Large Colonization Scheme for Peace River Country Is Reported from London, Eng.

British Miners Being Trained, It Is Said, to Cultivate Huge Tract in Northern Alberta and Contiguous District

TORONTO, Feb. 22.—The Star published the following dispatch from Ottawa purporting to be a statement published in the London Daily News to the effect that the British government is training miners to cultivate 70,000,000 acres in the Peace River country. This lifts the veil from one of the most ambitious colonization and development programs yet visualized for Canada.

Officially the Canadian government has no direct responsibility for the scheme. For the past three years or more financial interests of international prominence have been dealing with details of the project, which embodies not only the agricultural development of more than 70,000,000 acres in northern Alberta and the northern territory immediately north of the Peace River, but takes into account the exploitation of the natural resources, such as oil, minerals, timber, water-power, etc., on a scale unprecedented.

It was known that the general colonization plan had been placed before the governments of several countries. Britain and Scandinavia are the sources from which it is hoped to derive the major settlement. The general plan includes railways, highways and the extension of the Alberta boundaries to bringing in the territory for some hundred miles north of the Peace River.

The premier recalled the deficit of the former administration which had gradually been changed into surpluses by the Liberal government and asserted that it was by such economies that it had been possible.

Sport Chat

Miller Huggins, manager of the Yankees, is too big to be caught in the middle of one of the revived arguments about the greatest ball clubs of all times or the greatest players. Ed. Barrow, business manager of the club, went on record with his opinions and put Babe fourth on the list of the great ball players of all time. After Mr. Barrow's opinions had been published there were unkind comments made that he was talking through the cash register. It was pointed out that the Babe was in the last year of his $70,000 a year contract and that it wouldn't do the business manager any harm to put the Babe in his proper place.

But little Huggins would not be put on the stand to testify against his ball player. He found a crafty way of expressing himself. "It is impossible," he said, "to rate the class of all the present and old-time stars because they all played under conditions and circumstances that were not similar. Supposing that Ruth, Wagner, Cobb, Speaker and LaJoie were all in their prime at the present moment and that they were put on the market for sale. Which of the players do you think would command the greatest money? I think that the bidding for Ruth and Cobb would be the most spirited and I could not ease myself out of the problem by buying both of them."

The second half of the schedule for senior, ladies and intermediate basketball is now under way at Anyox, and will be only broken by the excursion of the smelter town players for a series of games with the locals this week-end. Judging from the keenness and closeness of league play at Anyox, the visitors should give the Prince Rupert competitors some real snappy competition.

Badminton is another brand of sport that is being played with some enthusiasm at Anyox this winter. The club at the smelter town started a tournament this week to decide the Anyox champions. Now that Prince Rupert champs have been decided and Anyox ones soon will be, perhaps an inter-town tournament might be in order.

Benny Wendle, formerly of this city, continues to knock 'em over in the south. Last week he scored a technical k.o. over Buster Robinson in Victoria. Last night in Vancouver he took on Jack Sweeney, a promising looking newcomer from Powell River, in one of the prelims on a card with a ten-rounder between Billy Adam and Punch 'Em Paul Delaney.

THE BOYS' BAND

The Boys' Band is one of the most important institutions in Prince Rupert. It has done excellent work and much credit is due to those who organized it and to the bandmaster who trained the lads to bring them to their present proficiency. A meeting is being held tonight with a view to placing the band on a better basis. Until now the committee in charge has been unofficially appointed. Now it is proposed to have a constitution and arrange for the financing in such a manner as not to make it necessary to collect money from house to house, or to pass the hat on the street, a course of action which does not lend dignity to the institution.

We take it that Prince Rupert is proud of the band and is anxious for its continued success. The new committee will have in hand the work of financing and carrying on. They will be supreme and will pay the salary of the bandmaster.

We also would like to suggest that in employing a bandmaster the work previously done by the bandmaster should have consideration. While the good of the band should be the only thought, the bandmaster who has had charge of the work has been tried and the results are before us. We know what he can do and the members of the band like him. That is a great deal in his favor.

All who have the interests of the band at heart are asked to be present at the meeting tonight.

DIED ABORNIN'
(Victoria Times)

It did not take the house of commons long to write the obituary of the agitation sponsored, if not fathered, by Mr. Cahan, one of the Montreal members, for the restoration of titles in Canada.

While the motion in itself did not provide for the revival of titles, but called for an inquiry into the matter by a committee, it undoubtedly was intended to be the thin edge of a wedge which would have been driven farther if the operation could be started.

The vote was almost two to one against the motion, so the infant died abornin'. It is unlikely, however, that it will stay dead. Like the proverbial cat, it has nine lives and we shall hear from it again and again—in fact, as long as new-rich social climbers and sundry puffed-up politicians believe that in this system lies their best prospect of getting into a Canadian edition of Burke's or DeBrett's register of nobility. Yesterday's vote, however, shows that this is the most forlorn of forlorn hopes.

Ottawa dispatches report both the prime minister and the leader of the opposition as voting for Mr. Cahan's motion. This does not necessarily imply that they favor more than an investigation of the subject of titles in Canada, but the onus is upon them to prove that they do not cherish the aspiration to become Viscount King of Prince Albert, and Baron Bennett of Calgary.

In any case, it is safe to predict that the resolution of the house of commons which put an end to the bestowal of titles in Canada—the credit for which belongs largely to Conservative members, by the way—never will be rescinded.

DOUBLE REPRESENTED

It seems to be a good thing for Prince Rupert that there are two men who are working for her at Ottawa. There is the accredited member, J. C. Brady, who speaks often in the house and is quite active. There is also just now the Liberal candidate who at his own expense has made a trip to the capital to see what he can do in his official capacity as being the man to whom the Liberal government looks for advice. In his quiet way he has been pressing on the ministers the needs of the city and the desirability of spending some money here. Without his aid we should probably have got little or nothing. As a community we can congratulate ourselves on our unique position and hope for good results.

THAT CANADIAN FLAG

Here is some of the argument put forward in favor of a distinctive Canadian flag during a debate in Victoria recently:

That lack of a distinctive Canadian flag was to the prejudice of Canadianism; that Canada was a nation without a flag, first because the present flag was not official, second because it was not in any event distinctively Canadian in that it did not express the genius and spirit of the Canadian people; that the development of Canadian nationalism was of the greatest importance, because only by that means could Canada preserve unity in the British Commonwealth, only by that means could Canada's unity apart from the United States be assured, that only by that means could the migration of young Canadians to the United States be stopped.

It looks as if the cold weather in Europe is settling the coal miners' situation even quicker than could the Prince of Wales.

The irrepressible Mary Ellen is to enter the lists once more. That's what comes of being a widow and publicly tossed by a premier.

The Conservatives around town say Brady got the money for the floats and the Liberals say it was Hanson, so there you are. Take your choice, ladies and gentlemen, it's all the same to us.

Even a farmer government does not seem to be above suspicion these days. There is the Bracken government down in Manitoba being investigated and found somewhat wanting in integrity.

GOOD YEAR FOR KNOX CHURCH

Terrace United Church Congregation Extending Its Young People's Activities

TERRACE, Feb. 22.—The annual meeting of Knox United Church was held in the church on the evening of Tuesday. Most encouraging reports were received from each department of church activity. In the absence of A. H. Barker, treasurer, the financial report for the year was presented by E. T. Kenney, and was unanimously adopted by the meeting, and special reference was made to the substantial increase in weekly free-will offerings.

Mrs. W. Smith gave the report from the Ladies' Guild, wherein a membership of twenty-nine ladies was recorded. Deep appreciation of the congregation and of the official board was expressed for the invaluable assistance which had for another year been rendered by the Guild to every department of the work.

Mrs. Allan presented a report from the Young Peoples' department, wherein reference was made to the work carried on by the four groups under the C. G. I. T. and C. S. E. T. movement. It was pointed out that, although the aggregate membership of the groups stood at fifty-eight, over ten more children had in the meantime become of age, and it was with deep regret that membership for these had to be delayed until the groups could be further reorganized.

Rev. Wm. Allan presented the ministerial report as sent in to the Presbytery, showing an increase in church membership of seven. The Sunday School recorded a membership of 121, with an income of $151. Most of this was expanded in Sunday School literature, and $38 was sent in to the official board to be included in the Maintenance and Missionary Fund of the church. The aggregate income of every department amounted to $1,432, and it was decided in view of such advance, to make further reduction in the annual grant from the Missionary Board, and to use every effort to raise Terrace to the status of a self-supporting field.

The pastor expressed his deep appreciation of the effective support he had received from the members of the board for the past year, and referred to the faithful manner in which the weekly services had been attended.

A resolution was unanimously adopted thanking Miss Annie Allan for her valued services as organist for the past year.

The following committee of stewards was then elected: A. H. Barker, treasurer; E. T. Kenney, secretary; Thomas Brooks; R. W. Riley; James Swan; William Robinson. James McConnell will continue as chairman of the official board.

In view of Presbytery and annual conference, it was decided to nominate James McConnell as lay delegate with Mrs. James Smith as alternative.

Refreshments were served by the members of the Ladies' Guild. Jack Allan acted as organist for the evening.

A successful dance was given by the Skidegate concert band at Skidegate Mission. Among those motoring over from Queen Charlotte City for the event were Mrs. E. Moore, Miss Dorothy Barge, J. Jolliff, C. Miller, Captain C. Valley, E. Moore, Mrs. Chastney, Miss F. Size and B. Munro.

HUMORS OF A TRIP ON RIVER THAMES

By Sid Webb, Formerly of Prince Rupert

Yes, this is your own chum, Sid Webb, broadcasting from London in the bloom of smoke. Dear listeners, this is the story of a little trip up the sometimes wide and sometimes pretty River Thames. It was a hot afternoon last August and all the drinking houses (pubs) were closed, it being the Sabbath, and my chum, Snobby, and I were strolling along the Thames-side up Richmond way. Now and again we would dip one of our flippers into the water and hold the luscious moisture to our lips, in an effort to keep the sparks we were exhaling from setting fire to the countryside. Snobby eventually said: "Ow about a bit of boating, Sid? You are experienced in sailing, ain't you?" The idea appealed to me, as the river was crowded with pretty damsels and nice pink looking gentlemen in white shirts—at least, one had a white shirt on—and I might add that the girls and boys were in various peculiar shaped boats of course, also the gentlemen aforementioned wore trowse a too.

Well, to clip a long story short, we hunted up a "Boats to Hire" firm, and Snobby, being born in the Helands (I'm a rotten Scotsman) commenced to barter with the river-faring party who came forth from the dilapidated boat-house for the hire of a craft.

I might add that the craft in question was something between a canoe and a barge, and as it strained at the mooring rope a water-spout would, now and again, come up between the floor boards and gurgle back toward the bilge. While Snobby was heckling about the price for an hour's sail I couldn't keep my eyes from admiring the owner of the boat. He was a splendid looking man, about four feet nothing in height, wore a captain's hat, with a feather in the side, and perched a dangerous angle on an oily mop of hair which fell in "love ripples" about his scrawny neck. Oh, yes, he wore an odd pair of pants, one leg of which was the color of a seasick baby, while the other leg contained so many patches it made one dizzy to look upon it, and he had a most elegant way of waving that particular piece of part about, thereby giving a double effect to the color scheme. His chest, which had been manly at some stage of the game, was partly covered with an old sports shirt, the buttons on which had seen more buttonholes than thumbnails. Well, now you know whom I'm referring to, don't you? Eventually Snobby closed the deal for the craft. We were to be allowed to risk our lives on the raging River Thames in a craft named "Miss Thirteen," for the price of 50 cents (two bob) an hour, plus, of course, a couple of oars. Snobby borrowed the "two bob" off me, handed it to Captain Kettle, the gentleman above-mentioned, gave me the two oars, seated himself comfortably at the back with his feet stuck over the sides, and we were off to join the river throng. I should really tell you that Snobby knows less than I do about water, in fact, he really does dislike it. He told me once that he even made his tea with soup and that the only real use it had was for putting out fires. As for being at all nautical, well, that's quite out of the question. He thinks the word "compass" means the name of a drinking house, and the port side of a ship to him is the side you don't hit if you miss it.

Real Sarcasm

Just as we pulled away from the wharf Capt. Kettle shouted in a nice loud voice "Remember that the first 50 miles are the hardest, lads," to which Snobby rather wittily replied, "We'll remember you to the folks in New York," which I thought was rather good but I didn't say so. It doesn't do to let Snobby know he's witty or he'd soon disgust somebody. Well, with a few deft strokes we were soon in the middle of the stream. I suppose it is really a river but at the point I'm telling of it's about as wide as Cow Bay Creek when the tide's up.

We had got nicely into the centre when a young lady in a boat something like a washing board and you push it along with a sort of telegraph pole idea—shouted out in a very annoying tone of voice "Hi! you chaps, which way ARE you going?" Please notice the emphasis on the word R. Snobby was right there when with the reply "Ring off, please, you're on the wrong number." Well, I had to laugh at that one myself, and I'm not much of a guy to laugh when there's dirty work afoot. At that moment we nearly met with dire disaster. I was trying hard to manage "Miss Thirteen," who had miserably developed a decided list to starboard, for in the excitement of trying to find an opening for ourselves in the throng of boats we had quite overlooked that fact that the waterspout mentioned, had been working over-time and that the bottom of the boat was awash

Sugar and Spice 'N Everything Nice'

THE talented author (name unknown) of the old nursery rhyme from which we have borrowed these pregnant words, evidently knew something about tickling fickle appetites. It may be that he (or, more likely, she) had spice cakes in mind at the time. By the way, all ye mothers of growing children, a few spice cakes in the luncheon bags will be appreciated by your young people. Here's a recipe for you:

- 1 cup butter
- 2 teaspoons Magic Baking Powder
- 1 cup brown sugar
- 1 teaspoon each of extract of nut-pint flour, cinnamon and ginger
- 1 teaspoon each of 1 cup milk
- caraway and coriander seeds

Sift flour, sugar and baking powder together, rub in the butter and add milk, seeds and extracts. Mix into smooth batter; bake in patty tins for 10 or 12 minutes.

"Bake your own" with MAGIC BAKING POWDER for greater satisfaction and economy

with slimy water. I yelled to Snobby to "bail out," who taking off his low shoes, commenced with both hands to do the skipper's bidding. After a few minutes of hard bailing the craft righted herself and I pulled for the lee-side of a small island a few yards ahead of us, and only about fifty yards from our starting point. What nettled me was to see Capt. Kettle pointing us out to someone at his side, and they were sure enjoying our predicament.

Well, by dint of hard pulling, we did get to the shore of the island and as we backed up against the dirt I told Snobby to "lay hold of the land," but fool-like he said "I can't hear any band." He does get a bit deaf on a Sunday, I've noticed it before. Then I had to reverse "engines" and come in bow on, which I did successfully, and meant to jump on to the land and pull her side on. However, in making the jump, I inadvertently stumbled, and in so doing, landed myself alright but pushed the boat out again.

Snobby in Distress

That put the tin hat on the sausage. Poor old Snobby was sailing gaily out again with no skipper and only himself as crew, and it was getting windy. I shouted "Get hold of the oars, boy, and do as I did." "Yes," he shouted back to me, "Do as you did, and look what you've done for me." Just then he quietly collided with a had tempered swan, plenty of which birds float on this particular river. A swan is a sort of inflated duck with a long neck like a giraffe. The swan resented this intrusion of Snobby's craft in his stern and made no bones about showing his disgust. With wings spread out like a battle plane he flew at poor old Snobby, who by this time, fortunately, had got hold of an oar, and with this he gently poked the old bird in the chest, and at that he swam off—I mean the swan.

The island I had landed on was about twenty yards in circumference and smothered in courting-couples, who had lugged their canoes up on the bank. I hadn't noticed this fact about the courting-couples until I heard roars of shrill girlish laughter behind me, and then the realization that perhaps I was trespassing in Arcadia hit me like a soggy doughnut. Well, I was there and Snob-by wasn't here, so what was to be done about it? While all these thoughts were going on poor Snobby was trying hard to get in to port, so to speak, much to the amusement of those ashore; he would first stoop to bail out "Miss Thirteen" with his shoes and then try to get a little forward with one oar, which of course, was taking him around in circles. The situation was looking desperate when a little out-board motor came along and I shouted to Snobby to "stop that boat," which he did very successfully, for in his eagerness to get to the island he deliberately pulled his craft right under the bows of the motor boat, which hit "Miss-Thirteen" on her birthday mark and away went her skipper and crew into the water. However, the young fellow in the motor boat proved a good sport, and pulling Snobby out of the water he caught hold of the delinquent craft and brought them both to the island, much to the merriment of the onlookers with the exception of yours truly. Well, that ended the trip.

The first thing Snobby asked when he came ashore was "What time is it?" implying that it was surely time "Miss Thirteen" was put to bed.

It was just ten minutes to the hour so we madly made our craft 'fit for sea again' and without further mishap we beached her at Capt. Kettle's right to the minute. The rest of the day we spent in the woods drying out Snobby.

ANNETTE'S NEW HATS & DRESSES HAVE ARRIVED

Shipment of the New Season's Models in Dresses and Millinery From Fashion Centres

Madame Annette, of the Annette Ladies' Ready-to-Wear, Limited, has just got back to the city after an extensive visit to the eastern centres. Her purchases of new season's goods are just being unpacked and consist of the loveliest creations, right up to the minute in style and of all the newest materials and shades.

There is a wonderful array of dresses, particularly of flat crepes and georgettes, and as Madame Annette is a good buyer, the prices are very moderate. Dresses range from $8.75 up and hats from $4.75, and, mind you, these are all new—just unpacked—fresh materials and straight from the makers.

Madame Annette does not carry a "tremendous" stock, but she does carry a choice one—every model selected by herself—and having been buying ladies' hats and dresses for years and years, she makes no mistake in her selection.

Ladies of the city are invited to view these new arrivals at their own convenience. The address is 613 Third Avenue, over P. Burns old store. Advt.

LORD HEWART'S STORY

The Lord Chief Justice told the following at a London concert:

There is a story of a Home Secretary—not the present one—who spent a week-end with a friend of his, the governor of a convict prison. He was invited to address—what shall I say?—the residents—on the Sunday evening, and he was not quite sure how to begin. Eventually he commenced: "Fellow-convicts—" Somchow that did not seem to him to be correct, so he tried again and said: "Fellow-citizens—" That again did not appeal to his legal mind as being correct, so in his despair he said: "Well, at any rate, I am delighted to see so many here tonight." —Yorkshire Post.

C.P.R. steamer Princess Royal, Capt. Thomas Cliff, arrived in port at 3 o'clock this afternoon from the south and will sail at 10 p.m. on her return to Vancouver and waypoints.

News of the Mines

AROUND PRINCE RUPERT
Duthie Mine; Woodbine Future to Be Decided
Duthie Mine; Woodbine Future
Future to Be Decided

Latest reports from the property of the Georgia River Gold Mines, Ltd., at Stewart, which has been exciting a good deal of interest of late, state that the quartz is increasing in the tunnel and is heavily mineralized. Work has been progressing very rapidly and officials of the company are expecting further gratifying results in the near future. If ore values come up to expectations, the value of the property will be greatly increased. The cross fracturing in the mine, a condition so closely associated with the ore bodies of the district, is most pronounced on the Georgia River property. The extensive development work which has been going on for the last few weeks appears to be yielding some definite results. The tunnel on the main vein is being pushed ahead as rapidly as possible, as it is for the purpose of developing the high-grade ore exposed in the cross-cut tunnel near the surface.

The annual meeting of the Duthie Mines, Ltd., was held yesterday (Thursday) in Vancouver, when reports of directors and the balance sheet of the company were submitted to the shareholders for their consideration.

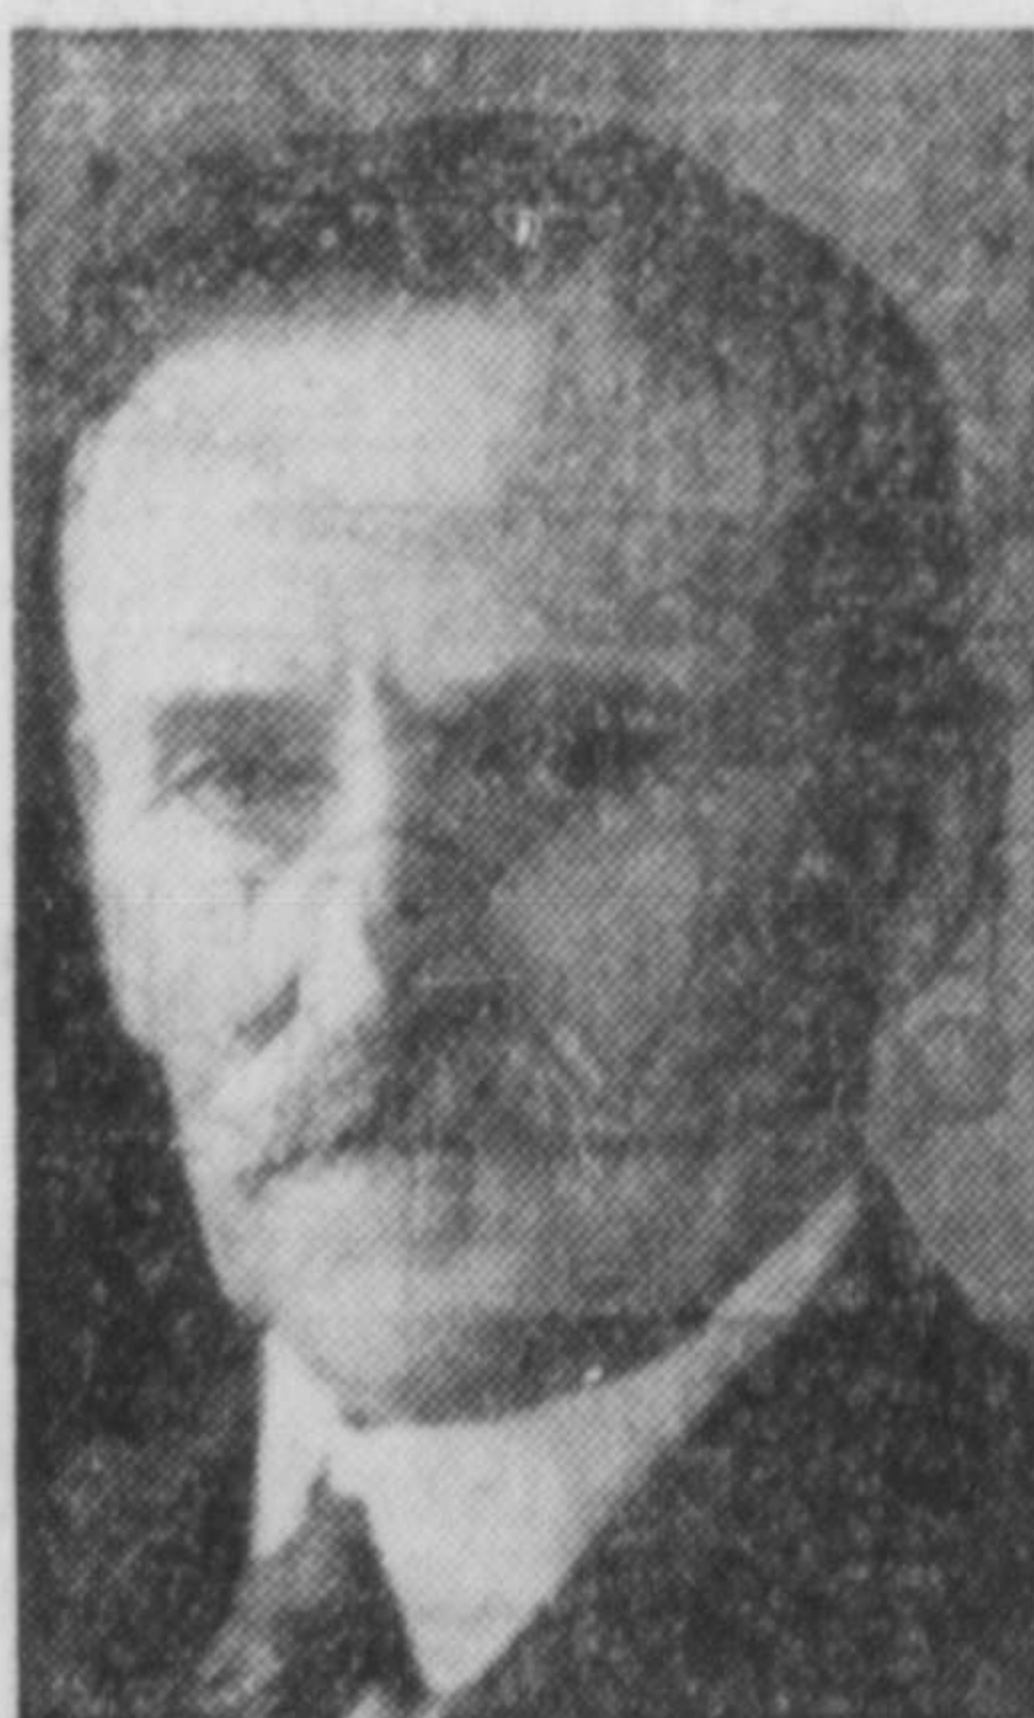

A meeting of the Woodbine Gold Mining Co. is to be held today in Vancouver, when the future policy of the company will be decided upon. It is believed that the recommendation of the consulting engineers will be accepted and operations closed down on the present property of the company at Stewart. It is possible, however, the company may be re-financed in order to take on other properties.

Development work on the big new ore ledge at the Esperanza at Alice Arm is being continued as rapidly as possible. It has been decided to lift on the ledge a distance of 20 feet each way in order to establish persistency. It is possible that a shaft may be sunk on it later or, failing that, a lower tunnel driven in order to determine depth and values. Ore recently broken into appears to be of a high grade than even that from which high gold values were recently obtained.

The Russia Asiatic Consolidated Co., which has recently taken over the Esperanza mine at Alice Arm, is a corporation which has been formed primarily for the purpose of settling amicably a long standing dispute between Great Britain and Russia on trade relations. The capitalization of the company is placed at $22,500,000 and it is extensively interested in mining properties in Russia. The Guggenheim and Harriman interests of United States are identified with the company.

Mining development in the Alice Arm district has now reached the stage where the big companies are becoming interested. Successful development of the Toric is the match that has started the blaze. Who will eventually own the Toric is not known at present, but it is safe to say that, when operations are recommenced they will be done by a large company capable of mining on a large scale and also enlarging their scope. The importance of the ore deposits in the Alice Arm district

NEW SENATOR LEADER

Hon. W. B. Willoughby, who has been chosen as Leader of the Conservative Party in the Senate.

have been stressed by the mining engineers during the past few years. The big companies were loath, however, to take a chance until tonnages of ore were exposed. The Toric has shown them that the district possesses large bodies of good commercial ore which proves that, before the large companies enter the field, the little ones must blaze the trail. Several small companies are at present developing first class properties in this district, and within the next few years, several more such mines as the Toric will have large tonnages to show. A large tonnage means a large outlay of capital and it is at this stage that the big company fills the gap. The little companies are doing far more than the large mining concerns in developing the mineral wealth of the province. Next to the prospectors they are the pioneers and no obstacle should be placed in their way by government restriction.

ENTERTAINMENT OSLAND SCHOOL

Enjoyable Affair in Which People of Smith Island Take Part and Dance Follows

OSLAND, Feb. 22.—Osland people, about 40 in all, gathered at the prettily decorated school-house on Saturday evening to enjoy a Valentine Party.

A short program was arranged in which both school children and adults took part. The feature of the program was a very amusing Icelandic play of one act in which a widower of six months comes to the home of a widow requesting the hand of her daughter in marriage. The widow, thinking he is courting her, is in her very best behavior but becomes highly indignant to find that her daughter is the desired one. The characters were very ably portrayed by Mrs. J. Philipsson as the widow, and Mrs. J. T. Johnson as the widower, while Miss Imba Jonasson and George Philipsson took the parts of the daughter and the captain, her fiancee.

At the conclusion of the program little Laura Jonasson dressed as a Valentine postman distributed Cupid's messages to all.

This was followed by contests in which all, from the oldest to the youngest, took part. The prize winners were Mrs. I. Kustmannson, Mrs. Einirsson, Asta Einirsson, A. Kristmannson and J. L. Johnson.

Splendid music on the violin and accordion was provided by J. L. Johnson and Barney Kristmannson, and dancing completed this enjoyable evening.

With Mr. F. Kristmannson as chairman the following was the complete list of performers:

Chorus, "Old Black Joe"; Mrs. Grimsson, Mrs. T. Jonasson, Miss Ingie Anderson, V. Grimsson, Oli Olafson and Dan Kristmannson.
Reading, "St. Valentine," Jon Grimsson.
Acting Song, School Children.
Duet, "A Valentine for Me," Ella Einirsson and Jon Grimsson.
Reading, F. Kristmannson.
Play, Fru Thofdasen, Mrs. J. L. Johnson and F. Kristmannson.
Reading, F. Kristmannson.
Play, Hrolfur Harekson, Mrs. J. Philipsson, Mrs. J. L. Johnson, Miss Imba Jonasson, G. Philipsson.
Solo, "When You Come Home Dear," Mrs. V. Grimsson.
Chorus, "Juanita," sextette.

Construction has just been completed at the local dry dock of the big C.N.R. ear barge for grain carrying between Port Mann and Victoria but it will be some time yet, it is understood, before the craft will be taken south.

DAILY NEWS' SHOPPING SERVICE

for Out-of-Town Subscribers

To serve its women readers, and particularly those who live at a distance from a retail centre, The Daily News has instituted a Shopping Service. The Daily News is read by hundreds of women living far from any urban facilities for shopping and it is for these that this shopping service is primarily intended. Of course, The Daily News Shopper will attend to the man also, although he can buy a pair of braces anywhere. But not everywhere can a woman get a bit of lace matched—or a piece of embroidery thread—or the thousand and one things that make up the difference between a woman's wants and a man's.

The Prince Rupert Merchants Carry between them Stocks running up to $2,000,000 and while it is not possible to purchase everything in this world in Prince Rupert, most things are available by return mail.

None of the Prince Rupert merchants can possibly advertise everything they carry in stock, but if the thing wanted is to be got in this city, our out-of-town readers may be sure that The Daily News Shopper will get it when asked for.

If any of our women readers cannot get what they want in their nearest store, all there is to do is to write to The Daily News Shopper, stating what is required with whatever details there may be, enclosing the cost, and if it is in Prince Rupert, The Daily News Shopper makes your purchase.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

Advertisement for Peacetime Patriotism. Text: 'SHE was an insistent purchaser of local products. She knew the security of her home depended largely on herself, and all mothers like her—depended on their insistence of securing local products. For it was directly through the prosperity and increasing activity of local industry that the men folk of her country enjoyed secure positions and steady employment. That is why, when shopping for an outer garment for her son, she demanded a local product. The store clerk hesitated and told her the article she required was out of stock at present, but that a certain foreign-made article was "just as good." She refused the foreign garment and left the store. Back of this mother's insistence was a pride in the products of her homeland—the true peacetime patriotism. This story has a moral for Merchants. The progress of British Columbia depends on increased production and increased purchasing of British Columbia products by the public. Be fair to yourself! Be loyal to British Columbia! Sell more British Columbia products.'

"Four Sons," the week-end offering at the Westholme, comes to the city with an international reputation. Wherever this screen masterpiece has been shown it has been acclaimed both by the press and critics as one of the greatest motion pictures ever presented to the public. Playing to capacity houses in all the big centres, it has established itself as the biggest success of its year.

At the Capitol Theatre, Vancouver, playing to huge crowds, "Four Sons" was regarded as one of the finest shows ever put on at that house. A story of graceful old age and blooming youth, it has a direct appeal to everyone. Just a big human document photographed with rare beauty. James Hall and pretty June Collyer head a large and distinguished cast and Margaret Mann in the big role is a miracle of unaffected naturalness. It is undoubtedly a picture everyone should see.

MUCH CRITICISM AND LITTLE PRAISE

That Is Complaint of Speaker in Regard to Those Who Serve Public

"In connection with serving the community in an official capacity, there is always so much knocking and criticism and so little appreciation of good work done," was a complaint of Thomas McClymont in a short address given at the Rotary luncheon yesterday afternoon.

M. McClymont spoke of some of the work the Rotary Club had done, and said he considered its existence as a service club had been fully justified by the result. Community spirit was in evidence in the very earliest ages of man when all sat together to enjoy the fruits of the chase as indicated by the ancient midden heaps which had been explored. Two thousand years ago a new kind of community spirit had been taught and this had spread gradually until of recent years community service clubs had sprung up, the first of which was the Rotary Clubs. The earliest aim of the Rotary Clubs had been mutual enjoyment, but this had extended to community service.

TO BOOM POLES AT ANDIMAU

Timbering of Hanson Co. Is Active Along Skeena River

The Hanson Timber & Lumber Co. is putting in a new boom at Andimaul on the Skeena River, a few miles above the company's present big booming ground at Cedarvale, for catching the many thousands of cedar poles that will be driven down the Skeena and Kispiox Rivers. The new camp at Andimaul will give the operators more piling ground and will also save several miles of drive.

In the cedar bush back of New Hazelton operations have been resumed by the contractors for the Hanson Co. and several thousand pieces of short poles will be taken out.

Weather during the past several weeks have been ideal for the timbering industry in the central interior, there being sufficient snow and frost to make winter transportation good. Ties, poles and fence posts are rapidly being assembled on the railway sidings.

THINKS OLOF IS IT

Editor, Daily News:—
I see by your paper yesterday that Olof Hanson was the man who got the money placed in the estimates for the floats for fishermen at Prince Rupert. Last year there was no such provision made. We all hope that Olof will stay a little longer at Ottawa and get some more money for the district. If he is the man who can get us what we want he is the man to elect.

UNITED CHURCH CHOIR HONORS MISS E. DAVIES

Presentation Made Before She Leaves For Holiday in Honolulu and England

A pleasant evening was spent this week at the home of Mrs. J. Ross, Fifth Avenue West, when some 15 or 16 members of the choir of First United Church gathered in a farewell party to Miss Emily Davies of the Bank of Montreal staff, who leaves at the end of this month for an extended trip to Honolulu and England. There were musical numbers and games and, at midnight, delicious refreshments were served, a presentation being made to the guest of honor by J. S. Wilson, choir leader.

"OH KAY" FILM IS QUITE O. K.

Big Colleen Moore Comedy at Capitol This Week-End

With a cast including several of the most talented comedians known to the screen, "Oh Kay!", Colleen Moore's hilarious farce opens tonight at the Capitol for a run of two days.

Vivacious Colleen heads the cast in the stellar role of "Kay," her entertaining personality being ideally suited for the character of the independent young English girl portrays. Such laughable pictures as "Naughty But Nice," "Her Wild Oat," "Ellie Jinders," "It Must Be Love" and "Orchids and Ermine" have established Miss Moore as the screen's outstanding comedienne and in "Oh Kay," she is said to attain new heights of humor.

Ford Sterling, veteran comedian of stage and screen adds to the merriment of "Oh Kay!" as an inebriated gentleman first seen as a rum-runner, and later in disguise as a butler. Sterling has probably appeared in more feature comedies than any other player, being constantly in demand among Hollywood producers for his recognized talent as a comedian.

"Tarzan" No. 6, an "Our Gang" comedy, "School Begins," Fable and Topics give a delightful variation to a big week-end bill that will long be remembered by local picture fans.
