Allied Bombers Smash Frontier Air Field

Largest Raid of War—Green Front Quiet

Chinese Generals Reported Disgusted Over Russian Support

OTTAWA (CP)—More than 300 Allied planes led a Red air field on the Korea-Manchuria front today to prevent an expected Communist offensive. It was the biggest raid of the war since the first official reports did not make it look like although later it was said 50 enemy planes had been destroyed.

The air field into a smoldering inferno. The 15th Air Force said that 10 planes were damaged and two were destroyed. The air field was damaged on the night of the raid. The planes were spotted on the ground. The attack was made by 312 fighter-bombers. They were from every United States air base in Korea. The raid was a blow at Sinuiju following reports that the Chinese were angered at Russian failure to supply tanks or other spring offensive equipment.

Road was good until near Williams Lake, where several miles of poor road were encountered.

Pearkes is Critical

OTTAWA (CP)—The official Opposition's military critic yesterday accused the government of underestimating the manpower needs of the forces and of perpetuation of a haphazard hit and miss policy in seeking men. The industry faces a growing shortage of labor this summer and already there is a demand in practically every field from mining engineers to miners. Competition for workers is getting more intense as new base metal mines increase development plans, authorities here reported. The shortage cuts into every phase of mining.

Torquay Agreement On Many Articles

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada has signed new long-term tariff-trimming agreements with the United States and 15 other countries aimed at benefiting Canadian manufacturing fishing and farming industries.

Concessions embrace a wide range of countries. They include seven months of negotiation among 34 countries at Torquay, England. They were announced last night by the Department of External Affairs and explained in the House of Commons by Trade Minister Howe and Finance Minister Abbott.

The full effect may not be felt immediately but officials said it is hoped that, during normal peacetime trade, Canada can anticipate more competitive markets for Canadian products including Douglas fir, plywood and aluminum.

Canucks in Action—Pats Now In Tanks

WEST CENTRAL SECTOR, KOREA (CP)—The Princess Patricia's are in action again. Riding atop great American Patton tanks, a patrol moved deep into enemy territory yesterday. It was the first time the Patricias had worked so closely with tanks.

The foray produced four Chinese prisoners dug out from a well fortified two-room bunker at the point of bayonet. They came out without a fight. "They seemed scared," said Private Pat Cullen of Weyburn, Saskatchewan. After capturing the prisoners, the patrol held a hill position until late in the day before returning to base.

Can We Take It?

ALUMINUM Company at Kitimat—$500,000,000; Columbia Cellulose Co. at Prince Rupert—$27,000,000; Consolidated Mining & Smelting Co. at Trail—$30,000,000 . . . newest industrial developments in British Columbia, figures which stagger the imagination, the full impact of which can only be a matter of speculative conjecture!

Yes, British Columbia now stands on the threshold of the greatest era in its history. Gone now are the old quiet days. Arrived are days which offer new challenges and new problems which will have to be measured up as we gear ourselves to the new state of economic affairs.

It is hard to realize the vast influx of population that will be needed. That realization will just have to come upon us as it may. We should certainly be glad that we live in British Columbia—particularly this part of British Columbia—if we can keep up with it all.

One Man's Freedom

TO STEP outside a solitary prison for the first time in 17 months, to breathe free air, to feel the impartial grace of sunlight, to walk and talk in the light of one's own conscience, free from the stealthy shadow of the informer, free from the terror of the midnight arrest and the secret inquisition—this is one man's experience.

But to millions of Americans the importance of Robert A. Vogeler's release lies in his shaky but deeply felt warning that what happened to him in those dreadful months "could happen to anybody."

It could happen to anyone anywhere when the God-given rights of the individual are counted less than the real or pretended security of the state. For here is the essence of the great struggle of our times: the free individual versus the omnipotent police state.

Arthur Kostler has recently been arguing with some persuasiveness that it is foolish to think of today's struggle as between "left" and "right." We have seen hideous totalitarianisms arise on both left and right. We have seen sturdy democracies shift moderately to left or right without losing their essentially democratic character.

The more basic question is whether a nation—whatever the form of its politico-economic institutions—affords even the unpopular or suspect person those legal and moral safeguards which democracy has so painfully built up through the centuries. Nothing is easier than to take these rights for granted. Nothing is more tempting than to trade them for an imagined security in moments of panic.

Hence democracy faces the challenge of the police state both from within and from without. The pitiful figure of Robert Vogeler should stir in his countrymen a renewed fervor of devotion to that freedom of thought which must in time shake even the Iron Curtain—because it tolerates no iron curtains in itself.—Christian Science Monitor.

Scripture Passage for Today

Blank Mind—Good Sleep

MONTREAL (CP)—The trick of getting a good night's sleep involves leaving your mind a blank—not by counting sheep—says Dr. Norman Viner, an authority on the subject.

Some reasons for lack of sleep are unavoidable, such as money problems, family problems, actual miseries of the day or a guilty conscience.

Another way to miss your beauty sleep and sit up all night is to chase sleep, says Dr. Viner, and a great many people do.

Most of the offences against sleep are normal. Only where the lack of it is due to causes such as mental or physical disease does it need to be treated on medical lines. If a person has not been impressed by the suggestion of the ill effects of coffee before bedtime, a cup or two will not hurt, he said.

Be careful of sedative drugs, warns Dr. Viner. They may be useful servants, "but often they turn out to be very bad masters." Too many people rely on them until they cannot do without them.

If you want your beauty sleep have a clear conscience and a blank mind—and a comfortable bed.

As I See It

AT HUNGARY'S BORDERS

BELGRADE, YUGOSLAVIA.—Our first few days in Yugoslavia were cold and wet. But on the Sunday morning, when Col. Ernest Hogarth, Canada's military attache here, was to show us the rich land called Vojvodina, the sun came out warm and cheerful. We drove in the Canadian legation station wagon and took the main, paved road towards Budapest, because I was particularly anxious to see the Hungarian border country.

Col. Hogarth comes from Timmins, Ontario, and has been here three years. He speaks Serbian well, and impressed me as being very much on his job—besides being a most likable, keen young Canadian.

WE DROVE PAST Tito's farm, which used to be the king's. For several hours we feasted our eyes on the lovely, flat valley, lush and rich as any country I know.

Yet even here, last year, nature combined with Yugoslavia's foreign enemies, and half of the crop was ruined by drought.

The people are racially mixed in this part of Yugoslavia—which was annexed by Hungary after the First World War. There are some Slovaks and many Magyars. Many people speak German. All the people (unlike those in Belgrade) looked well-fed and well-clothed. Some of the girls were so attractively dressed, in native costume, that our boys hopped out and took photographs.

The men are the simple peasant types—with not a line in their faces. Some have pink cheeks, like grown-up cherubs. But some wear fierce-looking moustaches.

IN SEVERAL OF THE VILLAGES there were big parades. We were told that these were to commemorate the German attack on Belgrade in 1941. But we saw some very workmanlike civil defense rehearsals going on. From everything I have seen in Yugoslavia, I am sure that no aggressor would ever catch this country napping.

One significant item was a group of boys in their early teens, taking pre-military training, including rifle-shooting. From 12 to 20, every boy is so trained. At age 20, they enter the army.

THE COUNTRY THROUGH which we drove is the zone through which invaders would surely come if this country were attacked from the east. Of course, it is ideal tank country—made to order for a tank attack in force.

But neither in the zone nor anywhere else in Yugoslavia did I see or hear anything which would suggest to me that anybody considers a war imminent, though the Yugoslavs don't take anything for granted.

WE STOPPED FOR A SNACK in a hotel near the Hungarian border. It was full of peasants sipping their beer. This, like all other hotels, is "nationalized." But it did not seem to make any difference in the way the waiters were bustling about. (Incidentally, I notice that they are just as anxious to take tips in these theoretically Communized hotels as they are in the Capitalistic West.)

Later, we came upon a village where a dance was in progress. About 20 girls were on the floor, with maybe 20 boys. The boys wore ordinary western dress, but some of the girls flaunt immense bustling dresses. The girls were young—10 to 16.

These dresses add a certain piquancy to the dance. As the lassie swirls and whirls, the dress whirls, too—the hoops putting real zip into it. So the maidens keep one modest hand rearwards, to keep things under sufficient control. Some of the girls actually needed two hands for those hold-down jobs. In such cases, the lad dances with his two hands on his partner's hips.

WE SAW ONLY TWO COLLECTIVE farms in this lush land—and we saw plenty of good livestock. One Yugoslav breed of hog has near-fur on it, so long-haired its fuzz seems.

We saw more cows in one day than we saw in all Italy; in fact an unsolved mystery about Italy is: what produced the milk we drank for we never saw one cow outdoors?

COUNTRY PEOPLE ARE DIFFERENT from town people everywhere. The country people we have seen in Yugoslavia are also different. In the rich Vojvodina

Overtime for Bootleggers

WELLINGTON, N.Z. (CP)—New Zealand's extraordinary liquor laws, under which hotels close at 6 p.m. but many carry on illegally for many hours later, have led to the curious situation of the Hotelworkers' Union making a formal claim for extra pay for men engaged in illegal sales.

The union put forward demands for an extra $6 a week for men employed as "droppers," "look-out men" and others engaged in after-hour trading. The claim was made at a conciliation council meeting—a tribunal at which a government-appointed chairman attempts to bring agreement between conflicting claims on wages and conditions by employers and employees.

It was explained that "droppers" are men who sell parcels of beer from the doorways of hotels to customers waiting in cars or taxis outside. The duties of "look-out men" are to watch for the police.

The union further asked that a clause be written into the award stating that men should be employed in these duties "only where an agreement exists between the employer and the union giving the men protection from the consequences of any breach of the Licensing Act."

Employers' representatives strongly objected to the claims, stating that the demands "constitute an intolerable slur on the majority of hotelkeepers, who conduct their business in a law-abiding manner." Union officials replied that they were prepared to name hotels at which such men were employed. They said it was regrettable that prices paid for hotels made such after-hour trading necessary.

they are obviously better-fed than the Belgrade folk.

But in spite of the quite apparent poverty of these city Yugoslavs, they seem at least as happy as our own people in the West. Don't let anybody tell you that this is a fear-ridden land, with the people groaning under a hated dictatorship.

It is no doubt a dictatorship, and the rule here is probably just as absolute as it has been all down through history. But nobody could convince me that this peoples' dictatorship is generally hated—for you just don't feel any such hate in the air, much less hear of it or see its evidences.

Despite all the things which are wrong here, and they are many, this government seems to have real support from the people.

New Supply Of Newsprint

LONDON (CP)—Raw materials which hitherto have gone to waste are to be used to meet Britain's critical shortage of newsprint.

W. J. Curtis-Willson, president of the Newspaper Society, in making this disclosure at the annual meeting of the organization, said a new process had been developed for the production of pulp for newsprint and other kinds of paper. The new source of supply would become available this summer. He did not disclose details.

"It will only be a trickle, but behind the venture are tremendously powerful concerns," Mr. Curtis-Willson said. "And, if as I firmly believe, this trickle of pulp proves that we can make newsprint from raw materials at present untapped, we shall have embarked upon a new era for our newspapers."

He warned that the price of imported newsprint would continue to rise and at £60 (about $180) a ton many of the smaller newspapers would pass out of existence.

"That is what it means unless we come to their rescue," he added.

SOURCES OF SUPPLY

Referring to world sources of supply, Mr. Curtis-Willson said annual production of newsprint came to about 9,000,000 tons. The United States with a population of some 160,000,000 took two-thirds. The other third was left to the 2,500,000,000 in the rest of the world to share out.

Lord Woolton, chairman of the Conservative party, and principal guest of the society, deplored the current restrictions which had necessitated a drastic cut in the size of British newspapers.

"I do not believe it can be a good thing for the public life of this nation that there should be this severe restriction on the quantity of news now printed," Lord Woolton declared.

"There are some of us, at any rate, who are not very anxious to control you. Some of us think we have had a bellyfull of controls."

Convention to Be Held Here?

Annual convention of the Associated Boards of Trade of Central British Columbia, scheduled for late August, may be held in Prince Rupert.

Following recent notification by Burns Lake that it could not accommodate the convention, Quesnel had been considered but now word has been received that that Cariboo town will also be unable to handle it.

W. J. Scott, president of the Associated Boards, has now suggested that the convention be held "in or around" Prince Rupert.

Executive council of the Prince Rupert Chamber of Commerce will consider the matter.

Protection From Radium

TORONTO (CP)—Specially treated films from Chalk River laboratories are among the most important protections of Dunlap Cancer Clinic workers against deadly radium rays.

Workers at the Toronto clinic who handle radium now wear a strip of this film at their waist, to ascertain the amount of radiation they are receiving. It comes from the Chalk River Radiation Hazards Control Board of the National Research Council.

At the end of each week the film is returned to Chalk River for examination. As the nurse handling the needle gets more radiation than the doctor who only has to insert it in the patient, she wears a film bracelet at her wrist as well as at the waist.

Nurses are only permitted to do the actual handling of radium for two-month periods. Then they are put off this work for four months.

At the Dunlap Clinic the needles are kept in a massive lead safe and are filed according to the amount of radium they contain. By operating a dial the nurse can remove the desired needle. Nurses and doctors wear gloves when handling needles. There is no glove that is able to stop the rays. Long forceps are carried back and forth to treatment rooms in lead on little carriers.

At St. Paul's Church, New Masset, on Friday last, Rev. Montague S. Young united in marriage Elsie Yvonne, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Lindsay, and Henry Gale, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. John Hageman and first grandson of the late Chief Henry (Edenshaw). Given in marriage by John Hageman, the pretty bride was gowned in white satin with overskirt of net, the sweetheart neckline was trimmed with applique and beads. Her full net veil, edged with deep lace, fell from a lace coronet. Her bouquet was of pink and white roses.

Mrs. Katherine Geddes, aunt of the groom, was matron of honor, attired in Nile green sheer with shoulder length veil to match. Miss Janet Yeltatzie, cousin of the groom, was dressed in mauve sheer and veil. Miss Geddes was flower girl, in a floor length gown of blue satin. All attendants carried Victorian posies of pink and white rosebuds. Billy Hageman, the groom's small brother, wore a sailor suit and carried the ring in the heart of a hugh rose. The groomsmen were Wilfred Bennett, uncle of the groom. After the ceremony a reception was held in the New Masset Community Hall, where the bride and groom enjoyed an excellent banquet.

Prince Rupert Price Better

Three American halibutters from Ketchikan, in Prince Rupert with catches this morning, report the price of halibut in Alaska is about four cents lower than here. Reliance I. Capt. Richard Blenheim, the Tatoosh, Capt. Krist Martinsen, and the Onah, Capt. Harry Selig, said today Ketchikan prices were hovering around 15 to 16 cents a pound for mediums. All three skippers received a hearty welcome from the staff at Customs as they reported in this morning. The old-timers have seen come to Prince Rupert during the halibut season for many years. They were surprised when told American fishermen did not have to obtain the $1 fishing license this year.

Fashion Show For Britain

By MURIAL NARRAWAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—An open-air exhibition of sculpture at festival gardens in Battersea Park is just one of the attractions open to Canadian buyers visiting London for the British Fashion Fortnight, May 29 to June 13.

The exhibition, which will be opened to the public by the Duchess of Kent in a ceremony, May 7, includes a piece of sculpture lent by the Museum of Quebec. The Canadian exhibit, an iron bird wrought from welded steel plate, is the work of Montreal's Louis Archambault. It is one of the many pieces contributed by countries outside Britain.

British exhibits, all from private collections, include Epstein's "Lazarus" and the new "Standing Figure" by Henry Moore. Despite a heavy round of engagements, fashion buyers will be given ample opportunity to see this and many other attractions forming part of the Festival of Britain.

The Fashion Fortnight is a yearly trade "convention" aimed at getting overseas trade and this year buyers from 71 countries are expected to attend. At the end of April, 11 Canadian buyers had already accepted invitations.

GOVERNMENT RECEPTION
The program includes a government reception at Lancaster House at which Princess Elizabeth will be guest of honor. This reception is a formal welcoming party at which buyers, trade and press representatives circulate freely and get to know one another.

Other events include a cocktail party on the terrace of the House of Commons and the gala premiere of a new British musical "Happy Go Lovely," starring Vera Ellen.

Fashion shows will cover everything from cheap cottons to high-priced furs. At the biggest fur show of the year, Canadian squirrel and mink will be top-ranking attractions.

As in previous years, the Fashion Fortnight takes place during the height of the London season and buyers seeking relaxation can go out of town for two of the foremost events of the flat-racing season, the Derby at Epsom and the Royal Ascot meeting.

Other attractions include the brilliant and historical ceremony, Trooping the Color, which takes place on the King's official birthday June 7, the opening of the Royal Tournament at Earl's Court and the Richmond Horse Show.

Fines Hit High Mark

Fines in police court for month of April totalled high at $2,263 with 278 convictions. This is believed to be a city record. There was one dismissal and one acquittal. Court costs to the city were $279. Same month last year $980 was imposed in fines.

Inquest is Discontinued

Inquest into the death of Joseph Addison, who died as a result of being struck last Saturday night by an automobile on Second Avenue West, was discontinued yesterday at the order of the attorney-general. The discontinuance order came after the body had been viewed by Deputy Coroner Bruce Stevens and a jury consisting of Sam Haudenschild, Bud Pierce, Garfield McKee, Robert Collart, Percy Curie and William Hall.

In connection with the fatality, a charge of manslaughter has been laid against Clifford Borge and the preliminary hearing has been adjourned until May 15.

Canadian Light-Weight Winner

MONTREAL (C)—Armand Savoie of Montreal Monday night won a second round technical knock-out over Pierre Montane when the European lightweight champion failed to come out for the bell at the second round.

The bout was stopped seconds before the bell, ending the first round after Savoie opened a gash over Montane's right eye.

Referee Tomy Sullivan halted the fight but the victory was not officially awarded to Savoie until a Montreal Athletic Commission doctor said Montane could not answer the bell for the second round.

Savoie weighed in at 136 pounds and Montane at 136½ pounds.

Effective Demonstration Of Civic Centre Activity

Mass Display Shows What Has Been Going On at Popular Community Venue

Prince Rupert's Civic Centre is doing a "marvelous job" in the way of healthy community recreation, Jerry Mathison, provincial supervisor of the men's division of the department of recreation and physical recreation, said so last night as he opened the fourth annual gymnastic display of Prince Rupert-Rup-Rec.

The demonstration of all types of Civic Centre activity—a review of what has been going on there during the past winter—amply corroborated Mr. Mathison's statement. It was a revelation indeed to the big audience which crowded the main gymnasium of the Civic Centre to witness the show.

No less than 275 persons took part in what was probably the most colorful and impressive presentation of its kind that has yet taken place at Civic Centre. They ranged from the Tiny Tots, who opened the two-hour program with their singing games which captivated the audience—through the junior and intermediate acrobatic classes to such innovations as boxing, badminton and square dancing, demonstrating other lines of activity at Prince Rupert's centre of cultural and recreational endeavours.

Supervisor Is Coming

District supervisor for the provincial Department of Physical Education and Recreation is to be set up in the central British Columbia area to develop and supervise these phases of modern living in this part of the province, it is announced by Jerry Mathison, provincial supervisor, who is a visitor in Prince Rupert.

Where the district supervisor will make his headquarters has not yet been decided. It may be in Prince Rupert or Prince George for he will spend his time in and between the two cities with intervening points also receiving his attention.

Important in the district supervisor's functions will be the organizing of physical education activities and the training of leaders.

Champ Gymnasts Coming To City

Group of expert gymnasts from Vancouver Pro-Rec will be coming to Prince Rupert for the annual Civic Centre Carnival, it is announced by Jerry Mathison, provincial supervisor of physical education and recreation, who is a visitor in the city. The party will consist of fifteen members and will journey here by bus, visiting other points in the district enroute. The group will include several intercollegiate champions. They will put on displays as features in connection with the Carnival.

Track Team Goes North

Bo-Me-Hi's track team, under leadership of Les Matthews, leaves tonight on the Prince Rupert for Ketchikan where they will meet Ketchikan and Petersburg High School team in an inter-school meet.

Last year Prince Rupert sent a small team of four boys to Ketchikan. It was not large enough to have a chance to amass sufficient points to win but, nevertheless, finished second to Kayhi.

"With a full team this year, we are very hopeful of coming out on top," says Coach Matthews. Leaving tonight with Matthews are:

Bob Williamson, captain and a heavy winner at Ketchikan last year.

Jerry Ford, sprinter and distance runner, also at Ketchikan last year.

Penio Penoff, 440-yard specialist, and Roddie Tait, miler and high jumper, both also repeaters from last year.

Others making the trip to Ketchikan for the first time: Carl Watson, all-round field events specializing in discs, throwing and jumps.

George Williamson, Bob's brother, sprinter.

William Blackaby, distance runner.

Harold Ridsvik, miler.

Bernard Garrod and Ralph Enrich, sprinters.

The boys will be away for a week.

Los Angeles To go Major

LOS ANGELES—The old proposal to bring major league baseball to Los Angeles got a boost second hand from Bill Vecek, former boss of the Cleveland Indians.

County Supervisor Leonard J. Roach said he conferred recently with Vecek here and quoted the latter as "jumping up and down with enthusiasm."

"He told me he could swing it," Roach added.

Roach said Vecek brought along two Chicago architects who determined that the 165,000-seat Memorial Coliseum could be used for baseball, with its seating capacity increased to 125,000 for such an attraction as the World Series.

There is a major league agreement not to enter Los Angeles for a six-year period ending in 1952. At the time a major league committee voted the agreement, 5-3, Vecek himself cast one of the votes against moving here.

close contested play as could be desired by even the most zealous promoter, the last third of the league ended last Wednesday night. Social Welfare, who had previously won first place in the "B" Division, ended up in first place in the "A" Division. An active, energetic team, Social Welfare will take part in tonight's play-offs and will have the right to meet tonight's winners in the finals. Other teams in the fight for the 51 championship (Mantle Pushovers, Cantels and Jewellers).

The annual banquet, featuring the presentation of trophies and is the final activity of the Mixed League, is to take place tonight at the Municipal Legion auditorium on Main Street.

SPORT SHOTS

Jackie Robinson is off to a great start in the batter's box with the Dodgers and, like all hitters with inflated averages he is having to hit the dirt occasionally to escape being nicked by the inside pitch. In a recent game between the Dodgers and the Giants, Sal Maglie "knocked" Robinson down and Jackie employed the traditional comeback of the annoyed hitter. He bunted down the first base line, making Maglie cover the bag, then ran into him.

Immediately in such brushes, fans and critics begin thinking of the Negro versus white. But Robinson's race has nothing whatever to do with it and should not be emphasized. Jackie simply is one of the game's better hitters, an enemy of all National League pitchers who are called upon to work against the Brooklyn club.

Remember the trouble Lou Bourdreau had with rival pitchers in 1948, when he was having his greatest year? They were always knocking him down and it was hard for Lou to take. But he took it. So can Robinson.

The better hitters should expect to be brushed back from the plate and most of them do. Meanwhile, Robinson will continue to spark the Dodgers' attack, getting up out of the batter's box to challenge Stan Musial and anybody else aiming at the 1951 batting crown.

EFFECTIVE

Interesting display of tiny acrobats followed the games and for a time like a three-ring circus a large number of young-people engaged in their marching songs, tumbling and vaulting.

Much in evidence also, and to the hearty entertainment of all time was the clown, Louis Van Pykstra, whose loose-jointed antics punctuated the bill throughout the evening.

Twenty-five junior boys gave a striking display of various types of triple tumbling.

PRETTY GIRL NUMBER

One of the most effective items of the program was the acrobatic display in rosette and adagio styling of Miss Gloria Sather and her eight junior girl leaders. Pink and blue costuming set off the number. The girls were Marilyn Farmer, Sonja Selvig, Patricia Poetce, Sonja Hanson, Beverley Calderone, Elizabeth Pierce, Jackie Gustafson and Beverley Diguistini.

The crowd saw boxing in a different setting when "Mouse"

Morrison, British Columbia Golden Gloves champion, and "Chuck" Place, runner-up, presented a spirited sparring exhibition under the black lights. This is a new and radical lighting innovation seen for the first time in Prince Rupert. Under the strobe light turns to dark and dark to light and fluorescent painting of articles of clothing lends a glistening effect. But there is just a question if the natural lighting may not still be preferable. Joe Ward was in charge of the boxing display.

Intermediate boys' mat routine, junior girls' and boys' pyramids and intermediate boys' vaulting provided further demonstrations of the physical education program as directed by Miss Sather and Les Mathews.

Two numbers of square dancing—one by eight young ladies and the other by four couples—showed the audience why that old (yet new form in Prince Rupert) or terpsichore has found such favor here. Rowland Miles had charge of this number.

In a lively badminton match, John Fowle and James George-son bested Carr Harris and Chuck Forbes 21 to 13.

Concluding highlight of the evening was again under the black lights. Miss Sather and five-year-old Carol Wick were the central figures as they presented a striking display of agility in an acrobatic adagio from a central stand as the eight junior girl leaders sat around to put on a sparkling Indian club show.

Jerry Mathison was a surprise entrant with an Indian club display.

In opening the display, Mr. Mathison expressed his pleasure at being back in Prince Rupert. He recalled how he had taken an active interest in the development of physical education and recreational activities here since the early days back in 1935.

Mr. Mathison described as "outstanding" the work of the Civic Centre here. To visit the Civic Centre and see the diverse activities that were going on in every room and corner of the building was like being in Grand Central Station. He complimented the board of directors, Don Forward and his assistants on a "marvellous job." And the display itself, with the many young people taking part, spoke well for the future of Prince Rupert's rising citizenry.

The display will be repeated tonight with fresh participants at least in the tiny tots' division where there are so many entrants that it was impossible to put them all on at the one time.

Don Forward was master of ceremonies and had charge of lighting effects. Volunteer leaders were Mrs. J. Bowman, Mrs. E. D. Forward, Mrs. E. Blain, Mrs. F. R. Peagan, Mrs. S. J. Anderson, Mrs. J. Bergen, Mrs. G. Rorie, Mrs. D. Souler and Constable J. Ward. Veteran Emil Blain was also on hand to lend assistance.

Miss Mandell Soland was a capable piano accompanist throughout the evening.

Blackwood on Bridge

As this hand was being dealt Mrs. Keen walked into the room and wanted to know what was going on. "Mr. New and Mr. Muzzy issued a challenge for a set game," explained Miss Brash. "They're using a new mathematical bidding method."

"How is it working?" "Just like all the other mathematical systems," Miss Brash replied. "It pays too little attention to intermediate cards, misfits, the bidding of opponents and duplication of values. And apparently it doesn't consider Humanios at all."

"All counting, no thinking, eh?" said Mrs. Keen.

While this whispered conversation was in progress Mr. New was having an awful time with his two trump contract. Mr. Champion trumped the four of clubs and Mr. Dale's queen was permitted to win.

A club was returned, Mr. New ducked and Mr. Champion won with the jack. He led back the nine of clubs, dummy played a small diamond, Mr. Dale a small heart and Mr. New won with the ace.

A heart was now led to dummy's queen. Mr. Dale won with the ace and pushed out the queen of diamonds. The defenders ended up taking four diamonds, four clubs and a heart, for down four.

Immediately Mr. New began frantically tearing summaries, notes and reference books out of their pockets. In addition, Mr. Muzzy laid his "rusty abacus on the table. An examination showed that they had bid just right according to the book.

Third hand can open with a count of 11. And, having passed once, partner can jump to two no-trump with only 11 points—instead of the 13 points he would need if he had not previously passed. And there was nothing in the book about the general body of the hand in intermediate cards.

"Boys," said Mr. Dale, "your system baffles me. It allows third hand to open light and partner to jump the bidding with a light hand. Now either you two are lousing it up or there's something wrong with a method that lets BOTH PARTNERS overbid at the same time."

Charter Ship to Bring Visitors

Specially chartered steamer, presumably the Canadian National liner Prince George, will bring top-ranking officials of the Celanese Corporation of America and other visiting officials and dignitaries when the official opening of the Columbia Cellulose pulp mill at Watson Island takes place June 12.

Executive of the Prince Rupert Chamber of Commerce has been delegated to work on plans for the reception of the visitors who, among other things, would be taken on a motor tour around the city following which there would be a reception aboard ship. Senior and Junior Chambers of Commerce will join in the welcome.

It is expected that the chartered ship will bring 125 to 150 visitors.

First game will be played May 24 on Kinsmen's sports day.

The football club will be approached by a committee with a suggestion that its playing field be changed to east and west, in order to protect the infield of the baseball diamond.

If the soccer people offer any argument to this suggestion, it was decided a representative from each club would approach the city parks board and ask for an arbitration on the matter. The baseballers felt strongly that it was impossible to keep the infield in playing condition when it would be "so regularly torn up" by the soccer players. Present diamond falls within the soccer field.

JUNIORS WANTED

Team practices will begin Sunday and junior players are urged to be present so managers can "look them over." It is the intention this year of the association to get as many juniors as possible interested in baseball.

Civic Centre granted permission for use of the gymnasium as a practise ground for pitchers during any inclement weather conditions.

Still Chance for Seaplane Landing

Appropriation for a seaplane landing at Seal Cove here has been eliminated from the main estimates of the public works department in Parliament at Ottawa but it is possible the item may get into the supplementary estimates, according to advice received by the Prince Rupert Chamber of Commerce from E. T. Applewhite, MP.

The Traffic Cop

Recently city public works department painted yellow lines on the streets in the downtown area, providing "pedestrian lanes" in the most congested intersections.

Cpl. Wales, police officer in charge, points out these are "courtesy lanes." Pedestrians are asked to use them instead of jay walking. It is for their own safety.

Motorists, says Cpl. Wales, should respect the lanes and the right-of-way of the pedestrians occupying them by slowing down or stopping. Through courtesy and co-operation only can safety be assured.

Would Speed Up Stamp Dispensing

As a means of speeding up stamp dispensing at the local Post Office wickets, the Prince Rupert Chamber of Commerce suggested that tape meters be installed. The suggestion will be taken up with the postal authorities. Thereby, it is felt, the weighing out of parcels and affixing of postage would be facilitated.

Three-Headed Marine Monster Stirs Up Stewart Excitement

STEWART—This place was thrown into a state of excitement during the past week owing to the report of a three-headed monster being seen swimming around in the Portland Canal.

At first it had been reported as having been seen a little way out from the Stewart wharf, but on Saturday morning a gas boat, proceeding to the logging camp of Nick Benkovich, almost ran into it near the Marmot River about two miles from Stewart.

The monster suddenly appeared about ten feet ahead of the boat and two observers state that it had three heads about twelve inches in width, each shaped something like a horse's head. Raymond Burnett and David Menghelo both saw it quite plainly they said. They were unable to estimate the size of the creature as it was submerged all but the heads. There seemed to be a sort of hump behind the head.

Former Engineer in North Dies

NEW WESTMINSTER — Funeral services were held in Haney for Sydney Aldred Cunliffe, 60, provincial public works division engineer, who died in Royal Columbian hospital following a heart seizure.

Mr. Cunliffe had been active in the B.C. engineering profession for 41 years. He joined the provincial public works in 1931 and was stationed as engineer in various districts including Merritt, Revelstoke, Smithers, Pouce Coupe and Prince George, before coming to New Westminster in April, 1950, as divisional engineer.

He is survived by his wife, a daughter, two sons, a brother and two sisters.

Little Glamour In Model Life

VANCOUVER (CP)—A model's life is a lot of hard work and early-to-bed routine, and little glamor.

A Vancouver girl and former top-flight New York Powers model, Rosemary Sankey, pricked the glamor myth surrounding models.

She said any girl with a decent figure (reasonably thin) and fairly regular features, who isn't clumsy as an ox, can make the grade in New York—provided she is willing to work hard all day and sleep plenty at night.

It's work, not glamor, that brings results.

Terrace Dance Yields $600

TERRACE.—Over $600 was the proceeds of Friday night's "Firemen's Ball," which was held in the Civic Centre, the only hall which could have possibly catered to such a crowd. After insurance for the firemen is paid, some much-needed equipment will be added to that already at the fire hall.

An annual event and the sole fund-raising activity of the local volunteer brigade, the dance attracted a very large crowd, drawn together, no doubt, by the worthiness of the cause, the success of which means so much to the whole community.

The dancers were in a merry mood and the two orchestras catered excellently to their enjoyment. The "Terrace Ramblers," in cowboy costume, played in their usual inimitable style. It was the first public appearance of the "Mello-Tones," a dance orchestra newly formed by Stan Lang and very much enjoyed. It was a very reluctant crowd which turned to go home at the close of the dance around 3 a.m.

Refreshments, prepared by a committee of ladies with Mrs. "Stu" Campbell in charge, were served at midnight.

There were many lucky ticket holders and the winners were announced by James Smith.

To "Curley" Casey was allotted the task of delivering the prizes the next day.

TERRACE TOPICS

Recent developments on the Stewart Mining Canal Property have uncovered a good grade of scheelite ore and the owners of the property are very optimistic. The vein uncovered is about four feet wide. Development is continuing.

John Lehto, who has been trapping in the Unuk area, returned to town at the beginning of the week. He reports that returns are not so good as usual.

Super Films From Bible

Hollywood Turns to Good Book for Stories
By JACK QUIGG

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Hollywood has rediscovered the Bible as one of the great sources of spectacular motion pictures.

The Good Book, virtually untapped since the '20s when "The Ten Commandments," "Ben Hur," "King of Kings" and "The Sign of the Cross" made movie history, has been getting a thorough thumbing.

Leader in the new cycle is the same man who started the first one—Cecil B. DeMille. When the famed director of cinema epics hit the jackpot in 1949 with a gaudy version of the Old Testament story of Samson and Delilah, the race was on.

Now two studios have Bible-based colossals ready for release next fall.

One, "Quo Vadis," a story of Christian martyrdom in Nero's Rome, was filmed in Italy at a record cost of $6,600,000. The other is "David and Bathsheba." Other producers plan films about Adam and Eve, Mary Magdalene and Jesus Christ.

DeMille, who has brought four Bible stories to the screen, holds no other source combines so many elements of drama, love, hate, loyalty, treachery, passion, faith, selfishness and self-sacrifice. He once said: "You can make a film from any 60 pages of the Bible."

In "The Ten Commandments," filmed in 1923 at a cost of $1,400,000, he used 4,000 extras and 6,000 animals. In the climactic scene the Red Sea parted before the Israelites, then closed in on the pursuing army of the Pharaoh.

MGM's $4,000,000 "Ben Hur," released in 1926, was no less awesome. Its fabled chariot race is considered by many the most thrilling scene on film.

The big scene in DeMille's 1927 "King of the Kings" was Christ's crucifixion. It showed some 6,000 actors winding up a tortuous path to the Hill of Golgotha.

STORY OF THE FLOOD
"Noah's Ark," a 1928 effort by Darryl Zanuck, is remembered for its recreation of the flood.

DeMille rebuilt ancient Rome for "The Sign of the Cross" in 1933. An added attraction was Claudette Colbert taking a milk bath.

"Samson and Delilah" had Victor Mature slaying a lion with his bare hands and slaughtering an army with the jawbone of an ass.

"Quo Vadis" features a scene in Nero's arena with 60 lions pitted against a handful of Christians. "David and Bathsheba" shows David killing the giant Goliath with his slingshot and assaulting the walls of Rabbah with his army.

"King of Kings," the most-played film of all time, has been seen by almost a billion people and is still shown 1,500 times yearly, mostly in churches.

DeMille considers religion the greatest theme in the world and the Bible the "greatest dramatic force."

He doesn't hesitate, however, to sugar-coat his message. Some churchmen objected to "Samson" on the grounds it put too much emphasis on the strong man's love affair with Delilah.

DeMille, although his name is synonymous with Bible films, was no pioneer in the field. The movie industry cut its teeth on them.

Hollywood made scores of them in the early 1900's as did studios in France, Italy and Germany. One of the first was "Star of Bethlehem," produced in 1907 by Thomas Edison.

"Quo Vadis," based on a best-selling novel, has been made four times. The French did it first in 1902. A 1912 version produced in Italy ran nine reels and was the longest picture made up to that time. The third, also Italian, starred Emil Jannings.

In recent years the non-profit Cathedral Films, Inc., has turned out more than 30 short features based on Bible stories. It reports demand exceeds the supply and some 4,000,000 people see them weekly.

Alexandria in Egypt was founded in B.C. 332 by Alexander the Great and for 1,000 years was Egypt's capital.

Ankle Etiquettes Needs Brush up Gay Romance With Music

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. — Been neglecting your "ankle etiquette," girls?

One man thinks women have, and that you are in danger of losing your "inborn traditional coquetry" in moving and posturing your ankles and legs.

Roy E. Tilles, hosiery company executive attending a meeting of the industry here, said "a generation of sloppy shoes and bobby socks" is to blame for the loss of a sense of ankle etiquette.

"Wonderful as nylon stockings are, they can't do everything," said Mr. Tilles.

Here's his advice to the ladies: Re-learn how to walk alluringly, how to cross your knees gracefully, sit attractively, and make seam-straightening as much a reflex as using a lipstick.
