SI. GEORGE'S DAY GREETINGS

HOOVER RESPONSIBLE FOR NEW NAVAL PLANS

Message of Thanks is Sent by King George to All His Sympathizers Everywhere

Head of British Empire Expresses His Sense of the Oneness of Human Sympathy and a Desire for Closer Linking of Nations to Each Other

LONDON, April 23. — Expressing his thanks to his people for their solicitude and prayers during his recent long and severe illness, King George addressed a message to the Empire which was made public last night:

"Looking back on my long illness and recovery my heart is full of thankfulness of a far deeper origin than any mere sense of relief. I have been brought back from the danger and weariness of the past few months by the wonderful skill and devotion of my doctors and nurses and health has come to me from another source of strength.

"As month after month went by, I learned of the widespread and loving solicitude with which the Queen and I have been surrounded. I am able to picture to myself the crowds of friends waiting and watching at my gates and to think of a still greater number of those who throughout the Empire were remembering me with prayers and good wishes. Realization of this has been among the most vivid experiences of my life. It is encouragement beyond description to feel that my constant and earnest desire has been granted. My desire to gain the confidence and affection of my people."

"My thoughts carried me even further. I cannot dwell on the generous sympathy shown me by unknown friends in many other countries without new and moving hope. I long to believe it possible that experiences such as mine may soon appear no longer exceptional when the national anxieties of all peoples of the world shall be felt as a common source of human sympathy and a common claim on human friendship:

"I am not able to bear the strain of a public ceremony, fore his long and serious illness. but I am looking forward to some appointed day for joining my people at home and overseas in thanking God not only for my own recovery, but for new evidences of grow- Well Known Commercial Traveller ing kindliness significant of the true nature of man and nations. In the meantime, I hope that this message may reach all those even in the most remote corners of the world from whom I have received worlds of sympathy and good will."

ST. GEORGE'S DAY

This is St. George's Day. It is the day kept by Englishmen in memory of the tutelary saint of their country just as St. Patrick's Day is kept by Irishmen. However, the average Englishman is not much concerned about patron saints and the man who slew the cragen is little known.

Englishmen take for granted many things which people of other nations talk about a great deal. They have no natal lay, no special national commemoration other than today. Even the old songs in which the flag was glorified and the memory of the heroes and the name Englishman extolled have gone into the discard except among a few. They became closely associated with beer drinking and that killed them.

Today the Englishman, still prond of his country, sees her faults as well as her virtues. He no longer boasts of her ability to lick the world or her freedom from slavery. But he recognizes her greatness, a greatness that is like the deity, too exalted for human expression.

EDITORIAL Anglo-American Concord is Seen in Naval Affairs

President Hoover Takes New View of Situation Recognizing Need of Great Britain for Small Cruisers

GENEVA, April 23. — Anglo-American friendship is generally deemed to have made a giant forward stride as a result of the American offers yesterday for the settlement of world naval problems. The spontanity with which Lord Cushendun, British under-secretary for forign affairs, hailed the declarations of Hugh Gibson, Unied States representative at the preparatory armament conference, which really were declarations of President Hoover, has produced a most optimistic atmosphere and lopes were high that not only an agreement to reduce laval forces may be attained eventually, but that also problems of world armaments in all their branches, sea, and and air, one day may find some happy solution.

The fundamental principle of the United States proposal is that of reducing the fleets by applying the idea of equivalent tonnage. The suggestion of estimating the equivalent tonnage by taking into consideration other factors than mere tonnage of warships is in its essence believed to represent an American effort to dispose of the question of naval parity which for a long time caused discussion between America and Britain. It is believed to embody the carnest United States desire to recognize Britain's need for a reasonable number of smaller sized cruisers to maintain the communications of the mother

If the equivalent tonnage system is adopted, it is conceivable that Britain might have more small cruisers than Late E. A. Haggen Was Well the United States because of their effective value. Counted in the reckoning their total tonnage would be counted as less than their actual tonnage value.

Two Smithers basketball teams motored to Telkwa last week to display their wares in exhibitions with the rugged Telkwa teams. The Smithers girls were forced into overtime before gaining a verdict over the Telkwa ladies, the final score being 13 to 11. The men's aggregation from Smithers encountered unexpected opposition, and following a listless first half, they failed to overtake Telkwa's lead and took the small end of a 21 to 20 count.

The people who watch the game of diplomacy never quite know why things are done. eled as far as 800 miles from The refusal of the two countries to get together may have been part of a pre-arranged plan.

IN RIGHT DIRECTION

The movement for united action by Britain and United States is a step in the right direction. With such a union that a halibut weighing 70 pounds there would be nothing to fear from any nation or combination of nations. It would be the greatest force for peace yet discovered in this world.

BAD PRECEDENT

The move of the Provincial Government to replace employees who served under the former administration by faithful followers who supported them is a bad precedent to set. It may be argued that it is not a precedent, but has been established as a custom by former governments. That to some extent is true, but it is only an excuse, not a reason. Each government has been more or less at fault, but it will be remembered that Premier Tolmie made promises in this regard when he was in Prince Rupert. He also made similar promises elsewhere. These promises have been broken. What is expected is that each government will be better than the preceeding one.

In some cases the changes have been of a petty nature. Not all of them have been wrong. There have been cases where the persons dismissed have brought it on themselves by taking part in political activities. There have probably been a few who were inefficient, but also there have been people removed because they were appointees of the former administration and others wanted the position. The who, exercising his constitutional whole patronage system is an evil which eventually will powers, went over the heads of have to go and the sooner it disappears the better.

ST. GEORGE'S DAY

For Englishmen Overseas

Unite we today in a spirit fraternal
In honor of England and England's Saint George;
To honor the spirit, the spirit of England,
Bred in her sons in the land of their birth.

With pride do we cherish our ancient traditions:
Justice and freedom where'er the flag flies!
Greatly to do and dare all things for duty;
To honor our pledges whatever they cost.

Traditions like these are the soul of Old England, Born of great spirits who gave their to her. Whenever we fail to be worthy our heritage, Her soul is untarnished, the shame is our own,

None cherish her more than we who are absent.

What know they of love who have ne'er had to part?

The children of England, tho' ocean's leagues sever

Cherish her dearly, deep, deep in their hearts.

Hail then! Oh, England! Great Mother of Empfre!
Hail to St. George! England's own Patron Saint!
Here on this festival, in spirit fraternal,
We greet thee,—St. George and Old England,—All Hail!

The true purpose of a Budget

ERY year you spend a large proportion of the money you get. So much for clothing. So much for shoes. So much for things to eat—for house furnishings, books and what not.

Here is the way to get the most for your money.

Keep a budget. Decide what you can afford to spend for each item, and hold yourself within this amount.

Then—to get the most for your budget money read advertisements carefully. The advertisements you read tell you what is newest and best. They give you the latest ideas and improvements. They help you to get more from each dollar you have apportioned in your budget—and so live better and dress better with the same income.

The true purpose of a budget is to enable you to spend wisely—and only by careful reading of advertising can you hope to accomplish this result.

Read advertising regularly. It points the way to better living.
