Shipping of Manchuria

Minister Pearson
Sudden Possibility

UNITED NATIONS — United Nations might have to strike at air bases before being consulted by United Nations powers in Korea, External Minister L. B. Pearson said today.

Mr. Pearson foresaw this possibility when he told the House of Commons that Canada wants to be consulted before the United States and the United Kingdom air forces in Korea, possibly might be exceptional cases where need for action would rule out consultation.

He said that Canada has been asked to concur "in principle" to authorize United Nations retaliation of enemy air forces in Korea, possibly very good reason that there is no massive enemy force from Manchuria as TORONTO — A $2,000 grant made available to the City of British Columbia for an archaeological survey of a 3,000-mile area which is due to be completed as part of the Algonquin Park project.

The submission of a brief by Wilson Duff, anthropologist at the provincial museum, and presented jointly by Dr. Charles Borden, geologist at the University of British Columbia.

Anthropologists consider this was on the main migration route by which earliest immigrants to the Americas traveled from Asia across the Bering Strait area to all of Western America.

The survey will be conducted by Borden and Duff.

Scholarship For Laski

TORONTO — The British Labor Party decided to establish a scholarship as a memorial to Harold Laski last year.

Applications for contributions to the scholarship have been received from all sections of the party.

Mr. Laski, a member of the Labor Party executive committee from 1931 until shortly before he died, was regarded as one of the party's leading theorists. His influence was particularly great among students.

First teaching job was at McGill University, where he lectured in history from 1933 to 1938. Later he went to the University of London School of Economics, where his impact was profound.

Alaska Seen As Enemy Target

GRIEF-STRICKEN—Mrs. John Hunter is restrained by Toronto police as she breaks down at the sight of her husband's body. Hunter, 30, was shot and killed by police as he and two other men attempted to rob a dairy office. Police were informed of the planned robbery and were waiting in ambush. They opened fire when one of the three men started shooting. Hunter died two hours later and his companions were taken to hospital in critical condition.

Flying Vets Pass Course

GIMLI, Man. — The first "refresher" class has been turned out by the RCAF flying training school here and the 28 graduates have been assigned to advanced training schools across Canada.

All were war veterans. Several had seen active service overseas. Not a man was washed out during the six-week course.

One of the graduating class, FO. Perry Eaton of Toronto, is going to an instrument flying school. Until last February he was a cigar store clerk.

"The only instruments I've been using lately are cigarette lighters," he laughed. "I'm really excited . . . I missed flying like the devil."

Dennis Killoran was a machineist in the railway shops at Stratford, Ont., from the end of the war until he went back into the RCAF. He can't wait to handle a Vampire jet. Said Dennis: "Some of our locomotives can churn up well over the 100 mark, but they're sure slow compared to Canada's newest airplanes. The jet will make the Hurricane I flew in the last war pretty slow, too."

FO. Roy Webster's buddies think he picked the oddest job of the whole class, helicopter search-and-rescue work. A Vancouver man, he will train at Rivers, Man.

"Most people think the 'copter an odd sort of machine but I like them," he said. "Many a man owes his life to their remarkable manoeuvrability."

'Nuisance' Time Tomorrow Nite

Daylight Saving in Effect Again

Daylight saving time, which some Prince Rupert people call "nuisance time," comes into effect as from midnight tomorrow night and will last until September 29. When they retire Saturday night, British Columbians will turn their clocks one hour ahead and lose an hour's sleep—with the comfort that they will get it back when standard time comes back in autumn.

Railways, steamship lines (except Union vessels), aircraft and telegraphs will remain on standard time.

E.G.—The train for the East will leave at 9 p.m. daylight time and arrive at 11:15 daylight time.

The new time will coincide with the inauguration of a newly timed and augmented service by Canadian Pacific Air Lines between Prince Rupert and Vancouver.

Still Too Wet For Seeding

WINNIPEG — Practically no seeding has been done to date in the three prairie provinces as the land is still too wet from melting snow to permit of tillage operations, according to the first weekly crop report of the department of agriculture of the Canadian National Railways.

Moisture conditions generally are considered satisfactory. With favorable weather seeding should commence in Manitoba within a week to ten days, in southern Saskatchewan about May 5 and in Northern Alberta about May 1.

100,000th DP Coming Over

BREMENHAVEN, Germany — The 100,000th displaced person to emigrate to Canada under the auspices of the United Nations international refugee organization sailed from here yesterday in the S.S. Nelly for Halifax. He is Leon Ziemanis, a 16-year-old Latvian, who is going to Toronto with his parents, two sisters and a brother.

The Nelly is expected to arrive at Halifax May 5 with 1,300 immigrants. They will be taken to various sections of Canada from dockside in four Canadian National Railways boat trains.

The new Canadian will be welcomed at official ceremonies at Halifax, Montreal, Ottawa and Toronto.

House Votes CCF Down

Ottawa House Rejects Move for Additional Sales Tax

OTTAWA — The CCF made an unsuccessful attempt yesterday to have the proposed increase in federal general sales tax replaced by an additional tax on liquor.

The House of Commons voted 75 to 37 against the suggestion as members knuckled down to a detailed study of tax changes proposed in the 1951-52 budget.

The CCF move was supported by Progressive-Conservative and Social Credit parties and by John Sinnot (Liberal-Springfield).

It was part of an Opposition drive to get the government to withdraw the increase in the general sales tax which the budget boosted to ten percent from eight percent.

Speeding up Box Car Use

OTTAWA — The Board of Transport Commissioners today ordered stiffened regulations aimed at getting greater use of scarce railway box cars. It increased the penalties levied on shippers and consignees for delaying and unloading cars beyond specified times.

67 Percent Of People In Danger

Territory Should Get Civilian Defence Free

WASHINGTON, D. C. (CP)—The Senate armed services sub-committee was told yesterday that 67 per cent of Alaska's population lives in critical target areas and the territory should be exempted from providing its own civil defenses.

Testimony was given in support of legislation that would exempt Alaska from contributing to civil defence in the same degree that the United States must.

Disclosures at the hearing included:

Plans called for the spending of $1,000,000,000 on military construction in the territory during the coming year.

Contemplated building of large underground shelters designed to accommodate 22,000 persons in emergency and do double duty as hospitals.

Alaska's population is placed at 127,000.

FIRST TARGET

Samuel H. Sabin (CP) civil defence administrator general counsel, estimating that 67 per cent of Alaskans live in critical target areas, said that Alaska might possibly be the first sufferer under enemy attack.

Hugh Gallagher, also of the CDA, said that Nome, on the western tip of Alaska, could be reached by Russian bombers in 12 minutes and Fairbanks and Anchorage in only a few hours from home bases of Soviet planes.

Embargo On China

NEW YORK — Move for United Nations members to put a limited embargo on Communist China and stop flow of essential war materials to Peking was reported gathering support today in the United States.

Chief proponent of quick economic action, this country has already clamped tight restrictions on shipments to Red China.

Churchill Is Caustic

LONDON — Winston Churchill said today that he and his followers in Parliament will do "all in our power by every constitutional means open to us to bring down the tottering Labor government."

The Conservative leader scornfully described Prime Minister Attlee and his cabinet as "that cluster of lion-hearted limpets."

In view of the political situation, Churchill has cancelled a trip to the United States where he was to have addressed the University of Pennsylvania on May 8.

HEAVY PENALTY
EDMONTON (CP) — Ignoring parking tickets can be expensive. A young man who pleaded guilty to 35 charges paid a total of $167 in fines and costs. Most of the tickets were for parking-meter violations since last November.

Realization!

FOUR YEARS ago the official announcement that Columbia Cellulose Co. was to establish a $27,000,000 pulp mill at Prince Rupert was heralded as the commencement of a new industrial era for this city and the immediate vicinity as far as Terrace. What might have been said for Prince Rupert at that time may now be said for all central and northern British Columbia today as to the ultimate effect of the great aluminum manufacturing project of the Aluminum Co. of Canada which was formally confirmed yesterday—a confirmation which, indeed, came as somewhat of an anti-climax since the large scale activity of Alcan already had made it a foregone conclusion.

It may be just a little difficult for the people of the area, who have been used to a slow and easy recently developing tempo, to envisage the full impact of these great industries on every phase of activity and living in this area. Not only are they huge in themselves but they will bring other great things in their wake. It may be expected that day after day from now on, with such enormous industries coming to the district, may witness new and unthought of developments. And everyone now resident here will be affected some way or another.

Already the filip of construction activities in connection with Alcan's great project have been felt. Vanderhoof and Burns Lake, in the interior, have been transformed to boom towns almost overnight as big crews of construction men arrive, bringing with them large quantities of equipment to push through roads, construct dams, drive tunnels, etc. It has been indicated that another important development pertaining to the interior and closer to Prince Rupert will be the construction of a highway and railway the short distance from Terrace to Kitimat.

At Kemano Bay in Gardner Canal a new port has sprung up in recent weeks as docks are built and other facilities put in to serve as the entry point for the power house development at Kemano River.

And this is but a small preliminary to the main undertaking of the aluminum smelter at Kitimat which will be the heart centre of the whole vast project.

Declared the largest single industrial development in the world, affecting a vast and heretofore practically unoccupied and undeveloped domain in central British Columbia, the ultimate result of Alcan's project to the whole province can only be conjectured upon. For the moment, it is almost too large for us to fully comprehend. It may well lead, as one of the government leaders, Mr. Anscomb, said yesterday, to making British Columbia the leading industrial province of Canada. Certainly enough, there are many other untouched potentialities in every form of basic industry—timber, minerals, fisheries, waterpower.

And with the great industrial developments will come the long-awaited markets for agricultural operations on a mass production scale.

The combined effect of all these things must of necessity have the result of making the mainline railway through central British Columbia to its terminus at the port of Prince Rupert a major and thriving traffic artery, no longer a transportation problem child but a producer of large scale traffic and of operating profits.

At last, as Minister of Lands and Forests E. T. Kenney says, the dreams of the pioneers and the nation builders of nearly half a century ago who envisioned the greatness of the port of Prince Rupert and the new hinterland of central and northern British Columbia are coming into fulfilment and reality. The days of hopeful anticipation are past. Realization is indeed here.

And that realization can very well be even along a larger scale than the most optimistic of us may have anticipated—bringing responsibilities and problems in a new tempo of living for us all.

Scripture Passage for Today

"Come unto Me, all ye that labour and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest."—Matt. 11:28.

More Extensive Hospital Audit

Finance committee of the Prince Rupert General Hospital will confer with Rorie & Laird, hospital auditors, with a view to negotiating for a more extensive audit than has heretofore been provided for. Advent of hospital insurance increased hospital traffic is making changes in the hospital office set-up with more extensive work for all concerned.

Jack McRae
Pans Press

Criticism of the press was voiced by J. D. McRae, MLA for Prince Rupert, who was guest speaker at the regular Rotary luncheon in the Broadway Cafe yesterday afternoon. He blamed the newspapers for not presenting adequately the case in support of hospital insurance.

After an outline of the government's policy regarding hospital insurance, the local member closed his remarks by saying:

"Don't think, gentlemen, that we have freedom of the press. We haven't got it. It's what the editor and owner want to put in that is printed," said Mr. McRae.

Treatment of the hospital insurance scheme by the press, Mr. McRae said, had accentuated the critical aspects. He felt that the public would get the impression that the Premier, cabinet ministers and private members were not endeavoring in the House to portray the true facts of the hospital insurance scheme—simply because that side of the case had not been adequately reported.

Mr. McRae was introduced and thanked by A. Bruce Brown, president of the Club.

THE LETTERBOX

TALE OF OLD MEXICO

Editor, Daily News:

In a small town in Old Mexico there lived a man, his wife and his one child. He worked as just a common laborer. His pay, which equaled one dollar an hour, was considered good money, still was not enough because of the high price he had to pay for food and the rent of his small house. Often he went away hungry to work so that his family might have enough to eat.

One day Manuel (that was his name) received news that his uncle who had just died had left him quite a large sum of money. The neighbors, when they heard the good news, asked him what he was going to do with that sum of money. Manuel told them that he intended, building himself a store and he would sell everything there that the other stores in town sold. He built his store after awhile but only charged his customers what they could afford to pay.

In a short while the other storekeepers came to him in a body and told him that he must charge more for the goods and they even threatened him with bodily harm. Manuel would not listen to any of them but kept on as usual with the result that the other stores had to close their doors or go and open in some other town.

The other people—working men like Manuel had been—were now prosperous for they were a thrifty people and most of them built themselves new houses and some of them even bought themselves small farms with the result that the whole town prospered. Then they had to build schools, new roads and a hospital.

The news got around the countryside. Visitors from other parts of the country arrived and marvelled that the selfishness of one man to his countrymen could do so much good toward the town and to so many. Manuel's fame swept around the country and so many more visitors came that there was not enough accommodation for them. So Manuel built hotels for them to stay and charged them such low rents that they stayed much longer than they usually stayed for everything was cheaper there.

Manuel found that he had much more money than he had at first and his fellowmen were happier. Although he had taken as profits only nickles and dimes yet he had prospered.

In time Manuel died and his grateful countrymen revered his memory by building a monument for him which stands today—a tribute to the love and his unselfish devotion to his countrymen.

There is a moral to this tale which perhaps some people can see. Oh for a Manuel!

LIVE AND LET LIVE

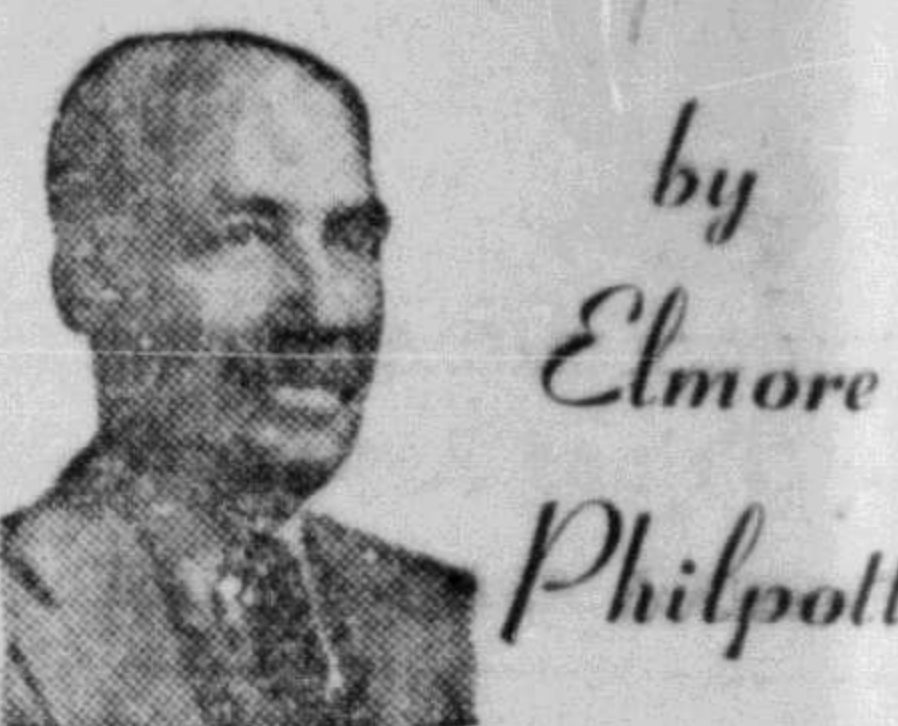

Income Tax Men Busy

Good response is being shown with the federal income tax consultants here who have a temporary office in the Unemployment Insurance Office.

One of the assessors, Kenneth Leckie, states that they will have their office open this evening to give Columbia Cellulose Company and other workmen opportunity to consult in regard to the filling out of income tax forms.

E. J. Ashcroft, who has been employed at the local customs office, left today on the Princess Louise for his new post as customs officer of Sitka station. He will have his headquarters at Wrangell, Alaska, and will return here after the tourist season.

As I See It

SHALOM, ISRAEL

TEL AVIV, Israel.—This will be my last running commentary on my first visit to Israel. It won't be the last, I hope.

Here are some odds and ends of notes that got left out of earlier reports:

First, about Kate Aitken, Canada's woman radio commentator who travels fast and far—as does Eleanor Roosevelt.

Kate was out here last Christmas, especially to get a sound recording of the Christmas Eve service in the Church at Bealehem. This is now in Arab territory and it is tough getting across the line. However, Kate had come with a whole raft of credentials and documents. But somehow or other, her name had been left off the list exchanged between the consulates. So when the special Christmas party was allowed to cross the line, the Arabs said "No" to Kate.

However, Mrs. Aitken put on a forlorn look and in near-tearful voice remarked: "My grandchildren are going to be so disappointed—so disappointed."

That was something that the Arab official understood: "You have grandchildren?"

Kate turned on her most powerful charm. The net result was that Israeli officials soon saw an Arab jeep rushing for their lines.

"O, O," her Israeli friends said, "they are sending her back." But it was just an Arab driver coming back for Kate's little fur jacket.

NAZARETH REMINDED me of the hills around Orangeville, Ontario, except that its grass is not so green; in fact, is dry, more like the country around Kamloops.

There was a chubby, round-faced Arab in the open front restaurant there who kept circulating round our party with a string of what looked like amber beads in his hand. I broke my rule and agreed to let him read my fortune. His technique is to make you hold the beads in your right hand; then he takes them from you and makes marks on a bit of paper, all the time mumbling what sounds like a prayer in Arabic.

Finally he looks at your left palm.

Here is what the old boy told me:

I had had two serious sweethearts, one from whom I was separated and never saw again; afterwards, one whom I had loved all my life, and who loved me, who was true to me as I was to her. I was on a long, long trip and about to meet my wife again, for I needed her on what I am doing. He said I had been in a lot of fighting, had been shot up and also in an accident, but my violent fighting days were over now. He said that I had once been quite poor, but was now fairly well off, because "God looks after you." The old boy was really off the mark only once. He wanted to know if I had ever been a prisoner. When I said "No," he was a bit taken aback.

Maybe he meant I should have been, or was still going to be. Anyway, I gave him the equivalent of about half a dollar.

DURING MY STAY in Israel, a considerable goodwill party of British MPs has been here. Also quite a few British business men are coming in. I notice that Britain is by far Israel's best customer.

Maybe we shall yet repair the disastrous effects of the policy which lost us the seventh dominion.

I TAKE BACK, in part what I wrote from India about the folly of reviving or creating Hebrew as the language of this land.

It has at least shown how easy it would be to devise and teach, for international purposes, one world language.

Of course, being English-speaking myself, the easier idea to me seems to let all the rest of the world learn English. Of course, they might not agree to that.

They have a vast scheme in Israel for a super power and water irrigation plan called "Lowdermilk." But just now they have a modest first installment of it. They wittily call it "the skimmed Lowdermilk plan."

SO SHALOM to Israel. That word Shalom means all things nice. It means hello, goodbye, hi, so-long, here's your good health, skol, or what have you? But, it could never be used for what we used to call "soldier's farewell." It's first and last a friendly word, theoretically meaning peace be with you, or, as Tiny Tim said "God bless us every one."

Horse Meat Is Popular

By HANS GROTTKE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

EDMONTON (C)—Horse meat is proving popular in Edmonton. That's the word from O. B. Moore and E. S. Ferguson, co-owners of Canada's first horse meat store.

The shop named the Pony Market—now has been in operation for several weeks and the owners say business is booming. They also claim there hasn't been one serious complaint to date about their product.

"At first," Mr. Moore said, "our customers were mainly persons who had previously eaten horse meat overseas and welcomed an opportunity to purchase it again."

"But now we get almost as many Edmonton-born customers as those of European descent. Why last Saturday alone about 600 people bought meat in our store and many of them have lived here all their lives."

The greatest attraction to budget-conscious housewives is, of course, the meat's relatively low price range as compared to other meats.

Most cuts sell for about 40 per cent of regular beef prices. Top price for a horse tenderloin, for example, is 40 cents against $1.50 per pound for beef cuts of that class.

Loin steaks sell for 35 cents compared with 95 cents for good quality beef steaks in nearby shops. Rump roasts or pickled hindquarters cost about 36 cents a pound and ground horse meat 25 cents.

Post-Anaesthetic Recovery Room

A post-anaesthetic recovery room is one of the latest improvements to the Prince Rupert General Hospital which is now in use. With this room, patients, after operations, can be brought out of anaesthetic in the one room with the attention of one nurse before being removed to their respective rooms. Another phase of hospital work is thus systematized.

Sun Bathing For Nurses

Sunbathing deck for nurses on the roof of the new Nurses' Home is being considered by the hospital board. The roofing company has given assurance to the board that, if properly installed, this would not adversely affect the roofing guarantee. However, the sun deck, like other hospital improvements, is held up for the time being because of financial stringency.

Charles J. Clements was fined $15 in city police court this morning for infraction of the city speeding bylaw.

Blackwood on Bridge

By Easley Blackwood

Against the three no trump contract in today's hand Mr. Champion led the five of spades. Mrs. Keen played the queen and Mr. Masters promptly won with the king. He laid down the king of diamonds, then the queen of diamonds and followed with the jack of diamonds which was overtaken by dummy's ace.

The club finesse was now taken, losing to the king, but Mr. Masters' jack-six of spades effectively barred the running of the spade suit and there was no way to prevent him from making at least four no trump.

Mr. Muzzy's friend, Mr. New, who is learning the game by watching, asked Mr. Masters to explain his play at the first trick. A few days before Mr.
Masters had let an opposing queen hold the first trick, when he himself had king-jack-small in the suit.

In fact the entire suit in question had been distributed around the board just about like today's spade suit. Mr. New wanted to know why the difference.

"It all depends on which opponent you have to surrender the lead to in order to make your contract," said Mr. Masters. "Usually the hold-up is made in an effort to break the enemy's lines of communication —that is, to exhaust one opponent of all cards in the danger suit. But here there was no necessity for exhausting Mrs.
Keen of spades as it was obvious that she could not gain the lead.
"In that hand the other day it was necessary to take a finesse toward my right-hand opponent. Today, as you see, I had to finesse toward my left-hand opponent, the hand with the long spade holding.

"Therefore it was not only pointless to hold-up at the first trick—actually it was essential not to do so. Winning the first trick with the king of spades, I was left with the jack-six of the suit—another certain stopper as long as future spade needs came from Mr. Champion's side of the table.
"Clear?" asked Mr. Masters with a smile.
"No," said Mr. New.
Mr. Masters continued to smile, but privately he thought:
"Good heavens another Mr.
Muzzy?"

Prince Rupert's Golden Glovers Now Looking For New Laurels

Now that Joe Ward and his Golden Glovers are back in town after taking three awards with four entries in the provincial amateur boxing championships they might sit back and rest a little on their laurels. But no—Joe says his boys, starting tonight, are in there punching. They want to keep in shape.

The first plan trainer Joe has in mind is a boxing card in the near future but he would like to have a few more boys fighting for the Prince Rupert boxing team before he sends out a call for competitors. The former Royal Naval battler who took four raw boys in hand to bring back to this city all but the Golden Boy honors believes there is the best of boxing talent here and he is more than willing to prove it.

And the boys are anxiously awaiting word when and where the Dominion amateur boxing championships are taking place, because that's where they want to go, says Joe. Winners in that contest will be the amateur boxing champions of Canada. The contest is totally sponsored by the British Columbia Amateur Boxing Association in this province, which pays all trip expenses of the entries.
Joe figures, too, that now his boxing team may get a little support from their home town and when they go out again perhaps they won't have to worry about robes and boxing shoes. The boys didn't have these "little luxuries"—as Joe called them—in Vancouver, and they felt a little self-conscious.
"You see," said Joe, "we were only starting from scratch."

Terrace Twins In City Today

A precious cargo weighing in at 14 pounds was brought to Prince Rupert on the Princess Louise, Capt. William Hicks, this morning.

From under the cover of warm baby blankets the blue eyes of Terrace twins peeped out at Prince Rupert skies. Carried off the boat in the arms of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Bilton, the twins will return home by train tonight.

To escape an influenza epidemic and reach medical care, the newborn twins had been evacuated from Terrace by a Royal Air Force plane March 14.

The 21-year-old mother, Mrs. Shirley Bilton, saw her six-week-old twins Wednesday for the first time since they were born.

The parents came down from Terrace to take their children from a Vancouver hospital.

"They are as healthy as can be—you should hear them," said the young father, carrying his seven-pound boy, Jimmy, from the boat today.

Tiny Judith, six pounds, was warm in her mother's arms.

SHIPS AND WATERFRONT

Kitimat, much in the limelight these days as the site for the Aluminum Co. of Canada's great smelter project, will be a port of call for the Forest Branch cruiser Salt Mist which left today for a 10-day swing to timber areas down the coast between here and Swanson Bay. Aboard with Capt. Richard Farmer is Ranger Thor Strimbold.

Union steamer Coquitlam, Capt. William McCombe, on her weekly voyage, arrived in port at 2:15 this afternoon from Vancouver and waypoints and will sail at 11 p.m. for North Queen Charlotte Island points whence she is due back here Sunday to sail south at 8 p.m. that day.

With mixed freight for Prince Rupert, CPR steamer Princess Louise, Capt. William Hicks, arrived here from Vancouver at 10 o'clock this morning and sailed at noon for Alaska. Passengers

THE EXPERTS Say...

By KAY REX
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Salad Fine Fare — In the spring a crisp salad is excellent fare for jaded appetites.

While it's still too young in the season for the stores to have great variety in the way of fruits and vegetables—inexpensive ones that is—tomatoes and head lettuce still are fairly plentiful.

And a tomato- and lettuce salad is good news any time.

To have those leaves crisp and green, soak the lettuce in cold water. Then dry in a clean tea-towel. Separate the leaves, cut to size, and place in a salad-bowl.

A brief soaking in hot water will loosen the skins of the tomatoes, making their removal an easy job.

Slice the tomato and mix with the lettuce.

Now, into your wooden salad-spoon put a dash of salt and pepper (an additional dash of dry mustard adds a piquant flavor). Fill the spoon with salad oil, plus a little vinegar. Mix with the salad-fork and pour over lettuce and tomatoes.

Repeat amounts of oil and vinegar according to the proportions of lettuce and tomatoes. Avoid using too much vinegar.

TOSS THE SALAD

This, by the way, is a favorite among connoisseurs of French food. Good too. And more important—it's easy to make.

Palate Fresheners — Home economists recommend diced cooked beets and diced canned pears served in a cabbage cup and blended with mayonnaise.

Other basic recipes for salads: Shredded cabbage, grated Canadian Cheddar cheese and cooked peas combined with French dressing.

Canned peaches, pears and diced apple served with cottage cheese or cheese balls.

Tea Tips—The tea bureau has come up with a few highlights in the life of a tea-taster.

Did you know that an expert tea-taster can identify between 1,500 and 1,600 different teas, telling where the particular tea was grown, what variety it is, at what season of the year it was plucked, how it was processed? He also can tell you how much it should cost and how it should be blended.

Finally, no tea-taster swallows any of the tea he tastes. If he did it might affect his sense of taste as he may sample as many as 500 teas in one day.

THIN OUT TINY CARROTS FOR DISH YOU WON'T FORGET

If home garden crops were according to the quantity of vitamins they contribute to the family diet all season long, the carrot would probably be rated next to the tomato.

If your family belongs to the anti-carrot faction, and you are planning your first vegetable garden, do not omit carrots from the schedule just because of that prejudice. If you have never eaten carrots fresh from your own garden, then you have no idea how delicious they can be.

Sow a row, with the very first crops you start in the garden. First, mix the carrot seed with just a pinch or two of early radishes, because carrots germinate slowly, and the radishes will come up right away and "mark the row" as gardeners say, so you may avoid disturbing it in cultivation. In a shallow drill, sow the seeds thinly. When the radishes appear and mature, pull up and eat them promptly, so they will not crowd the carrots which succeed them.

Let the carrots grow without thinning until some are as thick as lead pencils, then begin to thin out and cook the excess roots. You will be amazed at the flavor and tenderness of these tiny carrots, and from then on your prejudice will disappear.

While carrots are most delicious when they are young, they still remain sweet and tender after they have grown all summer in the garden. They will mature well standing so close in the row as to touch each other. But the best plan is to make successive sowings, and harvest them before they are full grown. If you wish to eat carrots, the smaller they are the more delicious. It is a good plan to sow a special row for canning and harvest them when they reach the size desired.

When carrots are allowed to mature, they should be pulled when the tops begin to turn yellow. If left in the ground after that they will lose quality.
