Scouting, Good Work

THE BOY SCOUT movement in the course of the last four years has so thrived and progressed that it has become Prince Rupert's most important medium for the doing of good work among the boys of the city. There are now over 200 Boy Scouts and Wolf Cubs here and their ranks are constantly growing. The only restrictive factor appears to be the difficulty of obtaining leaders.

This is Boy Scout week when an appeal is made to public-spirited citizens to generously assist the annual financial appeal for funds to assist in carrying on the good work. We have no hesitation in bespeaking support for the drive on behalf of an organization which specializes in teaching boys the principles of good citizenship, obedience, loyalty and self-reliance.

When we think of the Boy Scouts we think of the useful, interesting and wholesome pursuits in which the lads show so much enthusiasm and derive so much fun and pleasure. Possibly more abstract but nonetheless important is the inculcation of the principles of good democratic citizenship in these troubled days.

Politics In Aluminum

ALL THE political hue and cry at Washington notwithstanding, the availability of cheap hydro power in this part of British Columbia—the costs having been found to be the lowest in the world—is the big factor which will most likely still react to the ultimate establishment of the great aluminum industry at Kitimat.

Shortage so early in the defence program emphasizes the importance of the projected British Columbia aluminum industry. Yet it appears that some United States politicians would ignore the essentiality of getting this great supply of an essential material as they fight the British Columbia industry in the hope of getting it for themselves.

As I See It

by Elmore Philpott

YOUNGEST-OLDEST LAND

CAIRO, EGYPT.—The sleek ship Chusan arrived at Port Said just after daybreak. My first glimpse of Egypt was an amusing anti-climax—great signs reading Johnny Walker, Coca-Cola and Socony gasoline.

Even before you land at Port Said, you get a fore-glimpse of the enterprise and energy of this old land—brimming over with super-abundant vitality. All sorts of small craft make for the ship, shouting their wares.

The preliminaries for landing are quickly over. I was taken aboard a bit when the passport officer laughed right out loud at my name. But not for long. It seemed that my first name, Elmore, was the same as his last name, El More.

I had a small-sized army of helpers getting me through the quarantine and customs. The contact man for the famous Sheppard's Hotel, of Cairo took me under his ample wing. But also two friends of a Cairo friend of a friend of mine in San Jose, California, turned up even before I got ashore. I was glad of that, for the babble and confusion in the customs house at Port Said was really something of a shock. People seemed to be running in all directions and shouting at the top of their lungs. To judge by the tone of the voices, and once even a shaken fist, you might have imagined that a riot was about to break out.

But everything came out OK. Soon we were free to look around.

CONTRARY TO WHAT I had been led to expect, I liked Port Said. That was no doubt due to the fact that my new-found friends did such a friendly job. Jack Risgalla, a young business man, showed me the town, gave me tea and cake, and put me safely aboard the train for Cairo.

He is a close relation of Mrs. Remy-Girod, wife of the Swiss Vice-Consul in Toronto. His helper was Kamal Effendi—smiling, pearly-toothed, black-haired and looking too young to be the father of two children.

EVEN IN PORT SAID I got the first overpowering impression of expansion and renewed energy. They are building apartments as fine as anything we have built in Canada recently and many kinds of building is going on.

But it was the so-called Arab quarter that really thrilled me. Obviously the sanitary conditions were not good. But the teeming throngs of youngsters radiated a laughing cheerfulness. Hawkers were selling all sorts of things in the streets. People were rushing in all directions.

I RODE UP TO CAIRO in the first-class compartment. For about five minutes I had an old French-speaking woman as a companion. She was pouring out something about my rheumatism—I think that her husband had died of it, and was now "couchant en ciel," which I took to be sleeping in heaven.

Appalled by my deliberate dumbness, the old girl fled.

IN PORT SAID there are red-fuzzed gentlemen for company—so many fuzzes, in fact, I almost thought I was back on the Shriners' special train from California to Vancouver.

IN PORT SAID there are plenty of horse-drawn cabs, as well as cars. But in the farm land you see asses, horses, camels and oxen—all beside roads as good as ours in America, with their trucks, autos and even road-

Taking Cruise To Australia

A spring cruise to southern waters, including Australia—is to be the experience of Harvey Carstensen of Prince Rupert's naval reserve division, HMCS Chatham. watering vehicles.

They say the people are appallingly poor. They say almost all the land is owned by rich landlords, who exact extortionate rents, or who hire the so-called fellahen for a miserly wage per day.

But everybody you see working on that land seems hustling. Of all the hundreds, maybe thousands, of people I saw on those farms, I never saw a loiterer. Energy was in every move.

One young man, clothed in the regular long white-nightgown-looking affair, suddenly hurled himself to the ground, with his forehead literally touching the earth, pointing toward Mecca. If energy counts for anything in prayer, surely Allah will listen to that young man's appeal.

This youngest oldest land is all like that—on the move, somewhere.

Reflects and Reminisces

Housing relief amounting to something substantial will be seen in conversion of the administration block on First Avenue near Seventh Street into some sixty apartments. Announced in The News Wednesday, it came as an exceedingly welcome report. New, central and convenient, the accommodation will fill a requirement urgently needed.

A Quesnel publisher is missing a fur-lined parka, a jacket and a hat. Thieves had called at the sanctum. Yet, they were thoughtful wrong-doers. One cannot but admit that. The pockets had all been emptied of letters and papers which were carefully stacked on the desk. A fur-lined parka comes in handy in frosty weather, and the Caribou has been having plenty. Still, that does not excuse.

One would like to say Prince Rupert's winter has ended for it's grand to feel a softer air, and the smooth, firm touch of sidewalk or street, barren of ice or snow. There is something wearisome in trying to walk, with one's mind on caution and care. Where there's ice, there's also more or less fear of suddenly sensing your feet shooting from under you.

Training having been completed, Canada's regiment in Korea, the Princess Patricia's, are on the way into the fighting zone. It is understood that as many as half are veterans. The proportion may be even more. All are said to be eagerly looking forward to seeing service and Canada can feel confident of the result.

A clergyman who became the author of best sellers, Lloyd C. Douglas is dead, at Los Angeles in his seventy-third year. His books were read. "The Robe," one of his greatest successes, failed however, as a screen knockout. In 1943, Mr. Douglas sold the novel to the movies. A total of $750,000 was poured into it but, as a motion picture enterprise, it just didn't click and was abandoned. The novel's central theme went back to the time of the Crucifixion.

What to do with the Senators is again on the cards. Some years ago, a canvass of opinion concerned the retiring age, but that does not mean there will come a day when it will be in effect. If memory serves, seventy five years is an age that enjoys a lot of support. The Senate has been called Canada's finest Club but that has a touch of satire.

The administration building, soon to become tenanted, has abundant light on every side which is more than can be said for many other premises. For a householder to have plenty of light, as well as a delightful view, is a valuable advantage. To have, for example, the spacious spectacle of one of the world's finest harbors is something to merit satisfaction.

WHAT Personal Planners ARE SAYING

"This information came when most needed..."

"... now I think we can really live and save with Personal Planning."

"Up-to-date and practical for present living conditions."

People in every walk of life are finding benefit in Personal Planning — and many of them have written to tell us how they feel about it. All agree on one point in particular: the need for Personal Planning in these days of high living costs.

WHAT IS Personal Planning?

Personal Planning shows you how to live within your income and enjoy it.

Tall order? Not as tall as you think. Personal Planning faces facts. One, that you have to live within your income. Two, that you must have a budget-plan that works for you, not you for it. Three, that a budget-plan — to work — must be your budget-plan, planned for your needs by you. It must fit your individual circumstances.

And Personal Planning goes one big step further. It shows you how to enjoy life within your income, by helping you to plan and build on what you have.

You can only be happy today if you're not worried about tomorrow. Pick up your copy of "Personal Planning" today. It's yours for the asking at any branch of the B of M. There's no obligation... except to yourself.

You will like reading our B of M booklet about Personal Planning. It's written in a breezy, informal style and generously illustrated with light, cheerful sketches.

Service Clubs To Stage Shows

Rotarians and Gyros are to get together in sponsoring a couple of special entertainments this spring.

One will take the form of a variety concert some Sunday night in the Capitol Theatre, the proceeds to be divided between the clubs for their community service funds. Plan is to specialize in talent coming from the ranks of the two clubs.

The other will be a minstrel show to be held about two months hence, the Gyros having agreed at their luncheon yesterday to co-operate in sponsoring the two night and matinee presentation to be held at the Civic Centre auditorium.

Discussion of these concerts and other matters occupied the Gyros at their monthly business luncheon yesterday with President Don Forward in the chair.

Biz-Pros Talk World Affairs

After dinner in the Civic Centre Dining Room, the Business and Professional Women's Club adjourned to the Ladies' Lounge for their monthly meeting.

Among Business and Professional Women's Clubs, February is set aside as International Month and a time for thinking of other Business and Professional Women's Clubs the world over. Accordingly at this month's meeting a message was read from Dame Caroline Haslett, D.B.E., president of the International Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, stressing the important part women in such an organization can play in maintaining world peace and bettering world conditions.

Mrs. Arnold, newly appointed Chairman of the United Nations Committee for the Canadian Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, read the Declaration of Human Rights.

One new member, Miss Mary Landry, was initiated.

Don Forward visited the club and requested aid in selling tickets in connection with the recital of Miss Virginia Davis, to be held March 29, 1951. The members decided they would do all they could to help make this event a financial success.

The meeting ended with the reading of a play and the decision to put an entry in this year's Music and Drama Festival.

More Families But Smaller

1951 Census Will Reveal Interesting Facts

OTTAWA.—Changes in the number and average size of Canadian families will be revealed by the ninth decennial census of Canada, to be taken in June this year. During the 10 years from 1931 to 1941 the average number of children per family decreased. Since 1941 the number of families has risen far more than during the 1930's but it is probable that the average number of children per family has decreased further in spite of a marked increase in the birth rate. Exactly how much each has changed will be shown by the 1951 census.

The 1931 census enumerated 2,149,000 families, while at the 1941 census 2,525,000 were recorded, an increase of 17.5 per cent. Judging by estimates for years since 1941, the 1951 census will show a still larger proportionate, as well as numerical, increase over 1941. The estimated number of families in June, 1949, the latest date for which such an estimate is available, was 3,187,000, an increase of over 26 per cent since 1941.

Regarding the factors in family formation, there has been an average of 106,800 marriages yearly over the period 1941-49 of persons marrying for the first time, while in the period 1931-40 the yearly average was 75,200. There has also been a considerable immigration of families into Canada since the Second World War.

In 1931 there were 4,965,000 children in families, an average of 2.3 per family. In 1941 the number was up to 5,200,000, but

This Comedy Is Different

A different type of comedy, the picture "Francis," coming to the Capitol Theatre this Friday and Saturday night, deals with an Army mule which carries Donald O'Connor, an Army lieutenant, to safety when the young officer gets lost from his command and is wounded by Jap gunfire in the Burma jungle.

The mule, according to the hilarious story, takes a liking to Donald and tips him off to Jap planes several times, resulting in Donald becoming a hero. But each time he explains that the mule tipped him off, the lieutenant is tossed into the psych ward. Patricia Medina is a pretty spy with whom Donald nearly falls in love but who is arrested before things go too far. Then the war ends and Donald and his mule live happily together.

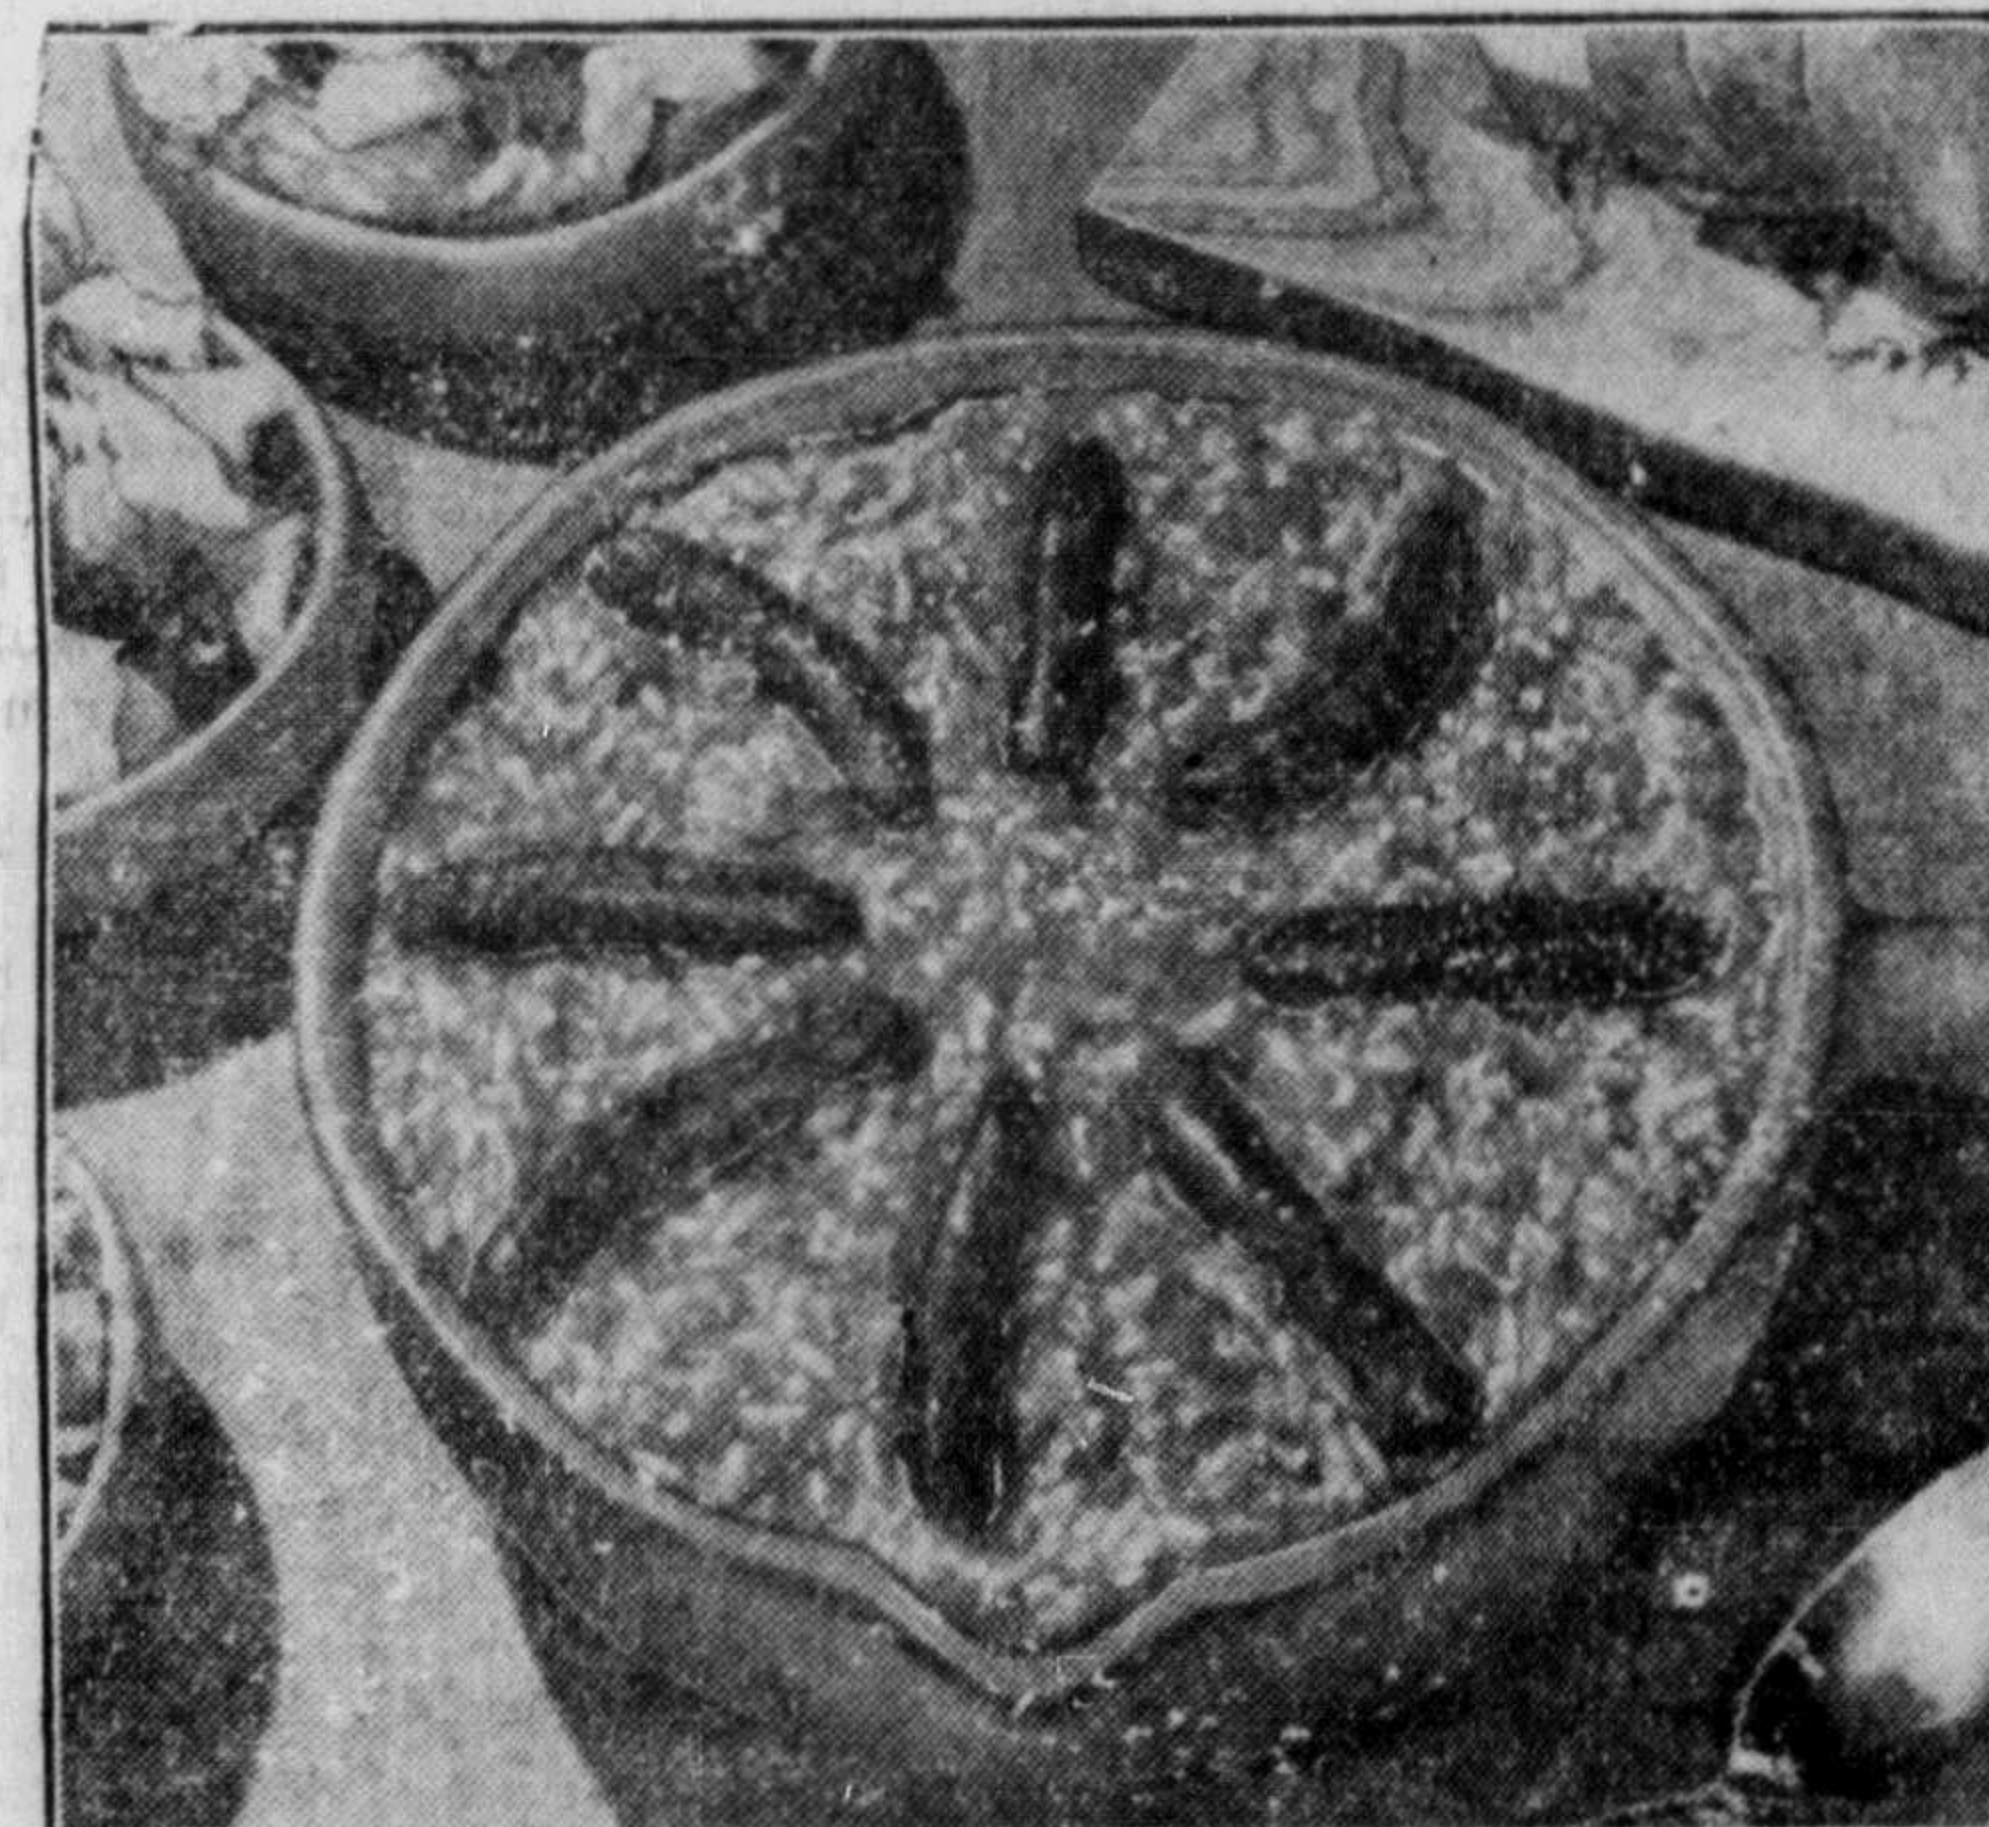

Zazu Pitts is her old laughable self as an Army nurse, Ray Collins is a comical colonel and John McIntire is a general.

the average per family was down to 2.1 children. The reduced 1941 average reflects the lower birth rate of the 1930's, the average birth rate for this period being 20.9 per 1000 of the population as compared with 24.1 for 1900 over the period 1926-30.

Since the 1930's the birth rate has risen; for the period 1941-48 the yearly average was 24.9 per 1000. However, the increase in the 1940's was due largely to the increase in marriages and, consequently, in first and second births, and not to a relative increase in the birth, say, of fourth, fifth and later children. Accordingly, while the 1951 census will show a considerably larger number of both children in families and of families with children, the average number of children per family is not likely to exceed the average for 1941.

Sausage-Tomato Scallop

AN OVEN-SUPPER dish to fit nicely with your hurried winter schedule is this: Rice baked in condensed tomato soup and topped with well-browned little sausages. The soup gives a good moistness to the rice. And there's flavor aplenty from the smooth tomato sauce, savory sausage, and onion. You'll dish it all up in no time, once the family gets a taste of this combination.

Sausage-Tomato Scallop

1/2 cup uncooked rice
1 can (1 1/2 cups) condensed tomato soup
1/2 cup water
2 tablespoons chopped green pepper
1/2 cup chopped onion
8 link sausage

Stir the rice into the soup and water which have been blended together in a casserole. Mix the chopped green pepper and onion through the soup-rice mixture. Bake 1 1/2 hours in a moderate oven (350°F.). After the first half hour of baking, stir up the rice in the soup; then place the pre-browned sausage on top of the rice-soup mixture and bake for remaining time. Serves 4.

SOUP SCOOPS

Lunch In A Hurry: More than half the lunches prepared are "last minute" affairs, according to 3,100 homemakers who took part in a recent survey. And one popular quick lunch is big bowls of hot soup and a dessert. A good combination of this type is vegetable soup and apple pie.

Individual Meat Loaves: Next time you're making meat loaf, pack the meat mixture in muffin pans so you have individual loaves. And for a special sauce to pour on at serving time, heat cream of mushroom soup.

Measuring Tip: There are 1 1/4 cups of soup in each can of the condensed soups. Keep this figure in mind when you're planning to serve soup to the family or guests.

Tight Skirt Line Snubbed

Provincial Girls Turn Ey Glances on London Styles
By MURIEL NARRAWAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—North Country buyers visiting London spring fashion shows took one look at the new tight skirt-line in woolen suits and predicted it would not go down well back home.

The women in the north of England and Scotland like ease in clothes. They demand pleats in both suits and dresses and the most popular designs are plain, classic styles.

They also favor designs that will not date easily.

"London girls like to look smart and provincial girls prefer to look pretty," one fashion writer summed it up.

Lionel Appleby, sales manager of a London firm selling tailors' "dummies," thinks there is a reason for the provincial sales resistance to slim skirts. He blames it on a larger hipline.

Birmingham tailors, for instance, ask for a 36 1/2-inch hipline on a dummy with a 34-inch bust. In London, Brighton and the South of England girls are closer to the North American figure — a 34 1/2-inch hip and a 34-inch bust.

NO INSULT INTENDED
"I don't want to insult the ladies," said Appleby, "but the dummies we sell to firms manufacturing for the provinces have to be wider around the hips and bust than those sold to the London trade. There's a bigger trade in outsizes, also."

Manufacturers find a considerable resistance outside London to the new trumpet skirt line. They blame buyers for playing safe and sticking to "bread-and-butter" lines.

In reply, one North Country buyer said: "Fashion changes in clothes must come gradually. Today's clothes prices are too expensive for any violent fashion revolution. The trumpet line can be difficult to wear unless the flare is placed in exactly the right spot."

Buyers realize, however, that sooner or later, as long as wool prices remain high, the slim skirts must also reach the provinces. They predict that, when this happens, the most popular choice will be the tube look.

Plain straight skirts with a slight cross-over or those with one inverted or a deep knife pleat will get a far warmer reception than the knee-hugging hobble or the godet flare.

Ma's Ironing Is Character Clue

LONDON (Reuters)—A unique gadget called the "ironing recorder" has helped scientists prove that the way a woman irons her husband's shirt is a guide to her character.

The experts say quick, careless ironing with frequent change of direction means the lady is an erratic, slapdash person who dislikes household chores.

If she moves the iron jerkily and unevenly, she has an artistic, impulsive temperament — and would be better at a career than home-making.

And if she often goes back over the same piece of cloth, she is easy-going but insecure. She prefers her husband to make the decisions of the family.

But luckily for most women's peace of mind, their character can't be exposed that way unless the "ironing recorder" is plugged into their irons.

That's not likely, either, because there's only one in Britain.

British Fathers To Have Day

LONDON (CP)—British fathers, the fellows who usually "shell out" for the many special annual events, are to have a day all to themselves as Canada has had for years.

An organization known as the Father's Day Association has decided something should be done to cheer up the "old man," by encouraging the giving of suitable gifts.

G. H. Redfern, secretary of the new association, admits the idea is primarily designed to boost trade. Subscribers, he said, were mainly manufacturers of articles fathers might welcome, such as pipes, pens and propelling pencils.

"There is no humbug about this association," Mr. Redfern said. "The idea is to devote one day each year to the interests and welfare of fathers. But I am not saying that we will all go to church on Father's Day."

Pop's Day will likely be the last Sunday in June.

THE EXPERTS Say...

By KAY REX
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WASTE SPACE—Let's take a look at those half-empty food lockers, and a second glance at the food budget.

At this time of year most of the vegetables and fruit stored last summer have been consumed. "Waste" space is left.

And we mean that literally. Waste. Because that space costs money. Lockers are paid for by the year—so why leave them half empty?

This is one problem for which home economists are trying to find a solution.

And they've come up with some encouraging results.

Sandwiches can be kept frozen for months on end. Cakes also can be frozen, coming out as delicious as the day they were put in.

This news should be cheerful to the ear of the housewife who must count lunch-box packing among her daily chores.

It means she can pack enough lunches to last a month, putting them in the freezer until needed.

BEST FILLINGS—Leftover meat, fish and peanut-butter are the best fillings for sandwiches which are to be frozen. Lettuce, tomatoes and hard-cooked eggs should be avoided as they do not keep well. Mayonnaise should not be used as a spread as it tends to make the bread soggy under freezing.

Cooked food to be frozen must be wrapped carefully in moisture and vapor-proof paper.

The experts say bread also stands up well under freezing. In the near future they hope to look into the possibility of freezing such goodies as angel-cakes, cookies, rolls and pies.

So far the results they have obtained are encouraging.

POWDERED MILK TESTS—Home economists have another project on the way — studying properties of the powdered skimmed milk now being sold in most grocery stores.

"As far as food value is concerned this skimmed milk has all the calcium of ordinary milk — in fact it has everything except the butterfat," said one of the home economists. "We are checking the various types of powdered milk to see how they react."

The experts have found several of the companies manufacturing this powdered milk are giving American measures in their reconstitution directions.

They warn that an American quart equals 32 ounces while a Canadian quart equals 40 ounces — better remember that next time you use a recipe from a United States cook-book.

The home economists are trying to find out whether adding more of this powdered skimmed milk to a food will put more calcium into the diet.

They also are anxious to find out whether it must be mixed with water before it can be used to replace milk in baking.

"We've tried it in custards and found it better when it was reconstituted," said one of the cooking experts.

In their experiments the home economists have been using the dried milk in everything from puddings to gravies—and so far have found it satisfactory.

Paris To Observe Birthday

PARIS (AP)—Paris will celebrate the 2,000th anniversary of its founding this year, whether the historians agree or not. Julius Caesar, the objectors assert, referred to the City of Lutetia Parisiorum (now simplified to Paris) as existing in 53 B.C. They claim it must have been founded much earlier than that.

Whatever the exact date, everyone is agreed that the Ile de la Cite (where Notre Dame stands today) was the birthplace of Paris. It still is the geographical heart of the city.

There, on the largest of three marshy islands embraced by two arms of the River Seine, the first huts were built of willow branches and rushes by savages.

Then the empire-building Romans came and for four centuries the infant Paris remained in relative obscurity.

When the Romans left, Paris embarked on a succession of wars, pestilences and miseries.

In the 14th century, while France was waging its 100 years' war with England, Paris was still unpaved.

Several French kings then and later helped embellish the capital. They were Saint Louis, Charles V, Francois I, Louis XII and Louis XIV.

But as new features were added, others were destroyed.

Wars between Roman Catholics and Protestants succeeded the 100 years war.

HUGUENOT MASSACRE
In 1572 Paris turned one of the bloodiest pages of its history. Two thousand Huguenot Protestants were put to the sword on order of the mad king Charles IX in the massacre of Saint Bartholomew's Eve.

Eighteen years later, amidst wild rejoicings, a Protestant king—Henry IV of Navarre—rode into Paris.

City planning really took strides under Louis XV.

At that time, too, Paris was getting its first reputation as a city of light morals. But the people were preparing revolution.

A mob stormed the Bastille—that dreaded fortress-prison where men were chained for years in dungeons without trial on a simple order from the king—July 14, 1789.

The early victories of a young general called Napoleon Buonaparte—who became a consul, then an emperor—brought a certain stability back to Paris. He started building the Arch of Triumph but was toppled from the throne before it was finished.

After Waterloo, a Bourbon king (Louis XVIII) was king of France once more.

Fifteen years later all Paris was seething. The last Bourbon king, Charles IX, was thrown out after bloody rioting and dull Louis-Philippe of the House of Orleans became the "Citizen King."

In 1848, barricades again were thrown across the streets and Louis hastily abdicated.

THE SECOND EMPIRE
Paris knew four uneasy years of turmoil under the second republic before another change. Then Napoleon III, great-nephew of Napoleon, founded the Second Empire in 1852.

Always haunted by his fear of the Paris mob, he wanted wide, straight avenues and open squares so the populace could be controlled with his cannon in the event of riots. An area was laid out around the first Napoleon's Arch of Triumph as a star-shaped space from which eight boulevards radiated. Churches and theatres, city parks and new bridges, were constructed.

But the war shadow fell again in 1870 when Bismark's Prussians marched. The French army was destroyed and Napoleon III was taken prisoner.

Finally, spike-helmeted Prussians stomped down the Champs Elysees—a march they were to repeat 70 years later under Hitler. The once-gay Paris was a city of the dead.

When the Prussians withdrew, the revolutionary government of the Commune held sway. Thousands were executed within its few months' rule, before the Third Republic gained control.

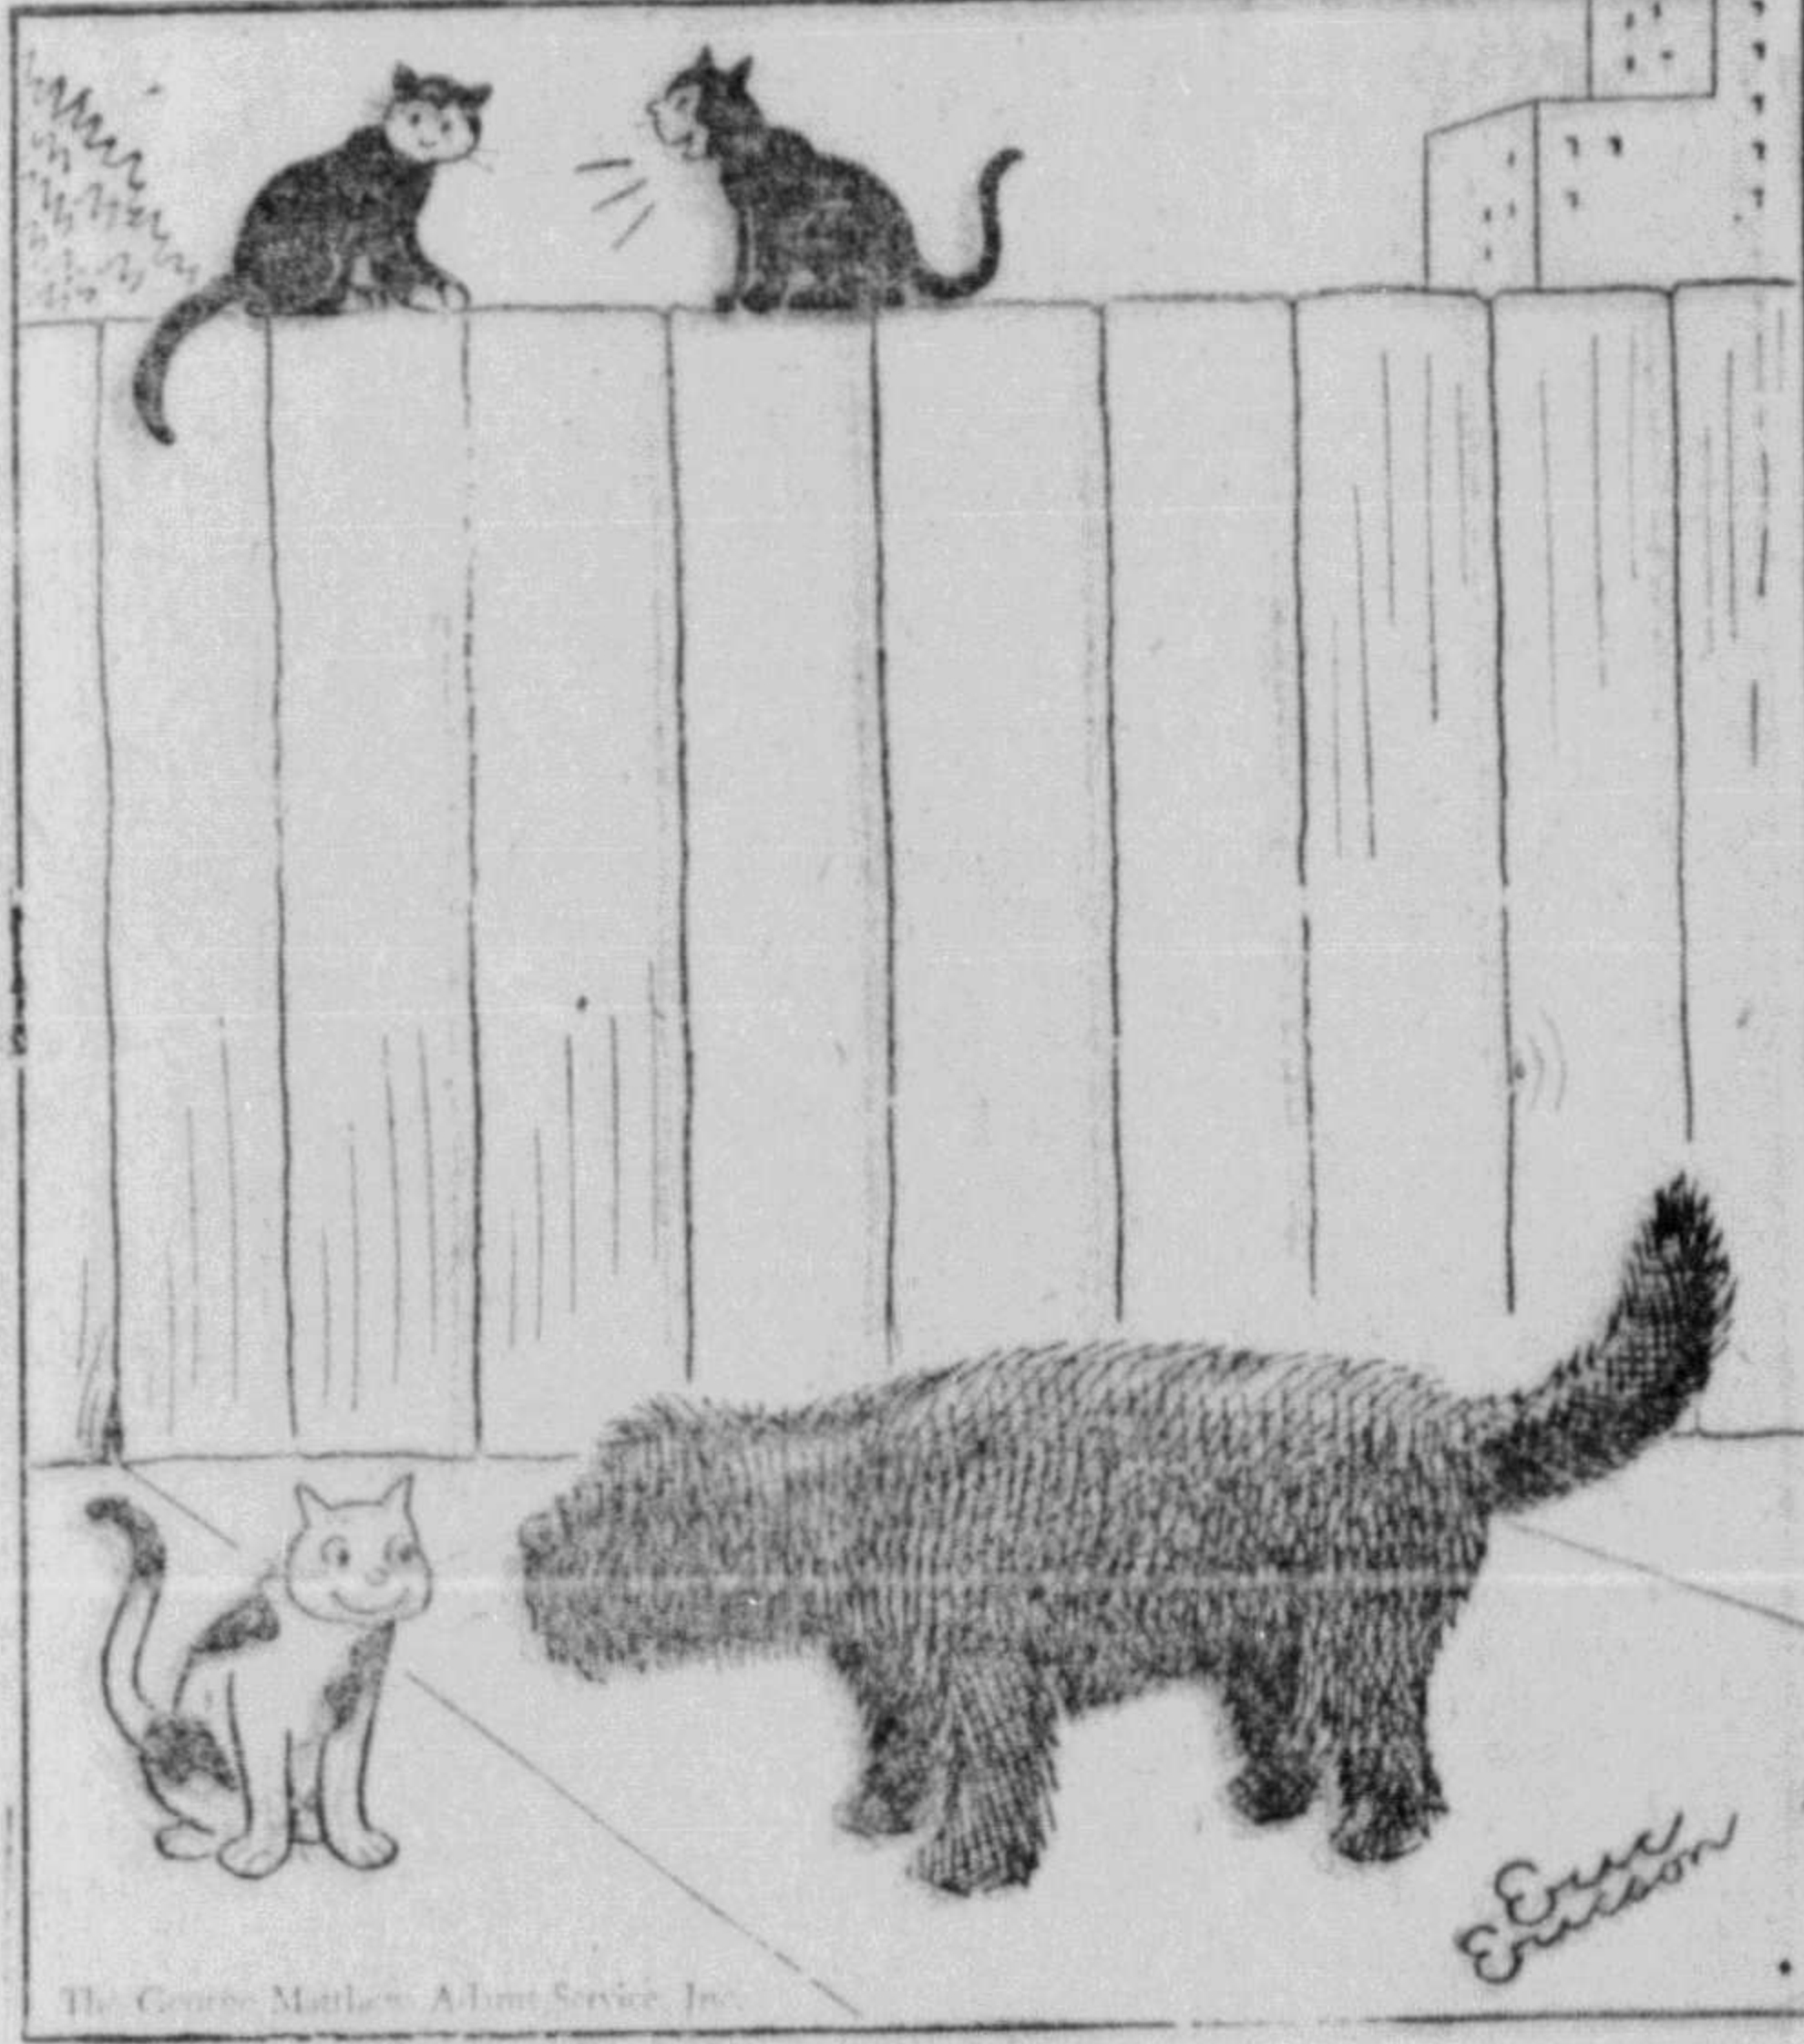

The closing years of the century saw Paris gay again.

Twice Paris was threatened directly by German advances in 1914 and 1918. On the first occasion, with the enemy armies close to the Marne, the little red taxis drove reinforcements to the battle.

In the Second World War, Paris was a sullen, defeated city, until the day of liberation, August 25, 1944.

Now, with conditions almost normal, Parisians are worried that another war may make a new page in their city's stormy history.

But celebration plans are going ahead. Fetes, pageants, ball illuminations are all being prepared.

"If he knew it was a dog he'd run like the dickens!"

Fisheries Aluminum

No Conflict Over Power In British Columbia

OTTAWA.—The federal Department of Fisheries has put forward a solution to the difficult fisheries problem involved in the Aluminum Company's development in the Tweedsmuir Park area of British Columbia, a solution which is reported to be biologically feasible and economically practical to the company. A report has been prepared jointly by the Department of Fisheries, the Fisheries Research Board and the International Pacific Salmon Fisheries Commission.

Briefly, the solution involves the release of water to salmon streams—water not originally considered necessary and now included only because of a change in dam sites brought about by construction difficulties.

"The fishing industry is confident that the Aluminum Company of Canada will give favorable consideration to the very reasonable recommendations that have been made for the protection of a valuable fisheries resource," S. M. Rosenberg, chairman of the Salmon Carriers' Operating Committee, said in commenting on the department's suggested solution.

If the solution put forward by fisheries authorities is accepted by the company, it will result in the saving of the fisheries in the area which has an annual value of at least $1,817,000.

"The public will be very pleased to learn," Mr. Rosenberg continued, "that a practical and economical solution has been found which will ensure the establishment of this tremendous project and at the same time preserve a vitally important food resource. It confirms our basic belief, and I feel sure it is a belief shared by the government, that power and fisheries can exist and develop together and that there is no need to sacrifice one for the other."

Mr. Rosenberg noted that local officials of the Aluminum Company have shown a willingness to co-operate with fisheries scientists for the good of the province, and he hoped that there would be fuller co-operation and greater harmony in the future.

IN QUESNEL AREA

Mr. Rosenberg referred also to the current proposal for the development of power in the Quessel area. "Here we are concerned with potentially the most important run of sockeye in the whole Fraser watershed," he said, "and here, too, fortunately, a solution can be found. Power is needed for the development of this rich and important area of the province, and enough power for present and future needs is available on the North Fork of the Quessel River and on other centrally located streams not used by salmon."

Mr. Rosenberg concluded by saying that the industry hoped that the pattern of co-operation established in the planning for power projects on the Nechako and the Quessel would be followed to an even greater extent whenever the utilization of water resources for power was being considered in the future. "There is no conflict between fisheries and power," he said. "We are both interested in the development and prosperity of British Columbia."

Blackwood on Bridge

By Easley Blackwood

When my friend Miss Brash doubled the five-card heart she was asking her partner to lead a heart. This was the eventual declarer on the hand. This device used by many players to indicate a good lead after an artificial response to the Blackwood

North (Mr. Dale)	East (Miss Brash)
S-3	S-10 9 5
H-7 10 5 8	H-A Q 9 2
D-A 7	D-K 9 4 2
C-AK 8 5 4	C-10 6

The double in this situation should be used with great care. Occasionally it will steer partner into the only defense that will beat a slam. Sometimes, however, it is used when it should be avoided. Used improperly, it may tell the enemy how to play a hand right. Or, as in this particular deal, it may help the opponents to reach a slam or to stay out of a nonmakeable slam.

Mr. Abel was wandering about out in centre field after Mr. Dale replied five hearts to his four no trump bid. He must have had some vague hope that his partner would turn up with three aces.

Just how Mr. Abel meant to learn about the diamond situation is not clear. If partner had the ace of hearts and the ace of clubs there were possibly two quick diamond losers.

Mr. Abel was just about to bid five spades and forget about the slam when Miss Brash put in her double of five hearts. That did it, Miss Brash announced she had the ace of hearts so Mr. Dale's ace had to be in clubs and diamonds. The matter was settled, Mr. Abel bid six spades without a moment's hesitation.

As requested, Mr. Champion led the seven of hearts and Miss Brash won the ace but that was her last trick. Mr. Abel's losing diamond went on dummy's club suit and the contract was easily made.

Mr. Abel and Mr. Dale were floundering around, bidding the hand badly. But with Miss Brash on their side the three of them finally landed the hand in the right spot.

LA MOTTA DETHRONED—Robinson Wins Middle Title

CHICAGO (AP)—Sugar Ray Robinson stripped groggy, blood-smeared Jake LaMotta of his world middleweight title last night on a technical knockout at two minutes, four seconds of the thirteenth round without art Olson, Brwds 14 150 never being floored.

Perferce Frank Sykora stepped between the fierce battlers as the squat Bronx Bull sagged and grabbed Sugar Ray's trunks to avoid a knockdown. LaMotta, game but badly beaten in the last five rounds, clutched ropes and wandered to his corner under his own power.

The slick Harlem sugar daddy automatically yielded his world welterweight crown under Illinois rules when his hand was raised in victory. But he became the fourth man in boxing history to have held both welter and middle crowns during their careers.

Robinson speared stout Jake with searing lefts in the early rounds while retreating under LaMotta's body fire. When he opened the floodgates in the ninth, the end was in sight.

Savage and strong at 155, Robinson left no doubt about this sixth renewal of a series starting in 1942 before either won a title. He took his revenge on Jake, only man to beat him in his brilliant 123-bout career.

And he took it the only way he knows, setting him up with those stabbing jabs, bobbing Jake's red-splotched head with his uppercuts and wobbling his man with looping rights to the head.

SUMMERLAND ARENA

Statistics—Population (including urban residents)—About 3500 people.

Cost of Arena	Avg. Share per Person
Cash $25,000	Cash $ 7.00
Voluntary labor 50,000	Labor 14.00

Total $75,000 Per person $21.50
Designer and builder—L. E. Tory, Vancouver, B.C.
Facilities—Standard size hockey and skating sheet
—Three sheets of curling ice
—Dressing rooms, etc.
—Seating approximately 1000 people

Financing—Donations by co-operation of all citizens, business, clubs, etc., provided the $25,000 cash for materials and supervision —Volunteer labor built the arena.

Fifteen hundred people jammed the arena on opening night when the Kelowna Figure Skating Club gave a performance, followed by skating, racing, broomball and hockey. The arena is similar to that at Cranbrook, with the additional curling sheets under bleachers at one side of the ice surface.

Mr. Tory, the contractor, drew and supplied the plans, and supplied the plans, constructed and put into place the foundation and trusses, for a cost of $5000. The Rink Association took over from this point and hired a competent builder at $12.00 per day to supervise the volunteer labor during completion of the project. All material for the arena was purchased out of the $25,000 cash funds raised, as well as paying Mr. Tory's fee and the wages of the building foreman.

Volunteer work crews were organized on every possible day, with crews of up to 30 men. Further crews worked in the evenings, from 7 to 10 o'clock. This successful project is a tribute to Summerland's community spirit—a project of which all residents can feel justly proud. In the case of Summerland, with one quarter Prince Rupert's population, its great success is admirable indeed.

What about it Prince Rupert?—surely we have a community spirit! Why can't we do it here if we wish an arena? Watch tomorrow's paper for our own possibilities.

Survey Is Postponed

Students of Booth Memorial High School, feeling that additional time is desirable for perfect planning of the canvass, it was announced today that the survey of the city for support of the ice arena project should be postponed for a week. Accordingly, the canvass will be made at the end of next week instead of this week as at first planned.
