The wheat from this whole country would come west if the western outlet were constructed and Prince Rupert is likely to handle a great deal of it.

Captain Ludvig Thorlodsater, a sea captain, who recently turned to fishing as a calling and who was making his first trip in the new boat built in April especially for the work, stated that he was charged with being inside the limit, but he did not think he was that close. He had salmon in the boat when taken. It was the first time he had ever fished. His boat is a neat fifteen-ton troller.

Canada Figured in Empire Day Speech of British Statesman Before Chamber of Commerce

"I see no rift whatever in any corner of the Empire," the minister declared in the course of his address. He said he didn't know where in any part of the world could be found an advance comparable to the enormous advance Canada has made, not only in agriculture, but in the production of manufactured goods.

Empire Day was celebrated generally throughout the British Isles. Premier Baldwin addressed an enormous gathering in Hyde Park. The premier said: "When we meet together in equal freedom, we are united by common allegiance to the King, and in that unity lies our strength."

Twenty-One Inning Baseball Game Between Detroit Tigers Chicago White Sox Yesterday

NEW YORK, May 25.—The Detroit Tigers and Chicago White Sox hooked up in the most spectacular battle of the major leagues so far this season, the Tigers finally coming out on top after 21 innings of nerve-wrecking baseball. Roy McNaughton Had to Drive Bighorn Sheep Off Golf Course at Seventh Tee, Jasper Park

It is not often that it becomes necessary to shoo mountain sheep of the fairway when playing golf, but that is what R. F. McNaughton, district passenger agent at Prince Rupert had to do during his recent visit to Jasper National Park when attending a convention there. He was about to tee off at the seventh hole when he found the fairway blocked by a bighorn ram, several ewes and a number of lambs, and it became necessary to drive them off the course. The sheep did not wish to go and it was only when the players approached to within thirty feet that they moved off.

Mr. McNaughton, who returned to the city Thursday afternoon, says the conference was very successful. Among those present was George McNicholl of Vancouver. R. Creelman presided.

PROMINENT FIGURES IN SPORT

Written Especially for the Daily News by the Sports Editor

CONNIE MACK
Manager of Philadelphia Athletics

Cornelius McGillicuddy, better known as Connie Mack, manager of the Philadelphia Athletics, is one of the record holders in the Big Leagues as far as length of service with one club is concerned. He has been manager of the Athletics ever since that club was organized one year after the formation of the American League in 1900, and he is still going strong. He became famous as the builder and wrecker of one of baseball's greatest playing machines between 1910 and 1914. Ending up last year in second place and bidding strong this year for the pennant, there is a general feeling among experts today that Mack has built up another champion machine after nursing it along in the second division most of the time for over a decade, seven years of which he spent in the cellar.

The old Philadelphia Athletics were generally rated as the most brilliant mechanical combination ever turned out. Their success was so consistent and decisive that home fans lost interest and patronage fell off so Mack broke up and scattered his great creation after its crushing defeat by Boston-Braves in the 1914 world series. This was not, however, until after the Athletics had won the American League pennants in 1901, 1905, 1910, 1911, 1913 and 1914. In three of those years they won the World Series.

Born in East Brookfield, Mass., December 23, 1862, the son of an Irish immigrant, Mack had to go to work at an early age to help support a large family. In leisure hours, he developed into a clever baseball catcher and, at the age of 21, got a job with the Meridian Club, going to Hartford in 1885. In 1887 he joined the old Washington Nationals and was at Buffalo for a while before going to the Pittsburgh Pirates where he had his first managerial assignment, though not with much success. In 1896 he shifted his fortunes to the Milwaukee team of the old Western League as catcher and manager and had Milwaukee in the newly formed American League in 1900. In 1901, Mack transferred the Milwaukee franchise to Philadelphia, retiring then a playing manager and assuming the role of bench director.

Unusually tall, Mack has never smoked and seldom drank and is a strict church member though a genial individual.

FIRES IMAGINATION

The big immigration scheme of General McRae is one to fire the imagination. It is picturesque. To add two million people to the population is something much to be desired, but they must be absorbed as they come.

We do not like to wet blanket any genuine scheme for the betterment of Canada, but we are of opinion that thirty million dollars is too much for the country to pay for new population. We doubt if assisted immigration is of much value. There will be plenty of people want to come to Canada soon without our paying for settling them. Our population is growing and we are making definite progress. To spend a huge sum on an enormous settlement scheme is certainly not a conservative measure.

PEACE RIVER ARTICLES

Today we publish the last of a series of articles on the Peace River country which have been read with much interest by a great many people. The same articles have been published on the same days by the Edmonton Journal and the Vancouver Province. They give a first hand and impartial idea of what is going on in that great district with which we hope to be closely associated. We are glad to have been in a position to secure them and give our readers the benefit.

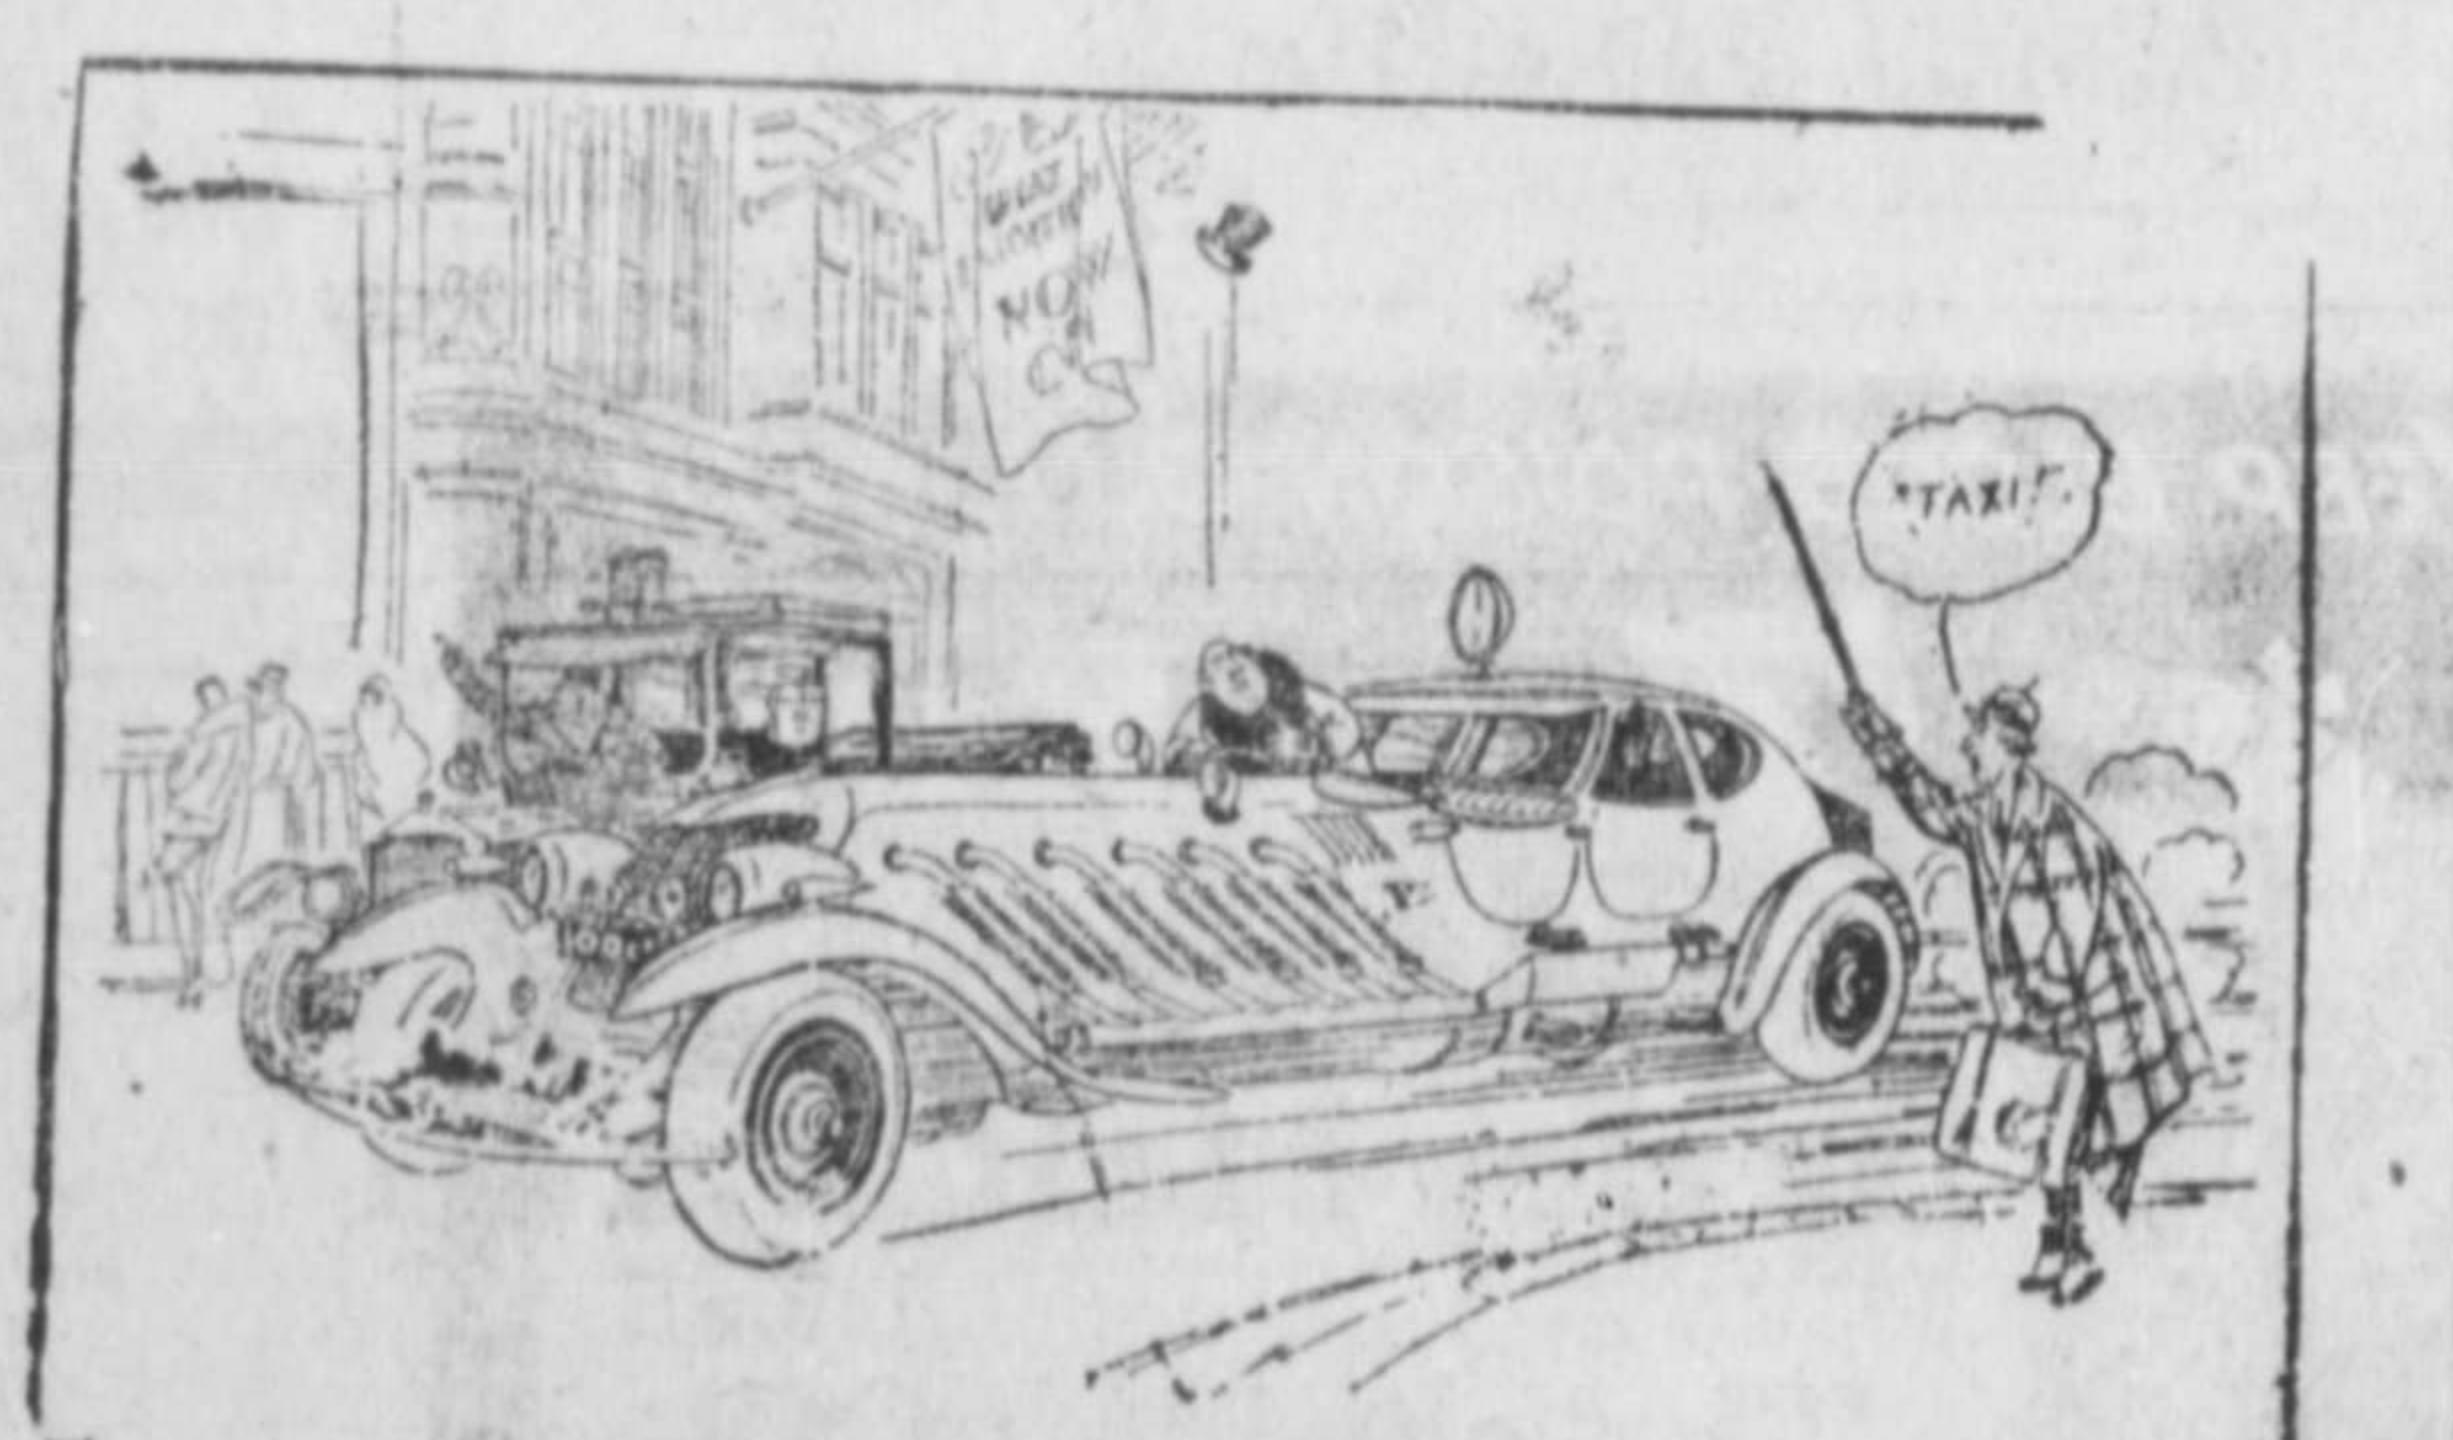

CAT PSYCHOLOGY

Students of psychology should study cats. From them much may be learned in regard to the mental attitude affecting success. As a striking example the editor has a cat which ordinarily runs away from a dog, scampering up a tree or post upon the approach of the enemy and supplying many of the canines of the neighborhood with excellent sport every time they pass the house.

But the cat is not always the victim of the sporting proclivities of the neighborhood dogs. The arrival of a batch of kittens changes her mental attitude. Her outlook on life is different. She no longer fears dogs and it is doubtful if she would run, even from a bear. Not only does she stand her ground, but she becomes the assailant instead of the assailed. She follows dogs ten times her size and if they do not hurry out of the yard she leaps on their back and they go howling over the fence and down the street without so much as a look behind. Pussy then returns proudly with tail in the air and with perfect poise, turning now and then to see that no other enemy is in sight, mistress of the situation. Very soon the neighborhood dogs learn that she is not a cat to be chased and look the other way when passing the house.

But when the kittens have gone everything is again changed. The dogs seem to know of their absence, raid the place with impunity and the old cat scampers away as if she was the most fearful creature in the world.

What causes the change? It is undoubtedly a change in the mental attitude. In one case the cat is whipped before she begins. Her very demeanor indicates it. In the other victory is in her mind. Her very attitude is a warning to enemies and she knows that she is in a position to follow it up. She is no bluffer. Yet without the mental stimulus of being a mother she is whipped from the start.

This is one of a series of six articles by H. F. Mullet dealing with the rapid concentration of settlers in Canada's great "inland empire," the Peace River district.
 (Special to The Daily News and the Edmonton Journal—Copyright)

By H. F. MULLETT

EDMONTON, May 24. — In the fall of 1923 there were 22 elevators in the whole of the Peace River country. On March 1, 1929, there were 120 elevators—and more are building.

The total crop of all grains in 1924 was 3,795,180 bushels, of which wheat was 1,039,500 bushels. The 1927 crop of all grains was 10,805,630 bushels (wheat 4,665,350 bushels), while the 1928 crop, with a year of exceptional dryness followed by killing frosts, was 8,531,200 bushels despite this handicap.

In 1924 a total of 169,370 acres was under cultivation. In 1928—only four years after—the acreage under crop had risen to 354,935. While in the same year 69,352 acres were in summer fallow, and there were 50,000 acres of new breaking.

And with these instances of remarkable growth have come instances of remarkable success—incidents, too, while they may not spell success in terms of high annual income, spell it in the equally magical terms of contentment and happiness.

There is, for instance, L. H. Miller from Missouri, the pioneer, who named the town of Rolla after his home town.

We found Mr. Miller and his wife busy cleaning up the grounds of the fine new frame house he built last fall on his original homestead, half a mile from Rolla, part of the townsite being, in fact, on his land.

"I came here from Rolla, Missouri 17 years ago," Mr. Miller said, "and when they wanted to give the post office a name, I was asked, as the first settler, to suggest some suitable ones, and they chose Rolla, the name of my old home town."

Four of Mr. Miller's sons homesteaded around him. Two served overseas during the world war—and only one came back. The land of their adoption, good enough to live in, was also good enough to fight for.

"We had a hard time during the post-war period," Mr. Miller admitted. "We were far from the railroad, prices slumped, and local demand fell away to nothing. But it's different these days, with good roads and lots of trucks to haul produce, and people coming into the country the way they are doing now."

Then there was the man who yearned for trees.

"Prairie—prairie everywhere—no trees, scarce even a bush. Twenty years of prairie—and I got fed up. I'm going where there's trees, see I to myself—an' here I am."

Bill Brice, ex-Kansas, loose-jointed and raw-boned, leaned for a moment on his axe, wiped the beads of sweat from his seamed face, and smiled contentedly.

We had noted, out on one of the roads beyond the end of steel at Hythe, a tattered old tent leaning it bravely over a cluster of newly-cut tree stumps—a dilapidated car—a weather-beaten wagon and some rusty farm gear, and we "hopped over" to pay a call.

"Sure, I'm content. May take me ten years to clear enough of this place to make a real livin', but I'll have a farm here one of these days, an' in the meantime, it don't take much to keep me and Rags here; do it, dawg?"

Rags rolled a bright red tongue in answer, and stretched his length in the warm sunshine. "A dog's life, ain't it?" his humorous eye seemed to say to us.

There are the Brainards, Mr. and Mrs. W. L., who keep the famous stopping house 14 miles out of Hythe.

"We've been here eleven years," said Mr. Brainard, a jolly and humorous philosopher despite his crutches, "and there's been more gear pass along this road, and more settlers, in the last eight or nine months, than all the rest of the eleven years put together."

The Brainards came from Montana to Richdale, in southern Alberta, but the Peace River country claimed them, and they have no regrets. They farmed for 22 years in Montana.

"This is one of the finest countries in either the United States or Canada," declared the genial old philosopher, "and it's one of the finest producing countries outdoors. Settlers? why, say—there'll be a house on every quarter section round here in the next three months."

It was on the road to Fairview that we overtook Lloyd Bean, Mrs. Bean, Dorothy, and the prairie schooner.

Jogging along the road, a happy and self-contained little family carrying their home right with them on four wheels, this indeed seems to be the real way to see the country.

Mr. Bean was born in Colorado, but came to western Canada as a youngster. He lived in the Rimby district of central Alberta, and last year, decided to "go north, young man." So he got a homestead 35 miles beyond Fairview, on the Fort St. John trail, and when we saw him was jogging contentedly along heading out for the homestead.

"We figured it was a good place to locate," Mr. Bean said. "We like the country fine, and are looking forward to seeing it grow up all around us." Mrs. Bean's brother, Jack Ostrem, from Minnesota, has the adjoining homestead, and another brother may join them, too, so they won't be lonesome.

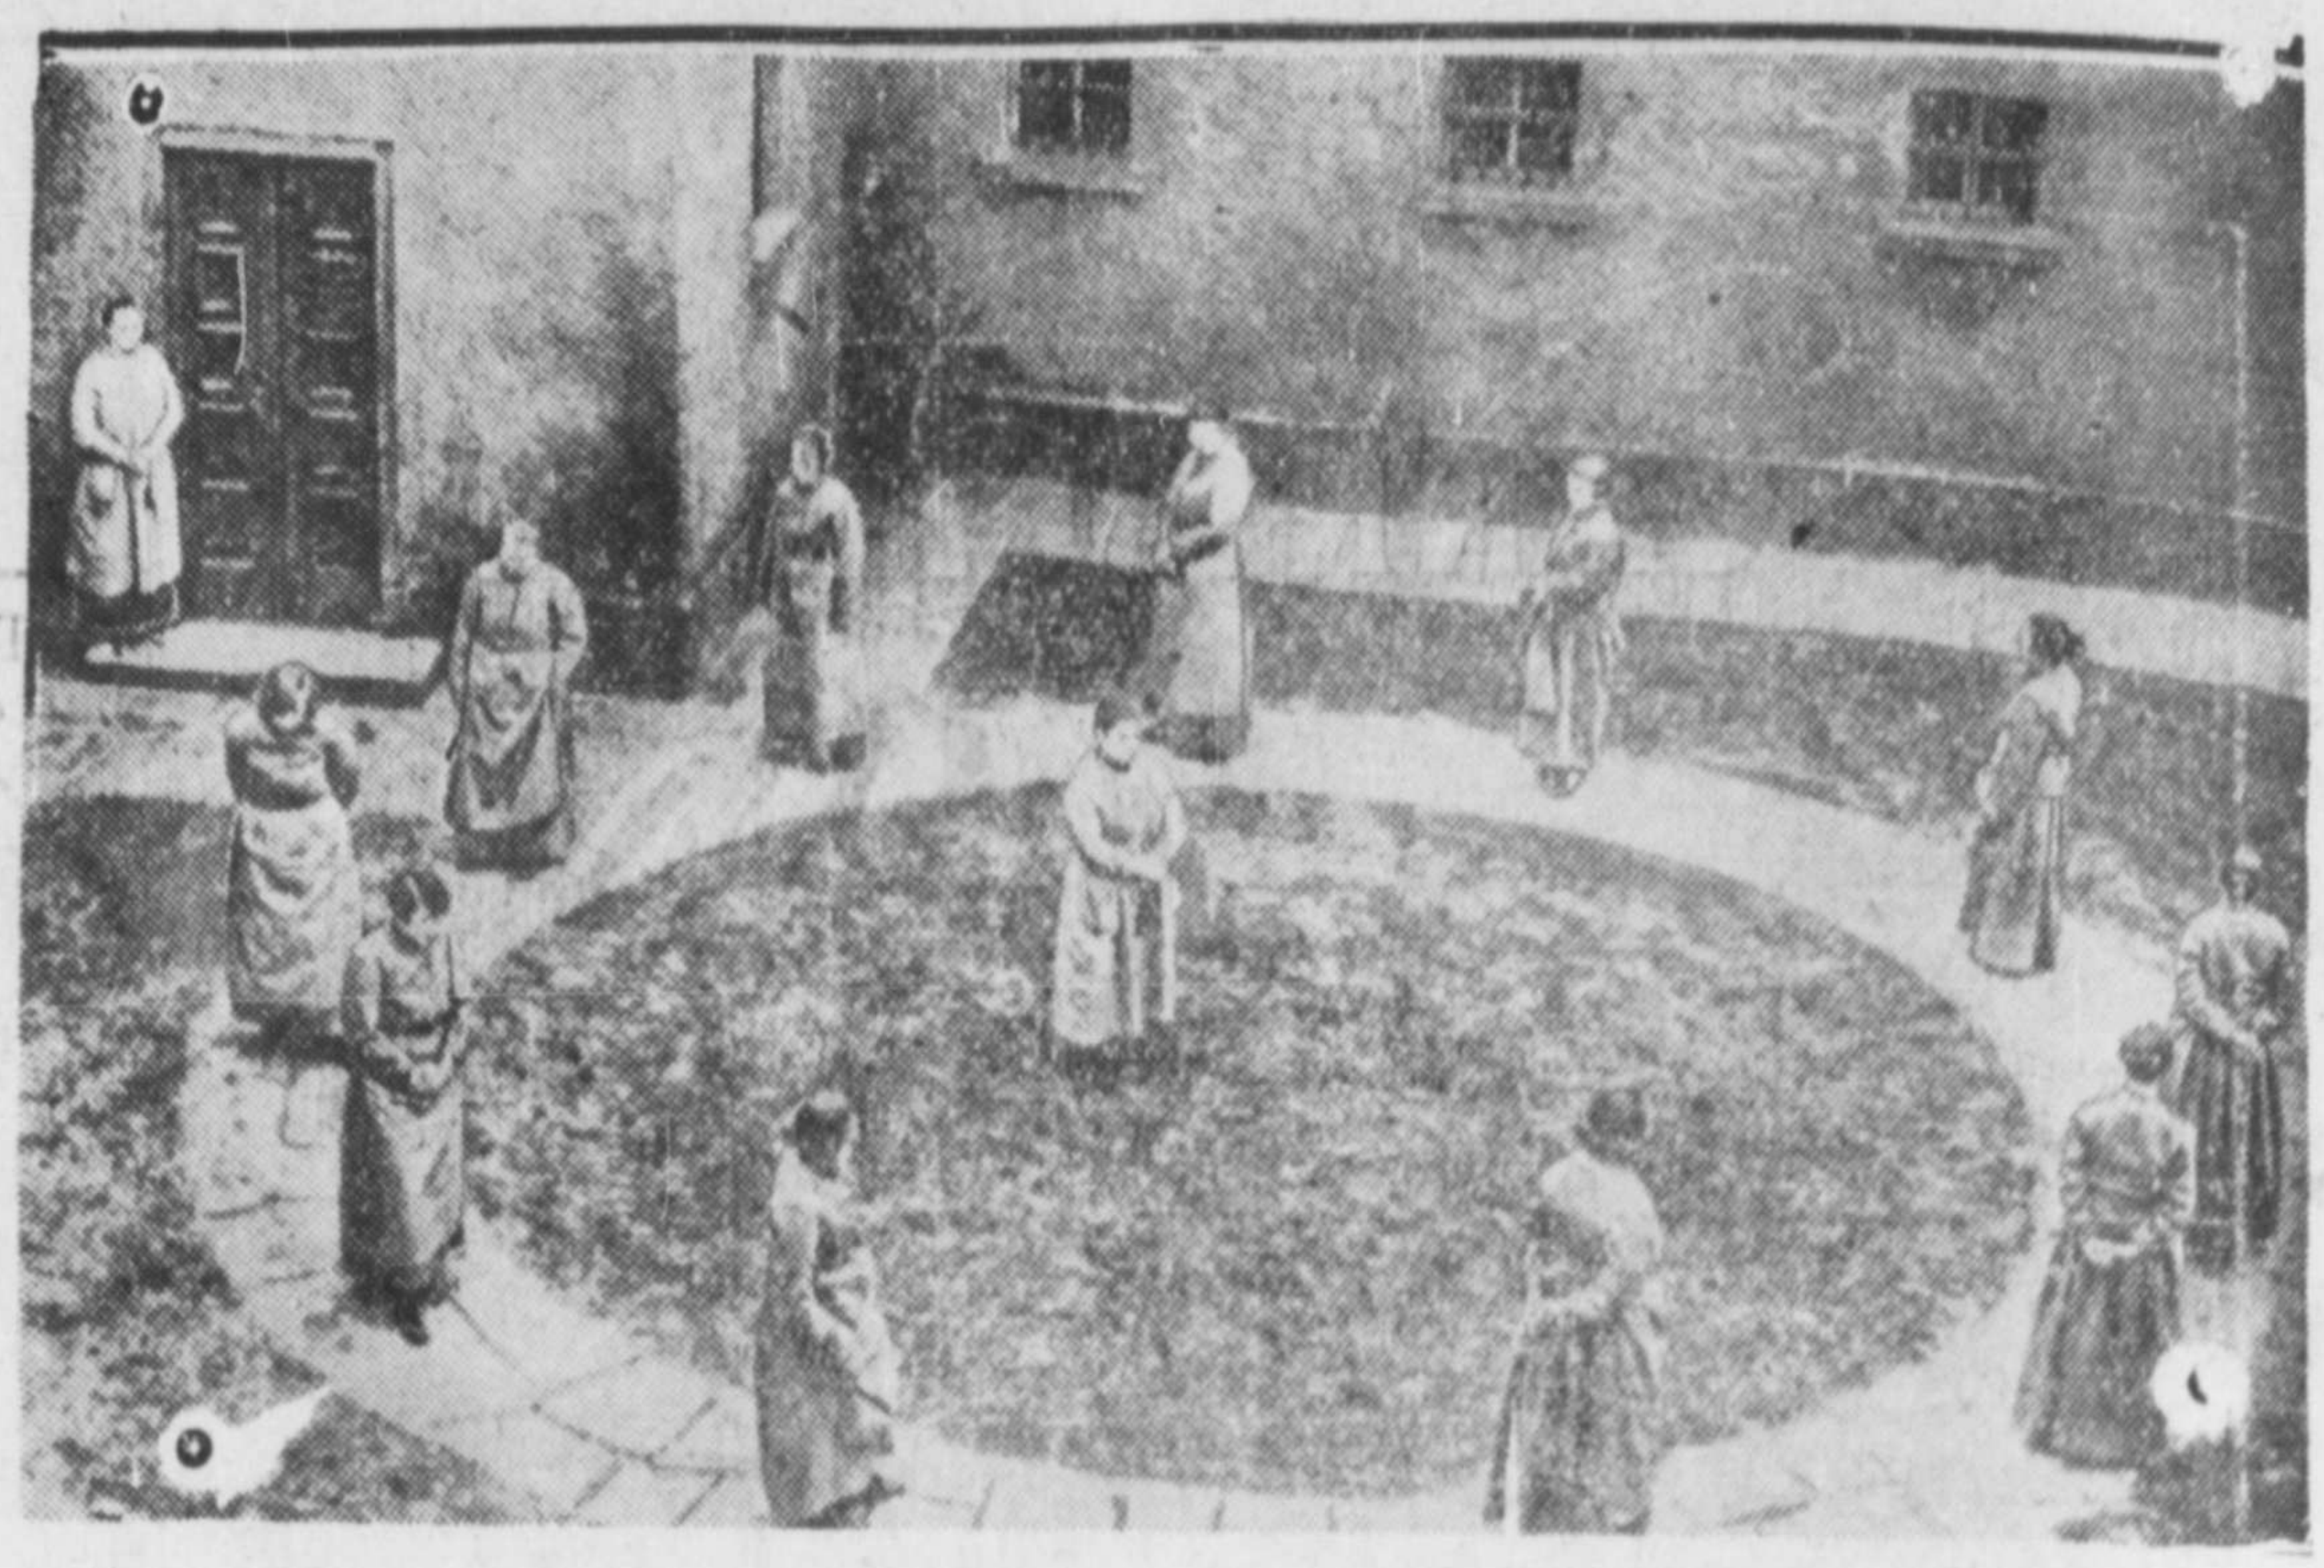

At Peace River we learned that it is not always necessary for the settler to journey far from steel to secure land. We heard, for instance, of the Debolt brothers—Paul and Larsen, who homesteaded eight miles northeast of Peace River town in 1922, coming from Humboldt, Sask.

"We came in with two teams of horses, and nothing much else," said Paul, who told us the story. "Then we got an old sawmill. Didn't know a thing about it, but we tinkered around, and this year, with a little help, we'll cut over 100,000 feet of lumber."

Much of the lumber was sold for sidewalks, in town, and for house building. Then the boys got hold of a second-hand tractor, used it for threshing around, and later traded it for a better one. This year, they've contracted for over 200 acres breaking at $7 an acre for neighbors, using a new tractor—their third.

They cleared brush and deadfall from 70 acres of land on each of their homesteads, and will crop it to wheat this year. They cut their own logs and built their first house, and did the wood hauling and lumbering on the side.

"We had a $500 outfit when we landed, and little else," concluded Paul. "Today, we have lumber on hand sufficient to pay all our debts, and we figure we're worth round $3000 in land, equipment and stock. We're satisfied—we wouldn't want to go back to the prairie again."

MALKIN'S BEST FOOD PRODUCTS JELLY POWDERS and CANNED FRUITS

LENA MAWDSLEY
Thirty years student of dietetics and food values, winner of four gold medals, countless first prizes and diplomas for competitive events in all branches of domestic science including first class technical honors for general cooking—Liverpool, England. Technical School First prize for bread baking. Pure Foods Exhibition Liverpool Eng. Oldest exhibitor in the domestic science section of the Vancouver Exhibition having exhibited in all classes of cooking annually for eighteen years.

What my kitchen test revealed—

I OPENED 10 cans of Malkin's Best Fruits—every one different—Peaches, Pears, Apricots, Plums, Greengages, Cherries, Raspberries, Strawberries, Loganberries, Pineapple and Grapefruit. The entire contents of every can I turned out into individual dishes. There was a very noticeable consistency of quality and a distinctly high grade of packing. To me this was not unusual, indeed, I have been a regular purchaser of Malkin's Best canned fruits for many years.

Proving the quality and firmness of some of the canned fruits I made three fruit jellies from Malkin's Best Jelly Powders, each of which turned out 100 per cent. The excellent individual flavors of Malkin's Best Jellies are second only to their sparkling clarity.

I'd like you to try this recipe. It makes a delicious dessert.

Pineapple Cup

2 cups Malkin's Best shredded pineapple
Juice of two oranges
A few Malkin's Best cherries

Visit of H. M. S. Colombo Big Event for Coming week; Halibut Landings Holding Up; Angling Season Commences

The boys on the waterfront will have to shine up their buttons and put on their best clothes next week, for the navy is coming and there will be many visitors along the "front." The outstanding event of the week will be the visit to port, commencing at 4 o'clock Monday afternoon and ending on Tuesday of the week following, of the speedy British light cruiser Colombo, Capt. C. C. Dobson, V.C., D.S.O., attached to the North American and West Indies squadron.

This is the second visit of H. M. S. Colombo to this port and to the coast. She was here last in August 1927. Other ships of the same squadron that have been here are the Curlew and Capetown.

The Colombo was built at Fairfield yards, Govan, Scotland, in 1918 and was commissioned a year later. She is 4,190 tons displacement and has a speed of 30 knots with 40,000 horsepower engines. Her length is 425 feet, beam 43 feet, six inches, and draught 4 feet, one inch. Her armament consists of five 6-inch guns, two 3-inch anti-aircraft guns, four 3-pounders, and eight torpedo tubes.

The compliment of the cruiser is 432 and her officers are as follows:

- Captain—C. C. Dobson, V. C., D. S. O.
- Lieut.-Commander—G. H. Warner, D. S. O.; (N) E. M. G. L. Boyle; G. F. N. Bradford; C. D. Arbuthnot.

Canadian halibut landings at the port of Prince Rupert during the week ending Friday were heavier than average totalling 278,400 pounds while it was about the lightest week of the year in volume of American landings which aggregated but 368,700 pounds. The week's total of 647,100 pounds brought the grand aggregate for the season to date up to 9,572,450 pounds as compared with last year's 9,150,050 pounds at a similar date. The grand total of Canadian fares amounted to 2,664,050, as against last year's 2,543,600 pounds while American landings were up to 6,908,400 pounds from 6,607,200 pounds. There were only five market days during the week, there being no session of the exchange yesterday, Victoria Day. Heavy landings, particularly of American halibut, are anticipated during the coming week.

Prices during the week averaged higher than for a few weeks previous, the high price for Canadian fish being 15.8c and 7c which the Ternan was paid for 7,500 pounds while the top bid for American halibut was 16.6c and 9c offered the Viola for 7,000 pounds. Low prices of the week were 12.3c and 6c paid the Canadian Bayview for 3,500 pounds and 31c and 6c received by the Columbia for 35,000 pounds.

One of the big shows of the Coastwise Steamship & Barge Co. is in the dry dock for overhaul and repair work of a rather extensive nature. A good deal of carpenter work is being done on the craft which was brought here about ten days ago by one of the company's steamers.

Y. Suehiro, Japanese boatbuilder in Cow Bay, is building a general utility boat for Charles Clay of Anyox. The vessel is to be ready in a few weeks time for the owner who usually quits his mechanical work at the smelter town, in the summer, to go prospecting.

Angling Season Opens

The Victoria Day holiday has been as usual the signal for the commencement of the local angling season and some half a dozen or so boats left the Yacht Club floats Thursday night and Friday morning for various popular haunts in the neighborhood. Some of the fishermen are making a good week-end of it by taking today off as well in which case they will not be back before Sunday night or Monday morning. Then a bumper crop of fish stories should commence because the trout this year are believed to be bigger and better than ever before and much more gullible. Among the parties going forth were those with P. W. and Sid Anderson on the Zenobia, Doug Stork on the Sunbeam II, Harry Ward on the Boranza and George Bryant on the Harla. All cleared for the high seas and will reveal their destinations on returning Monday—providing the fishing is not too good where they went.

Jack Lindsay expects to turn over the newly installed 100 h.p. Sterling engine in his power cruiser Irene L. tomorrow. Meantime, Jack and his party have been cheated of the first week-end's angling of the season but they promise they will make up for that by the time the rest of the boys get done talking about what they did on their maiden voyage.

Dr. R. G. Large made a flying visit to port on Thursday in his power cruiser Sunbeam III to pick up Dr. Wilson, a young graduate from Toronto, who arrived that afternoon by train and will be identified with the medical staff of the Port Simpson General Hospital during the coming summer. The Sunbeam III is functioning well again following a recent change of engines.

District canneries are fast whipping into preparedness for the commencement of the season's operations and crews are now complete at practically every plant which will be in op-

Kippers-Saved King

Kippers, it is reported, were an important factor in the recovery of the King from his recent illness. On the suggestion of one of His Majesty's physicians they were made a big item in the King's diet and contributed in a remarkable degree to his return to good health. So says an article in a recent number of the "Fishing News" of Great Britain.

Interviewed recently, a doctor gave some interesting particulars of the action by which kippers proved such a beneficial effect. He stated that the King was suffering from an abscess of the pleura, known as emphysema. In cases of internal abscess the body endeavors to isolate the suppurated part by building around it a wall. The calcium contained in the blood is taken to build up this wall, thus leaving the body in a weakened condition.

It followed, therefore, from the nature of his illness, that the King was unnaturally deficient of the necessary calcium.

Calcium cannot in itself be absorbed into the blood. Kippers, however, contain the vitamin D, and when this combines with calcium it is readily assimilated by the body. Calcium was, therefore, directly injected into the body, and kippers formed a large part of the diet.

The result was that the deficiency in calcium was made good, and the King was gradually restored to health.

The true purpose of a Budget

EVERY year you spend a large proportion of the money you get. So much for clothing. So much for shoes. So much for things to eat—for house furnishings, books and what not.

Here is the way to get the most for your money.

Keep a budget. Decide what you can afford to spend for each item, and hold yourself within this amount.

Then—to get the most for your budget money read advertisements carefully. The advertisements you read tell you what is newest and best. They give you the latest ideas and improvements. They help you to get more from each dollar you have apportioned in your budget—and so live better and dress better with the same income.

The true purpose of a budget is to enable you to spend wisely—and only by careful reading of advertising can you hope to accomplish this result.

Read advertising regularly. It points the way to better living.

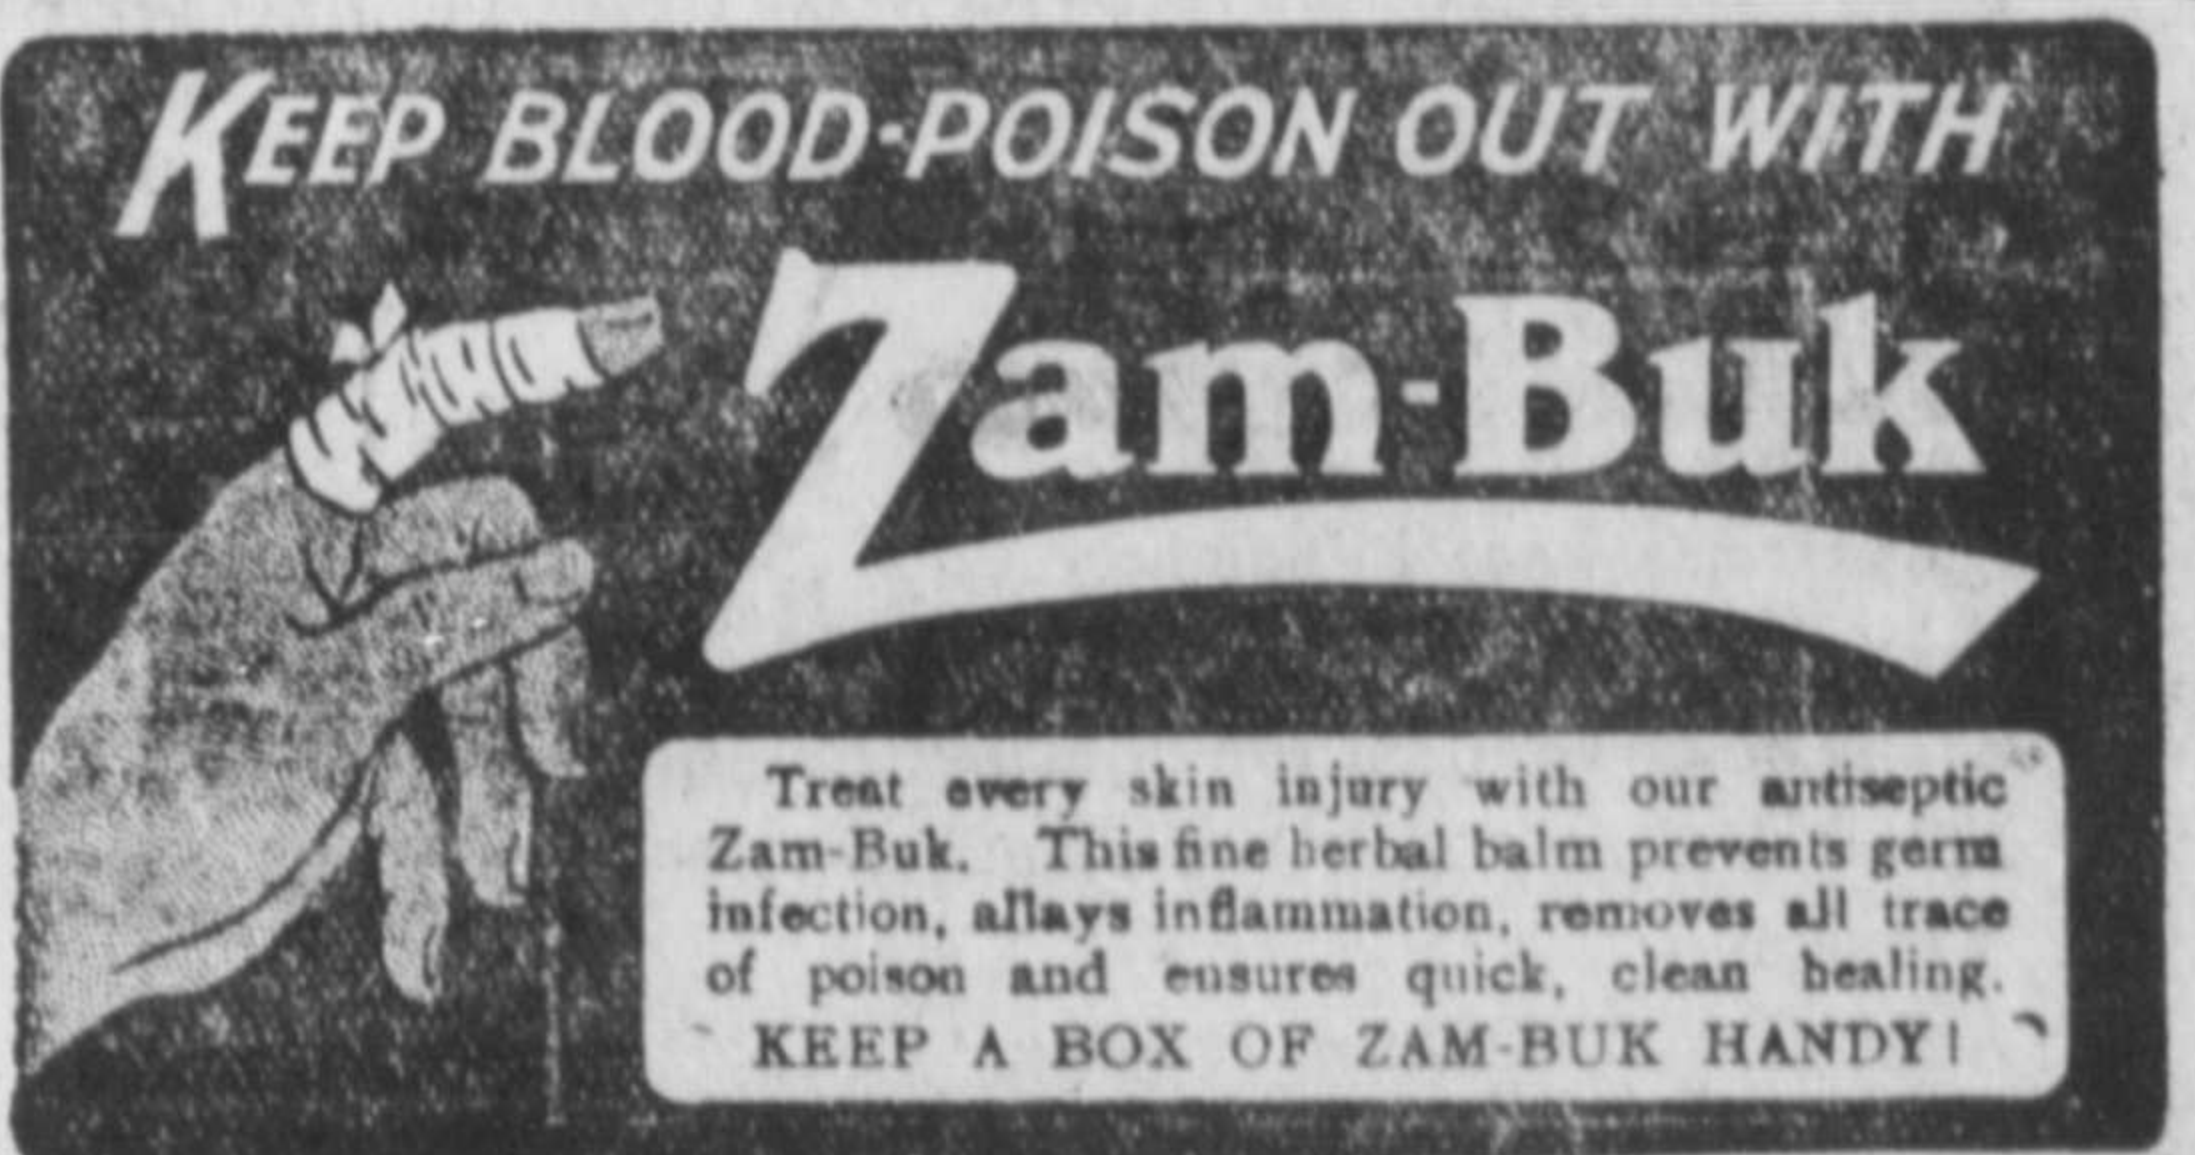

What a Joy Is Good Health

MOTHER and baby are healthy and happy. But they were not always so. There were many months of run-down health, of sleepless nights, excited nerves, worry and discouragement. Baby reflected mother's weakness and was cross and fretful.

But a friend recommended Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and by the regular use of this great restorative treatment the richness of the blood was restored, nervous vigor was increased, sleep came naturally, digestion improved, and mother was herself again. This is just what is happening in many thousands of homes.

MEXICAN PAYMASTER HELD WITH "ROLL"

Thousand dollar bills and gold coins meant nothing to Salvadore Ateca, left, once paymaster of the rebel forces in Mexico. He had about $750,000 when he was taken into custody by Federal agents in a New York hotel as he was about to sail for Spain. The Federal Mexican Government claims this money is part of the loot from banks raided by the rebels during the recent rebellion, and that Ateca was trying to get away with it to Spain. Ateca says it is all his own. Antonio Gomez Maqueo, right, Ateca's secretary, was arrested at the same time as were to immigration officials who are believed to have conspired to aid Ateca's escape from the country.
