American Freighter Culburra Is Ashore at White Cliff Island Salvage Outfit Sent From Here

Stranded Motorship, Laden With Fish Meal, Piled Up Down Coast Early This Morning in Dense Fog; Salvage Tug Leaves

The American motorship freighter Culburra, bound from Alaska to Seattle with a cargo of fish meal, went ashore early this morning in dense fog on White Cliff Island, below the mouth of the Skeena River, according to word received by the Pacific Salvage Co., which was asked to send a salvage outfit to the scene of the wreck to lighten the vessel. The vessel is believed to be holed and in a serious position. Few details of the stranding were available here up to noon. The Culburra is a fairly large vessel.

WOULD DEPORT PETER VEREGIN

Citizens of Kamsack, Saskatchewan, Ask This Following Parade

KAMSACK, Sask., Sept. 9.—Urging deportation of Peter Veregin, head of the Christian Community of Universal Brotherhood of Doukhobors, citizens of Kamsack sent telegrams to Hon. Robert Forke on Saturday, following a battle at a bridge here, when marching Doukhobors were repulsed by the Royal Canadian Mounted Police and the citizens. Four of those who participated in the parade were sentenced to six months in the Regina jail with hard labor.

According to information obtained at Veregin, where the Doukhobors met, Peter Veregin had sent a telegram to his followers instructing that those who had participated in the nude parade be expelled from the brotherhood.

Winnipeg Babes Make Air Trips

Rivalry For Title of Youngest Aviator in Canada

WINNIPEG, Man., Sept. 7.—(By the Canadian Press)—Hugh, year-old son of Michael de Blicquy, instructor of the Winnipeg Flying Club, has a rival for the title of Canada's youngest aviator. Hugh celebrated his first birthday by taking a flight from Stevenson field with his father and mother.

Airways Nola Brown, baby daughter of Roy Brown, pilot of Western Canada, wishes it to be known that she flew from The Pas to Cranberry Portage before she was six weeks old, and had made three flights before her first birthday. She also has made the journey to England and back—but not by air.

ROWED NORTH FROM EVERETT

Lone Findlandish Boatman Depends On Oars and Sail to Make His Way

A lone Findlandish boatman in an eleven-foot skiff which many people would not dare to cross the harbor in arrived in Prince Rupert last evening in the course of a trip from Everett to Ketchikan. He was having difficulty in the fog yesterday and was picked up outside the entrance of the harbor by Jack Lindsay in the power boat Irene L. and given a lift into the city. For propulsion the boatman depends on his oars and a rag of a sail. The whole distance north of Queen Charlotte City he claims to have rowed, stating that he has been on the way north from Everett three weeks. This is not the first long trip he has made by this means, he says.

The boat is tied up at the Cow Bay floats.

GO SLOW WITH PEACE RIVER

That Is E. W. Beatty's Counsel to British Government

WINNIPEG, Sept. 9.—That the government of Great Britain should go slow with extensive colonization plans in the Peace River country, E. W. Beatty, president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, believes he expressed this opinion when asked if there was anything in the suggestion that the British government might try to interest British people in settling en bloc in the Peace River district of Alberta. It would be far better to confine the community settlement idea to the smaller communities, he said. In any case, the Peace River district is filling up rapidly, he added.

Customs officers also left for the scene of the wreck. It is expected to refloat the Culburra on the high tide about 4 o'clock this afternoon, it was reported by the steamer Prince Charles which passed the scene of the stranding about noon today on her way here.

THE DOUKHOBORS

It begins to look like the time has arrived when something of an impressive nature must be done to discipline the Sons of Freedom sect of the Doukhobors in British Columbia. They have set themselves against sending their children to school and, as a protest against having to do so, have resorted to the practices of burning down the schools and staging ridiculous and disgusting nude parades. Failure to send children to school, arson and indecent exposure are all contrary to the law and would probably not be tolerated in people of any other races in Canada than the apparently unintelligent Doukhobor. Their carryings-on, which in past years have been more or less winked at by the authorities, have reached such a stage that drastic measures must be taken to prevent them and make the Doukhobor as amenable to the law as other residents of the province are compelled to be. The continuous begging of the issue by the authorities is only making the situation worse and the ultimate cure the harder.

It is difficult, one realizes, to determine what to do with people such as these who make martyrdom of punishment and who have indicated that they are determined not to obey the law if there is any way to evade doing so. However, something must be done about it, even if it be the extremity of ridding the province of the Son of Freedom Doukhobor, who, in many ways, has proven himself a good settler. There cannot, nevertheless, be one law for him and another for the rest of the people of British Columbia. Whatever remedy must be resorted to, he will have to be cured.

ANOTHER PAPER'S VIEWS

It will be interesting to see how Attorney-General Pooley's proposal to deal with the fanatical elements of the Doukhobor community near Nelson will work out, observes the Victoria Times. He insists, and rightly so, that the children of these extraordinary people shall be educated whether the parents like it or not. If the parents will not deliver them to the school authorities voluntarily, he proposes to take the children from under the parental roof and send them elsewhere to get the educational advantages the other children of the province enjoy.

How public opinion will react to this unusual proceeding remains to be seen. To some it may appear heartless. But unusual and difficult situations often demand unusual and drastic remedies. If the policy shall be pursued to any considerable extent, the effect may be salutary. Compared with those members of the sect who conform to the laws of the province, and who generally are industrious and thrifty citizens, the fanatical element has very little influence. But it takes only a few people to make a rumpus; and these people manifest their displeasure in a manner which is in direct conflict with public decency.

About the only other plan Mr. Pooley could have followed would have been a recommendation to the Dominion government for the deportation of the recalcitrant members of the colony. But if the proposal suggested has the desired effect, a long and difficult proceeding will have been avoided.

She (on honeymoon): "Oh, d-d-darling! Supposing it isn't able to eat us both!" -London Opinion.

News of the Mines

AROUND PRINCE RUPERT
Britannia Options Dolly Varden and Wolf; Duthie to Drop Rufus-Argenta; Nickel and Cobalt Found at Stewart

Having taken an option of the two well known properties, the Britannia Mining & Smelting Co. has already commenced development work on the Dolly Varden and Wolf mines at Alice Arm. The Wolf is the first property to receive attention, the diamond drill operating on the Toric having been taken there with a gasoline engine to supply power. Both properties are owned by the Spencer-McRae interests of Vancouver. The Dolly Varden Railway, extending seventeen miles up the Kitsault River from the town of Alice Arm, may also be included in the ultimate deal. The manner in which the Britannia company is increasing its holdings is taken as a very promising sign at Alice Arm.

Hon. W. A. McKenzie, provincial minister of mines, is expected to make a tour of the central interior before the end of this month and will also probably visit Stewart and Alice Arm. One of the matters bringing Mr. McKenzie north is to make an inspection, with J. D. Galoway, provincial mineralogist, of coal deposits on the Telkwa River and elsewhere, in connection with the announcement of plans to develop the coal there and build a railroad and start large industrial works. At Smithers a dinner will be given in honor of Mr. McKenzie under the joint auspices of the Chamber of Mines and the Board of Trade.

T. S. Davey, mining engineer for the Babine Bonanza or Cronin properties, has been spending the past week inspecting work of the past few months which has shown up the best ore so far found in the mine.

Despite denials there are grounds to warrant the conclusion that J. F. Duthie of Seattle intends to abandon his option on the Rufus-Argenta mine at Stewart. In one letter to a Vancouver broker Mr. Duthie said: "There is about twenty-two feet more of tunnel to drive and, after this work is completed, I intend to relinquish my option." In another letter to the same broker he said: "I anticipated closing this work down today, but have given instruction to proceed until further notice—I want to relinquish this property some time this week and will be glad to hear from you promptly."

Smithers Chamber of Mines took second place at the provincial fair in New Westminster last week for district mining display and Portland Canal district was second. The Nicola Valley took first prize.

Nickel and cobalt are the two latest metals to be discovered in the Portland Canal district, having just been identified on the Ruth and Francis property, which is being worked by Duncan McLean, James Nesbitt and Andy Archie. The samples assayed run 8% nickel and 52% cobalt, besides $10 in gold, making a total value of $43 per ton. The occurrence of this emerald green rock on the property has been known for some time, but the extent of it has not yet been determined. This is the first time it has been assayed. The principal work on the Ruth and Francis this summer, besides surface prospecting by stripping and open cutting, has been the driving of an adit tunnel which is now in 160 feet following a strong vein with mineralization coming in heavier in the face than ever before. This vein produces lead, silver and antimony and carries commercial values. Another vein, eight feet in width, gives $48 in gold and further up the hill there are large copper showings. Four big veins strike north-west and southeast with numerous cross veins, all carrying a variety of minerals.

Ore assaying 81.7% lead and 29.9 ounces silver was brought into Stewart last week by N. Gillof from the Black Bear group, consisting of five claims located above timber line in the vicinity of George Copper at the head of Bear River. The samples were taken with a pick, no shots having yet been put into the property. The streak of lead ore is about five inches in width and ac-

Auction Sale of Alice Arm Lots

One Hundred Lots and Several Acreage Blocks Sold—High Price Was $710.

ALICE ARM, Sept. 9.—The auction sale of lots on the old Indian Reserve section of Alice Arm, held Thursday, passed off very successfully, both from the standpoint of number of lots sold and the monies realized. The auction was conducted by J. W. Smith, inspector of lands, on behalf of the provincial government. One hundred and eight lots and several blocks of acreage were disposed of, the approximate total of sales amounting to $14,000.

The auction was confined practically to local bidding, though there were a few purchases for outside interests. A great many of the lots went at the upset price, it having been tacitly agreed that the party with a house on the reserve more nearly adjacent to the lots offered was entitled to the lot. Several lots without houses or in choice locations were the object of spirited bidding. The high bid of the sale was on lot one of block one, which was knocked down to Leo Baulcer for $710.

Lookout Station Nearly Complete

Forest Branch Erects Structure on Thornhill Mountain Near Terrace

TERRACE, Sept. 9.—The forestry lookout station which is being built on Thornhill Mountain, is now almost completed, and commands a wonderful view of the district. The building was built in sections in town and taken up the mountain-side by pack horse and there assembled.

T. C. M. Turner and J. Kirkpatrick had charge of construction, while John Gabriel did the packing. During the wet weather the work was considerably hindered by clouds and fog and by bitter cold on the mountain-top.

The station can be seen from town on a clear day without glasses.

THE GREEN SHADOW

by HEMAN LONDON

INSTALMENT XXXX.

Still closer came the doctor, the bluish steel of the automatic gleaming menacingly in the verdant light. At length there was only the width of the table between him and the other two. He leaned forward. Out of the green smudge blazed a pair of eyes, scrutinizing the visitor's face. The doctor's shoulders perked back. "The Picaroon!" he exclaimed.

Dr. Moffett's Face

As he spoke, the doctor's arm came upward. He held the pistol pointed straight at the visitor. The latter had dropped his arms, releasing the girl from his embrace, and now he stood in front of her, looking straight and smilingly into the greenish haze that was all he could see of Moffett's face.

"Your noble countenance seems to be in eclipse, doctor," he remarked pleasantly.

"You will be in eclipse before long," remarked Moffett grittily. "It was very clear, Dale. I never suspected—but then I thought Miss Castle acted a bit queer when you wound your paternal arm around her. Maybe the paternal part of it wasn't convincing. Anyway, you whispered in her ear, and she gave a start. I almost suspected something then. Will you tell me how you got out of jail?"

"I was never there. I shun jails. I was fortunately saved from that sad experience."

"Saved? How? By whom?"

"By a few thunderclaps. You see, there was no thunder the night Miss Conway was murdered. But it did thunder last night, while you framed up the evidence against me. There was enough thunder to curdle every pitcher of cream in New York. That's where you made a mistake."

Evidently Dr. Moffett did not quite understand. "It doesn't matter," he declared. "It would have been better for you if you had gone to jail."

"That sounds ominous."

"It is just as ominous as it sounds. I think you are bluffing, Dale. I don't believe you brought any policemen with you. The police and the Picaroon usually travel separate paths. But if you did—there was a blurry motion of a hand, and the pistol rose a trifle higher—"if you did," Dr. Moffett added, "your career ends right there."

The Picaroon made a wry face. "That's an awfully unpleasant thought. I am deeply devoted to my career—"

"The career of a thief!"

"You're mistaken, doctor. Nothing so vulgar. I'm a collector."

"A collector of other people's jewelry!"

"No, a collector of autographs and rare books—first editions and such things. It's a pleasant hobby. You ought to cultivate it. It's far more agreeable than murdering people."

"I'll consider your advice." The Picaroon glanced at his watch. "They are a little late," he observed. "Maybe their watches are slow."

A pair of eyes blazed at him out of the greenish haze. "I still think you are bluffing," Moffett declared. "However, if any strangers come to the gate, I shall know instantly. A gong will give me warning. The moment it rings I'll put a bullet through your heart."

A gasp sounded behind the Picaroon's back.

"Through my heart, eh?" He appeared to consider. "Not such a bad idea. It's a quick death, and almost painless. If shoot you must, please shoot straight. I should hate to be muzzed up. Being a physician, you know, I suppose, on which side my heart is?"

"I do," said Moffett grittily, "and I promise to shoot straight."

"Thanks. Awfully decent of you. Don't forget, doctor."

"Don't worry. I shan't forget. It's the custom to humor people who haven't long to live. I'll humor you by aiming straight at your heart."

"Thanks. Do you know, doctor, I picked up a most curious edition of Lobeira's 'Amadis of Gaul' the other day. As a mark of my appreciation I'll will it to you."

"Oh, thanks," said the doctor dryly.

"The only question is how I am to mention you in my will. Shall I designate you as Dr. Moffett or by your real name?"

Again the doctor's eye blazed at him out of the green blur. "You think you know my real name?"

"Oh, yes. I discovered it the morning following your visit to my apartment. Surely you haven't forgotten."

"That was the night you flashed a green light in my face and gave me a wallop on the jaw. Not that I bear you any hard feelings on that score. I dropped my grievance when my jaw dropped back to its normal size."

"Oh," said Dr. Moffett in a soft and curious tone. "So you think you know who I am, do you?"

"Yes," said Dale. He cast a glance over his shoulder at the white-faced girl standing behind him. He felt a wrench at his heart. She must know some time. Why not now?

As if she had construed his backward glance as a question, the girl finally spoke.

"I know, too," she declared. "I saw his face."

Dale whirled round. "You—you saw?" he stammered. "Then you know?"

She nodded. He marveled at the casualness of her reply. He had feared the discovery would temporarily crush her, but instead she seemed to bear up amazingly well. Perhaps her infatuation had not been as deep as he had feared.

"Yes, Miss Castle knows," said the doctor in a queer voice.

With a start Dale swung round again. The four words had been spoken in a way that sent a chill through his being. In a moment Moffett's meaning was terrifyingly clear. The doctor's safety demanded that she should be silenced. She had signed her death warrant when she looked into his face.

"Yes, Miss Castle knows," the doctor added, "but I don't think you do."

"Oh, yes." Dale controlled his sharp tumultuous sensations. "Your left sleeve is empty, isn't it? I can't see very well in this light, but—"

"Yes, Ainsworth, your left sleeve," Dale began but even as he spoke a sense of bewilderment crowded his brain.

"Ainsworth?" the girl exclaimed in a voice of stupefaction. "Why, how ridiculous! You don't think—"

Moffett's laugh interrupted her. "What an amusing misapprehension!"

Before the doctor could reply a loud gong sounded somewhere in the house. Axelson, standing near the door, gave a sharp exclamation. For an instant the pistol wavered in Moffett's hand.

"Who am I?" he echoed ironically. "That is something you will never know. Through the heart, did you say?"

The girl screamed. There came a sharp crack. A muffled cry of horror rang out, and Adele shrank away, hands clasped against her white cheeks.

The Picaroon clutched his heart, staggered back, gazed with a groggy expression at the little curl of gray vapor that eddied in the green light, reeled with a drunken corkscrew motion, threw his arms and went tumbling to the floor. A groan sounded, a hoarse, shuddering gasp for breath, then silence.

And then another long, strident peal broke through the silence. Dr. Moffett dropped the pistol to the table.

"It will take them several minutes to batter down the gate in the fence," he remarked. His voice was curiously quiet. "We'll have ample time to get out the back way. Get the brown bag from my room. Hurry!"

The last word, sharp as a whip-lash, brought the old man out of his stupor. He ran from the room. The doctor stepped away from the table. His movements in the green light grew obscure. A little click came, then a sliding sound, as if a drawer controlled by a spring had opened. There was a hurried shuffling of papers.

Axelson reappeared, carrying a small bag. He placed it on the table. The visible part of Dr. Moffett approached again. He dumped a handful of papers and other articles into the bag.

Station Wins Softball Title of Canadian National League From Drydock in Fast Finals

Softball fans to the number of two hundred odd were treated to the snappiest softball games of the season Saturday evening and yesterday morning and afternoon when the Station and Drydock, winners of the first and second halves, respectively, in the C.N.R. League, met in a three-game final series, the Station winning the championship two games out of three.

The first game went to the Station, 15-4; the second game to the Drydock, 10-9; and the third to the Station, 7-6. While the Station had an easy win in the first game, the second and third were anybody's till the last inning, excitement being held at fever pitch throughout.

It would be difficult and perhaps unfair to stress the performance of any Drydock player, as each was well on his game. For the Station, Jimmie Horton played the most consistent and snappiest game throughout the series and deservedly, was the best man on either team.

Lineups and scores were as follows:

Station—Horton, 3b; Astoria, ss; Styles, 1b; Downey, 2b; Stalker, lf; McIntosh, rf; B. Skattebol, cf; A. Skattebol, c; Holtby, p.

Drydock—Gauthorne, p; Smith, 1b; McKeown, 3b; Howe, ss; McFee, lf; Kelsey, 2b; Palmer, cf; Hedstrom, rf; Hadden, c.

GYROS WIN BALL GAME

Qualify to Enter City Final by Beating the Elks 18 to 3

In one of the poorest exhibitions of baseball seen here this season, the Gyro Club won its way to the city baseball final with the Native Sons of Canada by defeating the Elks 18 to 3 yesterday afternoon.

Haveland pitched the entire nine innings for the service club and whiffed nine batters, allowing six hits. Loblick was not his old self and was retired on the mound for the Elks in the sixth after fanning four and allowing nine hits. Alex Mitchell finished the game for the Elks, allowing seven hits, to increase the Gyro score even more.

Heavy hitting featured the game. Jimmy Farquhar made a home run with the bases full. Harold, Moran and Gurvich garnered three-baggers, while Haveland collected a double.

"Get Annie and Caesar," he commanded. "No, just wait a moment. First—"

He broke off as a dull roar sounded outside.

"What—what was that?" Axelson jerked out.

"They are trying to shoot the lock on the gate to pieces. It's a good lock and it will take several shots. Axelson—"

Through the green haze the doctor's eyes travelled to Adele. She stood at the wall, trembling, her hands clasped across her breast, gazing in horror at the limp form that had fallen beside the table.

"We can't take her with us," Moffett murmured.

Axelson gasped. He stared crookedly at the girl.

"Neither," said Moffett, "can we leave her here alive."

Axelson perked up his shoulders so they almost touched the lobes of his ears.

"I've done my share of the nasty business," said the doctor. "Do yours."

He flung the pistol toward the old man and the latter caught it. With spasmodic jerks of his shoulder he turned it over and looked at it. Another muffled roar suddenly penetrated the walls.

"Hurry," said the doctor.

Axelson hesitated. "I—I don't like to do it."

To Be Continued Tomorrow

Sport Chat

Acquaintances of Dick Stubbs, who spent several years at Anyox will be interested to learn that Dick is still in the wrestling game at Copper Mountain. Unable to apply the holds he requires in short spasms against a tricky opponent, Nels Jepson, husky Spokane grappler, failed to pin to the mat the shoulders of Dick Stubbs in a vigorous wrestling bout at Copper Mountain recently. Originally scheduled as a handicap affair in which Jepson agreed to throw Stubbs twice in an hour, the conditions were changed, and the match made a straight affair, in three 10-minute rounds.

The game of softball has been successfully introduced in Prince Rupert this year by the Canadian National Recreation Association whose league activities came to a close yesterday with the finals which attracted 200 supporters of the sport to the grounds on the railways yards. So much enthusiasm has been developed this season that the prospect now is that a good city league may be formed in 1930 with teams from Anyox as well as those representing C.N.R. Recreation Association waterfront groups. It has been shown this year that softball is no "girls' game" as some went to dub it before actually seeing it played. From the point of view of the spectators it is exciting so, therefore, has possibilities of being developed to a larger scale yet.

BOYS MEETING NEAR JASPER

Conference of Canadian Boys' Parliament at Mountain Point

JASPER, Alta., Sept. 9.—The youth's place in the national life of Canada and its relation to leadership of the future will be one of the main subjects of discussion during the forthcoming week, when representatives of the six boys' parliaments of Canada, will meet in conference at the Edmonton Y.M.C.A. summer camp, on the shores of Lake Edith, about two miles from Jasper Park Lodge, in the heart of the Canadian Rockies.

The boys' parliament of Canada conference can be said to be truly national in its representation of the youth of Canada, as its representatives gathered today from the Atlantic to the Pacific seaboard. From the provinces by the sea, came Joseph Berridge, Premier of the Maritime boys' parliament, Jim Gibson, Caledonia, Ont., is present as premier of that province and is accompanied by Karl I. Auterlager, field secretary of the Ontario boys' work board, Jack Dunderdale, of Winnipeg, premier of Manitoba boys' parliament, is also accompanied by two other members of that body, while Lorne Stewart, of Qu'Appelle, premier of the Saskatchewan parliament, has also two other members with him, including Wilfrid Scott, secretary in Saskatchewan and L. Shipperfield, Bob Ralston of Vancouver, as premier, represents British Columbia, and is accompanied by Irvine Dawson of Victoria, and Jack Dieldal, of Vancouver. Tom Haythorne, premier of Alberta, has with him, Bill Pettigrew, Calgary's candidate for the premiership of the next Alberta boys' parliament, Allan I. Endels, a member of the parliament, and Gordon Lapp, who has been boys' work secretary in that province for the past three years, and who is now being succeeded by Tom Haythorne.

Through discussion of all phases of Trail Rangers and Tuxis work and the place and function of boys' parliaments and their relation to the youth of the nation is planned. These discussions will be led by R. D. Poole, secretary of the national boys' work board, and B. V. Richardson of Winnipeg, chairman of the national boys' work board.

During their stay in Jasper, the boys will also learn something of business systems and of that most complicated of all businesses, the operation of a big first class hotel. For as the guests of J. O'Brien, manager of Jasper Park Lodge, they will inspect the main bungalow and its surrounding ones, as well as the kitchens, refrigeration and heating plants and will have the entire method of operation thoroughly explained to them. As Jasper Park Lodge, with its guests and staff, is a town in itself, the representatives of the boys' parliaments of Canada will be given some idea of the vastness of Canadian enterprise and the efficiency with which it is managed.

RE. OLOF HANSON

Editor, Daily News:—

Olof Hanson, Liberal candidate for the Federal House, paid his first visit to the south end of the Queen Charlotte Islands recently. There was great speculation among all as to what sort of a man they would find Mr. Hanson.

Everyone was pleasantly surprised. One resident was heard to say: "He is a d... good mixer." Another: "He's a common sort of a plug," and still another: "He's one of the boys and our man."

Mr. Hanson is a Canadian by choice. Everything he has in Northern British Columbia and he is developing our north with his own money. He takes a personal interest in all developments in the north.

The writer made a visit around to all his friends—the fishermen and lumber workers—after Mr. Hanson's visit to see what the feeling was. I found all agreed that the Liberal party had made a good choice in giving the nomination to Mr. Hanson. When the workers or the laboring class are behind a man, that man always wins.

Christian Science Lecture on Sunday

Paul A. Harsch of Toledo Discoursed Before Good Sized Congregation in Capitol Theatre

A good sized audience was in the Capitol Theatre yesterday afternoon to hear a lecture on "Christian Science, the Summons of Divine Love," by Paul Harsch C.S.B. of Toledo, O., member of the board of lecturership of Mother Church, First Church of Christ Scientist, Boston, Mass. Mr. Harsch discoursed for an hour and a quarter and proved himself an able speaker.

Mrs. H. W. Birch, first reader of the local Christian Science Society, presided and introduced the speaker. Mr. A. M. Davies played piano accompaniments for the hymns.

Mr. Harsch, who is accompanied on his tour of the west by his wife, arrived in the city Saturday afternoon on the Princess Charlotte, after visiting various Alaska points, and will sail this afternoon on the Prince George for Portland and Vancouver.

"A Miracle!"

Cripple now walks well thanks to Kruschen

"For over eight months I was laid up with rheumatism, unable to move, when I was advised to try Kruschen Salts. It is almost a miracle, but without a word of a lie I was able to be taken to the front door in less than a week! In a few days I was out with the help of crutches; and in a short time I was walking well. This is not a one-week testimonial, but four years."

"I have taken it ever since, and I never feel a pinch of rheumatism now. I tell everybody about it, and advise them to take it. I will close my letter hoping you will publish it for others to see."

—Mrs. Williams.
Original letter on file for inspection.

Kruschen Salts is obtainable at drug and department stores in Canada at 75c a bottle. A bottle contains enough to last for 4 or 5 months—good health for half-a-cent a day.

WEST AND EAST MEET

Editor of Daily News Tells How Delegation Reached Edmonton

VANCOUVER DELEGATES

Free Lunch Compensates For Frigidity of Prairies Air

(By H. F. Pullen)

EDMONTON, Sept 5.—(By Mail) West met east this morning, when about 80 people from Vancouver, seven from Prince Rupert and 200 from the prairies and the east sat down to luncheon together at the Macdonald Hotel, the first of many gatherings to take place under the auspices of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce. We did not know each other. We met almost as strangers but are looking forward to closer association as the days pass. There are some ladies in the party but most of the visitors are men.

The Prince Rupert delegates met the Vancouver train at Jasper and were accommodated aboard, although, at first, it seemed as if George Little would have to go on the other train. However, the Canadian National met the emergency by putting on another sleeper for him and others who were squeezed out of the special cars.

The delegates received us with great heartiness. The special train was a stag train, no ladies being allowed aboard. There were 72 Vancouver men and ourselves. A few Vancouver delegates who had their ladies with them travelled on the regular train, among them being Mr. and Mrs. Edward Lipsett. We met them on the station platform.

W. E. Payne, secretary of the Vancouver Board of Trade, was in charge, and George McNicholl, general passenger agent for the C.N.R., represented his company. The newspapers were well represented, the Province and Sun representatives being among the first to welcome us.

Evidently Edmonton recognizes the importance of the occasion, streamers being hung across the streets and an emblem of welcome placed over the entrance of the Macdonald Hotel. Delegates are known by their badges and by the air of boredom they assume. Later they will be more interested in each other. This breaking the ice is always a little difficult.

Prince Rupert people often complain of their weather. This morning here was bitterly cold. The sun is shining through the clouds now but when we landed it was difficult to keep warm even with overcoats on I regretted not having brought along a sweater. It was a very decided change from the coast and not for the better. However, Edmonton is a fine city, its people are keen and energetic, and one should not criticize even the weather after a free lunch and a hearty welcome.

Some of the members of the party noticed the large number of horses still on the streets here, even engaged in municipal work, and some of the old Ford cars used, have their cranks hanging, evidently being without starters. Now we are off for the Peace. Everybody is happy and we are looking forward to a fine trip, even if the mornings are cold.

W. L. Stamford, agent for the Marine Department, sailed last evening on the Catala to make the round trip to Anyox and Stewart on official duties.

COMMISSIONERS TO VISIT HERE

Anglican Clergy of Diocese to Meet Here With Survey Board

The Anglican clergy of the diocese of Caledonia will hold a special session in Prince Rupert shortly when they are to meet the members of the Anglican national commission, who have been travelling over the whole of the Dominion making a study of the situation as it concerns the Anglican Church. It is nearly three years since the commission started this task, but it is expected that its report will be ready for the general meeting of the church next year. The object of the survey is to reorganize the work being carried on with greater efficiency in view, both as to men and finances.

The commission is composed of Bishop Owen of Niagara, Dr. Gould of Toronto, and Chancellor Gisbourne.
