Cannibalism in North is Admitted by Girl ---Ate Human Flesh

He said that two natives had arrived at the Hudson's Bay Company post on December 22, 1927, bringing with them a woman named Ikstak. "This woman," said the postmaster in a letter, "is an unfortunate individual, who, during the time of starvation

LABOR URGES PREFERENCE TO GREAT BRITAIN

OTTAWA, March 15.—A sub-amendment to the budget urging the government for consideration of an immediate and substantial increase of the British preference as a step toward freer trade relations between Canada and other nations was moved in the house of commons last night by E. Spencer of the United Farmers Association and seconded by A. A. Hoops, Labor member.

The house now has before it the main motion of Hon. W. A. Robb, minister of finance, and the amendment by Hugh Guthrie, which regrets that there are no provisions in the budget for safeguarding those engaged in agriculture and industry, and the present sub-amendment.

MAKE CHANGES IN TAXATION

VICTORIA, March 15.—A bill to amend the taxation act was introduced by Mr. Shelly in the legislature for the purpose of making the personal property tax retroactive to September 1, 1920. This is being done, it was explained, because of the trouble that has been experienced in collecting arrears in taxes, particularly from fishing plants, because it was claimed by those refusing to pay that the act was ultra vires. The bill will overcome this difficulty and clear the way for the collection of tax arrears.

Mr. Shelly also introduced the bill to amend the Succession Duties Act, the chief amendments of which were: to give tax exemption from inheritance tax up to $20,000 and a total exemption on life insurance.

SEAPLANE AT CAMPBELL R.

Boeing Flying Boat, Destined for Juneau, Dropped There Last Night

The six-passenger Boeing flying boat, which left Seattle with Juneau as its destination, got only as far as Campbell River yesterday, a distance of possibly 200 miles, according to word received in early yesterday afternoon from the city this morning. Up to noon the ship had not left there in continuation of its flight up the coast.

Messages received this morning from T. McCarty, who is in charge of the plane, sought information with regard to weather conditions and local fueling facilities. According to a press despatch this afternoon, the plane flew from Seattle to Alert Bay, B.C., yesterday and was going nicely.

EMPLOYMENT ANDREW BLYGH IS CRITICIZED

Majority Report Says He Should Not Have Been Employed Because He Was Justice of Peace

MINORITY REPORT OFFERED Ian MacKenzie Critical of Report And Moves That It Be Sent Back For Reconsideration

VICTORIA, March 15.—The report of the select committee which investigated the expenditure of liquor control money, especially the payment to Andrew Blygh of Vancouver, was tabled in the Legislature last night. The report said the committee regarded the appointment of Blygh as a salaried official of the Liquor Board and his continued employment as such, injudicious. It stated that there was an error of judgment in his appointment as conflicting with his duties as justice of the peace. The report further stated that it would have been advisable to dispense with his services upon finding that his reports were acquiring a political tinge. Expenditures for the salary of L. Menendez were regarded as justifiable in view of the work he did. The amount received by Blygh was stated as $14,942 in the capacity of inspector under the liquor act while Menendez received $4,520. The report was signed by H. D. Twigg and J. W. Berry.

Upon presentation of the report, Ian MacKenzie, the third member of the committee, moved an amendment to delete the words of the report after the first and refer the matter back to the committee for further consideration and himself offering an amended report. This was defeated.

Canadian Naturalist Honored

TO BE THE ORIGINATOR OF THE SANCTUARY IDEA OF ARTIFICIALLY FEEDING, PROTECTING AND CONSERVING THE WILD FOWL OF THE CONTINENT IS A RARE AND FAR-REACHING ACHIEVEMENT.

Whereas, Jack Miner, born at Dover Center, Ohio, and made in Canada, has devoted a lifetime to the ideal of Bird Sanctuary, giving birth to the idea of artificial feeding and protecting, and

Whereas, he has, despite modest financial means, increased the bird population of his sanctuary by hundreds and thousands, calistating the support of understanding friends all over the world, and

Whereas, he has fostered the building of sanctuaries all over the world by giving of his time, strength and energy, to speed the gospel of protection and conservation of wild life

Therefore, his friends in his native state of Ohio, present him with this all too slight evidence of their admiration, esteem and love, and designate Jack Miner, The Missionary of the Air and International Teacher and Guide to a sound and timely conservation of wild life.

Jack Miner, the Canadian naturalist, as is well known, was born in the State of Ohio. Recently he returned to Toledo to start a lecture tour of the state and when introduced in the City of Toledo, Judge Cohn, one of Ohio's supreme court judges, presented him with the parchment shown above. Inset is a picture of Mr. Miner.

Effort Being Made to Secure the Building of Snag Scow at Drydock

Olof Hanson Takes Matter Up With Ottawa and Engineer Favors Local Shipyard for Carrying Out of Work

A new snag scow is to be built and the government engineer, J. P. Forde, states that as the Prince Rupert drydock is able to give a first-class job and local labor could be employed and materials furnished, he will strongly recommend to the federal government that it be constructed there. Mr. Forde left this morning for Vancouver, but before leaving discussed the matter with Olof Hanson and so expressed himself.

When in Ottawa recently, Mr. Hanson ascertained that the new vessel was to be built and at once took the matter up with the responsible minister and the department officials with a view to securing the contract for Prince Rupert. The scow operates on the Skeena River, pulling out the snags which interfere with the fishing operations.

Another matter which Mr. Forde discussed with Mr. Hanson while here was the matter of the fishermen's floats. He is recommending the site just east of the drydock and he assured Mr. Hanson that just as soon as the plans are completed and arrangements made, the floats will be commenced with a view to their being available this summer.

Floods in Alabama and Ontario Result Present Spring Thaw

NEW YORK, March 15. — Many towns in southern Alabama were under water today with the fate of the residents in doubt as the numerous creeks and rivers of that section of the state continued to rise. No check of the number of dead or injured is possible. At Elba, Ala., 4000 persons were marooned. An observer from a tree a mile away reported that only the tops of the taller buildings could be seen. He could hear the screams of the marooned citizens.

TORONTO, March 15.—Rivers and creeks in southern Ontario are on the annual rampage.

Clifford Arthur, aged 7, was swept into a culvert near St. Mary's and drowned. Cities and towns along the Grand River suffered most damage. Galt reports that the damage there will run into many thousands of dollars.

The Brantford fire department was called out three times yesterday to rescue marooned families in Holmedale, the north end of the suburb, but the city, is well protected by its dike system.

PLAN CHANGES MINIMUM WAGE

VICTORIA, March 15.—Important changes in the operation of the Male Minimum Wage Act will be made if the bill introduced in the legislature on Thursday passes.

A right is to be given all employees in any occupation in contradistinction to any industry to apply to the board provided for under the act for an adjustment of wages. The previous practice under the act was first the board to investigate the situation with respect to any industry and then make a blanket minimum wage for the industry. Under the proposed amendment the line of occupation is to be the basis of the minimum wage fixed.

Port Simpson Basketball Team Defeated Prince Rupert Seniors 40 Points to 30 Last Evening

The fast moving Y. P. E. A. basketballers of Port Simpson won the first of a two-game series from Prince Rupert senior all-stars at the exhibition hall last night by a score of 40 to 30. The locals showed an obvious lack of practice, whereas the visitors were on their toes all the time and worked well together. In spite of this, Prince Rupert was in the lead during the early part of the game. A switch of local players seemingly meant disaster, for, after this had been effected, Port Simpson, led by Brentzen, started a siege of scoring and stepped into the lead, not being topped again. Half time score was 27 to 16 in favor of the natives.

A snappy intermediate league exhibition game was played between Big Four and High School, the former winning 29 to 25 after five minutes' overtime had been necessitated.

A junior league game also proved a tight affair, Canadian Japanese Students winning 25 to 21 over High School.

Ralph Smith refereed the Port Simpson-Prince Rupert game and A. Wesley of Port Simpson acted as umpire. Doug Frizzell refereed the intermediate game and Ralph Smith the junior.

There was not as large a crowd of fans in attendance as might have been expected.

Tonight, the second game of the series will be played and there will also be three intermediate league games as follows: Bankers vs. R. C. N. V. R.; Eagles vs. Big Four; C. N. R. vs. High School.

Individual scoring last night was as follows:

Prince Rupert—W. Lambie, 7; Dido Garvich, 11; George Mitchell; W. Mitchell, 3; Joe Gosse; Poli Howard, 9; Alex Mitchell; Spiro Garvich; Doug Frizzell. Total, 30.

Port Simpson—R. Sankey, 6; A. Wesley, 12; P. Brantzen, 22; H. Bryant; R. Knott; A. Tait. Total, 40.

Intermediate Exhibition
Big Four—E. Ratchford, 15; E. Smith; Doug Stalker, 2; B. Gwyer, 6; I. Katsnjama, 6. Total, 29.
High School—H. Macdonald, 19; Alan Cross, 4; D. Morrison, 3; Bob Stalker, 8; Bob Irvine; Joe Scott, D. Scott. Total, 25.

Sport Chat

Before some of the 1929 major league managers had played their first game of baseball two of the present-day pilots were handling the very ball clubs which they head today. This is one way of saying that this year Connie Mack starts his 29th season with the Athletics and John McGraw his 27th with the Giants. At 67 Connie Mack begins another term with his Athletics, a club he directed even before the best days of Chief Bender, Eddie Plank, Eddie Coombs, Eddie Collins, Amos Strunk, Frank Baker, Rube Oldring and others of the great old Philadelphia machine that swept the baseball world in three of the four years between 1910 and 1913.

McGraw, Mack's junior by 11 years, has been showing the Giants the way to pre-season headquarters ever since 1903. His career has been even more remarkable than that of the A's chieftain, since the Little Napoleon has won 10 pennants to Mack's six. Both have three world's championships to their credit. So before long now there will be McGraw with his Giants at San Antonio, his bulky form enclosed in much yardage of flannels, calling instructions to his hopefuls and taking a bat occasionally to shoot a grounder or a fly out to a player under special scrutiny.

At Fort Myers, Fla., will be the dignified Mack, dressed in multi, with the inevitable piece of program or newspaper in hand, wig-wagging to this player or that as to how to play for certain types of batters. Connie Mack became manager of the Athletics in 1901. His team won pennants in 1902, 1905, 1910, 1913 and 1914, and world's championships in 1910, 1911, and 1913. McGraw directed the Giants for the first time in 1903. His teams captured flags in 1904, 1905, 1911, 1912, 1913, 1917, 1921, 1922, 1923 and 1924, together with the world titles in 1905, 1921 and 1922.

WAITING FOR U. S. ACTION

Uncertainty of Present Situation Reason For Government Inaction

VICTORIA, March 15.—T. D. Pattillo on the second reading of the forest act in the legislature yesterday said that there was a loss of something of royalties to stand for a year like $300,000 in revenues to the province. The government he reading.

said must see that a fair price be paid for lumber in the interests of the province. He warned the government that timbermen would be coming back year after year seeking lower rates. Mr. Pooley recalled the election in the United States with the "avowed policy on the part of the new president which was to increase the duty on whistles going into that country. The government felt in view of the uncertainty of the situation, it would be well to allow the matter to stand for a year. The bill was passed for a second reading.

TRUTH ABOUT NATIONAL LINE

(Toronto Globe)

Although the enemies of public ownership in the United States still misrepresent the true state of affairs concerning the Canadian National Railways, the truth is gradually being made known there. The Detroit Free Press devotes a long and interesting editorial to describing the history of the Government railway enterprise in this country. It points out that less than ten years ago the railway situation in Canada was chaotic. The old Grand Trunk, owned by English capitalists; the Canadian Northern, built by Mackenzie & Mann, with heavy Government subsidies; the Intercolonial, a Government-owned road in the Eastern Provinces; and the National Transcontinental, built by the Government and leased in part to the Grand Trunk, were bankrupt, and were keeping their heads above water only by constantly increasing borrowings from the Government. The latter was forced to choose between draining the public Treasury to keep these roads operating, or embarking on the experiment of Government ownership. It elected to pursue the latter course.

Tracing Sir Henry Thornton's work, the Free Press says: "In less than seven years Sir Henry has welded these scattered lines into a splendid system that is a national asset instead of a national liability. The first year there was an operating deficit of $34,000,000 which, in the last fiscal year, just ended, has been converted into a surplus of $58,000,000. Business has been pouring into this rehabilitated system. It has passed in gross business its great rival the Canadian Pacific Railway. Its gross for last year was $276,631,921, an amount exceeded only by the Pennsylvania and the New York Central."

The fact that the Canadian National is still showing paper deficits on its huge excess capi-

ICELAND HAD PARLIAMENT FIRST OF ALL

REYKJAVIK, Iceland, March 12.—The "mother of parliaments" is generally understood to be the English parliament, but if age counts the palm goes to the Icelandic alting, which is to celebrate its tenth centenary in 1930.

The alting celebration will be of a national character. Many families in Iceland can trace their ancestors back to the first legislators of the Saga Isle. The Vikings, who settled there, understood the necessity of law and order, and it was from Iceland that the so-called Norse law went to Scotland.

The alting was instituted in the year 930 on the plain of Thingvala, and the story of the Ting is being written by Benedict Sveinsson, the president of the lower house. He is assisted by a bevy of historians appointed by the government.

The festivities in connection with the jubilee will be held on the old historic spot at Thingvala a well nigh ideal setting giving the visitors a wonderful view of the beautiful scenery of Iceland. A large foreign invasion is expected on this occasion. Icelandic-Americans will form a great body of these visitors. Many thousands are living in the United States and in Canada and style themselves "West-Icelanders." They have already planned a joint visit to their old country on this occasion.

It is intended to get Icelandic poets and composers to create the necessary poetic frame for these festivities, which will also be rich in pageantry of historical scenes from the various periods of Iceland.

alization is what enables un- friendly propagandists to deceive gullible outsiders. The writing down of the railway's bookkeeping valuation to the system's true worth is in line with fair play and common sense.

RE-ENACT MURDER SCENE FOR POLICE

The above scene shows how the Ontario Provincial Police reenacted the "Prison Farm Murder" with the aid of prisoners who witnessed the slaying of John Blisnuik, a prisoner at the Industrial Farm, near Port Arthur, Ont., by John Bihun, a fellow prisoner. Bihun is facing a charge of murder. The two men were serving short sentences, and one barely knew the other. Bihun is reported to have said "I was just mad and did not want to work any more." He hit him over the head with an axe.

WHEAT POOL SITUATION

Owing to the lateness of the season, it was hardly expected that shipments through the local elevator would be resumed this season, but it is satisfactory to know that business this way will return to normal next year.

Prince Rupert is fortunate in having three men who were willing to drop their work and proceed without salary to Calgary to take up this matter for the city. They are deserving of our thanks.

While we believe that the delegation has done its best and that the pool would have been influenced by them if it had been possible to influence it at all, we are not at all satisfied with the position taken by the pool. Last summer we were told by its officials that it would ship more grain than ever this way, but instead of that it shipped almost nothing. The elevator might almost as well have been idle. Should there be any repetition of the situation, we suggest that Prince Rupert importune the government to cancel the lease. It could not be worse in any case and it might be a lot better. The pool has been given every possible inducement to do business here. With the elevator free for two years they had a splendid deal, but they fell down on the job.

PRINCE RUPERT'S NEXT MOVE

The next move of the people of Prince Rupert will be to get after that differential in shipping rates. The board of trade has been in a more or less leisurely manner trying to secure the lower insurance rate for Hecate Strait, but the Dominion government has failed to instal the necessary lights. Now it is promised that action will be taken by the government but the city council and Board of Trade will, doubtless, feel it advisable to again take the matter up in a determined manner with a view to having the rates set right.

ATTITUDE OF THE POOL

If the pool had wished to use the port of Prince Rupert it would have suggested the necessity of action along the lines now projected. Instead of that it takes practically all its business to Vancouver and we, until a few weeks ago, allowed it to pass as if we approved.

Possibly we should have taken action earlier. At any rate, it is satisfactory that we did not allow the pool to get away with their raw deal without making a gesture and we must be on the alert in future to take action more quickly if they fall down.

We are glad to collaborate with the Alberta organization as long as it uses us decently, but we owe it to ourselves to take up the cudgels and do it quickly if we feel that it is discriminating against us.

MATTER OF SPELLING

Spelling is one of the difficult subjects for young people to master. Some never learn and others pick it up almost intuitively. The difficulty with spelling is that it is not static. Fashions change in spelling as they do in other matters. Words become shortened just as do women's dresses. Anyone who doubts that the language is mobile should read a few pages of Chaucer. Shakespear was not sure how he should spell his own name.

Spelling is largely arbitrary. There is no great principle at stake. If a word is spelled wrong it is purely a slip of the memory and not a sign of wrong thinking. Many great men have been poor spellers.

There are a great many words on the spelling of which people differ. British Columbia is apt to struggle along, clinging to the old fashions. A great many people here continue to use the "U" in "honour," "favour" and similar words. In this paper we adopt the more modern and more common Canadian spelling, "honor," "favor." "Programme" is a long ugly word and is being shortened to "program," as is done in most centres throughout this continent.

There is a tendency in newspapers to shorten words and to omit capital letters. This is more pronounced in eastern Canada, where the mass of the people live and where are the centres of education and culture. It is particularly noticeable in Toronto. Shortening the words saves time on the linotype machines and time is money. Capitals take time, so they are often dropped. The whole tendency is toward simplification.

People who are sticklers for the older systems sometimes feel annoyed at the changes, as have the ultra-conservative people of all ages, but progress is made in spite of them. The younger people will adapt themselves to the changing conditions.

News of the Mines

AROUND PRINCE RUPERT
Consolidation of Many Stewart properties into Big New Company Mooted; Saddle and Silver Crest Mines to Be Busy; Develop Tagish Lake

A big new alignment of mining companies reported to be under way for the Portland Canal area promises the creation of a third major operating company in that district. The movement is said to have been in the making for the past three months, options being taken on the controlling interests of a number of properties lying in the area northeast of Stewart. Some of them have already been closed and, while it may be several months before the ultimate objective is attained by the principals in the movement, developments so far are reported to be giving promise of eventual success in the creation of a concern of some magnitude.

It is the belief of many mining experts that, only by the consolidation of smaller holdings into major projects, can development of the mineralized area in this region be adequately undertaken. Millions of dollars are necessary to put production on a paying basis and it is because of this fact that a group of British Columbia capitalists is planning for the future. Mining in such a field is not a work that can be successfully initiated and brought to a dividend status in a year or even two years. The preliminary work is long and tedious as well as costly but, in the end, production follows.

With Premier in possession of large areas of claims both to the north and southwest of Stewart and the Consolidated extending its holdings north of the Premier and in the Bear River region, there remains a large region lying northeast of Stewart and south of the proposed Northeastern Railway that awaits development. This is the area in which the new syndicate is planning big-scale operations with the ultimate prospect of working the ore backward toward Portland Canal for treatment at the Dunsmuir mill. This rather extensive plant is meantime idle. The property is one of considerable importance and value and should be capable of extensive development. The plant is in good condition and would for a time, adequately serve the needs of the new syndicate in concentrating. It may be months before the final objectives in the matter of consolidation materialize, but at the moment the prospects are reported to be promising and encouraging. The Consolidated is constantly exploring such recently acquired properties as the Big Missouri, George Copper and Hercules and, when it is satisfied that adequate ore has been blocked out for a long period of operation, it will, doubtless, provide the necessary mechanical equipment for the handling of the ore. Premier, though still operating successfully the parent property, is negotiating for additional holdings to the Porter-Idaho, Prosperity and Silverado in order that it may continue operations on the present basis. Three such major companies all operating in the region would tend to bring about a period of activity in the area that has never existed in the past. What has been accomplished by the Premier could, it is said, be easily duplicated by either of both of the two other large concerns and the industry at Stewart would then be placed on a real basis of solidarity.

As soon as weather permits, the Silver Crest Mining Co., Ltd., intends to finish the tram on the Saddle property in Hastings Arm which was nearly completed last season. The adit tunnel being driven to come under the main shaft on the property will also be continued to its objective with the object of opening a body of ore for early shipment. The tunnel is about 200 feet vertically below the outcropping and is said to have about 900 feet to go. Last year the Silver Crest Co. devoted its entire attention to developing the Saddle with a view to making a profitable high-grade shipper of it. In addition to continuation of work on the Saddle, the company intends this season doing some diamond drilling on the original Silver Crest property which lies in close relation to the Big Missouri. P. E. Petersen, engineer for the company, has recommended probing below the capping that covers part of the Silver Crest group to determine whether or not the ore forming rock of Big Missouri really extends into Silver Crest ground. Directors of the Silver Crest company are: A. S. Thompson, president; W. A. F.

Fitzgerald, secretary; G. Armistage, C. O. Wickenden, P. Mallett and G. A. DeHaseth.

The Yukon Gold Mining Co. plans active development this season of its property at Windy Arm on Tagish Lake close to the B. C.-Yukon boundary. The property, known as the Dail and Fleming group, is located in the mineralized belt formed along the coast range batholith contact with the granodiorite. It is believed that it may prove a valuable mineral area.

SPORTS VALUE TO BUSINESS

Financial Newspaper Considers They Advertise Countries Which Engage Them

(Financial Post)

Is it of value to Canadian trade and commerce that Percy Williams should be the world's fastest human?

Does it help Canadian business when Miss Ethel Catherwood, late of Saskatoon and now of Toronto, clears the bar at five feet three inches?

When Canadians of Montreal go to New York and skate circles around the New York Rangers, does it help to sell Canadian goods in the United States?

These are fair questions and especially are they fair questions in view of the fact that business men are from time to time called upon to contribute substantial sums of money to finance the tours of young and amateur sporting gentlemen and women. Probably in every one of the above cases the answer could be "Yes." People who produce victors in sporting events are usually people of vigorous frame, keen, alert, intelligent. They are living advertisements for the climate and environment which have helped to make them. Countries which are able to produce champions in sport are usually countries able to produce champions in business, in learning, and in art.

The Federation of British Industries, in one of its current news letters, directs attention to the value to trade of success in sports. It quotes a letter received by a Birmingham manufacturer from its representative in Australia. The letter refers to the winning of the "Ashes," symbolic of the world's cricket leadership, by the M.M.C., the English cricket team. The correspondent says:

"This, I can assure you, has been received with very great pleasure indeed by the majority of the Australian people, and it is beyond all doubt the finest British propaganda that could have happened, as for the past ten years we have had to put up with consistent, and I have no doubt inspired, propaganda from other nations, that England was a back number, a decadent nation, machinery obsolete, factories obsolete, lost her punch, could never come back, etc., etc., and today these very nations are sitting back and that England once again is supreme in her national sport, which gives the lie direct to the stuff that has been so freely circulated during the past few years.

"They have now found that England has come back, and we all feel certain that this is the greatest object lesson to the world that England has ever done, and we are pleased that the best team has won."

The best sports are those in which most people take part. For that reason, golf is of more value to the nation than track and field athletics. Skating is a better sport than hockey. It is better for the hired hands to pitch quoits behind the barn than to cheer for the village baseball team. But there is room for the type of sport where only a few can shine and one of its distinct advantages is the advertising value to the nation that can produce the champion.

OLD-TIMERS AT SMITHERS

At Native Sons Gathering Pioneers of Early Days Tell Experiences

At the "Old Timers' Night," put on by the Smithers Assembly of the Native Sons of Canada on March 12, there was a big turnout and some splendid first hand accounts were given by some of the pioneers of northern and central British Columbia of the trials and achievements of thirty years ago.

Wm. J. (commonly known as "Wiggs") O'Neill, who comes of old fur-trading stock, was born at Quesnel and grew up at Fort Simpson, told of the "Navigation of the Skeena in the 'Nineties." He traced the development of river transportation from the days when the Indian giant canoes worked their difficult way up the two hundred miles of water that lay between Port Essington at the mouth of the river and Hazelton at the head of navigation. He told how these canoes were hewn from huge cedar trees cut on the Queen Charlotte Islands by the Haidas and hollowed out to make "dug-outs" capable of holding two tons of freight. Aided by sails, paddled by hardy canoe-men, poled in the shallows, lined in the more difficult waters, they took ten to fourteen days for the upwards journey while the down-stream trip took but two. The round trip was at a wage to the men of $20.00, while the captain got $25.00.

The Hudson's Bay Company decided upon an improvement on this and about 1890 put on a steamer called the "Caledonia" to take company freight up the river. This became the chief means of communication, taking passengers and freight for others as well as the Hudson's Bay Company itself. The main route to the interior thus became the river steamer from the coast to Hazelton and then pack-trains from that point. Captain Bonser was the great river-boatman of the nineties, and there was never a better. In the winter of 1897-98 the "New Caledonia" was built, and the spring of '98 saw many new boats on the Hazelton and on the Stikine, more particularly the latter as it was one of the chief routes to the Klondike. R. G. Cunningham & Son built the "Hazelton," to rival the Hudson's Bay Company service, and there was keenest rivalry and sometimes bitterness between it and the big fur company's Mount Royal for a number of years. This was ended by the Hudson's Bay Company eventually buying the Hazelton. The Mount Royal was eventually wrecked in the Kitselas Canyon, with loss of five lives and a big cargo including a safe with $30,000 in gold dust. Many were the difficulties and dangers of those days. It took five days to get up the river, five days of the very hardest and slowest work, fighting the currents and the canyons. When the "fast water" was reached the only way that progress could be made was for Indians to go ashore and run ahead with a wire cable which they would fasten to a tree some distance ahead. The other end of this wound on a capstan at the bow of the boat, which, with full steam ahead slowly pulled and pushed itself up stream, unless the steam got low or they ran out of wood, (these were all wood-burners) when they went back to quiet water, fuelled up, and started at it once more. Though it was a five day trip going up, it was only ten hours going down, and then there was both speed and excitement, particularly in going through the main canyon at Kitselas, where many a good boat was wrecked.

With the completion of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway up the Hazelton about 1912 the steamer service was discontinued and is not likely ever to be resumed. The difficulties of navigation and the cost are both against its competing successfully with the railway.

Alex Chisholm, who hails from Pictou County in Nova Scotia, told of his personal experience on the "Trail of '98" when he went overland from the Stikine to the Klondike on what was then known as the all-Canada route. Wm. N. Clark, a Quebecker by origin and a member of the Burns Lake Assembly of the Native Sons, gave an excellent account of the building of the Yukon Telegraph Line in '99, 1900 and 1901. He was in the midst of it throughout those three years and has remained in the Telegraph service ever since.

Lyster ("Barney") Mulvany, now also of Burns Lake, a native of Ontario, told of "Pack Trails and Pack Mules of Thirty Years Ago," in a very interesting manner. Frank M. Dockrill of Telkwa, Ontario born but British Columbia bred, gave a splendid account of "Early Days of Mining in Northern and Central British Columbia," in which he has played an important part since going to Atlin in 1899.

POULTRY CLUBS AT TERRACE

A Number Formed Following Meeting Addressed by W. E. Waby

TERRACE, March 15:—At a meeting held under the auspices of the farmer's institute on Tuesday evening in the Terrace Theatre, C. S. Phillips of Smithers addressed the gathering on the growing of fruit and the care of fruit trees and bushes. W. E. Waby of Salmon Arm, gave a talk on poultry raising and the forming of poultry clubs in the district. Following his talk it was decided to organize clubs among the children, and Mrs. James McConnell was named as organizer. Four clubs of five members each were readily filled up—one each for Leghorns, Barred Rocks, Rhode Island Reds and Wyandottes, and it is expected to arrange for another club of Leghorn enthusiasts.

Government assistance given in the purchasing of the egg settings which are obtained from pedigreed stock of good strain and sold to the children at fifty cents a setting. Government inspection of chickens, chicken pens, method of caring for the birds, etc., is given and generous prizes are awarded in the fall. The child receiving the highest number of points on all counts is given a free trip to Victoria.

TELL ABOUT TRADE WITH WEST INDIES

Vice-President of C.N.R. Returns From Visit on New Steamer

MONTREAL, March 14:—"Unquestionably there are opportunities for the development of trade between the British West Indies and Canada, but it will be necessary to effect considerable organization, both on the Islands and in Canada, to achieve the measure of the possibilities," said D. E. Galloway, vice-president of the Canadian National Steamships, who has returned to Montreal after a voyage from Halifax to Bermuda, the British West Indies and Demerara on R. M. S. "Lady Hawkins," one of the new fleet of vessels, placed in operation to provide mail, passengers and freight service in accordance with the provisions of the trade agreement.

"I noticed at some points," said Mr. Galloway, "that lumber of non-British origin was being used, and I think that this could well be replaced by Canadian timber. However, I found sentiment in the Islands very favorably inclined to Canadian products of every character, with perhaps the exception to boots and shoes, those of English manufacture possessing attraction of suitable price."

Mr. Galloway spoke in high terms of the quality of the fruits and vegetables offered during the voyage and expressed the opinion that they would prove very attractive to Canadian consumers during the seasons when such products are available.

The vice-president spoke most enthusiastically of the "Lady Hawkins," and the ports of call on the route. "Each island has a charm all its own," he said, "and the arrival at new places adds delightful interest to each day."

Mr. Galloway said that the Lady Hawkins returned to Saint John with a full list of passengers and full cargo. "Loaded to the hatches," as he expressed it. A large part of the return cargo was made up of sugar and molasses.

There were many expressions from people of the Islands, appreciative of the handsome manner in which the government of Canada had carried out the provisions of the trade agreement by building such fine ships and there is every reason to believe that the trade will expand.

Mr. Galloway said that the Lady Somers, one of the two new steamers intended for the service to the West Indies, had sailed during the day from Birkenhead, England, for Halifax. This steamer will inaugurate the service by sailing from Halifax on April 12 to Bermuda, Nas-

DEATH WARRANT WAS CANCELLED

Aviator uses Kellogg's ALL-BRAN with beneficial effects

"I didn't 'go west' in France, but came home to Canada carrying my death-warrant, the doctor declared. I weighed exactly 120 pounds—not much for a six-footer. Look at me now! 185, and as hard as nails!"

The speaker (name if requested) was a young Canadian who served overseas with the Royal Flying Corps, and returned in 1918 a mere shadow of a man. His uncle, a prominent doctor, suggested Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. After one month's trial, he felt better. He persevered, and in three months was back at his position, healthy and happy.

The best part of the story is: his health has lasted as only health gained in a natural manner can last. He is still holding his strenuous position as editor of a successful publication.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN will relieve constipation and the chain of ills that arise from it, permanently and naturally, if eaten regularly. Eat at least two tablespoonfuls daily—in chronic cases at every meal. Only ALL-BRAN can conquer constipation.

SENSATIONAL MYSTERY PLAY AT WESTHOLME

"The Canary Murder Case," an S. S. Van Dine story, which is the week-end feature at the Westholme, is a movie that is different. The plot, which centres around the murder of "The Canary," a pretty chorus girl, is without doubt the most baffling mystery ever presented on the screen.

The murder which is committed in most mysterious circumstances provides the audience with a knotty problem to solve which holds the interest of each member of it from start to finish. Many characters are suspected and clues are furnished as the story is unfolded. Movie fans with an amateur detective bent and others fond of mysteries will have the time of their lives.

William Powell, Louise Brooks, head a notable caste which ensures that the play is put over in first-class style. This picture is booked to play at the Capitol in Vancouver early in May.

There is also the popular serial "The Masked Menace" and a "Film Fable." Between shows the Premier Orchestra, an organization of local young people will appear on the stage and render specialty jazz numbers. There is a specially arranged program of synchronized music with sound effects.
