Would Hold Up Housing

OTTAWA — Because of shortage of construction materials, Reconstruction Minister Winters is suggesting that joint provincial and federal housing projects should be postponed.

Asking that plans for development of joint governmental undertakings should be held in abeyance, the federal minister, writing to the provinces, has said: "It is my feeling that the preliminary work which has been done has been useful and will avoid delay when the material supply situation is such that there is a reasonable expectation of projects proceeding expeditiously."

(A joint provincial-federal housing scheme, such as the minister of reconstruction is asking to be deferred, had been under consideration for Prince Rupert).

White Cloth Was No Clue

PML-15 returned from patrol down the coast recently, RCMP officers of the city detachment finding that the piece of white cloth seen by fishermen on a tree near Gribbell Island was nothing but a wrapping cloth for meat.

RCMP speculate that the cloth was dropped by a hawk that had been robbing meat. A native with the party climbed the tree to pick up the white cloth that was believed might be a clue to a United States plane that disappeared last year.

The agents report considerable interest in the second on the part of prospective buyers.

Plane Upsets, All Safe

Passengers on West Coast Of Vancouver Island Lucky

VANCOUVER (CP) — A Queen Charlotte Air Lines plane overturned Saturday while making a forced landing off the west coast of Vancouver Island but six persons aboard, two of them children, escaped uninjured.

They were flown Sunday to the settlement of Zellabos after a plane piloted by Tommy Scheer of Vancouver (formerly of Prince Rupert), QCA pilot, sighted them standing on a lonely beach at an isolated inlet, the overturned aircraft being near the shore.

The passengers were listed as Mrs. Gilmore and her son and Mrs. W. Becker and her son. The fifth passenger was listed only as a Mr. Goldbloom.

The plane was piloted by Ken Hughes of Vancouver.

Joint Choirs' Easter Cantata

A Cantata entirely new to the choir and congregations of Prince Rupert was chosen by Peter Lien this year for the annual joint Presbyterian and Anglican Good Friday offering. The Cantata, "Easteride," by Daniel Protheroe is an American work of fairly recent origin. It is rich in melody and harmony with some original effects and interpretations and is strong in its dramatic appeal and vigor of treatment. It is generally considered an enlivening change from the Passion music of Stainer and Maunders which have been the alternatives for the past dozen years.

There was a large congregation assembled in St. Andrew's Cathedral to listen to this cantata and the choir, under Mr. Lien's spirited and devoted leadership responded excellently. Tone and tempo was fresh and alive throughout. The Cantata dwells on three of the Gospel scenes: Christ before Pilate; Christ on the Cross; and the morning of the first Easter Day.

Elizabeth Martin made her debut as a soloist in two short but moving recitative passages. Mrs. F. E. Anfield was the soprano soloist and gave a beautiful rendition of the longest solo in the cantata which had to do with the Message of the Resurrection.

Leonard Sykes, tenor, had parts throughout which were the words of Christ and his interpretation was wrought with reverence and feeling.

J. A. Teng, baritone, had the

U.S. Transport Proceeded South

Definite word has been received here by HMCS Chatham that the U.S. Army transport that was expected here Good Friday has continued on her trip south. She had been delayed by weather in her trip between Juneau and Ketchikan.

Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Nickerson are sailing Thursday night on the Prince Rupert for a three weeks' trip to Vancouver and Vancouver Island.

Dr. Duncan Black, director of the public health unit here, left on Saturday's plane for Victoria to attend a public health conference. Miss Margaret Steeves P.H.N. left on Friday's plane and Miss Freda Hilton P.H.N. and Miss Shirley Main P.H.N. on Thursday. Armine Boas and Hugh Hart, sanitarians here and at Terrace respectively, sailed on the Prince Rupert Thursday night.

Agriculture is the principal occupation, employing more than half the population, in Greece.

Pontius Pilate recitatives which, in the first part of the work, led frequently into short choruses, and he performed his part with steadiness and there was fine teamwork with the choir.

Mrs. E. J. Smith was splendid in her work at the organ.

The scripture passages were read by the Rev. Dr. E. A. Wright and Canon Procter said prayers and pronounced the benediction.

Cambridge Is Winner

LONDON (CP) — Heavily favored Cambridge won the ninety-seventh Varsity boat race today, defeating Oxford by about 15 lengths, one of the biggest margins in their ancient rivalry.

Time for the four-and-a-quarter-mile horseshoe course in the Thames river was 21 minutes.

Church Gets Improvements

Further improvements have been completed as part of the program which has been transforming the interior of First Presbyterian Church recently. Kitchen, ladies' parlor and choir room downstairs have been repainted and are to receive new linoleum. Next improvement in the main church auditorium will be the putting down of new carpets in the aisles.

Snow slid across the ice for over 150 feet, the engineer said.

Strange Kidnap Story is Told

KINGSTON (CP) — A 13-year-old boy today told a strange story of being kidnapped, blindfolded, gagged and strung up by his ankles and held prisoner for 36 hours by a man who slugged him over the head on Kingston street Friday night.

Edward Wainwright was back with his widowed mother tonight and police held Owen Dulmadge, 29, of Ottawa, who will appear in court tomorrow to be charged with the kidnapping.

Dulmadge was arrested early today at Hotel Dieu Hospital after he was given treatment for injuries suffered when his automobile, which also carried Wainwright, left the road near Seeley's Bay, 22 miles from Kingston.

Iranian Oil

IRANIAN OIL is more than a British chestnut. The entire western defense community must look with concern on any changes in Iran's laws which would make western access to that country's oil uncertain. At the same time, and for the same reasons, those economic and social conditions which lend extra force to extremism are a concern of all who have associated themselves in an effort to check Communist expansion.

The lower House of the Iranian Parliament has voted unanimously in favor of nationalizing the Iranian oil industry. This move has followed closely on the assassination of a premier who was holding out against nationalization. Now the British are warning Iran that the contract between the Iranian government and the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company cannot be terminated by action of one party to it and that it has many years to run.

Much of this is reminiscent of earlier chapters in the history of raw-material-producing countries whose resources have been developed by foreign capital. But there appears no hint of gunboats or military expeditions here, only a warning that Britain may take the issue to—the World Court.

The Iranian government has not gone Communist by any means. Iran's very independence, indeed, rests on success of western measures to curb the spread of Communist violence. So it should not be impossible to reach some workable plan to keep Iranian oil on the side of democracy.

Scripture Passage for Today

"This is the day that the Lord hath made; we will rejoice and be glad in it."—Psa. 118:24.

Easter is Celebrated

Large Congregations Attend Special Services in City Churches

It was a dull, cloudy, cool Easter Sunday in Prince Rupert but city churches drew large congregations as the anniversary of the great Christian triumph of life over death was impressively observed. Chancels were attractively decorated with early spring flowers. The Easter story was reverently read from the Scripture by the pastors and developed in appropriate sermons. Special music was rendered by choirs morning and evening.

In First Presbyterian Church Rev. Dr. E. A. Wright spoke in the morning of the Three Gospels—Eden, the garden of the beginnings and eventually man's downfall; Gethsemane, the garden of despair, betrayal and atonement; the Garden of Joseph of Aramethia, the garden of fulfillment, the triumph of life eternal over the darkness of death. The pastor exhorted his congregation to order their lives in the faith of the new era which had its rebirth in the first Easter. The junior choir was augmented for the morning service by the senior choir and two anthems were sung—"Alleluia" and "Easter Lilies." A special musical service in the evening by the senior choir featured the cantata "Christ Triumphant" (Bruno Huhn) with William Martin, Miss Elizabeth Martin, J. A. Teng and J. E. Davey as soloists.

FIRST BAPTIST

The Resurrection story was featured at First Baptist Church in morning and evening sermons by Rev. Fred Antrobus. To illustrate the Easter theme, "The Risen Lord, and Wandering Disciples" special colored slides were shown. The children of the Sunday School also attended. Miss Janice Kondratuk sang "He Lives," at the Sunday School session. Slides, accompanying the evening message of "Why Seek Ye the Living Among the Dead?" were also shown. A special quartette of W. D. Smith, Jack Anderson, Rev. Fred Antrobus and John Antrobus sang "The Lord Is Risen." Accompanied on the organ by Mrs. J. C. Gilker, the choir sang "Alleluia" and other Easter anthems. Organist in the morning was Mrs. W. D. Smith. A Sunday School attendance of 210 children meeting in three separate departments was recorded in the morning.

FIRST UNITED

"He Is Risen Indeed" was the Easter Sunday morning sermon at the First United Church family services. The attendance was so great that the congregation overflowed outside.

During the church service the children saw colored slides on Easter in the Sunday School room under Miss A. M. Stewart. Rev. Lawrence G. Sieber also gave a special message for the children, "New Clothes for Old." Miss Yvonne Larsen was organist during the morning when the junior and senior choir sang under J. S. Wilson, choirmaster.

Organist H. A. Pluym accompanied the senior choir at the evening worship singing the anthem "God So Loved the World." Mr. Sieber again addressed the congregation on the text, "The Easter Faith."

REGULAR BAPTIST

With Sunday School joining the morning congregation the Regular Baptist Church (Fundamentalist) heard the message "Easter is the Hour" by Rev. L. A. Thorpe. In the evening an evangelistic community singing sermon was enjoyed. The sermon subject was "Receiving the Conqueror."

The junior choir sang "The Old Rugged Cross," with the Sunday School putting on the preliminary exercises with the Atoning Work of Christ given by the junior boys while the senior boys read the scripture of the Resurrection. Mrs. B. Ewald was pianist for the morning service attended by 119. Gordon Hangerud was the evening pianist.

ST. PAUL'S LUTHERAN

The regular liturgical Easter service was held at the St. Paul's Lutheran Church, at which Pastor E. Soland talked of "Christ, the First Fruits of the Resurrection." Four special musical numbers were included by the boys, girls and adult choirs, and a solo by Mrs. Archie Wudel singing "Open the Gates of the Temple." During the evening service the Sunday School produced their Easter program of recitations and songs in place of a regular service. In both evening and morning services an organ and piano duet was rendered by Miss Mardell Soland, pianist, and Mrs. E. Soland during the offertory. Again good attendance was noted, with extra chairs being placed in the aisles.

FULL GOSPEL

After the regular morning service in the Full Gospel Tabernacle, with an address on "Easter" by Pastor C. Fawcett, a special evening program was presented.

An edifying discourse entitled "Power of the Resurrection" was presented.

HYDERABAD STORY

HYDERABAD, India. —I came to Hyderabad because this key state, right in the heart of India, is a good example of the country as a whole.

The best brains in India say "if the Congress Party can solve the problems of Hyderabad it can solve the problems of the entire country."

For here there is not only the age-old question of all this part of the world—how to stay alive—how to eat enough to keep body and soul together—how to fight all the diseases, like malaria and plague—but also here, in violent form, is the key problem of the twentieth century.

Hyderabad is one of the two spots in India where the Communists attempted violent rebellion, waged with all the weapons of civil war. So far as I can discover, the Communist uprising has pretty well been defeated here. But no one is under any illusions as to the reality.

The Congress Party government is in a race against time. All over Asia and, above all, here in India, the great weapon of the Communists is that they stand for the forcible seizure of the land.

"The land for the peasants" is just as powerful a cry here as it was in Russia in 1917, or in China where the Chiang Kai-shek regime crumbled, partly from its own rottenness, but even more because of the Communist slogan: "the land for the people who till it."

I HAVE TALKED HERE with all sorts of people—some very poor and hungry, some cultured, keen.

I lunched with the chief minister of state—the Honorable M. K. Velodi whose job corresponds with a provincial premier's in Canada. He is an old-time (British trained) Indian civil service man. He is as calm, competent and realistic a statesman as I have met for a long time. He not only answered all my questions about the Communists, but also made it very clear that he completely understands the problem in its world setting.

IN WHAT FOLLOWS I WISH to make it crystal clear that I am not quoting any statesman or official, but simply giving my own conclusions after a few days' stay in this political hot-spot. Here is how it looks to me:

1. The Communist uprising has been temporarily overpowered. The government has been able to win back the sympathy of most of the peasants. Hence, instead of, perhaps, 3000 key Communists leading large numbers of peasants in open, violent uprising, designed to get rid of the landlords forever, there are now no more than two or three hundred.

Of course, as the whole Communist movement is illegal here, and strictly underground, it is difficult to know exactly.

2. But the process of getting rid of the landlords, under the new Constitution of India, is a slow and costly business. The Constitution says that nobody may be deprived of property without receiving compensation. Fair compensation for dispossessed landlords has been fixed at about twenty times the average annual rent of the land in question, plus an extra fifteen percent.

Provinces like Hyderabad simply have not got the money to raise such huge sums. Hence the "land for the peasants" movement proceeds at a snail's pace when it should proceed at a gallop to save the situation.

I KNOW FROM MY OWN interview with the Prime Minister, Mr. Nehru, as well as from his speeches, that he knows the reality of the above crisis. Already the Congress Party is talking of changing the Constitution in order to speed up this "land reform" business.

But though it is presumptuous for an outside well-wisher to say so, I doubt that the Congress Party as a whole is aware of the desperate nature of its own race against time. They have, as I figure it, one brief moment in history to use all the powers of democracy to end landlordism once and for all. For what hits you like a hot blast in Hyderabad is that the peasants do not concede the morality of the landlords' claims to ANY compensation.

Call the landlords zamindars, jagirdars or what not, few if any of them secured their priv-

Evangelism For Easter

A special Easter evangelistic service was held by the Prince Rupert Ministerial Association in the First United Church Wednesday night, conducted by Rev. L. G. Sieber of First United Church.

The joint service of city churches was featured by a stirring address by Rev. E. A. Wright, D.D., whose strong sermon was based on the words "It is Finished" which the Lord uttered from the Cross.

Dr. Wright stressed that the words were spoken under intense physical, mental and spiritual anguish.

The crown of thorns had been placed on His head, the nails had pierced His hands and feet.

He had been betrayed, denied and deserted.

God appeared to have deserted Him.

Yet He uttered the words: "It is possible, let this cup pass from Me. Nevertheless, not My will but Thine be Done."

Further, the speaker continued, what was finished? First, His earthly life, second, his work on earth, third, the salvation of mankind.

The ransom price for man's salvation was paid. Now was the time for man's redemption. The reconciliation between God and Man was now complete and all that man had to do was to accept the finished work of Christ for his eternal salvation.

A composite choir from the churches sang "When I Survey the Wondrous Cross," "In the Cross of Christ I Glory," and "Beneath the Cross of Jesus."

Henry Pluym was organist. The congregation joined in a responsive reading of the 19th psalm.

The Good Friday message was contained in a solo sung by John Davey.

M. M. Stephens sailed last night on the Camosun for Stewart to pay an official visit to night to Enoch Masonic Lodge there in his capacity as district deputy grand master. He is being accompanied by John Thomson and Dr. G. E. H. Montgomery. They will return to the city tomorrow morning.

Illegal positions by means which would bear examination. They charged grossly extortionate rents to begin with, then compounded the debts at interest rates running from 12 to 35 percent per year. They had literal powers of life and death over their tenants. They are lucky to escape with their lives.

Reflects and Reminisces

For those in this country who never could understand why a Canadian cruiser should bear the name "Uganda" it might be explained the vessel originally came from its Royal Navy, and, after being laid away in moth balls for a spell, is now being put in up-to-date shape, with a new name. It will be HMCS "Quebec." That's better.

IT CAN OCCUR

A weekly, published in Hawaii, will please not do it again! Anyway, it should know better than make the claim that Whitehorse is in Alaska. It should be assumed, of course, that the Hawaiian publisher has heard of the Yukon. Yet, these little leaks will persist in happening. Next time we visit Honolulu, we can publicly be played down.

NOT TONIGHT

The Department of Agriculture, in few and simple words, explains the butter situation. It says there is not enough to go around. How perfectly understandable. It reminds one of what was sometimes heard at suppers when little Willie claimed he was entitled to one helping—and no more.

It is an odd commentary on the strange times that the only "imperialism" left in the world is being practised by Communism, a political system which is supposed to glorify the common man.—The Ottawa Journal

STILL SEARCHING

About four centuries ago, Sir Francis Drake buried treasure on Juan Fernandez Island off the coast of Chile and now another attempt to find it is on the cards. Scores of previous expeditions, all failures, are on record. This time, a Chilean navy transport is making ready. There must be a powerful fascination about the British sea dog's plunder. Yarns are told concerning Captain Kidd and where he is supposed to have hidden high seas loot somewhere along the New England and Bay of Fundy shores. But nothing was ever found, though the hunts were many. Reckon it's a little too much to expect.

Dictatorship must not control the press. Democracy must have press freedom. The latter has departed in Argentina. So has its publisher, La Presna, founded in 1889 and regarded as the London Times of the nation, ever outspoken and courageous, has been seized to become the virtual property of Argentine's rulers who could not accept

SENIOR "B" BASKETBALL—

Penticton Coming Here To Defend Hoop Title

PENTICTON.—Penticton Omegas will be opponents of Prince Rupert Jets in the finals at Prince Rupert this week-end for the British Columbia Senior "B" basketball championship.

Easy Win For Jets

Saturday night's basketball game at the Civic Centre was billed as an exhibition and it certainly exhibited in no uncertain terms just how powerful a team the Prince Rupert Jets aggregation is this season. Right from the toss-up they dominated the play, taking 8 points before the native tournament winners, Kitkatla, were able to score a basket. After Kitkatla scored their first basket, the Jets went on a scoring spree that netted them 21 straight points before their opponents next scored. The final outcome was 80 to 36 with Prince Rupert, of course, the winners.

Prince Rupert went all out in the first half to outscore the visitors 42 to 8. Syd Scherk scored 8 field baskets and one foul shot for 17 points during the half, every basket on a beautiful swish shot. In the second half Coach Alex Bill used his spurs freely as the Jets seemed to toy with the losing Kitkatlans. Only three fouls were called on the winners and 14 on the losers who, of course, were trying harder and making their fouls on bodily contacts.

High scorers for the night were Syd Scherk with 22, Don Scherk 14 and Robinson of the losers with 16.

Referees were Johnny Comandina and Bill Davidson. A fair sized audience saw the contest.

JUVENILE

The league winning Booth III team took the first game of the Juvenile league finals from An-nunciation school by a 30 to 24 score. Leonard Smith was top man for Booth as he scored 10 and Sedgewick was second high man with 9. For the losers Fitzgerald scored 8. It was a fine game to watch, with Booth just holding the edge over their opponents in the first three quarters and drawing away from them in the final period to win the game by a 6-point margin. Considering the shortness of the periods played in this league, the score for the evening was remarkable. A lot one time when the teams were battling it out up and down the floor, six straight field baskets were made without a miss. There is some fine bas-

Rollins Wins Vezina Trophy

TORONTO (CP)—Al Rollins, lanky Toronto Maple Leafs' goaltender, last night won the Vezina Trophy when the Leafs shut out Boston Bruins, 1-0, in Boston.

Rollins had carried a one-goal lead over Terry Sawchuk, of Detroit Red Wings, into the final game of the season and Sawchuk was unable to catch him despite Detroit's 5-0 victory over Montreal Canadiens.

The $2,000 in prize money goes to Rollins who played 40 of Toronto's 70 regular season games.

Back Stage at the Civic Centre

To present "Our Hearts Were Young and Gay" next month

With a cast of eight men and nine women the spring play "Our Hearts Were Young and Gay" will be put on the Civic Centre boards April 13 and 14.

Rehearsals for the first act of this three-act comedy written by Cornelia Otis Skinner and Emily Kimbrough have been completed under the direction of R. C. Edwards.

When two girls, acted by Marian Thomas and Elizabeth Helmes, take a summer vacation to France, the experiences they have on the boat trip and visiting Paris are laughter provoking indeed.

"Funniest by far than the movie, and as enjoyable as the best selling book," is one comment that has been made of this play, dramatized by Jean Kerr. Mrs. J. S. Black is costume mistress for the cast of 17, who wear 1923 styled clothes.

Dr. Duncan Black is playing one of the leads with his portrayal of the father. Although Dr. Black has had previous acting experience, this will be his first work with the Little Theatre here.

Other new members to the local group and in this play are Marian Thomas, who has played with Heart House while attending the Toronto University; Mrs. Snella Chater who has acted with the Smithers Little Theatre and Lois Long, who had experience working with school plays in Ottawa.

Two of the cast, Olga Moores of Newfoundland and Allie Tibaut of Quebec have come from Eastern Canada to Prince Rupert. Miss Tibaut who came here recently from French Canada, will act a French dialect part in "Our Hearts Were Young and Gay."

Reg. Edwards organized the Little Theatre group in Bella Bella when he went there to work with the Fisheries Department 20 years ago. Many of these productions, some done through the schools as well as the Little Theatre, were shown in the neighboring communities of Bella Bella and Ocean Falls.

1 Show the boss how you can

Advertising saves by creating the

2 Find a new way to Advertising does that. As it increases markets and demand it makes jobs

for everybody.

3 Show what the boss will Advertising does it this way... It sells

Advertising proves it every day.

...HOUSEKEEPING...

A SALAD A DAY SHOULD BE ON MENU; LETTUCE NOT ESSENTIAL

Could there be a more delicious way to serve crisp, juicy vegetables and luscious fruits than in salads which should appear daily on every family table? The fact that a salad should appear on the daily menu is an important one, because they make such a definite contribution to good health. Salad helps to insure that we meet our daily needs for minerals and vitamins. In addition some of them furnish energy
as well as tissue building material, particularly when made from such foods as meat, eggs, cheese
or poultry combined with salad
dressing.

Good salads make meals more pleasing, tasty and interesting
because they furnish crispness, color and added flavor to any menu. Not only have they appetite appeal, but also eye appeal.
Variety in salads in summer
and fall is fairly easy to achieve, but salad making in winter and early spring may prove to be a real challenge. Home economists give some helpful suggestions to help meet this challenge. Too often homemakers forget about salads in winter without realizing that this is one time when salads are most necessary. Salads are mainly divided into four classes.

The Light Dinner Salad is served more or less as an appetizer to prepare the appetite for the more substantial food which is to follow or as an accompaniment to the meat course. It usually consists of a combination of greens, crisp vegetables or juicy fruit served with a tart,
simple dressing.

The Main Dish Salad is a hearty, substantial salad served as the main dish at luncheon or supper. For this salad such food as eggs, cheese, poultry, fish or meat are combined with the crisp greens or vegetables.

The Dessert Salad is, as a rule,

made of fresh frozen or canned fruit or a combination of all three. If there is any member of the family who is carefully watching calories here is an answer to their dessert problem.
This salad may complete the meal
without adding as many calories
as the usual richer desserts supply.

The Party Salad is a light and tempting one. Since it is usually eaten between meals, it should be refreshing rather than too satisfying. Frozen or moulded jelled salads are excellent for the party.

The other day in a restaurant
a home economist asked for a salad, and the waitress replied that there were no salads that day as they had not been able to obtain lettuce. Canadian homemakers should not consider that they can't make a salad unless they have lettuce. Granted, lettuce has become an integral part of most salads, but shredded cabbage or nice tender crisp leaves of spinach, cabbage or even parsley make a good salad base.
The idea of not serving a salad
just because the usual ingredients
aren't handy is a foolish one.
Salad ingredients should be fresh, crisp, clean and cold. As soon as the vegetables or fruits for salads
arrive in the kitchen, rinse them
in cold water, but do not soak,
clean or scrub those which need
it, and store them immediately
in a covered container, in a cold place.

Recipes for salads are largely guides which can be varied in many respects, according to the ingenuity, imagination and individuality of the homemaker.
Though there are no basic recipes for salads, the home economists of the Consumer Section offer some suggested combinations for spring salads.

Shredded cabbage, grated raw

carrot, cooked green beans or peas marinated in French dressing, served with a topping of onion rings.

Shredded cabbage, grated raw
turnip, and diced celery blended
with mayonnaise.

Shredded cabbage, grated raw
onion chopped hard-cooked eggs
and chopped pickles blended with boiled salad dressing or mayonnaise.

Shredded cabbage, grated Canadian Cheddar cheese and cooked peas combined with French
dressing.

Diced cooked beets, canned green beans or peas served as individual mounds in cabbage cups and topped with dressing.

Diced cooked beets, diced canned peas served in a cabbage
cup and blended with mayonnaise.

Diced raw unpeeled apple,
shredded cabbage and diced
celery blended with salad dressing and topped with chopped nuts.

Canned peaches, pears and diced apple served with cottage
cheese or cheese balls.

Diced chicken, diced apples
and shredded cabbage blended
with salad dressing.

Diced meat, diced cooked potatoes, chopped eggs combined with shredded spinach and blended
with mayonnaise.

It's often said that the dressing "makes" the salad. The clever homemaker will keep in her refrigerator, in covered jars, mayonnaise, French dressing and boiled dressing. To these may be added various ingredients such as chopped pickle, ketchup, chopped onion, cottage cheese or the Roquefort type cheese to add variety and flavor to salads. The

Ocean Falls Air Service

Paper Town Now
Part of QCA Run

With the opening of a permanent operating base of the Queen
Charlotte Airlines at Ocean Falls
by May 1, all important points between here and Vancouver will be served, according to A. J.
Spilsbury, QCA president, after spending several days in the city.

"It will be something like a milk run, but all the points of importance between here and Vancouver will be connected by our planes," said Mr. Spilsbury.

As soon as the Pacific Mills
seaplane float is ready at Ocean Falls, a Vancouver pilot and engineer will be established there,
with a Norseman seaplane, Spils-bury said.

With the acquiring of six new seven passenger Norseman, completing their number to 12, their total aircraft are brought to 26,
the manager said.

"The Ocean Falls plane will always be on call for chartered or mercy flights, or to supplement the Prince Rupert plane,"
he added.

"But the floats at Seal Cove
are deplorable, said the president of the QCA, who is pressing Ottawa for a repair grant.

With the expansion of the QCA flights, fishermen will have direct connection with the three southern bases from Vancouver to Campbell River, Alert Bay and Ocean Falls, continuing to the other bases of Zeballos, Alford Bay and Prince Rupert. The northern run from Prince Rupert
will continue as the demand requires.

A 50 per cent increase in volume of business for 1951 over 1950 is expected by the president who flew here last week from Ocean Falls. He was accompanied by Harry Louis, maintenance success of a salad depends greatly upon how it is arranged and served. A good salad does not have to be a fussy one, nor an

Fertilizers in Central B.C.

SMITHERS.—Nitrogen is the most important of the plant foods usually applied when commercial fertilizers are used for hay, pasture and grain crops in the Bulkley Valley of Central British Columbia, according to J. V. Zacharias of the experimental substation at Smithers, where experiments along this line have been made.

Results show that, while profitable increases in yield can be obtained, only recommended materials should be used and these should be applied according to approved practices.

Fertilizers used should contain a high percentage of nitrogen and for best results should be applied as early as possible in the spring, when soil temperatures are too low for the normal activity of the bacteria which make available the essential nitrogen. In some soils, therefore, a nitrogen deficiency at this time could be corrected by an early application.

Phosphates have given small increases in yield when applied alone at the Smithers substation, but good results when applied with nitrogen.

the boys tell of their experience in port here with the 100 taxicabs and custom officials, before they were ordered to leave "the metropolis of northern British Columbia" by midnight the same day.

At daylight the next morning the Maggie Murphy started across Chatham Sound to seek its fortune in northern salmon fishing.

After the last war the author sought new adventure by traveling via B.C. roads and ferry from Prince Rupert to Ketchikan, on to Alaska. He made the return trip in 63 hours and 47 minutes, the fastest record for an auto trip from Alaska to United States. Driving via the Alcan Highway is an eight to fifteen day trip, according to the Blue Book.

plied with nitrogen. Combinations of nitrogen and phosphorus are considered essential for Bulkley Valley grain crops where early maturity is an important factor. The nitrogen in early spring gives the plant a good start, the phosphorus helps ripening in the fall.

Potash, the third major plant food available in fertilizers, when applied with heavy applications of nitrogen and phosphorus, brought some response, but such practice is not considered economical because of low summer rainfall.

GRAIN FERTILIZERS

Fertilizers for grain crops should be drilled in with the seed. This can best be accomplished with the use of a combination grain and fertilizer drill, or by means of a fertilizer attachment on the grain drill. Mixing the fertilizer with the grain is not recommended.

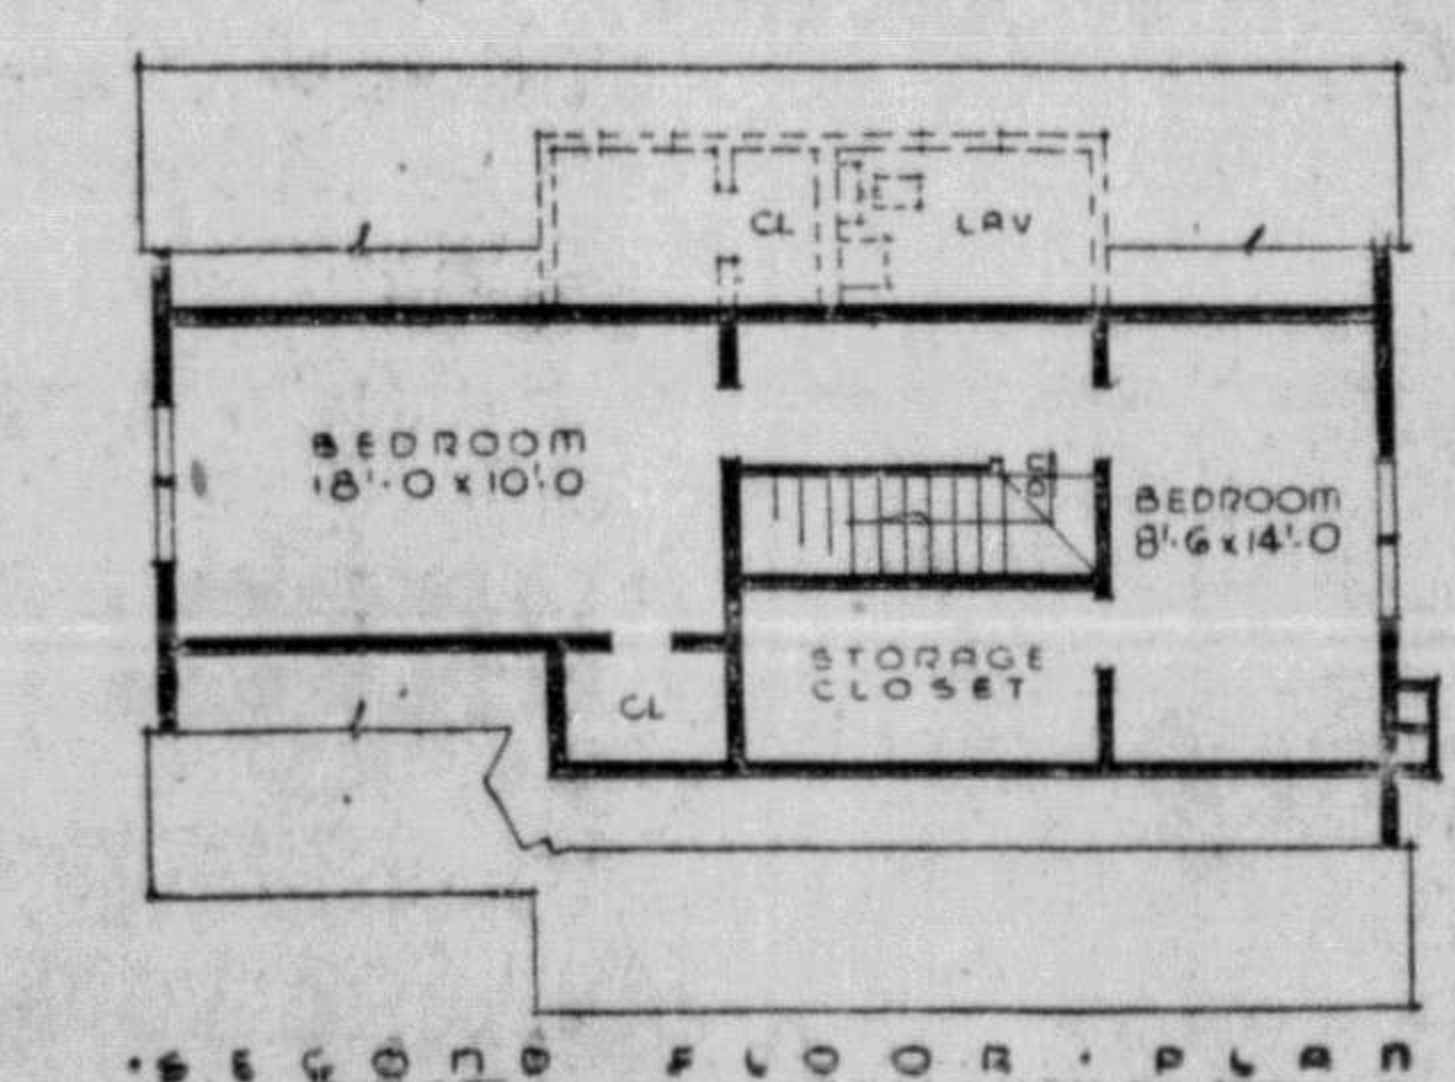

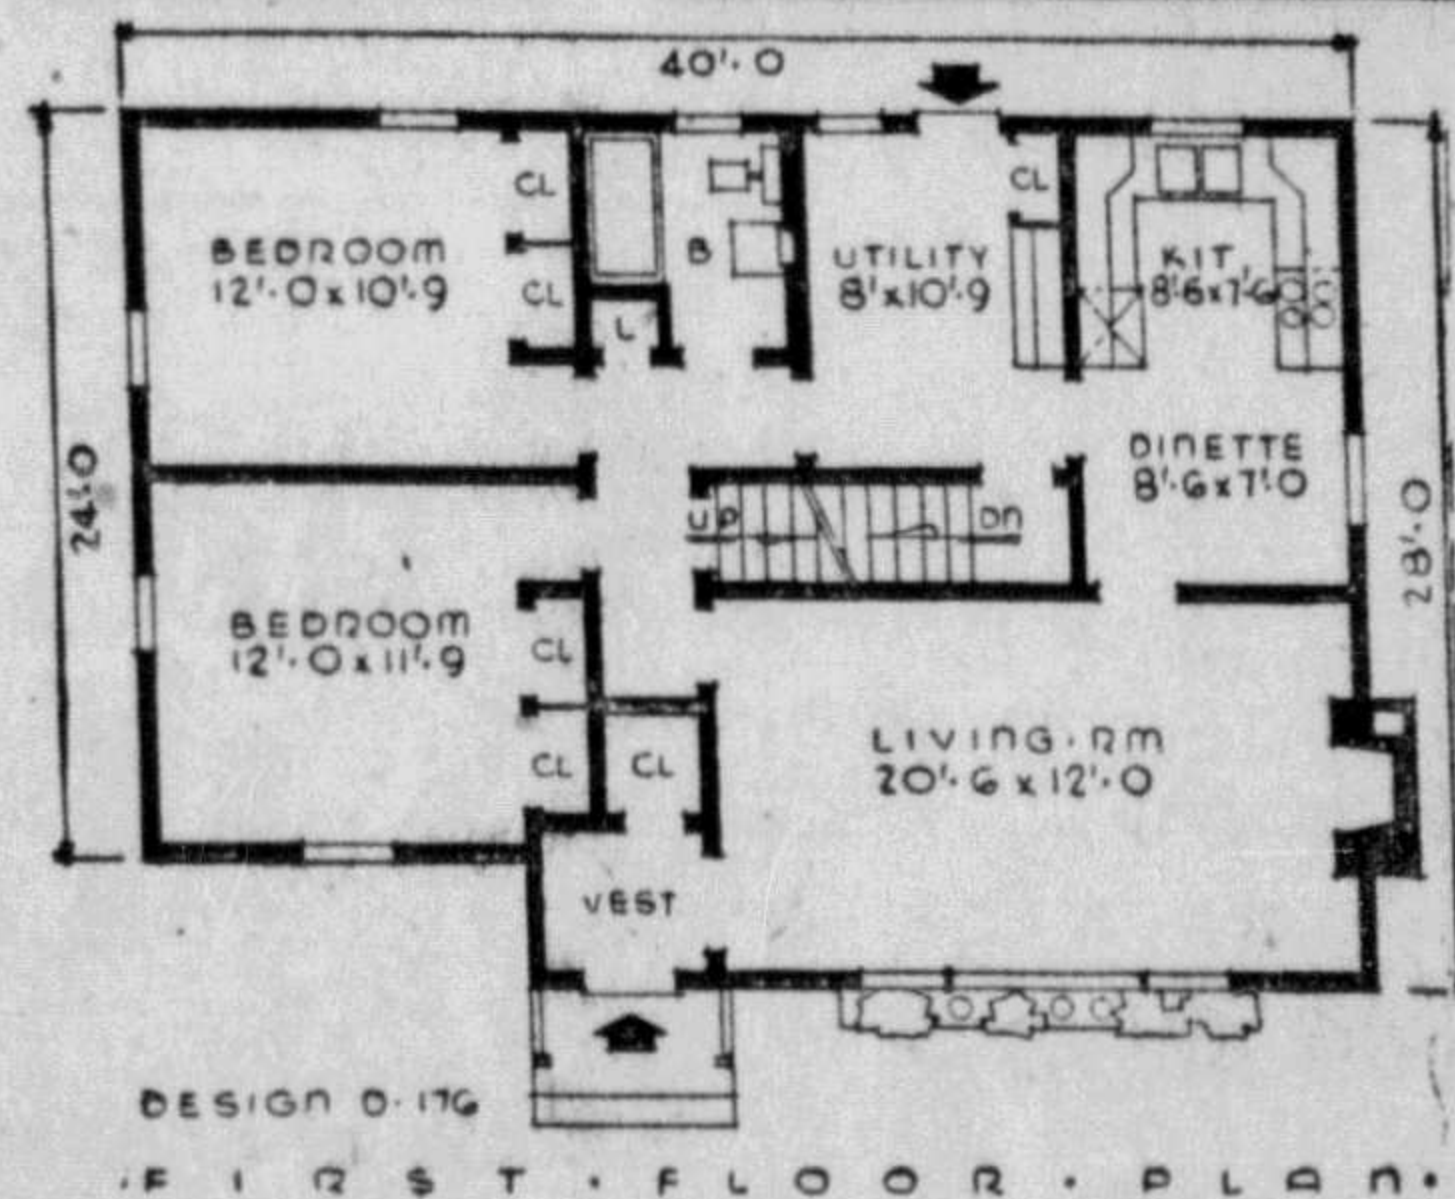

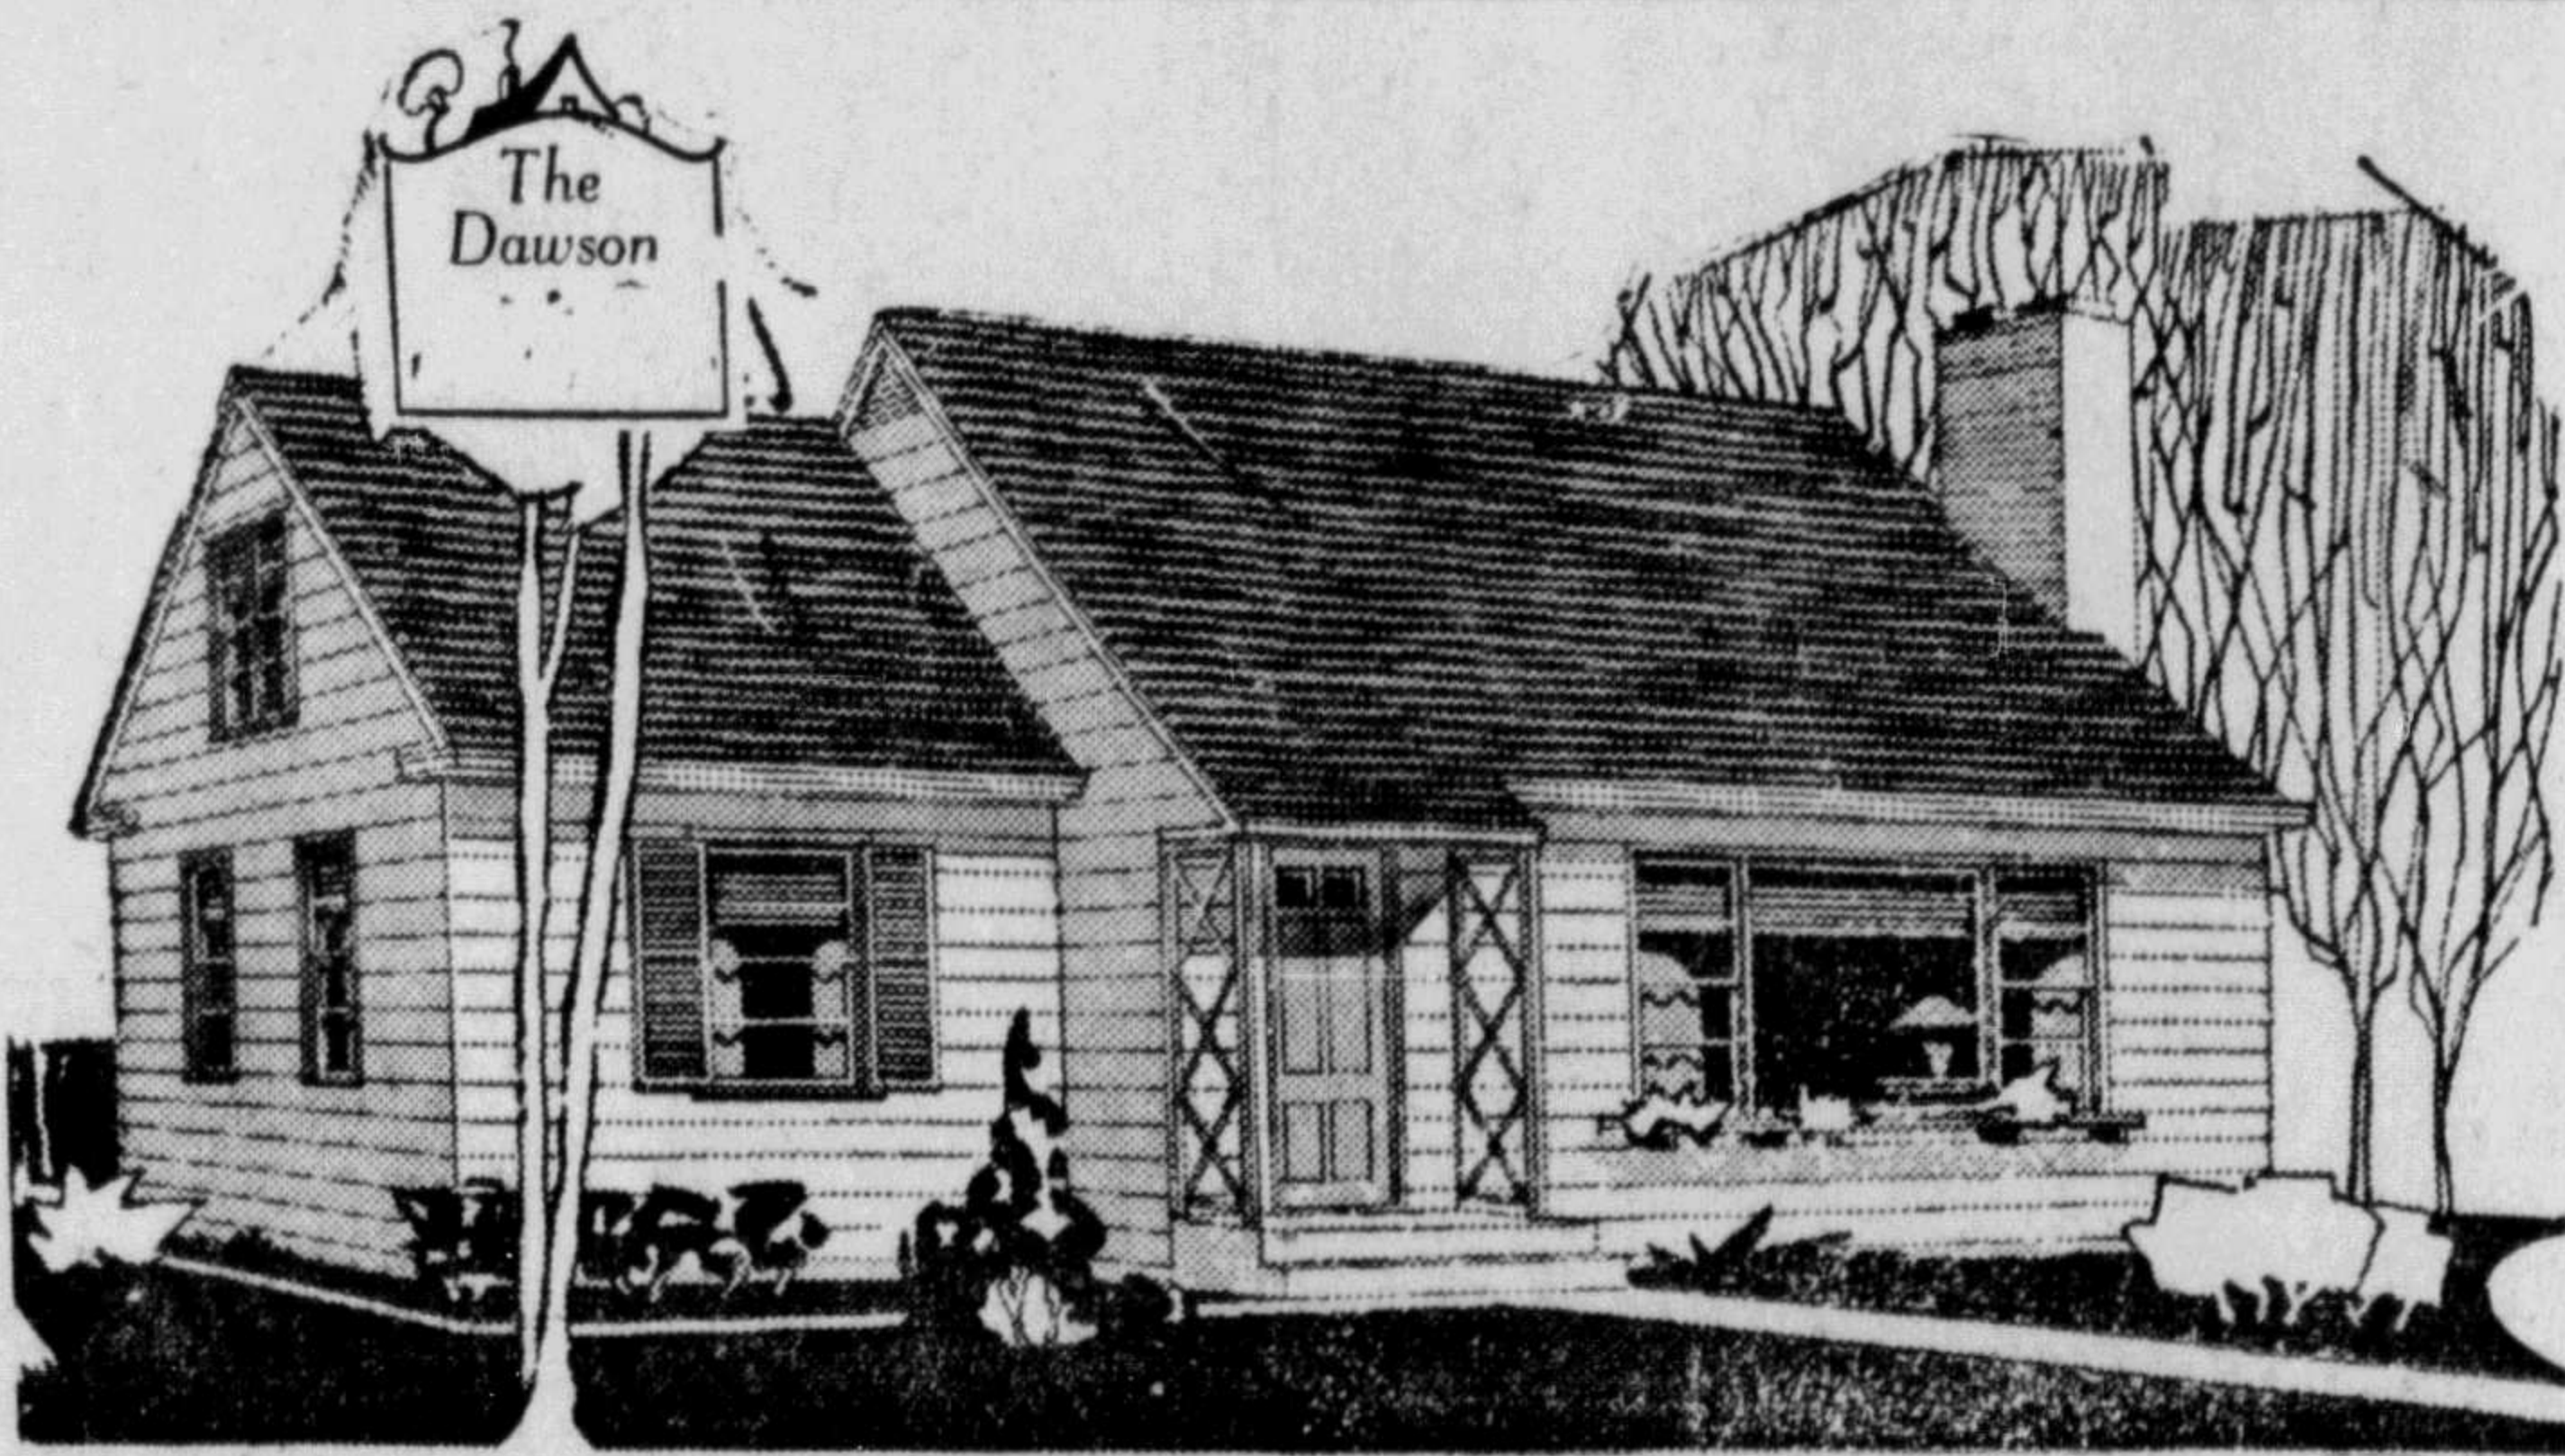

Broadcasting or working in the fertilizer before seeding have not given good results. Granular fertilizers, when applied with a combination drill, on grain crops, require special feed wheels in the fertilizer box if the recommended rate of 50 pounds per acre of ammonium phosphate 16-20-0 is to be applied.

For hay crops, fertilizers must be broadcast as early as possible. A combination drill is convenient though not essential. The recommended fertilizer for both hay and pasture crops is also ammonium phosphate 16-20-0, applied at the rate of 100 pounds per acre as early in the spring as possible.

Important in the use of fertilizers in isolated areas is the cost of shipping, which can be reduced by buying those of a high analysis which contain concentrated amounts of the desired plant foods per bag. Ammonium phosphate, 16-20-0, is satisfactory in this respect.

manager, and Capt. Len. Fraser, chief pilot of the QCA, who was flying the party in a Norseman. Continuing their maintenance inspection the officials flew to Aliford Bay where a regular replacement of planes will be made with Roy Berryman the pilot there.

ON TO ALASKA

A preliminary survey for expansion of service was continued from the Queen Charlottes when the party flew to Ketchikan for discussion with Robert Ellis, president of the Ellis Airlines.

"We hope to have better facilities for service between Alaska and Canada," Spilsbury said.

With the return of Fraser and Louis to Vancouver Wednesday, the president will confer at Juneau and Anchorage, returning to Seattle by Pan-American Airlines.

Mr. Spilsbury, who flew to the Kitimat aluminum site at the week-end, said that work is going ahead in the Kemano Bay area.

"Gravel trucks and workmen have pushed in about a mile along the proposed 10-mile road up to the site of the power house," said the president, adding that he believed the construction work there would continue all summer. QCA flights connect Vancouver and the Kitimat area with Prince Rupert, with men and supplies.

"The north looks good, everyone is optimistic, business is going ahead," said Spilsbury.

Terrace Cancer Drive All Set

TERRACE—Plans for the Canadian Cancer Society's campaign for funds, to be held in April, were completed at a meeting Wednesday night in the Outpost Hospital. Dr. MacPherson, chairman of the local Cancer Unit, presided and William Osborne, campaign committee chairman, gave his plan for the drive. The meeting was well attended and there was no lack of volunteer collectors.

Due to the poor conditions of the roads, it was decided to start the drive here in April 9 instead of April 2 and endeavour to have it finished by April 23. This turned out to be a fortunate choice as word was received Thursday that the campaign headquarters in the south were considering postponing the drive one week to April 9 to enable the Red Cross Society to finish their campaign which had been delayed through weather conditions.

Canvassers for the Cancer drive are: Mrs. Clifford, Mrs. Chadwick, Mrs. C. W. Alger, Mrs. Solonik, Mrs. Hobenshield, Mrs. J. Gordon, Mrs. G. West, Dr. McPherson, Mrs. Houlden, A. E. Calder, Jack Barman, E. T. Brooks, R. Roblin Edwards, Mrs. W. Martin, George Hamer, Mr. Squires, Mrs. Bailey, Mrs. L. Lewellyn.

Emil Haugland will canvass the businesses in town.

William Johnson is home again recovering after an operation in the Vanderhoof hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack O'Meara and Michael have been home for a short visit.

Mrs. Del Cassidy left by train on the first stage of a journey to England for three months. At Jasper she was to be joined by her sister from Victoria and the two sisters will travel together by plane. It is twenty-seven

Blackwood on Bridge

By Easley Blackwood

"A finesse," says Mr. Meek, "is a play where you lead up to an ace-queen in the dummy, play the queen, and the character on your right always plays the king—usually irritating you further by murmuring 'Thank you.'"

Well, it's not quite as bad as that. Mr. Meek habitually takes a pretty dismal view of things at the bridge table.

Actually the finesse is a useful device. In the usual case it increases your chances of winning a trick of tricks in a "non-solid" suit.

Neither side vulnerable.

Look at Mr. Champion's spade suit in today's hand. Two of the high honors (the king and the queen) were held by the opponents. Mr. Champion knew for sure that he had to lose one spade trick. His problem was to keep from losing two.

Miss Brash started things off by cashing her ace and king of hearts. She led then a third round of the suit and Mr. Champion ruffed. He entered dummy with the king of clubs, led a small spade and played the 10 from his hand after Mr. Abel played a low one. Miss Brash won with the queen.

She returned the five of diamonds which was won by the 10 on the board. Now Dummy's trey of spades came out, Mr. Abel played the seven. Mr. Champion put in the jack and Miss Brash followed with the nine. The ace of spades then picked up the king and the hand was spread for four-odd.

When you finesse against two outstanding cards you are making a double finesse. Mr. Champion's handling of the spade suit in today's deal would lose (as compared with other methods) only when the West hand had specifically the king-queen doubleton—a remote contingency.

It wins, however, when the missing honors are divided between the two defenders' hands or when both honors are in the East hand.

The two spade finesesses would have been the correct play even if Mr. Champion had a total of 10 spades in his hand and dummy with the king-queen missing. In that case it would be absolutely necessary to take a first round finesse to guard against the possibility of all three missing spades being in the East hand.
