

VIEW OF CONSTRUCTION—Demolition and construction were at peak in oil-booming Edmonton's downtown area when this photo was taken a few months ago. Steel framework was going up for the 15-storey addition to the Macdonald Hotel in the background, to be the city's tallest building. The main branch of Imperial Bank of Canada was operating from a quonset hut while the old bank building was being torn down to make way for the new one. Building this year is ahead of the record pace set in 1950. Edmonton's $46,500,000 in building permits was second largest in the Dominion. (CP PHOTO)

Coming to Prince Rupert Because Rainfall Lower

Ocean Falls "Company Town" but "Little Different"
BY BRIAN TOBIN IN VICTORIA TIMES

Ocean Falls, a town of 3000 people, are in a position to pay Prince Rupert a compliment such as few other localities can. People from Ocean Falls to Prince Rupert with the avowed intention of living "somewhere where it doesn't rain so much." It's a gesture which the people of the northern port appreciate.

Ocean Falls' annual 166-inch rainfall makes their 96 inches of rain a year seem dry in comparison (Victoria, with less than 40 inches, is hopelessly out of the running—and you haven't seen real running until you hit Ocean Falls on a summer evening.)

The people of the community are deeply conscious of their meteorological leadership. They meet you with an apology for their weather but they cannot keep the pride out of their faces. They will mention the subject several times during your short stay. They bid you goodbye with a final comment on the weather, and their personal forecast for the next few days.

Whereas a Victorian will excuse a bad day by saying, "Pity you came today—the first rainy day in two weeks"; a true Ocean Falls man will say: "Pity you came today; we had a fine sunny day only two weeks ago." After all, it's just a matter of emphasis.

BUT FOR IT
Fortunately for Ocean Falls, the local landscape is built for rain. The hillsides slope at what looks like an angle of 45 degrees and the water runs off without trouble. With level spots at a premium, it took ingenuity to construct tennis courts. They solved the problem by building most of the courts out from the side on stilts.

TEHRAN—A big bicycle brigade of pro-Communist students, wielding knives and other weapons demonstrated today against the international court's decision in Iran's oil nationalization and fought with members of Iran's Labor party in downtown Tehran. About 100 persons were injured. There were cries of "Death to Anglo-American imperialism" and counter-cries of "Death to Communists."

SAN FRANCISCO (CP)—Harry Lundeberg, head of the Sailors' Union of the Pacific (AFL), said yesterday that he had been shot at while driving to his office.

LONDON (CP)—Resignation of Lord Portal, Britain's atomic energy controller, was announced in the House of Lords yesterday as the government was criticized for allowing its atom bomb program to fall behind Russia's.

Royalty Takes Over at End To Prince Rupert's Exhibition

Royalty took over at the Prince Rupert exhibition last night and it was a colorful scene with the regal dais at the Civic Centre auditorium. Elaine Steffens, pretty and popular Sons of No. 1 candidate, was crowned by J. D. McRae, MLA. In turn, officiated at the coronation of the Juniors King and Queen, Loraine Berg and Arnold Wick.

A parade in which the Prince Rupert City Band and Job's Daughters' drill team participated from the Post Office to the Civic Centre preceded the coronation.

Leading the royal party to the stage was the band, followed by marching Job's Daughters who lined the aisle as guard of honor. Flag bearers formed an archway under which passed the royal princesses. Then Queen Elaine followed.

On the stage, junior attending princesses were Valerie Pihera, 3, and Susan Stewart, 3. Attending prince who bore the queen's crown on a royal cushion was Rolly McLeod, 4.

Costuming of Queen Elaine and her princesses was by Annette with Peebles Dickens in charge. The queen was lovely in pale blue nylon marquisette with stole over which she gracefully donned the traditional purple velvet robe with ermine trim. With crown and sceptre she was indeed a regal figure. Her coronal bouquet was of yellow, pink and white carnations and chrysanthemums.

Princess Mae (Newton) wore a taffeta off the shoulder model of pastel green, carrying a colonial bouquet of white chrysanthemums and pink carnations. Princess Margaret Gagnon had yellow net marquisette with similar colonial bouquets.

Both the princesses wore golden coronets. Mrs. M. O. Kullander directed the arrangements and routine of the junior court.

Attending the royal party were Wolf Cub Patrol members Bryan Thom and Alfred Hunter, their uniforms and police adding to the color of the ceremony. Many hundreds of people crowded the auditorium to witness the feature event of Prince Rupert's Industrial and Natural Resources Exhibition.

APRECIATION
T. Norton Youngs, master of ceremonies and chairman of the exhibition committee, thanked members Earl Gordon and Arthur Ogilvie for their support in arranging the industrial and natural resources show and complimented the appreciative crowds who attended the first such exhibition in Prince Rupert. He also had words of appreciation for the untiring work of Civic Centre staff.

"This is only the beginning and it looks like it is the kind of thing that will continue."

NEW YORK (CP)—Boston Red Sox, pre-season American League pennant favorites, climbed to within a game of the top Friday night as Lefty Mel Parnell turned back the league-leading New York Yankees 6 to 2.

Despite the loss, the Yanks clung to the lead by seven percentage points over the runner-up Chicago White Sox.

Chicago split a double-header with the last place St. Louis Browns. The Sox won the opener 4 to 3 but bowed to the Browns ace, Ned Garver, 4 to 1 in the second.

Here's the picture at a glance:
New York W L Pct.
Cleveland 47 27 .625
Boston 45 29 .608
Chicago 47 29 .618
Meanwhile the Brooklyn Dodgers remain seven-and-a-half games in front in the National League. The Brooks, with Gil Hodges banging out his twenty-eighth homer of the season, downed the Philadelphia Phillies 6 to 2.

HOUSEHOLD Member's Job

WALLACE from the fact that federal parliamentary sessions are increasing in length and are becoming more frequent, there is also the matter of constituency conference and visitation for which should be available. That is pointed up forcibly by a widespread constituency such as Skeena with its scattered communities which rightfully expect an annual visit from their member. In Skeena it has been physically impossible in the time allowed for the member to carry out such visits.

Being Member of Parliament in a riding like this is a full-time job. And we think the importance of an MP's job, compared with that of ordinary jobs today, justifies a suitable salary. The present stipend and allowances are undoubtedly inadequate and do not even provide for any form of security against the perils of political fortune.

The Blackabys

MANAGER G. R. S. BLACKABY, whose transfer to a Vancouver branch of the Bank of Montreal is announced after 11 years in Prince Rupert, expresses the hope that Prince Rupert will have been the better as a result of his having been here. We think it will be.

During his stay here, Mr. Blackaby contributed to community life in certain ways that are not usual with banking men. He took an interest in public and civic affairs but it was in the church field, particularly among the young people, that his principal and most effective efforts were centred. It was there that he and Mrs. Blackaby performed a particularly valued work and played a part in elevating life for a good many people, particularly boys and girls.

Their many friends will wish them good health and happiness in the metropolis.

Who's Happiest, Anyway?

"OUR WAY of life," as it is called in 1951, was quite unknown 50 years ago or so. No one could travel 600 miles in an hour. No one, sitting in Winnipeg, could carry on a conversation with somebody in Halifax. An audience seated in San Francisco could not listen to an orchestra in Chicago. Not everyone out on the great open spaces could save time and legs by using a telephone.

Were people any happier then than now? Nobody really knows. How could they? It all comes back to deciding that life is what you make it—a long time ago or this afternoon.

As I See It

MR. CHURCHILL

TWO YEARS AGO, when I returned from England I registered my guess as to the then-forthcoming British election. It turned out to be not too bad, I figured that the Tories would make sweeping gains and that they might even nose out the Labor Party as the winner.

As all know, the Tories did make the sweeping gains, but not quite enough to oust the Labor government, which still clings to office by its fingertips.

On the theory that "a new broom sweeps clean," the idea is that all the gentlemen-in-waiting, like Mr. Eden, could be by-passed. There are times when lack of experience is a positive advantage—especially when the voters are in the frame of mind to welcome a new face, a fresh approach. So reason some very realistic Conservatives.

But whether their reasoning will have any result remains to be seen. Who will be the lion in his den?

IN THE EVENT OF ANOTHER world war, it is highly probable that Mr. Churchill would be recalled to head the government. But in this respect Mr. Churchill's strength is his greatest election weakness.

When I was in Britain, Mr. Hugh Dalton told a big meeting: "If Mr. Churchill gets back into power, there will be war with Russia within a year."

That was hitting a bit below the belt—but it is exactly what millions of Britons fear. The British will fight if they are forced to—but they are certainly not looking for trouble.

compromising tactics, then so can we."

THERE IS ANOTHER FACTOR about British politics which hardly gets whispered—much less written about on this side of the Atlantic. That is that the British public in general, and the CONSERVATIVE Party in particular, know that Mr. Churchill is too old to continue as leader in a time like this.

You can't chat with any group of Tory MP's for a half-hour without learning what they think. The immense world prestige of Mr. Churchill and the magnificent role he played in the war against Hitler are considerations which make it impossible for the Tory Party stalwarts to take steps to get a new and younger leader, for the old warrior won't quit. He is on the outs now with some lieutenants who have been hinting he should.

HERE IS WHAT THE MOST hard-headed amongst the Tory MP's really think: Given a new leader, say aged 45 or 50, they would have an excellent chance to tilt the scales enough to carry the country.

The theory that "a new broom sweeps clean," the idea is that all the gentlemen-in-waiting, like Mr. Eden, could be by-passed. There are times when lack of experience is a positive advantage—especially when the voters are in the frame of mind to welcome a new face, a fresh approach. So reason some very realistic Conservatives.

Fire Danger Is Lessened

But Hazard Still Exists in Woods of District Including Islands

The Skidegate Lake forest fire, on Queen Charlotte Islands, has been reduced to "just a few hotspots," according to the district forestry office here, and some 60 men are patrolling and checking the burned-over area. Actual damage has not yet been estimated.

Weather chance since Sunday has lessened the fire danger, a forestry spokesman said today, but warned that continued hot weather and prevailing southerly winds would make the woods "explosive" again.

Last week's wood's closure has been lifted as a result of conditions changing.

Meanwhile, two or three fires are burning in the Adlin district, but are under control, forestry officials said.

J. P. MacDonald, fire inspector of the local Forest Branch, is back in the city after spending a couple of weeks on Moresby Island leading the fight against the Skidegate Lake fire. Rangers H. B. Hammer and C. V. Lindstrom have been left in charge there.

FINE CO-OPERATION

District Forester Marc Gormley has commented on the splendid co-operation accorded by major operators during the height of the recent hazardous period. Even in advance of the closure order, they had been taking voluntary control and fire preventive measures.

One of the recent fires was an incipient blaze up the Bella Coola Valley near Hagensborg which for a time menaced a stand of deciduous timber. Prompt action by Assistant Ranger W. Benwell was instrumental in bringing it under control.

Saturday Sermon
Feeling Infirmities

(By Rev. Harvey McAlister. Submitted by Rev. C. Fawcett)
Hebrews 4:15: "For we have not an high priest which cannot be touched with the feeling of our infirmities; but was in all points tempted like as we are, yet without sin."

The most outstanding thing about the Lord Jesus Christ, apart from the fact that He died, was that He did impossible things. Christ fed the hungry multitudes; He fed them with a few loaves and fishes, enough food for a hungry boy's luncheon. Christ stilled a sudden Galilean storm; He stilled it with a word; He stilled it into a great calm. All He said was "Peace, be still"—and the sea obeyed His voice. Christ helped Peter to pay his taxes. He helped him in a most unusual way—with a coin from a fish's mouth. Christ actually robbed yawning graves of their hopeless victims. He brought the dead back to life.

But one thing that Christ did, stands out above all else—He healed the sick. And this was the thing that first drew the people in great throngs to Him.

Now, friends, why did the Christ heal? We are never told that He healed the people in order to reveal to them that He would heal. We are never told that He healed people in order to prove to them Who He was. But, friends, Christ healed the people because He couldn't help but do so. One word, "compassion," gives us the answer. Matthew 14:14: "And Jesus went forth and saw a great multitude, and was moved with compassion toward them, and he healed their sick." Hebrews 13:18: "Jesus Christ, the same yesterday, and today, and for ever." And again our text, Hebrews 4:15: "For we have not an high priest which cannot be touched with the feeling of our infirmities."

Come with me and take a look in, on one of our Healing Meetings. It is a scene characteristic of what often happens. A heart-broken father and mother bring their son, a boy four years old, Garry Lee. The poor little fellow was injured in being born, and his little body had not developed normally. Garry Lee could not walk, or talk, or pick up anything and hold it in his little hands. Both of his eyes were drawn to one side, until little but the whites were visible. He could not hold his head up in an erect position, or control his movements, for his spine was paralyzed. The parents fed him while lying on his back, with a spoon, but he would swallow. His tongue, too, was paralyzed.

What did the Lord Jesus Christ do about it? He too, up there, was moved in the behalf of the little boy. What happened? That night, for the first time in a long, long while, and every night afterwards, Garry slept the whole night through. The eyes came straight. Right away the parents were able to feed him out of a cup, in a sitting position, and without losing a single drop of his food. Were the parents happy? Their joy knew no bounds. And friends, it all happened, in one week's time, and it happened because Christ, up there in the glory, is still touched with the feeling of our infirmities. He is still moved with compassion.

BULLETIN No. 5
CIVIL DEFENCE
LEARN—AND LIVE
FIRST AID
Following an enemy attack there will be many situations in which the public will have to act on their own initiative.
First Aid is a primary requirement . . . Lack of knowledge can result in confusion . . . Knowledge of what to do can, if acted upon quickly, save lives.
Casualties are caused mainly by blast—falling debris—shock—burns—radiation.
Explosion of an atomic bomb will greatly increase the known effects of high explosive weapons and introduce radiation problems.
. . . After an atomic explosion do not take chances with food and water in open containers.
. . . Do not start rumours.
IMMEDIATE FIRST AID
SHOCK—Lay patient flat on ground—wrap in blankets—apply hot water bottles—give tea or coffee with sugar—NO alcohol.
BURNS—First—treat as for shock; no hot water bottle to burned areas. Cover burned area with dry sterile dressings—no greasy substance. Give plenty of fluids to drink. Get medical aid as soon as possible. Do not remove clothing—Do not break blisters—Do not try to clean burns.
Complete rest is essential.
WOUNDS AND BRUISES—Stop bleeding . . . cover with sterile dressing—treat as for shock. Get in touch with First Aid Post as soon as possible.
HYSTERIA—People suffering from shock are likely to behave in a dazed manner. They must be controlled at once and kept apart from others as panic can easily spread. If possible move to a quiet place.

PROFITS THAT BUILT A SILVER CITY...

Twelve million ounces a year . . . over half of Canada's silver is refined at Trail. So, today, the citizens call it the "Silver City."

When we say "profits built Trail," we are not exaggerating. The big plants of the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company which refine the metal, started on a very small scale. Earnings for the first few years were small, but gradually the operation started showing a profit. Each good year thereafter a substantial part of these profits were used for expansion and development which meant more jobs* for more men.

These men became the citizens of Trail. They built fine homes, took an active part in municipal affairs and encouraged new business to move to Trail. In short, they too, invested their "profits" . . . invested them to build the "Silver City."

The Consolidated Mining & Smelting Company is the largest producer of lead and zinc in the world and Canada's leading producer of silver and chemical fertilizers.

*$63,000,000 from Company profits is now being spent on new projects. The completion of these projects will mean the addition of 800 permanent jobs.

Blackwood on Bridge
By Easley Blackwood

Mr. Meek had a respectable overcall of one heart in today's hand but he had just suffered an 1100 point set on the previous deal and he probably wouldn't have entered the bidding on a 10-card suit.
Against Mr. Champion's three no trump contract Miss Brash made her normal opening of the queen of spades. Mr. Champion grinned as the dummy went down, and he saw that he had plenty of time to set up dummy's club suit.
He won on the board with the ace of spades and immediately led the king of clubs. Mr. Meek could see no reason to lay off and he won with the ace and banged down the king of hearts. But it was too late.
Mr. Champion toyed with the hand. He ducked the heart lead and strangely enough this play gave him one more trick than he could have made by going up with the ace.

Mr. Meek continued with the queen of hearts. This time Mr. Champion took the ace and played out the rest of dummy's clubs. From his own hand he threw the five of hearts and the rest of diamonds.
Miss Brash had to make three discards on the clubs. She dropped the trey of spades and her last heart without damage. But then she was down to the jack and ten of spades and her original four diamonds.
If she discarded a diamond, all of dummy's diamonds would be good. So she played the ten of spades. And Mr. Champion won tricks with the king and nine of that suit. These, with the three top diamonds, gave him five-odd on the hand. This was an exceptionally fine result when you consider that on a heart opening even three no trump could not have been made.
Yes, if Mr. Meek had just overcalled with a heart, Miss Brash would have led that suit. "Now why in the world didn't I lead a heart instead of that queen of spades?" Miss Brash remarked. I wasn't sure whether there was a slight tinge of sarcasm in her voice or not.

Riding Club Has Enjoyable Day
FRANCOIS LAKE-The Francois Lake Riding Club met at the Landing on Sunday morning with six members riding - Mrs. Clarence Snyder on "Chief," Mrs. Kay Chappelle on "Scout," Mrs. Van Zanten on "May," Keith Reed on "Silver," Harold Neave on "Pet" and Mrs. Harold Neave on "Major." It was a glorious day and the club took the lake-shore road east as far as the perline mine workings. This took the riders high up over the lake and the view was lovely from there. Although it was a hot day the trail was mostly in the shadow of the trees. The horses were tied near the old Sattler ranch-house and the party ate lunch under the trees.
There was a little excitement when some wandering cattle

Fought in Exhibition

Prince Rupert Boxing Club members who visited Ketchikan July 3 and 4, were disappointed to find they were not fighting on a card but were used for exhibition boxing.
Andy Marshall, Billy "Mouse" Morrison and "Chubby" Stacey left for Ketchikan Monday night with the All-Star baseball team expecting a fight waiting for them.
Trainer Joe Ward said "the only reason the boys went in the first place "was to gain a little more experience." Prince Rupert boxers sparred with U.S. Coast Guard boxers.

Salmon Seiner Dispute Settled—Fleet Moving Out—Last Halibut From Westward

The salmon seiner tie-up has been settled and most Prince Rupert-based vessels are on their way to the fishing grounds.

Word was received late last night by T. A. Parkin, secretary of the Prince Rupert local, United Fishermen and Allied Workers' Union, that seiners along the coast had accepted offer by the operators that nine test packers would be spotted along the coast to weigh catches individually.

Contention of the fishermen was that determining weight of seine caught fish by averages over a certain area was not accurate enough and that they suffered considerable losses by that means throughout the season.

Meanwhile, operators held that weighing catches individually was impractical, considering loss of time involved and added work. However, operators were willing to spot the test packers with union-supervised scales on board. The scales will weigh 600 pounds at a time, for a brailer-full.

These test packers will remain mobile and follow the major part of the seining fleet, said Mr. Parkin. Two each would be based at Butedale, Wales Channel and Queen Charlotte Islands.

"I think this will help to give a better average," said Mr. Parkin after the announcement, "and I think it will also prove that weighing on the grounds is practical and will give the fisherman a better deal."

Meantime, tendermen and fish packers of the United Fishermen and Allied Workers' Union, who have been negotiating with operators for several months to obtain a $50 monthly wage increase across the board, decide tonight whether they will accept the latest offer.

A month ago negotiations came to a standstill and a conciliation board was set up but operators resumed negotiations. The board still is in effect, however, and will sit should the tendermen not accept the offer tonight.

Workers in this group include skippers and crews of all west coast packers and canny tenders.

With seiner tie-up settled once again, the Prince Rupert fleet began moving out to the grounds at Butedale, Wales Island and the Queen Charlottes early this afternoon. Many of the seiners who were a little late getting repairs and overhauls took advantage of the short tie-up to get into the dry dock and other boat shops.

The dry dock reports that their fishing vessel overhaul season was one of the busiest for a long time. None of the boat works have any complaint this year for lack of work but shortages in material and labor have been a problem.

Gaffing Salmon Held Illegal

Some people don't know it, but gaffing or otherwise taking spawn-run salmon from streams is "strictly against the law," the fisheries department wants everyone to know.

Several cases were apprehended this week at Cloyah Creek where sockeye salmon now are running. Most of the "defaulters" were youngsters who seemed quite unconcerned, according to the fisheries office, that they did "anything wrong."

And not only did youngsters run foul of the law in pilfering salmon but several adults as well who will appear in court next week to answer charges of game offenses.

For every spawning salmon destroyed in the streams, "several thousand" future salmon fry are destroyed as well, a department spokesman pointed out, and destroying spawning salmon is to work directly against a province-wide program to increase sockeye runs.

It is also illegal to take salmon who have spent themselves on the beach of streams.

"As a matter of fact, it is illegal to take a salmon from above the commercial line by any other means than recognized sporting methods," the spokesman said.

There is lots of warning, too, along the streams that taking of salmon is unlawful, large signs displaying that section of the Fisheries Act. And a department patrolman is usually in the vicinity every day to make his rounds of inspection.

Here Friday on a tourist voyage to Alaska CPR steamer Princess Norah carried 113 passengers, five of whom disembarked at Prince Rupert. They were: Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Erickson, Mr. and Mrs. B. Henry, and Miss L. Henry.

Hetzner Tours had a party of 37, all of Logansport, Indiana, for the round trip. There were 80 round-trippers in all. Most of the tourists, stepping ashore for a few hours before sailing northward, expected to see rain here. They thought the weather was "so delightful."

Embarking on the Princess Norah for the north were H. Holst and R. R. Benson, both of Whitehorse.

One of the "most delightful trips we've ever made," was the general comment of some 25 tourists stopping over a few hours yesterday in Prince Rupert aboard the Union steamer Coquitlam, Capt. William McCombe.

Weather and scenery were "superb" and the round-trippers looked forward to visiting the ports of Masset and Port Clements on Queen Charlotte Islands, for which the Coquitlam left last night.

A full load of cargo and passengers were carried on the trip.

Mrs. C. B. Forman and daughters, Diana and Joan, leave Sunday on the Coquitlam for Vancouver on vacation.

PLACED FOURTH

Word was received here yesterday that the Prince Rupert-built sailing snipe, flying the colors of HMCS Chatham, came in fourth place at the International Regatta, at Victoria, on July 4. Christened the "Gold Bee" by Rear Admiral Creery during the cruiser HMCS Ontario's last visit here, the 16-foot sailer entered the race on a trial run. The cruiser, which carried the Gold Bee back to Victoria, did not arrive at her home base much before the races.

Skipped by Sub-Lieut. Eric Stolee, the snipe carried as crewman Able Seaman Peter Slova, of HMCS Chatham, who helped build her with Lt. Cdr. James Golby.

Meanwhile, Lt. Cdr. Golby, former staff officer of Chatham, left Thursday enroute to take up his new appointment as executive officer of HMCS Cornwallis, Nova Scotia.

During the time that Jim—for he was known by that informal name to most civilians here—took over administration of the reserve Navy base he managed an active interest in community affairs, especially in the reformation of the Navy League of Canada branch and its main project, restoration of the Capt. Cook Sea Cadet Corps.

Replacement for Lt. Cdr. Golby is Lieut. Noel D. Langham, RCN, who arrived a few days ago with his wife and three children, James 5, Joanne, 2, and eight-month-old Paul.

The 31-year-old officer hails from Calgary but has spent a considerable period in the last 12 years on both the east and west coasts and their corresponding oceans.

In 1939, Lt. Langham first came to the west coast and sailed with the Navy on examination vessels. But most of his war service was marked with sea time aboard Bangor class sweepers in the Atlantic, such as HMCS Minas, Drummondville and Prince Rupert-built Clayoquot.

In September, 1948, Lt. Langham decided he would get back into the Navy and joined HMCS Naden as lieutenant. Straightway he was appointed to board HMCS Cedarwood, where he served until recently. This is his first shore appointment during his Navy career.
