Steamship Aleutian Struck Rock and Sank on Coast of Kodiak Island in Alaska

Only Man Lost of Crew of 135 and Sixteen Passengers
Was Man Who Went Back for Lucky Horseshoe

SEATTLE, May 27.—The Alaska Steamship Co.'s liner Aleutian struck a rock in Uyak Bay on the jagged coast of Kodiak Island early yesterday and sank in deep water. The crew of 135 and 16 passengers were taken off by the geodetic survey steamer Surveyor and taken to Seward.

SEWARD, May 27.—Heavy sea is delaying the return of the crew and passengers of the sunken steamship Aleutian, said a radio message from Capt. R. R. Lukens of the survey ship Surveyor. Captain Lukens said his ship, which was carrying 150 rescued persons, would probably arrive here this afternoon.

SEATTLE, May 27.—Manual Dorras of the crew of the Alaskan Steamship Company's liner Aleutian, who climbed back on the ship from the lifeboat to rescue a "lucky" horseshoe, was the only fatality when the vessel struck a rock and plunged to the bottom of Uyak Bay, near Kodiak Island, Alaska, yesterday. The weather was normal. At the time of the crash at 7:30 a.m., an SOS call brought the Surveyor to the scene. Survivors, in the meantime, were transferred to lifeboats.

The disaster occurred three months after the steamship, valued at $700,000, struck a rock in Seymour Narrows on February 24. The two crashes were the first serious ones for Capt. John G. Nord of Seattle, master of the Aleutian, in 30 years of service in Alaskan waters.

Captain Nord boarded Surveyor, but later returned to the scene of the accident in a launch with some of his officers, heart-broken over the accident. Captain Nord wished to survey scene to see if there was a possibility of salvaging the vessel.

Dorras, janitor in crew's quarters, was forward when the ship took a sudden plunge.

The cabin passengers who are being returned to Seattle include J. H. Flickinger, his wife, and Mrs. Charles C. Weybrocht of Seward.

Appreciation was voiced at the recent British Columbia conference of the United Church of Canada in Vancouver of the services of Rev. T. H. Very Pronounced Earthquake Shock Felt Yesterday

Houses Rocked and China Rattled but No Damage Done;
Outside Points Report Tremblor Felt

Yesterday afternoon at 2:42 Prince Rupert experienced the most distinct earthquake shock in the memory of the earliest residents of the city. The Digby Island meteorological station, while not equipped with instruments for the recording of earthquake shocks, felt the tremblor quite distinctly and placed its duration at about thirty seconds. In all parts of the city the shock was observed, but it was not severe enough to do any damage here.

Many residents report that their houses rocked quite noticeably and in some cases furniture such as china cabinets shook and electric light fixtures swayed. To others the disturbance sounded like some sort of commotion in their basements and so noticeable was it in one case at least that a man went downstairs to investigate. Another report was that a sidewalk on which a man was standing seemed to rock and still another stated that his standing car swayed in a rather unusual manner.

Earthquake shocks being so uncommon here, many people, while noticing the disturbance, did not think of an earth tremor at the time.

One visitor here from southern California stated that the shock was quite as distinct as those that are commonly felt in that state.

Ketchikan, places on the Skeena River and other points in the neighborhood report having felt the shock quite distinctly but, as far as could be learned, no damage had been done in the immediate vicinity. Local residents were anxious to learn this morning of the centre of the disturbance and if it was more serious elsewhere.

Arrivals from Cassiar state that the quake was felt there by persons sitting on the dock. The whole dock swayed and the barrels on top of the cannery buildings trembled and moved. The disturbance was very marked.

Anyx and Stewart also report feeling the quake. It cracked the plaster of some of the houses, it was reported at the latter place.

The shock was so distinctly felt at Shawatlans Lake that two boys who were camping there were almost knocked off their feet.

Mrs. Grimason at Osland yesterday, reports that a woodpile fell down with the shock and the house was shaken considerably.

EXCURSION TO PEACE RIVER

At the end of August the Canadian Chamber of Commerce will make a tour of the Peace River country. Already in the East eighty people have signified their intention of making the trip. Vancouver is likely to send nearly one hundred members from their Board of Trade. Every province of Canada will be represented. Members of the Alberta Government will be of the party and probably members of the Dominion Government. It will be one of the most important groups of businessmen that has ever toured the west.

What is Prince Rupert to do? It is hoped that the port will be one of the outlets for the Peace River, but very few people from here have yet visited the country. They know only what they have read or heard.

We suggest that a delegation of at least twenty should go from Prince Rupert in order to show our interest and to combat any movement toward taking everything south. Let these Eastern people see that Prince Rupert is an important centre and that her people are enterprising.

Suppose every important organization in the city were to finance delegates, there would be a respectable representation. Among the orders likely to be able to send at least one the following have been suggested: City Council, Board of Trade, Fair Board, Rotary Club, Gyro Club, Tsimpsan Masonic Lodge, Tye Masonic Lodge, Shrine Club, Kaien Chapter, R.A.M., Kinkolith Preceptory of Knights Templars, Elks, Moose, Eagles, Odd-fellow, Canadian Legion, Salmon Fishermen's Association, Orange Lodge, Knights of Pythias, Football Association, Deep Sea Fishermen's Union, Retail Merchants' Conservative Association, Liberal Association, Radio Association, St. Andrew's Society, Lief Erickson Society, St. George Society, Valhalla Lodge, Players' Club, Prince Rupert Singers, The Churches, Pioneer Association, Native Sons, Trades and Labor Council, Knights of Columbus, Daughters of the Empire, Eastern Star, Royal Purple, Mooseheart Legion, Rebekahs, Pythian Sisters, Ladies' Music Club, Merchant Service Guild, Halibut Vessel Owners, Women's Canadian Club, Automobile Club, Yacht Club, and possibly others.

It is not suggested that these organizations should send men or women representing their particular lines of work or thought, but should help to finance the sending of a large delegation, so that the city should not lose this opportunity of interesting the big men of the country in Prince Rupert as a Pacific outlet for the Peace River country. There are several people in the city who may finance their own trips, but the majority will find it impossible to do so.

ROTARY HOLDS ITS CONVENTION

Immense Affair in Which 48 Nations of World Are Taking Part

BIG TEXAS WELCOME

Five Hundred Girls Take Part in Mammoth Pageant This Evening

DALLAS, Texas, May 27.—The people of Texas opened wide their arms Saturday to extend a traditional southern welcome to the Rotarians representing 48 nations, arriving for their twentieth annual international convention. In its beautiful early summer dress of green, the Texas State Fair park beckoned to the thousands of visitors who are holding their meetings and most of their entertainment affairs in the park buildings. Special trains, automobiles and airplanes brought the delegations, some of which have been en route for weeks, and the international house-warming for which the Texas Rotarians have been planning for months is going on.

One of the outstanding features of this convention is the division of the thousands of visiting business and professional men into separate groups according to their several vocations, so that the aims and objects of Rotary as applicable to their own particular craft may be freely discussed by Rotarians from many different parts of the world. There will be more than a hundred of these miniature international craft conventions tomorrow.

The international fellowship which is one of the great objects of Rotarians will find in the Texas State Fair Park and in the warmth of the welcome of Dallas an especially beneficent atmosphere. For its entertainment program alone, the Dallas Rotary convention will be unusual. The House of Friendship, a distinctive institution of Rotary conventions, has for its setting this year a huge exhibition building filled with cozy little Spanish bungalows in which each of the 72 districts into which Rotary clubs are grouped has its personal headquarters for leisure moments. The young ladies of Dallas have a prominent part in the program. Five hundred of them, in groups of nine, costumed in the native dress of each of the countries in which there are Rotary clubs, will escort the colors of those countries into the stadium to surround a mammoth Rotary wheel in this evening's pageant. In the chief social affair for the visiting ladies hundreds of girls will scatter flowers in the path of their guests as they enter the grounds of the beautiful Dallas Country Club for "An Afternoon in the Old South." And as hostesses at the grand ball in honor of President and Mrs. I. B. Sutton of Tampico, Mexico, and the other officers of Rotary International and their ladies on Wednesday evening, the Dallas girls will have an important part in that brilliant fete.

There is plenty of activity in the Morrow home at Englewood, N.J., where Anne Morrow, fiancée of Col. Lindbergh, and her sister, Elizabeth, above, are now staying. The latest party is reported to be in honor of the engagement of Miss Elizabeth to (whom?) that's the mystery.

PEOPLE RUSHED TO THE STREET RESULT QUAKE

Terrace People Startled by Tumbler Yesterday Afternoon

TERRACE, May 27.—A distinct earthquake was felt here Sunday at about 2:35, lasting about two minutes. It was noticed at Shames and Lakelse Lake, as well as in town. Pictures moved on the walls and dishes rattled. Occupants of the second storey in the Sandal Block rushed to the street as the building shook.

Picnickers at Lakelse Lake experienced the sensation of the earth swaying, causing dizziness.

PRAIRIE SEED IS ALL SOWN

Prospects Pretty Good So Far in Spite of Cool Weather

WINNIPEG, May 27.—Seeding of wheat in the prairie provinces is now completed, according to the fourth weekly crop report of the Canadian National Railways. Generally speaking, about 75 per cent of the coarser grains are also in the ground and it is expected that the remainder of this work will be completed this week.

Although, on the whole, the weather has remained dry and cool, there is plenty of moisture in the ground for present needs, and there is no cause for any anxiety. In the majority of sections wheat is above the ground and the cooler weather is assisting it to secure deep root, which will be valuable later in the year if there should be lack of moisture. While no heavy rains have been experienced, there were some light showers in many parts during the past week which have aided in building a reserve of moisture. In fact, no complaints are voiced about dry conditions except in and about the Prince Albert and Melfort districts in Saskatchewan and the Bonnyville district in Alberta, where the high winds have caused a rapid drying out of the lighter soils. In Manitoba conditions are particularly good at the moment and in Saskatchewan and Alberta they may be rated as average.

GET IN THE SWEET CORN

Sweet corn above all other vegetables is a home garden crop. It can't be obtained in its full sweetness and finest quality except in the home grown patch or in the immediate vicinity of the home where the time between picking and eating is a matter of two or three hours. That is about the limit of time sweet corn can stand after picking without beginning to go off in quality.

While corn is a hot weather crop and the seed cannot be sown with safety until the weather has passed the date of the likelihood of frost it is also a vegetable that does not thrive in hot climates. It is at its best in the northern half of the country. It is a typical American vegetable and is not well known in other countries. It is a variety of the common field corn but it has never been found growing wild.

Sweet corn wants rich soil and it wants warm soil. It likes a good supply of moisture but won't thrive under waterlogging. The popular taste has swung away from the older white kernelled corn to the sugary little Golden Bantam corn, as yellow as the yellowest field corn.

MEDALS FOR PRIZE VEGETABLES

The National Garden Bureau through this newspaper offers to any garden club or other organization holding an amateur flower and garden show the bronze medal illustrated above to be awarded for the best collection of vegetables grown in a home garden. The object of this offer is to encourage competition among vegetable growers. Medals may be obtained by applying to the editor of this newspaper.

GREEN PEAS LAST CHANCE

The time for the last planting of peas is approaching. Make the most of it. The green pea season is short at best and several plantings are needed to make the season a substantial one. Plant early varieties for the latest crop. Peas do not flourish when hot weather sets in and they must be planted so that they have practically completed their vine production by July and can devote the remainder of their career to maturing pods.

Annabell Annual Says:

Plant some cos lettuce for late crop now. It stands heat better than head or leaf lettuce.

Get in a row of Swiss chard for all summer greens.

Don't be in a hurry to put out egg plant. It won't move until it is hot. Then it will sprout.

Thin the annuals, especially poppies. Let the pops have a foot each way and grow real poppies.

Sow salpiglossis in the open ground and let it have its own way. It is finicky but will surprise you by making some good plants. A part of every seed crop seems bound to die so sow liberally and thin when it looks healthy.

COXCOMBS, CRESTED AND PLUMED

With the decline of carpet bedding and its artificial design, there was a very showy annual which was a delight to the carpet gardener because of the regular masses of brilliant red which it gave. This was the dwarf crested coxcomb which on plants only a few inches high spreads a monstrous "comb" of velvety crimson. It was something of a monstrosity but of gorgeous coloring and singular interest from its monstrous form.

The modern successors to these dwarf deformities are of an entirely different type and of an airy grace far removed from their close relations of the carpet bedding days. These are the plummy coxcombs or celosias which in airy grace and texture and delicacy and brilliancy of coloring rival ostrich plumes.

There are various types of the plummy coxcomb which have great garden popularity and deservedly so. The Chinese woolflower is a rather recent addition to the list carrying itself with balls of violet wool and making a brilliant spot in the garden. The

PINKS OF PERFECTION

There is nothing more appealing in the garden than the great race of pinks known botanically as dianthus. From wee little plants two inches high demanding the best skill of the rock gardener to the wide spreading mats made by the grass pinks of June dianthus plumarius, there is a wide range of color and in a great many of them, a delightful spicy fragrance.

The sweet williams belong in the family. All of them are very easily raised from seed, being one of the quickest plants in the garden list to germinate, the seed coming up in less than a week. The carnations are another class of pinks. A great variety of pinks can be used to excellent advantage in the garden. The rich velvety reds and crimson of the Chinese and Japanese pink very often fringed like a napkin, can be quickly raised from seed and brought into flower. The biennial and perennial forms, however are the most useful.

The hardy pinks seem specially designed for edgings, making a flat cushion of blue grey foliage ornamental at all seasons and during June being covered with a wealth of bloom. The old fashioned June pink crossed with the carnation has given us the Allwood pinks; a race with flowers of the substance of the carnation

BEAN PLANTING TIME IS HERE

When string beans and sweet corn are planted the vegetable garden is practically complete so far as the spring season is concerned. They are the last of the main crops to be planted in quantity. The string bean is the omnipresent vegetable. Everybody grows it, everybody likes it and it produces for everybody.

Just where the string bean originated is somewhat uncertain but it is believed to have come from tropical America. In ancient times only the ripened beans were eaten. Just who discovered that the green pods were good to eat without waiting for the beans to develop is not recorded in horticultural history but it has been known for many years.

Instead of working for the bean seeds, the only ambition in growing string beans is to develop as quickly as possible an abundant crop of tender pods. To do this, warm, mellow and rich soil is necessary for the best results. The bean will produce under adverse conditions, it is true but the yield is tenfold greater under the best conditions than in poor soil in partial shade where they are sometimes grown and even there they yield a picking or so.

GOOD REASON

Office Boy—Lady to see you, sir.
Busy Employer—Tell her I'm engaged.
"That's what she's here about, sir. You were to have married her today."—Public Opinion.

THE CHILDREN'S GARDEN

One thing we must remember is that plants are living things. They are not machines. If we treat them as we treat machines, we will get into trouble.

Plants need water, just as gasolines need oil. But if we give an engine more gas, it will run faster; but if we give a plant more water than it needs, it will die. There are many people who fail with plants for no other reason than that they forget about them being living things, and treat them more like machines.

You must water plants when they are thirsty and give them plenty to drink at that time. They will always be thirsty when it has not rained for a week; or when the weather is very hot and the soil is dry for several inches down.

Plants are sometimes attacked by insects; and they need protection from them. There are powders which can be dusted on them; and liquids which can be sprayed on them, which will keep the insects off, and kill those which have begun to eat the

Some of these things are poisonous to you and some are not. All should be handled with great care. Never touch them without asking permission from your mother or father, and being shown just how they are to be used.

Of course plants must be fed and while there is food in the soil which they take up through their roots, they will always do better if given extra amounts of certain foods especially when they are young. These extra foods are called fertilizers; and they are well worth using. One called nitrogen makes the plants grow fast; one called phosphorous makes them grow tall with large and long stems; and one called potash helps make the flowers brilliant and the fruits large.

The safest way to apply these fertilizers is in the form of a mixture of all three, in a form which will dissolve easily in water.

AROUND PRINCE RUPERT

Prince Rupert a Mining Centre; Taylor Interested in Babine; To Complete Tramway at Saddle

Situated conveniently as a point of departure for the great potential mining fields of Alice Arm, Stewart, the central interior and the north coast, Prince Rupert is becoming a mecca this spring for the engineers and field men of most of the important large mining corporations. Daily there are new faces arriving here who are interested in one way or another in the mining resources of the district and their presence here cannot but be of benefit to the city. As very few of the mining companies have offices here, the visitors often go unheralded and unknown and announcements as to their activities are frequently deferred or unlearned of. Northern British Columbia mining is attracting more attention than ever this year. Some day the convenient centre of Prince Rupert may enjoy more directly the benefits of this industry than it is doing today. In any case, it is now helping to keep this place on the world's business map.

F. H. Taylor, managing-director of the Topley Richfield, and Owen Lake Mines, was a recent visitor in Burns Lake on mining business. Mr. Taylor is said to have his eye on the development of an area in the Babine district, which has been ignored by a good many mining interests in the past.

The Silver Crest Mining Co. plans to complete the tramway to the Saddle property on Hastings Arm this season. Development of the mine will be carried on at the same time and it is expected that ore shipments will be made this summer. A. Knox has taken charge of the Saddle, being succeeded by E. C. Pickett on the Tiger at Alice Arm.

Toric shareholders have formally ratified negotiations whereby the Britannia Mining & Smelting Co., Ltd., takes over the development of the Toric property at Alice Arm. Under the agreement Britannia will carry on an extensive program of development during the coming summer and has the option to form an operating company, of which the present Toric company will hold a one-quarter interest. The sum of $50,000 has been advanced to the Toric company to liquidate its liabilities. The deal will enable Toric shareholders to reap the benefit of development work which has demonstrated the mine to be a valuable producer.

Andrew Sostad, well known northern mining engineer, is now in Atlin to continue in the capacity of general manager of the Discovery Mining & Power Co., which is developing a large hydraulic operation on Pine Creek. Production, it is expected, will be reached this season and when in operation the Pine Creek plant will be the biggest hydraulic mine in British Columbia. Pine Creek was the scene of the original discoveries of gold in the Atlin district in 1897 and has produced more gold than any other creek in that camp. The present operation, taking in the lower reaches of the creek, is controlled by a New York group, headed by Charles V. Boh. This is the same group that controls the Engineer gold quartz mine in the same district, of which Mr. Sostad is also in charge.

Preparations are being made for an active mining season in the Stikine River and Dease Lake district. A. H. Bryant, general manager of the Cassiar Hydraulic Mines, Ltd., has a crew of twelve men on the ground and will employ twenty later in the summer on Dease Creek, about three miles above Dease Lake. Construction will include four miles of ditch, 2000 feet of flume and a pipe line. Equipment includes a power shovel. Production is expected to start early next year. Dease Creek Mines, of which J. B. Bliok is president, has completed most of its preliminary work and expects to start production from its placer next month. Gibbon Mines on Mosquito Creek has started a crew of five men on preliminary work.

BULKLEY VALLEY MINING BOOKLET IS JUST ISSUED

One of the most valuable publications on mining recently issued is that on Bulkley Valley Mining issued by the Smithers Board of Trade.

It is understood that this booklet, which is accompanied by a valuable map showing the location of the principal mining properties, was prepared by L. S. McGill, chairman of the mining bureau, in collaboration with mining men of the district and approved by the district mining engineer, Douglas Lay.

The booklet is nicely illustrated and well printed.
