Talking Of New Parties

THE IDEA of George Murray, rugged Member of Parliament for Cariboo from the Peace River country, to set up a new political party in British Columbia consecrated to northern development, must strike the fancy of the people of these parts. It illustrates the independent spirit and imagination of this enthusiastic advocate of the opening up and development of the north country including the fuller utilization of the northern lines of the Canadian National Railways and the port of Prince Rupert.

We may like Mr. Murray's idea and the motive of its conception even though we must realize, possibly with some reluctance; that to be successful it would have to have some wider appeal than our dispatch discloses.

The time is ripe, nevertheless, for the development of some sort of new non-socialist party in British Columbia even if it is not entirely a northern party. The trend is being fully evidenced by the splits in both Liberal and Conservative parties based on the different lines of thought of members within those parties.

Obviously, there is a movement of progressive liberalism under forward-looking men in the Conservative party. Likewise, there are many reactionary tory-minded men within the Liberal party.

A reorientation of political lines is due and overdue. Sooner or later a new fusion will come into being unless the progressive, the forwardlooking, the dynamic people within the ranks of the old parties become so disgusted that they align themselves with such as the proposed Bennett splinter party, with the Social Credit group or veer toward the CCF.

The CCF, having committed itself so strongly to the doctrine of state socialism, has alienated itself from thousands of liberal-minded thinkers who are not socialistic but might be inclined to the milder or radical liberal views of Mr. Coldwell.

With political thinking within the old parties such as it is today, rise is given to and sympathetic consideration is commanded by such movements as that which dispatches credit Mr. Murray with suggesting. And there may be more such ideas although without particular geographical implications such as characterize Mr. Murray's.

You have some Canada Savings Bonds, Mrs. Ferguson: A few. All but one issue, I think.

How did you buy them?

Up to the present we've paid cash for all of them. My husband gave me two, and I paid for the others out of housekeeping money.

Why do you pay cash for them?

We have a plan that what we can't pay for, we don't have. What we have we own, like our house here.

What is your purpose in buying Bonds?

To know that I have saved, and to help when my husband retires. It's a wonderful thing to have for an emergency.

How did you start buying Government Bonds?

I bought a couple of bonds in the First World War when I was out in business in Montreal. These came in handy when I was getting married. I believe it's a good investment because you don't dribble at it the same as if you have some money in the bank. And then the interest is good.

Do you plan to buy the New Canada Savings Bonds?

NOW BETTER THAN EVER

 Canada Savings Bonds—6th Series—mature in 10 years and 9 months from date of issue and bear ten 31/2% coupons. If cashed before · August 1st, 1953, simple interest is paid at 2% per year, · · calculated monthly. If held to maturity the overall yield is · equivalent to 3.21% per year. R. G. Moore-Why doesn't the Civic Centre bring such artists as James Melton, Lauritz Melchior or John Charles Thomas? Don Forward-The main reason is that the fees of such artists would be in the $2000 to $3000 dollar range which would mean that we would have to fill every seat at $5 a seat to make expenses. On the other hand the Alaska Music Trail costs us $1200 for seven artists who give three concerts. The artists get very little if anything out of it for the money all goes into a pool. At the end of the season, after all expenses have been paid, if there is anything left in the pool it is divided among the artists, no booking agent getting a 10 to 50 percent cut as is the custom with any other

Miss Jeanne Faure-Lvery much enjoyed the concerts last year and I'm looking forward to the concerts this time. I personally think that good music is the highest art and tends to better us through the lasting enjoyment it provides.

McClintons Meet Princess, Duke

Inspector J. H. McClinton, RCMP, who was a sergeant with the old British Columbia Police here several years ago, took a leading part in the great reception which the city of Kamloops extended to Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip yesterday afternoon.

Princess and Duke riding in an open convertible, was accompanied by motorcycled Royal Canadian Mounted Police. Cheering crowds lined the thoroughfares and every vantage point such as store windows and roofs were filled.

Early in the day, hours ahead of time, people were in their places. Many had comfortable spots, sitting on camp stools to await the arrival of the royal pair. Days ago all camp stool supplies had been bought up in downtown stores.

Augmented police patrols held back the crowds. The streets through which the procession passed were cleared of all parked vehicles.

First official call was at the City Hall where Mayor Hume made the presentation of a gift and ar illuminated address. A bouquet was presented to the Princess on behalf of the city by six-year-old Elizabeth Marilyn (Lyn) Keenan, daughter of Mrs. Margaret Keenan and a pupil of Livingstone School. Still Room For Basketballers

There is still room for more basketball players, says Civic Centre Sports Director Fred Calderoni, who is specially interested in forming another junior team.

"We'll get the sponsors if we have the players," he says. There may be junior boys, he feels, that have not played before, or were not picked for a team. All those interested should contact Fred at the Civic Centre soon as possible.

Meanwhile, basketball opens tonight with the exhibition game between High School Rainmakers and Gordon & Anderson. The game is free to spectators and is played to determine the strength of the new-Rainmakers' lineup.

On Tuesday, the new 300 (CCC) team will face the Elks, in a similar bout. The Elks team is composed of last year's senior players here, but most of the men are new.
