Britain and United States Join Hands Today before Preparatory Commission of League of Nations

Agree On Bold Policy of Naval Armament Reduction at Geneva Conference Arranging For Recommendation to Assembly

GENEVA, April 22.—Britain and the United States joined hands before the League of Nations preparatory commission on disarmament today in a stand not only for limitations but for reduction of naval armaments.

"Let us take a hold," urged Hugh S. Gibson, United States delegate, in submitting the new United States proposals, "and begin by scrapping the term limitation in order to concentrate on a general reduction of armaments."

"I am in the fullest agreement with Mr. Gibson," Lord Cushendun said, "when he says that in naval matters we desire not only limitation but reduction. That is also the desire of the British government and we desire that limitation and reduction be applied to all classes of vessels."

Two Patrol Boats to Prevent U.S. Trollers Encroaching on Waters Using Harbors of West Coast

OTTAWA, April 22.—To insure a thoroughly effective enforcement of the regulations governing salmon trolling in B. C. waters, particularly the northern mainland coast and Queen Charlotte Islands area, two patrol boats are being assigned by the fisheries branch to this duty. The announcement was made by the deputy minister of fisheries, W. A. Found. The action was the result of a complaint in 1928 that United States salmon trollers, particularly those operating in the Hecate Straits and more northern waters of British Columbia, frequently fished within three miles from the shore and also used Canadian ports for purposes uncovered in the treaty.

HOOVER SEES CRIME DANGER HIS COUNTRY

NEW YORK, April 22.—President Hoover addressing the annual luncheon of the Associated Press today declared that life property in the United States was relatively more unsafe than in any other civilized country in the world. "Twenty times as many people in proportion to the population are lawlessly killed in the United States as in Great Britain," he said. "In many of our cities murder can apparently be committed with impunity."

The president said he wondered whether the time had not come to realize that we are confronted with a national necessity of first degree and that we are not suffering from an ephemeral crime wave but from subsidence of our foundations.

FIRE SASKATCHEWAN
BLAINE LAKE, Sask., April 22.—A block of business buildings at Blaine Lake was destroyed by fire early this morning with loss of $100,000.

Exploratory Flight of Plane Yesterday from Hazelton Farther North

Following the Yukon telegraph trail, as did the United States New York-to-Nome flyers in 1922, the big Cessana monoplane from Wichita, Kansas, piloted by Parker Cramer and W. G. Gamble on an exploratory flight to Alaska, left Hazelton at 12:15 noon yesterday and, after a brief stop at Atlin for fuel, landed last evening at 6:55 at Whitehorse. The distance between Hazelton and Whitehorse is 675 miles, so the plane made excellent time on the hop. At 3:07 p.m. the plane passed over Telegraph Creek and at 4:15 made the stop at Atlin.

On Saturday afternoon the plane accomplished the flight from Prince George to Hazelton in approximately three hours. A perfect landing was made at Hazelton.

The flyers intend to return to Hazelton in the summer. They are surveying a proposed aerial route from United States to Alaska.

PEACE RIVER OUTLET ASKED

Local Board of Trade Passes Resolution Asking For Immediate Action

At the special meeting of the Prince Rupert Board of Trade called for Saturday afternoon, a resolution was passed asking the senate of Canada not to sanction the transfer of the Alberta lines to the C.P.R. and C.N.R. until provision was made for a western outlet. This was done on the request of the Peace River Board of Trade, which had already taken similar action.

In a long statement on the subject the Peace River board states that a Pacific outlet is not only desirable, but necessary. It goes on to deal with various movements which have been made to secure it and suggests that it should proceed by way of Peace Pass, Finlay Forks and Hazelton to Prince Rupert, which is specifically spoken of as "our northern port."

SYDNEY, April 22.—Six airplanes were headed today toward the Tanimi desert, in the northern territory, where the plane Kookaburra of Lieut. Keith Anderson was seen yesterday with a body beneath one of its wings.

Lieutenant Anderson and Robert Hitchcock disappeared 13 days ago while hunting for the Southern Cross. He dropped a parachute containing water, but when the figure did not move he concluded he was dead. He saw nothing of the second man.

NUMBER HAD FIRST SWIM YESTERDAY

The swimming season opened for a number of local young people yesterday and Saturday. Reports vary as to the water, but the consensus of opinion is that it is rather cold yet. The frosty nights have had the effect of keeping the temperature down. A great many visited the lakes yesterday, but only a small proportion of those who were there had the courage to take a dip.

Baseball Season Opened Yesterday at Acropolis Hill When two Teams Played Interesting Scratch Game

Three-Team League Seems Assured With Gyro Club, Elks and Native Sons Represented

The size of the crowd of intending players which turned out for the initial practice of the season on the Acropolis Hill grounds yesterday morning and the enthusiasm displayed by the forty or so persons who were present should augur well for a successful baseball year in Prince Rupert in 1929. The workout continued for about two and a half hours and an impromptu game was played between a select team and a high school nine, the former winning 10 to 6 in five innings. The exhibition was not a bad one considering the fact that it was the first time this year that many of those who participated had touched a ball or bat this year.

Sport Chat

The first football body to make a definite gesture toward reorganization for the coming season will be the Regimental Club, the annual meeting of which is called for tomorrow night in the Armory. It is said that the Thistles and Grand Terminals may also have teams this year but, as far as can be learned, no definite steps have yet been taken by either organization. The annual meeting of the Prince Rupert Football Association, however, officials say, is to be held in the very near future. Possibly after that has taken place, there may be a more definite idea of how many teams may compete this year. It would be very desirable could there be more than three teams which number has made up the league the past season or so. There should be enough players available if the youngsters who are coming up are taken into account.

B. Gwyer pitched excellently for the High School boys, while Verge Moore, a recent arrival here from Stewart, and Bill Lambie took turns in the box for the older men. Another new player was George Arseneau, formerly a Commercial Leaguer in Vancouver. The select team consisted of H. Minnehan, catcher; Bill Lambie, pitcher; Bill Mitchell, first base; George Mitchell, second base; Joe Downey, short stop; Jimmy Farquhar, third base; and Verge Moore, George Howe and George Arseneau, outfielders.

Baseball organization for the season is proceeding and the annual meeting will likely be held this week, possibly on Thursday. Jimmy Farquhar and Stan Moran have the organization of a team for the Gyro Club in hand; George Mitchell and George Arseneau are in charge of a prospective Elks' Club, while Lee Dell and Harry Love have charge of arrangements for the formation of a squad to represent the Native Sons of Canada.

Jack Kearns, manager of Mickey Walker, middleweight champion, has received an offer of $100,000 for a title bout between Mickey Walker and Ace Hudkins at Wrigley Field, Los Angeles. The bout will be held June 4 and staged by Jack Doyle, Los Angeles promoter, who made the offer. Kearns said that promoters in Chicago, Detroit and New York were after the match, and he would accept the most active proposition. He refused to give Doyle a definite answer.

The function at Prince George Dock was attended by 100 representatives, officials and business men of the colony. VANCOUVER WHEAT

VANCOUVER, April 22.—Wheat was quoted on the local exchange today at $1.17 1/4.

Preceding Mr. Malcolm, was Sir Charles W. J. Orr of Canada. "Trade follows transportation," he said. "Since the arrival of the first ship under the agreement, the Canadian Forester in 1921, the trade of 49,000 pounds had increased in 1928 to 455,000, as a direct result of the Canada-West Indies agreement."

W. McLeod Clark, secretary of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, replying to the toast to the Lady Somers, said, "Trade plays a large part in building the empire and the Canadian National Steamships link the West Indies and Canada."

During the afternoon, general enthusiasm was shown by the people of Nassau, 2,000 visiting the boat.

There are now transatlantic liners so large that Babe Ruth's longest hit ball would fall far short of the length of the vessel.

CANADIAN DIPLOMACY ON THE JOB
(Winnipeg Free Press)

The sinking of the "I'm Alone" is the first international "incident" of importance that Canada has had to deal with since she assumed responsibility for her own foreign affairs. The impression that she is not handling the situation and undertaking herself, the vindication of Canadian rights appears to be held by the Halifax Herald. It remarks that claims have been made by some people in this country that we now have national and sovereign status, but it declares that this idea has not stood the test of the present incident, and that the pretensions of independent status are all upset. The Herald says:

"For the first time in the history of Canada as a Dominion, this country is brought squarely up against the facts of international complications. For with our Embassy and our Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary at Washington, this (in theory) is a Canadian, not a British, responsibility.

"The simple truth, of course, is that this is a British affair; that despite all the vocalizing of the 'extreme autonomists,' it would be monstrous to suggest anything else. The 'extreme autonomists' may 'play at counsellors and kings' in the press; on the hustings and on the floors of Parliament, but when a ship of British registry (for Canada is British) is sunk by shell-fire, it becomes the business of British statesmanship and British diplomacy."

The facts, however, are quite the contrary. This is a Canadian affair and the Canadian Government is handling it. Premier King, as Secretary of State for External Affairs, made representations to Mr. Stimson, the Secretary of State at Washington. After preliminary exchanges, Mr. King sent a definite statement, or diplomatic note, containing Canada's protest and her formal claim in the matter, and the grounds on which the claim is based. The Secretary of State at Washington is preparing a formal statement of the United States side of the case to send to Mr. King. When the facts regarding the sinking of the "I'm Alone" were being gathered in the first place, Hon. Vincent Massey, Canadian minister at Washington, secured a statement from the captain of the vessel through the British consul at New Orleans. But the diplomatic exchanges with the United States Government have been carried on by Mr. King, as Canadian Minister of External Affairs.

To most Canadians who take pride in the developments by which Canada takes charge of her own affairs vis-a-vis the United States, it will seem very odd that there are Canadians so-called, who could rejoice if, in a matter of this kind, it should appear that this country is not competent to act. The Herald is, of course, pretty much alone in this opinion, but not quite. We notice in the Toronto Globe, that perfect mirror of the Colonial mind of—shall we say?—1844, a letter in which the very idea that Canada could carry out these negotiations is denounced as preposterous. For why? Because there is no Canadian navy to back Mr. Massey up! The correspondent's idea is apparently that if Sir Esme Howard were conducting the negotiations he would stalk into the office of Mr. Stimson, Secretary of State for the United States, pound the table, issue an ultimatum, and twenty-four hours later turn the British navy loose on the doomed Republic. These Canadians, with the Colonial complex, are curious folk with queer ideas derived from past centuries.

Sir Esme Howard, the British ambassador, is not, of course, entirely outside the negotiations. It is reasonable to assume that he and Mr. Massey are consulting with one another. Both Great Britain and Canada are interested in the affair, because its settlement will turn probably on the interpretation of a treaty with the United States to which both Canada and Great Britain are parties. These countries have agreed that the United States authorities have the right to search British and Canadian vessels if they are within one hour's steaming from the United States shores; but there appears to be no warrant in the treaty for the "continuous pursuit" privilege exercised by the United States coastguards. If this is so, there would appear to be a clear case for damages; and if this is established, the United States will, of course, do the right and proper thing just as readily at the request of Mr. Massey, who is in charge of the negotiations because the ship was Canadian, as at the request of the British ambassador.

Canada's experience in foreign affairs is just beginning. She will consult with Britain and the rest of the Commonwealth on matters of common concern, but she will deal directly with matters affecting her alone. Her representatives have given a good account of themselves at Geneva, and it is generally agreed that very capable ministers have been selected for the Canadian embassies at Washington, Paris and Tokio. There is no reason why external affairs should not be dealt with at Ottawa in a quite competent manner, as this particular question is being dealt with.

FISHERMAN'S VIEWS

To the Editor of The Daily News:
Sir—I beg a little space in your valuable paper in regards to recent fish trap inquiry. I think some one has set a trap in Prince Rupert and caught both political parties. We consider that our Liberal nominee put up a very feeble protest, which we admit was a protest, but only a surface one. What went on underneath we do not know. As our representative in Ottawa, this vital question of fish traps opposed by all the people in this fishing district except canners, has not once disturbed his slumbers in Ottawa.

I think, judging by all his actions in the past, it would be a different story if Fred Stork had been the Liberal nominee, as he has always fought for the fishermen's interest, but the party that set the trap saw to it that he was conveniently out of the way.

Now a great many of salmon fishermen think that this commission should never have been appointed and that the cards are stacked against them, and if there was any necessity for a royal commission a proper one with fishermen represented on it would have been appointed, if we had men in and out of Ottawa to represent us.

Therefore the fishermen are now considering advisability of forming a Fishermen's Labor Party and putting their own candidate in the field at the next federal election.

Yours for conservation of fish and fishermen.

Fashion Fancies

The Bags of the Moment are Conservative

Faddish tendencies in accessories may come and go, but there is no denying the practicality of the conservative vogue. Avoid the bizarre, the freakish and you will never be conspicuous for bad taste.

There are four examples of conservatism in hand bags. Of shiny patent leather, molded on tailored lines their uses are manifold. The first is trimmed with a gilt frame, the second features a monogram, the third an amber frame and the fourth a small gold ball. All are in good taste and extremely chic.

Flowered Prints That Bloom in the Spring

This is the time of year when, if ever, you must consider the printed chiffon dance dress. Realizing the importance of this mode, designers have placed on the market such a variety and abundance of prints as to bewilder even the sanest shopper. Choose your print carefully—and then go ahead.

If you can afford a large, splashy design, the print drawn here is an excellent choice, pale green flowers on a dark green ground. The model is tightly hipped, tied in front, and with a long, very circular skirt.

VEGETABLES FOR HEALTH

The carrot, now a staple article of diet for very young children from a health standpoint because of its vitamins and also because of its high content of lime in shape for utilization by the human system, is equally beneficial to grown-ups and all intermediate stages of growth. From a culinary standpoint, the carrot is really two vegetables, the baby carrot and the half grown to the mature root. The baby carrot pulled before it has developed its full sugar content has quite a different flavor from the more mature roots and is better liked by some than the roots which have attained the majority of their growth.

From the health standpoint, the mature carrots are said to have greater value. While the baby carrot had the call in dietary popularity for a time because of the delicacy of its flavor, the more mature roots with their sugary properties developed are now pushing the baby vegetable closely. This is because the proper method of cooking the grown carrot to retain its health-giving properties also develops and preserves all its finest flavors.

The carrot should be cooked with as little water as possible. The best way to cook it is in a steamer or steam cooker, with no water. The old-fashioned way of boiling in water enough to sink it resulted in the valuable mineral salts being boiled out and thrown away with much of its sugary content. A carrot cooked properly is a revelation to those who have never encountered it before. There are many ways of dressing carrots for the zest of their flavor.

While they are best served to the youngsters with only a dressing of melted butter, a favorite method for grown-ups is to add a little onion flavor, a delicacy not scorned now at elaborate banquets. This dish is made most attractive by slicing the carrots into Julienne strips. But, the carrots are melted in a saucepan sufficient to dredge over the carrots and in the butter a little onion is minced and fried until it is soft but not brown. The butter and onion is then poured over the carrots, which are tossed like a salad to coat each piece of carrot.

GETTING IN EARLY PEAS

Gardeners are alert watching after the peas have filled out the soil for an opportunity to get in peas at the earliest possible moment. The peas need the earliest possible start as the successful crop depends upon their growth before the weather gets hot so that they can be harvested the last part of July and early part of August.

Sometimes it is possible to get peas in during the latter part of March but more often the middle of April in the northern half of the country is about the earliest possible. The first crop should be of the smooth-seeded type. While not having the finest quality they will be welcomed for the earliest picking before the better flavored peas get into bearing.

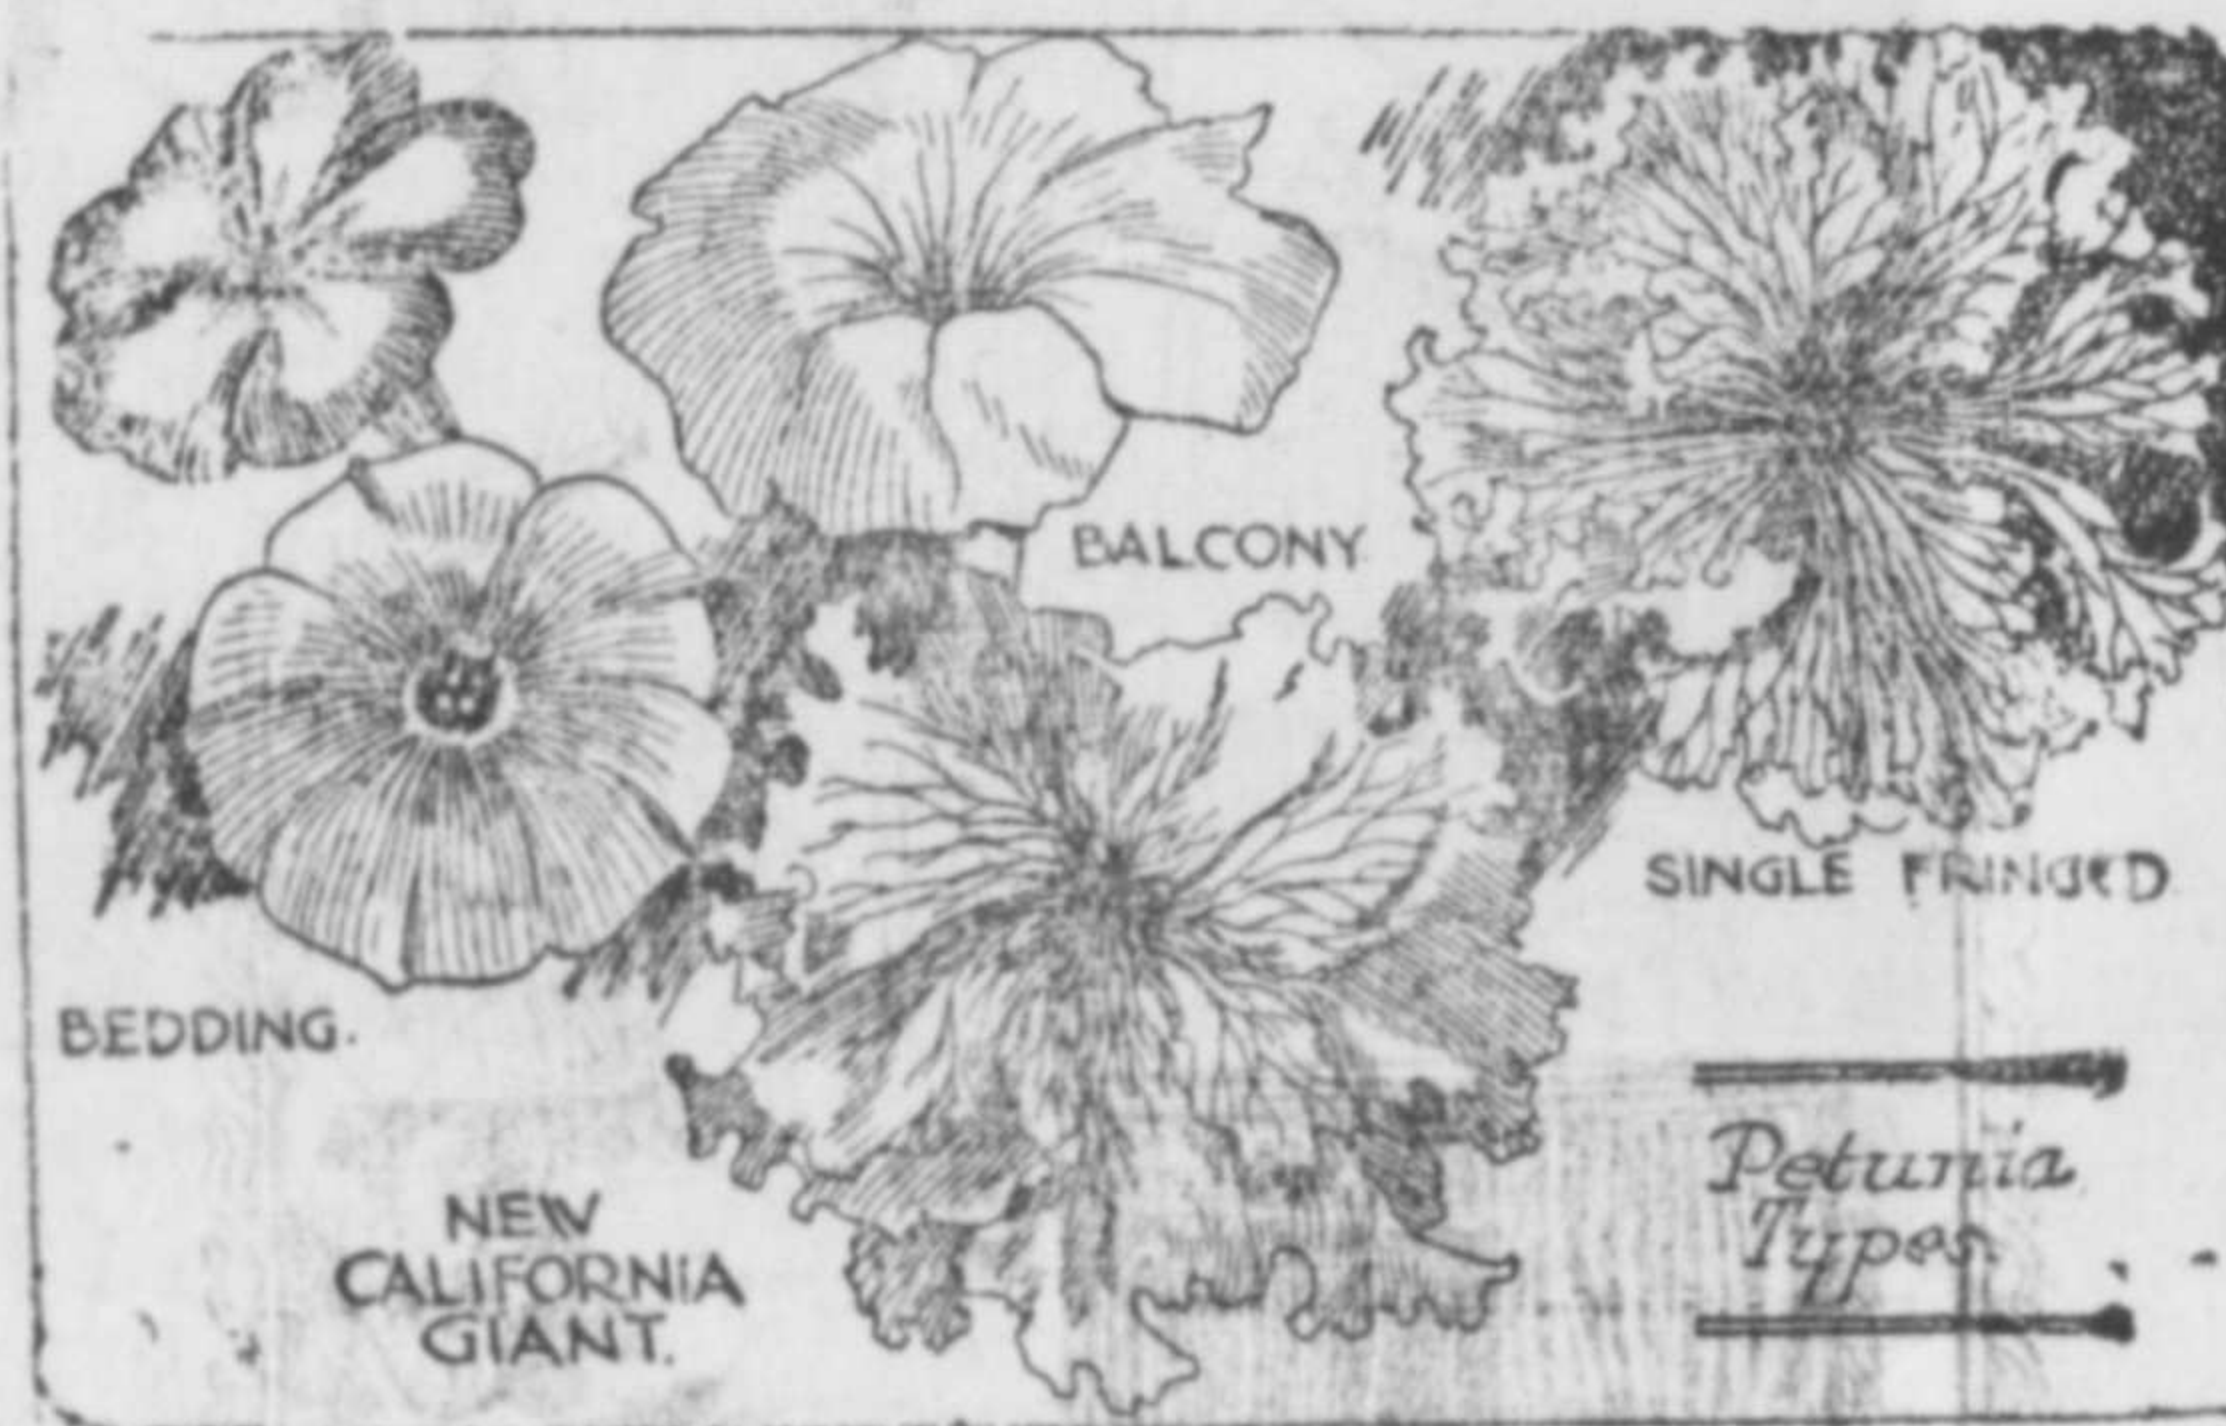

Of the smooth peas for the earliest of all planting the variety Alaska is usually deemed the earliest cropper and the safer to plant with Maud S, a close competitor. Some gardeners prefer Maud S. They are the hardest of all the peas. To realize their best quality they must be picked while the pods are young, just

They deteriorate in quality rapidly as they approach maturity. By the time the smooth-seeded peas are popping through the ground it will be about time to chance the wrinkled peas for an early crop. If bad weather should spoil the planting little will be lost and they can be replanted a few days later and be in time for the usual pea crop. The main idea is to beat the weather as far as possible for early peas.

Rich, well-drained soil is the best combination for a full crop of peas. The drainage is essential for their start in early spring as the better the drainage the less the likelihood that the seed will rot should a cold, wet spell set in. In heavy soils rotting is much more likely. Balanced commercial fertilizer sprinkled in the rows when the peas are planted will do much to speed their growth. The main idea is to get the pea started early and keep it spinning until the pods are ready to pick.

The dwarf kind are the popular favorites, but it pays to plant the tall sorts for larger cropping.

GROWING BETTER PLANTS

While there is a tendency on the part of advanced gardeners to scorn the petunia as old-fashioned and common, the magnificent displays that are seen where petunias are properly grown and given a fair chance soon bring them back into the garden. The main factor in getting all there is out of a petunia, and it is an enormous lot compared with many plants, is to feed it heavily and give it room. A well-grown plant of a petunia, such as Rosy Morn, will make a solid mat nearly two feet across covered with a sheet of bloom that fairly hides the foliage if given a rich well-worked soil and an abundance of water. Some of the finest specimens are seen along stone walks where they have the protection of the stone on one side to preserve moisture in the soil. The petunia likes a warm location, all the sun there is, and is an abundant supply of moisture but a well-drained soil. Waterlogging is not to its liking. Plant petunias eighteen inches apart to secure maximum development. The reward will be well worth the misgivings when the little plants look so lonesome when first set out at this distance apart. When it takes hold the petunia is a rapid grower and it won't be long before they meet. This applies to the smaller flowered bedding strains. The larger flowered ones do not make such rampant growth, the balcony types coming closest in covering ground.

The large flowered frilled and fringed types, magnificent blooms worthy of the finest greenhouses in their exquisite markings do not make this rampant growth and should be set a foot apart. But for all of them give rich soil, drainage, full sun and plenty of water in dry spells. The small flowered bedding type, such as Rosy Morn, spread out and make a heavy mat of growth which acts as a mulch and keeps the soil moist about them. They will not wilt and show the lack of moisture as quickly as the large flowered types.

A border of the small flowered bedding types in blue rick purple, pink or white make a magnificent display from midsummer on if given the room and the food to develop their capabilities. It is as easy to have fine petunias with great masses of bloom as straggly ones with scattering bloom.

The man with the HOE says - Sweet peas should be started either in pots, boxes or in the open ground in such sections where the soil can be worked.

The old system of soaking peas over night before planting them is a good reason behind it. It hastens germination.

Last call to get lettuce seed started if the lettuce is to head properly.

For a fine and durable red not in the garden, include some of the plummy celosias or cockscombs. They are also handsome for dried winter bouquets, retaining their color.

The cardinal climber is the most colorful of all the climbing annuals and is as easily grown as a morning glory. Seed should not be planted till the soil is warm.

It would be a good idea to order a packet of summer and winter radish seed. They are fine for later planting.

LOBSTER INDUSTRY
Lobstering is a distinctive industry. In 1870, there were three lobster canneries on the Atlantic coast of Canada; in 1927 the canneries numbered 438 and gave work to 6,180 people; 30,000,000 lobsters in a normal catch.

NEW COLORS IN SNAPDRAGONS

Each season brings numerous snapdragons to beguile us until the list one of the most puzzling from which to select in the catalogues. There seem to be two popular types, the pinks, placed in favoritism by the florists, and the bronze, orange and copper combinations that are predominant in many of the new types. These are particularly fascinating with their brilliant shades so beautifully blending into each other. The greatest variety of coloring is found in the semi-tall types, the best garden type without special training and cultivation.

The giant-flowered type has become so specialized that many of the varieties are better suited for greenhouse than garden cultivation. The semi-tall sorts reach a height of 18 to 20 inches, the tall sorts from 24 to 36 inches, and the giant flowered under intensive cultivation even a greater height than that. The dwarf sorts average about eight inches. The last named are fine for edging beds of the taller sort.

The snapdragons like a rich, warm, well-drained soil and also prefer a soil with lime in it. Drainage they must have to be at their best. They also respond to frequent cultivation. They are slow growers in their early stages, the plants when first germinated being tiny things and they are likely to stand still for quite a time, enlarging the seed leaves before they start spinning up in the world. Once started on their upward career, their growth is fast. It is usually advised to start snapdragon seed in cool quarters to encourage slow and stocky growth of the main stem at the start.

The reds, ambers, oranges and flame-colored sorts should be kept away from the beautiful silvery pink types in the garden for the best color effects. The pinks and creamy whites make ideal combinations together with some of the varieties that are white with a pink lip.

The seed should be scattered thinly which is difficult, as it is very fine and should be merely pressed into the soil. In order to facilitate thin sowing the seeds should be planted in rows. The seedlings should be thinned or transplanted as soon as large enough to handle as they start spindling very readily if in too crowded quarters.

THREE MONTHS OF ASTERS

September is usually the month of maximum display. This selection with an early start for the seed will give as long a garden display as one could wish.

The Queen of the Market is an excellent early type. The Early Wonder strain is even earlier. Then come the Ostrich plume types, the early flowering strain of the American Beauty type, the Giant late branching type, and last of all, the late blooming American Beauty type. A fascinating mid-season development is the new anemone-flowered Sunshine aster, and there are also some fine strains of single-flowered asters that are beginning to run the huge double types a close race because of their grace and beauty for cutting. The English gardeners are going in more strongly for the single types than Americans but they are making their way in our gardens and are worthy subjects.

GARDEN FRAMES ARE ALMOST NECESSARY

Under the general term of garden frames are included the hot-bed, the cold frame, and the small seed frames. There is no more useful adjunct to successful gardening and, once installed, a gardener wonders how he ever got along without one. They are fundamentally merely a wooden frame to support glass, sash being made in standard sizes to fit the usual 3 by 4-foot unit and now they are made in half size for convenience in handling.

They are an all-the-year-around garden utility. For wintering plants not quite hardy or those which while hardy as to frost, can't stand winter wet, for early starting of seed, for the propagation of plants by cutting during the summer months, they are always of use. They are easily constructed by the gardener with a little knack of handling carpenter's tools and can be bought knocked down. They may be either permanently made of concrete or portable and made of wood.

BULBS

News of the Mines

AROUND PRINCE RUPERT
Dunwell to Be Diamond Drilled This Season; Consolidated Report on George Copper; More Money Needed for Porter-Idaho

Dunwell Mines, Ltd., are reported to have definitely arranged for 2000 feet of diamond drilling to begin as soon as climatic conditions will permit. An announcement to this effect has been made by Robert M. Stewart, general manager. The drilling is expected to get under way in about a month's time and will follow the indications of last year's Radiore survey. Mr. Stewart says that the company has every reason to anticipate good results.

"At the George Copper diamond drill holes started last season were deepened," says the annual report of W. M. Archibald, manager of mines of the Consolidated Mining & Smelting Co., "but did not encounter ore which could be considered as the downward continuation of the main surface showings. Two holes started from a new station showed copper values with no gold over mineable width within 200 feet of the collars. This season it is hoped to trace this vein further down the mountain in the hope that an underground operation may be possible when the exploration of the main vein would be more feasible. At present the outlook is rather obscure and extensive underground operations are not justified." The annual meeting of the George Gold-Copper Mining Co. was held in Vancouver on Monday last.

Development this season on the Keystone mine at Alice Arm will, it is understood, include extension of the tunnel which was in about 657 feet when work was suspended in the fall of 1927. This tunnel was believed to be near the ore body. It is possible, however, that cross-cuts may be driven from the head of the tunnel in order to pick up the ore. The ore shows low values in silver and gold.

"It is quite obvious," states Bert F. Smith, assistant manager of the Premier Gold Mining Co., in the annual report of that company, "that more money than is now in the treasury will be necessary to bring the Porter-Idaho property to a productive stage. This additional capital will no doubt, be furnished by the Premier company under the terms of the agreement." The sum of $426,296.61 has been expended since April 18, 1928, when Premier took control of the management after paying $500,000 for shares then in the treasury. Interesting developments are expected in 1929, the report forecasts, in view of the fact that the tramway is nearing completion and that a development program of considerable scope is in progress.

Arthur Skelhorne, representing the powerful Mining Corporation of Canada, has left Stewart with a party of seven prospectors to investigate the Stikine River section. The expedition is going via Wrangell. Its members are George Bacon, John Bozanya, Jerry Fagan, Fred Bozance, John Murdoch, Fred Armiture and Tom Mericle, all well known Stewart prospectors. It is the intention to go up the Stikine for about 60 miles or to the contact between the coast batholith and sedimentaries, where the party will land and split into two sections for prospecting. The whole expedition is based on the report of Dr. F. A. Kerr of the Geological Survey and is the inauguration of a new idea in prospecting. Supplies for the party will be sent in bond via Prince Rupert and Wrangell. Mr. Skelhorne at one time owned by location a large part of the Groundhog area.

TERRACE FAIR PLANS MADE

Prize Money Considerably Cut Down—Date Set For September 12 and 13

TERRACE, April 22:—At a meeting of the directors of the Terrace Fall Fair Association, held on Friday evening, with N. Sherwood presiding, the names of R. Corlett and J. Lever were added to the directorate.

Thursday and Friday, September 12 and 13 were the dates chosen for this year's fair, subject to the approval of the Fairs' Association. These dates come in between the dates set for Prince George and Quesnel, both Prince Rupert and Smithers having chosen dates considerably earlier.

Following up the decision of the March meeting that the prize list would have to be considerably cut down from last year, it was decided to limit the amount of prize money offered to $400, a decrease of almost $150. Some rough pruning was done to the live stock, poultry, fruit and vegetable sections, and a committee, composed of President N. Sherwood, Secretary W. Robinson and H. Halliwell, was named to make a rough draft of a new prize list and to allocate the prize money for the different sections, subject to ratification at the next meeting which was set for May 10.

The secretary was instructed to write asking the Women's Institute to revise and considerably cut down the home cooking and fancy sections.

The advisability of assuming the responsibility of meeting the local portion of the prize money for the Boys' and Girls' Clubs was discussed and was tabled until more definite information about the required amount should be received from that branch of the Women's Institute.

It was also arranged to ask a representative from the school staff to attend the next meeting to discuss the school exhibit section of the prize list.

MINES CHAMBER HOLDS MEETING

Smithers Branch of B. C. Organization Reports Progress in District

SMITHERS, April 22:—The Omineca branch of the B. C. Chamber of Mines held here reported that the strike at the Cronin Mine continues to show up well under the development of Number 3 tunnel which is being continued in high grade galena ore 4 1/2 to 5 feet wide.

It was also reported that Helmar Larson of Owen Lake reported an important find adjoining the property of the Owen Lake Mining Co. Ltd. He has galena and grey copper ore with good silver values.

Excellent reports have been arriving from the Topley Richfield camp on the progress of development on the 200 foot level.

A vote of thanks was passed to the minister of mines for the generous assistance given by him to the organization and for improvement of roads and trails within the district. The following sums have been allotted to roads which will benefit the mining industry as follows:

Silver Lake road and trail, Hudson May Mt., $1750.
 Driftwood road, Babine Range, $2,000.

Owen Lake Section, new road and further improvements.

Silver Cup, Nine Mile Mt., Hazelton, $5,000.

Usk, completion of main road and several important trails improved.

Cronin Mine Road, extensive improvements.

The branch of the Chamber reported progress on the new booklet which is being published by the mining bureau of the Smithers District Board of Trade with the cooperation and assistance of the organization.

REVIVE GOLD MINING

Gold mining has had a distinct revival in Nova Scotia during the last few years, and operations are reported on a dozen or more old mines. Production, however, is still limited, to a few thousand ounces annually.

As a recognition of our interest in the subject, we offer three prizes for the best suggestions put forward in a brief newspaper article not to exceed 500 words. First prize, $50; second prize, a year's subscription to The Daily News; and third, six months' subscription to the paper.

A school boy or school girl is just as likely to win the prize for this as is a grownup. Write on one side of the paper only and mail addressed: Contest Editor, The Daily News, Prince Rupert, B. C.

Mirage... or Reality

ON the horizon we all catch glimpses of El Dorado . . . the city of gold . . . where there will be no more hardship or privation. It is human—and indeed commendable—to seek always after financial independence. It is human . . . but none the less tragic . . . that so many are tempted to seek some short cut or royal road to wealth. For many and unscrupulous are those who prey upon inexperience. Get-rich-quick schemes and promoters of doubtful speculations—they lead us on with alluring promises of prosperity—lead us on to disillusionment and loss. And all the while the reality lies within our grasp. For, by means of adequate, well-selected Life Insurance, even the humblest of us may build up an estate beyond our expectations . . . may win independence and security for ourselves and those we love. Any Life Insurance representative will show you the safe method of creating an estate.

The true purpose of a Budget

EVERY year you spend a large proportion of the money you get. So much for clothing. So much for shoes. So much for things to eat—for house furnishings, books and what not.

Here is the way to get the most for your money.

Keep a budget. Decide what you can afford to spend for each item, and hold yourself within this amount.

Then—to get the most for your budget money read advertisements carefully. The advertisements you read tell you what is newest and best. They give you the latest ideas and improvements. They help you to get more from each dollar you have apportioned in your budget—and so live better and dress better with the same income.

The true purpose of a budget is to enable you to spend wisely—and only by careful reading of advertising can you hope to accomplish this result.

Read advertising regularly. It points the way to better living.

Always!—in the pocket of my car

"When you are driving a car these days—it's a question of eyes front!" said a friend of mine recently. "That's why I smoke cigars when driving. You light up and smoke. I like a pipe and I smoke cigarettes too—but these take more attention than a cigar. I buy a pocket pack of 5 Marguerites—foil wrapped, factory-fresh—I drop it in the pocket of my car. I always have a cigar handy and do you know," he concluded, "the old bus seems to run smoother when you're smoking a Marguerite."

NORMA TALMADGE'S FIRST APPEARANCE AT CAPITOL

TO REPRESENT NEW BRUNSWICK

Dr. H. H. Hagerman, science instructor at the Provincial Normal School at Fredericton, New Brunswick, has been chosen to represent New Brunswick at the World Conference of Educational Associations at Geneva in August and will make an extended tour of Europe in connection with his visit to Geneva.

Famous Star of the Screen at Her Best, in Her Best Picture, "The Woman Disputed"

Unexcelled acting, a sweeping story of love, intrigue and sacrifice, climatic production and perfect direction combine to make "The Woman Disputed," Norma Talmadge's newest screen vehicle, entertainment-plus.

This great picture, which opens at the Capitol tonight, not only lends itself perfectly to the magnificently dramatic genius of the star, but it provides her and her large cast of players with a spectacular vehicle which holds the audience's attention from the first flash to the final fade-out. After essaying tom-boyish roles, bejeweled characterizations and flashing-eyed dance-hallish types during the past couple of years, Norma returns, in "The Woman Disputed," to the kind of picture in which she is at her very best.

The story revolves around a triangle of two men and a girl. The men are fast friends—the girl likes them both—until jealousy and hatred drive the trio into a strange denouement and a happy ending.

Development of the absorbing plot against a background of war-ravaged towns, espionage and adventure gives the girl the choice of saving an entire army corps from destruction or sacrificing her honor in the name of patriotism.

"The Woman Disputed" must be ranked as one of the screen's outstanding, year's offerings.
