, as well as the rest of the company, burst into uncontrollable mirth.

"I have been making comedies, or acting in them, for sixteen years," said Reisner, "and I insist that this is the funniest film ever shot." Syd Chaplin, creator of Old Bill in "The Better 'Ole," is unbelievably droll as the hungry and timorous London poet, who suddenly finds himself transformed into a lion hunter on the way to African jungles.

The object of the chase shift to the capture of a hideous and mysterious monster known as "The Missing Link." The picture contains besides the "Link," an amazingly clever chimpanzee known as Akka, lions, and many other jungle denizens, as well as hundreds of negroes doing the part of head-hunting savages. The piece is the most outrageously laughable film of the year.

FOREIGN BORN MAKE GOOD SCHOOL RECORDS

EDMONTON, Sept. 17. — The Journal says editorially: A Russian lad who started at school in Calgary four years ago without a word of English has made an average of 91 in the Grade 9 examinations. On one subject he made 100, and even on English Literature, in which a foreign-born student is naturally at a disadvantage he was marked 84. The achievement of this Calgary boy goes along well with that of a Russian girl in Toronto, who at 15 did not know any English and at 19 was declared a brilliant student at Toronto University.

It will not do to be scornful of the new Canadians. They have great possibilities, even as scholars, and these two young Russians who have so distinguished themselves are cases in point.

ANCIENT PLANE IS USED IN PICTURE

"A Hero for a Night" Features Glen Tyrone and Patsy Miller

For those interested in aviation and who is not these days—the remarkable strides made in the construction of airplanes in the last ten years is readily shown in the University-Jewel production, "A Hero for a Night," which comes here Wednesday and Thursday.

Glenn Tryon, who with Patsy Ruth Miller is starred in the picture, is a correspondence school aviator who builds his own plane in order to enter a race across the Atlantic. The property department at University City scouted around and found a plane of the now obsolete "pusher" type, that was made famous by Lincoln Beachey a dozen years ago. This type of plane, as many will remember, has the engine directly over the pilot, who sits well out in front of the rest of the machine. No such things as the fuselage was known at that time, and there was only a strap between the pilot and oblivion.

Always Have Your Size

IT costs money to carry a big stock of balloon tires. Yet there are so many sizes. If a tire merchant tries to carry two or three brands of tires, he can't carry all balloon sizes of each. We specialize on Goodyears. This helps keep prices down—and yet we can give service to everybody. You know Goodyear quality. Ask us for a price on your size.

A WIDE APPEAL

AS AN ADVERTISING MEDIUM

As an advertising medium the Prince Rupert Daily News has a wide appeal. Not only is it read by the people of Prince Rupert, many of whom look to it for mercantile guidance, but it reaches out to the country districts where its arrival is awaited with eagerness. The mining camps and the towns of the interior look to it for the first news of the outside world.

Prince Rupert people who wish to reach the surrounding districts find there is only one medium, that of the Daily News. It is better and cheaper than any other advertising medium and can be depended upon to bring results if anything can.

Past and Present

In the past when only about 1500 papers were being sold, advertisers in the Daily News claimed they got good results from outside points as well as in the city. During the present year the circulation has increased over a thousand, and the appeal to advertisers is consequently that much the wider.

Wisdom of Advertising to Keep Goods Moving

Very few merchants seem to realize the cumulative effect of advertising. Every new customer secured is worth a great deal and this new customer becomes an advertiser for others, if he is well treated. The newspaper not only brings customers direct but prepares the way for the spread of business by personal contact.

The advertising manager will be pleased to talk this matter over with prospective advertisers and show them the newspaper's mailing list.

THE DAILY NEWS

The great advertising medium for Northern and Central British Columbia.
