The Telephone Question

EVERYBODY must agree on the need for better and more adequate telephone service in Prince Rupert. We all know that the present outfit is not only entirely inadequate for the demands but is antiquated, decrepit and falling apart. So there is a strong case justifying the obtaining of a new, larger and up-to-date telephone system in Prince Rupert.

The city council has a new proposition for telephone replacement whereby a company would install free of charge a temporary board providing 500 additional telephones on the undertaking that the city would purchase a new automatic system from the company in about three years.

It is a very interesting proposition. Yet it is very desirable that there should be some more definite idea of what the additional system would cost and what the city is letting itself in for.

Before there can be an intelligent vote on a referendum further information should be forthcoming.

It would be easy enough to accept the offer which has been made by the company but, by so doing, at least a moral obligation would be incurred to go through with the rest of the deal. The city might feel itself safeguarded by the thought that it would be able to turn down a money bylaw when it came to authorizing the cash for the payment part of the deal. But it would be hardly playing ball to accept the gift and then refuse the quid pro quo which would be at least tacitly implied. And, further, the city might well become involved from a legal standpoint.

Of course, the plebiscite would not commit the council to a line of action but there does not seem to be much point in even getting an expression of opinion on such an ephemeral proposition.

Certainly we need a telephone system but we should go about getting it in a businesslike way. And until this plebiscite can be presented in a businesslike way, the city should withhold the reference.

Were You Missed in 1951 Enumeration?

The Daily News check on the 1951 census, which is being challenged for its short count of 8,465, is revealing established city residents who were missed by the enumerators.

They are from all parts of the city.
People who were missed are being asked to communicate the omission with as little delay as possible so that basis may be established for the contention that there was such a serious short count.

Saskatchewan Independent Rich in Uranium Video Urged

GOLDFIELDS, Sask. (CP)—This one-time gold-rush centre, situated in the far north of Saskatchewan, may once again become a mining boom town. But it won't be the glitter of gold dust that attracts interest. This time uranium holds the spotlight.

Officials of the Saskatchewan Resources Department say that without undue optimism, responsible mining men are looking for Goldfields to eclipse anything that gold once made it. In fact, the rocky, forested region, on the north side of Lake Athabasca, bids fair to become an important world source of uranium—the precious radioactive material used in the development of atomic power.

A large, permanent mining layout has been established by the federal Eldorado Mining Company on its extensive property in the area. Eldorado, after spending millions of dollars on exploration and development, will be in production next year.

It is also expected that soon after Eldorado begins production, many other mines, comparatively nearby, will come into production. This summer it was definitely established that there are a number of possible mines in the region.

The Charlebois-Spreckley lakes district in the north is the most recently discovered uranium area. Reported results of this area are sufficiently encouraging to stimulate capital expenditure in the near future.

BIG CONCENTRATIONS

Dr. J. B. Mawdsley, head of the University of Saskatchewan geology department, has said the Charlebois-Spreckley Yakes regions possess "phenomenal concentrations of uranium."

The area north of Lac la Ronge—which has a highway link with Prince Albert—has been the scene of a number of other radio-active finds but more work will be needed before commercial possibilities can be determined.

Out of all this has come a unique development. Plans have been drawn up for a model mining town to be appropriately named Uranium City.

The townsite, 10 miles from Goldfields, has been laid out and predictions have been made that—very soon—there will be 5,000 persons living there.

Uranium City will be in striking contrast to mining towns of the past. There will be no uncontrolled shack growth, without reference to a general town plan. Nor will there be any unsanitary near-slum district.

Instead, Uranium City will be carefully laid out with numerous modern conveniences.

RECRUITS FOR WOODS

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask. (CP)—More than 500 men in northern Saskatchewan have signed contracts to spend the winter working in the timber in northwestern Ontario.

MONTREAL (CP)—Establishment of an independent regulatory body for Canada's radio and television was favored two to one Wednesday in discussion of the Massey report.

In favor were Stuart M. Finlayson, president of the Canadian Marconi Co., and Hugh M. Crombie, president of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association.

They took part in a panel discussion on radio and television recommendations of the Massey Commission.

Their stand in the discussion was opposed by R. C. Fraser of Toronto, director of press and information services for the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation.

Reflects and Reminisces

Old age pensioners are expected to spend at least part of each year in British Columbia. Is there any place much better, no matter what age?

Hitler's solitary retreat, high in the Bavarian Alps is about to be torn down. For many a year it has been a favorite tourist resort. It was there Der Fuehrer received the marvellous intuitions that caused him to commit suicide, and hanged a dozen of his chief lieutenants.

SOME TO SPARE?

Twenty minutes is long enough for a speech by the average Parliamentary member says the Federal member for Fraser Valley, Mr. Cruickshank's suggestion deserves support. Study hancard, and keep tabs on the length of time it takes to listen to someone speaking for twenty minutes. Between the two you may be converted.

The Russians are not rationed on beef. They just don't have any.

Before the grain elevator, which will have a busy enough winter at Prince Rupert, was ever built, it was a subject of controversy. This was way back in 1925. A casual ramble through the local press file shows that to be true enough. According to what one read, the plant would be fully occupied because it was needed. We never suspected it.

SPEAKING OF COSTS

When notice of another rise in living costs is given out, most of us think of table fare, clothing and shelter. But that isn't all—not by the proverbial jugful. Narcotic addicts, and Vancouver is said to have a thousand, are among the victims. Before the last war, from $1 to $1.50 would buy five grains. Today the cost is close to $5 for the same.

Egypt's Earth Shakes

A FEW months ago I paused briefly in Ismailia, the city on the Suez Canal where violent clashes have just occurred between British patrols and Egyptian police.

It was a cleaner, neater spot than I had expected to find. The relationship between the British troops and the native peoples seemed friendly, and I particularly noticed how well schooled the soldiers appeared to be. That is, there was none of arrogance that was once a feature of such military occupations.

In my brief stay in Egypt I did not get any impression that there was hatred of Englishmen, or westerners, as people. Everybody I met was kind and friendly. But I did find a tremendous feeling of restlessness—a sort of shaking of the earth.

IT SEEMED to me that the people of all the Mohammedan part of the earth were in the mood for big changes. But they had no political tools to work with—there were no political parties which were giving the people any really honest political education, or sincere leadership.

The two world wars taught the people of the brown skinned part of the earth that they can manage some of the white man's machines just as well as can a white man.

The Arab automobile drivers in Cairo, for instance, literally rush about like mad. They seemed to me to derive an actual joy out of the feeling of speed.

About all they know politically is that the white man is better off than the brown man—and they do not think that such need be so. What has the white man got that we haven't got—they ask themselves.

One by one some answers come to more and more of them—something like this:

1. The white people actually govern their own countries. Our countries are still governed, directly or indirectly, by foreigners—and those foreigners are westerners, or white men.

2. Where people in the west become wealthy they use their wealth to build factories which increase the total product of their countries and so make more prosperity for everybody—but in Egypt and all the similar Islamic countries wealthy people hoard their wealth to spend it on luxurious living only for themselves.

One bulldozer would have done the whole job better and quicker. But failing a proper social plan to handle the bulldozer, and employ the men, merely to bring it in to throw the poor workers out of jobs would add to their misery.

It's an illustration of what the Middle East needs most—a modern social plan. If we don't help them get one, let's not fool ourselves—Uncle Joe will.

One in Ten

A million Canadians now have jobs in manufacturing. Ten per cent of these are in the primary textile industry. [The latest Dominion Bureau figures are 1,080,000 in manufacturing and 104,000 of these in primary textiles.]

Besides leading all other Canadian industries in numbers employed in manufacturing, primary textiles also is way ahead in the size of its payroll. It is up among the leaders in providing jobs for women and in being well spread out through the smaller communities.

Dominion Textile is a considerable part of this basic textile industry.

Women's Canadian Club Hears Pulp Mill Head

"It was with malice aforethought that I chose the of the talk tonight. It covers such a large field, it's possibly go astray," confessed Dr. R. H. Ball, general manager of the Columbia Cellulose Company as he started speaking last night to the Women's Canadian Club. His topic was "From Tree to Textile."

Ball took the ladies on an imaginary specially conducted of the plant at Watson Island. He traced the wood from the time the bark is removed with the screening, cooking bleaching of the chips to the time it is turned out a white pulp ready for shipping.
An interesting book of samples of materials made from the pulp was shown to the large audience. These samples included of the latest patterns and used today in the new clothing.

Ball told of the experience being made at the huge plant at Cumberland, British Columbia, where two or three miles of fibre are combined.
Materials were very beautiful, not enough was produced to supply the public so these examples were for sale to employees.

Ball stated that the new products are often sold by the pound, and of by the yard.

Expansion of the mill here is based on the general increase of the use of synthetic fabrics in the world.

Ball stated: "We are in a booming industry and development is catching up on us. The future is bound to increase the very near future."

A large gathering of ladies in the Canadian Legion Hall listened with interest to Dr. Ball.
Dr. F. E. Anfield, president of the club, was in the chair.

Backs Up Dental Clinic

Wilson told the meeting of pressed the hope that it would be actually under way early in the New Year.

The meeting heard from the association's president, Mrs. Stone, who now 80 paid up members.
The association decided to cooperate with the newly formed dental clinic here.

Mrs. Logan, the president, was in the chair. Mrs. Stone's class was the banner for the largest group of parents present.

Veteran Editor Creates Famous Yule Greeting

By MURIEL NARAWAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (AP)—For grey-haired, 60-year-old Norah Herdman, the Christmas season has a special meaning.

In millions of homes throughout Britain and the Commonwealth, products of her year's work bring happy smiles to the faces of adult and child alike.

On every December journey from her three-roomed apartment in a London suburb, to her office near Hyde Park, this short, rosy-cheeked woman sees holly-trimmed windows displaying Christmas cards with rhymes she has created. And in every toy shop or bookstall with a child's book counter, there are fairy tales she has written or edited.

For 23 years now, Oxford-educated Miss Herdman has been editor for a British firm (Raphael Tuck & Sons) that produces greeting cards and illustrated booklets.

Every year, throughout Britain, people buy cards she has worded to send to friends and family in Canada and other countries. Products of her work are exported to agencies throughout the Commonwealth.

It still gives her a thrill of pleasure to open greetings from her own friends and relatives and find the card is one she has had a hand in creating.

But like any other, the job can have its difficult moments. Imagine being asked on a sweltering July day, when close-by Hyde Park looks invitingly green and cool, to rattle off a Christmas carol for a new scene just going into production.

CARD FASHIONS

"Cards run in fashions like anything else," Miss Herdman said in an interview. "Sometimes the vogue is long sentimental verses, other years a humorous card may be the best seller." A popular choice now is a card for relatives.

"I've known people who obviously couldn't afford it, pay up to 5s. for a card to mother," she said.

One of the most difficult tasks in editing is to fit such fairy tales as "Little Red Riding Hood" into small illustrated booklets measuring about four inches square. The story must be worked around pictures carried in the corner of every page.

"We sometimes have to count every letter to make it fit," she said. "The logical precision of a child's mind demands that the picture should illustrate the words on the page. This means cutting the story line in places and padding in others.

Another headache is fitting a story under a picture that takes up two-thirds of the page.

"You've no idea how difficult it is to write 'Jack and the Beanstalk' in about 100 words," said Miss Herdman.

Knife-Making Hobby Profits

KETTLE RIVER, Ont. (AP)—There's a knife worn and well-used on Matt Mattson's kitchen table in this little village near Fort Frances.

But it's no ordinary knife. With it Mattson carved out a new life for himself.

Matt was down and out in 1938 after a siege of tuberculosis but he refused to remain idle. One evening he took a few simple tools and locked himself in a room. He laboriously chiseled a piece of steel out of an old cross-cut saw and filed it into shape of a breadknife blade.

Then came hours of polishing, heating, stropping and finishing: Matt fashioned a wooden handle and riveted it to the blade. The job took two days.

Using that first knife as a model, Matt made others which he sold. He saved a few dollars and invested them in better tools and equipment. He was then able to make several knives a day.

During the Second World War, he received orders for fancy trench knives from friends of servicemen. He later started on hunting knives, jack-knives and deerhorn steak-knives.

Today, the result of Matt's cutlery hobby is a combination grocery store and service station which he and his wife run outside of Kettle River. But he still spends much of his time making knives.

Oven-baked beans go beautifully with hot brown bread . . .

Here is nourishment as appetizing and economical as any cook could devise. Every body knows that beans have a high caloric content and when they are oven-baked by Heinz chefs and drenched with Heinz Oven Tomato Sauce, you have a hearty flavour treat at low cost. Heinz makes four kinds of oven-baked beans. Look for them all at your grocer's. Also note below recipes for a warming cold-weather feast.

RECIPES

"Dinner of the Week" may easily be your family's verdict when you serve a deep dish of tender Heinz Oven-Baked Beans. Vary them from time to time—add a few dashes of Heinz 57 Sauce to give a special flavour—some Heinz Chili Sauce or Tomato Ketchup on other occasions. Again, stir in gently 1/2 cup diced processed cheese or add crisp bacon strips, and heat as usual in saucepan or baking dish. For a crisp topping if you heat your beans in a casserole, try a layer of big buttered crumbs over the dish and bake until hot and golden.

ALL-BRAN MOLASSES HOT-BREAD Measure 1 cup ALL-BRAN, 1/2 cup raisins, 2 tps. shortening, and 1/2 cup molasses into bowl. Add 1/2 cup hot water, stir till shortening melts. Add 1 egg; beat well. Sift together 1 cup sifted flour, 1 tsp. baking soda, 1/2 tsp. salt and 1/2 tsp. cinnamon; add to ALL-BRAN mixture, stirring until combined. Fill 2 greased hot oven (350F.) Baked Bean tins 1/2 full. Bake in preheated mod. oven (350F.) 45 min. Yield: 2 loaves. Or use 8 x 8-in. pan. Bake in mod. oven 35 min. Yield: 1 loaf. Serve at once.

Arrangements Final For November 30 Fight Card

Feature Bout Ratzo vs. Morrison
Arrangements for a Prince George-Prince Rupert boxing card have been finalized, announced Boxing Club trainer Joe Ward today. Prince Club, with four fighters, will arrive with Nick Schmeling for the fight November 30.

There have been two changes, in Schmeling's fight-up. Feature bout will be Morrison-Ratzo battle-rounder instigated by this fall Prince Rupert's Golden champion.

One of Larry Brewer and son in a three-round match with Art Senft, perennial Golden Gloves contender now at Massey. Schmeling instigated by this fall Prince Rupert's Golden champion.

Ward expects to arrange a nine-bout card. Fighting Prince George, a heavyweight bout with Elks "Tiny" Carlson.

Andy Marshall, age 25, 163 pounds, five-foot-ten, former Canadian Army amateur boxer and has had three fights since, one as finalist in last year's Golden Gloves beating a 175-pound opponent to gain light-heavyweight championship. Comment: "Sound as concrete."

"Tiny" Glenn Carlson, age 20, 197 pounds, height 6 feet 1 1/2 inches. Only three fights for him, one as finalist in Golden Gloves last year which he lost on points. Comment: "Carries a terrible wallop."

"Chubby" Stacey, age 18, 142 pounds, five-foot-nine, has had 10 amateur fights over here and in Ketchikan, but did not enter Golden Gloves last year. Comment: "Tough, aggressive, hard-hitting."

"Smack" Place, age 19, 135 pounds, height five-foot-eight, a veteran middle fighter. Place has been in 11 bouts here and at Ketchikan and a semi-finalist Golden Gloves contender last year, losing out to Barney Grace, now Westminster lightweight and considered one of B.C.'s top amateurs.

Meanwhile, Ward is busy with future plans as well; says the above named fighters will enter Golden Gloves next year and hopes to enter Canadian amateur boxing championships to be held in Vancouver in 1952. Winners in that meet would be eligible for Canadian entry in Olympic Games, which are mooted for Vancouver as well.

FLYING
NOTES

(By C.M.)
Bob Kelsey, the Flying Club's stand-by for many years, is, at least temporarily, in Vancouver doing a flying job for Q.C.A. To say that Bob is missed puts it too mildly. That Bob doesn't live here any more is almost a tragedy.

In spite of this enthusiasm and interest still run high at the weekly Gound School meets at the prospect of soon having a newer and second aircraft. Skogmo is in Vancouver and is to fly the ship north as soon as he can be assured of good weather for the complete trip.

Our spies tell us that she is a honey—radio-equipped, higher powered than our original O.C. Faithful, and with many good hours of flying ahead of her before a major overhaul is necessary.

The Club's original plane is being overhauled and, once back on the job, the club will be in business with two planes instead of just one. Thus we attain status as an accredited Flying School.

The charming little lady who gave us instruction last fall, Dawn Dawson, is, we understand, now flying for an airline in Vancouver. So the club must find a new instructor who can come with us on a permanent basis.

Another possible fly in the flying ointment is Pat Deane's newly acquired responsibilities and the possibility that they will interfere with the lectures he's giving the boys and girls once a week out at the club. On the other hand, knowing Pat, we just guess that somehow those lectures will be given each week even though something else has to slip. Pat is just built that way.

However, the next issue of the leading Canadian magazines for flier will contain the Club's advertisement for a permanent instructor and by the time the weather is suitable for steady flying again a qualified man will be on hand to put us through circuits and bumps.

Members are in the meantime keeping busy arranging for the next club dance Saturday. Arrangements are again in the capable hands of Doug Haig.

Bruins Tie New York;
Leafs Trounce Hawks

Don Fisher, former New York player, turned on his old teammates last night, scoring all three goals as Boston Bruins tied New York Rangers 3-3 in a National Hockey League game.

Snapping out of a scoring slump, Toronto Maple Leafs trounced Chicago Black Hawks 5-1 at Toronto in the circuit's only other contest. Defeat dropped the Hawks into a last-place tie with New York, while Leafs remained in second place five points behind Detroit.

Fisher, traded by New York to Boston last year, scored once in the first period and twice in the third of the game at New York. In every case his tally put the Bruins in front.

Rupert All-Stars
To Meet Hawaiians

A Prince Rupert all-star basketball team will meet Hawaiian All-Stars here February 13. In line with its policy to bring in outside competition, Prince Rupert Basketball Association executive last night accepted a proposal to invite the Hawaiians.

Although the visitors are in the same circuit as the Harlem Globe Trotters, they play straight basketball—"no fooling around," said President R. H. Davidson. Four "hula-hula" girls, however, will make the trip with them to provide half-time entertainment.

Meanwhile, the mutual aid fund which will pay up to $50 towards defraying expenses of an injured player will be instituted, the executive decided. This will necessitate every league player to register with B. C. Amateur Basketball Association and will cost $1 a year for senior players and 50 cents for intermediate and juniors. Team sponsors are to bear this cost.

Over. In certain points between the Bulkley Valley and Terrace more snow has fallen and below zero conditions have been touched.

Gov't Prepares for Seaway

OTTAWA (CP)—Engineering plans for the St. Lawrence seaway-power project are being redrafted to route part of the huge navigation works through Canadian territory if Canada builds the waterway alone.

The revised routing, which would add $35,000,000 to the estimated cost of a joint Canada-United States undertaking, would shift the 27-foot navigation channel from U.S. territory on two stretches of the international rapids section of the river between Cornwall, Ont., and Prescott, Ont., opposite Oldenburg, N.Y.

The special projects branch of Canada's department of transport is drawing up the all-Canadian plan in the light of congressional delay on a joint scheme—favoured both by Canada and the U.S. administration—and the possibility this country may launch the big job without U.S. federal participation.

As the over-all federal agency for handling the navigation end of an all-Canadian waterway, the federal government has proposed in the Commons the creation of a "St. Lawrence Seaway" which would be authorized to borrow up to $300,000,000, enough to cover the navigation expenditure under present cost estimates.

Early this fall president Truman told the Canadian government that, unless Congress acts soon, he will give his sanction to Canada going ahead alone. He set no specific time, but belief in some government quarters here is that early 1952 is indicated as the deadline.

WILL TAKE TIME

Canadian authorities say there is no telling what time might elapse between Mr. Truman's sanction and the actual start of work. Proceedings could drag on for months, perhaps a couple of years before the International Joint Commission, the U.S. Federal Power Commission and, possibly, the U.S. Supreme Court.

The Canadian government has several times made known its willingness to tackle the project alone if necessary. Once the U.S. barriers are cleared away and the IJC has given permission, work can be started almost immediately, according to officials here.

At this moment, materials and manpower would be a problem. But Canadian authorities are confident that by the time the digging of the big ditch starts, Canadian and U.S. production and available manpower will be ample.

The estimate here is that it will take an average of 15,000 men to do the job, with somewhat more than that needed in the final stages. Full output of 2,200,000 horsepower of electricity might be expected in four years from the start of construction, with the navigation end of the waterway taking two years longer.

On the financial side, the latest official estimate of the overall cost, with the locks running through the Canadian side of the international section, is $552,000,000. Of that, $400,000,000 would be for power development.

DIVISION OF COST

The power cost—and the power—would be split between the provinces of Ontario and whatever U.S. authority may be designated to handle it. Ontario has said it is willing to put up $200,000,000.

That leaves $250,000,000 to be spent by the Canadian government for a 27-foot channel and locks from Montreal into Lake Erie, which is as far as this government intends to go with the "all-Canadian waterway." Above that, the remaining work consists of about $88,000,000 worth of channel-deepening to get ships through the upper lakes and to the lakehead. The U.S. administration has been engaged in this work continuously for years and can continue it.

The cost estimates are Canadian government figures based on prices last December. Officials say that between seven and 10 per cent would be added to them now to cover cost rises in the interval.

The Canadian government's proposed change from the original joint plan for the international section consists of three canal locks on the Canadian shore, instead of three on the U.S. side, to bring shipping past the proposed hydro-electric development in the rapids.

The upriver lock would cut across Iroquois Point, Ont., instead of at Point Rockway, N.Y., a little to the southeast. About 30 miles downriver, a double lock just west of Cornwall would form the other entry to the rapids section, which is to be deepened by a series of dams controlling the river level for power. The twin lock at Cornwall would take the place of two locks a few miles to the southwest, at Robinson Bay and Grass River on the New York side.
