The minister, in charge of grain marketing, said at the annual meeting of the Alberta Wheat Pool that he is prepared to recommend legislation for interim credit for farmers with cashed grain and those who, for one reason or another, have been unable to deliver their grain to country elevators.

Mr. Howe said that legislation would be introduced at the current session of Parliament in expectation that the plan would be in operation by the early part of January.

After a preliminary investigation, police said "no charges were being laid for the time being."

Move Made In Brewery Strike

VANCOUVER (CP)—Striking brewery workers made a move Friday aimed at bringing beer back to British Columbia.

Officials of the International Brewery and Distillery Workers' Union said they had sent a wire to Victoria asking Hon. John Cates, minister of labor, to arrange a meeting with company officials.

The strike started five weeks ago. Since that time beer supplies have dwindled to a trickle. Friday's move was the first official step by either side to end the deadlock.

OTTAWA (CP)—Members of the House of Commons, while endorsing a 33½ increase in war disability pensions, Friday renewed demands for increases in pensions to dependents of veterans and in allowances paid to needy veterans prematurely aged by war service.

Hon. Hugues Lapointe, minister of veterans' affairs, said the pensions paid to dependent parents and to veterans with meritorious service will be reviewed by the pensions commission. These pensions were not set by statute but set by the commission, depending on individual circumstances.

Mr. Lapointe spoke before Commons gave third and final reading to a bill providing for pension increases. The bill now goes to the Senate.

Atlantic Tragedy

CHARLESTON, South Carolina (CP)—Only survivor of a yacht, tragedy which took eight lives sobbed out his story of a four-day nightmare aboard a small lifeboat without food or water.

In the boat with the survivor, Gustav Fraser, rescuers found the bodies of the yacht's skipper, his wife and their dying 12-year-old son.

Four others died at sea and the yacht's navigator had jumped overboard to end his life.

Fraser told how the grim saga began last Monday at Moorehead City, North Carolina, where the yacht Amphitrite put out.

St. Thomas in the Virgin Islands. The yacht sprang a leak and high winds and heavy seas flung the 96-foot craft on a reef. All nine aboard took to a lifeboat but, in their haste, forgot water and provisions. Followed four days of hunger and thirst.

All had arrived separately at the office of Luis Padilla Nervo, Mexican president of the United Nations General Assembly, who presided.

Nervo told newsmen that four proponents of rival disarmament plans agreed on rules for getting down to the meat of the matter and decided to meet again Monday.

Women Entering Public Affairs

MONTREAL (CP)—Mrs. Cicely Sampson, recently-elected vice-president of the Progressive Conservative Women's Organization for the Montreal district, thinks women are becoming more and more aware of their responsibilities in public affairs.

Mrs. Sampson, a lawyer, who recently became the first woman to plead a case in the Supreme Court of Canada, said in an interview, women's growing attempts to have their viewpoints heard will lead many of them into politics.

This is as it should be, she says, because "women are just as responsible for the state of the world as men. After all, government is only housekeeping on a larger scale."

Law and politics are not Mrs. Sampson's only interests. She has worked on possible prison reforms and feels that jails should be operated like federal penitentiaries where prisoners are put to work learning trades and producing things.

For relaxation, she runs a 100-acre farm in Brome County where she spends every available week-end growing vegetables and apples.

WEATHER

Synopsis Weather conditions remain very unsettled over all of B.C. again. Strong gusty winds and showers are general along the coast and rain is falling in the southern interior. ## Back to Christmas PUT CHRIST back into Christmas." Around that slogan, or variations of it, individuals and groups in more than 20 communities throughout the land are trying to separate Christmas bells from those on cash registers.

With no formal national organization these workers seek to restore in the public mind the idea that Christmas is a religious feast observing the birth of Christ rather than a pumped-up excuse for buying bingle.

In some areas the movement has been under way for several years. Others are trying it for the first time. In some the campaign is backed by church groups, Protestant and Catholic. In others merchants' associations supply the driving force. Accomplishments reported thus far include:

- Shortening of the official shopping season.
- Use of Nativity scenes as store window and park decorations.
- Parades and pageants with Biblical themes and devoid of all advertising or commercialism.
- Discouraging the use of the abbreviation "Xmas."
- Sending of greeting cards with religious decor.
- Bans on the playing of carols in shopping districts.
- Discouraging the playing of carols so far or so often before Christmas that they fall upon jaded ears when December 25 does arrive.

A vigorous worker in the campaign is Mrs. Anthony Eberhardt of Dubuque, Iowa, who wrote articles for six Catholic magazines publicizing the project. She received more than 100 letters asking advice on how to follow Dubuque's lead.

In Dubuque, where a Catholic mother's study club went to work in October, 1950, city-wide consideration of the plan was obtained. Large window displays were placed on leading streets, 100 neighborhood stores had Nativity scenes and nearly 2000 private homes had cribs or religious displays.

"Our hope is that through the united effort on the part of people of all faiths the Christ Child will be restored to his rightful place at Christmas, publicly and in our hearts through deeds of charity, kindness and love of neighbor," Mrs. Eberhardt said. —Seattle Times.

Putting Rink Over

LOCAL curling enthusiasts have demonstrated how difficulties can be surmounted when there is really the will and incentive.

The curlers wanted a rink and they needed at least $10,000 to finance it. Plenty of lesser objectives have bogged down but the curlers were determined and enthusiastic and they raised the money.

Now they have the material and the equipment. The cheapest part of the effort is all that is needed now—the volunteer labor to finish the project.

A couple of weeks' concentrated work now will put the thing over and the rink will be ready for operation.

The backers of the project are hoping that the final work push will be forthcoming without delay.

Since the ice of the curling rink is to be made available during certain periods to the children for skating, the importance is being emphasized of completing the project with the least possible delay so as to be ready before the Christmas and New Year holiday season.

Left to go until after the holiday season, the best part of the winter will have then passed.

All that is needed is that final work spurt of three nights a week per man—and the club is reminding all fans of winter sports that the assistance of other than club members will also be welcomed at Seal Cove any evening now.

As I See It

George Drew's Chances

IT WOULD be a mistake to jump to wrong conclusions from the recent Conservative sweep in Ontario.

I came through my old home province on the way back from Britain, and talked with newspaper editors in places. Some of these told me that they were supporting the Frost government in the Ontario field, but would support the Liberals on the national level.

There is a strong disposition in Ontario to balance off one government against the other. Thus for much of the time the Tory government of Sir John A. Macdonald was in power at Ottawa "Tory" Ontario kept a Liberal government in the province.

You could follow the same trend right down this century. The Liberal resurgence in Ontario in the early thirties was when the Bennett government was in power at Ottawa. Soon after the Liberals came back at Ottawa, they were pushed out in Ontario.

YET the definite "swing" throughout all the western world has recently been to the right. The Conservatives won a spectacular victory a few months back in the Canadian by-elections. They are also the only possible alternative to the present Liberal government, for the obvious reason that they are the only opposition party organized coast to coast.

All governments get beaten sooner or later, in a democracy. Hence there is timeliness in asking:

"What are George Drew's chances of becoming Prime Minister of Canada?"

I WOULD say that there is only an outside chance of George Drew winning the next federal election in Canada, unless some great new issue arises which would align the country differently than it now lines up.

There is no sign that French Canada thinks much differently on war, rumors of war, and preparations for war, than it did in the past.

Mr. Drew suffers from some of the same handicap which Mr. Churchill could not shake off in the recent election in Britain: People in Quebec and elsewhere fear that their chances of involvement in war might be greater with George Drew in office than with the Liberals. I personally think that fear is as unfair in the case of Drew as it was in the case of Churchill, but obviously it is there.

PARADOXICALLY, George Drew began to win public attention in Canada by championing public causes which would change the whole political picture in Canada if he fought for them now as he did then.

He first wrote a series of scorching replies to a bombastic American general who had boasted "The Yanks Won the War." Drew showed that the U.S. effort in World War One was picaresque as compared with

MAY DAY

Colliers is out with scorching statements that the third world war will begin next May with the destruction of Washington. Double page illustrations, in color, present all the terror modern talent is capable of producing. And this is the sort of tripe for which countless millions are being spent in the interests of world peace.

Another contrast in military headress. The familiar khaki beret is to be replaced. Going back over the years, one can discover a variety, yet not so great. Forage caps have shown a difference in style. The appearance of helmets often depends on climate. Almost changeless can be said of what the Guards wear. Same old bearskins with the same formidable look.

Canada's and other allies!

Later, in Maclean's Magazine, he wrote fierce, flaming articles called "Salesmen of Death." He showed conclusively how the greedy armament manufacturers' moment armament races which are themselves the chief cause of modern war; how they will sacrifice vast numbers of lives merely to perpetuate and increase their own profits.

Vast numbers of those articles were reprinted by League of Nations Societies in the early thirties. They would be useful right now.

IF GEORGE DREW looks deeply into the life of the greatest, most successful Conservative leader that Canada ever produced he might find a new key to his own party's success, and to "peace through strength" for all the western democracies.

Macdonald put through the confederation of Canadian provinces. What we need now is confederation of all democratic nations.

Were You Missed in 1951 Enumeration?

The Daily News check on the 1951 census, which is being challenged for its short count of 8,465, may prove useful as a basis in any new count which may be made to find city residents who were missed by the enumerators.

People who were missed are being asked to communicate the omission with as little delay as possible so that basis may be established for the contention that there was a serious short count. The city has enlisted the co-operation of service clubs in a new count.

Faith That Saves

(By Rev. Leonard A. Thorpe, Pastor of the Regular Baptist Church)

It seems that most people accept the Scriptural fact that "without faith it is impossible to please Him." That faith is the key that opens the door of God's acceptance and favor, finds expression in the religious belief of the majority of people that one

Therefore being justified by faith we have peace with God through our Lord Jesus Christ.

Paul's inspired approval of the importance we place in faith.

However, despite their proper valuation of faith, many sincere people have vague ideas concerning this subject and are striving to open the door with an insufficient key that fails to meet God's approval. The present and eternal consequences are of such importance that we should stop and examine our faith in the light of God's Word. There we find four worthy characteristics.

A WELL-PLACED FAITH

Contrary to popular opinion, this door to Divine blessing and eternal life is not opened by any one of numerous passkeys. The faith-key must be according to specifications. There is nothing about faith that is as important as its object. All faith depends on its object for its strength and worth. Can I have faith in myself, my church, my ideals or in a vague superhuman Being and expect such faith to open that wondrous door? The only true object of a saving faith is the Saviour who wrought our redemption on Calvary's hill. "What shall we do that we might work the works of God? Jesus answered and said unto them, This is the work of God, that ye believe on Him whom He hath sent."

A PERSONAL FAITH

In John 11:25 we read: "Jesus said unto her, I am the resurrection and the life. He that believeth in me, though he were dead, yet he shall live."

"He that believeth in me" reveals the need of a personal faith, exercised by a person in a Person. The invitation of Christ to enjoy the blessings of salvation is always personal and can only be accepted individually. You then, Reader, must apply this key yourself. No one can do it for you. "Every one shall give account of himself to God."

A GOD-GIVEN FAITH

Where do we obtain such complete trust and confidence that we can stake our eternal welfare in this certain Person? God's Word is plain! Eph. 2:8, "By grace are ye saved, through faith... it is the gift of God."

God is the only source of a faith sufficient for the test of death, for as we face the uncertainties of eternity our basic spiritual qualities will begin that supreme test. Paul's instruction to the Romans that faith cometh by hearing and hearing by the word of God, is a practical word to those desiring such faith today. The Bible is God's revealed will, describing His great plan of redemption, so its familiarity is bound to impart a redeeming faith. As Christ is the theme of the Bible, our new-found faith will necessarily be placed in Him. The Apostles were under no illusion as to the source of saving faith when they said unto the Lord, "Increase our faith."

Do you know such a God-given, effectual faith? Have you placed such a life-changing trust in the Person of God the Son? Are the blessings of Calvary's atonement yours? They can be, for "Whosoever shall call upon the name of the Lord shall be saved."

Festival dates have been set to May 6-9 in order to give his services. The move was decided Wednesday night at the Festival Association. Meanwhile, a printed syllabus for the festival will be ready for distribution. There is to be an extension this year of the competition, including piano recitation, the association was told by Mrs. Earl Nelson, president.

Busy Prince George Owes Prosperity to Timbering

By EVANGELINE VANN

Prince Rupert's sister city Prince George is now a town of an estimated seven thousand. Its lifeblood is lumber. On Canadian National property leased by the numerous mills there, five million dollars' worth of rough and plain lumber is always in stock on River Avenue.

In 1939, one mill, only, was there. Now, within 50 miles of Prince George, there are more than 500 mills with more than 2500 men employed in the industry.

Cliff Warner, editor of The Citizen, took me on a "Cook's Tour" of the town. We drove by the Fire Hall and City Hall, with the water tower on the hill behind, and passed the skating rink, built in 1939. In the unfinished Civic Centre, there are six sheets of curling ice. Boxing, and roller skating, are very popular there. The latter has been going a month. "We are handicapped there, as the upper part is not heated," said Warner.

The houses in the western outskirts are mostly new since 1939. The crescents, showing up clearly on the map, are the main residential areas of the town and most of the houses are privately built.

In Calgary Street and Montreal Street, there are houses built after the war by the Government, and now being sold. Only a veteran may buy, and he must retain the house a certain length of time before he sells, and then only another veteran may take over. There are altogether, 150 such houses in three different areas.

The Junior-Senior High School was built in 1940.

The former army hospital, where there was a large camp during the war, has 80 beds, mostly occupied.

The Kinsmen's Club has a park on the banks of the Nechako, called The Cache. There are 13 hotels, eight beer parlors and many auto camps and motels.

The air port is three miles out of town, from which there is a twice daily service, north to Fort St. James and south to Vancouver.

As we crossed the half mile long, steel bridge across the Fraser River, where the Fraser and Nechako join, I could see the river was very low, and there was some shore ice.

A STORY YOU SHOULD KNOW THEN VOTE "NO" TO THE POWER REFERENDUM

DEAR FELLOW CITIZENS:

During the course of the next ten days, the Northern British Columbia Power Company Limited is going to tell you a very important story.

It will be a frank story dealing with the power situation of Prince Rupert.

Through advertisements in this newspaper, and by other means, we are going to tell you "THE PRINCE RUPERT POWER STORY" for a number of vital reasons.

These are:—

- ✓ Because on December 13th, the citizens of Prince Rupert are going to be asked, very prematurely, to answer an unfair question which will decide the future of their power supply.
- ✓ Because the citizens are going to be asked to answer this Question without being given the opportunity of becoming thoroughly, accurately, and impartially informed about the Prince Rupert power situation.
- ✓ Because no organized and truthful effort has yet been made to inform the citizens of the immediate and future consequences of a wrong decision.
- ✓ Because over the long period that the power situation has been made a public issue, a great deal of misinformation has been circulated.
- ✓ Because the reasons the power situation has become a public issue are not all that they might seem at first glance.
- ✓ And last, but we bluntly state, far from least, because we are fundamentally opposed to public ownership because it would throw us out of business; because it would put us out of business at a great loss of an investment we have made in Prince Rupert over a 22-year period.

We are going to do everything we can to lay the frank "PRINCE RUPERT POWER STORY" before you in advance of polling day.

I want you to understand that we are going to use extreme methods to attract your attention to "THE PRINCE RUPERT POWER STORY" so that you will mark "NO" on your referendum ballot with complete confidence that you are making the only intelligent and just decision at this time.

It is only to be expected that we are going to be criticized by the sponsors of the referendum throughout our effort to tell "THE PRINCE RUPERT POWER STORY".

They are going to criticize us in the first place, I am sure, for even undertaking to tell the story. Then they likely will rap us for spending the money to tell it, and finally, try to ridicule the way we tell it.

We are not ashamed of our efforts to tell "THE PRINCE RUPERT POWER STORY". We sincerely believe that it is a story that must be told, and told fully and quickly, in the interests of Prince Rupert and all its citizens, as well as in the interests of our company.

Yes, we are spending some money to tell the story, but we sincerely believe it is necessary.

We respectfully ask you to look for "THE PRINCE RUPERT POWER STORY". We ask you to study it from all angles, THEN VOTE "NO" TO THE POWER REFERENDUM ON DEC. 13th.

Yours in the best interests of Prince Rupert,

T. B. BLACK, General Manager

Super-Valu, Super Modern

In the new Super-Valu which opened its doors yesterday for the first time to the shoppers in Prince Rupert, there is an embodiment of everything modern in a retail merchandise outlet.

From the beginning of construction, one objective alone was aimed for—a completely convenient, modern and enduring building which would house the largest food market outside of the city of Vancouver.

Excavation for the building necessitated the removal of some two thousand yards of muskeg, and eight hundred yards of bedrock, to permit a full concrete basement, providing 5000 square feet of storage and working area for the "behind-the-scenes" operation of the street level business.

A masonry fire wall on the westerly side of the building protects it and adjoining buildings from conflagrations which undoubtedly threaten this city.

The spacious aisles and general roomy nature of the main floor of the store is made possible by the installation of but four posts which carry beams supporting the whole structure. This required specially cut joisting material for this purpose, as well as for a future second storey, which can be constructed on this building without major interference in its operation.

The mezzanine floor at the rear of the main floor houses a most modern suite of business and private offices, allowing perfect control of the operation of the store. Also found here are spacious rest rooms, as well as a cozy coffee room and cloak room, complete with snack bar, for the staff.

The heating in the building is provided by electric unit heaters thermostatically controlled, guaranteeing a constant temperature for the comfort of the patrons and the protection of all produce and perishables.

The lighting, of course, as is readily obvious to anyone entering the building, is sufficient to provide the equivalent of outside illumination on a sunny day, scientifically arranged and engineered to provide what is known to the trade as a flat lighting, casting no shadows anywhere on the whole of the sales floor.

The use of asphalt tile, laid on a cushioning sub-floor of P.V. Hardboard, produces a quiet, resilient floor with an expected life of some fifteen to twenty years. The colors and pattern chosen were carefully arranged to provide both an harmonious background for the huge gondolas and wall shelving, full of the finest produce, and an interesting plane for the shoppers to walk over.

The deep, rich colors found on the upper wall were intended to provide a warm, friendly atmosphere, pleasant to the eye upon first entering the building.

The front of the building is finished in gleaming anodized aluminum, crystal-like sheets of polished plate glass and warm toned, rugged Roman tile, producing a facade in the most modern, yet permanent style.

In all, this is a building which, from the moment of its inception at the planning stage, was designed and built to provide a permanent, modern food store where everything for the shopping public was of the highest possible quality, yet, of the most enduring type. This structure is most certainly a credit to the owners, and the highest possible compliment to the people of Prince Rupert.

Mouse Morrison Defeats Challenger

Rupert Boxers Win Three As Marshall Scores TKO

Prince Rupert Elks' Club boxers nabbed a draw and three wins last night from four Prince George entries in the first inter-city amateur fight card staged here which ended in a decision for Billy "Mouse" Morrison against Mike Ratzo in the final main event.

Before a crowded full house of 800 in the Civic Centre, Morrison, 1951 Daily Province Golden Gloves middleweight champion, outfought Prince George's Ratzo three rounds to two in the five 2-minute rounder. Ratzo had challenged Morrison for an unofficial B.C. championship fight last summer.

Another 1951 Golden Gloves champion, lightweight Andy Marshall won a TKO from Rene Michaud in one minute and 40 seconds of the second round of a scheduled four-rounder. Michaud's trainer, Nick Schmeling, threw in the towel as his fighter lolled defenseless in the middle of the ring.

Chuck Place, a third Golden Gloves entry last spring and semi-finalist losing to Barney Grace, narrowly missed knocking out his opponent in the fourth and final round as Ben "Farmer" McEwan sank to his knees at the bell.

In the welterweight division, Prince Rupert's Chubby Stacey was given a draw in a fierce three-round fistic battle with Ray Davis. Stacey weighed 142, giving nine pounds to Davis.

From Masset, heavyweight Art Senft won easily from Prince Rupert's Glenn "Tiny" Carlson, taking three of the four rounds. Carlson was knocked down twice, once in the first minute of the first round. But he recovered remarkably and mixed it hard with Senft, an experienced fighter and Golden Gloves contender since 1947. Carlson was a finalist in the last B.C. Golden Gloves tournament.

Curtain raisers in the paperweight division saw two bouts after each of which enthusiastic and cheering crowds threw showers of silver change from the balcony, risside and floor seats.

Dick Bury won a decision over

Chuck Place

Billy Watmough and Billy Saunders and Doug Prystay ended in a draw.

MORRISON

Suffering a knockdown in the second round against a sudden savage onslaught by Ratzi, Morrison seemed momentarily shaken and in some trouble. In the first round, the 17-year-old Booth Memorial High School student also suffered a few blows from a fast and rushing Ratzo.

But it was a different story after the starting bell of the third. Concentrating on body blows and in-fighting, Morrison was a steady aggressor, often chasing Ratzi back to his own corner.

Referee Benny Windle did a good job keeping the boys apart. And it was a job, too, for Ratzo hung on butting and tugging more than boxing in the last three rounds.

Ratzo proved to be a vicious fighter at times, rushing in hard, but most of his blows landed ineffectively after the first few telling body punches by Morrison.

Billy "Mouse" Morrison

The bell came too soon at the end of the third or it might have been a KO win for Morrison. The crowd yelled for it. He had Ratzo staggering and weaving against the ropes, gloves covering his head, as one after the other Morrison's right ripped into his body.

In the final round, Ratzo came back with his rushing and flailing in the first half minute but Morrison was wise to his tactics and dodged easily. Again Ratzo weakened and the crowd clamored for a knockout. But it didn't come. Ratzo hugged and hung on and Referee Windle had a hard time keeping the fighters apart. It was evident Ratzo was more ring-wise than his opponent but Morrison has the heart of a fighter.

MARSHALL

Rene Michaud, weighing 175 to Andy Marshall's 193, started off with such savage speed that it looked like Marshall was tangling with more than he bargained for. The light-heavy champion looked surprised when early in the first round his jaw was rocked solidly by Michaud.

But Marshall strengthened his nickname of "TKO" in the second round. Crouching, weaving in and out, the Rupert fighter took no chances but dove in quick when he saw an opening. It all happened in a neutral corner, so fast it was hard to say what took place. Suddenly Michaud looked blank, took two hard rights to the head and

Hockey Sock Gets Bullish

NEW YORK (AP)—Hockey's sock exchange has turned bullish and even that former Lady Byng, Edgar Laprade of New York Rangers, has got into the act.

Laprade, noted for his clean play in six seasons with the Rangers, turned tiger the other night and engaged in his first fistic duel on the Madison Square Garden ice against 205-pound Gus Kyle of Boston Bruins.

Obviously Kyle, a former Ranger, never expected the gentle Fort William player to throw a punch because he had never witnessed such an event before. The right cross landed high on Kyle's cheek and snapped his head back.

"I do not care to be high-sticked," Laprade said. "I was provoked—not once, but twice. The first time I was in a face-off, and he came charging at me with his elbows. I never liked Kyle, even when he was a teammate."

Reminded that the ensuing penalty might ruin his chances of regaining the Lady Byng trophy, plus the $1,000 which goes with it, Laprade shrugged: "Who can think about the Lady Byng Trophy when there is a stick in your face?"

Laprade took issue with Sid Abel, Detroit Red Wing's captain, who had observed recently that big-league hockey was becoming tame.

"It is as rough as ever," Laprade said, "except that there is less checking into the boards. Who wants that?"

Since Abel raised his complaint, Montreal's Maurice Richard flattened Toronto's Bill Juzda with one punch. And there have been other four-star scraps in every other National Hockey League game. The players have taken to rating the fighters.

In the top bracket are Harry Watson and Fernie Faman of Toronto, Jack Stewart of Chicago, Jack Evans of New York, Gordie Howe of Detroit and Richard. In the lighter class are such Tigers as Bill Ezinicki of Detroit.

Lindsay himself doesn't think Richard belongs. "He hasn't picked on my man (Gordie Howe) in four years," says terrible Ted, "or ever since Gordie did a paint job on his face."

RUPERT BOXERS

crumpled, hanging loosely from the hips, knees wobbling. His trainer, Nick Schmeling, threw in the towel.

PLACE

This was more of a wrestling than a boxing bout as "Farmer" McEwan from the first knock-down by Charley "Chuck" Place in the first round kept hugging and hanging on. Referee Stan Moran had a hard time with this fight. The fighters pushed, rocked and wouldn't break, until Place found himself between the ropes.

Place got a little mad then. With a bazaar style of low crouches, bobbing and weaving a la Sugar Ray, and even dancing a jig, he so confused his opponent that he was literally knocked out of the ring.

In the last of the four-round bill, McEwan was battered from corner to corner, from ropes to ropes, which finally found him staggering defenselessly at the bell.

STACEY

Chubby Stacey was not quite good enough for the Prince George scrapper, Ray Davis, heavier than the Rupert fighter by nine pounds. The three-rounder ended in a draw. But although Davis was a slugger and more often the aggressor, Stacey never was in real trouble. He covered well, counter-punched effectively and held his own all the way.

CARLSON

Art Senti is a tough fighter. He proved it last night as he grinned and mercilessly flattened the nose of Tiny Carlson time and again to draw streams of blood.

Knocked down twice, first in a few seconds after the first bell, Carlson recovered quickly and mixed it hard. Time and again Tiny tried for an opening to land his crushing right and once or twice rocked the Masset heavyweight to give him his share of trouble. But Carlson dropped his guard often falling for Senti's vicious uppercuts, his favorite punch.

Carlson seemed nervous at first, but this cleared away after the first knockdown. The third round of the four-rounder was his as he pushed the fight most of the way. Senti came back in the last round to win the decision.

While one of the largest crowds ever to burst into cheers in the gymnasium loved the whole fight, they probably loved the paperweights the best. Prystay and Saunders, given a draw by the judges, were evenly matched and mixed it well.

So were Watmough and Bury. However the latter had the edge in aggression. He forced the fight most of the time, giving him the decision.

Judges were Sev Dominato and Garnet Hull; referees, Stan Morin and Benny Windle; time-keepers, Al Manson and Gordon Copeland.

Sponsored by the Elks, the card was officially opened by District Deputy Grand Exalted Ruler Vernon Taylor who wished the club ever success in this and other sporting ventures.

Art Murray was announcer.

King Ed Cagers Stage Upset in Arrows' Defeat

King Edward School pee-wee leagues pulled an outstanding upset Thursday when they completely washed out Civic Centre Arrows 2-8, to the rooting cheers of 100 staunch supporters in the galleries.

Under Coach Tapalian, the King Edward youthful cagers sprung a surprise scoring spree before second-place Arrows who were defenceless. High scorer for the winners was D. McIntosh; for the losers, G. Warner. Arrows got a measure of revenge today, however, as they edged Helldivers 12-10 in a morning fixture, with D. Leeman, G. Kenny and M. Fleming each scoring four points for the win. Slightly confused, Kenny also scored two points for the Helldivers in shooting for the wrong basket.

Japanese Girl Golden Singer

By WARREN WHITE

TOKO (Reuters)—A young pocket-size "Jenny Lind" is sweeping Japanese song-lovers off their feet.

She is the "Golden Girl of Song," 13-year-old Hibari Misora, daughter of a Yokohama fishmonger. Praised by the nation's starchy concert critics who formerly ignored her, she is going from height to height, winning the emotions of millions of Japanese song-sentimentalists.

Doctors are unable to give a satisfactory explanation why, even at the age of seven, baby-faced Hibari could walk on to small-town concert platforms and sing in the throbbing trilling mature voice of a Japanese-style "sob-sister."

Now, six years later, with an average artist's lifetime of barnstorming behind her, this "female Sinatra" is in the big money. Japan's biggest entertainment field, the movies, vies with big companies for her contracts.

Hibari, has an astute manager whose duty is to handle both films and recordings. Since she was "discovered" in 1948, she has soared in popularity in the field of photograph entertainment to a point where "Hibari" records are 60 per cent of one company's sales.

And she has made 19 films, including eight last year and seven so far this year.

DECEPTIVE APPEARANCE
Hibari-San, a snub-nosed, black-eyed girl, well under five feet tall and with a long permanent wave, is nothing outstanding to look at.

Nor are the songs she sings anything out of the ordinary.
They are sung in Tokyo night clubs every night and are on the lips of any whistling messenger boy. They range from
"Flower Shades of Love" to
"Muddy Boogie."

It is Hibari-San's particular voice that provides the phenomenal magic. Managers of theatres where she makes 10-day personal appearances for 3,000,000 yen ($3,000), have stated one strong complaint to her bookings.

"Audiences stand up in their seats to cheer," one man said.
"It costs big sums after every show to mend broken seats."

Her immense success has meant little to Hibari-San. She continues school studies whenever she can fit them in. She lives with her fishmonger father and mother in their tiny cottage near the fish shop at Yokohama. But she hopes to build her parents a new house before long.

HUNTERS' FIND

PERTH, Ont. (CP)—Members of the Perth Madawaska Hunt Club not only got their deer quota, but also found a radioisotope on the top of Green Mountain. The instrument for recording atmospheric conditions at high altitude is being returned to the U.S.
weather bureau.

First Herring of Season Landed—Panamanian Ship at Watson Island—New Dry Dock Fire Chief

First of this season's herring were landed at Prince Rupert Thursday by the packer Hillside, Capt. H. E. Scott, and were unloaded at Atlin Fisheries Ltd. for freezing and at Bacon Fisheries for future smoke cure.

Today, the New Laurel, Capt. Alf and Jack Ritchie, also came in with a small load of herring, packing them from Kitkatla Inlet, where the Hillside obtained her load. Canadian Fishing Co.'s Butedaje seiners are fishing the area.

At Port Edward, Nelson Bros. Fisheries Ltd., the meal plant has been operating all week as company packers have unloaded some 900 tons of first season's herring from Ogden Channel.

Next week, officials hope to operate the plant at full capacity. Main fleet is expected in Sunday night.

The freighter Falcon, of Panamanian registry, with a Greek crew, sailed yesterday morning after unloading a cargo of 2260 long tons of sulphur at Watson Island.

Department of Transport classes for masters of vessels under 150 tons opened this week at HMCS Chatham with 38 entries and Harbor Master Capt. William Koughan as instructor.

John Meed, a fireman with the city department for the past nine years, worked his last shift at the fire hall last night. He has been appointed fire chief at the dry dock, announces T. J. Boulter, assistant superintendent of the dry dock. McLean takes the position vacant since the death of the late R. B. Skinner.

Work is expected to begin Monday on the new Department

NAVY NEWS—

Wrens and Tars Enjoy Weekly Drill Parades

Drill night at HMCS Chatham is Wednesdays and it's a busy time as Wrens and sailors appear for two hours while the ship puts to sea. They come aboard or go ashore, and the shrill call of the bo'sun's pipe is heard along with parade commands barked by Petty Officer Bradley.

There are also classes in metal lathe work, ropes and knots, seamanship and signals. Work begins at 2000 hours and secure is piped at 2200, when hands fall in for evening quarters, and, to the strains of "God Save the King," the ensign is lowered.

On dismissal, sailors and Wrens head up top to their respective messes for coffee and a sandwich where talk surrounds the coming ship's dance, December 14.

PERSONALS ...

Recently arrived at Chatham is Able Seaman MacMillan of Vancouver. He's single, likes Rupert and fits well into the batching picture with L/S Waddell and AB Hutchinson. The men live in the barracks and do their own cooking.

A/B Kazimircuk, an ardent fisherman with a near zero record, leaves Sunday night for Esquimalt with the promise that he'll be back.

Wedding bells ring for Chief Harry Cutress and Miss Norma Tetlock, RN, nursing at Prince Rupert General Hospital, December 14.

WELCOME to Prince Rupert is extended Japanese Capt. Kunio Mishima by Mayor H. F. Glassey on arrival of the grain ship Kiyokawa Maru last Saturday. Two more grain ships are due to arrive next month.

main an unlovely memory. Soon, however, one found ease and rest in the swing of a hammock and rolls of reveille and the repeated invitations to "show a leg."

Table linen and china could be fancied but not seen. Plates and mugs were of metal. Each member of mess took his turn performing orderly duties. This included packing rations and washing up. There were no waiters. And verily, there was no music. Lights were out sharp, at a certain time. Seasickness attacked about everyone for a while. One youth had more than that, for he went over the side. On a cold, dark afternoon, off Newfoundland, the Sardinian slowed down, the contingent paraded, and in a few minutes the weighted body shot into the icy deep.

Naval architects competed at a recent seamanship assembly in New York. This posed a series of difficult situations and emergencies. Among these were: what to do when a man is swept overboard in a gale at night from a 50-foot schooner equipped for ocean racing; what to do when the main mast snaps, or a rudder breaks; how to guard against explosions and fires at sea and what to do when they occur.

The Davis raft, a not uncommon sight in northern waters, is formed by enclosing within boomsticks a floor of logs formed by weaving them together with wires. Other logs are placed on this floor which gradually submerge until there is a floating boom of logs that may be anywhere from thirty to forty feet thick and of which two-thirds is submerged. The whole boom is then bound with wires to bring rigidity. It was in 1941, a Davis raft was towed by the tug St. Faith, subsequently known as C. D. Brooks, from Cumshewa Inlet in the Queen Charlotte Islands to Vancouver. This took a month. The raft was 800 feet long, eighty feet wide, with a thirty foot draft and consisting of 4,350,000 feet board measure.

The coast will soon have another of the growing fleet of Johnson Line motorships, the Silver Gate having been launched this month at Kiel, in Germany. She will sail for Canada about the end of December. She has four sister ships. They are passenger-cargo craft, 19½ knots, 9,000 deadweight tonnage, and luxury accommodation for twelve passengers. Running time between the coast and Sweden will be 23 days.

After another busy season during which thousands of miles were flown in all directions from Prince Rupert to the islands and inlets to the south, to the areas east almost as far as the Alberta border and far into the Yukon in the north, Consolidated Mining & Smelting Co.'s Bellaville Beaver seaplane is still using steam. The most powerful tug on the coast, the "Sudbury" is still a steam vessel, despite the fact that very few are left. Nearly all are fitted with diesel engines. The Sudbury was formerly a Navy corvette, being later converted to towing purposes. She is rated at 2,750 horsepower.

The shortest day of the year will soon be recorded. It's dull enough already, as early as 5:30, if the hours are cloudy or wet.
