WHEAT SITUATION

The Canadian wheat situation today is a most interesting one. Prince Rupert, being one of the outlets for the flow of grain, is particularly interested in what is going on.

It seems as if it is a case of Canada against the rest of the world. Britain is lined up against us in the matter of wheat prices. They want to get their supply as cheaply as possible and it seems as if they were using Argentine and other supplies to try to beat down the Canadian rate.

As a result, largely of the Pool operations, Canada is able to hold out. If she wins, the Pool will have scored a notable victory; but if she loses and has to sell at low rates, the Pool will be given a terrific jolt.

Naturally, Canadians want to see the Canadian farmers get the highest possible prices. If they are prosperous the whole country prospers. If they are finding life a hard struggle, the same condition is communicated to others.

WHERE IS THE EMPIRE?

In this time of economic stress Empire sentiment does not seem to cut much figure. If the Empire is in danger, Canadians at once rush to the rescue; but when there is a struggle for the betterment of living conditions in Canada, the flag is forgotten, and one country is as good as another. There is no patriotism in buying and selling.

There may come a time when the British Empire may mean something in such a case as this, but if it is to be that, the people of the dominions and the mother country must be prepared to make some sacrifices. Take, for instance, the case of Australia and New Zealand. Because butter from those countries came on the Canadian market, there was a howl from Canadian producers. They saw their high price market endangered. If they are not prepared to make this little sacrifice, how can they expect Britain, which depends on the markets of the world for her food, to pay high prices for bread when by dealing with a foreign country there is an opportunity of lowering that price.

LUMBER CASE IN POINT

The question of lumber is one in point. Until recently Britain bought hardly any lumber in Canada. She preferred trade with Oregon to British Columbia and better still she liked trading with Norway and Sweden. It was a matter of custom being stronger than imperial ties. Gradually, through representations being made in London through the British Columbia agent-general, the Canadian high commissioner and directly through Hon. T. D. Pattullo and other British Columbia ministers, much lumber business was secured for this province. Empire ties had a little influence, but not until the idea was driven home with sledge hammers.

Possibly very soon Britain and Canada will be able to get together on this question of wheat marketing. Canada wants the highest possible price and Britain wants the lowest possible price. A happy medium will have to be established between the two if Empire trade is to mean anything.

News of the Mines

AROUND PRINCE RUPERT
Georgia River Commands Interest; New Find On Homeguard at Alice Arm; Premier Border Encouraging

Developments on the Georgia River property near Stewart are being watched with considerable interest. The claims now comprising the holdings of the Georgia River Gold Mines, Ltd., represent a consolidation of practically all the promising mineral territory situated between the canal and the headwaters of Georgia River. Since 1910 the property has commanded interest. Exceedingly spectacular specimens of free gold ore have been found on it and certain outcrops assaying well in gold have been known for a number of years.

Prospecting has been carried on somewhat spasmodically, although the original Georgia River company effected a considerable amount of exploration work under adverse transportation conditions, while a number of years later the American Mining & Milling Co. did considerable open cutting and prospecting. Two years ago control of the property, together with promising immediately adjacent territory, was acquired by the present company. Adequate financing for development has been arranged and now, for the first time, it may be said that important development is under way. Modern mining machinery has been installed and transportation facilities greatly improved. It is understood that the company first plans to develop the southwest vein from outcrops of which many of the high-grade gold assays were obtained. Favorable developments on this property would extend the Portland Canal operating area still farther south and southwest.

A recent report of G. R. Bancroft, consulting engineer for the Premier Border Gold Mining Co., stated that the main tunnel on the Northern Light property was in 742 feet, one month's driving footage amounting to 220 feet in the main tunnel with side swiping equal to ten feet of driving. This tunnel is being projected in one of the Premier quartz-porphry sills which has produced the ore bodies of the district. Gold and silver values persisted throughout the month's footage with spot assays of $6.96 in gold and silver. Occasional bands of tuffs and silicified greenstone have occurred in conjunction with the porphyry and in the face of the tunnel some colored tuffs appeared.

Samples of ore taken from across five feet of a new strike on the Homeguard property up the Kit-sault River from Alice Arm are reported to be similar to the Dolly Varden quartz, carrying considerable copper values. The new discovery was made above where tremendous boulders of copper are located and is considered of great importance.

BEATTY AND PEACE RIVER

Head of C.P.R. Tells of Situation For Railway Services as He Sees It

In connection with a brief report of an interview given by E. W. Beatty, president of the C.P.R., at Edmonton, the following is the report of his words as given in the Edmonton Journal:

Mr. Beatty observed that the view he had always held was that considerable work must be done on the existing railways in the Peace River country and new branch lines must be constructed and substantial development must take place before a coast outlet would be warranted.

"This is the view publicly expressed as well by the president of the Canadian National Railways and in neither case can it be suggested that the opinion is influenced by other than sound considerations. Peace River settlers are neither disappointed nor discouraged. They are sure of adequate railway facilities at rates that offer no handicap to the development of the district," said President Beatty.

"Nothing will, I hope, prevent the steady and rapid development of the great Peace River district, but its development will not be assisted through unthinking or uninformed advocacy," said the president.

Settlement Possibilities
"What are the settlement possibilities of the north?" asked the reporter.

"The Peace River country is being settled very rapidly and this is being accomplished by reason of the fact that the character of the country has become so well known in recent years," replied Mr. Beatty.

"Have you any plans of colonization for Peace River to announce?"
"The officers of the colonization and development department of the Canadian Pacific recently made an exhaustive study of the situation and their report will be available on our return to Montreal. No announcement of special colonization efforts will be made until that report has been considered," said Mr. Beatty.

importance. The width of the ore vein has not yet been determined. This is the second new discovery that has been made on the Homeguard this year. The tunnel that was commenced a short time ago on the previous discovery to strike the ore at depth is being pushed ahead.

Three underground levels on the B. C. Silver and Sebakwe properties at Stewart are now all in ore. No. 6 level on Sebakwe encountering ore thirty feet near the shaft. It was expected, also, the northeast drift from B. C. Silver levels toward Sebakwe ore body. This provides a much wider area of commercial mineralization than was expected.

A THEATRE NUISANCE

Editor, Daily News:—
May I ask you to call the attention of parents or others bringing small children—boys especially—to the fidgety propensities of their offspring. For instance, on several occasions, when I've visited the theatre I've had the misfortune to have a juvenile horror sitting in the seat behind the one I occupied who would insist on ramming his feet up against the back of my seat and jabbing and jabbing away and making it nearly impossible to follow the excellent picture Col. McMordie provides for our amusement.

This irritating nuisance has happened to me now so often that it is with misgivings that I go to the show and I have to carefully watch to see who is and what's behind the seat I intend occupying.

When at work in your office get your "devil" to keep prodding the back of your chair and you will understand my feelings and doubtless the feelings of many others who attend the pictures, suffering from these juvenile plagues.

I would suggest that all youngsters going to the theatre unattended be accommodated in a portion of the theatre by themselves under the watchful eye of an usher or else have a night or day especially set apart for the children.

BADMINTON GOING BIG

Two Clubs Opened Season Last Night; C. N. R. Taking Sport Up On Large Scale

Play was commenced last night on the courts of both the Prince Rupert and I. O. D. E. Badminton Clubs. At both places quite a few players turned out.

Organization of the Anglican Cathedral and Regimental Clubs for the winter activities should soon be under way.

The Canadian National Recreation Association is also taking up badminton on an extensive scale this winter, having established courts in the Phillip-Evitt wholesale building, where such sports as lawn bowling will also be engaged in.

Other organizations are also engaging in the sport in a smaller way.

Badminton is making a strong start in the city this winter and one of the most successful seasons on record is expected. Later, as the players get into form, there should be some interesting tournaments.

Sport Chat

Hack Wilson of the Cubs will be easily the most colorful player in the 1929 World Series. He has more color than a paint shop. He argues with the umpires, talks back to the fans and fights the opposing players. He draws more razzberries from the fans on the road than all the players in the league. Kopy and Donohue, the Cincinnati players he slugged during the past season, feel that he should have tried the ring instead of the diamond. Almost classed as a fat man, Wilson is one of the most agile players in the majors. He is fleet of foot, a mighty good fielder and packs a dangerous punch at the bat. He has won many a game this year with a home run drive in the old pinch. He looks bad at times at bat because of the terrific swing he takes. Dazzy Vance of Brooklyn struck him out four times in a game this year without letting him make a healthy foul. Earnshaw of the Athletics is a pitcher like Vance and may make Wilson plenty of trouble. Wilson began his career with McGraw at New York in 1923. After three years with the Giants, McGraw quit on him and sent him to the minors. Then he spent a year at Toledo. Chicago took him in the draft for $5000 and wouldn't take ten times that amount for him now.

George William Haas of the Philadelphia Athletics is burdened with the rather unattractive name of "Mule." This is not because of a stubborn temperament, but rather because the young man has oversized ears. Haas is easily the most nonchalant fielder in the majors. The different looking Bob Meusel of the Yankees has nothing on the "Mule" for nonchalance. Fast of foot, a splendid judge of distance, he makes the hardest kind of chances look easy. He has a big pair of hands and fairly smothered the ball in making a catch. Haas is very happy the Cubs have no high class southpaw to offer. The port-siders are rank poison to him. He was picked up in 1923 by Pittsburgh as a free agent. Placed in the minors for two years on option he failed to hit impressively and was finally released to Atlanta. Most major league scouts passed him up after a big year in Atlanta in 1927 because of alleged weakness at the bat. Connie Mack took a chance and has been well rewarded. "Mule" has developed into a long distance hitter as a Mack-man, with 15 home runs to his credit, also seven triples and 36 doubles.

Around The World With Sport Fans

Everybody is looking forward to the world's series baseball next week. The games begin Tuesday.

In and around Los Angeles upwards of fifty million dollars is invested in sports grounds, club-houses and equipment, particularly in golf, polo and tennis.

Under the title "No Wonder Schmeling Ran Away," the Toronto Globe sports writer said recently: "Shufflin' Phil Scott, one of those English heavies whom United States writers playfully refer to as horizontal champions, rather shocked all and sundry at Brooklyn last night, and hurled a monkey wrench in where it hurt most when he whipped the ponderous Victor Campolo in a hard-fought bout. In the first round the Briton sampled one of Campolo's intended 'haymakers,' and for a time was forced to consider a retirement to the resined floor, but he hung on gallantly, and after that gave the Italian giant a scientific boxing lesson. There are those who fear that the setback will be costly for Campolo, who was being groomed for a bout for the world's title, left vacant by the considerate Gene Tunney. There are others who suspect that Max Schmeling used rare judgment when he declined to mingle with 'Shufflin' Phil. The German star is alleged to be not enamored with the prospect of trying conclusions with any one from the British Isles. Scott avers that he can trounce all the Schmeling's in existence, and that he is willing to perform the feat right in Berlin. Be that as it may, he certainly showed last night that he is entitled to consideration in these numerous heavyweight elimination jousts.

To Establish Badminton Court, Continue Whist Drives and Enter Basketball and Billiards

Winter activities constituted the principal matter of discussion at a meeting last night of the local Elks' Lodge. The lodge decided to enter teams in the senior basketball league and the billiard league. Weekly whist tournaments, such as have been held the past two winters, will again be staged and a new departure was decided upon in the way of establishing a badminton court in the lodge home for the benefit of members of the Elks and Ladies of the Royal Purple Order. Committees were appointed to take charge of the various activities. Bill Mitchell will be in charge of the basketball team and Art Eason the billiards.

Naturalist Finds Breeding Grounds of Blue Goose

Canadian Arctic Expedition Docks at North Sydney, C.B.

NORTH SYDNEY, N.S., Sept.—Completing a cruise of 8000 miles through the ice-locked waters of the frozen north and coming within 650 miles of the pole, in the brief space of six weeks, the sealer Beothic, of the Canadian Arctic expedition, docked at North Sydney, Cape Breton Island, recently.

Sent out each year by the Northwest Territories and Yukon Branch, department of the interior, the expedition patrols the eastern archipelago of the Canadian Arctic, sees to the welfare of the Eskimos, gathers various scientific data and reoutfits the scattered outposts of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

For the fifth consecutive time the officer in charge was George P. MacKenzie, former gold commissioner of the Yukon and an experienced hand at Arctic administration. The ship's master was Capt. E. Falk, who enjoys an enviable reputation as a navigator of the Polar seas, while the ice pilot was Capt. L. D. Morin and the mate William Doyle, both of whom were for several years associated with Capt. J. E. Bernier, "the grand old man of the Arctic."

P. A. Taverner, well known ornithologist, and Richard Finnie, historian and movie man, accompanied the expedition. Frank Start, radio engineer, was successful in keeping up two-way communication with civilization during the voyage.

When the Beothic left North Sydney on July 20, she steamed northward along the Labrador coast, across the Arctic Circle and thence to Godhavn, North Greenland, to pay a visit of good-will. There she took on board two passengers, Dr. H. K. E. Krueger, a German scientist who was planning to make a geologic study of Ellesmere and Axel Heiberg Islands, with his Danish assistant, A. R. Bjare. They intended to leave the ship at Etah, the jumping-off place to Peary on his "dash to the pole" in 1909.

The Beothic traversed Baffin Bay to the Canadian side and it was learned at Dundas Harbor, Devon Island, that Inspector A. H. Joy, commandant of the R.C.M.P. in the Eastern Arctic had started out on an exploratory sledge trip from that post early in March and had not been heard of since. When the Beothic reached Fram Haven, in latitude 76.42 her farthest north, the inspector was there with Constable Taggart and an Eskimo, Nospakungwah, the three men had made one of the most remarkable journeys in the history of the Arctic. They had covered a distance of 1700 miles under the most adverse conditions conceivable, touching on Melville, Ellef Ringnes and Amund Ringnes Islands, finally going across the great ice cap of Ellesmere Island. They arrived at Bach Peninsula, the most northerly permanent human settlement in the world, on the last day of May.

Battled With Floes

South, then, the Beothic went, depositing supplies at Pond Inlet, Baffin Island and, after battling with ice-floes for several days, arriving at Pangnirtung, at the southeastern part of the island. Dr. Hugh Stuart of Sydney, was left here to spend two years in the place of Dr. L. D. Livingstone, noted Arctic traveller and welfare worker among the Eskimos who was to return to civilization on the Beothic.

From Pangnirtung the ship went through Hudson Strait, to call at Chesterfield Inlet, on the west side of Hudson Bay. W. H. B. Hoare, mid-life investigator for the N. W. T. branch, came aboard after a trip of a year and a half which took him through the Thelon Game Sanctuary and the desolate country between Great Slave Lake and Baker Lake. He found his way to Chesterfield a week before the Beothic.

At Coate's Island, in the mouth of Hudson Bay, the ship halted for a few hours, taking botanical specimens. Then she went westward to Lake Harbor, on the South Coast of Baffin Island and picked up J. Dewey Soper, a Canadian government naturalist, who was responsible for the most fascinating ornithological discovery of the age—he had found the breeding grounds of the blue goose. For years museums had offered enticing rewards to any one locating the breeding grounds of the mysterious blue goose. Then Soper did it, discovering the very place, in Fox Basin on the west coast of Baffin Island and he is bringing to Ottawa the first blue goose eggs ever seen by man. Resolution Island, where the Department of Marine and Fisheries is constructing a direction finding station to be used for the projected Hudson Bay grain route to Europe, was the semi-final port of call. Then came Burwell. It was here that the Chicago Tribune "Untin Bowler" fliers came to grief a short time ago.

The cruise was a tough one, the men said, and for a while it seemed as though the Beothic would be frozen in for the winter in the great white north, but she worked herself free.

Four members of the R.C.M.P. accompanied the Beothic to relieve men who had completed their respective terms of service in the Arctic. Distributed as follows: Constable R. J. Kidston, Pond Inlet; Constable W. P. Fraser, Bache Peninsula; Constables A. M. McKellar and J. C. Wishart, Lake Harbor. Returning to civilization were: Inspector A. H. Joy, Sergeant J. E. F. Wright, Corporal E. Anstead, Constable Morgetts, Constables Jones and Dirch.

PEACE PLAY IS COMING

"Journey's End" Is All the Rage in London and Company Visits Canada With It

LONDON, Sept. 1.—R. C. Riff's remarkable play, "Journey's End," which has achieved a European reputation, and which, in a nine months' run, is still going to crowded houses in London, is to be presented to Canadian audiences by an English company which sailed for Montreal recently. "Journey's End" is in several respects a unique dramatic achievement both in construction and effect. Its three acts are confined to a single set scene, a trench in the British trenches at St. Quentin in March, 1918. Its nine principal characters are all men. Built up out of the most darest material—fear in its various aspects, and the moral degradation which in its several manifestations beats it down—the nevertheless pulsates with a which steadily rises from one to another of almost painful intensity. Each part in the play confessedly less that of a character than a type, but each is firmly drawn, and each is set against a background of stark unadorned reality. Grouped together they assume outlines of so authentic a section of British front line material that those loudest in praise of the play have been ex-smen with actual battle experience behind them.

Written as a piece of peace propaganda, and designed to convey to the new generation a picture of the misery of actual fighting conditions, and of the horror and futility of war, the ultimate effect of the play is so precisely calculated, and its lesson is so dramatically and unambiguously enunciated that it has been most powerfully hailed as one of the most powerful agencies for the promotion of international amity and good-will. At least a dozen companies are touring Great Britain and the Continent with this as their main design; and it is the expression of the author that the excellent cast which will present "Journey's End" to Canadian audiences from coast to coast, may be regarded less as persons in a play than as the ambassadors of peace.

Man in the Moon

Among the wild things fatness means inability to hunt for dinner and consequent death. That's where nature has us all beaten.

It's a curious thing that we often cannot enjoy the fruits of our labors, Edison, who invented the phonograph, is too deaf to hear one.

Jake says the case of Edison contradicts the statement that whatsoever a man sows that shall he also reap.

There's not much satisfaction in tuning out the poor radio performer, because he is quite innocent of the fact that you are doing so. If there was only a bell to let him know it, or better still a shrieking siren.

Ten Years Ago in Prince Rupert

October 2, 1919
By defeating the Trail Athletics three to one last evening, the Calles last evening won the Mobley Cup, emblematic of city league soccer championship. They squeezed out over the Sons of England by one point in the standing.

At a meeting of the Canadian Club yesterday afternoon, Col. C. Peck V.C., M.P. was appointed delegate from the local club to a meeting of the United Association of Canadian Clubs at Ottawa on October 16 and 17.

Irving S. Linnell, son-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Fisher, expects to be transferred shortly from Vancouver to Europe in the United States consular service.

DARK SPOTS ON MOON

Absolute Desolation Is Condition Suggested by Telescopic View

The dark spots which are plainly visible on the moon's disk are the lunar "seas." They form the face of the "man in the moon" and outline the profile of the "rabbit in the moon," rabbit, frog, donkey and another girl, the "girl reading" are other well known figures imagined in the full moon. In the usual view, however, these latter figures are not right side up, to see them best it is necessary to invert either the moon or the observer.

Long ago the dark spots on the moon were supposed to be bodies of water, and the different spots were given fanciful names, such as the Sea of Serenity and the Bay of Rainbows. These names are still in use, although astronomers are certain that the spots are not bodies of water.

So far as we know, the moon's surface is completely devoid of water, and of air also, and therefore of life of any kind. The lunar seas are relatively flat regions where the rock is darker than in most other places. According to a theory which seems plausible, the seas were originally great elliptical depressions in the moon's surface as bright as the rest and surrounded by rings of mountains.

At a later time lava welled up from the interior and overflowed the low places. Many of the irregularities were leveled by the hot lava, and others were submerged. As the dark, molten stuff cooled, fairly level surfaces were formed. Thus the seas, according to this account.

Viewed with the telescope the lunar surface exhibits more variety than the eye alone can see. Thousands of mountain rings, the lunar craters, are scattered over the surface and from some of them bright streaks, called rays, radiate.

The rays are best seen near full moon, but the craters are most conspicuous near the quarter phase. Great cracks in the surface can be seen also. In general the appearance with the telescope suggests absolute desolation—bare rocks and nothing else.

SUGGESTS TAXING CATS AS WELL AS DOGS IN CANADA

TORONTO, Oct. 1:—A Niavina (Ont.) correspondent of the press suggests that cats should be taxed and destroyed, as the law decrees shall be done with dogs.

"Wherever one goes in the country one runs across stray cats. Some probably left by loving owners at the end of a summer outing, some dropped by the road by equally loving owners who find apartments not convenient for pets, and some come from barns overflowing with large families of kittens. Many of these cats prefer the call of the wild to the call of a mistress.

"These domestic cats (never really tame) are becoming a very great menace throughout the country, and in many places conservation societies are including them in their list of pests and asking for their destruction. This is true in the cities and villages also, especially in the case of bird lovers. A season may be shadowed by the tragedy in your trees or shrubs; a nest of birds a cat breakfast before you can make a rescue."

STEWART

The famous Osisko Rouyn Exploration Co. Ltd., of Montreal, has entered this field. The Maybe, Louise, Blue Jay and Ruby claims near the Mountain Boy property on American Creek have been taken over by the company and work preparatory to a large campaign of development has been started. W. J. Tretaway M.E., Vancouver, is in charge.

Mr. and Mrs. D. W. McLeman returned to Stewart on Sunday from Vancouver where they were married last week in Christ Church Cathedral. The bride was formerly Miss Elizabeth Burrows of Vancouver daughter of Alfred and the late Mrs. Burrows of Great Miller, Oxford England. Mr. McLeman is a well known local hardware merchant.

A wedding of much interest in the district took place recently in Christ Church Cathedral, Vancouver when Miss Elizabeth E. McGreor late of the Stewart General Hospital staff and sister of Mrs. S. G. Lawrence, was married to Major C. B. North, superintendent for a number of years at the B. C. Silver mine.

S. P. Fitzgerald left last week for Vancouver to attend the annual meeting of the Independence Gold Mining Co., which was held yesterday.

Archie McPhail is developing one of the largest ore bodies ever uncovered in the district on his Blue Bird property in the upper Kit-sault country. Development is being made by open cuts and the vein is said to be wide, of good grade and traceable for a long distance.

Rev. W. B. Jennings was here last Sunday aboard the Anglican mission boat Northern Cross and conducted monthly services.

Local Teachers Hold Meeting

Member of Parliament Gives Interesting Address at Booth Memorial School

The regular monthly meeting of the Prince Rupert Teachers' Association was held last evening in the Booth Memorial School, with J. S. Wilson presiding over a good turnout of members.

The meeting decided to make a levy on the members to add to the educational shelf of the public library.

The chairman welcomed J. C. Brady M.P., who was the speaker of the evening and referred to the splendid work that he had done in the schools of Prince Rupert and as a member of the Teachers' Federation.

Mr. Brady expressed his great pleasure at once again being able to meet his fellow teachers, old and new. He felt that in his present position he was able to see the value of the work of the teachers much better than the teachers themselves. He drew a parallel between the workers in industry who work from behind the material and who only get occasional glimpses of the general effect of the patterns on which they work and the work of the teachers. They rarely see the value of their work yet it is indelibly and tremendously engraved on the characters and minds of the Canadian pupils and is an incalculable factor in the building up of the nation.

There are few assemblies of people nowadays where economic problems do not form a great part of the subjects under discussion and the speaker hoped that teachers were in line with this modern topic.

Value of Higher Education

He emphasized the value of high school and university training by pointing out that of the three ways by which entrance into commercial life is made, the one made by way of the high school and university is always more successful than either by way of a special technical training or by the way of the limited few who work from the ground up. Education gives that ready adaptability and broadening outlook which enables men to take hold of and direct the great industrial corporations of the world.

The Peace River district was the subject of a most interesting part of Mr. Brady's address. Even more here was the value of higher education stressed, when experience is added to the potentiality to be used to the full.

The study of geography as applied to the study of economic life gives a rare thrill to the pupil when he realizes the struggles of the pioneers, their adventures, their trials, their successes. The Peace River is the last great fertile region of Canada untouched. Here with its rapid settlement especially of the last five years, the teacher is of vital import. Immigrants are from all parts, speak all languages and have varied customs. The school house is the melting pot.

The description of this wheat growing country was vividly portrayed and as vividly contrasted with the different conditions of the Turner Valley with its oil harvest.

Child Mind

But the teacher's greatest problem is getting contact with the child's mind. That is the essential factor Mr. Brady closed with congratulating the teachers on their contribution to the development of Canadian life and literature that transcends all material prosperity.

A vote of thanks was accorded Mr. Brady on the motion of D. H. Hartness who thanked the speaker for his words of encouragement, for teachers needed such commendation and recognition. It was worth while to realize that though many pupils dropped out before reaching high school, yet the work of the teachers in trying to build up character and developing the mind was never lost but bore fruit always.

Those present included Mrs. J. C. Brady, Miss Mercer, Miss Mills, Miss McArthur, Miss Moffatt, Miss Garnett, Miss Grassie, Miss Harrison, Miss Halliwell, Miss Hartin, Miss MacDonald, Miss McGuire, Miss Rothwell, Miss McKay, Miss Shiel, Miss Curry, Mrs. Walker, Miss A. A. Pierce and Messrs. Hartness, O'Neill and Gee.

"Invisible Light" Bring To View Many Tiny Living Objects

BOSTON, Mass., Oct. 2.—Infrared rays, the "invisible light" with which the camera peers far into impenetrable fog, now brings to view tiny living objects that hitherto escaped detection by the microscope. Use of these rays in medical photography was described at the thirteenth international Physiological Congress at Harvard Medical School by Ivan Bertand and L. Justin-Besancon of Paris. Infra-red is a longer wave length than the most lengthy visible ray. It is an "intervening step between light and heat."

The Frenchmen exclude all visible light from the photographic plate which is specially sensitized to the infra-red emanations. They said that because of the extra length these rays penetrate into and reveal some of the outer portions of living cells. They described photography in a kidney study that revealed organisms "entirely missing in the microscopic examinations by the eye."

MRS. FRIZZELL RETIRES FROM BUSINESS

Like a Thunderbolt Out of a Clear Sky Comes This Announcement

After many years in business in Prince Rupert, she has decided to close out my entire stock and fixtures as quickly as possible. Most of you know that I am in need of absolute rest. We are going to tell you the plain September Morn truth about this store and the merchandise and the reason why I am retiring from business, for there isn't a thing about the store that the public isn't entitled to know, if it cares to.

Folks, here's your chance to save! We must get rid of this stock and fixtures quickly. There is nothing else for me to do. We have engaged plenty of extra sales people. We hope to give good service; but you can help a great deal if you will buy quickly and don't crowd. Don't be afraid you'll be coaxed to buy if you come to see. Sales people won't have to talk their arms off to sell goods at our prices. The prices will talk.

The sale will continue for thirty days—if the goods hold out—with all prices slashed. All those who possibly can should do their trading as early in the day as possible. This sale is like offering new crisp dollar bills for a dime. The sale opens Friday morning. See tomorrow's paper for further announcement.
