

Prince Rupert Woman Killed as Truck Goes Off Road in Interior

Another death marked week-end accidents on the Skeena River Highway. Mrs. Emilie Catherine, 66, Prince Rupert cannery worker, was killed Saturday night when a coal-laden truck rolled off the other side of Cedarvale opposite the air field.

The truck was 50 or 60 feet off the road. It had landed on its side after turning over. Apparently, it was in soft gumbo at the time of the accident. The driver, Gerald Robertson, was killed. He was 66 years old and had three children. A fourth child, a son, was killed when the truck rolled over. The truck was carrying a load of coal. The driver was killed when the truck rolled over. Coalition Candidate Poor Third in Fight

VICTORIA (CP)—Frank Mitchell, curly-haired 26-year-old former champion Army boxer, yesterday punched out a victory for the CCF over British Columbia's coalition government in the Esquimalt provincial by-election.

The standing in the 48-member Legislature is now:
Coalition 36
CCF 8
Independent 3
Labor 1

With 28 or 29 polls heard from, the count was:
Mitchell, 2751.
Cdr. A. C. Wurtele, Independent, 2491.
George, 1696.
Archibald McIntyre, Independent, 332.
Keith Gray, Independent, 51.

Some Progressive Conservatives saw the result as a protest at the coalition. A CCF spokesman interpreted it as a mandate.

Esquimalt

ESQUIMALT, at its by-election yesterday, voiced in no uncertain terms its protest at the coalition government and its policies.

There is no secret about the fact that the government and its supporters were nervous about it.

Of course, the outcome indicates that the CCF is still a force in provincial politics although in almost traditionally Conservative Esquimalt—even if for years it might have been a family affair—the protest motive might have been the actuating factor more than socialistic intent.

The fact of the matter is that the government's candidate—the mayor of Victoria and a popular figure around the community of the capital—came a poor third and the coalition got less than a third of the vote.

One thing is certain: there is going to be a lot of political activity in British Columbia in the very near future. The government is going to have to consider its own position seriously and soon.

And the voters of the province will have to consider seriously what kind of a government we are going to have in British Columbia.

Political groups will have to get busy without delay on their platform preparation and presentation for, with the current coalition so obviously fading, the public will want to know what is being offered on vital provincial policies.

The Esquimalt result indeed brings the political situation in British Columbia to a climax.

How Far With Japan?

ALTHOUGH Canada has signed the San Francisco Peace Treaty with Japan, our delegates as well as many of those from other countries, made it perfectly clear, that on some points this pact was not completely satisfactory.

It was with this previous experience in mind that the Canadian Manufacturers' Association makes the recommendation that Ottawa should refrain from immediately according Japan most-favored-nation tariff treatment.

The CMA recommendation should get careful consideration. Admittedly Canada as well as Japan stands to gain from the restoration and expansion of mutual trade.

Laborites Are United

Aneurin Bevan Subscribes To British Labor Program

SCARBOROUGH, Yorkshire, England.—The Labor Party pledged Sunday it would work for world peace, cut the cost of living and carry forward socialism in Britain.

In its platform for the October 25 general election campaign, the party's 27-member executive committee healed its recent split over Britain's rearmament and unanimously approved the program.

The 1800-word document was released on the eve of the party's annual conference of some 1500 delegates and party leaders.

The platform, roughed out during the last two days by party leaders, included Aneurin Bevan, who quit Prime Minister Attlee's cabinet last spring.

Bevan protested that the United States was dragging Great Britain into arms program so it would hurt the welfare state.

Dr. C. H. Wright of Trail and J. H. Palethorpe of Pentiction were nominated by the Prince Rupert Chamber of Commerce last night for directing representing British Columbia on the executive of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce.

RADIO INTERFERENCE

Editor, Daily News: May I use your column to lodge what I think is a justified complaint.

Radio in Rupert is one of the few pleasures we may look forward to. By that I mean getting stations other than the local, of which most of them, such as Ketchikan, Seattle and Portland, at times come through pretty clear but through one or maybe a few people who insist on using machines that cause continual noise, this pleasure is often taken away, causing maybe a few unnecessary cuss words.

It seems to me, since we pay a radio license fee, we should have a service, such as other cities in spotting these culprits and making them get an adapter installed in the machines or stop altogether.

Hoping the person or persons guilty will read this and maybe their conscience will flutter a little and let us have maybe a couple nights a week pleasure without buzzing us right out of our living rooms.

Better Waiting Rooms Sought

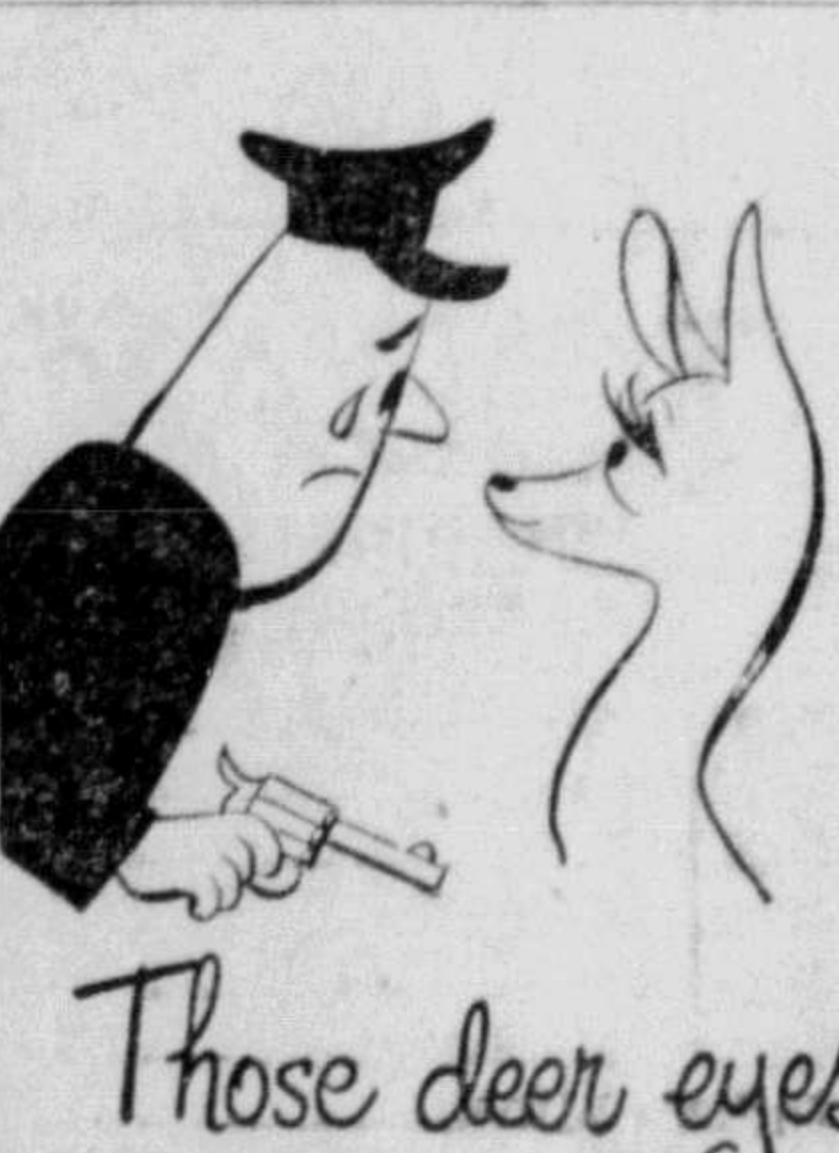

Canadian National and Canadian Pacific Railway companies will be canvassed by the Prince Rupert Chamber of Commerce with a view to improving waiting room facilities here.

Subject was brought up at last night's meeting of the Chamber when H. J. Marchant suggested that something might be done about brightening up the station here, particularly now that six trains a week service was being instituted.

Lack of waiting room facilities at both CNR and CPR wharves was mentioned.

VICTORIA REPORT

by J. K. Nesbitt

Anscomb Good Wine Publicist—Misreporting Charged—Prettying Up for Princess

There's nothing Finance Minister Herbert Anscomb loves better than an argument about his wine business. Every chance he gets he mentions it on the public platform. He did it several times in the recent Esquimalt by-election campaign.

A man got up and wanted to know if there's a wine monopoly in B.C. Mr. Anscomb jumped to his feet and said he was glad he had a customer in the hall. The man protested that he didn't drink Mr. Anscomb's wine or any other kind of wine.

Mr. Anscomb said there's no wine monopoly in B.C., that there are 74 different brands of wines, from all over the world, in addition to his, on the shelves of Liquor Control Board stores.

A good businessman, Mr. Anscomb knows the value of free advertising.

The old custom of politicians denying they made statements that prove embarrassing never dies.

Mines Minister R. C. Macdonald, a Conservative, spoke a few weeks ago in Port Alberni. The papers reported that he said all the Coalition troubles should be laid on the shoulders of the Liberal cabinet ministers, that the Conservative cabinet ministers are blameless.

This started quite a howl. There were those who said Premier Johnson should demand Mr. Macdonald's resignation. At a public meeting someone asked the Premier if he would demand that Mr. MacDonald resign. The Premier said that, on reading the newspaper reports, he had written to Mr. MacDonald, the Minister of Mines, said the Premier, had replied in writing and categorically denied ever making such a statement. That, therefore, had to be that. Yes, it's an old political custom—but it always seems to work.

The Legislative Buildings are abuzz with excitement these days, with preparations for the visit of Princess Elizabeth and for the special session to deal with old-age pensions.

The legislative chamber is being cleaned and polished for the royal visit. The full sessional staff will soon be at work, under Madame Speaker Nancy Hodges and Sergeant-at-Arms Capt. W. R. Webster. Though the session will last only a few days, the elaborate preparations are the same as for the regular two-month session.

Timely RECIPES

CRANBERRY RICE CREAM

Cranberry Rice Cream is one of those desserts which has the happy faculty of requiring day-before preparation. Safe in the refrigerator, it presents no problems on party day. The sauce, however, is best served hot—but don't make the mistake of putting the hot sauce on the cream dessert until it is served—allow the guests to do their own sauce lading at the table.

Ingredients:
1 envelope unflavored gelatine
1/4 cup cold water
1 cup cold milk
3/4 cup cooked fluffy rice
1 tablespoon sugar
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup heavy cream, whipped
1 lb. can whole cranberry sauce
1/4 cup brown sugar

Method: Place gelatine in custard cup. Add cold water and let stand 2 minutes. Place custard cup in pan of boiling water until gelatine dissolves. Add to cold milk. Add rice, sugar, salt and vanilla and chill until slightly thickened. Fold in whipped cream. Spoon into sherberts—or pour in to large mold—and chill until firm. When ready to serve, heat cranberry sauce with brown sugar until piping hot. When serving let guests ladle hot cranberry sauce over rice cream.

Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Night School for Bandsmen

What is probably the only such course offered in the province has been announced by the school board for night school this year.

A beginners' band course for adults will get under way as soon as 10 or more applicants are signed, said Fred Huber, Booth Memorial High School musical director, today.

Musical instruments of all types will be available and up to 30 students will be accepted. Instruction is to be once a week.

"The Civic Band has difficulty in finding replacements for members that have left and we hope to solve this problem by teaching interested adults the rudiments of band music and instrument playing," Mr. Huber said.

"There must be all kinds of people here who would like to blow a horn. Well, here's their chance and I am sure there will be band material graduate from these classes in a very short time," he said.

The Chamber will continue efforts to have a speeding up of wicket service at the local post office particularly at the stamp vending and parcel weighing wickets where congestion arises late each afternoon, particularly around 5 p.m.

Clothing Cost Being Weighed

By MURIEL NARRAWAY Canadian Press Staff Writer

Can Outfit Be Bought for $10

LONDON—A controversial theme for most fashion writers in Britain these autumn days is whether a woman can buy a presentable outfit for $10.

Since the Labor government issued a women's pamphlet saying it could be done, articles in London's daily newspapers and in most women's magazines have been weighing the pros and cons.

The verdict? It can be done, but... and in that "but" lies the story. You can dress cheaply if you are satisfied with the stereotyped mass-produced article that are sold by the hundred.

You can find short swing jackets around $5, straight skirts from $2.10, upwards, suits at seven guineas, dresses around $3 and accessories costing upwards of 15s. But these prices do not include that "something special" that makes you different from the crowd.

One fashion writer, Gwen Robyns of the Evening News, went looking for ready-to-wear cocktail dresses of the type favored by the bigger-income office group—the boss' private secretary, the head cashier and so on. She found prices were crushing.

REALLY EXPENSIVE They ranged from $30 to $60 for off-the-peg numbers—lovely full-skirted dresses with embroidered strapless bodices and tiny jackets or boleros. These are the dresses most women sigh for, but are priced well beyond the means of the highest-paid office worker.

COCKTAILS TOO Said a buyer from one London department store (Peter Robinson, Ltd.): "If a customer pays 25 guineas for a cocktail dress she expects the cocktails as well."

For ordinary day wear, most women of the "upper-office set" find they must begin where the Labor government left off. A suit or coat of the "right type" ranges from $10 to $20 while an office dress costs from $4 to $7. Accessory changes alone—one of the mainstays of a well-planned wardrobe based on a few good pieces—are in themselves expensive. Just a pretty chiffon hankie for pocket decoration combined with matching suede belt means an outlay of about $1.

High prices and tight purse strings have resulted in a sales resistance that worried Britain's shopkeepers. Some have started price-cutting campaigns that have nothing in common with the usual seasonal sales. One company with 19 shops in London and the provinces (C & A Modes) slashed prices to below cost. For instance, a coat formerly costing $8 now sells at $6.

For the moment, however, only multiple stores and a few private firms are reducing prices. Most women have their fingers crossed hoping department stores will soon follow suit with high-quality merchandise.

Hints Given on Throw-In Bridge Play

The bidding on today's hand was short and sweet. At least it sounded sweet to Mr. Dale who had practically nothing in the way of high cards.

Mr. Champion had eight cold tricks in his own hand. When the dummy went down he saw two perfectly good tricks there, in the jack of spades and the jack of hearts. But the problem was how to reach them.

Apparently there was no entry in the board unless by great good fortune the ace of diamonds dropped the singleton king in one of the opponent's hands. That was too much to hope for, however, and Mr. Champion was able to execute a play which had a much better chance of success.

Mrs. Keen opened the king of clubs and Mr. Champion let it hold the trick. A club was continued and Mr. Abel showed out, discarding a small diamond. Thus Mrs. Keen was known to have started with just five clubs. Now if she had no more than three cards in either hearts or spades, there was a pretty fair chance for the contract.

WINS SECOND TRICK Mr. Champion won the second trick with the ace of clubs. He cashed all three of his top honors in both spades and hearts. On the third spade lead Mrs. Keen dropped the deuce of diamonds. Now Mr. Champion gallantly presented ed the lead to her with a club, throwing a small diamond from the board.

Two more clubs, Mrs. Keen was down two cards, the king and eight of diamonds. She led the eight spot but Mr. Champion put up dummy's queen which held the trick.

Not that it would have been a different story if Mr. Champion had executed his throw-in play before stripping the "safe" return leads from Mrs. Keen's hand. Remember the importance of the time element. To be most effective, the throw-in play should be made at a time when ANY return the opponent makes will be to his disadvantage.

Of course this can't always be arranged. But you can try. You can remember to strip every possible card from the opponent's hand before giving him the lead.

On today's hand Mr. Champion thought he was good, but Mrs. Keen thought he was lucky. Both were right.

Road Protest Backed up

Policy of Minister Condemned and Immediate Improvement Demanded

Prince Rupert Chamber of Commerce last night took up the torch of protest at the policy of Hon. E. C. Carson as to permanent construction and hard surfacing of Highway Sixteen eastward from Prince Rupert.

The matter came up at last night's Chamber meeting following Mr. Carson's statement here last week that there would have to be relocation of 22 miles of the highway from alongside the Canadian National Railway tracks before blacktopping could be undertaken.

Initiating the subject at the Chamber meeting, T. N. Youngs emphasized that, with important new industrial development, the road between Prince Rupert and Terrace became more and more essential. He felt that the government should be reminded of the undertaking that Highway 16 would be blacktopped by 1953. The Chamber of Commerce he felt, should take a lead, protesting the minister's statement and asking that early steps be taken to blacktop the Prince Rupert to Terrace road.

Outcome of the matter was a resolution that a committee be appointed with power to draw up a resolution of protest at the attitude of the minister of public works on the Prince Rupert road which should be improved as soon as possible.

President J. C. Gilker appointed a committee consisting of T. N. Youngs, J. H. Black, W. F. Stone and Hugo Kraupner.

At present, the hospital is running often at 105 to 110 per cent capacity. That means, instead of some 75 to 80 patients daily which would be about 85 per cent, as many as 110 and more patients overcrowd the hospital wards at once.

"You can see why we are asking for 40 more beds."

WHAT DOES the campaign committee think is a fair and equitable contribution from Mr. G. Public?

"The general public have come forth with very good response so far, and indications are that most of them are contributing a day's income a year for three years."

And that, the committee feels, would be a fair contribution. If everybody takes that criterion, this campaign will be a success.

The same yardstick can be taken by businesses and industries in the district.

"If that response will come from the people, we'll make it and make it well. But if the citizens here don't think enough about the necessity of a hospital, this campaign can be a flop."

I THINK each and every one of us would feel we had slipped up somewhere—just hadn't done our duty—if the campaign fell down. And I think that a day's income-a-year-standard is a splendid yardstick to gauge our contribution. Maybe it will hurt a little, but not as much as if we or a loved one should suddenly find the need of hospital attention and can't get it.

TOUR MATRON — FO Ella Mannix of Meota, Sask., Senior Matron at RCAF Hospital Rockcliffe Airport, near Ottawa, has been given the most important assignment of her career. ures of what it would cost to instal a new heating system. The engineers prescribed two 75-horsepower boilers, as a minimum requirement for present and future needs. Including installation and construction of a new heating plant building, the whole unit would cost $102,000. These plans were sent to the Provincial government. They were approved and suggestions were made for added facilities.

Included in the new heating plant will be two 500-gallon heating tanks, which Doug says will provide ample supply of hot water. At present, the small unit is overtaxed and does not supply enough hot water.

The new plant would also supply enough steam for sterilization of instruments in the operating room.

"At present, the hospital is paying $2,000 a year in electrical bills alone for sterilization. That in itself would be a saving."

A NEW HEATING plant would also give the hospital a chance to open up a new wing, so badly needed already.

The space is there, enough for 40 beds, but with the present heating system, such a plan could not be considered.

"And that brings us to the second part of our problem," says Doug. "We just have put that wing into operation."

"The general public have come forth with very good response so far, and indications are that most of them are contributing a day's income a year for three years."

And that, the committee feels, would be a fair contribution. If everybody takes that criterion, this campaign will be a success.

The same yardstick can be taken by businesses and industries in the district.

"If that response will come from the people, we'll make it and make it well. But if the citizens here don't think enough about the necessity of a hospital, this campaign can be a flop."

I THINK each and every one of us would feel we had slipped up somewhere—just hadn't done our duty—if the campaign fell down. And I think that a day's income-a-year-standard is a splendid yardstick to gauge our contribution. Maybe it will hurt a little, but not as much as if we or a loved one should suddenly find the need of hospital attention and can't get it.

At present, the hospital is running often at 105 to 110 per cent capacity. That means, instead of some 75 to 80 patients daily which would be about 85 per cent, as many as 110 and more patients overcrowd the hospital wards at once.

"You can see why we are asking for 40 more beds."

NEW HEATING system is for hospital needs, and why, currently, there is a campaign to raise $75,000 in Prince Rupert. What the campaign committee tells us, and no doubt, is right.

Only has the campaign approved by the federal provincial governments—has promised to contribute to supply our share—the leading citizens in our those people closest to the operators themselves told us the $164,000 for further efficient of the hospital.

Evidence given was that while under influence of liquor, the four turned on a police officer. Bruce Baldwin was fined $50 for having liquor in a restaurant.

Charles Wagner was fined $25 for operating a vehicle while his license was suspended, and $15 for speeding.

Fourteen drunks appeared in the week-end parade before the magistrate.

SHIPS AND WATERFRONT

Passenger traffic has been all, if not more, than might have been expected since the Canadian Pacific Railway British Columbia Coast Steamship Service put the steamer Princess Norah on the run between Vancouver and Prince Rupert via Kitimat and Kemano Bay. On her last voyage over the week-end, there were so many passengers from Vancouver for Kemano that all could not be handled so extra flights were made by Canadian Pacific Air Lines to bring them here so they could take the Norah at this port last night on the southward voyage for Kemano. Also yesterday passengers were brought here from Kemano by the Princess Norah to be flown to Vancouver. While the Norah is packed with passengers each trip, the vessel is about half-filled with freight.

CIVIC CENTRE

TINY TOTS—Tomorrow afternoon the Civic Centre program for 1951-52 will be launched with the Toddlers and Tiny Tots having their first lesson. The Toddler class, under the direction of Mrs. Margaret Tough and Mrs. Faught, will be held in the Teen Room, while the Tiny Tots will meet in the Gymnasium with Mrs. Don Forward in charge and Mrs. E. Lindseth, Mrs. J. Bowman, Mrs. P. R. Pagan, Mrs. J. Stirn, Mrs. F. J. Anderson and Mrs. F. Ekins assisting.

WOMEN KEEP FIT—The Civic Centre has been fortunate in securing Mrs. Margaret Blain this year to instruct the Women's Keep Fit classes. It was noted last year that many mothers came to the Tiny Tot classes and had little to do for an hour while the kiddies were engaged. As an experiment a keep-fit class has been organized to run concurrently with the Tiny Tots and all women are being heartily invited to enroll at this class. The keep-fit group will meet also on Thursday evenings.

Council Upsets
Police Decision

An appeal was granted last night by city council to a Prince Rupert driver whose application for a city chauffeur's permit was refused by a Royal Canadian Mounted police sergeant.

Clarence J. Kurulok had applied for the permit "about three weeks ago," said R. M. MacLeod, barrister, appearing for the driver. The application had been refused because "Kurulok was seen driving a taxi before the permit was granted."

Mr. MacLeod held this was no proof that Kurulok had driven the taxi for hire or had in any way committed an offence.

Sgt. E. A. Wales said Kurulok had been seen driving the taxi "with a native woman in the back seat."

When the driver had applied for a temporary permit during the waiting period for the application, it had been refused, for no such permit could be granted, said Sgt. Wales.

"And I told him he would not be able to operate a taxi in the meantime. I told him the next day I had seen him drive the taxi. He admitted this, and said he had gone only on a couple of trips."

"I was then that I refused him the permit."

Sgt. Wales said he had "nothing against the man" but Kurulok had acted in "flagrant disregard" of his advice and on those grounds would not consider granting of the application.

Ald. T. B. Black said he "heartily concurred" in action of the police officer, but felt the applicant had already paid a penalty by having to wait three weeks.

Ald. George Casey opined Kurulok had acted "in ignorance of the law, rather than in defiance of it."

Ald. George Hills said he knew Kurulok, who had been employed by city Co-operatives for about three years.

"I have always found him honest, trustworthy and courteous. I think we should give him a break."

Council, as a court of appeal, voted unanimously that the appeal be granted.

Mayor H. F. Glassey commended Sgt. Wales for his stand in the matter, but approved the action of the council.

Among Matters to be Taken up at Forthcoming B.C. Municipal Convention

Seventy-eight resolutions will be presented by B.C. municipalities at their annual convention next week were reviewed in a three-hour sitting of city council last night.

Most of the resolutions were passed by the aldermen, agreeing in principle.

A few, however, were voted against, and some received suggestions for amendments.

Delegates Mayor H. F. Glassey and Ald. George Hills will take with them to the convention, beginning October 6 at Prince George and at Harrison Hot Springs, October 9, the opinions of the council.

Council, after considerable discussion, agreed on a Kootenay Municipal Association resolution calling for the question of daylight saving time being submitted as a plebiscite before the people of the province.

But, said Ald. T. B. Black, Prince Rupert delegates should go on record to join other northern B.C. representatives as opposing daylight saving time.

"It should be banned altogether," said Ald. George Casey.

Council did not agree with a Burnaby resolution calling for taxation of non-franchised operating bus companies to extent of four per cent annually of gross passenger receipts. Aldermen called such a resolution "highly discriminatory."

They felt taxation on that basis would be too high and that trucks would have to be classed in the same category if such a resolution were adopted.

"I can't eat that one," said Ald. Casey, referring to an Okanagan Valley Association resolution calling for Federal government action in gearing the county to peak production and that every man over 18 years should be fitted for training in armed services.

"That's not a matter to come before our convention," said Ald. Black. "It's not even within the jurisdiction of the UBCM."

The delegates will present five resolutions on behalf of Prince Rupert, in connection with borrowing power, higher salaries for aldermen and mayor, election of executive to the UBCM, and establishment of a provincial assessment commission.
