Man Fired at Jack Dempsey but Failed to Hit Mark Today Near Scene of Big Fight Wednesday

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 25.—An unidentified prowler entered Jack Dempsey's room here about 5 a. m. today and shot once at the former heavyweight champion, the bullet going wild.

Dempsey was sleeping with Floyd Fitzsimmons, Chicago promoter, at the home of Harry Moire. He awakened about 5 a. m. and saw a figure of a man silhouetted in the window. Fitzsimmons, beside Dempsey, called out, "What do you want?" The man replied in a gruff tone, "Turn on those lights," and addressing a supposed accomplice in the hallway said, "Come on in Joe."

Dempsey said that he leaped from the bed then and the intruder retired, firing once wildly as he backed out of the window.

Local Radio Man Heard Commander Byrd Talking in the Antarctic Regions

Making a record in radio reception here, Dave Eastman of this city picked up a message from Commander Byrd, who is now in the Antarctic. The message was sent to Pittsburgh short wave station KDKA from Commander Byrd's station WCST. The message mentioned that they were doing well, mentioned the names of a number of the men and told of having discovered some new land there.

Mr. Eastman uses a short wave receiving set that he made himself and which he has operated for the past two years. He says he has given up using his long wave set because he gets so much better results from the other. It is not so much affected by weather conditions and static. Among stations he has heard at different times have been Malabar, Java; Eiffel Tower, Paris; and the Australian and Japanese stations. It is quite a regular thing to hear Moscow. He says that the call letters are always given in English as well as the native tongue and some of the broadcasts are in broken English.

Another advantage of the short wave set is the fact that it can be used all day as well as at night. All last week when owners of long wave sets were getting no results, the short wave broadcasts were coming in as usual.

Superintendent of Utilities to Be Left in Charge by Corporation

Contingent upon the passing of the agreement by the electors on Friday of this week, it is learned on reliable authority that John J. Little, superintendent of utilities for the city of Prince Rupert, will be appointed manager for the Power Corporation of Canada in this city. Mr. Little has been superintendent of utilities here for some two or three years, having been promoted to that position when his predecessor, Ernest Love, left the city. He has proved himself at once an efficient and popular official and many friends will be gratified to learn that he is to remain in charge of the local power system.

It is understood that the Power Corporation will adhere in Prince Rupert to its policy of absorbing former employees when it takes hold of a plant.

CUSTOMS BOAT DRIVEN ASHORE

VANCOUVER, Feb. 25.—Driven ashore by a stiff westerly gale which raged most of the night the customs launch Imperator, built about a year ago at a cost of $9000, was wrecked on the boulders on second beach at midnight Sunday.

Captain H. Ormiston and Engineer W. Bennie, who started for the shore in the boat's dinghy, were forced to swim when the craft filled and sank beneath them. Engine trouble was the cause of the boat getting out of control. Anchors were dropped and caught when the boat was on the edge of the boulders, but when the tide dropped the bottom of the boat stove in. The wreck will be lifted and repaired.

Prince Rupert Repeats Victory Over Anyox by Winning All Hoop Games Here on Saturday Eve.

The Prince Rupert basketball teams repeated their victories of the previous evening on Saturday night when they again defeated Anyox in the inter-town hoop series. The Players Club defeated the Anyox seniors 29-25 in a well played game. The locals played a good combination game with Poli Howard as high point man with 13 points. Anyox played a hard game, but the forwards were not able to make their shots count. They had numerous shots at the basket, but luck was against them. Dooley Deanes for Anyox played a good game of guard and was partly responsible for Rupert not scoring oftener. He intercepted many plays. McDougall was high scorer for the Anyox team with nine points. The score at half time was 13-8 in favor of Rupert. During the last five minutes of the game the score was always within five points of the two teams. The individual scores were:

At the end of the third quarter Rupert led 11-5. During the last quarter Anyox put on a spurt which started too late to win the game. The score read: Rupert, 13. Anyox, 10, at full time. Sport Chat

Events scheduled for the coming week are as follows:

Monday (tonight)—Elks' whist Cribbage League; C. N. Operators vs Canadian Legion; Native Sons vs Knights of Columbus; Moose vs Grotto; Eagles vs Cold Storage; C. N. Mechanics vs New Empress Club; P. R. Hotel vs Orange Lodge.

Tuesday—League basketball re-opening. Wednesday—Second Division Billiards: Cold Storage vs Grand Terminals.

Boxing tournament: Fred Parker of Toronto vs Dido Gurvich of Prince Rupert, etc.

Thursday—First Division Billiards: Canadian Legion vs Grand Terminals.

Men's Whist: Seal Cove vs New Empress; Knights of Pythias vs Leif Erikson; Moose vs St. George's; Grotto, bye.

St. Andrew's carpet bowls: J. Frew vs G. Abbott rinks.

Friday—League basketball.

Due, no doubt, to Charlie Brown's effective publicity efforts, considerable interest has been awakened in Wednesday night's boxing tournament, the headline of which will be furnished by Fred Parker of Toronto and Dido Gurvich of Prince Rupert in ten rounds. Because the public is told it is going to be a good fight doesn't mean it isn't going to be, either. On the other hand, it promises to be one of the most interesting affairs of fisticuffs that has been seen in town for quite a while. If Mr. Parker is nearly as wild a lad as they are making him out to be, even though he does show rather poor judgment—or excessive enthusiasm—once in a while in messing up his sparring partners, Mr. Gurvich is going to have to watch his step and, from what we have seen of him more recently, the local battler should be able to do a lot of step-watching and fighting too if he isn't pressed too hard in having to look out that he isn't connected up with something he doesn't like. Parker, from what we hear, is no set-up and might be able to kayak Dido. If he can keep everything but his feet off the canvas, however; the local boy should have a pretty good chance to win a decision. Fans are also looking forward to some lively action in the semi-final spat between Nina Gurvich and Tiger Boulter.

At a meeting of the unemployed last night, Ex-Ald. George B. Casey offered a wood-cutting proposition whereby some six or seven of the workless might be taken care of. Mr. Casey is willing to loan the necessary tools and take the men to and from work in the timber on the new Kaien Island highway. Proceeds would be divided on a 50-50 basis and the wood would be offered the public at moderate prices. Depending on their industry, the men could earn good wages and Mr. Casey would be able to make a small profit in his scheme to alleviate some of the unemployed.

LEAGUE HOCKEY AT WEEK-END

Runners-Up in Respective Sections of National League Play Draw

TORONTO, Feb. 25.—The N. Y. Americans and Boston each with a chance to tie the leaders in their respective divisions played a two all draw on Sunday night and are still one point behind the Canadiens and Rangers respectively.

The Maroons' sensational beating of the N. Y. Rangers 9 to 1 in Montreal on Saturday was a feature of the week-end. With "Hooley" Smith and Babe Siebert on the injured list Montreal nevertheless tore into Lester Patrick's men and scored almost at will.

Toronto kept pace with the Maroons for the third place by beating the Canadiens. The Senators improved their slender chances of getting into the playoffs by shutting out Pittsburgh. Detroit failed to get the points they expected when Chicago played them a scoreless draw. In addition Detroit lost their star wing, Herbert Lewis, whose shoulder was fractured.

The following were the week-end scores:

Saturday
Pittsburgh 0, Ottawa 3.
N. Y. Rangers 1, Montreal 9.
Canadiens 1, Toronto 2.
Detroit 0, Chicago 0.

Sunday
Boston 2, N. Y. Americans 2.

MEETING OF UNEMPLOYED

Two Aldermen and Two Ex-Aldermen Were Speakers at Gathering Last Night

Ald. W. M. Brown, Ald. S. D. Macdonald, Ex-Ald. George B. Casey and Ex-Ald. W. H. Montgomery were among speakers at a meeting of the unemployed which was held last night in the Grain Handlers' Union Hall. A Morrison occupied the chair and there were about 100 men present. Discussed in some cases was stressed and the two aldermen assured the meeting that the city was endeavoring to the utmost of its ability to take care of the situation adequately.

The loading of the grain ship Sydland gave employment to about 70 men part of last week. Possibly a similar number are being taken care of, part time at least, by the city.

A representative of the unemployed was appointed at the meeting to act with Alderman Brown in seeing that the unemployed get equal chances at city employment and thus get over the complaints made of discrimination.

An Irishman and a Scot found themselves seated side by side at a certain Christmas Club-dinner, and each tried to impress the other with the distance he had travelled. After much discussion the Irishman admitted that he had sailed the Seven Seas, among other trifles, and that he had been to the end of the world. "An' what did ye see there?" asked the Scot. "Sure, and there was a great big wall reaching to the sky, my bhoy," replied the other. "Ah' weel," said the Scot, "if a peety ye didna look over your wall, fur I wuz behind it fishin' ye ken."—Answers.

WORK OF COAST MISSIONARIES
 The work of the coast missionaries who carry not only the gospel but good cheer and medical aid, and at times do rescue work, is one worthy of all commendation. On Friday night the untiring efforts of Captain Oliver were acknowledged when a presentation was made to that veteran missionary. On a previous occasion the work of Canon Rushbrook of the Anglican Church was the subject of commendation through the church and the press. Also the efforts of Rev. James Gillett of Massett were mentioned. Those who live far from other human habitation particularly appreciate the work of these missionaries, especially the lighthouse keepers, hand loggers and others who are almost wholly isolated. We are glad to join with the people of the United Church in expressing appreciation of the untiring efforts of the noble men who spend their lives in the work of trying to make the lives of their fellows happier.

SALVATION ARMY'S NEW HEAD
 (Edmonton Journal)
 It is a heavy task that General Higgins is assuming as the head of the Salvation Army. But his broad experience and the marked ability that he has displayed in the various posts that he has held give confidence that under his leadership the organization will emerge successfully from its troubles and be a more powerful force for good than ever. There seems to be no question about his obtaining the loyal support of the mass of the Army members and his position is greatly strengthened by the assurance that he has received from Evangeline Booth, the sister of the deposed general and the commander in the United States that that branch can be counted upon to unite behind him. The rumors that it would secede can have little basis in view of her statement. Though Miss Booth was prepared to step into the place occupied by her father and her brother and was proposed for it at the meeting of the high council, she has not allowed its failure to select her to affect her attitude. She puts the Army's interests above any personal considerations and believes that it has now reached "safer channels." Grave difficulties have still to be surmounted, but a beginning has been made towards establishing its affairs on a much sounder basis. "One Who Knows," writing recently in the British Weekly, emphasized how serious was the situation that had arisen. He described Bramwell Booth as having really created the Army through his wonderful organizing powers. While he did not question that those who summoned the high council were "entirely unselfish and quite logically convinced in their determination to effect a drastic change in the Army's autocracy," he feared the consequences of their revolutionary action. At the same time, he held that some such crisis as that which had attracted the whole world was certain to develop sooner or later, as "autocracy, so admirable and essential in making a start, always ends in a ditch." If this is so, the course adopted by the high council should not lack complete justification for long. It is at least to be hoped that this will prove the case and that under the new order of things the army's prestige and effectiveness will steadily increase.

AGED BANKER DIES, MONTREAL

Famous Head of Famous Financial Institution Had Enviable Record

MONTREAL, Feb. 25.—Sir Vincent Meredith, Bart., aged 79, chairman of the Board of Directors of the Bank of Montreal, died suddenly last night. He has been in ill health since he relinquished his position two years ago. His widow survives him.

Henry Vincent Meredith, was one of a remarkable family which also included a Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Canada, a chief justice of an Ontario court and two noted lawyers, the children of J. W. C. Meredith, of London, Ont. He was born in London, Ont., Feb. 27, 1850, and received his education at Hellmuth College, a local educational institution. In 1867, Confederation year, he entered the service of the Bank of Montreal at Hamilton, and it was often said of Sir Vincent that he grew with the bank and the bank grew with Canada, the man and the bank playing leading parts in the growth of the country.

Sir Vincent's career in the Bank of Montreal was one of steady progress. He was appointed an assistant inspector in 1879, and 10 years later was made manager at Montreal. He served in that capacity until 1903 when he was appointed assistant general manager, a post he occupied for eight years. In 1910 he became a director and the following year succeeded Sir Edward Clouston, as general manager. He was appointed vice-president in 1912, and in 1913 he was elected president. Although at the annual meeting of the bank in the fall of 1927 Sir Vincent relinquished the position of president to younger shoulders, those of Sir Charles Gordon, he accepted the new position of Chairman of the Board of Directors and was a regular attendant at his office until his illness.

The honor of baronetcy was conferred upon him on Sept. 15, 1926, on the occasion of the Duke of Connaught's departure from Canada at the expiration of his term of office as governor-general. In addition to his duties with the Bank of Montreal Sir Vincent was associated with many other companies, being president of the Royal Trust Company, a director of the Canadian Pacific Railway, chairman of the Canadian Board of the Royal Exchange Assurance Company, of London, England, a director of the Standard Life Assurance Company, of Edinburgh, Scotland.

His health had been failing for the last few years and especially since 1926. Despite this he was constantly in attendance at the bank. Annually he went overseas and his summary of contributions as he found them in Great Britain and Europe presented in his annual report, carried weight in every financial centre.

LUMBERING
1916	$5,500,000
1926	$8,480,000
Increase 1916-1926 138.7%

Our leading Industry

WHEN 38c. of every dollar paid in industrial wages and salaries in British Columbia comes from lumbering, her ten-year production increase of 138.7 per cent. is vitally important to everyone.

Thirty per cent. of our Province's entire industrial production of 251 million dollars in 1926 was contributed by lumbering and its allied industries. British Columbia now ranks third in the Dominion in industrial importance, and forest products dominate.

Involved in British Columbia's lumbering industry is capital of more than 100 million dollars . . . 20,000 people are employed . . . 330 mills operated.

Without question this gigantic business is destined to continue at the same pace.

Climate, soil and drainage have produced our vast forests of soft woods . . . the greatest in the world! One-third of the British Empire's entire timber supply is in British Columbia. Today, the demand for soft woods is four times that of hard woods . . . and with the last great stand of soft woods located in our Province, continued progress and prosperity are certain.

Great as our timber stands are, our government realizes the necessity of safeguarding the future of this vast industry and is devoting much time, study and thought to the question of scientific reforestation, fire prevention and conservation.

Lumbering brought 84 million dollars to British Columbia in 1926 (the value of the cut that year), an increase of 49 million dollars over 1916. Every year more than 30 million dollars worth of supplies are purchased to enable this great industry to carry on.

Foreign markets have been sought . . . and captured. Water borne export of lumber has enjoyed exceptional growth. Ships laden with 2,616,419,000 feet board measure left our ports during 1922-1926 . . . an increase over the period of 1912-1916 equal to 984%. The log scale jumped 111% during the same period!

This activity represents real money in constant circulation. It keeps thousands of men busy . . . influences every phase of commercial life . . . builds markets for our farm products . . . spells "BRITISH COLUMBIA" the world over!

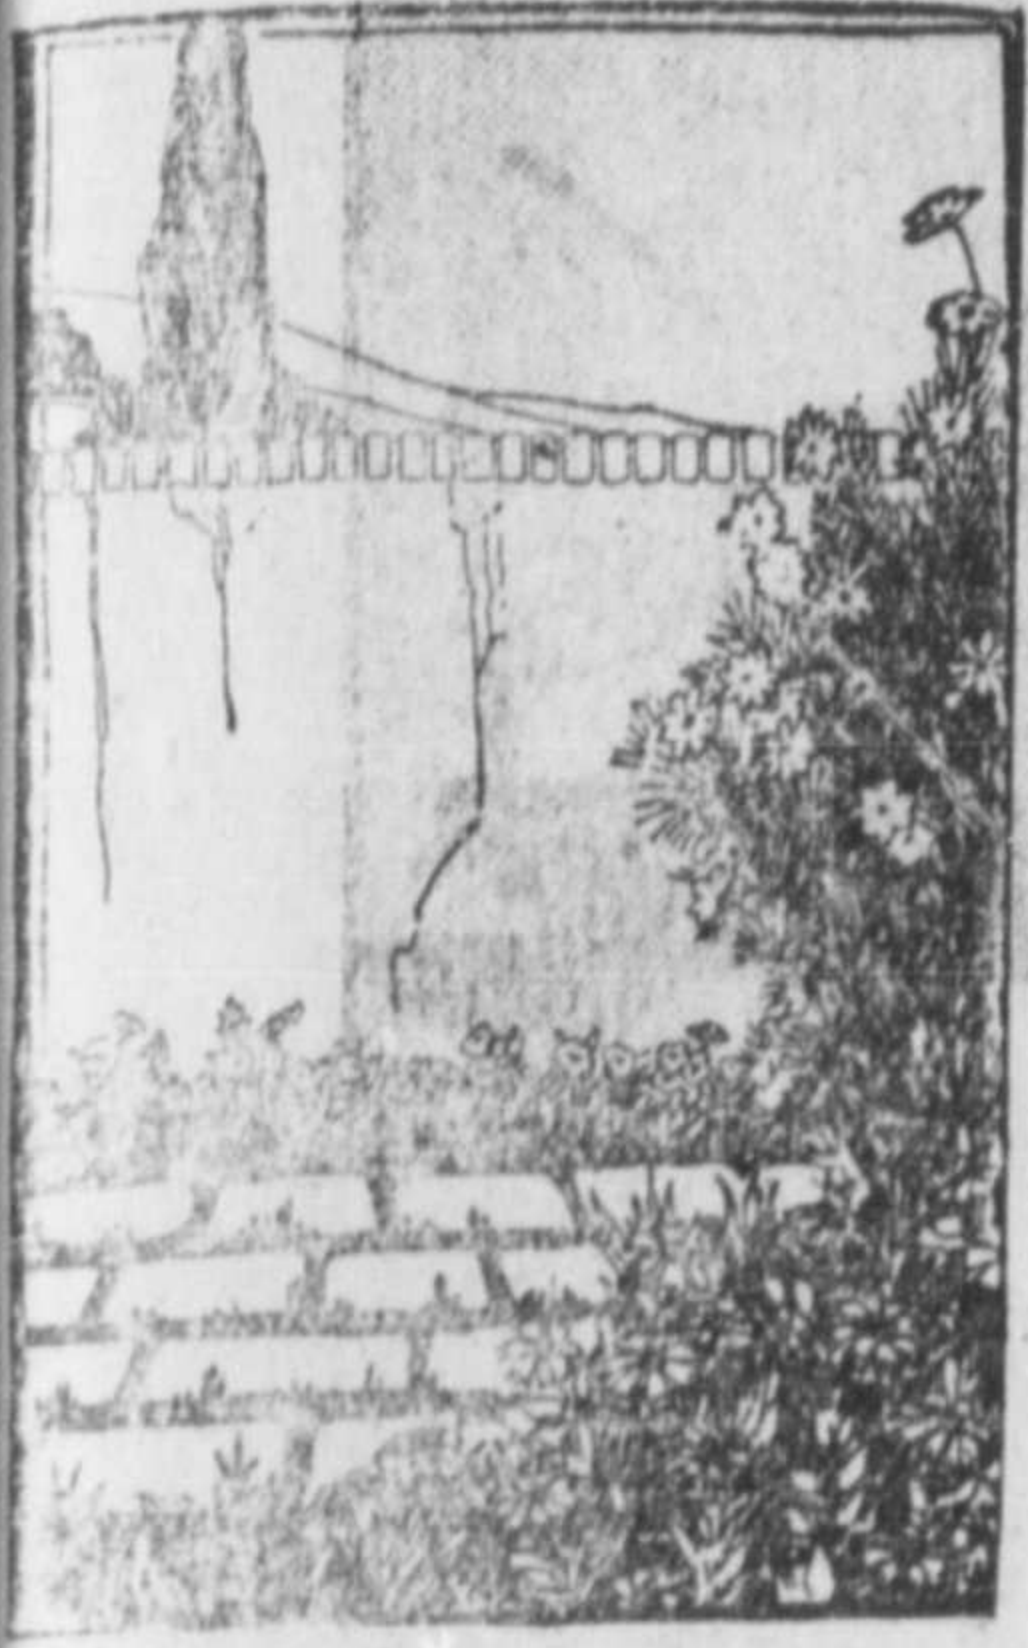

Add to this the sash and door factories, and pulp and paper production, which alone jumped from $15,450,000 in 1916 to $72,327,000 in 1926, and you have an idea of the enormous importance and far reaching influence which this, our chief provincial enterprise, is bound to exercise on the welfare and earnings of each and every citizen.

THE ALL-SEASON ANNUALS

weeks stock, verbenas and zinnias.

Any of these annuals may be used to fill a bed or border with a certainty of color during the summer months. They may be planted either in beds of a single color or mixed or in a selected variety of color. Sown outdoors by May 1 and either thinned or transplanted they begin blooming by July 1 and increase in beauty as the season progresses.

The French marigolds, the tall Josephine being one of the finest, and coming in either dwarf or tall varieties, achieve their most brilliant colors in the cool days of fall.

The petunias of the small flowering family bedding types, such as Rosy Morn, give the most solid sheets of bloom. The zinnias in the colossal types give the most stately display. All are excellent for cutting. While other annuals have their season of bloom and then are done for the season all these continue to bloom steadily until checked by frost.

The calendula or pot marigold is at its best in the fall. The main item to be considered for the best success with all of these annuals is to give each plant room to develop. The proper spacing is always listed on the seed packet. Follow it carefully. If crowded the blooming capacity of the plant is cramped. There will also be larger blooms if the plant is given room. Cut all seed pods. All of these annuals need full sun.

Annuals Give the Most Flowers for the Least Trouble.

Annuals to give a display through the entire season, from about July 1 to frost, furnish the material for beds or borders that give the most display for the least trouble. There have been many queries as to annuals for all-season beds and borders by people living on rented property who did not wish to spend money for perennials or shrubbery which they might have to leave behind them.

Here is a list of annuals that bloom continually, once they start until frost cuts them off—sweet alyssum and ageratum as edging plants, calendulas, excozias or California poppies, French marigolds, nasturtiums, annual gailardias, petunias, scabiosas, if seeds are kept picked; salvias ten-

Well-Grown Vegetables Make Attractive Flower Show Displays.

Seeds for your garden may be started indoors in an old cigar box. First take the lid off, and then bore a few holes in the bottom, so that water can run out easily. Over each hole place a piece of broken dish, or glass, which will keep the soil from sifting through the hole, but will not close it too tightly for water to escape.

It must be fine soil with plenty of sand in it, because the baby plants have very thin roots and they must be able to push through the soil easily. The soil must be pretty well packed down; use a block of wood and press it quite firmly until it is smooth and level on top. Now take a ruler and press its edge into the soil so as to make several very shallow ditches running the long way of the box. The first should be one inch from the side of the box and the others exactly one inch apart. The seeds are to be sown in these ditches.

Tear off a corner of a seed packet. By tapping the packet gently you can drop the tiny seeds from it directly into these shallow ditches. It takes very few seeds for so small a box; and the rest must be carefully saved in the packet. Number the ditches or drills, as gardeners call them, and put down in a notebook the kind of seed you have sown in each drill. When the little plants appear you will know just what kind they are.

After the seeds are sown cover them lightly with soil pushed by your fingers from the sides of the drill. Then take your wooden block and press the soil down again, smoothing and leveling it.

Now the seeds must be watered. Do this by filling a dishpan and letting the box down into the water just so its bottom is wet. Do not let the water come over the top. The soil will soak up water quickly, and when you see that it is well soaked lift the box and hold it above the dishpan until it stops dripping.

Cut a folded newspaper about twelve sheets thick so that you have a paper blanket just large enough to cover the soil in the box. Wet this blanket thoroughly and put it on your seed bed, for that is what gardeners call the place where seeds have been planted. You may now put the box away in a dark, warm place and wait a few days for the seeds to sprout.

DIGGING AS A FINE ART

If gardens would dig themselves or if they didn't have to be dug at all there would be vastly more of them. Taken at best digging the garden cannot be regarded as a light occupation and every gardener is going to hire it done if

The soil itself is the guide as to when to start. Sometimes it can be done in March, but more often April is digging time. The time to dig is when the earth will fall apart readily but will not cake. Test it by taking a handful of soil and breaking it apart with the fingers. If it breaks apart readily but not too readily it is ready to dig. If it remains a compact wet mass in the hand it is not ready to work as spading it will leave only hard lumps. When a spadeful of earth may be readily pulverized with the edge of the spade, it is of the proper consistency for successful digging.

Drive the Fork or Spade Almost Perpendicularly to Gain Depth.

he can find a man to do the job. The chances are that it won't be any too good a job of digging unless the gardener tides in to it himself.

The garden needs to be dug—done fairly deep and earnestly, not a mere scratching of the surface for a couple of inches or so. But it need not be a job of sweating as often recommended.

Breaking up the Lumps and Getting the Soil Finely Pulverized is Important.

Few of the vegetables send their roots more than a foot deep and if the soil can be turned for a foot it is quite sufficient. Seldom does a garden get spaded that deeply, but good vegetables are grown nevertheless.

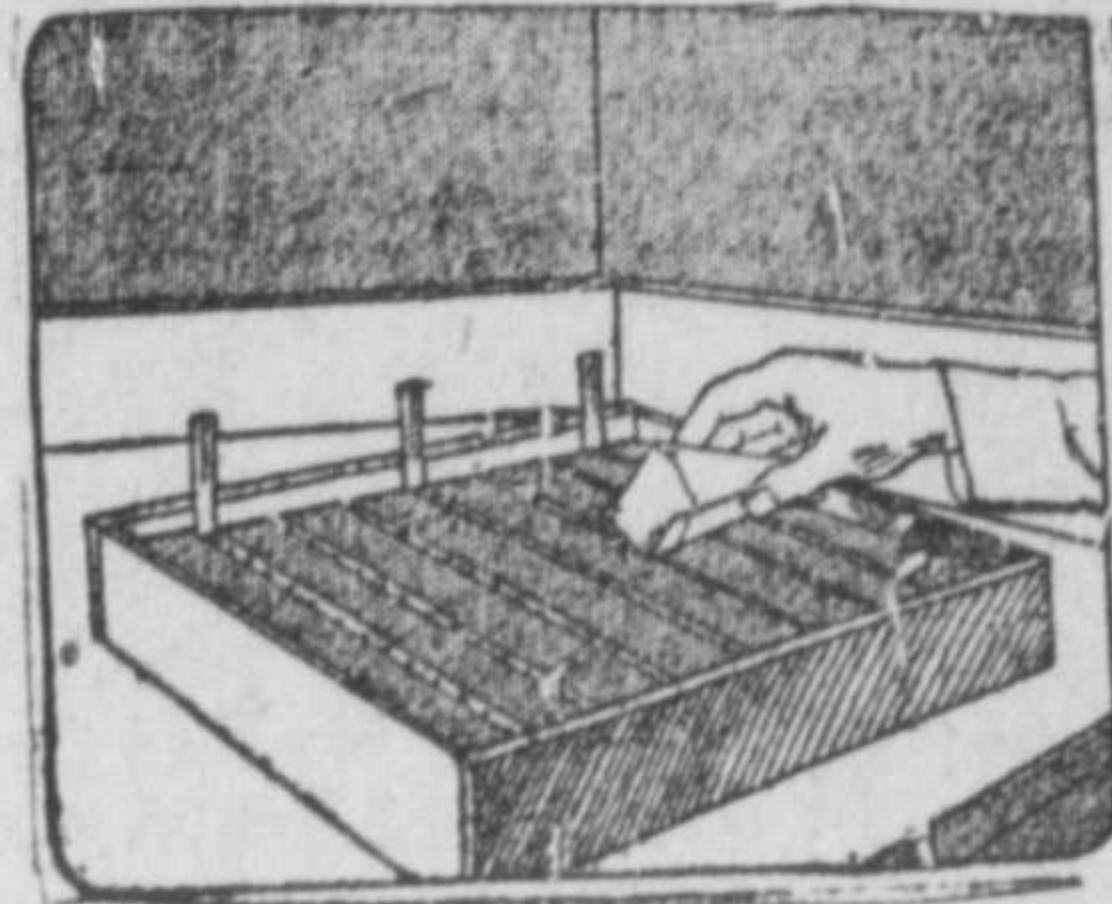

GIVING ANNUALS AN EARLY START

The season is now at hand to start those annuals wanted for early effect in the garden, particularly to transplant into tulip beds to give color in place of the yellowing leaves of the bulbs. While a little too early for the cold frame or holed in the northern states, the seed box in a sunny spot will give them plenty of air. Do not place in full sun with the glass over them closely. They are likely to be scalded.

Bake the earth and sift finely before planting the seeds. Place a rough material over a layer of little stones or broken flower pot at the bottom of the box and the soil above this. Firm before planting the seed. On cold nights cover the seed box away from the window. The boxes do not need until the seeds begin to germinate. They may be kept in any convenient place until the sprouts begin to show, but at this time they must be moved to the light.

Don't sow seed too thickly. Sow thinly and sow in rows. The seed box can be ruled off into rows an inch apart or half inch apart and will be much easier to transplant from rows with less loss than if you have to dig into a window may do its duty effectively.

Start ten weeks stocks, salvia and verbenas for early bloom at this time. Snapdragons also can be got going to good advantage as they require a longer growing season before coming into full beauty than many annuals.

Give them plenty of air. Cover the boxes with glass until germination starts. Then see that the glass is raised sufficiently to adhick and broadcast planting. Cover seeds double their thickness. Do not bury too deep. Fine seeds merely press on the surface of the soil. Water the boxes by dipping them in a tub or a pan of water, not by pouring water on the surface.

Be sure that the seed boxes have ample drainage so that watering them from below in this manner is a simple and practical process. Too much water is death to seedlings. Keep them moist but not wet.

POPPIES TO COVER THE GARDEN

Poppies, roaming at large in the garden, allowed to self-sow and come up year after year, guarantee gaiety at a time when there is a flagging of bloom and spread a sheet of color over the garden of a brilliancy and delicacy not furnished by any other annual of their season. The trick of allowing poppies to self-sow has now become a common one and gives a beauty to the garden with no effort when the June perennials are going out and before the phloxes and annuals have taken up the display.

Shirley poppies are the most valuable for this purpose, the one drawback being the necessity of removing lawns of poppy seedlings each spring and thinning so that the individual plants may have a chance. But the display from this self-sowing is worth the trouble.

The same effect may be secured by sowing seed over the ground now. Poppies germinate in the fall and the plants will stand the freezing and be ready to come along and do their duty. New seedlings will spring up in myriads and a colorful garden is certain once they are domesticated. When they bloom see to it that the dull and unattractive ones are either pulled out or not allowed to go to seed.

Work sifted ashes into the onion bed if the soil is heavy.

Plant both white and red radishes. The two colors make an ornamental contrast on the table and for garnishes.

Get in a supply of tobacco dust. Sprinkled on peas when wet with dew it will drive off plant lice.

Set boxes or barrels over the rhubarb to force some early stalks.

Soak spinach seed for a few hours in warm water and it will speed germination.

Turn seed boxes every day so plants won't grow one-sided.

Don't plant onions two years in the same place if you are growing them for the bulbs. With young onions it makes no difference.

You can get a start on head lettuce row. The earlier it gets going the more certainty there is of getting it to head firmly.

Plant beet seeds an inch deep. They are one vegetable that seems to relish being buried in infancy.

Raise the seed beds this year so there won't be any danger of choice seedlings being drowned out by rains.

In dry, sandy soils, mulch the seed bed with straw for three days after planting.

COL. NICHOLLS WASSPEAKER

Tells Foreign Trade Bureau of Vancouver Board of Trade of Halibut Fisheries

Permeating the history of the industry as well as relating its important commercial developments, John W. Nicholls, comptroller of the Canadian Fish & Cold Storage Co., Ltd., Prince Rupert, delivered an informative address on "Halibut Fisheries" before the foreign trade bureau of the Vancouver Board of Trade last Friday.

The audience learned that as far back as June, 1778, as told in Captain Cook's journal, white men caught halibut in the Gulf of Alaska. John Jewett, Chief Magistrate's famous captive, referred to the Pacific halibut in 1803, and commercial fishing started just prior to 1827, Mr. Nicholls said. In 1858 a number of New England fishing schooners, primarily attracted by the lure of the Yukon, left for the North Pacific. They were disappointed in not obtaining a cargo of gold, but on the return voyage some fished for halibut and found their eldorado.

By 1907 the industry had a production of 26,000,000 pounds; for the year's catch, Mr. Nicholls said; by 1910, 53,000,000 pounds and in 1915, 63,000,000 pounds were landed. Eventually the large catches decreased and the fleet continued moving westward until last year several ships fished as far west as Sanak Island, near the Aleutian Islands.

"May I emphasize that while Prince Rupert is the premier halibut port of the Pacific, Vancouver depends for much of its trade on halibut," said the speaker, "because Prince Rupert's prosperity for the present is dependent on the fishing industry and anything which affects the industry affects Vancouver, as Prince Rupert purchases most of its supplies from this city."

Price Fluctuations

Mr. Nicholls described the various developments in halibut fishing and the changes in the regulations. Concerning prices, he said that no product fluctuated in price like halibut, the market being influenced by the vagaries of weather, resulting in delayed arrivals of fish. Arrivals of Atlantic-caught fish such as cod or mackerel, or fish from the Great Lakes, all affect halibut prices, and if the weather is too hot or too cold it disturbs the market, said Mr. Nicholls.

STEPHENS CHILD ACROSS BORDER

Guardian Inactive, Mother Takes Boy Over Line to Seattle

(Vancouver Province) Although Chief Justice Hunter in supreme court appointed Magistrate H. O. Alexander guardian of two-year-old Frederick Herbert Stephens, pending a dispute between the parents over custody, the lad on arriving here Thursday from Prince Rupert on the steamer Camosun, departed with his mother on the Great Northern train for Seattle before the order was acted upon.

The mother, Bernice Lucille Stephens, accompanied the child from Prince Rupert. In an attempt to prevent his son being removed from the jurisdiction of the court, the father, Frederick Stephens, Prince Rupert real estate and insurance agent, applied to the chief justice, who appointed Magistrate Alexander, who is official guardian of the child for the time being.

When it appeared that the official guardian would not interfere, the father's lawyer launched proceedings for a writ of habeas corpus; and the matter was in this position as the train started south with the mother and child for the border.

Tonight's contest will be vocal and instrumental. Cash prizes are offered and the audience will be the judges. Tomorrow the contest will be for monologues, dancing and turns not musical when separate prizes for the same amounts as tonight will be awarded.

In the picture part of the program, "Slightly Used," is the feature starring May McAvoy and Conrad Nagel. It is the hilarious story of a young lady who arranges a fictitious marriage, then falls in love and wishes she hadn't. It is a show that teems with amusing situations.

There is also a fine comedy and news-reel. These programs contain all the ingredients of a really good evening's entertainment.
