Local Boy Returns To Prince Rupert As Canada Elks' Head

Former local school and bank boy, George Roberts is revisiting Prince Rupert in his capacity as grand exalted ruler of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks for Canada and yesterday he paid an official visit to the newly re-instituted lodge here. He gave an inspiring address to local Brother Bills.

Fire Visits Pt. Edward

Efficient and prompt use of the plant's fire fighting equipment confined a fire which broke out shortly after 9 o'clock Saturday night to the new evaporation building of Nelson Bros. Fisheries Ltd. reduction plant at Port Edward. Within ten minutes after being discovered, the blaze, which assumed spectacular proportions with mounting flames for a brief period, was under control and menace to the company's combined reduction plant and salmon cannery was removed. Damage is estimated at upwards of $10,000, covered by insurance. As a result of day and night repair work, the plant was ready to carry on operations without interruption on the processing of herring which is moving again from Ogden Channel waters after a three weeks' cessation.

The fire, origin of which is uncertain but is believed to have started in the electrical room of the evaporator, burned a hole through the roof and through one of the walls. Water added to the damage to the wiring of the building and a maze of piping. No one was hurt although scaling to the top of the building in the dark, windy night presented (Continued on page 5)

Continuing, Mr. Roberts urged the members to be appreciative of the privilege of free association. "If there were such privileges as Elks' meeting in all countries of the world, I am convinced that there would be no wars, Communism or other forms of totalitarianism just could not exist if principles such as those of Elksdom were allowed full and free play."

Just returned from a trip which took him to all Elks' lodges east of Winnipeg including four in Newfoundland, Mr. Roberts made a plea for closer national unity in Canada which was to be obtained by knowing more about the people who lived in other parts of the Dominion.

Garnet Hull, acting exalted ruler, presided over the lodge meeting here. Mr. Roberts has been "on the road" visiting lodges in the east since October. Having finished the east, he will now do the west. He arrived from Kamloops, his home, Saturday night and will leave by train tonight to visit lodges at Smithers, Burns Lake, Prince George, McBride, Quesnel and Williams Lake.

It was in 1921 that Mr. Roberts left Prince Rupert at the age of 17 with his family. He had attended school here and for three years was in the Royal Bank of Canada in Prince Rupert. From Prince Rupert, he went to Smithers and it was there he joined the service of the Canadian National Railways. He is now chief clerk in the motive power department at Kamloops. He will be remembered as a promising young baseball player here and at Smithers.

Many old friends are welcoming George back to Prince Rupert during his stay.

Alex Duthie was released from hospital yesterday after receiving a shaking up in an accident involving an automobile driven by Ray Schaeffer. The accident occurred about 6 p.m. Saturday at the corner of Second Avenue and Second Street.

Still Seeks Cease Fire

LAKE SUCCESS — Great Britain called on the United Nations today to make another effort for a Korean cease-fire but warned Red China that it might force a break with the free world if it insisted on acceptance of its own terms.

In a major declaration, Britain's Sir Gladwyn Jebb at the same time pledged British support as long as United Nations troops continue to fight in Korea. He spoke before the 60-nation political committee of the United Nations' General Assembly.

Jebb backed up the United States demand that the cease-fire must come before negotiations can begin on other problems.

A. W. Robinson and Miss D. Stewart, were passengers aboard the Camosun yesterday returning north after spending the Christmas and New Year holiday season visiting in Vancouver.

Social Democracy Is Answer To Communism

Is Labor's Response to Red Challenge—Differences With Conservatives Less Apparent

LONDON — Social democracy provides the only effective answer to the present-day challenge of Communism, says the British Labor Party's 1951 political Handbook, just published. The book, revised and issued annually, serves as one phase of the party's long-range program of preparedness for a general election.

In a foreword, Morgan Phillips, secretary of the party, maintains that public opinion has forced the Conservatives to take many of the detailed points of policy originally put forward by Labor. Social security, full employment and agricultural policy are cited as examples.

As a result, he says, vital differences of principle between Labor and its political opponents, may not be as apparent on the surface as they were 50 years ago or more recently when the Conservatives were in power.

"But they are there," Mr. Phillips insists. "And they are just as stark as ever they were, once the Tory smokescreen has been blown away. Socialism is more than a political force. It is a philosophy based upon a belief in the finer, nobler instincts of mankind. Toryism is still a faith based upon a cynical exploitation of the lesser instincts of man."

A BROAD HINT
The latest handbook omits any reference to such controversial issues as the proposed nationalization of industrial insurance, sugar and meat wholesaling, but gives a broad hint that water supplies will become a public service.

Stress is laid on the continued need of a policy of wage restraint and a warning is given to trade unionists agitating for further limitations on profits.

However much Labor deprecates the profit motive in a mixed economy such as Britain's, the incentive of profit has to remain, the book says. Labor, it adds, has already taken firm action to reduce the income shareholders actually receive. What remains of company profits is used for essential economic purposes which otherwise would have to be financed in some other way.

As a parting shot, the book offers the following as a bid for the voter's support: "The British Labor Party, humanitarian and ethical in its approach, representative of all classes of the community, stands out as a beacon of hope, lighting the way to a new and better future—free from the tyranny of totalitarianism on the one hand, free from the injustices of unbridled capitalism on the other."

United Nations Forces Seeking Better Position

TOKYO (CP) — Communist forces entered burning Wonju today as Allied forces withdrew to new positions. The town and air strip, 55 miles southeast of Seoul, was abandoned after bitter, heavy fighting through Saturday night and Sunday.

American and British planes strafed and fire-bombed the town Monday after United Nations troops had withdrawn.

Red troops entered the burning road and railway centre as United Nations forces withdrew.

The Allied rearguard was still fighting desperately to block the Reds in their southward sweep that would menace the main body of United Nations troops. However, the Communists were reported tonight to be 25 miles beyond Wonju.

STRATEGIC WITHDRAWAL
It was emphasized that the withdrawal from Wonju was not due to enemy pressure but was made in order to occupy better defensive positions.

A communique from General MacArthur's headquarters said that heavy casualties were inflicted on the Reds.

Open Doors To Asiatics

OTTAWA — Canada is opening her doors a little wider to Asiatics who want to settle here but she still has them closed to the Japanese.

Immigration Minister Harris announced Saturday that, under an order-in-council, Canada will now allow entry to husbands and unmarried children under 21 of Canadian citizens of Asiatic origin. Up to now only wives and unmarried children under 18 of Canadian Asiatic children could come to Canada.

Japanese, as enemy aliens, are still not admissible to Canada.

FLASH

PATRICIAS IN ACTION
OTTAWA—The Princess Patricia's Second Battalion may have already taken up positions in defence of Pusan beachhead, it is suggested here. However, an official announcement will have to be awaited from United Nations headquarters in Tokyo.

CLUE TO STONE
LONDON—A plaque which went with the Stone of Scone, stolen from Westminster Abbey, has been found in a bombed-out area near the Abbey but there is still no trace of the stone.

SMALLPOX IN KOREA
PUSAN—Smallpox has broken out in South Korea. There are 76 cases in one city but no epidemic is suggested.

Doomsday Tomorrow?

World End Is Awaited

KEREMEOS — "Children of Light" counted the hours today awaiting the end of everything. Their leader has told them the world will end tomorrow.

Because they believed it was their last Sunday thirty members of the strange religious sect prayed loud and long yesterday. From dawn until well into the night, their chants echoed from a six-room cottage where they started their vigil fourteen days ago.

The leader of the white-garbed fanatics—men, women and children—is Mrs. Grace Agnes Carlson, grey-haired middle-aged woman. It is her prediction that "January 9 will be Doomsday." In view of that the extremists moved into the dilapidated cottage.

The woman became the leader of the sect more than a year ago when she broke with members of the Pentecostal Church here.

ike's Warning—

Eisenhower Optimistic

PARIS — General Dwight D. Eisenhower returned to Paris yesterday to build and take command of an international army to defend the west against Communism. He immediately warned any who might be tempted to test the power of the west to ponder well first.

In a radio address, Eisenhower declared: "Aroused and united, there is nothing that the nations of the Atlantic community cannot achieve. Let those who might be tempted to put this power to the test ponder well the lessons of history. The cause of freedom can never be defeated."

Excitement At Civic Centre

Fires, Black-Out and False Alarm Added To Globetrotters' Bill

Fires, false alarms, the Harlem Globetrotters and a power failure gave fans at Saturday night's basketball game more excitement than they had bargained for.

Shortly after the second half of the basketball game between Harlem Globetrotters and Prince Rupert All Stars got under way, the lights in the Civic Centre gymnasium began to flicker. Harry Robins, manager of Nelson Bros. Fisheries Ltd. plant at Port Edward, slipped up to Art Murray and asked him to get every taxi he could to the Civic Centre and the public address system called for all Port Edward people in the hall to get into taxis outside the front door—there was a fire at Port Edward.

A huge hole was made in the capacity crowd when the Port Edward people made an orderly exit. The rest of the audience was then plunged into darkness, as the city's power failed. With presence of mind, Manager Don Forward and other members of the Civic Centre staff were able to keep the big audience in their seats during the 15-minute blackout. The lights came on for about a minute and again went out. Once more the crowd responded to the efforts of the Civic Centre staff and remained in their seats until power was restored.

The game had just re-started with the Globetrotters hitting the high spots of their clowning routine when the Civic Centre fire alarm sounded. Most spectators remained in their seats waiting for instructions but a few in the north end started a rush for the exit.

Pandemonium was prevented when Fred Calderone appeared in the gymnasium, shouting "false alarm." He was followed closely by Mr. Forward with the same message.

The crowd subsided into their seats and the game continued for about five minutes with all the alarms in the building ringing furiously. Finally the cause of the alarms ringing was located and the jangling bells quieted. Having prevented a wild and possibly disastrous crush at the doors, the game was completed with the Globetrotters giving their dazzling exhibition of cash and color the crowd had expected.

Mr. Forward was high in his praise of the Civic Centre staff for the manner in which they had handled the emergencies for the audience, who remained cool throughout.

Red Protest Is Rejected

LONDON — Great Britain and France yesterday rejected the Russian protest against the rearming of Western Germany. The whole question arose, British charges, "solely because Soviet policy and actions have compelled other nations to examine all means of improving their security against the threat of Communist aggression."

The notes were in reply to a Soviet protest of December 15 charging that Great Britain and France were creating a "serious threat to peace."

Transmission Line Trouble

Trouble on the Falls River transmission line along the Skeena River caused interruption in electric light and power service Saturday night and Sunday. The location of the trouble has been localized and was being definitely ascertained today.

Since yesterday there has been no power from Falls River but the city has been operating on Shawatians Lake and dry dock emergency power.

General Manager T. B. Black of Northern B.C. Power Company said today that the fire at Port Edward Saturday night had nothing to do with the interference.

Fisherman's Body Found

Provincial police boat P.M.L. 15 arrived in port this afternoon, bringing the body of James Dellell, Humpback Bay fisherman, who was apparently drowned in Stephens Passage while on a trip from Humpback Bay to the city in his gillnetter Porcher 21. Dellell left Humpback Bay last Wednesday afternoon and failed to arrive here. The fact was reported to the police at the weekend and the P.M.L. 15 and other boats started a search. Last night the wrecked boat was found as well as Dellell's drowned body which had been washed ashore.

Dellell's wife, an expectant mother, is at present in Prince Rupert General Hospital. An inquiry is being held by Coroner M. M. Stephens. Dellell was in the service of the Canadian Fishing Co.

COMMUNIST GOLIATH

THE Christian Science Monitor, which is consistently practical about things and is certainly no advocate of appeasement, comes up, amidst the fears and gloomy pessimism which have been so general of late, with an optimistic editorial about the international situation and warns us not to be defeated by fear itself or surrender to what might seem overwhelming forces against us in the defence against Communist aggression.

During the 40 days that Goliath defied the armies of Israel there was no tendency to underestimate his power, comments The Monitor. Saul's soldiers made full note of his six cubits and a span, as of his spear with a staff like a weaver's beam. It may be even that they helped mesmerize themselves with an exaggerated sense of his size. In any case, they "were dismayed and greatly afraid." Is it possible that the free peoples are repeating this mistake as they face the challenge of world Communism?

The constant emphasis today on the size of Chinese and Russian forces has gone to strange lengths. Of course, experience in Korea points to the folly of underestimating a foe. And those charged with mobilizing the forces of democracy naturally dwell upon the dangers. But Communism would like nothing better than to terrorize the free peoples with a Goliath of apparent power. Some recent behavior—notably proposals to surrender half the free world—indicates a large measure of success.

Reports from Tokyo have harped on the numbers of Chinese and North Koreans. The American people are under the impression that the Eighth army was routed by "overwhelming" forces, by veritable "hordes." But now we learn that only six divisions were identified on the Eighth Army front, and that quite possibly United Nations forces were equal or superior to the enemy in numbers and vastly superior in equipment and firepower. Did they flee from a Goliath greatly exaggerated in size by mesmeric fear? Such things have happened to brave men.

Predictions are freely made that UN forces cannot remain in Korea. Headlines play on a force of 1,350,000 Communists, but then it develops that only 190,000 are in position to attack. Nothing is said about the fact that UN numbers are at least equal and enjoy tremendous advantages in sea-air power, arms and transport. The bogey of numbers has been exposed many times.

We hear again and again of the Red Army's 170 divisions in Europe. We seldom are told that Russian divisions are only half the size of American divisions. Surely military calculations must take adequate account of Communist manpower. But even for military estimates more attention should be given to the manpower and other resources of free nations.

Certainly non-military folk should question the creation of a manpower Goliath. They can well give more attention to their own resources. They may well cultivate the David-sense which shattered mesmeric fear, saw through Goliath's boastful claims, and turned to spiritual power for aid in overcoming them. They can take courage from a just cause and strive to render it more just.

As I See It

By ELMORE PHILPOTT
READY FOR BIG TRIP

I AM NEARLY ready to start on my big 1951 trip. Here is how it lines up at present:

January 15—Leave Vancouver by Trans-Canada Airlines for London.

January 23-33—Aboard F&O ship "Chusan" London to Port Said.

February 9—Calcutta to Pakistan via B.O.A.C.

March 26—Fly India to Israel. April, May, June: Visit Italy, Yugoslavia, Austria, Germany, Denmark, Britain.

NATURALLY MY TIME table is conditional. We all know that the world situation is critical, and that world war three could break out in the next few months. If that happens I may have to alter my tentative plans.

But all risks are relative. While I would not bet more than even money that world war three would not break out in 1951, my hunch says "no."

The old hunch has never been wrong yet—though I can imagine cynics remarking "There's always a first time."

GETTING READY for a big trip is by no means all fun. That is especially true when you are going out to faraway countries. Weeks ago I went and got all the necessary shots—or so I thought. My 1949 smallpox vaccination was still good. But I got inoculations for typhus, cholera, and T.A.B., whatever that is. All I am sure about is that it keeps you for a loop.

Then a nice girl who used to work in the Canadian High Commissioner's office in New Delhi warned me that I had to be "vaccinated" for yellow fever too. But that one was clinch—no relaxation whatever.

Had I left before January 1 it would also have been necessary to be inoculated against the plague—otherwise I could not "land" in Egypt.

IN CASE anyone wonders why I am going to Egypt on the way out and Israel on the way back here is the lowdown: If you have an Israel visa on your passport they won't let you land in any Arab country. Hence I could not visit either Egypt or Israel after visiting Palestine. That is a hangover from the war of 1948.

THE MONEY is also a nuisance—and I don't mean getting the damned stuff—though Lord knows it doesn't grow on trees. I mean all the nuisance about how you are going to carry it, and not to forget the what you need in the different countries.

My wife, who is not going to go with me on this trip (though she says she will catch up with me somehow or other, some place or other), says I'm an awful fool to go alone as I'm always losing things.

ALREADY I HAVE a good stock of remedies to take in case I get dysentery or the many other things they say you are likely to get out there.

As an old fatalist, I figure you never die before your time anyway.

THERE MAY BE little gaps in my column, while I am jumping from place to place. But I will do my best to keep the stuff coming through.

Just a tip: Remember that in certain countries there is iron-clad censorship. So if I have anything too tough to say about things there, wait till I get into the next country. Otherwise the blasted censors might just lose my press copy.

Prayer Week Is Concluded

Final Week of Prayer meeting at the Salvation Army Citadel Saturday night heard Canon Basil S. Procter as speaker. Capt. W. C. Poulton was chairman and Clara Pierce pianist. Using as his title "Marching Orders," Canon Procter spoke on a forward look with regard to the year now being entered into. Christian people, he said, have no grounds for optimism but must learn what the New Testament means by hope—hope in the present world and hope in eternity.

Turnout for the meeting was good. It was a happy group and one that proved there was a common bond between churches of different denominations and that it is possible to have a common place of meeting.

RAY... Reflects and Reminisces

Fifty thousand dollars worth of paper was destroyed by flames in the basement of the Vancouver Province office. With newsprint what it is, the Province would seem to have money to burn.

Some folks are saying today what they kept repeating early in 1950—that money in about a year would be next thing to useless. Wonder what luck they have had borrowing.

Promptness in organizing a search party when anyone, particularly a juvenile, is reported missing is being emphasized in the Vancouver press. The body of an 11-year-old boy was found in the woods in Vancouver suburbs last week. He died, it is assumed, from exhaustion and exposure and he was barely a mile from aid. There is a lesson here for Prince Rupert. It is true this city is on an island yet here is a forest large and wild enough for a weakened and frightened child to become lost in. It could happen.

It is planned to spend $300,000 in Penitence on hotel construction. This should relieve the travelling public having business in the Okanagan from haunting thoughts of sketchy accommodation. For verily this is not unknown and not necessarily only in the Okanagan.

The Spanish morning paper started in New York in 1948 continues a healthy growth. Circulation is 13,000. El Diario de Nueva York has a longish name but, as half a million Spaniards dwell in Gotham, there's room for it. And speaking internationally, nowadays nobody "remembers the Maine."

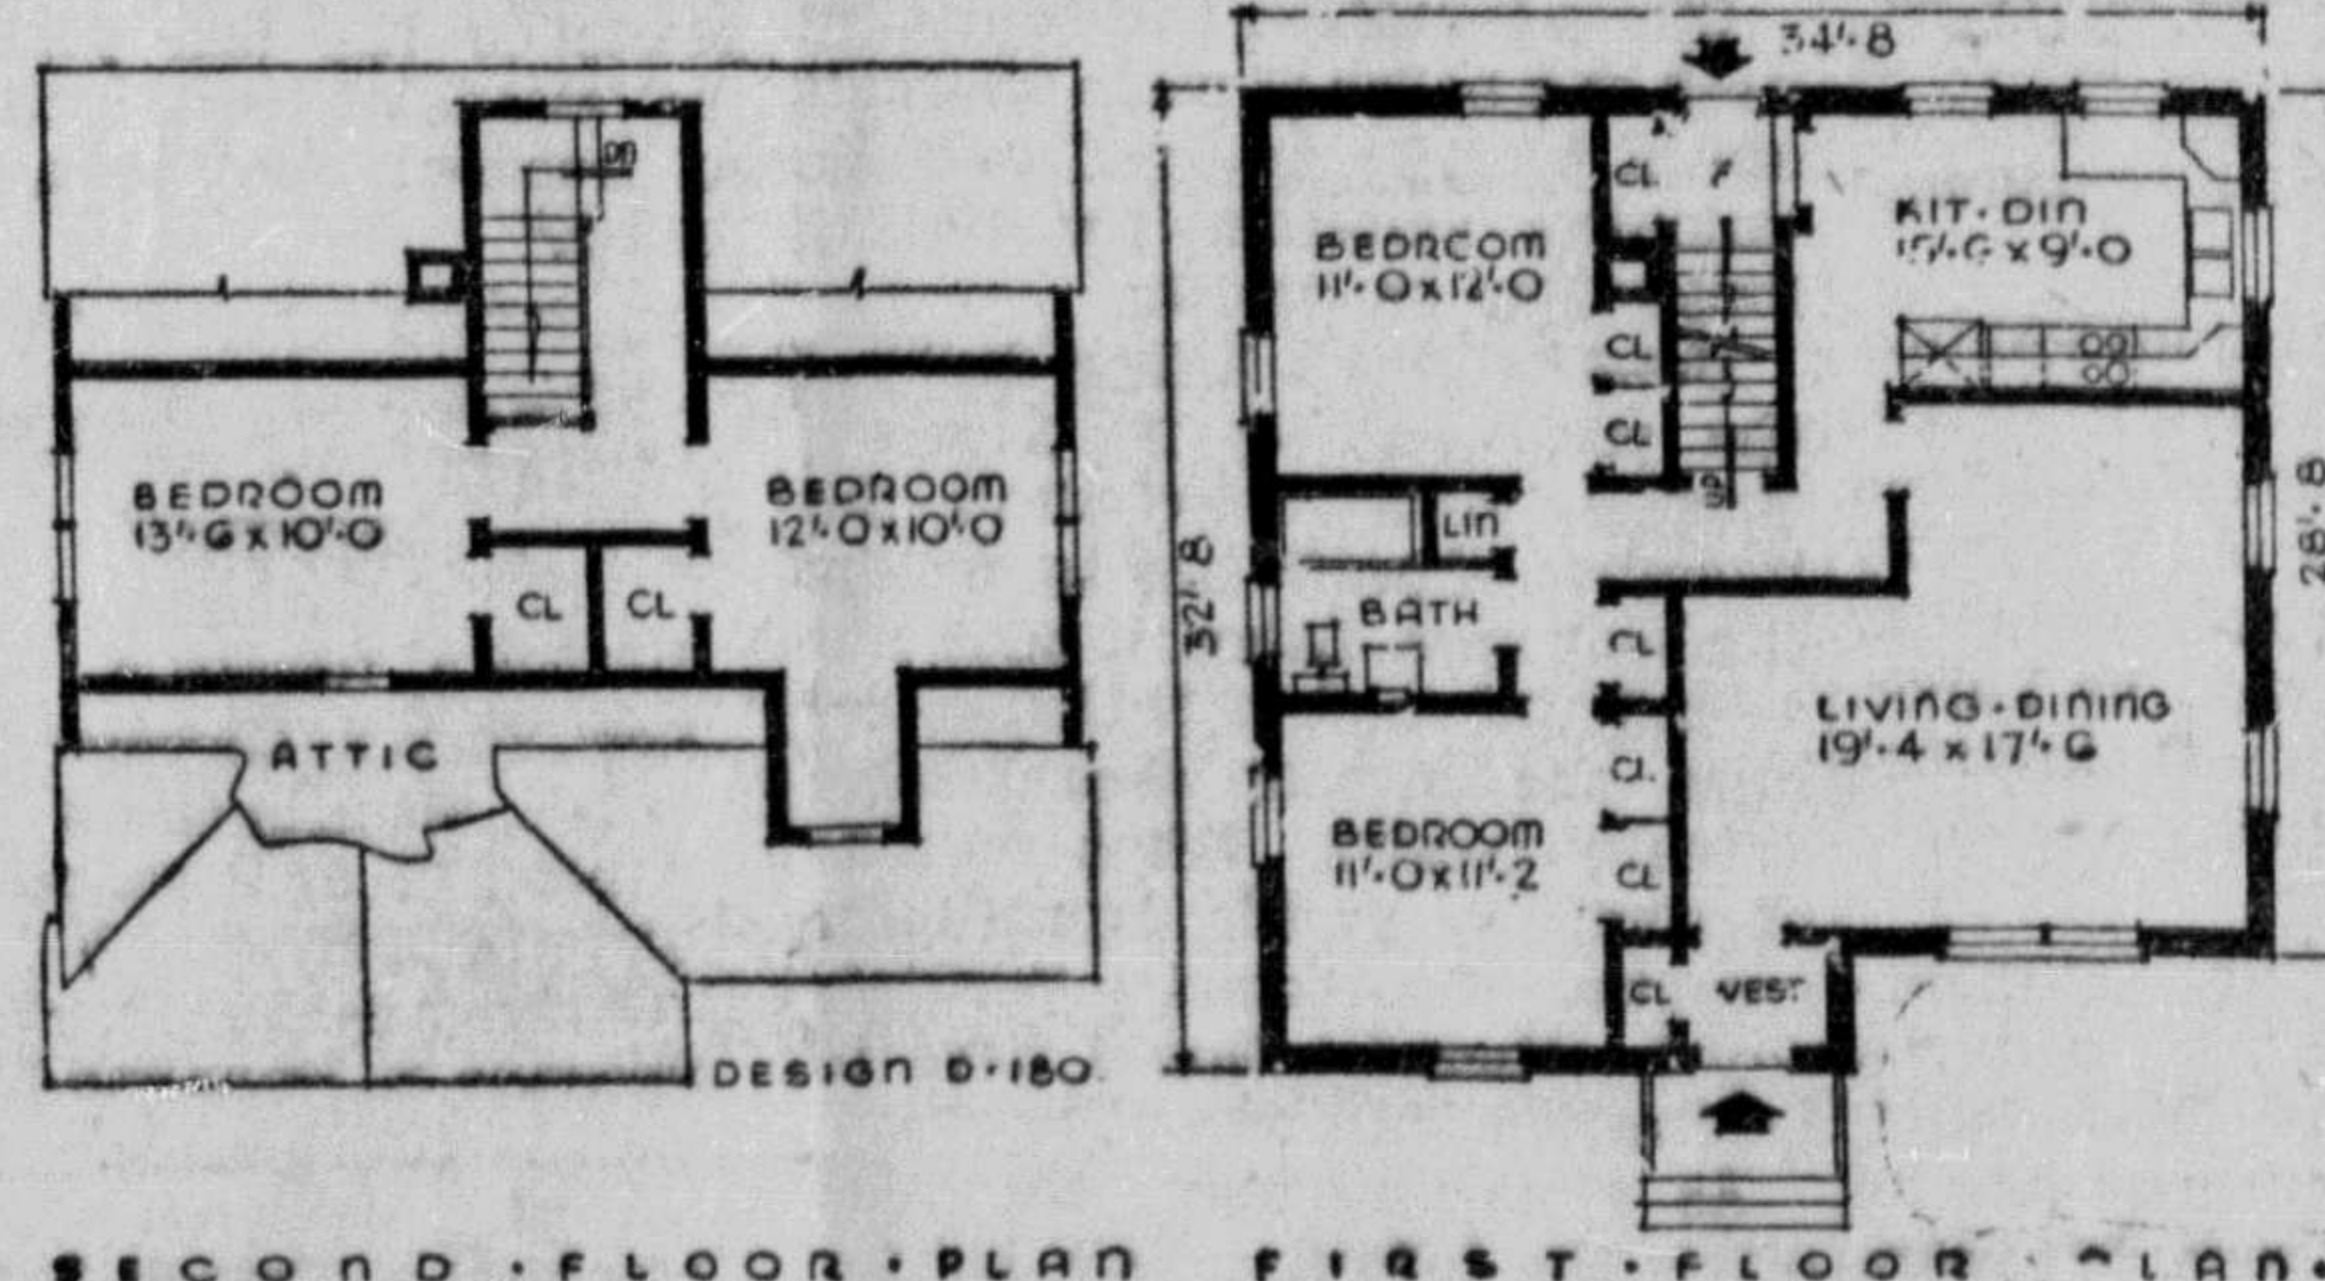

Captain Satoru Kadohira, whose ship is now loading wheat in Vancouver, says he's glad to be back on the coast. He feels it a fine thing to realize that Japan and Canada cannot go on for ever being enemies and there is no better time than now to work toward restoration of friendship if all the nations had this idea the great problems of the day might and no doubt would be simplified. The skipper is a skilled flute player. It is hoped the instrument will be heard at Prince Rupert before long.

London Features Taft Statement

LONDON (C)—British and continental newspapers displayed prominently the speech of Senator Robert Taft of United States criticizing President Truman on his policy toward aid to Europe and participation in the Korean war. However, no editorial comment has yet been made.

Information received by H. F. Pullen on the recent trip to Vancouver indicates that Prince Rupert will be able to ship grain to the United Kingdom by sea at the same rates as other Pacific ports.

The unusually mild weather continues in the interior of British Columbia. Reports reaching here today show that at no point is freezing while at Anso the thermometer registers 39.

Scotland Drinks Danish Whisky

LONDON — Danish whisky is being imported by Great Britain while the Scotch whisky is shipped to Canada and the United States. The imported liquor goes chiefly to Scotland where it sells for $5.30 a bottle. The Scottish consumers somewhat sadly admit that whisky from Denmark is better than none.

Pioneer Claims Youth Now Soft

COOKSON, Sask. (C)— Jack Beads, born and bred in the pioneer days of northern Saskatchewan, says that if the present generation had to go through what the pioneers did "it would kill them if they didn't quit first."

Beads was born at Prince Albert 74 years ago and still cuts his own firewood. He claims the majority of youngsters nowadays "don't seem to have what it takes. They're too soft, living with all modern conveniences and relying on the push-button system."

His mother died when he was four, and he was 16 when his father died. So he took up freighting, first with oxen, then with horses.

Freighting supplies through the north to Hudson Bay posts brought narrow escapes when wagons plunged through lake ice. The teams carried heavy loads of groceries, drygoods and trapping supplies.

He said the route he took often was through Big River, Pelican Narrows and Ile a la Crosse. The 400-mile return trip took a month or longer, with no shelter coming or going.

David Ritchie and sons, Alfie and Jack, sailed on the Clatsop Sunday night for a business trip to Vancouver.

Passengers arriving in the city from Vancouver on the steamers Camosun yesterday included Mr. and Mrs. H. Stewart, Mrs. MacDonald and Ted Hesse.

Leggy Dancer Shuns Offers

NEW YORK ©—Colette Marchand, the tired business man's dream come true of a leggy French dancer, is a mite unhappy about her art.

She's also "frightened"—that's what she said—by the male's mania for marriage on this side of the ocean.

Mlle. Marchand for some weeks made Broadway a brighter place along with the rest of Roland Petit's ballets de Paris company before it went off on a U.S. tour.

Among other dancing duties, it is the Marchand achievement to step on stage from a huge egg and whirl provocatively through 15 minutes of latter-day terpsichore. The applause and whistles are good, she admits, but the dance itself—"it does nothing for me."

Her heart, like that of the comic who would play "Hamlet," is set on doing classical ballet.

BIG ASPIRATIONS
"I should like very much to do a long, traditional ballet like 'Swan Lake' some time," she says. "A serious ballet and 'hard boiled egg' together, that would be very good."

To help wind up the New York run, she also danced a very leggy "Carmen," but it is the "hard boiled egg" that has set her big town reputation.

To keep herself set for any classical opportunity, Colette, who at 25 has been dancing 25 years, studied daily in ballet school during her visit here. The glances, shoulder-tossing and hip-swaying strut of her current success, one gathers, need no such rehearsal.

Besieged by fan mail and phone calls, mostly masculine, she said: "It is frightening the way so many American men want to marry me. Even the taxi driver. He hears my accent and says 'Marry me, and take me to France with you. I must marry a French girl.' I do not understand how so many want to get married. It is not that way in France. There the men seem more satisfied. Why is that?"

Gloria Sather Is Hit By Car

Miss Gloria Sather escaped with minor injuries when struck by an automobile on a sidewalk in Vancouver during her return trip here from Penticton. Miss Sather was standing talking to a friend when a car came over the curb. She shoved her friend to safety and was struck a glancing blow. Knocked unconscious, she was taken to hospital. She received some bad bruises but no serious injury. She said that, had the left wheels climbed the curb, she would have been struck full on by the car.

Aluminum Progress Is Now Up To Ottawa

Hon. E. T. ## STORIES OF MORE PULP-PAPER MILLS

Unconfirmed stories about prospects of more pulp mills in British Columbia persist. The annual report of the Newspaper Association of Canada intimates this as well as mention of a possible site in the Fraser Valley, or somewhere near Quesnel. It is known that engineers have examined potential pulp stands. At one time an area near Prince Rupert was considered which was later taken up by the Columbia Cellulose.

Fire Call Halts Firemen's Film

A film board picture Prince Rupert firemen were watching Saturday night at the fire hall was summarily interrupted by the fire call from Port Edward. Had it not been the fire call, however, the showing would have been interrupted in any case by the light failure. When they returned from Port Edward, the lights were on and they started the film again. Subject of the film? Fire precautions and what to do in case of fire.

Locals Do Well—

Showed Up Well With Trotters

Played Straight Basketball
Saturday Night for First Half

The Harlem Globetrotters played to another capacity house on Saturday night and literally laid 800 fans in the aisles with their dazzling play and comedy antics. In a game replete with thrills, including a tense 20 minutes when the house was in complete darkness and a nerve-racking period when the fire alarm short-circuited, the Trotters beat the locals 71 to 40.

The game was even better than on the previous night as, by request of the Jets, both teams played it straight during the first period. The local team looked good in this period and drew plenty of applause from the fans. The second quarter was a dazzler as one-armed Boid Buie demonstrated why he is one of basketball's top attractions. He thrilled fans with his deceptive passing and his 14 point shooting. Ted Strong, the ace comedy man of the team and "Mr. Hands" of basketball, was at his best, his antics even better than on the previous night. He scored seven points. Sam Wheeler and Duke Cumberland each racked up 12 points and Tom Sealy a big 10. The team gave the impression that they could score whenever they wished.

The locals were not as nervous as on the first night, and they demonstrated that even though they aren't world champions, they are a first-rate amateur team that can provide good opposition to all comers. Coach Alex Mills is to be congratulated on the good showing of his proteges.

Sonny Beynon of the locals got in on the comedy when he stole the show from the Trotters in the last minute, using their usual closing feature of the game when he spun the ball on his finger-tip, to just about panic the players and fans alike. Most ludicrous moment of the game was when 6 foot 11 inch Lee Collins took the centre jump against Reg Lavigne. Collins scored seven points in his short stay on the floor.

Scoring:
Globetrotters—Sealy 10, Buie 14, Cumberland 12, Strong 7, Collins 7, Hill 1, Wheeler 12, Moore 6, Milton 2. Total—71.
Jets—Holkestad 2, Flaten 4, Lavigne 6, Carlson 5, Sunberg 6, Scherk 4, Spring 6, S. Scherk, Olson 1, Beynon 4. Total—40.

Referees—Johnny Comadina and Bill Davidson.

Highlight of the evening was the table tennis played by Ted Bourne of England and Bob Anderson of Chicago. Both these men are champion players and they display drew a big hand from the audience.

BORNEMOUTH, England—George Miles, 42, was tired of seeing his wife fumble in her handbag in the dark for a late-key. He invited a "floodlight" handbag which is being put on the market.

MAIN COURSE

CALGARY—One innocent purchaser of a New Year's turkey here had the bird roasting in the oven when police came in to get it as evidence in a court case. On payment of $10 he was allowed to keep the bird, stolen by two other men who pleaded guilty to theft of turkeys from a district farmer.

Blackwood on Bridge

By Easley Blackwood

Here is an odd point about overcalling. Mr. Dale, the old master, made an overcall because his suit happened to be a major instead of a minor. Reverse his heart and diamond holdings and I assure you he would have meekly passed.

The bidding:
East 1S South 2H West Pass North Pass

Does this seem paradoxical to you? Well, this is the reason. Sitting at Mr. Dale's left was Mr. Champion. Whether you like Mr. Champion or not, he is a very fine player. And fine players will double overcalls of two in a minor suit, mightily quickly because, even if the bid is made, game is not scored. In other words, there is a chance to pick up a large penalty without risking much. A bid of two diamonds doubled and made nets the offensive side only 40 extra trick points and a bonus of 50 points for making the contract, or 90 points in all. And there MAY be a chance for a set of from 100 to 800 points depending upon the excess strength in the opening bidder's hand.

But doubling an overcall of two in a major is a different proposition. Here, if the bid is made, opponents score a game which they could not have made except for the double.

Mr. Dale knew that Mr. Champion was fully aware of these considerations and he took advantage of that fact, hoping Mr. Champion didn't have enough in his own hand to make a penalty double certain of success.

Mr. Champion suspected the old master might be out on a limb with his two heart bid, but he couldn't be sure. And Mrs. Keen couldn't see another bid in her hand, opposite a passing partner.

Mr. Champion opened the six of spades, dummy played the queen and Mrs. Keen won with the ace and returned the nine of clubs. Mr. Champion won with the ace and led another club. Mr. Dale took it with king and laid down the jack of hearts but Mr. Champion bounded in with the ace and led a third club for his partner to ruff. Mr. Dale still had to lose two diamond tricks and a heart trick for down two.

Without the overcall, Mrs. Keen would probably have landed in a three-diamond contract, making four. As it was, she and Mr. Champion got 100 points above the line. This suited Mr. Dale. He knows how valuable those partial scores can be.

Globetrotters Heading North

The Globetrotters basketball party, which was to have flown by QCA to Ketchikan yesterday, was detained here overnight because of bad weather. They were flown to the Alaska city today in two trips of the QCA. From Ketchikan, they will fly by Ellis Airlines to Metlakatla for a game this afternoon. They play in Ketchikan tonight.

From Ketchikan, the Globetrotters will proceed to Juneau, Anchorage and Cordova for playing engagements after which they will return to Seattle for a schedule in the Pacific Northwest.

A trip to Hawaii will follow and then a swing through the United States and Mexico before going to Europe for the summer.

PROSPECTORS' SCHOOLS

MOOSE JAW, Sask.—Government-sponsored schools for prospectors will begin courses soon in Prince Albert, Saskatoon and Regina, and possibly also in Moose Jaw and North Battleford. The lectures are part of the program to spur development of mineral resources.

Pie in the Sky For Q.C.A. Pilot

It was pie in the sky today for Norman Jermy, pilot of the Queen Charlotte Islands airplane based here.

Bad weather yesterday kept the plane grounded; so that he could not take the Globetrotters basketball team to Ketchikan. The two trips required for that task in addition to the normal trips to the Queen Charlottes just did not leave time to stop between trips for luncheon. He had his sandwich and pie on the fly in the sky.

Indian's Method Avoids Pressure

LONG LAC, Ont.—Rev. Alphonse Hamel, 61, formerly of Laval University, believes he has found out why the Canadian Indian largely escapes the ills of modern high-pressure civilization.

The Jesuit priest who was a familiar figure around the Laval campus has been spiritual guide and friend to 100 Indian families in this area since his retirement two years ago. Previously, he had spent every summer among the Indians for 16 years.

"A white man has a great deal to learn from the Indian," he told an interviewer here. "For the Indian, there is no yesterday and no tomorrow. There is only today."

The former professor of mathematics and physics said he is fascinated by the Indian's complete indifference to the white man's evaluation of time and money. He has come to the conclusion that the Indian outlook on these matters is the nearest to the truly Christian in the world today.

"An Indian will work for two weeks at a lumber camp, then quit when he gets his first pay," says the white-haired priest. "He thinks he's rich, so why should he keep on working?"

SPORT SHOTS

Attendance is up, competition is keener, and all signs point to a banner season for the Pacific Coast Hockey League during its 1950-51 campaign. Paradoxically, even though the league has been cut in half this year, it appears to be in a stronger position than ever. Since conclusion of the last season, the none-too-strong southern division of the league discontinued operation. That left only the northern half of the circuit remaining—but a strong half it is.

The six member teams are Portland, Tacoma, Seattle, Vancouver, Victoria and New Westminster—half of the clubs in Canada, the other half in the United States. This compact arrangement has cut travel costs appreciably since not more than 300 miles separate Vancouver on the north and Portland on the south. Heretofore, the costly road swings into California added heavily to expenses.

Actually, at the last official check, attendance was up 11,000 over last year according to league president Al Leader. Particular improvement had been noted in Portland where a strong team has been assembled. New Westminster and Vancouver also are up. Due to renovations at the Seattle Civic Ice Arena, the Seattle team was not able to open at home until nearly the first of December. However, the lag there should be made up soon. Victoria and Tacoma also have been holding their own, although the latter is down about 4000 from last year.

E. C. Williams returned by plane Saturday from a business trip to Vancouver and Seattle.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Eytcheson and son and daughter were passengers Saturday on the Princess Louise for Vancouver.

Jungle-Styled Fashion Show

By MURIEL NARAWAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON.—To the beat of a tom-tom by a Zulu warrior, a slinky black figure stepped into the lime-light wreathed in the menacing coils of a Mamba snake.

The scene was London's West-End, and the occasion, a jungle-styled fashion show inspired by "King Solomon's Mines," Stewart Granger's first Hollywood-starring film.

At a special showing, British designers gave fashion-concepts of various scenes in the film.

Stewart's film fight with a Mamba was the background for a dress wreathed from knees to neck in the curling coils of a life-like snake. With low-cut neckline, slim leg-of-mutton sleeves, its figure-hugging lines ending in a trumpet-whirl, the black dress had the wicked look of a sinuous jungle plant.

A somewhat pantomime effect was given by stove-pipe leopard-printed velvet lounging slacks, the stocking-light legs of which made one look for a tail. Combined with wide-sleeved mustard-yellow blouse, brown waistcoat, brown slipper-pumps and mis-tard ankle-socks, the outfit was finished with cherry leopard bonnet and gloves.

ATTRACTIVE COAT

Ocelot was the inspiration for a 3/4-length wool coat of black and white check. The softly-flared skirt showed 1/2 of slim black skirt which in turn matched the deep, winged coachman cuffs of the wide Dolman sleeves, and the High Elizabethan-stand collar. Long black gloves and a square-placed beret-hat without decoration gave effective finish.

The deadly-looking spider which, in the film, crawled on the dress of Deborah Kerr—Stewart's leading lady—served as a model for the sequin spider's web covering the front of a strapless, wide-skirted taffeta evening gown.

A natty three-piece ensemble in sand-colored baratheas was the designer's answer to the long trek across the burning desert in search of the mines. Combined with a picture hat of osprey, modelled on a native shield, it made a graceful picture.

A live monkey was one of the accessories carried to off-set a smartly-styled hat and coat of monkey-fur. There were also leopard, pony and springbok coats and one of the eye-catching dresses was a ballet-length "tiger" dress.

FIRE VISITS

some hazard. During the fire the electrical lighting failed.

A hole was burned through to the upper part of the main reduction plant but only minor damage was done there owing to the effective manner in which the flames were found and rapidly extinguished.

There was no one in the plant at the time of the outbreak. The fire alarm was turned in by a native youth, Ross Yeomans.

GOOD FIRE FIGHTING

Responding immediately to the alarm, fire fighters ran hoses to both ends of the building. The C.N.R. passenger train bound for Prince Rupert held the squad up momentarily but water was pouring from the nozzles in a very short time.

Striking the blazing building from both ends simultaneously, the streams of water drove the flames to the centre of the structure where it burst through windows and spewed into the sky like a torch. Firemen braved the danger of the sulphuric acid storage tanks bursting when they took their hose into the building, but, fortunately, that did not happen.

Residents, many with the memory of the disastrous fire that made 37 Indian families homeless when it struck the village a few years ago, were fearful lest there was such another occurrence.

Many Port Edward people were at the Civic Centre in Prince Rupert watching the basketball game between Harlem Globetrotters and Prince Rupert All Stars when they were called upon to return to the village at once. There were taxis waiting. The Nelson Bros. plant was on fire.

Leaving the Civic Centre in an orderly fashion, they were met outside by Arthur Murray, who directed them to taxis he was waving in from the street.

The trip to Port Edward was tense for those who remembered the earlier fire. No one seemed to know to just what extent the flames had caught hold. Reports that had reached the city were that the evaporator was burning furiously and that the cannery was threatened. Many residents were in the city and it was problematical how many men were at the scene to man the fire fighting equipment. Happily, the outcome was much less serious than it might easily have been.

"I think you're right, sir; that quail wasn't well done"

BUYING WINTER VEGETABLES, IMPORTANT FACTOR IN DIET

Canadians are fortunate to be able to add variety to their winter menus through the abundant use of vegetables. We have become so accustomed to hearing talk of the surpluses of our farm products that we sometimes tend to take for granted the everyday foods on which we nevertheless depend a great deal. Food rules remind us that, in order to follow the rules of good health, we should use at least one serving of potatoes and at least two servings of other vegetables preferably leafy, green or yellow every day. Serving raw vegetables too is recommended. Home economists offer tips on buying winter vegetables which the thrifty housewife would do well to heed.

Always buy good quality vegetables. Those which are damaged do not give you your money's worth and are a poor investment.

Root vegetables, particularly potatoes, are inexpensive, so use them generously.

When you buy vegetables they should be firm, not shrivelled. A pale color, especially in carrots, is usually associated with poor quality. Avoid carrots showing an excess amount of green at the top.

Many vegetables are now appearing in 2 to 3 lb. packages for the first time. You will find carrots, parsnips, beets and onions put up in this manner. Many of these have been washed before packaging so it is not wise to buy too much at one time as they may become shrivelled and flabby.

Over-large turnips, carrots and parsnips may be coarse in texture and have woody cores. It is best to buy vegetables of medium size.

Potatoes should be sound and smooth, hollow-eyed and clean. If they are knobby, scabby, sun-burned or dirty they will be more wasteful. It is difficult to determine the texture and quality of potatoes on the market without cooking them. If you have a cool, dry place to store potatoes and are contemplating buying and storing a large quantity of them, why not try cooking small quantities to see how you like them.

Turnips may appear on the market either with bronze or purple tops, depending on the variety. When buying turnips look for those that have a firm, deep yellow flesh, a smooth, globe shape and with as few indentations as possible in the root area. The majority of turnips available on the market today are waxed. This prevents loss of moisture and aids in keeping quality.

Good onions have a bright appearance, are firm, dry with small necks.

When buying beets remember that medium sized ones are less likely to be tough and woody than are the large or very small ones. Beets should be smooth and free from blemish. Those that have deep growth cracks are wasteful and may be tough and woody. Soft, flabby or shrivelled beets are wasteful.

Parsnips are truly winter vegetables and the flavor is not fully developed unless they have been exposed to a temperature near freezing. A good parsnip is smooth, straight, small or medium in size. Very large parsnips are apt to be woody. Flabby or shrivelled parsnips are usually fibrous and pithy.

Some vegetables are bought by grade. Potatoes, and to a lesser extent onions and turnips, are the vegetables which the consumer most often buys by grade.

Other vegetables bought by the retailer according to grade are usually sold in bulk to the consumer without reference to grade. This is the case with turnips where one is not aware of the grade since they are not sold in the original container where the grade is marked. Incidentally turnips have only one grade whether waxed or unwaxed. They are sold in sizes varying from small—2 to 4 inches, medium small, 3 1/2 to 5 inches, medium 4 to 6 inches and large 5 inches or over.

Potatoes are available in small quantities of 5, 10 and 15 lbs. in paper bags to suit the small family as well as cotton, or jute bags of 25, 50, 75 and 100 lbs., which can be stored for later use if adequate storage space is available. Table potatoes may fall under several grades—Canada Fancy, Canada No. 1, Canada No. 1 Large, Canada No. 1 Small and Canada No. 2 grade. Canada No. 1 Large is similar to Canada No. 1 but with a minimum diameter of 3 1/4 inches instead of 2 inches.

Turnips are sold under the one grade only—Canada No. 1.

There are three grades for onions—Canada No. 1, 2 and 3.

Union steamer Camosun, Capt. The vessel brought in a good-sized number of passengers and a substantial freight cargo. Second vessel of the same line to arrive during the day was the steamer Chicotin, Capt. Harry McLean, which reached port at 6 p.m. from Masset and sailed at 8 p.m. for Vancouver.

Arriving in port at 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon, Frank Waterhouse freighter Island King, Capt. Bert Gough, proceeded to

Interior Men Joining Navy

Recruits for the Royal Canadian Navy are passing through H.M.C.S. Chatham from the interior but no local men have joined in the past two months, according to the staff officer. In that period, there have been five recruits from McBride and Prince George.

Meanwhile the age for accepting recruits has been increased from 20 years to 25 for unskilled classes. The age for skilled classes remains the same.

The Island King is now unloading general cargo here and is moving out to Watson Island later today. She will then head back to Vancouver, loading at Butedale and Nanaimo enroute with herring meal from the reduction plants at those points.

PILOTS HELP HEART FIGHT

By DAVE CROSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WINNIPEG (C)—Three thousand former RCAF pilots are helping medical science to fight heart disease.

Dr. A. L. Mathewson of Winnipeg, consultant in cardiology to the Royal Canadian Air Force, disclosed in an interview here that doctors in 20 Canadian cities are contributing to the largest study of electro-cardiograms of apparently healthy persons that was ever undertaken.

They hope that the wobbly lines on 3000 airmen's charts will show how heart disease begins and becomes serious—and how to treat it better.

The survey, being conducted in the faculty of medicine at the University of Manitoba, will determine just how accurate the electro-cardiograph is, Dr. Mathewson said.

"In coronary heart disease—the type which is most prevalent—it is hard to diagnose the extent of illness by ordinary methods. Use of the electro-cardiograph is very important here.

"But hearts of healthy persons sometimes show abnormal' cardiograms. And persons suffering from heart ailments may have normal tracings.

"If we rely too heavily on this instrument, we are likely to diagnose heart disease when there isn't any. We want to find out just how good the cardiograph is."

Dr. Mathewson said by following heart disease from its beginning—as is being done with the veterans—doctors should be able to learn how to diagnose more closely its exact nature in all their patients.

HUGE RECORDS HELP

During the early years of the Second World War, 5000 airmen in Toronto were given electro-cardiographic examination. That is, electrical recordings were made of the action of their hearts. Another 1000 were recorded in Edmonton.

After the war, another 2000 recordings were taken from veterans who wanted to take up commercial flying and had to be free of heart disease.

Dr. Mathewson's plan calls for these men to receive re-examinations by cardiographs every five years. The scheme, in operation for five years now, probably will not provide any great knowledge for a while yet as the study group is just approaching the age where coronary heart disease begins to appear.

An analysis of the original material was carried out by Dr. G. E. Hall and Mr. G. Manning of the University of Western Ontario at London, Ont., and Dr. C. E. Stewart of Dalhousie University of Halifax.

Dr. Mathewson applied for and was given a yearly grant of $2500 by the National Research Council to follow up the study. The grant has been renewed each year since 1946. This study is an approved project of RCAF Medical Service and receives help from the Defence Research Board.

Dr. Mathewson was a group captain when he served as assistant medical director in the

...SMITHERS...

A quiet New Year was welcomed in Smithers and the Bulkley Valley. Dances were in progress at Smithers, Telkwa and Hazelton but the bulk of celebrating was conducted in the many house parties.

Curling started in the Smithers curling rink at the week-end. The rink has now been finished with a well-furnished lounge overlooking the four ice sheets and is drawing considerable favorable attention.

RCAF during the war. He has Sgt. Gordon Barlow of the RCAF and Mrs. Janet Hughes of Winnipeg as his technical assistants. They look after correspondence and filing of the 23,000 cardiograms in Dr. Mathewson's Winnipeg laboratory.

Letters have come from as far as Egypt, South America and the United Kingdom. Dr. Mathewson said the response has been wonderful. He has been able to keep in touch with 3000 of the original 8000 RCAF veterans.

Sometimes the job of tracking them down is hard. One veteran, who formerly lived in Winnipeg, had to be traced to eastern Canada by corresponding with his mother in Holland.

TERRACE TOPICS

Thursday night's meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association in the Credit Union Hall started with a business session with Mrs. D. G. Little presiding, and was followed by a session of square-dancing instruction by Miss Dow of the elementary school. Mrs. Frank Wilson providing the music. Refreshments were served at the end of the program.

Parker Mills left last week to resume his studies at the University of British Columbia. Francis Gavan also left last week for the south where he is a student at Vancouver College.

Mr. and Mrs. Hans Koch left last week for Vancouver where they will spend a few weeks combining business with a pleasure trip.

Mrs. Garnet Jackson is a patient at the Red Cross outpost hospital.

Dr. and Mrs. G. May were visitors to Prince Rupert this week, going down by car, accompanied by Mrs. Robert Elkins.

Roger Campbell of Doreen spent the week-end at Terrace as the guest of Dr. and Mrs. K. McPherson.

Michiel Heads Terrace Board

TERRACE.—Clarence W. Michiel was unanimously re-elected chairman of the board of school trustees for the coming year at Thursday night's meeting which was attended by all the trustees and held in the office of the school secretary, C. W. Alger, who was chairman during the election.

The year's committees were formed with the first named as chairmen:

Finance—Mrs. F. Hall, Peter VanStolk.

Education—T. Marshall (Hazelton), T. Moore (Kitwanga), Mrs. Fred Hall.

Building and grounds—W. Hagglund (Kispicox), T. Moore, P. VanStolk.

Transportation—T. Marshall and P. VanStolk.

A welcome was extended to Mr. VanStolk who is a new member of the board.

Following the reading of correspondence from the Parent-Teacher Association, the board favored purchase of a film projector for the elementary school but the matter was tabled pending further inquiries about the specifications of same.

The new school bus which has been purchased by the board should be in Terrace very shortly and the contract for driving it has been let to the drivers of the present privately-owned bus, Robert Elkins and James Irvine.

A letter of thanks will be sent to School Inspector H. C. Ferguson for his assistance and helpful advice on several occasions.

Tighten Up On Fish Offences

OTTAWA (C)—Stiffer penalties for illegal catches in Canada's rich fishing grounds are being considered by the Department of Fisheries, it was declared last night.

The Fisheries Department Trade News, monthly publication, said: "There is some evidence of an increase in illegal fishing. The Department, therefore, is considering the imposition of more severe penalties for these offences."

The Departmental publication suggests a new system of penalties might include, in addition to fines, suspension of captain's licence, suspension of boat licence, confiscation of gear and, if need be, boats.
