Columbia Cellulose Loggers Approve Majority Conciliation Recommendation

RENEW NEGOTIATIONS
There will be further negotiations in Vancouver next Wednesday between the company and the union, it was learned today from company quarters.

Members of Local 1-71, International Woodworkers of America, in the Terrace, Salvo and Khutzmateen camps of the Columbia Cellulose Co. have voted practically unanimously in favor of accepting the majority report of a conciliation board between Columbia Cellulose Co. Ltd. and International Woodworkers of America which recommended that loggers of the company employed in the Terrace district should be given the same pay and working conditions as provided in the coast contract. So far the scale in the interior has been lower than that on the coast.

Inasmuch as the Columbia Cellulose Co. has not as yet announced its acceptance or otherwise of the majority report of the conciliation board, the local union has also been authorized to apply for a government supervised strike vote should the company not accept.

In the conciliation proceedings, the chairman of the board and the representative of the union made the majority report with the representative of the company recommending that the conditions of the present interior contract be retained.

Frank Howard of Vancouver, president of Local 1-71, has been here in connection with the conciliation negotiations.

Rainy Gale Felt Here

Canadian Press dispatches published by the Daily News.

Telegraph service and long-distance telephone.

CBC broadcast service.

Digby Island weather station reports winds of gale force were predominant in all northern areas and seas were "very rough." Weather, however, is abating, but fresh west and southwest winds are expected to develop tonight.

Heavy rains have been accompanying the wind.

Girl Singer On Long Trip

Barbara Teng to Spend Three Months in British Isles With Elgar choir

A three-month tour of the British Isles is in store for Miss Barbara Teng, promising young singer of Prince Rupert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Teng.

Miss Teng leaves tonight with her mother on the Prince Rupert to join the Elgar Junior Choir in Vancouver. After a concert in Vancouver, the choir, under leadership of C. E. Findlater, will leave for England for a three-month tour, and will sing in most of the big cities, including London, Edinburgh, Glasgow, and Cardiff.

The choir will tour Canada on its return.

Mrs. Teng accompanies her daughter only to Vancouver, where she will be joined by Mr. Teng, now in Ottawa.

While "overseas" Miss Teng will get an eight-day holiday during which she intends to visit her grandmother, Mrs. C. Peckham, at Seaford, Sussex. She also will fly to Belfast, Ireland, to visit Mrs. William Murphy, mother of David Murphy, young student minister at the Presbyterian Church in Prince Rupert last year.

The young soprano first caught the attention of choirleader Mr. Findlater last August, when the Elgar Choir presented a concert here. Mr. Findlater announced he would be open to auditions to young singers in Prince Rupert. Miss Teng was chosen.

Since then, she has joined the choir in a Christmas and an Easter concert in Vancouver. She is supplied with music and studies it here with the help of Mrs. E. J. Smith, music teacher.

Miss Teng is employed at the National Employment Service and has been granted a leave of absence.

Revision Of Rates

Important Legislation Before Parliament Today

OTTAWA (CP) — Government legislation to put into effect some top recommendations of the Royal Commission on transportation, notably the Canada-wide "equalization" of freight rates—will be placed before Parliament today.

Transport Minister Chevrier gave notice yesterday that he will introduce measures regarded as the most important railway legislation in the last 30 years.

The bill will amend three railway statutes and informed quarters said they will have these major effects:

1. They will lay the foundation for the government's board of transport commissioners to set up a new system of freight rates, equalizing their impact on various parts of Canada.

2. Give the interior of western Canada a share in the advantages of low "transcontinental" rates that now benefit the coast almost exclusively.

3. Stimulate economies by the government-owned Canadian National Railways and the Canadian Pacific Railway through sharing use of their facilities and other means.

4. Legalize extension of rate-reducing benefits of the Maritime Freight Rates Act of 1927 to some traffic which, in practice, has been given reductions for years.

Trip Winners Are Announced

VANCOUVER (CP) — Two teenagers and their parents will get a free airplane trip to Honolulu this summer. Schools Produce Excellent Works

TORONTO (CP) — In the little red rural schoolhouses and the big modern city schoolrooms the kids have been working all year for this.

It's a competition for murals, paintings and handicrafts for which the Canadian National Exhibition here will award cash prizes. The results of the youngsters' work were seen at a press-preview here.

The exhibition will have murals from Brandon, Man., showing development of the oil industry; from a Toronto public school picturing the construction of the new subway, and many others from all parts of the country.

One mural by a collegiate student in Winnipeg gives a historical survey from the dinosaurs to the present. There are shipping scenes in Great Lakes ports and a host of others. Among craft work exhibited there is a set of Marionettes from Saint Ste. Marie, Ont.

Prizes include $100 each for the best murals from a high school and public school.

Reflects and Reminisces

In all that has been said during the past few days concerning local developments, whatever was heard about the fisheries came as both timely and deserved. We hail the new era—we salute the dawn of wider ways. But what sort of town would this have been by now, had the weatherbeaten fleets, coming and going through the long years, never existed?

President Syngman Rhee has been warning the world against a "phony peace." Perhaps it's just as well today to remember the "phony war" talk during the early stages of 1940.

One is tempted to wonder, sometimes, if the Vancouver citizen who years ago referred to Prince Rupert as "that Siwash village" ever thinks of reconsidering his judgment!

The New York Times says a heavy percentage of college graduates this year are not so familiar with the map of the United States. And there never was a time when it was easier to become perfectly acquainted.

The Festival is a prize attraction yet it isn't everything England has to offer. There are several Prince Rupert people who appear to think so anyway.

Of all vital organs, the heart is said to be toughest. We are told it beats about 70 times a minute, or more than 100,000 times every day. And when you think of the kind of treatment given some hearts, the organ must be exceedingly tough.

Summer Stage's Ambitious Plan

VANCOUVER (CP)—When the newly-formed Totem Summer Theatre begins in its open-air bowl in West Vancouver on July 2, one of the finest arrays of Canadian talent ever gathered for "live theatre" here will be starting an eight-week season.

Producers Thor Arngren and Stuart Baker are responsible for the all-Canadian Summer Stock Company.

"It's probably a most ambitious plan," they said, "but we are sure the west can support legitimate theatre."

"We are trying to establish another source of employment for Canada's talent—there's plenty of it—and we hope the public will be as enthusiastic about it as we are."

Plays from "Harvey" to "Born Yesterday" are scheduled for performance with many Canadian actors listed on the playbill. Among them will be Allan Roughton, Verlie Coater, Hilda Browne, Babs Hitchman, John Emerson, Betty Phillips, Walter Marsh, Ed. McNamara, P. E. Dixon, Frank Lambrecht-Smith and many others.

Manhood Restored

Sex Hormones Make Men Fertile Again

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

ATLANTIC CITY (AP)—A sex hormone treatment has made some men fertile again, and some of them have become fathers.

The method was reported in an exhibit at the American Medical Association's annual session by Drs. Norris J. Heckel, John E. Baylor and James McDonald of the University of Illinois College of Medicine.

The hormone is testosterone, the male sex hormone. It restored fertility in 23 of 33 men who received it. Five have fathered children.

All 36 were low in fertility. They did not produce enough sperm, the male sex cells.

At first, the injections of the hormones actually made them sterile. Sperm production went down to zero, or near zero. When this happened, the hormone injections were stopped.

Then an unexplained thing happened. In 23 men, the production of sperm rose to new heights. This rebound took from a few months to 72 weeks to happen. But their production rebounded to double, triple or even a 600-per-cent increase over what it had been.

The improvement lasted as long as 16 months. It was in this time that five men had children in marriages that had been barren.

Why the rebound occurred is a mystery. The physicians, compared it with pruning a fruit tree which is not producing well. Sharp pruning takes it out of production for a time. But then it blossoms out again, better than ever. The hormone may work in the same way, clearing out the bulk of cells that produce sperm. Those that are left apparently come back with new vigor.

The hormone treatment is advised only for some men who are not fertile enough, the physicians said. There are many different causes of infertility in men. These 36 were all apparently normal, even in their own production of testosterone, with no apparent reason for their infertility.

Arson is Suspected

Fire was discovered in the immediate rear of Little's news stand shortly after midnight Tuesday. It was promptly extinguished but was making fast headway, before discovery.

A fire call was sent in but flames were put out before services were needed.

Noel Jones, proprietor of the news stand says it is possible there had been an attempt at arson. There were four cardboard boxes on an empty tank by the back door. Two of these had evidently been removed for charred fragments were found under the back door step. The back door itself was scorched.

THE EXPERTS Say . . .

By KAY REX
Canadian Press Staff Writer

With Father's Day coming on Sunday, let's talk about the things the head of the family likes to eat.

If given a choice probably he would leave the salads and custard puddings to the womenfolk. Roast beef and apple pie for him.

Strawberry shortcake would probably also go well on a special Father's Day menu.

Ingredients: 1½ cups sifted (all-purpose) flour; 2½ teaspoons baking-powder; ½ teaspoon salt; 2 tablespoons granulated sugar; ¼ cup shortening; 1 egg (beaten); 5 tablespoons milk; 3 cups sweetened crushed berries; ½ cup whipped cream.

Sift together the dry ingredients and cut in the shortening with a knife. Add egg and milk.
Roll one-half inch thick. Cut dough into rounds and bake on greased baking-sheet 15 minutes in a hot oven.

Split the cakes and spread with butter or margarine. Add crushed berries just before serving. Top with the whipped cream.

CARROTS GOOD ROASTED

Any housewife knows that complete oven-dinners are economical. If a roast of beef is scheduled for this Sunday's dinner why not roast potatoes and whole carrots with the meat.
Both vegetables are tastier this way and the gravy has a better flavor. Put in the potatoes and carrots when the meat is about half done.

Beefsteak Pie? Just the thing to tempt male appetites. Ingredients: plain pastry; 1½ pounds of beef (round or chuck steak); 4 tablespoons drippings; 2 teaspoons salt; ¼ teaspoon pepper; 2 cups sliced onions; 3 cups hot water; 4 tablespoons bread flour; 6 tablespoons cold water; 1 tablespoon thick condiment sauce.

Prepare pastry, roll out top crust and chill. Cut beef into two-inch pieces. Brown in hot drippings in deep frying-pan.
Add salt, pepper, sliced onions and hot water. Cover and simmer for two hours. Remove meat to baking dish. Thicken gravy with flour mixed with cold water.
(There should be about two cups gravy.) Add condiment sauce or other seasonings to taste.

Pour gravy over meat in baking-dish and let mixture cool.
When meat and gravy are thoroughly cooled cover with top crust. Place pie on lowest rack in oven preheated to 450 degrees Fahrenheit. Bake for 10 minutes then reduce oven temperature to 350 degrees Fahrenheit. Bake 35 minutes longer. Yield: six servings.

EATING HABITS

Federal health department officials say eggs, whole-grain cereals, cheese and fish all are good substitutes for meat—and most of them are less expensive.

The health experts also say that well-prepared food is necessary for appetite appeal.
"Quick cooking with the minimum of water keeps leafy vegetables at their best," they say.
"The water in which vegetables are boiled should be used to enrich gravies and soups."

SCOTS IN DETROIT—Members of the Essex Scottish Regiment of Windsor, Ont., made their annual march to services in St. Paul's Episcopal Cathedral in Detroit Sunday, May 20. The pilgrimage has been held for the last 26 years on or near Empire Day. Taking part in the parade and service were, left to right: Rt. Rev. Richard S. M. Emrich, bishop of Michigan; Governor Mennen Williams of Michigan, who took the salute at the march past; Lt.-Col. Walter L. McGregor, commanding officer of the Essex Scottish; and Rt. Rev. W. L. Wright, bishop of Algoma. (CP PHOTO)

Tomato Cheese Salad

THE star feature at many a summer meal is a salad. One that's well worth starring is a sparkling rosy red salad made with tomato soup.

With the condensed soup as a base, this gelatin salad is a joy for sheer easiness. Creamy cottage cheese is polka dotted through the salad, adding flavor punch and making it pretty as can be.

For party meals or family affairs, you can count on Tomato Cheese Salad to please appetites all around. Serve your luncheon club a salad-sandwich plate—with dainty sandwiches like the rolled watercress favorites. Give the salad to the family with he-man sandwiches for a jiffy summer lunch.

TOMATO CHEESE SALAD
1 envelope unflavored gelatin
1 cup cold water
1 can (1 1/4 cups) condensed tomato soup
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 tablespoon finely chopped onion
1 cup (1/2 pint) cottage cheese

Soften the gelatin in the cold water. Heat the tomato soup in a saucepan; then add the gelatin, stirring until it is completely dissolved in the soup. Mix in the lemon juice. Cool the soup until it begins to thicken; then stir in the chopped onion and chunks of cottage cheese. Pour mixture into 4 individual or 1 medium-size mold. Chill until firm. Unmold on crisp greens. Makes 4 servings.

SOUP SCOOPS
CONSUMME COOLER: Pep up appetites on a warm evening by starting dinner with bowls of cold jellied consommé. To tell this clear broth, simply place the cans near the freezing compartment in the refrigerator. Let consommé chill at least 4 hours to be sure it jells. Scoop into bowls and serve with lemon slices.

PORK AND BEANS PICNIC STYLE: Always a summer menu hit, pork and beans are successful just as is or with some special garnish. Give them a new flair this way. Pour the beans from the can into a casserole; top them with some onion rings and frankfurters arranged like spokes of a wheel. Heat in a moderate oven. To carry casserole to picnic, wrap it in several layers of newspaper. Then it will stay hot.

FRENCH ELECTIONS

ted youthful morals and gnawed at the Frenchman's pride in his own nationality. He no longer is confident of his destiny and lacks the sense of solidarity that, say, a Canadian would feel.

In post-war France, a series of scandals involving a faint aroma of corruption in high places has further undermined public confidence. The national mood is reflected in the slogan "Systems D," which derives from the verb se débrouiller and freely translated means the person using it will get by—by hook or by crook.

In a country of natural abundance—France grows more than 80 per cent of her food compared with roughly half that percentage in Britain—the artisan class often gets a raw deal. The patron, or boss, pays about one-fifth the wage offered by his Canadian counterpart and tends to be a good deal more scrupulous about class distinctions.

Cheap rents and a health service which refunds 80 per cent of the patient's fees do not entirely compensate for the phenomenal increase in the cost of living. Neither do the fairly generous baby bonuses.

Employees such as lower-grade civil servants grouse that they pay income tax in direct deductions, while no such way has been found of soaking two big groups—the traditionally close-knit peasant farmer and the business man who says he made no profits, even in a boom year.

Georges X, a mildly Communist young woodworker who lives with his wife and three children in two rooms in the Paris suburb of Ashieres, listed some food prices for me. He said his wife Gilberte now pays up to 800 francs for a kilo of butter compared with 30 to 40 francs before the war. The present price works out to about $1 Canadian for a pound of butter, but comparisons with pre-war are difficult because the franc has been devalued several times since 1939.

Gilberte pays 700 francs for a chicken which cost 35 francs before the war. Georges and Gilberte can't afford to have dinner on the Champs Elysees, where it is hard to get a meal for less than the equivalent of $3. Georges is already looking for Sunday work to prepare for a fourth child, expected soon.

So the elector has other things to think about besides politics. In a pre-election tour of France I found surprisingly little talk about the June 17 vote. But the professor of a small school for boys warned me that didn't necessarily mean there would be a high degree of abstention. He said the French have a certain reserve about making their opinions known in advance, but that they are too civilized to stay away from the polls, however apathetic they may feel.

GM Head is Highest Paid

WASHINGTON (AP)—No. 1 on the United States pay parade for 1950: Charles E. Wilson of General Motors.

The $626,300 that GM paid its president easily landed him the top spot among business executives whose corporations must file reports with the Securities and Exchange Commission.

A survey of SEC records completed Saturday showed Wilson outdistanced his nearest competitor by $84,875. Albert Bradley, GM executive vice-president, won the No. 2 spot with $541,425.

Third was Crawford H. Greenwalt, president of E. I. DuPont de Nemours & Co., another giant of American industry, with $539,550.

At 1950 rates, federal income tax ranged from about $122,000 on a net income of $200,000 to about $470,000 on a net of $626,300.

Two other GM executive vice-presidents, Marvin E. Coyle and Harlow H. Curtice, tied for fourth and fifth place in the pay parade with $525,100 each.

Sixth place went to J. C. Dellinger, a director of Anderson, Clayton Company, cotton brokers of Houston, Tex. He drew $468,271, of which only $10,000 was salary, the rest bonus. His $458,271 bonus was the largest of any executive last year.

Conference

THE first attempt of the three Western Powers to break the deadlock in the Paris Deputies Meeting to secure a meeting of the four Ministers in Washington next month has failed. It seemed a thoroughly sensible suggestion that the Ministers should take out and work on those items of the agenda which have already been agreed, without worrying about others, since there is ample agreed material for discussion over as long a period as the four Ministers are likely to be able to devote to one Conference. If those discussions proved to be fruitful, then more and more difficult subjects might have been dealt with later with more chance of success.

The Soviet Government has thrown away the opportunity. The reply of Mr. Gromyko puts everything back, in effect, as it was before the three Western notes were sent to Moscow. That is, of course, the end. The Western Powers are trying again. If the Soviet Government still adheres rigidly to its insistence—its very recent insistence—that the Atlantic Treaty is "the main cause of the worsening relations between the Soviet Union and the Three Western Powers", then the prospect of a useful meeting of the Ministers seems very small indeed.

This Russian demand affects the whole character and whole purpose of the suggested conference. The object of the Conference, as proposed by the Western Powers, was that the Ministers would not discuss and debate the causes of international tension in Europe. They would also seek to remove those causes. Their real objective would be to improve relations between themselves and the Soviet Union.

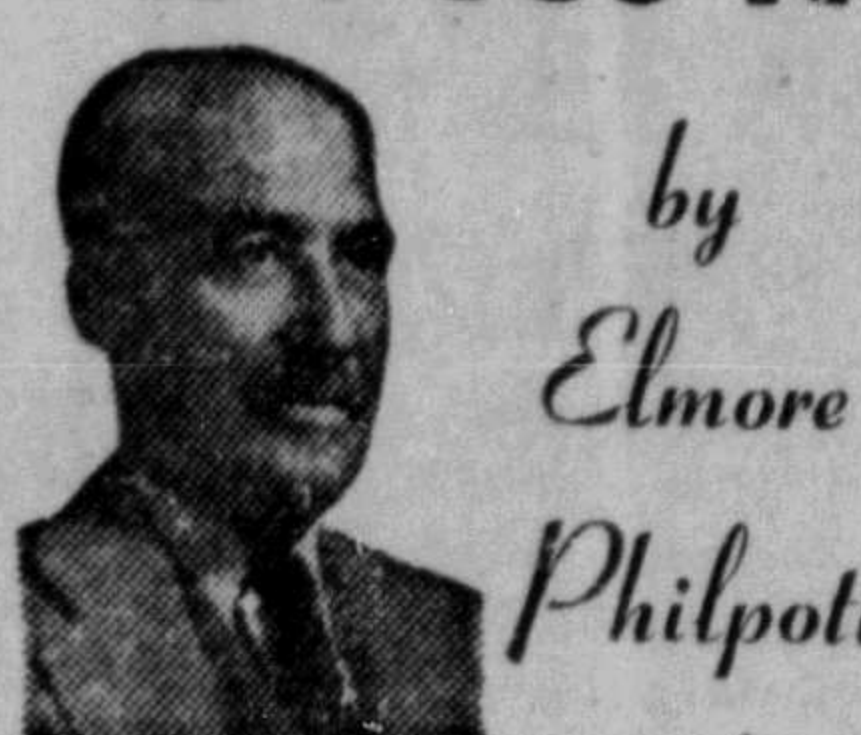

Now the Soviet Government must have realized perfectly well that no discussion of the Atlantic Treaty could produce any positive result. Why, then, the Russians so insistent on having it included in the agenda. There seems only one possible answer. They wish to talk about the Treaty not in any hope that such talk would have any consequences or that it would serve in any way to lessen the tension. They simply see in it—they can only see in it—an opportunity for angry polemics, for violent accusations against the Western Powers. Mr. Gromyko's remarks about the Treaty in the Deputies Meetings held in Paris make it only too clear that this is the real purpose.

The whole episode, seems to reopen growing impression, based again largely on Mr. Gromyko's behaviour in Paris, that the purpose of the Soviet Government is not in the least to lessen existing tension. That is not surprising, for the whole internal structure of the Soviet Empire is very largely based upon the maintenance of international tension. This is a pretext for militarism and the stern repression of every kind of opposition and of criticism both in the Soviet Union at home and in satellite states.

Therefore, the Soviet Government is not really interested in any endeavour to relax international tension. It is, at bottom, interested rather in intensifying it by finding an opportunity in a meeting of foreign ministers, of publicly attacking and denouncing the Western Powers as aggressors and warmongers.

And if that is the case, if a meeting of the Ministers is simply to provide an opportunity for Mr. Gromyko to indulge once more in polemics of this kind, then one really begins to wonder whether perhaps after all it might not do more harm than good.

As I See It

BRITAIN'S WAY OUT

LONDON, England. We were spending the evening with one of the most influential editors in London.

"Am I right," I said, "in my impression that there is less anti-American feeling in Britain than there was two years ago?"

"You are quite wrong," he answered. "There is more anti-American feeling than there has ever been."

With all due respect to my friend, who has his home-grown finger on his own people's pulse, I still think my own size-up more right than his.

THE MOOD OF THE BRITISH people, in this year of 1951, seems to me one of reluctant resignation to continuing as very much the junior partner of the American power bloc. The British heartily dislike the world situation that now exists. The steady drift toward world war three appalls them. They fear at times that if and when that war comes, it could do so as much by American blundering as by Russian aggressiveness.

BUT STILL THE BRITISH "go along" with American world policy because no one in any position of political influence can think of any practical alternative.

Here and there you get protests against certain details of the working of the American-British alliance. London papers carried a tiny front page item the other day which said that retired Commander So-and-So had been fined in court for twice "disturbing the peace" on a bus. It seems the old navy sea dog had been demanding in vociferous tones how the people liked the fact that an American admiral had been given command of the British navy in the Atlantic.

When we were in Scotland, the Established Church there came out with a pointed but oblique warning to the U.S.A. It said that it was sometimes suggested that the U.S.A. might be "driven" by the world situation to launch "preventive war" against Russia, but that such a calamity was not likely, because if the U.S. did so she would fight the war "almost alone."

THERE IS, OF COURSE, A point beyond which British will not go in joint action with the U.S.A. But on the whole the Labor Party, no less than the Conservative Party, admits the inescapable necessity of the tie-up with the United States.

Even Aneurin Bevan, who has really quit the cabinet on the reararmament issue, does not challenge its necessity. What he does say is that it will prove impossible of fulfillment without a drastic cut in the living standards of the people. He argues that such a cut will be more dangerous than the lack of the extra armaments which it is designed to provide.

ONE FEATURE OF THE AMERICAN-British alliance, which is as amusing as amazing when you first think of it, is that the Tories and the remnants of the old feudal aristocracy in England are much more complacent about their country's subordinate status to U.S.A. than are the Socialists. Sometimes in public, and very often in private, the Labor back-benchers grumble and cuss about Uncle Sam's world dominance.

But the Tories find it easier to take—indeed, some of them are frank enough to tell you that the new financial imperialism works much like the old feudal system. Little lords have their own retainers under them—but they also have big lords, or dukes, or kings or what-not over them. Little fleas had lesser fleas and so on, ad infinitum.

In other words, with the Tories power politics is an old story. For centuries their own forefathers ruled a kingdom which became an empire. In that empire, and even outside it, Britain exercised world power through a complex transmission belt system.

What Uncle Sam has done—without intention—is to get in the hub position where Britain is, in fact, as much dependent on the U.S.A. as in earlier generations other countries and colonies were dependent on Britain.

AT THE TURN OF THE CENTURY, the British Empire included almost a quarter of the world surface, almost as high a percentage of the world's population. The Royal Navy dominated all seas of the world.

We threw away our chance to transform that into the great world brotherhood it might have become.

Now, under threat first from Fascism and now from Communism, the proud British Commonwealth finds itself more or less a satellite to Uncle Sam. We have to fight the battle for responsible government all over again, and my guess is it will be tougher to win it from Wall Street than it was from Downing Street.

But I have a feeling that Britain's biggest victory is still ahead. That the mother of parliaments will not fulfill her final destiny till she leads in setting up a world parliament in which world law will replace the old "law" of tooth and claw, applied by rival nations' guns and bombs.

In other words, Britain can only save her own hide by helping to save everybody else's, too.

BIG HOTEL
OSLO (CP)—Workmen here are putting the finishing touches to the Hotel, slated to be the largest in Scandinavia. When completed, it will have 343 guest rooms with a total of 601 beds. A 12th-storey restaurant has a fine view of the Norwegian capital.

Atlantis May Not be Myth

CAPETOWN (CP)—Further research into the possible existence of a prehistoric race in Cape Province about 85,000 years ago has been made by E. J. Sawyer, Capetown archaeologist. After a five-month search in the Stormberg mountains, Mr. Sawyer has returned here with a prehistoric polishing stone, pieces of pottery, arrowheads and other implements.

The archaeologist is in constant touch with Prof. J. C. Goodfellow of Columbia University in the United States. They believe that between 5,000 and 10,000 years ago, South Africa and America were one great land mass. There is a striking similarity between relics found in the Stormberg mountains and rock drawings discovered in America.

Perhaps Atlantis was no myth after all, says Mr. Sawyer.

Old Timers Enjoy Air

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask. (CP)—Nine district old timers, their accumulated ages totalling more than 500 years, had their first airplane ride here recently at Forest festival celebrations.

"Prince Albert looks like rows of little tin cans," said one of the grey-haired women passengers after she stepped down from the Saskatchewan Government Airways plane.

Said 78-year-old Anton Reid-er: "I had no idea it would be so easy."

His wife, who at a little less than 70 was the junior of the load, said she accompanied him to keep an eye on him. The oldest group member, at 79, was Mrs. L. Butting.

Would You Pass Judgment without Knowing all the Facts?

With most people, the answer is the same. You wouldn't do anything until you knew the whole story. This is just plain common sense you say, and yet during recent months, many persons and groups have condemned Hospital Insurance without knowing all the facts.

We believe that many who protested were either misinformed or were unaware of the facts.

Because this plan is of real value, and is of vital concern to everyone, the full story of Hospital Insurance will be placed before you.

- Why was Hospital Insurance started?
- Why were the premiums increased?
- Why was co-insurance started?
- What are the facts of the hospital bed situation?
- What about private hospital insurance plans?
- What about the different hospital public ward rates?
- What is the financial story of B.C.H.I.S.?

The answer to these and other important questions are the story of your Hospital Insurance plan.

The first advertisement in this series will appear next week in your newspaper and will discuss "Why was Hospital Insurance started?"

It is important that you know the facts—it is our duty to supply them.

Be sure to read these messages. They will deal with your Hospital Insurance plan—a plan which has already paid over $40,000,000 for more than 500,000 hospital cases, and is providing benefits for thousands more each month.

EVERYBODY LIKES ICE CREAM AND IT'S EASY TO MAKE TOO

Ice cream, what wonderful food it is! Everyone likes it, the children, the parents and even the grandparents. It may be obtained at the corner store at any time of day, any day of the year or it can be made in the refrigerator at home. Home economists say that it is possibly the most versatile dessert. People used to think of ice cream as a special treat for parties but now it is known that it is nutritious food for everyday meals. In Canada, the consumption of ice cream has tripled in the past ten years. As a matter of fact, last year, on the average Canadian ate about fifteen pints each.

All ice cream sold commercially in Canada must be made according to definite standards. It must contain not less than thirteen percent by weight of milk fat, except that when fruits, nuts or confections are used in it, the content of milk fat may be less. However, it must be eleven percent by weight of milk fat. It must also contain not less than thirty-six percent by weight of food solids. Now these figures may be a little confusing but by knowing that commercial ice cream is made according to these standards, the home economists can work out how much nourishment, as well as enjoyment, one gets in a brick of ice cream or even a cone. If a pint of ice cream is divided into four, there is about the same number of calories in each serving as in a large glass of milk. Those who are counting calories should not deprive themselves of ice cream because they think it is fattening.

Ice cream the flavorful favourite, may be made in the family refrigerator without any difficulty. This is the basic recipe for making ice cream recommended by home economists:

BASIC VANILLA ICE CREAM

2 tablespoons of flour
1/2 cup sugar
A few grains of salt
1 cup milk
1 egg
1 1/2 teaspoons vanilla

Combine the flour, sugar and salt. Mix to a smooth paste with 1/4 cup of the milk. Add remaining milk. Cook in top of double boiler, stirring constantly, until thick, about ten minutes. Add a little of the hot mixture to the beaten egg and stir into the mixture in double boiler. Add vanilla. Cook 2 minutes stirring constantly. Chill. Whip cream and fold into chilled mixture. Pour into freezing tray and freeze until firm, about two hours.

From this basic recipe many interesting variations of ice cream may be prepared.

Fruit ice cream: Add to basic recipe:

- 1 cup sweetened strawberry, raspberry or crushed peach pulp and juice.
- 2 cup crushed pineapple, drained.
- 1/2 cup crushed pineapple, drained and 1/2 cup finely chopped maraschino cherries.

Butter-cream ice cream: Melt 2 tablespoons butter; add 1/4 cup brown sugar and cook 1 minute. Omit other sugar in basic recipe.

Maple Walnut ice cream: Replace the sugar in the basic recipe with 1/2 cup maple syrup and 1/2 cup chopped walnuts.

Chocolate chip ice cream: Add 1/2 cup chopped semi-sweet chocolate to basic recipe.

Chocolate ice cream: Melt 1 1/2 ounces unsweetened chocolate over hot water; add 3 tablespoons hot water and stir until smooth. Add to basic recipe.

By the way, the plentiful Canadian fruits and vegetables for June are asparagus, spinach, lettuce, green onions and strawberries. Plan to use these foods now.

Hazelton is 1st Hospital

(By W. J. RAYMOND)

In a three-room mission house at Hazelton a hospital was founded half a century ago by the late Dr. Horace C. Winch. Today, the Winch Memorial Hospital is a $200,000 establishment and the largest of its kind in the 500 miles between Prince Rupert and Prince George.

The hospital got its start when the outpost on the Skeena River had less than fifty white residents. There were, however, about 2,000 Indians.

Dr. Winch in 1899 lived in Toronto where he graduated from Trinity Medical College with gold medalist standing. He became a missionary as well as a medical doctor and, drawn by the expanding West, asked the mission board to be assigned to the village of Kispiox, 10 miles from Hazelton.

Half a century ago, that far north meant primitive conditions. The conveniences and near-miracles now accepted as a matter of course were unheard of. Transportation in 1900 was mainly by pack trains and the horse was the customary standby. Dog teams were used in winter. Sternwheelers plied the river and the canoe was often indispensable. To the young doctor and his wife, fresh from civilization in Ontario, this untamed wilderness—these far vistas of distant peaks and endless forests—seemed to serve as a challenge.

It was not long after their marriage that the Winches arrived in Port Essington, at the mouth of the Skeena, one of the most active trading communities on the North Coast.

CANOE HONEYMOON They spent the winter there and with the coming of summer journeyed by canoe up-river for nearly two hundred miles. It was here, overlooking "the meeting of the waters" where the Bulkley and Skeena rivers unite, that the couple destined to be of such worthy service in this part of the Northwest made their home.

Patients of the doctor came from far away ranches, from mines and camps, from native and white villages, from sawmills and isolated settlements—or from anywhere that illness or accident called for attention.

As the need for more hospital accommodation became evident, land clearing increased. The Federal government donated a grant of 14 acres to the hospital in gratitude whereof the Indian population presented 99 acres of supplies of fresh milk and vegetables.

TWELFTH OLDEST The hospital today is the WINTER SCENE on a sunny day in Prince Rupert. Presbyterian church, on the crown of the hill overlooking the harbor, faces Fourth Avenue, one of Prince Rupert's most popular residential streets.

twelfth oldest in the province.

Dr. Winch died in Vancouver in 1939, but his life of 40 years in northern B.C. is not left behind without its mark. From 1924 to 1933 he was a member of Legislature for Omineca, fighting always for support of the North.

Few hospitals anywhere possess an environment and setting of such sheer grandeur. The mountain of Roche de Boule towers 7,000 feet behind, its sharp peaks and cliffs and majestic crags blend into a beauty which holds one staring.

Today, the hospital has 64 beds, operating expenses being covered by the B.C. Hospital Insurance Service. Capital costs remain the responsibility of the United Church, the original sponsors. A new staff house was added a year ago. It has a modern equipped laundry, its own water and power supply. It is a modern hospital.

Mice and Not Coyotes Best

RED DEER, Alta. (CP)—Farmers east of here are wondering which is worse, coyotes or mice.

Last year the farmers declared war on the pesky, wily coyote. They vowed they'd wipe him out.

And they fairly well succeeded. Too much so, perhaps, because now they are becoming increasingly aware of a new threat—mice, millions of them.

As experienced hunters and trappers and some farmers know well, the coyote is the mouse's greatest enemy. The coyote as a mousetrap makes any cat look like an amateur.

The coyote trots with characteristic abandon across the prairie, his nose alert to the scent of mice. Then, uncannily, he smells them directly beneath his feet, just under the surface of the land.

Front feet thrust forward, the furry hunter drops on his prey. The dirt flies out behind as he digs down quickly and seizes first mouse unlucky enough to be in his way.

It is estimated that in a year the coyote destroys many times his weight in mice. And compared with mice, the coyote's damage to the farmer's livelihood is negligible.

Said one farmer: "We should pen up our hens and small stock safely, then let the coyotes run loose. It's by far the lesser of two evils."

GUIDES NEEDED

CRANBERRY PORTAGE, Man. (CP)—Former game warden of North Dakota, Walter Moore said here he had lost time on his holiday because few fishing guides were available. The visitor from Mandan, N.D., said other tourists had also complained.

CARNATION is milk made double-rich by evaporation... homogenized and heat-refined by special Carnation processes for smoother consistency, richer flavor. So creamy it is preferred by millions in coffee... and it whips beautifully when icy cold.

Little Prince Sets Fashion

LONDON (CP)—Children's wear specialists say that Prince Charles is setting a new color fashion for the children.

Princess Elizabeth does not care for the traditional blue and pink and the Prince's winter coats included bright red. When visiting Queen Mother Mary on her 84th birthday, he wore a coat of light green.

Charles' summer linen suits will include buttercup yellow, a fashionable color for adults this year and one of his mother's favorites. Manufacturers are hoping this may result in a boost to the mother-and-child vogue so popular in North America.

The two-year-old Prince, who has changed from a left to right-side hair parting, will stick to the little round white sun hats that have already been dubbed "Prince Charles hats." The first time Queen Mother Mary saw the young Prince in these linen hats she smiled and recalled having the same type made for his grandfather, the king, at a price of 6d (8 cents).

New York Author Says Five Rules Make Happy Life

By ADELAIDE KERR
NEW YORK (AP)—A lot of people aren't getting what they want out of life, and a large part of the reason is that they keep tripping themselves up.

This is what Alexander Swan says. For 16 years his patients included top-flight business men, professional persons and movie stars with four-figure weekly salaries but no happy private life. He is the author of "God On Main Street," presenting a creed for a balanced, successful and happy life.

"Most of them felt they were not getting what they wanted out of life," said Swan on a New York visit. "And much of the trouble was due to the fact they did not know exactly what they wanted, had never tried seriously to find out and rebelled constantly against what they had.
So, both by action and inaction,
they kept tripping themselves up."

"What people want out of life differs, of course. But after years of observation I have come to the conclusion that, for most people, a balanced life must contain these five things: work they like, economic stability, love, health and play."

Swan says these five can be attained fastest and easiest by doing these things:

"Don't resist anything — including what is in your life right now," he says. "This may sound like a spineless attitude. But it's far from it. It requires you to stop thinking of yourself as the most important thing on earth and recognize the fact that others are just as important."

"THINK OF OTHERS"

"Let's say it's raining. You don't like it. But several thousand farmers do. Or let's say the boss orders a piece of work done in a certain way. You think you know a better way. But it's just possible the boss might be right.
Or perhaps one of your friends told you you talk too much and you have been angry at him ever since. But maybe your friend was right."

"In all these cases, wouldn't it be smarter not to fight what's happening, but to go along with the stream? In some cases you would learn something that you needed to know. And in all cases you would be spared a fight and the situation would gradually adjust itself in a way that is satisfactory to you."

"But there is something more.
If you go along with the stream,
if you won't be whipping yourself up to the anger and tension and resentment that generally go with opposition. These emotions beat up a human body. That kind of continued battering can result in ill health, if you keep it up. Refrain from it, and you will be more relaxed, more at peace with the world. Relaxation and peace of mind are two strong cornerstones to health."

Swan considers the "resist" attitude absolutely essential to a balanced life.

"The next thing," he says, "is to look to God for everything.
There is absolutely no exception to this—no matter what the need is. All we have to do is ask, trust God implicitly, let Him open the right channel, and follow our guidance."

The captain and crew of the Alaska halibut fishing vessel Biorika, guilty of illegal fishing, were all fined in Juneau by Judge Gordon Gray. Skipper
Paul was fined $300 while each of the crew drew $150 with four months suspended sentence.

Urges Garb For Civil Servants

LONDON (CP)—Horace Ham-bling, who launched a drive last year for a ban on stage and radio jokes about civil servants, now wants all government employees to wear a uniform.

In submitting his proposal to the Civil Service Clerical Association, Hambling declared civil servants had just as good a claim to distinctive dress as soldiers, sailors and airmen.

He suggested a severely-cut navy blue uniform, similar to a bank messenger's, but with collar and tie as well as shoulder pips to denote rank. Women employees would wear a tunic and skirt with matching beret.

"A plain uniform on the military style would be best," Ham-bling said. "After all, with the complaints and criticism we get from the public we are just as much heroes as the armed forces. But we don't want a ruritanian outfit of red and gold with tassels on it."

Hambling hopes to have greater success with his latest proposal. Last year the Clerical Association refused to have anything to do with the campaign to make the civil service joke-proof.

PROCEDURE REVERSED—Usually it is the Governor-General who awards the medals at Ottawa investitures. This time the procedure was reversed as Defence Minister Claxton, right, presented the Canadian Forces Decoration to Field Marshal Viscount Alexander, commander-in-chief of Canada's armed services. The award was made because of his association with Canadians under his command during the Second World War. Similar decorations were given him for presentation to members of the Royal Family. The medal is awarded for good conduct and long service to all those serving 12 years in Canada's reserve or active forces. (CP from National Defence)

Ailing Indian Boy is Cheered

EDMONTON (CP)—Eleven-year-old Danny Gladeau of Grande Prairie, Alta., had to travel to Montreal and become seriously ill before he saw a Royal Canadian Mounted Police constable in full-dress uniform. Danny had seen lots of RCMP constables in workaday dress on his Indian father's trap-lines before that.

The boy, deaf son of John Gladeau, was sent to the MacKay School for the deaf in Montreal three years ago by the Alberta education department. Last winter it was discovered he had a tumor behind one eye which forced removal of the diseased organ to give him partial sight.

While seriously ill the boy made his one request, to see a mountie in scarlet trappings. Constable James Archer, who instructs the MacKay School students in Boy Scout and Wolf Cub work, was only too pleased to comply, tunic and all.

Danny rides a horse almost as well as a bicycle. He's expert with an axe and saw and worked all last summer peeling pulp logs. Sometimes he even takes a rowboat alone into the north channel.

White residents of the area believe his uncanny ability to get around is based on a hereditary sixth sense, but Danny says it's all due to an ability to follow a straight line without diversion. That, and knowing which direction to take from any given starting point.

He attributes his expertness on the bicycle to his sense of hearing and his touch on the handlebars. The tires of the bike make one sound on the gravelled section of a gravel road and another among the stones and pebbles on the edge. Danny avoids paved roads if possible because the sound is the same at all sections of the road.

Danny attended the Brantford School for the Blind for eight years. He reads braille proficiently and is a good musician, playing the piano, violin and guitar. He's an expert dancer and attends all the local get-togethers.

"He just comes and goes like an ordinary person," says his mother. "I don't worry about him. Why, when he was a little boy, I spent half my time looking for him. He was always running away from home."

PROUD COUPLE

VULCAN, Alta. (CP)—A purse from the community, gold watches from the family, messages from the King and Queen and many others were received by Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Williams, marking their 60th wedding anniversary at Lomond. The occasion was also Mr. Williams' 80th birthday.

New Brigade Gets Kilts

OTTAWA—Hoot mon, there'll be kilts in bonnie stunning variety when the 27th Brigade's 1st Canadian Highland Battalion gets going.

The army said today every man in the unit—about 900—will be outfitted with a kilt and the trimmings. There'll be five different kilts and plaids because five regiments are represented in the battalion.

An army spokesman said he thinks everything now is set to get the kilts produced in the United Kingdom. For a time it looked as though the tartan-cloth—would not be available because it was being gobbled up by Americans for dinner jackets.

The battalion is one of three infantry outfits being formed for the 27th Brigade, earmarked primarily for service with Gen. Eisenhower's integrated army in Europe.

The army didn't say when the kilts will be issued other than that "the day is not far distant." They will be worn only for parades and walking-out.

In the first war, highlanders fought in the trenches in kilts and won the title "ladies from hell" from the Germans. In the last war, kilts were not worn in battle.

Each man of the battalion, commanded by Lt.-Col. Richard L. Rutherford, O.B.E., of Vancouver and Kingston, Ont., "will be uniformed according to the traditions of his parent unit."

The five companies of the unit represent Montreal's Black Watch (Royal Highland Regiment) of Canada; the North Nova Scotia Highlanders, Amherst, N.S.; the 48th Highlanders of Canada, Toronto; Seaford Highlanders of Canada, Vancouver, and the Canadian Scottish Regiment (Princess Mary's) of Victoria.

It is planned that each man will be issued with kilts in tartan colors of parent units, leather pouches or sporrans according to unit custom, hose tops and colored garter flashes, highland style doublets of tropical cloth for summer wear and distinctive headdress. These items will be worn with Standard battledress jacket, boots and puttees. In summer the kilt will be worn with the tropical cloth doublet.

The tartans of the parent units are: Black Watch, 42nd Regiment Black Watch (Pipers—Royal Stuart); North Nova Scotia Highlanders, Murray of Atholl; 48th Highlanders, Davidson; Seaford Highlanders, MacKenzie; Canadian Scottish, Hunting Stuart.
