

Assassination May Complicate Things

King Abdullah of Jordan is Killed

LONDON (CP)—The Foreign Office said today King Abdullah of Jordan was assassinated. "We are not giving out any details," a spokesman said. "We have received the news with profound regret."

It was reported that Abdullah, 69 years of age, was shot as he was entering a mosque at Amman for prayers. His second son, Prince Waif, has been appointed regent.

The assassin was identified as Mustapha Shakir, a notorious terrorist, who was friendly with the Grand Mufti. Shakir, himself, was shot dead by the royal bodyguard after the shooting.

Martial law was declared after the shooting.

The killing of Abdullah promises new difficulties in the Middle East for Britain, already harried by the oil crisis.

The British put Abdullah on the throne after the Second World War and supplied funds for his government and the strong Arab Legion.

Abdullah was born in Mecca and claimed direct descent from Mohammed. Used to strife, he always wore a dagger at the waist of his flowing white robes.

While no direct motive is yet ascribed to the killing, it is noted that Abdullah was a staunch friend of Britain. He worked for United Arab control and at the same time for peace with Israel.

Abdullah was a strict Moslem and he never smoked or drank.

White Sox Near Top

NEW YORK (CP)—Chicago's White Sox climbed to three percentage points in the league-leading Boston Red Sox Thursday by nipping the New York Yankees 2 to 1.

The White Sox, still finding the road mighty rocky, lost to Cleveland 5 to 4 in the 11th inning when the Tribe's second baseman, Bobby Avilla, scored from first base on Sam Chapman's single.

In the other other daylight game, Philadelphia Athletics and Detroit Tigers split a doubleheader, winning the first 5 to 4 while the Tigers took the second 4 to 3.

The entire National League schedule for the day was washed out.

Halibut Fishing Resumes Next Week in Newly Opened Areas

While the International Fisheries Commission is back to see "what happens" in a novel experiment with halibut seasons, most Prince Rupert halibutermen—and many American—will be heading for all fishing areas by Tuesday morning.

Vessel-clearing for the new areas, termed 2B and 2C, begins midnight July 23. The season opens Thursday, July 26.

Area 2B is off the east coast of Moresby Island in southern Hecate Straits. Area 2C lies off the west coast of Dall and other islands between Cape Addington and Dixon Entrance.

Because of indications in the past that some halibut runs have not been touched during the main season in June, the commission has authorized a 10-day open season in the two small areas and no quota has been set.

"Get as much as you can in the time you have," says the commission, which regards the short season only as an experiment, results of which will be known later this year. Estimates of the mid-summer take run from six to 10 million pounds.

Pastor Brother Local Man, Dies

Rev. Hiram Hull, D.D., long prominent United Church minister of Hamilton, Ontario, and brother of Garnet Hull of Prince Rupert, passed away suddenly yesterday in the Eastern city, according to word received by the local brother.

Dr. Hull was 80 years of age but, despite advancing years and retirement, kept active as assistant pastor of First United Church in Hamilton. For many years he had been first pastor of that church.

Dr. Hull was born in Ontario but came west when his family homesteaded in the Souris district of Manitoba. He went to Western College in Winnipeg and preached in his native province before moving to Ontario.

His aged widow survives as well as a daughter, Mrs. Neff of Hamilton, and two sisters, Mrs. Thomas Masson of Vancouver and Mrs. A. E. Lewis, Victoria, in addition to the brother here.

Contribution Of Germany

LONDON (CP)—The United States has proposed that Great Britain and France meet in Washington to discuss the problem of Germany's contribution to Atlantic defence.

A spokesman said that Britain was still considering the proposal which is, apparently, aimed at speeding up long-drawn out discussions about west German contribution to Atlantic Pact forces.

"Get as much as you can in the time you have," says the commission, which regards the short season only as an experiment, results of which will be known later this year. Estimates of the mid-summer take run from six to 10 million pounds.

Joint Development of Alaska And West Canada Proposed

WASHINGTON, D.C. (CP)—Secretary of the interior Oscar Chapman called today for joint development of the Far North by the United States and Canada.

He said Alaska alone, given a boost by the United States government, has a multi-million-dollar future and could produce fifty million kilowatt hours of hydro-electric energy annually.

Thinly-settled northwestern Canada, properly developed, could support a population of six millions. "Like Alaska, it, too, is rich in natural wealth. Moreover, this Canadian region would provide a nearby market for Alaska products."

Japanese Peace Pact

Conference Called For Sept. 4 in San Francisco

WASHINGTON, D.C.—United States and Britain are due to issue invitations today to forty-nine countries, including Russia, to attend a Japanese peace treaty conference at San Francisco on September 4.

Completed draft of the treaty was circulated two weeks ago to all countries at war with Japan and they were asked to get in their comments or suggestions for changes by tomorrow.

In Ottawa it was anticipated that External Affairs Minister L. B. Pearson will represent Canada at the signing of the Japanese peace treaty in San Francisco. Canada is largely in accord with the terms proposed by the United States.

The Lieutenant Governor

IT IS a pleasure to welcome His Honor, Col. the Honorable Clarence Wallace, C.B.E., Lieutenant Governor of British Columbia, who is coming to-morrow aboard HMCS Ontario for an official visit to Prince Rupert. It is some years since a Lieutenant Governor has been in Prince Rupert. We are glad that Mr. Wallace has not waited long following his appointment to come here.

It is of particular interest to have Mr. Wallace here. He may have been in the city since but we last remember him as a young man just after World War I when he came here to work at the dry dock at which his father, the late Andrew Wallace, was building ships. Unfortunately, he will not find the old dry dock a very busy place after having had its ups and downs these many years but he will notice many changes and improvements in this bustling city with its new industrial developments.

Apart from the personal interest, Prince Rupert people will be glad to greet and honor the presence of the Lieutenant Governor for the symbolism which the office implies—the connection with the British crown for which we all retain affection and sentimental fealty in spite of our complete autonomy therefrom. The existence of the office is one of those abstract ties that bind us together in our democracy and our idealistic principles.

We are not forced to have our Lieutenant Governor and it is for that very reason that we retain him and like to have him and are sincere in welcoming him when he comes to see us.

Reflects and Reminiscences

That rainmaker down the coast may be all he claims to be but Victoria and Vancouver can be excused if they show signs of patience. Forty days is quite a spell.

THIS IS DIFFERENT

Spain and the United States are being featured in the newspapers just now. Last time, it was 53 years ago and then there was a war on. Today, there's merely a bit of mild mannered diplomacy.

FREQUENTLY FELT

This is the more or less melancholy season when vacationists are thinking of returning home. Travelling is believed to have a broadening effect. It has also been heard said that it has a tendency to flatten pocket-books.

An Alabama woman, Mrs. Craig, preferred her faith in the Good Book to avoiding a five foot rattlesnake. It bit her four times. Mrs. Craig belonged to a cult called the Holy Sect, and about forty members worked overtime in supplication. Well, there always comes a time—or should—when fanaticism stops and common sense starts.

PERHAPS NOT

Colonel G. H. Ellis, assistant director of the government tourist bureau, says that so far expenditure of money from across the line is less. Wonder if Ottawa has ever heard of that grand new liquor vendor's store at Prince Rupert.

A recession is a period in which you tighten up your belt. In a depression you have no belt to tighten. And when you have no pants to hold up—it's a panic.

FORTY YEARS YOUNG

Anyone today, is rated too old to hold a job, should be forty years of age. Joe Walcott is thirty-seven. The other night he knocked out Ezzard Charles, winner of 24 straight fights himself. Walcott, sweating and smiling as he stood off congratulations, said he felt like sixteen.

LETTERBOX

Editor, Daily News

I was interested to read in last night's "Daily News" an article headed "Football Makeup" in which it was alleged that the General Motors Football Club had failed to field a team for Wednesday night's scheduled game and would therefore, be disbanded.

As one who plays the occasional game for the General Motors Club it seems to me that the article smells strongly of wishful thinking and contains more smoke than fire.

I have failed to see much logic in some things which the Prince Rupert Football Association does, and why it expects a General Motors team to turn out to play in a game which the Association advertised on Wednesday's front page as a Legion-Battery contest is the best example yet.

Further, the General Motors Club is quite capable of speaking for itself and any club announcements will be issued by the club president, captain or secretary.

Home-made Coffee

THANKS to all the folks who sent me letters about how to make home-made coffee substitutes.

One friendly family even invited me around for a demonstration, not only of how to make it, but to taste it.

I found there are many variations. Most of the ex-prairie people use either wheat or barley, plus some molasses. Mrs. Graybill says that, as a Scandinavian loves coffee and here is how her dear old mother used to make a fine substitute:

"Take two pounds good hard Canadian wheat (cleaned). Grind in old coffee mill, set to 'medium grind'. Put the ground wheat in open flat bread pan and toast till brown. Stir around occasionally to avoid burning.

"Take this out of the oven and add three teaspoonfuls of molasses. Put in oven again. Empty on waxed paper for a couple of hours, till quite dry.

Add a teaspoon or more of this to boiling water—boil for five minutes."

HUD. GRAY gives a variation of the above. He roasts the wheat kernels before adding the molasses, and then grinds. He says "taste different from real coffee but really is good."

Mrs. Elizabeth Jones says she used Marquis wheat when it sold for 70 cents a bushel.

"Boil good hard wheat, covered in skim milk, until soft. Drain dry. To every one pound add two tablespoon cooking molasses. Spread flat on tin, and roast in oven till dark brown. Mix three-quarter pound of the roasted wheat with one-quarter pound coffee, and you can't tell the difference from good coffee."

I DID NOT know that, while I was in India, Andy Ritchie, a lighthouse keeper at East Point, Saturna Island, B.C., had told the world his secret of making coffee substitute from carrots.

"Simply take one or two carrots and shred them on a cookie tray. Place tray in the oven and dry and roast till the carrot shreds are golden to dark brown. Loosen and turn the shredded carrot as it nears the brown stage. It will finish up part golden brown, mostly dark brown, and some nearly black. Do not crush it fine or it will pass through the percolator."

THANKS TO THE J. H. Richardsons, I have actually tried a sample of this home-made coffee substitute, made from carrots. I tried it on the whole coffee drinking half of our family and they were surprised to find it excellent.

ONE LADY WRITES she trusts this will be one way to help the budget. "For, God help us, we won't be able to make the budget balance much longer. But we always have Adam's ale if we get broke."

ANOTHER LADY HAD written a grievous letter to the paper because she thinks my recent report on the improved food situation in Britain may discourage Canadians from sending parcels to friends there.

Do not get me wrong. They DO need the parcels in Britain. But they do NOT need many of the things that people have been sending them from here.

Moreover, if prices keep skyrocketing the way they have been here, the great mass of the people of Britain will soon be much better off than we are. For their tight system of price control, with rationed distribution, prevents the very thing that is happening here.

In Canada the average family just can't live on the average wage, which is still less than $50 per week. In Britain a family can get along quite nicely on $50 or less.

Harriman Threatened

TEHRAN—Iranian police are reported to have uncovered a plot to assassinate W. Averill Harriman, President Truman's ambassador-at-large, who is here in the attempt to iron out the Iranian oil dispute between Britain and the Iranian government. Harriman's movements are now being kept secret at the request of the security police.

Our European Parliament

by Page Rideout

Canada is the only country in the Western Hemisphere, yes, we are the only nation between Cape Horn and the North Pole that has that old European Parliament that was created in the dark ages when people lost faith in their king, and refused to trust their government. Thus they established what is now known as His Majesty's Loyal Opposition, which operates on much the same principle as one engaging John Doe to do a job of work, and at the same time sends Joe Doe to watch and bother John while he is trying to do his job. Here John represents the Government, while Joe represents His Majesty's Loyal Opposition, which together make up our European Parliament of today.

While we sometimes refer to elections being carried on more by the six-shooter than by ballots below the Rio Grande, yet I am very doubtful if old Mexico in her most primitive stage could have staged a more uncivilized episode than was performed in our Parliament on June 27, 28 and 29.

It would appear that when Mr. Howe entered the Government he disposed of his entire stock and interest in the C. D. Howe Company Ltd., just as the late R. B. Bennett disposed of his stock and interest in the Eddy Match Company when he became the Conservative leader, but Mr. Howe allowed the firm to retain its former name, C. D. Howe & Company Ltd.

It appears that the Leader of the Opposition in his rounds of duties of digging up material for demerit marks to chalk up against the Government discovered that the Howe company some business, and in his charge of graft while speaking over the radio at Port Arthur he referred to the firm as Mr. Howe's family company.

When this was brought up in the House on June 27 it was claimed that there was such an uproar that the reporters could not get more than 50 per cent of what was said, but I am reproducing a few sketches of what Hansard did get.

Here may it be understood that it is our system and not party I am referring to, for if matters were reversed, that is if the Conservatives had the Government, and the Liberals had the Opposition, the same tactics would be carried on as they are carried on in all Parliaments in Europe.

SOME EXAMPLES

So here are a few sketches taken from Hansard between page 4747 and page 4882 of June 27, 28 and 29.

Mr. Drew: May I say that his statements that I charge him with taking graft from Canada is a complete and unqualified falsehood, and he knows it.

Mr. Howe: On a question of personal privilege—

Mr. Drew: I repeat the statement as I said it—

Some Honorable Member: Oh! Oh!

Mr. Drew: Then it does become—

Some Honorable Member: Oh! Oh!

Mr. Speaker: Order. I think the Leader of the Opposition should be heard.

An Honorable Member: Let him talk.

Mr. Drew: I point out that there is no such necessity because he has confirmed the fact that I stated—

Mr. McCann: You're backing up now.

Mr. Speaker: Order.

Mr. Drew: —except he now says that the cost of the Chalk River Project is $20,000,000.00.

Mr. MacIlraith: He did not

KELLOGG'S ASTHMA RELIEF

Woman Trapper Loves North

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask. (P)—A red-headed, 100-pound bundle of energy, "Curley" Hanson has been doing a man's work for years.

She travelled with a circus, trapped for 20 years, helps run a lake resort, works as a guide—and has loved it all.

Now 44, the five-foot three-inch redhead lives at Candle Lake, 60 miles north of Prince Albert, where she and her husband Conn run a trap line and lake resort.

She has been in the bush country since 1929 when she built a cabin and started trapping. For two years she was the only woman at Candle Lake.

Then she heard a rumor that the police intended to bring her out because they felt the situation was too dangerous for a lone woman.

"I'll die if I have to leave here," she told Conn Hanson, a fellow trapper. "Why don't we get married so I can stay?"

Mr. Hanson liked the idea, too, and they were married in 1929.

Conn now is 70 years old and an old-timer in the district.

"But he's plenty tough yet," his wife says.

BORN IN NOVA SCOTIA

Curley trapped for 20 years until conservation rules allowed only one member of a family to trap. However, she still travels with her husband, looks after camp and chops wood while Conn tends the trapline.

Born in Lunenburg, N.S., she was in a missionary girls school where, she says, she learned "everything but how to live."

Starting with a 10-month jaunt with a circus, she's been trying to remedy that ever since.

Though she hates dresses and wears slacks or shorts, Curley gets plenty of women's work to do. She cleans 10 cabins at the resort, and last year canned more than 500 quarts of fruit and vegetables from her garden.

And she loves Candle Lake. "It's the only place I ever want to live," she says.

"I couldn't live away from the trees and water. I'd just die if I was transplanted."

Aiyansh Band Appears Here

For the first time in many years, the Aiyansh Harmonic Silver Band will appear in public recital in Prince Rupert when they present a 12-selection concert at the Civic Centre auditorium Saturday night.

Led by Bandmaster B. A. Munro, the 45-piece band, which drew such hearty applause at the official opening ceremonies of Columbia Cellulose Company last month, arrives Saturday afternoon from the northernmost organized native settlement in the province on the banks of the Naas River.

Selections on the program include a number of marches and such classics as "The Sky Pilot" overture, "The Golden Dragon" and selections from Von Flotow's opera.

Featured soloists will be Ernest Morven, cornet; Gregory Rush, clarinet, and Felix Davis, xylophone.

The band will also attend the ceremonies when Lt.-Governor Clarence Wallace meets some 40 Indian chiefs and dignitaries on Miller Bay Hospital grounds Sunday afternoon.

Miss McLeod Is President

Miss Margaret McLeod heads a new slate of officers for the Canadian National Institute of the Blind branch in Prince Rupert. Others elected at last night's meeting were:

Vice-chairman—St. John Mad-eley.

Treasurer—Edward Boulter
Secretary—Miss Audrey Wrath-anil.

The meeting decided the annual campaign for funds from September 15 to October 15 again would be supported by the branch and it was proposed a tag day be held October 13. No house to house canvass would be made, but appeal letters to business firms would carry the burden of the campaign.

Last year's report showed $1,927 had been collected in the month's drive, which featured a concert by Rotarians. A concert in aid of the campaign again is planned for this fall.

Retiring chairman D. C. Stevenson wished the new executive every measure of success.

Baby Steals Fashion Show

By GLADYS LENNON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The fashion-show model appeared in his mother's arms and practically stole the show. But there were approving nods too for his white broadcloth and cotton plaid "demi-suit" with its spirited plaid peeking-horse applique.

It was one of the latest bo-peep fashions for the carriage set, in which designer Hulda Schorr aimed at practicality and comfort combined with smart appearance.

The "demi-suit" and sister's "demi-dress" are two-piece affairs consisting of short, loose-hanging top and plastic-lined slipper-cover-up and bib to match. They are made alike except that sister's top is gathered in a yoke while inverted pleats provide brother with room for movement.

Of interest to mother: The materials are sturdy, color-fast and machine-washable.

For toddlers of one to three years Mrs. Schorr—whose grandchildren are helping to keep her interested in practical angles—has designed a self-help coverall to aid in teaching the children to care for themselves. The drop-seat of the overall-like garment has a belt which fastens in front with two buttons, large enough to be manageable for small fingers. One style is in navy broadcloth with bright red rickrack points edging collar and cuffs; red cross-stitching forms the words "Good Boy" or "Good Girl" across the front.

Colorfully embroidered cobbler aprons in denim are among the protective garments Mrs. Schorr features for the small fry. Three big pockets provide space for carrying childhood treasures. Worn with matching slacks, they make sturdy play outfits.

Then there are attractive smocks to wear over school dresses, also obtainable with matching slacks. One of these, in royal blue, has a big red apple forming its pocket.

For the active three-to-six-year-old, the "petti-dress" is a blouse-and-jumper outfit designed to hold together at the waist. The blouse is joined to a ruffled petticoat which, of course, shows just below the skirt of the jumper.

Whole West Is Booming

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Mills
Home After Two Months' Motor Tour

Booming business, overcrowding in the city, shortage of labor—it's the same story all through Western Canada and the United States as it is in British Columbia and Prince Rupert, says C. C. Mills, Prince Rupert business man, who returned to the city last night after a two months' motor trip through the United States as far east as Ontario.

Mills returned with him as did his sister, Mrs. Ed. Noble of Evergreen, Denver, Colorado, suburb, who is here for a visit.

The Mills went from here to Oshawa, Ontario, where they picked up a new car and started out on the long drive homeward. A couple of days at Niagara were followed by a stop at Chicago where they saw Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Stork. Two weeks were spent at Denver with stays at Salt Lake City, Yellowstone Park, Spokane and Seattle following. From Port Angeles they crossed to Victoria, where they visited Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Orme, and up Vancouver Island to Nanaimo where W. M. Watts was found getting Watts & Nickerson's fine new store ready for opening.

After two weeks in Vancouver they visited in the Okanagan, seeing Dr. and Mrs. John Gibson at Fenterton and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Garrett in Vernon.

Hornsby Eyed As Browns Pilot

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Rogers Hornsby, one of baseball's all-time greats, is among those under consideration for manager of the St. Louis Browns.

But Bill Veck, the new owner of the Browns, says Hornsby, now managing Seattle of the Pacific Coast league, isn't at the top of the list.

"He's one of the best in the country," Veck told a luncheon group yesterday.

Later Veck said he hasn't contacted the Seattle club for permission to talk to Hornsby, and added:

"I haven't made up my mind as to whether Hornsby is the man we want. He is only one of many we have in mind."

Efficiency in Housekeeping

By DOROTHY ROE
(Associated Press Women's Editor)

NEW YORK (AP)—Some women use as much energy making a bed as a male efficiency expert would use in a day's factory work.

Cleaning up the living room after last night's bridge session can be more difficult than digging a ditch all day, if a woman puts her mind to being inefficient about it.

Just doing the regular housework despite push-button appliances, can leave an average putterer in an exhausted state.

All this is pointed out by home appliance experts, usually male, who claim most women walk uselessly miles around the house every day.

Take making a bed. The usual procedure is for a woman to pull the sheets and blankets off the bed, walk across the room and pile them in a chair. Then she takes the bottom sheet, walks back, tucks it in on one side, walks around the bed to tuck it in on the other side, and repeats this process with top sheet, blanket, quilt and spread.

An efficiency expert, however, would stand on one side of the bed to brighten and tuck in sheets, blankets and spread before walking around the bed to repeat the process on the other side. The saving in energy: about 200 steps.

Then there's dishwashing. Many women, say the efficiency boys, start washing without assembling the dishes. Then they make endless trips between table sink and cupboards washing and putting away one or two dishes at a time.

The way to do it, they point out, is stack and assemble everything in classified order at a table or counter next to the sink. Next wash, rinse and place in the drainer in order. Modern detergents leave dishes clean without drying, so by the time the last pot is washed, most of the dishes already are dry and can be stacked and put away.

Vacuuming one entire corner of the room—floor, walls, draperies and upholstery—before moving to a new location takes about half as much time and one-tenth the steps as doing each job separately.

SMALL TALK

Washington is but a council

JUST POLITICS
On January 30 our Parliament met for the dispatch of business and adjourned on June 30. They sat in session 104 days. Any person who has allowed himself to become a bit of a student of Hansard will agree with me when I claim that at least a large percent of the discussion that was carried on during those six months was political campaign material.

It appears that one pastime is to develop an argument into a want of confidence motion,
and when the argument wind
has been spent the division bells are rung and the House divides on the motion. Then some Honorable Member in his address has used a word that some Honorable Member from the other side of the House claims is unparliamentary and demands a withdrawal of the word, thus a discussion, and again the division bells ring, and very often the Speaker is obliged to remind the Member that he is not speaking to the subject that is before the House. The Member attempts to prove that he is discussing the subject when the Speaker rules that the Member is out of order, and the Member appeals the Speaker's ruling. Thus further arguments, and again the division bells

ring.

Here it might be remembered that while we are staging
this Responsible Government Exhibition in our European Parliament, we are holding on to the large half of North America with some 14 millions of people, while other people of Old Mother Nature's Human Family are fighting for a breathing space and crust of bread.

Now let us turn our attention to the Mother of Parliaments at Westminster. It is now common knowledge that Winston Churchill has for years exercised great political force on Premier Attlee than he used military force on Adolf Hitler in his drive to defeat the Government and force an election. Mr.
Churchill has staged over a hundred want of confidence votes since the last election, and in each of those votes Mr. Attlee was obliged to round up his 11
and crippled supporters and get them in the House on crutches

and wheelchairs.

Now let us go to France where it has been a horse race with the change of Government and the change of moon for the past years, and while they held a national election last month yet they are obliged to continue the horse race.

And little Ireland, who is trying to get a start in life with her Parliament and responsible Government, but their late election resulted in a stalemate and they may be forced into another election any time.

In conclusion may I refer to a paragraph from a former letter:

"In the Congress of the United States there is no such a thing as Opposing Parties lined up on either side of the Speaker. There is no such a thing as changing Government with the change of the moon that is done in France.
There is no such a thing as forcing an election as Mr.
Churchill is now doing. There is not such a thing as a want of confidence vote such as our Government at Ottawa is constantly bucking. There is no such a thing as springing a surprise election by the party in power. There is no such a thing as a Government and His Majesty's Loyal Opposition, as the whole house in the Government,
as is the case in the council
chambers of all large cities, but there is no election until election day and year comes around."

But Mr. Masters was wide
awake as usual and he overtook
his partner's six of hearts with
the nine and shot back the nine of clubs. Mr. Champion ducked, as did Mr. Dale. Another club followed and Mr. Dale took two more tricks in the suit.

He returned a spade and Mr.
Champion won with the ace and led the seven of hearts, this time finessing dummy's queen, which held. When the lead of the ace of hearts broke the suit,
Mr. Champion was home free, winning four heart tricks, three spades, a diamond and a club.
Note that if he had finessed the queen of hearts on the first lead of the suit, he would have won two heart tricks instead of four.

Mr. New, the exuberant kilt-er, hates to see his hero, Mr.
Masters, get beat. "That was without exception, the luckiest
hand I ever saw," he remarked.

Entertain With A Shore Dinner

IF YOU can't go to the ocean,
bring it your way with seafood dishes that are real "catches" for a buffet supper party in the good old summertime.
Flaked fish or crab is the star in many a choice creamed-style casserole—ideal for buffet entertaining. And these dishes are so easy to whip up when you use condensed soup for the cream sauce. Right along this line is DEVILED SEA-FOOD, made with condensed cream of celery soup. You'll be pleased as punch at its goodness and convenience. You can use either flaked fish or crab for it, whichever fits your purse best.
For a party serve the seafood in baking shells or individual casseroles. Also have a crisp tomato lettuce salad, potato chips, and hot rolls. Decorate the buffet with sea-shells and a net. This will be one party you're sure to enjoy with fine food that takes little time from your hostess duties.

Deviled Seafood
1 can (1 1/4 cups) condensed cream of celery soup
1 can (6 1/2 ounces) crab meat or 1 cup of flaked fish
2 tablespoons chopped green pepper
2 teaspoons chopped onion
2 teaspoons lemon juice
1/2 teaspoon prepared mustard
2 tablespoons buttered crumbs
Stir together the celery soup,
flaked crab meat or fish, chopped

green pepper and onion, lemon juice and mustard. Put mixture into one large or six small casseroles (baking shells are good for this).
Sprinkle with buttered bread crumbs. Bake in a moderate oven (350° F.) until well heated and crumbs are lightly browned. Makes 6 servings.

SOUP SCOOPS
SHORTCUT SALAD DRESSING:
Here's a tangy Russian dressing that you can whip together with just a simple two-step around your kitchen. Mix equal parts of choice tomato ketchup and mayonnaise or salad dressing. It's grand on crisp vegetable combinations.
Sprinkle in a little chopped parsley
or green pepper when the dressing is to go over plate lettuce or other greens.

CHEESE ROLLS WITH SOUP:
Many a summer day, your appetite says "just soup please." If it's to be a meat meal, simply take down one of your favorites among the condensed soups—and serve it with something special like cheese rolls.
For these, scoop out the insides of long hard rolls and fill the centers with a softened cheese spread—perhaps pimiento or chive cheese.
Chill in the refrigerator several hours. Then slice to serve for pleasant crunching with the hot soup.

Mr. Champion is not one to give up on a hand or to overlook any opportunity for making it. When the defenders' ears have to be placed a certain way for him to make his contract, he will play as if they are that way.

On this hand Mr. Abel opened the trey of clubs. Mr. Masters played the king and Mr. Champion won with the ace.
He was somewhat disappointed with the dummy hand. The heart suit offered the only opportunity of developing tricks and unfortunately the only entry to the board was in the heart suit itself.

Mr. Champion was frank with himself. Things didn't look too good. However, he figured he could make the hand if the outstanding hearts were divided 3-3 and if the king of hearts were in Mr. Dale's hand.

At the second trick, then, he led the trey of hearts and played the deuce from the dummy after Mr. Dale followed with the six spot. This was an effort to have Mr. Dale retain the lead, thus eliminating temporarily the hazard of a lead through the jack of clubs in the closed hand. Even more important, it laid the ground-work for running the rest of the heart suit
later.

But Mr. Masters was wide
awake as usual and he overtook
his partner's six of hearts with

Defending Of Alaska

SEATTLE (AP)—A banker predicted recently the government will not curtail its vast defence building program in Alaska regardless of how peace negotiations come out in Korea.

Walter E. Mitchell, head of the National Bank of Commerce Alaska department, made the statement on his return from a two and one-half month tour of the Territory. More than 500 million dollars are being spent on the defence expansion program in Alaska.

Mitchell said he found Alaska businessmen optimistic over the future.

Hopeful on Pulp Mills

JUNEAU—The regional forester, B. Frank Heintzleman, back in Alaska from Washington, D.C., is hopeful that the long-sought for pulp industry will be heading for Alaska in the next few months.

Heintzleman was in the capital for three months, working on Alaska problems including that of obtaining a certificate of necessity for the Ketchikan Pulp & Paper company's new mill at Ketchikan. Officials of the American Viscose corporation in the Philadelphia office came to Washington while he was there to assist in the application, but did not reveal plans for actually beginning work on the Wacker project. However, the company, whether or not it is granted the certificate this month, must make a showing with the forest service by August 2 to obtain a one-year's extension of its contract for timber near Ketchikan. If it is classed as a defence plant, it would probably rush its Alaska project.

Beyond that information, the regional forester did not have any concrete news on Alaska pulp and paper proposals.

Warm Weather And Rain Needed

WINNIPEG—Scattered light to heavy showers occurred in the three prairie provinces during the past week while temperatures mostly remained below the optimum requirements for hastening crop maturity, particularly in Alberta and Saskatchewan where moisture conditions this season have ranged from good to more-than-required in many sections, according to the weekly crop report of the Department of Agriculture of the Canadian National Railways.

With the arrival of the hail season several points in Alberta and Saskatchewan, particularly in Alberta, report extensive damage although the areas involved are relatively small.

Due to the lateness of the season in these two provinces warm weather is the immediate requirement for crops generally. In southern Manitoba, however, good rains are badly needed at many points.

Anchorage Cafes Idled by Strike

ANCHORAGE (AP)—Hotel and restaurant employees left their jobs here after negotiations broke down between operators and the union.

The culinary workers quit work just before noon to attend a meeting. They sent an offer to the operators and said they would hold another similar meeting to discuss the owners' reply.

The chairman of the operators' association said his group was willing to concede the 10 percent allowed over the 1950 scale by the government, but he added operators couldn't go over that without wage stabilization board approval.

SHIPS AND WATERFRONT

Disembarking at Prince Rupert were: R. Long, Mr. and Mrs. J. Archambault, Miss Doris Bailey, F. M. Ray, R. Andrews, T. D. Bird, Miss G. Greaves, Mrs. Nardini, E. Nardini, M. C. Hubel, Sister F. Laurin, Sister Mary Laura. Embarking northbound were A. Vincent and Mr. and Mrs. H. Lea, for Juneau, and Mr. and Mrs. J. Fitzgerald, for Ketchikan.

Speed-ups, Slowdowns

DETROIT (CP)—The old "speed-up" bugaboo reared its head again Thursday as harass automobile industry production, as it always does in times of lay-offs.

Production standard disputes, as known formally in labor circles, have made idle nearly 50,000 workers at three Chrysler Corporation plants and the Hudson Motor Car Co. These came on top of production cutbacks which already have trimmed far more than 50,000 men from the payrolls of the industry and will keep more than 150,000 others idle for a week or two shortly.

Material shortages and, to a lesser extent, dwindling car sales blamed on government controls are held responsible for the lay-offs.

A wildcat strike at the Chrysler plant in Windsor, involving 15,000 workers, ended soon after it started yesterday.

Drought-Ridden Southern Spain Poses Problem

By HENRY BUCKLEY
MADRID (Reuters)—Seasonal unemployment is one of the biggest headaches in the olive-growing area of southern Spain.

General Franco himself, during a recent 1,000-mile tour of sunny Andalusia—pleasant in winter but known as the "frying pan of Spain" in summer—described the problem as "terrifying."

The seasonal unemployment is a result of the concentration on one particular crop—the olive.

The situation in the province of Jaen, which comprises the olive oil bank of Spain and contains a substantial part of Spain's 5,000,000 acres of olive groves, has been critical for months past.

Drought ruined both olive and cereal crops last year. But even in normal years, Jaen has an unemployment figure of 80 per cent of the working population during half the year.

There has been a steady drift of the population northward.

In the La Carolina-Linares area of Jaen an elaborate drainage system is being installed by the state to take water away from land where many lead mines exist. It is hoped that in three years lead production will have increased by 125,000 tons. At present, lack of modern machinery and the worked-out condition of the mines makes lead-mining unremunerative in this part of Spain, despite high world prices.

MUST RAISE STANDARD

Experts commenting on the far-reaching problems of Andalusia and Estremadura, the agrarian region lying near Portugal, consider that the basic problem is how to bring some 2,000,000 casual agricultural workers into a state of permanent employment with a living standard equal to that of the agrarian and industrial worker in the centre and north of Spain.

The experts say electricity production must be stepped up in the south and light industries established to provide other work for the peasant in the slack seasons—as Swiss farmers often do watchmaking jobs in winter.

Death Margin Was Six Feet

GRENOBLE, France (CP)—Crash of the airliner "Canadian Pilgrim" last November 13, which cost the lives of 58 persons, could have been avoided if the plane had been flying six feet higher, an official investigating party reported Thursday night.

The CD-4 plane was on its way back to Canada from a Holy Year pilgrimage to Rome when it hit near the top of 8500-foot Mount Loblou in the French Alps during bad weather.

Forty-nine Canadian pilgrims, including 15 Roman Catholic clergymen, and seven Canadian crew members were killed. An American and an Italian priest also lost their lives.

a brake on progress though the high prices of oil and cereals has improved this situation, because landlords are taking more interest in their farms. Even so, there are many estates owned by aristocratic families in Madrid and other towns who rarely, if ever, visit the lands they own and which are often left for decades without improvements or care.

But the major problem is that of capital.

The government has elaborate plans to modernize and industrialize agrarian Spain. But private enterprise is not co-operative. Too often, landowners want only to get money out of the land and will put nothing back.
