Back To The Garden

DY week-end and on week-day evenings too as they D lengthen under the blessing of summer time, the air begins to vibrate to the shriek of the lawn-mower. After winter's gloom the sun has returned smiling at last and with it the warmth that stirs the trees and also, alas, the weeds; and the lawn-mower, which is the home gardener's symbol of office, has been extracted from the lumber of the tool shed, cleaned, re-oiled, and set about its never-ending task.

We are a nation of cultivators, whether we operate on fertile farmlands or simply in the backyard vegetable patch.

As evenings lengthen gardeners will visit each other's patches, one of the delights of the amateur cultivator being to give advice, even if it is rarely taken. And so the gardening season is here again.

Prince Rupert Too!

TITY COUNCIL could make a big contribution to the current Clean-Up Campaign and at the same time earn the gratitude of housewives by taking some steps to eliminate the dust nuisance, now growing greater with each day of dry, warm weather.

Besides menacing the health of residents, the dust which follows from behind every car on our many streets mars the appearance of lawns, hedges and flower gardens, and seeps into homes to make dusting an hourly chore for the tidy housewife. It also constitutes a traffic hazard and makes a very unfavorable impression upon people who are visiting Prince George for the first time.

While it is realized that the application of oil or calcium chloride to the roads as a dust preventative is only a temporary measure, it is the best that is available and one or the other should be used soon if we are to avoid being described as "the dust bowl of B.C."

Other communities in the interior, notably Quesnel, are doing something about their dusty streets. The cost is not great when compared with the benefits to be derived from dust-free thoroughfares, and we in Prince George should not lag behind other towns in making the city attractive to tourists and protecting the health of residents.-Prince George Citizen.

SHOPS IN BELGRADE

BELGRADE, YUGO-SLAVIA—Last night we went to a packed concert for Pierre Fournier, famous French 'cellist. Our three tickets cost 240 dinars—that is $4.80 in U.S. money.

Of course, you have to have some inside track to get these tickets, for these music and drama-loving Yugoslavs would buy out every attraction many times over.

AS OUR LATE FINANCE MINister, Jim Robb, used to say, there are three kinds of lieslies, damned lies and statistics.

By statistics you can prove that the 400,000 people of Beigrade almost all should be dead for you can prove by statistics that they just don't get enough | incomes to stay alive.

The average pay of a fulltime worker here is about 3000 dinars a month. A pair of rough work pants costs 540 dinars if you are a factory worker, 945 dinars if you are a white collar worker, or otherwise in grade two, and 2700 dinars if you have no special status.

Food is on a camparative basis.

I SPENT MOST OF THIS morning in a government shop where they sell a wide range of had to sell them to get money from shoes and sweaters to carpets and beautiful silver jewelry.

The two ladies in our party took me along while they picked out some silver buttons and other such ornaments for themselves and friends. They took hours about it-and I can't see how anybody in Yugoslavia made any profit on them.

But meanwhile, I sat in a comfortable chair right beside a jolly girl cashier. I saw all the sights—as the friendly cashier spoke only Serb and Germanand hence our efforts to enat were not very fruitful.

That little government store did more business in the time I was in it than most stores of much bigger size, not to mention higher overhead expenses, would do in Canada. They were selling home-knit woollen sweaters like hot cakes. Also some good-looking women's leatherand-homespun bags moved. But the top seller was the women's colored leather shoes-the woven leather effect, with one buckle, much as we have at home, only hand-made, these same outlets. Some peasants were bringing in their produce while we were there. I saw one girl with a rug, similar to those hanging on the wall ready for sale. Some of these peasants would collect their cheques, cash them, then turn right around and buy other produce right in the same shop.

OF COURSE, MANY OF THE formerly rich people are having a terrible time to get by. Some of the supporters of the old regime, whom I have met casually. are barred from positions for which they are best fitted, because they are still not considered politically "safe."

The second-hand jewelry stores are chock-full of goods which have obviously been sold on a

The DORREEN MINE is a gold-silver-lead-zinc mine, five miles by road north of Dorreen, B. C., a town on the Canadian National Railway 126 miles east of Prince Rupert and about 50 miles west from Hazelton, B. C.

The DORREEN property, consisting of eight claims, is unusual in that the gold-base metal vein, averaging 1.7 feet in width, is exposed continuously for a depth of 1000 feet and on the strike for 300 feet. This vein has reasonably assured ore estimated at 10,000 tons and probable ore at 20,000 tons with a total net smelter value of $1,422,000. The assay value of average samples of this ore at today's prices is $79.05 per ton. SINCE 1949, the present directors and their associates have expended over $100,000 in the construction of a modern 50 ton mill, a road to the property and in the purchase of mining equipment.

PURPOSE of this financing is to bring property into production this summer and to develop additional ore reserves.
