BRITISH RECOGNIZE CANADA'S CONTRIBUTION TO EMPIRE

Canada Takes Place in Empire by Contributing to Its Defence by Destroyers and Otherwise

Whole Problem of Empire Strength Being Worked Out, States British Secretary of State for Dominion

LONDON, Feb. 15.—Canada's recent orders for two destroyers is declared to be intended as a contribution to the strength of the Empire as a whole by the director of naval services in Canada.

Hon. L. M. C. S. Amery, secretary of state for the Dominion, speaking at a meeting of the British Empire League said: "Canada's wagon is hitched to the star of the Empire strength and not necessarily to the street lamp of the big navy. We are trying to work out the whole problem of Empire security as a matter of proportion to our geographical and strategical positions."

Mr. Amery said that Canada, because of her expanding mercantile interests, was bound to take part in the defense of the seas and that this condition would prevail while the millennium remains postponed. He said that here was the connection with the building of the new destroyers.

RESCUED FROM THE ALLOWAY

Vessel Still Swinging At Anchor in Ice Off Island

SEATTLE, Feb. 15.—James Posey, supposed stowaway on the freighter Alloway, was taken off the helpless ship by coastguard cutter Chelan last night, two days after he had refused to join his companions who took to the lifeboats and were picked up by the steamer Montauk.

When Posey was taken off, the ship was swinging crazily on her anchor chains in a heavy surf the stern almost grazing the rocks of Alktak Island.

Part of the cutter's crew went aboard the Alloway, lighting up the boilers preparatory to getting up steam so as to be towed to Dutch Harbor. The crew has already been landed at Dutch Harbor.

Later Despatch

SEATTLE, Feb. 15.—A wireless message from the coastguard cutter Chelan which yesterday rescued oiler James Posey from the Alloway, said the hawser which she had put aboard the Alloway had parted and the freighter was drifting in the vicinity of Unimak Pass, a danger to navigation.

LEASE OF MUSSEL SHOALS IS FAVORED

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—A legislative row developed yesterday when a committee of the house reported favorable to a lease of mussel shoals under the Madden bill.

House of Commons Will Not Consider Any Move Toward Return of Titles

Motion of C. H. Cahan Voted down by 114 to 60 Yesterday and Dunning Says Government Members All Opposed To It

OTTAWA, Feb. 15.—The house defeated the motion of C. H. Cahan which would have referred to a committee the question of foreign granted titles or other distinctions to civilians. The vote was 114 to 60.

Hon. C. A. Dunning said that not one member of the government was in favor of the restoration of titles. It was unthinkable that any committee of the house would recommend their restoration. The main idea was that the committee in the future would go into the question to remove the anomaly now existing. However, since apparently it would be interpreted as a move to bring back titles it would probably be better that the motion not be passed. One anomaly, Mr. Dunning said, was that universities could give honorary degrees of distinction, but the King could not.

C. H. Cahan said he had no

MAY LIMIT NAVAL SHIPS

Britain to Take Initiative This Time to Bring About Pact

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—Sir Esme Howard, British ambassador, announced today that Great Britain would soon initiate efforts to bring about further limitation of naval armaments between the principal naval powers of the world.

The delay in the congressional passage of a fifteen cruiser construction bill had retarded the British efforts toward further disarmament the ambassador said but now that the measure was enacted he felt that the ground was cleared for new discussions.

Any new parity he said would certainly proceed on the assumption that the recently authorized cruisers would be built.

DARK POLITICAL CLOUDS HANG LOW OVER AFRICA

The next general election in South Africa is likely to be a very bitter one if the Premier, General Hertzog, persists in going to the country with his Government of the "native" question. Premier Hertzog believes that the rights of the natives of South Africa should be very much curtailed in order to assure the "white population" of that part of the British Empire, that they will not eventually be driven from the States by the ever-increasing native race. The above layout shows a rough map of the Union of South Africa, with (top) Earl of Athlone, Governor-General of the Union; (left) General Smuts, former Premier and leader of the Opposition, who is bitterly opposed to General Hertzog's campaign plank; and (right), Premier, General Hertzog.

CHICAGO IS AT LAST SHOCKED RAIN FELL IN YUKON RIVER DURING NIGHT

Cold-Blooded Murders Yesterday Rouse People of That Hardened City

CHICAGO, Feb. 15.—The cold-blooded murder here yesterday when eight men were shot down by machine guns after having been lined up against a wall caused such a stir that even this city, used to the operations of gunmen, is insisting on a general clean-up. The killers escaped in high powered cars. Some of the bodies of the victims were cut in two by the machine gun fire. On arrival of the police one of the victims was still alive, but he refused to give any information.

Official prediction is that the gangsters have sealed their own doom by this latest crime.

SEATTLE, Feb. 15.—Leaving the Meiyo Maru to the mercy of the dying Arctic gale, 25 members of her crew are en route to Japan on the rescue ship Nanko Maru.

The Meiyo Maru is believed going to pieces on the rocks. Her load of logs and lumber is already shipped into the ocean and the lumber strewn about is a menace to navigation.

ZERO WEATHER LONDON TODAY

Snowfall Along Southeast Coast of England Heavier Than in Years

LONDON, Feb. 15.—Europe continued today in the grip of an unprecedented cold wave. In England the temperatures ranged from eight below zero to a few degrees above. The weather is described as the worst since 1895.

Britons, unaccustomed to such weather, have suffered greatly. There was an eight-inch snowfall at Dover and the fall along the whole channel coast was the heaviest in years.

In London last night the thermometer went to two degrees below zero. There was a gray fog in London today which penetrated every house.

BROKE ICE ON THAMES RIVER BOAT PRACTICE

Oxford University Crew Found Practising Difficult Owing to Extreme Cold

LONDON, Feb. 15.—The Oxford boat crew practiced under difficulty this week in preparation for its big annual rowing contest against Cambridge University. Their regular course being frozen they took the shell to Henley, where a tug had to break the ice prior to the use of the course. Even then rowing was almost intolerable owing to the necessity of dodging the ice floes and from the freezing of the oars as they came dripping from the water.

BASEBALL HOLDOUTS

NEW YORK, Feb. 15.—The crop of baseball holdouts this year is very small compared with other seasons. There is very little talk of salaries but several prominent players are asking more money.

GROTTO SLIPS IN BILLIARDS

Tobacconists Badly Beaten Last Night at Hands of Grand Terminals

By losing heavily to the Grand Terminals last night, the aggregate score being 1180 to 982, Grotto slipped from first place in the first division billiard league to the second notch behind the Canadian Legion. The tobacconists were able to win only one of the five games. The high break was 37 which was turned in by Charlie Balagno.

Individual scores were as follows: W. H. Long (Grand Terminals), 250; A. A. Easson (Grotto), 220; C. P. Balagno, 250; F. H. Stephens, 157; W. J. Nelson, 250; Don Brown, 161; Frank Williams, 180; A. Donald, 250; W. Mitchell, 250; Bert Morgan, 194.

No games have yet been played in last week's first division fixture between Grand Terminals and Canadian Legion nor has the outstanding game in this week's second division tournament between Frank Williams (Grand Terminals) and W. E. Willis (Grotto) been played.

CHALLENGE CUP FOR MID-WINTER GOLF

The above picture shows the E. W. Beatty challenge trophy which will be played for on the beautiful Colwood Golf Course at Victoria, B.C., during the week of February 18. Canadians do not normally expect to play golf throughout this country, but it is possible to do so on the Pacific coast. Our mid-winter golf is likely to confound Rudyard Kipling's famous poem "Our Lady of the Snow" if enthusiasts in the Old Country hear of it.

Sport Chat

The sixteen major league clubs, which began the training camp week this week, are traveling almost as light as the salesman with his proverbial toothbrush writes Les Conklin. Two outfits are carrying less than thirty players, while the largest numbers only 39, a squad that would have been among the smallest a few years ago. The money being spent on the champion St. Louis Cardinals wouldn't buy emergency rations for a company of Scotch Highlanders. Only 26 Red Birds, just one more than the player limit, are to make the trip to Avon Park. Five years ago 90 men worked out at the St. Louis camp.

The smallest American league squad is the Athletics delegation of 27 men. Precious little ivory was combed from the minors for the tusks of the white elephants. Detroit is carrying the largest American league squad, 37; and the Cincinnati Menagerie of 39 tops the National league list. The New policy of the magnates is to let promising bushers be developed in the minors at somebody else's expense.

The numerical strength of the clubs heading for camp this week is as follows: National League—St. Louis 26, Brooklyn 30, Chicago 31, Philadelphia 34, New York 36, Boston 7, Pittsburgh 38, Cincinnati 39. American—Philadelphia 27, Chicago 31, Washington 32, New York 34, Boston 35, Cleveland 35, St. Louis 36, Detroit 37.

BOXING BILL FOR ALASKA

WASHINGTON, D.C., Feb. 14.—(A.P.)—The Houston bill to permit professional boxing in Alaska and Hawaii, signed by President Coolidge, was described by Senator Steiwer of Oregon, chairman of the senate sub-committee, as a step tending to "enlarge in a measure self-government of the territories in question." The territories of Hawaii and Alaska now have a lesser amount of self-government than the people of Porto Rico or the Philippine Islands, the committee report said. The measure permits boxing matches of 10 rounds duration on any day of the week except Sundays. Contestants must be at least 18 years of age and be examined by a physician an hour before the fight. The bill, originally passed by the house, was sent to the senate and referred to the judiciary committee to be rewritten for clarification in several provisions.

TALKED ABOUT THE FISHERIES

Henry O'Malley Gave Address Over Radio Last Night Which Came In Well Here

One of the features of the radio last night was an address by Henry O'Malley, director of fisheries for the United States, who spoke particularly of the pink salmon, a drive to popularize which is being put on by the packers. He gave a life history of the fish, showing how it returned at the end of two years to the stream where it was hatched from the eggs deposited by the parent. He also spoke of the great food value of salmon and compared it with other foods. The annoying part of the local reception was the tuning in of several regenerative receiving sets which spoiled the reception, especially toward the end, part of the speech being lost altogether.

NO MORE TITLES
 Efforts are made occasionally to revive the granting of titles to Canadians by the King on the advice of the Canadian government, as was the custom prior to the war. One such effort has just been made by trying to have a committee of the house of commons make recommendations in regard to it. Happily the house voted down the proposal and also it was announced that not one member of the Mackenzie King government was in favor of it.

This is a most satisfactory outcome of the move. To give titles only to the wealthy was not in accordance with the intention and yet to grant a title to a poor man made it somewhat of an empty honor if not a mockery. As a matter of fact, Canadians as a people do not want titles. Even in Great Britain, which is looked upon by many as the real home of snobbery, the best statesmen have usually refused titles. W. E. Gladstone, one of Britain's greatest prime ministers, died without a title and proud of the fact, while today there are a number of eminent men who have steadfastly set themselves against the acceptance of any such honors. One such is David Lloyd George.

If there were some manner of granting titles which would be perfectly just, there might not be any objection, but the experience of the past is against it. Men who contributed largely to campaign funds received recognition, while others much more deserving were passed over. If we could add the title "Senator" to the list of the discarded, we should have approached much nearer to the ideal of democracy.

COLD IN EUROPE
 The intense cold in Europe is much the same as that which often visits the interior of Canada with the difference that in Canada the people are prepared for it and welcome it, whereas in Europe it came as a surprise. The people there are not clad in a proper manner to resist it and the houses are not so constructed as to keep it out. The result has been disastrous, especially to the poor and to those who did not take proper precautions.

THE POWER AGREEMENT
 Today we are publishing the revised power agreement in its final form, as it is to be voted on. We suggest that everyone read it. That there will be any considerable opposition to its adoption is not expected, but there are a number who seem to want further information and they should be able to secure this either from the mayor or the representative of the purchasing company.

The city council has done its work well, giving an immense lot of time to consideration of the agreement and its revision. The best possible advice has been secured in regard to it and now it remains for the people to have their say and doubtless they will accept it. Further delay would be very disadvantageous if it is to go into force this year.

DOUBTLESS WILL EXPLAIN
 Major Motherwell, chief inspector of fisheries, doubtless will be in a position to explain the order of the department in regard to fishing areas. Until that explanation is received it is too early to say anything about it. In the meantime, there seems to be considerable hostile feeling in regard to it.

MANY ENJOYED PECK VS. PECK

Mock Trial and Other Features Given To Packed House at United Church Last Night

The United Church was packed to the doors last night with an appreciative audience to witness Peck vs. Peck, a humorous mock trial, in which members of the court, including the judge and jury, were mostly women. Much of the interest centred in the makeup of the characters which was extremely funny. One of the most outstanding was that of Earl Barrie, who made a most excellent and charming lady gowned in yellow satin with black picture hat decorated with a huge ostrich feather, the plaintiff in the case.

Of the others, Mrs. Sollows made a dignified judge; Mrs. Wilkinson was capable as clerk of the court; Miss Earl was eloquent and impressive as counsel for the plaintiff; Mrs. Rochester defended with ability and womanly wiles; George Stocks was meek and mild as befitted his character; the witnesses, Mrs. J. S. Black, W. J. F. die, H. M. Harper and B. S. Stevens, gave their evidence with emphasis, Fidler as the darkie servant being very humorous, and G. V. Wilkinson as a police constable preserved all the traditions of the force.

The jury women were particularly distinguished for the style of their hats and their most unusual demeanor toward the court and the witnesses. The members were:

Miss Gummer, of the Capitol Theatre, Miss V. Krievsky; Miss Olgerson, a Swede, Miss D. Sharp; Mrs. Stumps, a politician, Mrs. H. M. Harper; Miss Reader, literary, Miss C. Irvine; Mrs. DeBacy, one of the 409, Miss E. Grassie; Miss Kalsomine, colored, Mr. B. Irvine; Miss Parcels, of Jabours' department store, Miss B. Arney; Mrs. Diamond, of the 500 club, Miss A. Barrie; Miss Sour, of a certain age, Miss A. Garnet; Mrs. O'Bean, Irish, Mrs. A. McNeill; Mrs. Shuffle, of the Bridge club, Miss E. Vickers; Miss Freelingheiser, German, Miss P. Lamb.

The trial was produced under the direction of Mrs. John Manson.

One big feature of the evening was the excellent playing of Professor Pryce's Juvenile Orchestra, which gave several selections and was much appreciated.

The sketch from "A School of Scandals" one of the classics of the stage, given by Miss Adelia Thuber and Miss Beryl Birch, was excellently produced, the young folks proving themselves real artists. The old-fashioned costumes added much to the effect. Miss Maribelle Stiles danced nicely a "Minuet in G." these two numbers being prepared under the management of Miss M. A. Way.

A. Way. Mrs. Birch trained her daughter and Miss Thuber in their respective parts.

A duet by Mrs. P. C. Miller and J. S. Wilson was immediately preparatory to the farce.

Many favorable comments were heard in regard to the entertainment after it was over.

COLD WAVE IS LESS SEVERE EUROPE TODAY

BERLIN, Feb. 15.—The cold wave moderated somewhat throughout Europe last evening, but the cold was followed by a heavy fall of snow. The schools here are still closed because of the lack of fuel to heat them. They have been closed now for a week.

In Vienna the people are on rations, the extreme cold weather preventing supplies arriving.

Reports of deaths due to the weather conditions continue to come in.

LOADING OF GRAIN BOAT PROCEEDING

Swedish Steamer Should Get Away in a Few Days, Sixty Four Cars of Wheat Coming

Loading of the Swedish freighter Sydland with a full cargo of grain for the United Kingdom or continent is proceeding at the Alberta Wheat Pool's Prince Rupert elevator and it should not be long now before the vessel gets away.

Sixty-four carloads of grain are reported to be west of Jasper Park bound for the local house. This will more than take care of the requirements of the Sydland both in quantity and grade.

OBJECTION TO FISHING RULES AS PROPOSED

(Ketchikan Chronicle) Nothing should be considered more seriously than the proposed international fisheries regulations as to the halibut. Proposals are made which meet with the unanimous opposition of the men engaged in the industry, particularly as to the closing of certain fisheries areas.

When hearings were being held in Ketchikan by the international commission, there was a spirit shown by the vessel owners and captains that was remarkable, a desire to co-operate with the commission in every way for the preservation of the industry. Now, when in one voice they raise her objections, it becomes an occasion for careful study by all those who are directly or indirectly concerned. It at once becomes the duty of the Commercial Club to study the situation, and likewise for other organizations to go into it. Conditions warranting, every effort must be made to advance the interests of those engaged in fishing and the halibut production.

WROTE FAMOUS DARKY SONGS

Mrs. Richard Moore Tells Music Club About Life and Work of Stephen Foster

At the regular meeting of the Ladies' Music Club yesterday afternoon Mrs. Richard Moore read a short paper on the life and work of the man who wrote "Swanee River" and other songs of the south, Stephen Foster. She said:

"Melodies of the Southland echoing the joys and the sorrows of a lowly people are much in the air just now. Negro spirituals and negro poetry are heard in growing volume. The black race, it would seem, is finding voices of its own after many years. It no longer needs a Stephen Collins Foster to tell of its pathos and to sound the depths of its feeling. Yet Foster is not forgotten. Two years ago a bill was introduced in the House of Representatives proposing to honor his memory in an issue of memorial half dollars to be put in circulation on July 4, the hundredth anniversary of his birth. The whole world is to be reminded of his haunting classics—"The Old Folks at Home," "Massa's in de Cold, Cold Ground" and "My Old Kentucky Home."

Stephen Foster, about the middle of the last century put down on paper tremendous and enduring sentiments, and dramatized the poignant aspects of a plantation life that is now a thing of the past. His statue stands today in his native city of Pittsburgh.

Strangely, the man who wrote the greatest songs of the Southland was not a Southerner. He stood afar off and caught the spirit of the cane field and the cabin, the porticoed mansion and the white seas of cotton. In granite and bronze his statue is reared, showing the composer with pencil and paper in hand, while a little below him and to one side sits the faithful figure of his immortal "Uncle Ned" with his banjo.

Foster wrote the words and composed the music of some 160 songs. He was a born musician and an indefatigable artist. The words of "My Old Kentucky Home" illustrate well the quality of his genius. This classic, according to tradition, was composed at Federal Hill, the old manor-house of the Rowan family near Barastown, Ky., on one of Foster's infrequent visits though it animates his other southern songs. There is hardly an effort at dialect to express the thoughts of the negro. Foster wrote always with unaffected simplicity.

Music claimed him almost from his birth. As early as the age of two his brother and biographer recalls the infant Stephen used to creep to his sister's guitar and pick harmonies from its strings. Once, when he was seven his mother took him shopping with her. A flageolet—an instrument that he had never seen before—lay handy on a counter. In another moment the boy had taken it up and the astonished customers found themselves listening to the strains of "Hail, Columbia."

The youngest of seven children, he grew up sensitive, shy and absent-minded. At the height of his fame he remained abstracted, indifferent to praise and to money. He would walk along the street with his eyes on the ground, composing. In the top floor of the white cottage, the home that his father, Colonel Wm. Barclay Foster, once Mayor of Pittsburgh, built, just outside the city, Stephen established a room for study and work. The halls were heavily carpeted, to insure silence. The furniture was a chair, a sofa, a table, a music rack and a piano.

By the time he was 9, Foster was the star artist of a boys' troupe that staged performances of its own plays in a carriage house. At 19 he was devising songs for a group of youthful friends who met twice a week for social diversion. Into this circle were introduced the manuscripts of "Louisiana Belle" and "Uncle Ned" and the career of Stephen Foster as a song writer launched. Throughout Pittsburgh the tune of "Uncle Ned" was heard. "Oh Susanna" came next and with others, found its way to a Cincinnati publisher. "Imagine my delight in receiving $100 for "Oh Susanna," he wrote. "Though this song was not successful it had the effect of starting me on my vocation of song writer."

Then came the "Old Folks at Home," perhaps the best known of all his compositions, which he wrote for Christy, the minstrel. Within the short time of five years no less than 400,000 copies had been printed and it on its way to girdle the globe. It has been translated into every language on the continent and even into native tongues of Asia and Africa. Its first line "Way down upon de Swanee ribber," is history. Regarding that line a story is told. The author in 1851, entered the office of his brother, Morrison and said anxiously, "Tell me a good two-syllable name for a southern river. I need it for the song I'm writing." "Yazoo" suggested Morrison. "That won't do," cried Stephen. "Reach me down the Atlas." The Atlas came down and with searching forefingers the two brothers hunted for two-syllable rivers in the south. "Here's one called the Swanee. It's a little stream in Florida," said Morrison. "That's it exactly," flashed Stephen, and left in haste. In that moment musical history had been made.

Stephen Foster learned the art of music almost by instinct, for he had few teachers. At the piano he played well and gracefully, but with the flute he rose to the heights of a master. His melodies were the result of long hours of toil. There were, fortunately, few distractions to keep him from his work. For a while he acted as bookkeeper in the office of a brother of his in Cincinnati, but the field of business failed to attract him and he returned home to devote himself to his beloved music. His melodies caught at the heart of the public as much as did the words he wrote for them.

Many other songs of his besides his Southern pieces redounded to his credit. "Come where thy love lies dreaming" is still heard. "I see thee still in my dreams" was written as a tribute to the memory of his mother. The stanzas and melodies that tell of the south however, will remain always the closest to the heart of the public. "The Old Folks at Home" is a jewel whose luster cannot dim.

"Way Down South," "Old Black Joe," "Don't Bet Your Money on the Shanghai" and "Camptown Races" are included among the southern pieces upon which Foster's fame rests. At the height of his popularity he received letters from admirers in all parts of the world. Washington Irving and other literary giants of the period wrote enthusiastic praise of his work. A few trips to the south on steam boats, a casual visit or so—that was the frail foundation upon which Foster built himself a lasting monument as an interpreter of the plantation.

More than once Foster abode in New York where his publishers had their offices. Here it was, he died under tragic circumstances. In 1850 he married Jane McDowell of Pittsburgh, but the match seems not to have been an ideal one, inasmuch as his wife regarded him as a dreamer and visionary.

He was at the old American Hotel in that city when he fell victim to an attack of fever. Rising to cross the room, he fell against a wash basin, cutting his knee and neck as it broke. When help came he asked to be taken to Bellevu Hospital where some days later he died.

In 1900 a statue was raised to his memory by public subscription in Pittsburgh. The work, by Moretti stands inside the main gate of Highland Park and the "White Cottage" is preserved by city ordinance. The Governor of Kentucky, in the movement there to preserve the Rowan homestead in 1921, broadcast an appeal to all sons and daughters of the state to rally to the support of the original manor-house of "My Old Kentucky Home."

WELSH SPEAKER ROTARY CLUB

Rev. T. Ivon Jones Speaks On Service and Religion in Interesting Address

"The things that make a man are not what he gets, but what he gives out," declared Rev. T. Ivon Jones, who is supplying the pulpit at the Presbyterian Church, in an address to the Rotary Club yesterday afternoon.

Mr. Jones, who is a quietly impressive speaker, stated that he was a Welshman, coming to Canada from a little known country. Wales was known for its statesmen, its mountains, its coal, its strikes and its music. The religious traditions of the country were similar to those of Scotland. Some of the finest pulpit orators had been developed there.

Telling of his arrival at Prince Rupert, the speaker said he had been pleasantly surprised to see such a bright place. In the south there seemed to be a conspiracy against the city. He had been told that it always rained, that it was built on stilts and a newspaper could be secured only once in three weeks. On the contrary, he had a very pleasant time here. It was a city in the making. The east, he found, was similar to the Old Country, with its class spirit and snobbishness. In the west one felt himself to be in a country in the making. It was a challenge to creative energy which was latent in everyone. There were also temptations to be "on the make."

Mr. Jones said he thought perhaps the chief temptation was "to be on the make" as the main object in life. However, this condition was also a challenge to the generous side of one's nature. Man should feel a responsibility for the future that those coming after might not rise up and call him cursed.

"The thing that makes a man is not acquisitiveness," declared the speaker. "It is what he gives. It separates man from the other creatures." No man could contribute anything better than to improve the life of his fellows. That was why he was in the ministry. In a talk with R. Macdonald in his former constituency of Aberavon, who too lived, he had spoken of labor going into politics and a labor leader had advised him to stick to his job, a job that took the springs of life.

Mr. Jones reminded Rotarians of the objects of their order, namely that of service. The service was a high one and had as its basis an assumption of the value of religion. As Toc H has said, service was the rent paid for the house we use.

Speaking of religion, Mr. Jones mentioned that this was not a controversial subject. Only those who were controversial. Religion, something of which men had need in their lives. Intellectual problems had interfered but there was more humility and dogma on the part of both scientists and theologians, something which a more vital religion should be born. In order to right the light thinking was necessary. He urged a continuation of thinking on right things.

That is why, when shopping for an outer garment for her son, she demanded a local product. The store clerk hesitated and told her the article she required was out of stock at present, but that a certain foreign-made article was "just as good." She refused the foreign garment and left the store. Back of this mother's insistence was a pride in the products of her homeland - the true peacetime patriot.

"Mother Knows Best" Full of Comedy and Pathos at Westholme

The New York American commenting on "Mother Knows Best," the picture showing tonight and tomorrow at the Westholme Theatre, says it abounds in comedy, through which runs a thread of pathos. . . . At any rate, the film is one you should see for several reasons. In the first place, Louise Dresser in the role of the exacting mother, gives a stunning performance. Next, Madge Bellamy . . . acquits herself admirably. Both women have splendid acting parts and both indeed make the most of their roles. Barry Norton is the young man who supplies the love interest, and he is capable. . . . During the story's action, Miss Bellamy gives several imitations. These are in the talking sequence, and, to say the actress acquits herself nicely, is putting it mildly. Madge does Harry Lauder, Al Jolson and Anna Held so cleverly that she won the spontaneous applause of the audience. The picture has plenty of backstage atmosphere, which is always interesting, and discloses an all-revealing side of the life of a famous star. . . . It is well worth seeing.

Another big picture, in fact, one of the very greatest screen achievements in years, "The Patent Leather Kid," from the famous story by Rupert Hughes, starring the popular Richard Barthelmess, will be presented to Capitol patrons tonight and Saturday.

The "Patent Leather Kid" has three big factors which go to make it one of the biggest pictures of recent years—love, war and the prize ring. Love, first and foremost, it is a Richard Barthelmess love story and that's enough for anyone! And the stirring love story is told against a tremendous background. War—all the thrills, heart interest, comedy and spectacle of war are there! Then the prize ring, with intimate colorful details of the life of a champion.

The larger cities in the south paid from $1.10 to $2.20 to see "The Kid." It comes to the Capitol at popular prices of 50c and 15c, with bargain matinee Saturday.
