British Industry in Need of Overhaul a Committee Report

LONDON, March 12.—The British industry is in need of a thorough process of reconditioning and should write off its losses and start anew, according to a report of the government committee on industry and trade made public last night. With regard to Empire markets the committee drew attention to the great value of the imperial economic conditions which should be raised to a higher plane. The report said: "It was generally recognized that within the family of states constituting the British Commonwealth, it is the duty and interest of each state, subject always to the safeguarding of its own essentials of economic life, to do everything possible, without reference to any exact bargaining agreements, to promote the prosperity of the Commonwealth as a whole."

Conservatives Attack Government for Not Declaring Their Policy Regard to Tariff in the Budget

OTTAWA, March 12.—The expected increases in the United States tariff against Canadian farm products formed the subject of many references during the debate on the budget yesterday in the house of commons. From the Conservative benches came the demand that Canada declare her attitude on fiscal matters. "A policy of watchful waiting should not be the declared policy of this country at this juncture," asserted R. B. Hansen, Conservative. "A declaration of virile Canadian independence ought to have been made in the budget. Such a course would have won respect and I fully believe been heeded by those now framing proposed tariff schedules for presentation to congress."

The gravity of the matter was emphasized by J. F. Clark, Conservative of the Vancouver-Burrard riding, who pointed to the fact that the president of the United States had summoned a special session of congress. "We in this country never called a special session of parliament except in great emergency," said Mr. Clark. He predicted, however that the attitude of the administration would be one of inaction.

ASKS POSTPONEMENT OF CHURCH CONGRESS TORONTO SEPTEMBER

WINNIPEG, March 12.—The Most Reverend S. P. Matheson, Archbishop of Rupert's Land, primate of all Canada, today stated that a cablegram had been sent to church authorities in the old country requesting that the Church of England congress scheduled for Toronto in September be postponed until 1931. The archbishop pointed out that a number of Anglican gatherings were scheduled for the autumn and he felt that these would interfere with making the congress a success.

I desire to ask the Prime Minister if such a message was sent by His Excellency on the advice or approval of his constitutional advisors?"

"The communication," Premier King replied, "was a personal communication in the nature of an international courtesy for which I am prepared to take full responsibility."

CHANGES MADE LIQUOR FUNDS

Hospitals and Pensions no Longer to Benefit From Profits

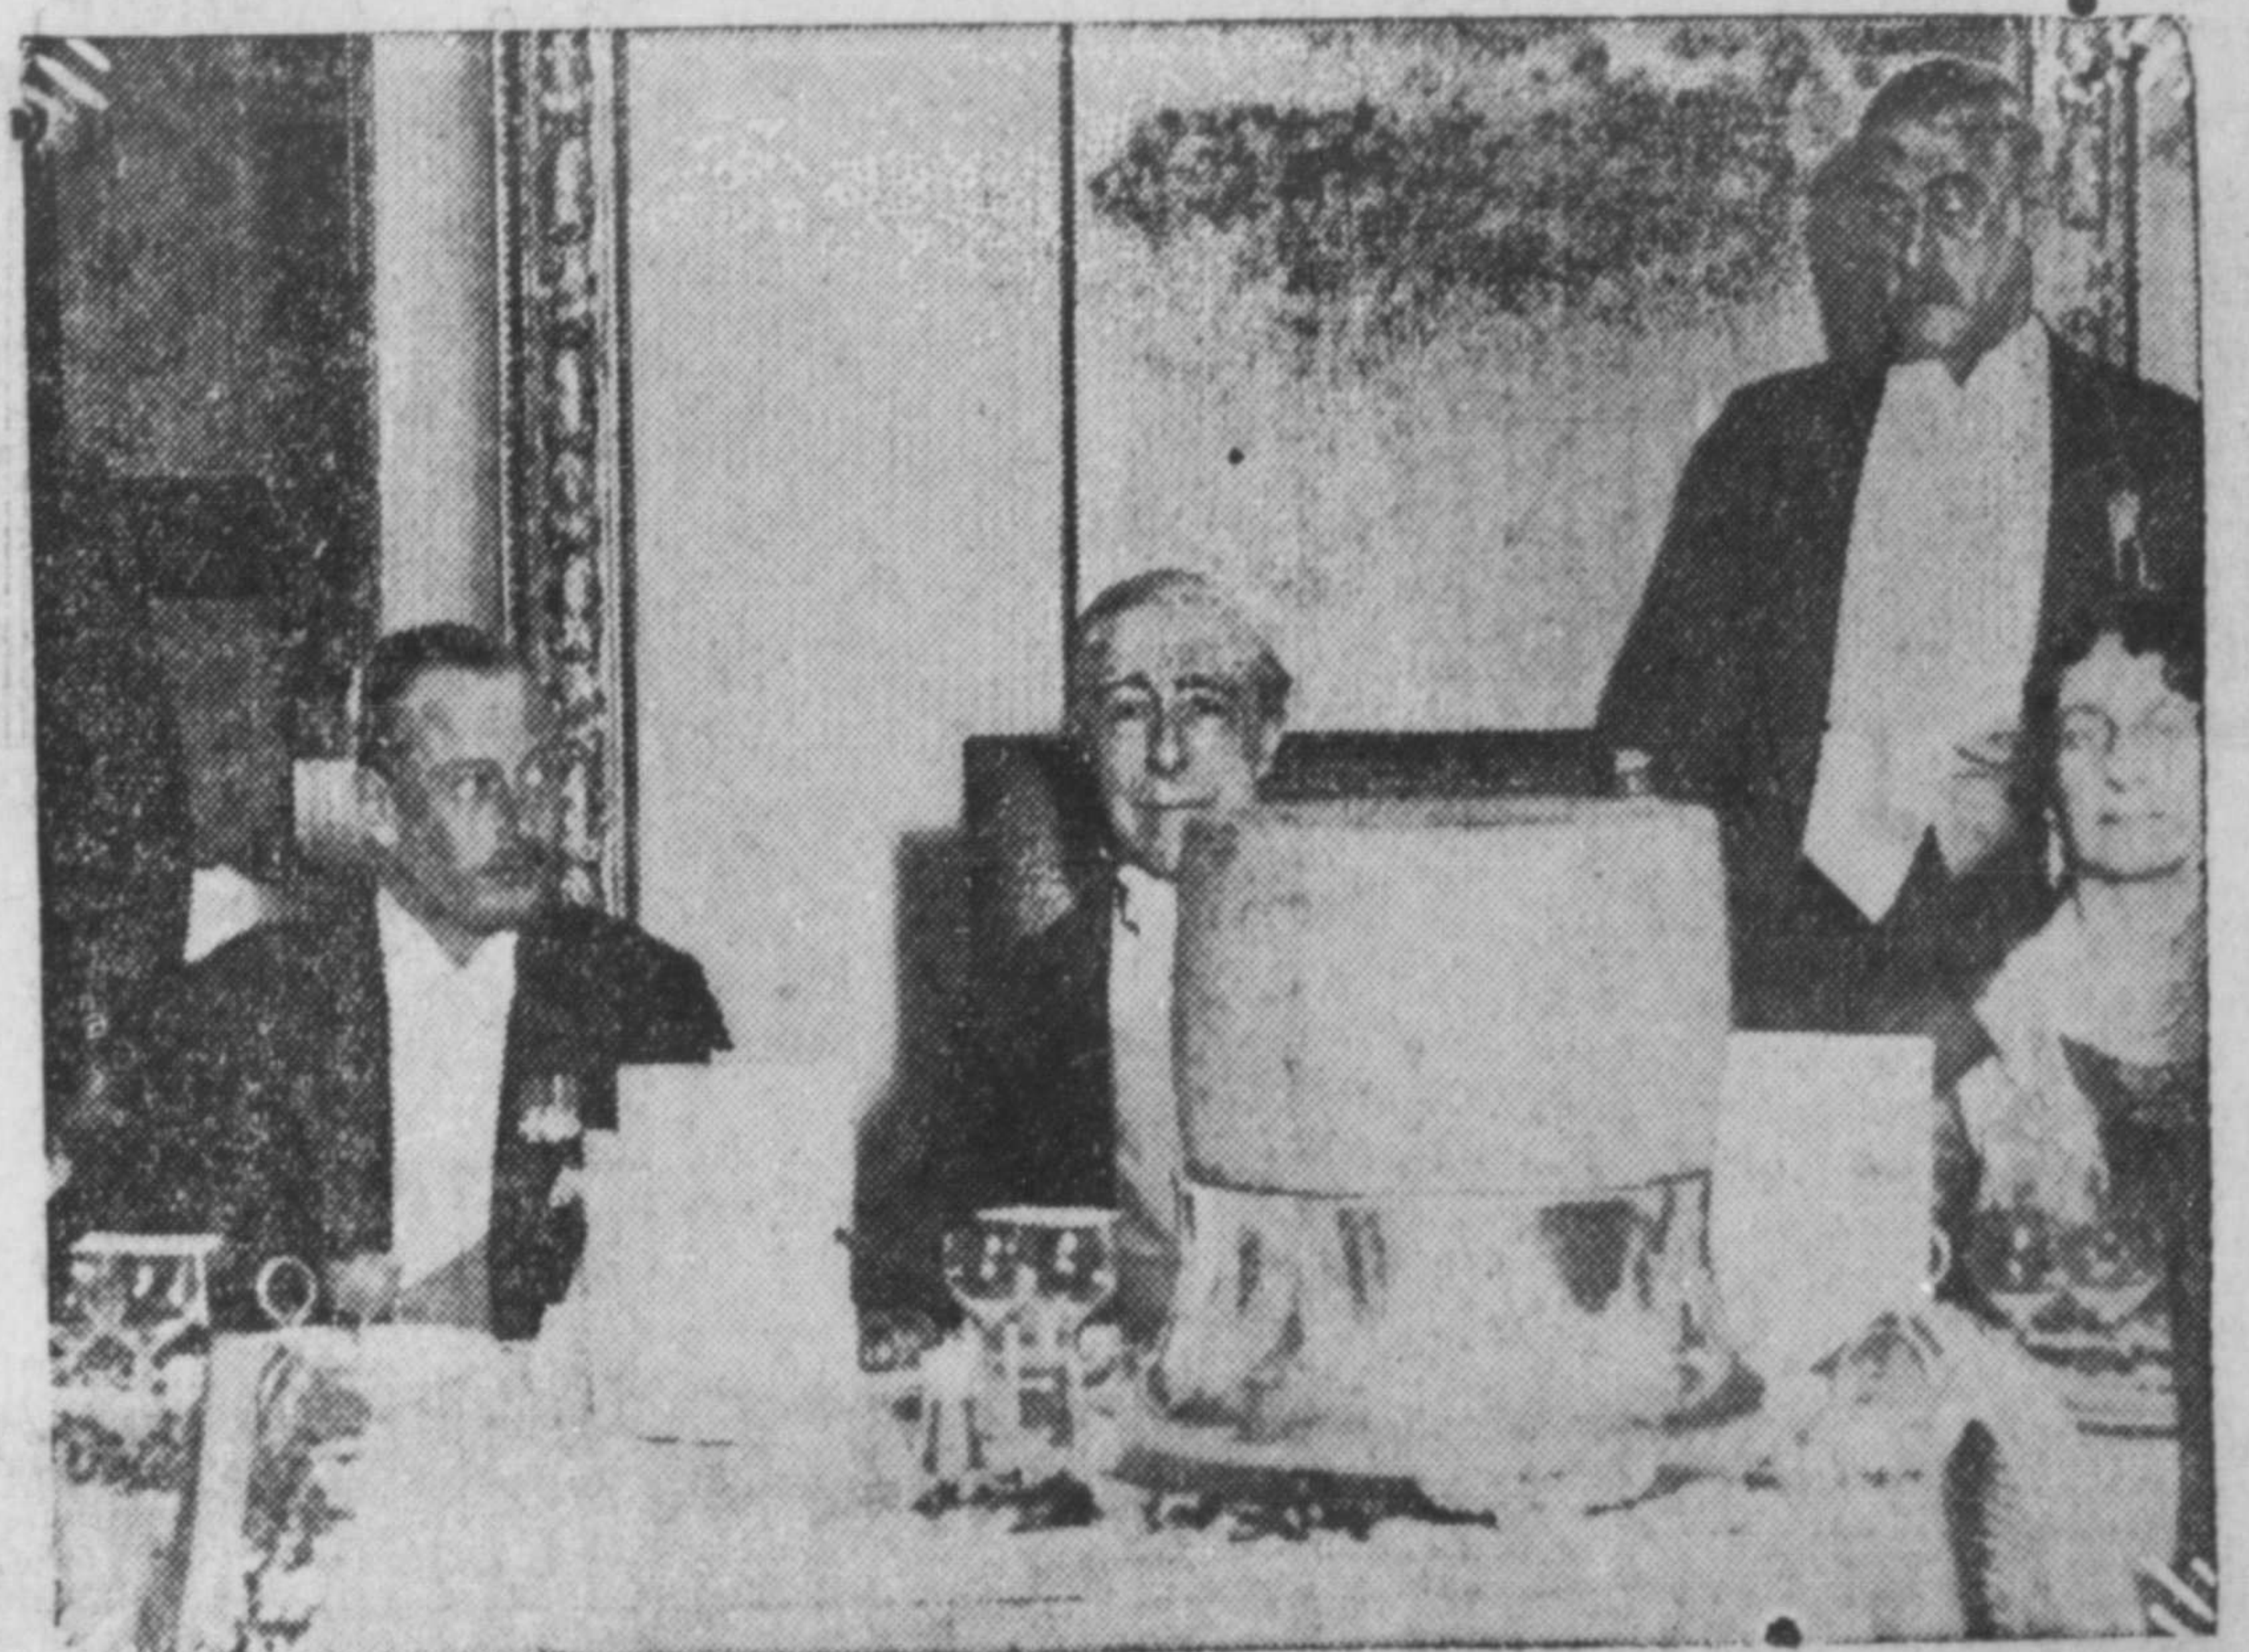

VICTORIA, Mar. 12.—Attorney General Pooley moving the second reading to the bill to amend the Government Liquor Act in the Legislature yesterday afternoon, explained that the amendment was for the purpose of taking away the ear-marking of mothers' pensions and hospital grants from the act entirely. Contributions for these could be taken out of the revenue, he said. Contributions to the municipalities would remain on the same basis as at present.

In Mackenzie, Liberal, declared that the amendment was simply a subterranean method of correcting the estimates which had been falsified. He contended that on the new basis of giving grants to hospitals and municipalities the two would be cheated out of $750,000.

T. D. Pattullo also claimed the amendment simply a government move to cover up inaccuracies in the estimates.

OTTAWA, March 12.—Sir Henry Thornton before the railway committee of the house of commons stated that the matter of a western outlet for the Peace River country was now being considered. It presented difficulties of financing, engineering and traffic, and all these matters were being considered.

D. C. Coleman, vice-president of the C. P. R., expressed the opinion that the acquisition of the Alberta railways would advance the proposal for the building of a western outlet.

Nels Nelson of Revelstoke is undoubtedly the most famous brakeman on the Canadian Pacific Railway but his fame has nothing to do with switching trains or scurrying over the tops of box cars. He is an international figure because he can jump 240 feet through the air on skis. He made this record breaking feat on Mount Revelstoke in 1925, this triumph being the culmination of a life time's devotion to the skiing art to which Nelson took almost as soon as he could walk. He has, apparently, passed the height of career but, nevertheless, he still has no lack of admirers.

Percy Williams, the world's premier sprinter, will show his wares to Montrealers on April 15, when he will take part in an indoor athletic meet at the Forum. The meet is under the auspices of the Montreal Amateur Athletic Association, and it is expected that Jack Elder, the Notre Dame flash, who handed Williams his only defeat of present indoor season, will also compete. Miss Ethel Catherwood, the women's high jumper, champion of the world, will also be present, it is stated.

RAMS BATTLE JASPER PARK

Two Bighorn Charge Each Other Fifty Yards and Repeat Every Minute and Half

BRAINS OF PORCUPINE

Game Warden of Park Chats Interestingly of Things Pertaining to Wild Life There

Not many people have seen a battle between two mountain rams, but H. S. Davis, game warden of Jasper Park, has witnessed such an event and been thrilled with it. He was in the city yesterday and today on his way to spend his holidays in the south and told The Daily News—a few interesting things about Jasper National Park. In telling the story of the battle royal which he saw, Mr. Davis says the animals would start when about 50 yards apart, standing on their hind legs as they approached each other, and just before coming together would go down on all fours and the striking of their heads together was a blow which could be heard for a long distance.

After the blow there was no attempt to follow up or take advantage of the other. Each put down his head and began to nibble the grass, straying apart until they again reached the required distance. Suddenly, as if on a prearranged signal, each would rise up and approach the other again, and after the blow they would seem so stunned that they would not move for a short time. How long they kept it up, Mr. Davis does not know. He watched them for about 20 minutes and they seemed not the least inclined to stop. A blow was struck about every minute and a half.

Increasing in Numbers

The animals are increasing in numbers in Jasper Park, especially the elk and moose. So numerous are they that they do some damage to the golf links in the winter and early spring, treading up the turf. Hunting is good anywhere just outside the park, as the country is fed from the park itself. This year 20 parties were out at one time big game hunting and they did not see each other while away, so big is the country.

Telling of catching a bear for the Calgary zoo, Mr. Davis said they build a wooden box trap lined with sheet iron and laid a trail of honey to it. They had decided on a brown bear as their victim. The first day they tried, Bruin got almost into the box when a herd of elk which were close by were startled by the game warden and went crashing through the bush, frightening the bear from the box and also sending two young bears squealing to the tops of adjacent trees. The following day the bear went right inside and was caught and shipped to his destination.

Several years ago when they shipped two live beaver to Lyons, France, they got a letter from the man in charge of them saying they had been much perturbed by the restlessness of the beaver that wanted to cut down trees all around their new habitation. It was necessary to write and tell the Lyons man that this was the natural thing for beaver to do.

Airplane Parties

During the coming summer Jasper is to be visited by three airplane parties from Los Angeles. The planes go first to Phoenix, Arizona, then visiting the United States National Parks cross the boundary to Calgary, Banff, Lake Louise, and over the mountains to Jasper, where they will land on the aviation field at Henry House flats. From there they fly back to Vancouver and down the coast. The round trip is to cost each of the eight passengers $1275. One comes in July and the other two in August.

Just recently Mr. Davis had looked after the placing of trout eggs in a special hatchery at Juciqua Lake. These eggs were of brook trout, quarter of a million in number, from the state of Pennsylvania.

One interesting visitor to the park that Mr. Davis took in charge a few years ago was Dr. Adolphe Mayer of Johns Hopkins University of Baltimore. He was getting specimens of the brains of the porcupine and other animals. When a porcupine is frightened by the approach of an enemy he gets goose flesh and his quills stand on end, thus protecting himself, just as it is alleged a man's hair will stand on end when he is frightened. It was to see if this was indicated by a difference in the brain that the scientist wanted to examine the animal.

Mr. Davis is a Londoner by birth, but he is no tenderfoot, and he is keenly interested in his work at the park.

Around The World With Sport Fans

(By The Tramp)

Horse racing fans at Tijuana track on St. Patrick's Day should get their fill for once. That is Coffroth handicap day, and a card of 14 races has been arranged. Four will be run off before noon, the program beginning at 10:30 o'clock. Following an adjournment for lunch, the usual 10-race Sunday program, including the Coffroth handicap, will follow. This is said to be the first time so many races, which is practically a double day, have been run at any major western racecourse. On Coffroth Day there are usually thousands of people in the stands by 10 a.m., and it is to provide amusement for these thousands that the extra races are being carded.

Many soccer fans, and especially those who hail from the district in question, will have learned with sincere regret that the directors of the Bathgate, a club in the Second Division of the Scottish League, have found it necessary to resign from the league, owing to financial difficulties. The fact that Armadale and Clydebank, two other Second Division clubs, are reported to be in a precarious position gives some indication of the problems which confront many clubs taking part in this class of soccer. Bathgate have apparently fallen on evil days, and cannot draw crowds. Combined with the fact that it is at the foot of the league, it is also in close proximity to two First Division clubs—Hearts and Hibs. This, too, is an important factor. It is invariably the case that when a club cannot field a team that includes a few players who are above the average the necessary support is lacking.

The unfortunate part is that wealthy First League English clubs have been making a "clean sweep" of Scottish stars by offering attractive inducements which few clubs in Scotland can afford to consider. With the exception of the Rangers and one or two other clubs, there are few that can afford to field teams "above average." In the last analysis the Second Division clubs are suffering the hardest part of the consequent reaction. When old clubs like Bathgate, that have contributed much to Scottish soccer, find it necessary to retire, the Scottish Association should take immediate action to set "their house in order." The action taken should ensure the future welfare of the game in all divisions, and steps should be taken to find a solution which will check, to an appreciable extent, the hectic demand for Scottish stars across the border. If such a solution is not found Scottish soccer is bound to suffer a severe setback in the not too distant future. There is something wrong with a system which permits one country to scoop the cream while another has to be content with the skim.

CONSTITUTIONAL QUESTION

According to the brief dispatch received here, the governor-general of Canada sent a personal message to the president of the United States on the occasion of his inauguration. The explanation given by Premier King when questioned in regard to it by the leader of the opposition, R. B. Bennett, seemed to indicate that it had been sent without first consulting the government, but the premier at once came to the rescue of his excellency and took full responsibility for it.

Most people will understand that the governor-general cannot move or turn officially without taking the advice of his first minister. The governor is not responsible for his acts. The prime minister is the man who is responsible.

When the Prince of Wales went to visit the miners in the north of England, it would be done on the advice of his responsible ministers, even though at the time the prince was not officially the head of the government.

Under the British constitution, parliament, as represented by its executive head, is supreme. In Canada Premier Mackenzie King is the responsible minister, and the governor cannot act in any official manner without first consulting with him. Should he do so his recall would be asked at once. The Canadian constitution in matters of procedure is patterned on that of Great Britain and the governor-general is in Canada representing the King.

Hon. R. B. Bennett must have had some doubt as to whether the governor-general was acting constitutionally or not, or he would not have asked the question in parliament. If the governor acted without proper advice, it is pretty sure he will not do it again when he sees the Canadian people so keen to preserve their constitutional rights.

CENSORING PICTURE ADVERTISING

Hon. R. H. Pooley is going out of his way to make himself unpopular with the press and pictures by trying to force through the legislature a measure providing for the censoring of moving picture advertising. Both the newspaper and moving picture businesses are already sufficiently handicapped without having them further put under the power of an attorney-general.

We object chiefly to the measure in that it is the opening wedge leading to unscrupulous party control of the press, which may in its final stage prove not only objectionable to the newspapers, but contrary to the best interests of the mass of the people. In Russia there is a controlled press which does not dare to advocate freedom of religion, of political life, or any other basic democratic principle. Against any such system here we must be on our guard and nip in the bud any attempt to initiate state control.

POLITICIAN OR STATESMAN?

(Vancouver Sun)

President Herbert Hoover of United States has called an extra session of congress to make changes in the tariff.

What President Hoover asks of congress will stamp him either as a politician subservient to the pig-headed high-tariff fetiches of Republican party leaders, or as a statesman devoted to the economic welfare of humanity, according to the broad promises laid down in his South American speeches.

American farmers ask for a 100 per cent increase in the tariff on cattle. They ask for a 250 per cent increase in the tariff on meats.

If Herbert Hoover is going to be a politician and for political advantage build another layer on the tariff wall against Canadian products, the parliament of Canada will undoubtedly take up his challenge and impose relative tariffs against American goods.

What, for instance, would be the effect on American farmers if American farm implement manufacturers had to take out of the pockets of American farmers the $40,000,000 a year which they now net on implement sales in Canada?

What would be the effect on American business if Canada's purchases from United States of nearly a billion dollars a year were drastically curtailed by increased Canadian tariffs?

What will be the effect on American business if Canada's purchasing power is seriously impaired by American tariffs that cause industrial depression in this country?

President Hoover stands between cheap politics and worthy statesmanship. He stands between economic co-operation with Canada or economic war with Canada.

Which will it be?

PRISON LIFE
MAKES WRITER

Man Who Passes as "Murphy" Earned $7000 Last Year in Literary Work

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Mar. 12.—A man whose identity has been hidden for five years behind a convict's number, walked through the gates of Ohio Penitentiary, March 1, free to wage a fight to regain his place in society and to follow, if he can, in the footsteps of O. Henry.

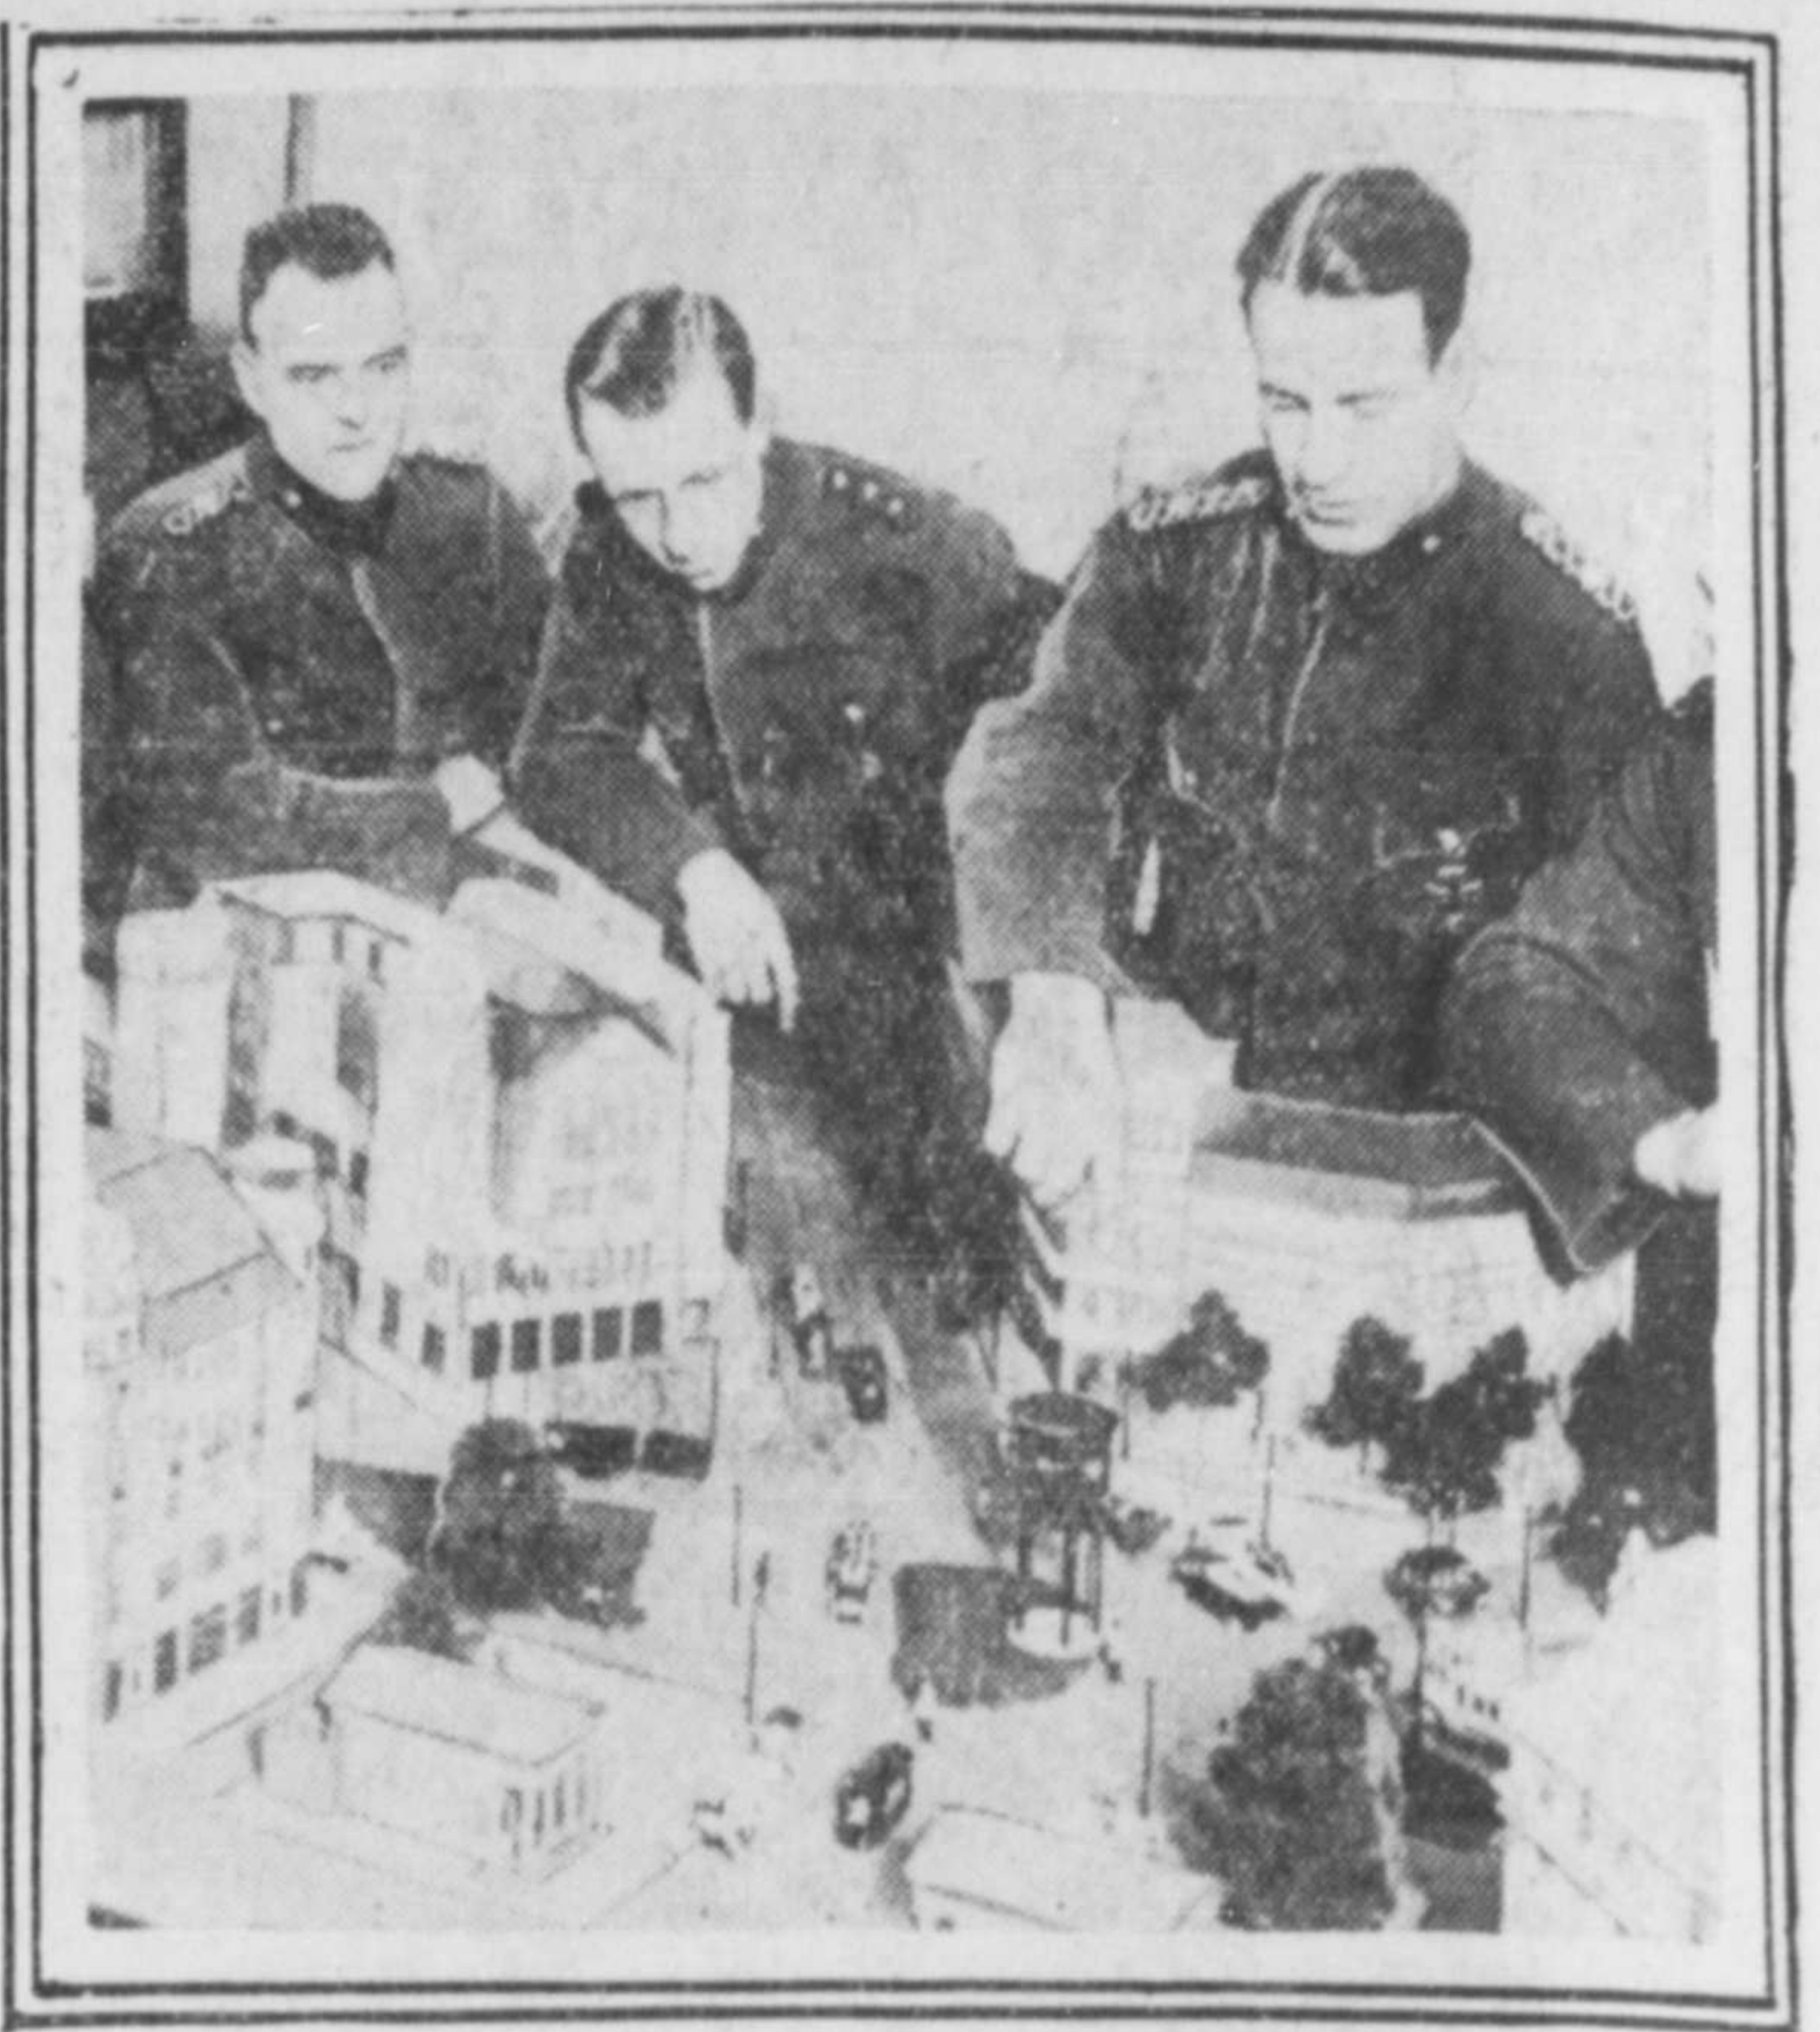

For five years he had been on the prison records as John Murphy, alias Stewart, and prison officials have let it go at that. For almost five years they have turned over to him cheques that bore a name unlike "John Murphy, alias Stewart," but the record stands. He was John Murphy, alias Stewart, when he came to the penitentiary and when he leaves he will go under that name.

"Murphy" was received at the penitentiary from Marion County in October, 1923, convicted of burglary and sentenced to a term of five to ten years. Assigned to the prison library, he delved into the books there and put in his spare time writing. His first short story was accepted with a request for more. Since then he has written steadily, and not long ago his work came to the attention of former Governor Vic Donahey. The Governor commuted his sentence to expire at the discretion of the clemency board. The board set March 1 as the date.

"Before I entered the penitentiary I had never attempted to write," Murphy told a newspaper reporter. "I have gotten my background from the stories available to me in the prison library, building on their suggestion and my own experience to make the plot for my stories."

"Murphy" said his writings brought him more than $7,000 in 1928. His writings were carried on through the help of prison officials, who permitted him to work at night and purchased materials for him with money he earned through his writings.

WONDERS OF THE UNIVERSE

Scientist Says There is Endless Succession of Systems of Stars

TELESCOPES LIMITED

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Mar. 12.—Einstein's latest theory that the universe is finite, although admirably stated and helpful to astronomy, cannot be regarded as the last word in science, the leading Swedish astronomer, Professor Lundmark of Lund University, stated in a recent interview. He added that during his work of registering and cataloguing about 30,000 nebulae, or 30th of all the known ones, he had come to the conclusion that there is an endless succession of milky ways, or huge stellar systems, although the astronomic telescopes cannot catch them. In fact, the power of the telescopes almost seem to have reached their maximum limit, as well as the human ability of grasping this infinite series of celestial systems.

As regards the earth, its career is rather humiliating, the professor humorously remarked, first having been looked upon as the centre of everything, then reduced to a footman of the sun, which in its turn was later on discovered to be a tiny part in the milky way system, and now the milky way is found to be only a section of a group, the members of which according to certain laws maintain a fixed distance between each other.

The question of how the earth will perish Prof. Lundmark answered by saying that when such a thing happens it will be due to an explosion in the gas ball, which is called the sun, an explosion which will last only 24 hours and put an end to an existence of more than a thousand millions of years. Parallels to such a phenomenon are frequently seen when new stars flash up and disappear. The sun will probably then within a few million years contract and then once more perhaps give rise to a new culture.

In a lecture delivered before the astronomical society of Stockholm Prof. Lundmark exposed his method of measuring the enormous distances of the far away stellar systems. In the Andromeda nebulae, for instance, new stars flash forth, and by comparing the maximum light on these flashes with the corresponding ones of the milky way, the distance of the Andromeda nebulae is found to be one million light years.

In reply to questions by the interviewer as regards the possibility of the existence of living beings on the planets, the professor emphasized that, although we may never be able to find the answer to that question, the possibility of organic life on the planets should not be denied. In that case, however, the inhabitants of Mars would have a much harder existence than the Polar Eskimos of the earth. It is not impossible that life may exist on Venus, for although this planet always seems to turn the same side towards the sun, which side thus must be glowing while the other one is chilled, there may be a temperate zone, where life may be able to exist.

INSPECTOR'S VISIT BRIEF FOR THE WEEK RADIO PROGRAM STATION KOMO

Number of Causes of Radio Trouble Were Detected by A. L. Gray While Here

The visit of A. L. Gray, radio inspector, was a very brief one, but it proved quite fruitful, a number of unexpected sources of trouble having been detected by him while here. He went out one day with Gunnar Anderson of the city utilities department and D. C. McRae, president of the Prince Rupert Radio Association, and as a result a good deal of overhauling will be done of various centres of annoyance.

A number of local radio people who have had troubles were disappointed that they did not meet Mr. Gray, but the Radio Association officials here are confident that a great deal of benefit will accrue to the city as a result of his visit. He went from here to Prince George.

SHORT WAVE RECEPTION

Experimental Radio Station, V. E. 5 G. N., Savory, B.C.

March 7, 1929

Editor, Daily News, Prince Rupert.

Having read your paper of 26th ulto regarding the various short wave stations received by Mr. Eastman of your city, I beg to say that I received the same acknowledgment from 5 S. W., Chelmeford, as he refers to, and certainly the British Broadcasting Company should be a little more enthusiastic over their colonial listeners.

I receive the Dutch concerts here as well as the stations Mr. Eastman mentions. I also find that when reception on the broadcast band is impossible the old reliable is nearly always available i.e. Winnipeg, Pittsburg and Schenectady. My receiver is also home-made and that signals from 20-35 are stronger using a ground only and no aerial. 5 S. W. may be heard on the loud speaker (3 tubes) when reception is good using no aerial. Trusting these few remarks interest you, and would like any reports from my 85 meter transmitter (voice and code).

Yours very truly,

K. M. RAYNER.

ROOSEVELT FIELD IS TO BECOME A GREAT AIRDROME

NEW YORK, March 12. —Roosevelt Field, starting point of many a history making trans-Atlantic flight, is to be converted into a $1,500,000 airdrome.

Backers of the project say they are prepared to spend that amount to equip and develop the field, which they plan to purchase. The field, now in the hands of a real estate company, is 381 acres in area.

A marker commemorating Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's New York to Paris flight will be erected in the heart of the airdrome, near the spot from which he took off. Plans include two huge concrete steel hangars, each 1100 feet long with a half mile of concrete aprons 150 feet wide. Workshops, service stations, an administration building, flood and boundary lights, beacons and other equipment for night flying are included in the project.

A stub mast for dirigibles will be added later to make the airdrome suitable for both lighter-than-air and heavier-than-air operations.

INTERNATIONAL BOUNDARY

The International Boundary between Canada and the United States, including Alaska, is 5,500 miles in length, and the task of permanently maintaining this boundary in a state of effective demarcation was made one of the functions of the International Boundary Commission by a treaty signed in Washington on February 24, 1925.

USE OF RADIO IN NEW YORK

Message Sent to South Pole and Back to Reach Man Few Miles Away

(Edmonton Journal)

Short wave radio has stepped into the picture with as unique a demonstration of how different today is from yesterday as has yet been given. The other day the New York Times sent a radio message 13,000 miles to get the chap at the other end to send a radio call back 13,000 miles to a man three miles away to get him to hang up his telephone receiver.

Sounds silly, doesn't it? But it is vouched for by the Times itself. This is how it happened. Every evening the Times gets over its short wave radio installation a long distance message from Commander Byrd, ice locked near the South Pole. The operator, however, found that interference around the Times building was so great that it was difficult to pick up the messages. He discovered that in his own home in Astoria, just across the East river from Manhattan, they came in so clearly that, by placing a telephone receiver near his radio set, the dots and dashes could be relayed to the office and escape all the interference. So the operator worked his set at his home and another operator copied the despatches in the telegraph room of the Times.

One evening, however, the newspaper wanted to talk to an employee in Astoria. It couldn't raise him because the phone receiver was off the hook. So it had the operator in the Times building flash a radio message to the ship in the Antarctic ice.

Two minutes later the man in Astoria called up the Times office and said, "Byrd says you want to talk to me."

SHORT WAVE NOT SUITABLE

Local Man With Experience Says Purely Experimental So Far and Not Reliable

The discussion on the short wave in these columns has brought about a good deal of interest in what is being done in that respect locally. Felix Batt, who has been using it for a long time, states that it is not anything to take the place of the long wave, at any rate, not at present. He says it is purely experimental just now and he would not advise any one to get a set expecting results, as they do with the commercial sets. Those who want something simple to operate and to give good results should buy one of the sets being offered for sale by reliable dealers.

FISHER BODY
STYLE AND VALUE STANDARD OF THE WORLD

BY DOLLAR MEASUREMENT
CARS WITH BODY BY FISHER
ARE WORTH MUCH MORE

Fisher Body confers upon any car a value far beyond anything offered in comparison. The actual dollars and cents measurement of this greater value varies, of course, with the cost of the car, but it is always impressively large in proportion to that cost. In the case of McLaughlin-Buick, it amounts to several hundred dollars in concrete, tangible return for the money invested. You can see this greater value in the richness and superior quality of the upholstering, the paneling, the finish, the fittings, the seating luxury and the coachwork in general. As a matter of fact, the McLaughlin-Buick, in point of body luxury and value, takes rank with the highest priced cars outside the General Motors Group. Comparison also places the other General Motors cars relatively as far ahead of their respective fields. Only General Motors and Fisher combine the manufacturing elements necessary to such unprecedented value in a motor car body. Fully to realize the superiority in every phase of Fisher Body, compare the Fisher Body cars listed below in any price field, with any other car in that field. Only then will you be in a position to judge motor car values. Fisher Body value is so evident that it is at once apparent—but it becomes even more impressive upon point-by-point comparison. Make such comparisons at your first opportunity.

Former Lieutenant-Governor of Manitoba, whose death occurred suddenly at Winnipeg. Sir James was a distinguished member of the Canadian Bar.

Man in the Moon

There are all kinds of reformers but I never heard of one who was trying to abolish what we all hate—having to get up in the morning.

I once got up at eight o'clock And it was awful early. I could not get to school on time And have my head all curly.

In later years I rose at seven And it was early too I envied those who rose at ten They were the chosen few.

And now I'm old and stay in bed As long as you could wish And I would like to rise at five Or earlier if you wish.

Jake says the only time he likes to get up early is when he goes hunting or fishing. Then mostly the bed is so uncomfortable he hates to stay in it.

Winston Churchill says England is the most wonderful island in the whole world. And I venture the opinion that Prince Rupert is the most wonderful city in the whole world. There is certainly none like it.

If you're feelin' tired and blue And you don't know what to do, Do nothin'.

If your appetite's not right, And your waistband's gettin' tight, Stop stuffin'.

If your plans are awry, And you feel you want to cry, Go fishin'.

If you can't see far ahead, And wish that you were dead, Stop wishin'.

If you know you talk too much, And your neighbor's feelin' touch, Stop talkin'.

If your nerves are all askew, There is one good thing to do, Go walkin'.

If you're runnin' into debt, And can't pay for what you get, Stop buyin'.

If you'd like to reach the top, And are just about to stop, Keep tryin'.

—Grenville Kleiser.

CANADIAN SAINTS TO BE CREATED BY CATHOLIC CHURCH

Canonization of the Jesuit Martyrs to Be Completed and Mother Catherine

TORONTO, March 11.—Of interest to Roman Catholics in Canada, and especially in this city, is a statement published in the Toronto Star.

"News despatches from Rome to the effect that several Canadian saints are to be created by the pope are interpreted by Catholic clergy in this city to mean that the Jesuit martyrs who were beatified in 1927 will this year probably have their canonization completed.

"It is possible also that the canonization of several other Canadian saints will be commenced and their beatification made. It is said that among these may be the founder of the Order of the Precious Blood, who was many years a resident of the Precious Blood Convent on St. Alban Street, Toronto.

"Some of the older sisters of the community recall the time Mother Catherine spent in Toronto. They declare that she was privileged with the stigmata which, according to a Roman Catholic authority, is the privilege of suffering as our Lord did during His crucifixion from wounds in the hands and feet and side of the body. The suffering usually comes at 3 o'clock every Friday, and it is a sign that the person afflicted is one of God's favorites. It is an evidence after their death that they enjoy a high place in heaven. Sister Pherese, "The Little Flower," who was recently canonized, suffered the stigmata during her life."

This afternoon's train, due from the east at 3:30, was reported this morning to be on time.

THIRD OF SERIES OF CHINA PAPERS

Mr. Gair Was Speaker Last Night
Before United Church
Young People

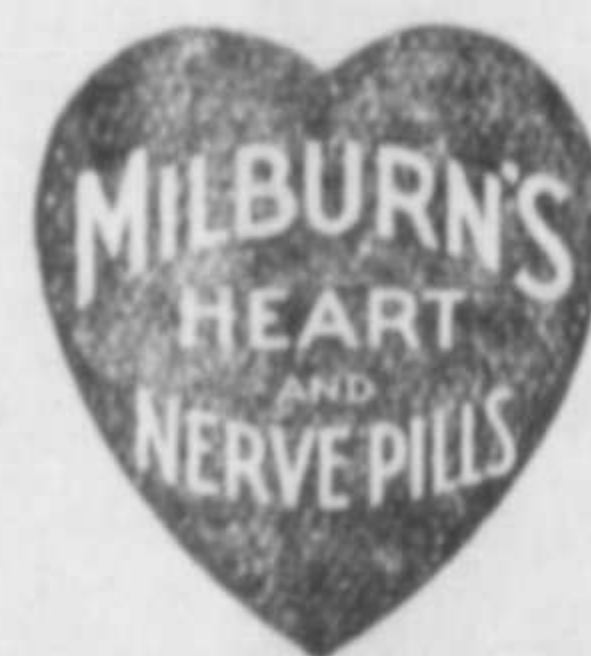

The Young People's Society of First United Church met last night in the church, the third of a series of papers on China being given by Mr. Gair. His subject was "Pioneering in China" and he dealt to some extent with the valuable work being done in that country by medical missionaries and evangelists. George H. Stocks, president of the Society, occupied the chair and there was a good attendance of members.

At the close of the evening's proceedings, a badminton tournament was played.
