BALDWIN PARTY IS IN DANGER

Lack of Definite Policy and Rother-mere Press Pessimism is Against Them

LONDON, May 21.—The pessimistic attitude of the Rothermere press toward the Baldwin government is having a bad effect upon the chances of the return of the Conservative party and there is a strong feeling that if they remain in office after the elections it will be by grace of the Liberals.

The definite policy set forth by Lloyd George is the only one before the electorate and that party stands to make considerable gain in its strength at the polls next week, it is thought here.

LORD ROSEBERY PASSED AWAY EARLY TODAY

Former Premier of Great Britain
Aged 82 Was Versatile
And Great

EPSOM, May 21.—Lord Rosebery, former premier of Great Britain, died early this morning, aged 82 years.

The Earl celebrated his birthday only a fortnight ago by driving from his country home "The Durbans" to Epsom in a barouche and pair accompanied by a postillion in true Victorian style. Last Friday he caught cold. Yesterday his illness took a turn for the worse and physicians and members of the family remained at his bedside until the end, this morning.

Archibald Philip Primrose, fifth Earl of Rosebery, who became Prime Minister of England at the request of Queen Victoria upon the retirement of William Gladstone in 1894, was a man of many parts, and few have equalled him in the versatility of his genius. Early in life he predicted that he would do three things—win the Derby, marry an heiress, and become Premier of England—all of which he did. In fact he was three times winner of the Derby.

An observer who spent years studying at close range the "Uncrowned King of Scotland," as Rosebery was affectionately known to millions of his admirers has this to say of his character: "Rosebery was kaleidoscopic. As the faces of a crystal give forth rays of many tints, so are the manifestations from this remarkable, even bewildering, personality. He had the keen acumen of Canning, tempered by the imaginative sentiment of Shelley; the cultured tastes of a Maecenas, interwoven with the sporting proclivities of a Queensberry; the infallible humor of Thackeray, joined now and again to the dark melancholy of Schopenhauer the social gifts of Browning as well as the oratory of Choate, flanked by the secretive qualities of Bismarck."

ELECTION MAY BE NEXT YEAR

Premier Mackenzie King Not Sure
but Thinks Country
Satisfied

OTTAWA, May 21.—Premier King suggested in the house of commons yesterday that it might be wise not to be too sure that an election will be held next year.

"Did the prime minister say it would not be held?" queried J. L. Ladner, Conservative, of South Vancouver.

"I think the country is well satisfied with the government and it may desire to have the government continue in office until toward the end of 1931," responded Mr. King. "However, that is a matter which may be considered in due course."

MAY REJOIN OLD COMRADES

All that seems wrong with the St. Louis Cardinals is on the hill. The Red Birds need one more starting pitcher. Old Alex is going to the hill too often. Sherdel is up to form and Haines is not disappointing a fan, but the fourth man is missing. Hallahan and Bell, counted on to relieve the strain on the three veterans, have not been able to flash. The cry is being raised in St. Louis for another top-notch pitcher and the club owners have heard the demand that Flint Rhem be brought back from his minor league exile. The Cards are pulling every wire they can to get material, but clubs are not willing to part with pitchers who can win fifteen games or more. It looks as if Rhem, above, is too good a pitcher to be allowed to rest in the minors.

CHICAGO STILL LEADS LEAGUE

NEW YORK, May 21.—Chicago maintained the National lead by downing the Pirates behind Guy Bush's five-hit pitching yesterday. Jess Haines pitched the Cardinals to an easy triumph over Cincinnati. Haines finished last season with nine consecutive triumphs and has added five straight this year. Brooklyn trounced the Giants, Clark Young, left-hander, giving the Giants the only two hits. Cold weather caused postponement of the game set for Boston. In the American League, Philadelphia strengthened their hold on the first place by downing Boston, while St. Louis were beating Chicago.

PROMINENT FIGURES IN SPORT

Written Especially for the Daily News by the Sports Editor

SIR THOMAS JOHNSTONE LIPTON Yachtsman and Tea Merchant

Sir Thomas Lipton, who is internationally famous as a yachtsman and tea merchant, has spent more than 20 years of his life and nearly $20,000,000 of his vast fortune nursing a hobby to win back for England the America

Resolute was sailed by Charles Francis Adams, now Secretary of the Navy.

Born May 10, 1851, at Glasgow, Scotland, Lipton's life has been full of many interesting features. He was a poor boy and, after brief schooling, he stowed away for America where he failed to make his fortune and later returned to Glasgow. A small provision store started him on his way to wealth. He was knighted in 1897 for his philanthropy.

Sir Thomas' persistence in his many efforts to "lift the cup" has won him admirers throughout the world. Physically, he is tall, straight and of medium build with a little goatee and roguishly twinkling eyes.

His two greatest regrets: "First and foremost that I have never lifted the America Cup and the second that I have never been married."

Perhaps, Sir Tom may get another chance to "lift the cup." They are talking about it.

Bookings for the season are much heavier than at this time last year according to John O'Brien, the manager, and the company is looking forward to, and preparing for a record tourist season.

COMPETITION ENDS THIS WEEK

The suggestions for improving conditions in northern and central British Columbia have mostly been along one line. The building of a highway and the formation of a new province. While some valuable suggestions have been made, the last word has not been said and there is still plenty of room for others.

The competition will end definitely on Saturday of this week, after which the articles will be judged.

BRITISH NOMINATIONS

Nominations took place yesterday to the British parliament and the campaign during the coming week will be a very bitter one. It is, as everyone knows, a three-party contest, with the Conservatives trying to retain power, the Labor party trying to dislodge them, and the Liberals seeking to obtain the balance of power with the consequent right to dictate to a large extent what the policy of either government shall be. The situation is full of interest to the student of politics.

MASTER OF POLICIES

While anything may happen in any case, there is no danger of any very great change of policy, it is interesting again to note in a general way what each party stands for.

The Baldwin government is protective, imperialistic, stands for a large army and strong navy, and sees improvement ahead from the continuation of a settled policy without much immediate change.

The Labor party, led by J. Ramsay MacDonald, but supported by many extremists, wishes nationalization of coal mines, smaller army and navy, closer co-operation with United States, improved relations with Russia, and much paternal legislation.

The Liberal party, under David Lloyd George, is absolutely opposed to protective measures, has a strong stated policy for reducing unemployment, would reduce the expenditures on army and navy, but refuses to adopt the Socialist policy of the Labor group. They are in Britain a half-way party, not expecting to obtain power at this election except through possibly holding the balance.

CLEAR CUT POLICY

The Liberal policy as enunciated by Lloyd George is a clear cut one. It is to borrow a huge sum for public works, largely road construction and improvement, in order to put the people to work. Here is a little extract of Lloyd George's speech at one of the big campaign meetings:

"They say we would have to borrow—and that is wicked. Borrow how much? One-third of the annual drink bill of this country. (Loud cheers.) They say borrowing 100,000,000 pounds will ruin industry. The drink bill is between 300,000,000 and 350,000,000 pounds. One-third! The savings of this country annually are 500,000,000 now. You are to borrow one-fifth of the annual savings for the purpose of saving a million people. They say it is ruin. Anybody who believes in that will believe in the efficiency of the present government." (Laughter.)

Speaking very generally, the Conservatives believe in the union of church and state, supports the house of lords, is strong for privileges for the ruling classes. Curiously enough much of the best forward legislation has been passed by this party as a measure of self-defence and in order to keep itself entrenched in power.

Formerly and to a great extent still, the Liberals were the free trade party of the country. They represented the industrial centres, favored the broadening of education, separation of church and state, and were inclined to be what is known as "Little Englanders," thinking of the Kingdom rather than the Empire. The majority of the adherents of the party belong to the free churches and are commonly known in England as "Dissenters" in religion. Supporting them are often the High Church party that objects to control of the church by the house of commons and does not recognize the British ruler as head of the church, which according to law he is today.

The Labor group is what the name implies. It is made up mostly of men and women who work for wages. It has robbed the Liberal party of most of its former strength. Joining that party there have been many who have seen the coming rule of the masses and who believe that by uniting with it they will be able to act as a steady influence. A number of persons of title and rank have joined the party and especially have recruits from the young university men, many of whom are socialists.

The outcome of the contest will be watched with much interest in Prince Rupert.

All Homesteader Has to Do Is Pay $10 for 160 Acres of Land If He's Willing to Work and Live On It; Prices Advance With Steel

This is one of a series of six articles by H. F. Mullet dealing with the rapid concentration of settlers in Canada's great "inland empire," the Peace River district.

(Special to The Daily News and the Edmonton Journal—Copyright)

By H. F. MULLEN

EDMONTON, May 21.—Ten dollars for 160 acres of land in the Peace River district—"last best west"—on condition that you live for six months of each of the next three years, in a habitable house on the homestead, and that you break at least 30 acres (of which 20 acres must be cropped), within that period.

Ten dollars—18 months' residence in three years—30 acres of cultivation—a house in which to live—and you may some day have a farm anywhere from $25 to $50 an acre.

We heard of one youthful optimist, who didn't have even the necessary ten-dollar bill with which to make his homestead entry, after tramping all the way from Hythe, end of steel on the southern portion of the railway, to Rolla, 60 miles distant.

This young Britisher borrowed the necessary "ten spot" from a kindly resident, and went gallantly off into the bush, with his cherished permit in his pocket—and little of anything else.

Despite its northern location, all doubts of Peace River's agricultural possibilities have long since been dispelled; its favorable climate, moderate precipitation and fertile soil make it one of the world's great wheat and mixed farming areas. It contains within itself the possibilities of a future "world's market basket"—and today thousands of new settlers are flocking in to the Peace River country to realize those possibilities.

Where Trelle Farms

Over a hundred years ago traders at the various fur posts which preceded agricultural settlement reported that they were successfully growing all kinds of common vegetables and harvest-wheat, oats and barley.

Grows Championship Grain

At Fort Vermilion, over 200 miles north of Peace River as the crow flies, No. 1 hard wheat has been grown for years. In 1893 the Rev. Gough Brick, Anglican missionary at Shaftesbury, a few miles upstern from Peace River, won the world's wheat prize at the great Chicago international show, and in 1926 Herman Trelle of Wembley, near Grande Prairie, won both wheat and oats world prizes.

This latter achievement did much to focus attention on the great Peace River district. The visits of Sir Henry Thornton, president of the C.N.R., and of President Beatty of the C.P.R., and the subsequent purchase by these two railroads of the provincially-owned northern railways, added more fuel to the fire of interest in the Peace.

It was out beyond Fairview that we met "Canada's oldest homesteader."

He was a strangely-whiskered and hawk-haired old man who told us his age was 71. He had lived all his life in ciphers, sking out a livelihood by the mysterious ways known only to the poor.

Then he came west, worked a while on farm in Saskatchewan, and finally—at 71, mind you!—decided to homestead in the Peace River.

"My rather old for a homesteader? Well, I've got 20 years of good hard work ahead of me yet," he crowed in a thin falsetto.

"Any relatives? Nary a one. Don't even know where I was born. Yours—Canada's oldest homesteader—or soon will be anyway, when I get me a place."

"Going far?" we asked. "Don't know," he answered, laconically "got to get me a good place, if I have to go a hundred miles for it."

Family Takes Five Homesteads

On the freight platform at Hythe, R. L. Johnson, husky North Dakota farmer from the Carnio (Minot) district heaved a powerful shoulder against a recalcitrant auto that was stubbornly refusing to come out through a five-foot freight car door, and straightened his sturdy back.

"We've come 150 miles into this new country. We've three car-high school training, and all of them, boys and girls, were working like Trojans, anxious to get their outfit on the road. Everything for the farm and the home was strewn around them, on the siding at Hythe—even to sprouting rhubarb plants in boxes of earth, all ready for the garden that is to be.

"There wasn't anything for the boys, so we decided we'd come to the Peace River country," said Mrs. Johnson, "and here we are."

The two girls, clad in overalls, and wearing wide-brimmed Mexican type straw hats, worked hand in hand with the men.

"Sure, we like it," they dimpled. "We're used to it, and it's lots of fun." They can run the tractor, drive the cars and the teams—do anything round the farm. Yes—both married—one is Mrs. Efner Johnson; the other is Mrs. Manfred Asleson.

These are the sort of settlers the Peace River district needs—and is getting.

FISH PACKER NOT DAMAGED

Argent Arrived in Port Under Own Power Yesterday After Being Ashore on Rose Spit

The fish packer Argent, Capt. Bert Tingley, which stranded on the sand of Rose Spit about a week ago, arrived in port from Graham Island yesterday afternoon under her own power, accompanied by the Pacific Salvage Co.'s power tug Pachena, which aided in hauling her off the beach. The Argent is hardly leaking at all and if there is any damage it is very slight. The vessel will be taken on the pontoons at the drydock this afternoon for inspection.

SPEAKER'S WIFE INVOLVED IN SOCIAL WHIRL

From all indications the social war centred around the status of Mrs. Edward Everett Gann, right, sister of Vice-President Curtis, has apparently broken out anew. The new controversy also involves Mrs. Nicholas Longworth, left, wife of the Speaker of the House of Representatives. The trouble started when Mrs. Longworth and Mrs. Gann refused to attend a dinner given by Mrs. Eugene Meyer, jr., and the seriousness of the situation is realized when it is pointed out that Mrs. Gann is the hostess for the presiding officer of the Senate, and Mrs. Longworth is the wife of the presiding officer of the House of Representatives.

The true purpose of a Budget

EVERY year you spend a large proportion of the money you get. So much for clothing. So much for shoes. So much for things to eat—for house furnishings, books and what not.

Here is the way to get the most for your money.

Keep a budget. Decide what you can afford to spend for each item, and hold yourself within this amount.

Then—to get the most for your budget money read advertisements carefully. The advertisements you read tell you what is newest and best. They give you the latest ideas and improvements. They help you to get more from each dollar you have apportioned in your budget—and so live better and dress better with the same income.

The true purpose of a budget is to enable you to spend wisely—and only by careful reading of advertising can you hope to accomplish this result.

Read advertising regularly. It points the way to better living.

LORD ROSEBERY PASSED AWAY EARLY TODAY

(Continued from page one) London, May 7, 1847. The distinguished house of Rosebery, which has given England many men of capacity in various walks of life, was raised to the peerage in 1700, through the services of an ancestor's sword in support of "Bonnie Prince Charlie."

The fifth Earl of Rosebery, who in his youth enjoyed the title of Lord Dalmeny, was educated at Eton and then at Oxford, although he left the latter institution without troubling to take the degree when was reprimanded for giving too much attention to his extensive racing stable. Unlike the sons of other peers, he did not, while a student, bet on his horses under an assumed name. It was to the rector who predicted he would "turn out badly" that Rosebery made his celebrated boast:

"I shall win the Derby, marry the heiress of the year, and become Prime Minister."

Ten years later he married Hannah, only daughter of Baron de Rothschild, thus becoming one of the richest men in the Empire, and in 1894 he captured both the Derby and the Premiership. When Chauncey Depew heard of these two favors from the hand of fortune, he sent the famous cable to Rosebery:

"Heaven alone is left to be won." Succeeding Mr. Gladstone when the latter retired because of ill health, Lord Rosebery continued as Prime Minister for 15 months, when the government was defeated and he stepped down in favor of Lord Salisbury. The election fight produced one of the finest orations that even the renowned Rosebery ever uttered.

"There is nothing in the government just at an end to defend," he said. "There is nothing in its life, nothing in its death, nothing in its spirit, nothing in its work. It lived a noble life. It died a noble death. It passed great measures; it wrought great acts of administration. It leaves behind it a mighty surplus, it leaves business reviving and commerce prospering. It leaves behind it a contented people."

As an orator, Lord Rosebery undoubtedly was supreme after Disraeli and Gladstone had passed; many, in fact, preferred him to either. His manner was impressive, his modulation exquisite; his style and diction almost perfect. His language has been described as that of the seer, never that of the debater. He was particularly effective with the masses. Once for instance, during his political activity, he was addressing a huge crowd in Edinburgh. An old man at the back of the hall, forgetting himself for the moment, shouted:

"I dinna hear a word he says, but it's gran', it's gran'."

News of the Mines

AROUND PRINCE RUPERT Good Progress at Owen Lake; Forty Men on Ferguson Property in Ingenika; Mica Deposit East of Prince George to Be Developed

During the past month the shaft on the Diamond Belle property of the Owen Lake Mining Co. has reached a depth of 80 feet at which level drift tunnels have been run 62 feet to the west and 52 feet to the east from the bottom of the shaft, the whole length of the shaft and tunnels being in good ore. Efforts are now being concentrated on the main cross-cut tunnel which is being run from the shore of Owen Lake. This is projected to run 6900 feet to reach the Diamond Belle shaft at a depth of 400 feet. It is already in some 480 feet from the portal. In the course of this work, four veins, hitherto unknown, were cross-cut at distances of 128, 185, 265 and 465 feet from the portal. Drift tunnels are being run on all of these and all of them are in ore. All the main showings on the surface are well in advance of the present face of the tunnel.

H. E. Scovil, formerly of Cobalt and more recently of Stewart, has been retained by the Island Copper Co., Ltd., which is opening up a number of rich copper claims on Vancouver Island about 10 miles from Port Alberni. Considerable excitement has been caused and a miniature stampede has developed around Port Alberni as a result of rich copper ore that has been found in that neighborhood. Mr. Scovil has stated that the ore is so rich in places that the colors surpass those of the peacock and that his examination of samples of copper ore in the Museum of Mines failed to disclose anything so rich.

A vein three feet wide between clean walls has been opened up on the Shelia group, situated near the Topley Richfield and owned by Alex Middleton and E. M. Hoops of Telkwa. A tunnel 400 feet long, it is said, would give 300 feet of overhead. From surface showings developed by shafts it is expected that such a tunnel would also intersect a number of cross-veins which outcrop presently on the group. The property is located between the Topley Richfield and the Topley Shelia.

Forty men are now employed on the Ferguson property on the Ingenika River. Supplies for the property are being hauled by truck to Summit Lake, the remainder of the trip being made on the inland waterway system. The company is taking a large amount of heavy machinery this year and is looking forward to the time when airplane service will greatly lighten the task of transportation.

Mica deposits in the vicinity of Tete Juane Cache, on the Canadian National Railways, east of Prince George, which have received intermittent attention for the past 20 years, will be opened up this summer. Five veins of mica exist. One of these is 20 feet wide and has been opened for a distance of 60 feet. E. M. Geake, mine manager now at the property and the rector, accompanied by a mining engineer, will soon visit the property to decide on the season's program of work. Twenty years ago a deposit was considered to be such worth that a townsite was laid out in anticipation of its development, but the property was abandoned and the attention was predicted for it.

PRINCE RUPERT PEACE OUTLET

Claims of Port Seem to Be Taken Seriously in Vancouver Today

A Vancouver despatch to the Edmonton Journal with an appended note by the Edmonton editor indicates that Prince Rupert's claims to the Peace River western outlet are being seriously considered in Vancouver. Following is the despatch:

Thus far the commercial bodies of Vancouver have not offered an evidence as to the desirability of the proposed direct outlet for the grain from the Peace River country coming through this gateway. They have apparently taken it for granted that any railway constructed to bring the products of the Peace River westward will of necessity have its Pacific terminus at Vancouver.

The merchant exchange and board of trade have absolutely ignored the evidence submitted to the commission at Prince Rupert in favor of the alternate routes from the Peace River reaching tidewater at that more northerly port. However, the Peace River people themselves are to have an inning when the commission reaches Edmonton. Some 20 delegates from different sections of that extreme portion of north-west Alberta and northeast British Columbia have signified their desire to appear at the Edmonton sessions and give evidence as to the route any railroad destined to give the Peace country a direct Pacific outlet should follow.

The story from Vancouver that a delegation of 20 men from the Peace River country will lay complaints before the board of grain commissioners when they sit here is news to the Edmonton chamber of commerce and the grain inspection office here. John Blue, secretary of the chamber of commerce, stated Monday morning he had heard nothing of such a delegation being formed.

LARKIN'S WORK IS CRITICIZED

Premier Defends High Commission, Whose Salary is Increased

OTTAWA, May 21.—Estimates at the department of external affairs before the house of commons in the committee of supply last night and items totalling upwards of $700,000 were passed when house rose.

With the exception of some discussion of the Canadian high commissioner's office in London, there was little debate. When the item of $117,000 for the high commissioner's office, London, came Premier King explained that salary of Hon. P. C. Larkin had been increased $2000 per year to bring it into conformity with salaries paid to ministers in Washington, Tokio and Paris. Mr. Gardiner of the United Farmers Association complained that duties of high commissioners in London seemed to be completely ignored by introducing Canadians "to high society."

The prime minister replied that Larkin's work was very arduous and this country was to be congratulated upon having an official who paid such close attention to her interests. H. Spencer of the United Farmers' Association, commented that the Canadian high commissioner did not advertise Canada in a manner comparable to that which the Australian high commissioner set the advantage of the commonwealth before his people. The prime minister did not agree with him.

CHURCH HONORS LEPINE COUPLE

Appreciation Expressed For Devoted Service to Cathedral and Presentations Made

Yesterday afternoon in St. Andrew's Anglican Cathedral Hall members of the Women's Auxiliary gathered to honor Mr. and Mrs. R. V. G. LePine, who are leaving the city this evening, and may not return here. Mrs. LePine was presented with a diocesan life membership in the Women's Auxiliary, while the gift of a handsome embossed cigarette box was made to Mr. LePine.

The proceedings opened with W. A. prayer led by Bishop G. A. Rix and Mrs. Rix, diocesan president, conducted the life membership service. Mrs. Thomas Andrew, president of the Women's Auxiliary, read an appropriate address and presented the life membership certificate. The gold pin was presented by Mrs. G. A. Woodland, first vice-president.

Mrs. Rix explained that life membership was conferred only upon members in good standing for good and faithful work and devotion to the Women's Auxiliary. Mrs. LePine replied suitably, thanking all the ladies for the great honor that had been bestowed upon her. She had always enjoyed the work, she said, and had tried to do her best. She was sorry that she was leaving Prince Rupert, but would always cherish memories of happy work and associations here. Should she return in the fall, she would be glad to again be identified with the work of the W. A.

Bishop Rix then made the presentation to Mr. LePine, on behalf of the congregation. The bishop referred to Mr. LePine's splendid work for the church and the great aid it had been to the rector to have such a man who was always ready and willing to help. The Women's Auxiliary particularly would miss Mr. LePine at its annual bazaar. He concluded by wishing Mr. LePine every success in the future.

Mr. LePine suitably voiced his appreciation. He had been a choir boy in church ever since he could remember, he said. In Prince Rupert he had done for the church only what he deemed to be his duty. He hoped that some day he might be able to return to Prince Rupert. Mr. LePine also acknowledged the great honor that had been paid his wife by the ladies. Such things as these could not be bought with money and for that reason were cherished the more.

The proceedings concluded with the serving of afternoon tea and those present made their farewells to Mr. and Mrs. LePine.

Little Interest Shown in Proposed Revisions of Street Traffic Bylaw

Only four persons turned up in the city hall at a meeting of automobile owners which was called for last night for the purpose of advancing proposals for the revision of the street traffic bylaw which is to be amended by the city council. Those in attendance were H. B. Rochester, Ald. A. Prudhomme, T. Ross Mackay and Alex Mackenzie.
