Liberation Of Fliers?

United States Government Agrees To Pay Fines to Hungarian Authorities

VIENNA (CP)—Four American fliers, jailed by Communist Hungary since Russian fighters forced down their unarmed cargo plane 38 days ago, were expected to be set free today although there was some uncertainty as to their liberation.

The United States government has agreed to pay fines totalling $120,000 to save them from the alternative of three months in prison.

A Hungarian military court secretly convicted them four days ago of deliberately crossing the border with intention of dropping spies later.

The American explanation is that they got lost on a routine flight and had no idea of flying a cloak-and-dagger mission.

Progressive-Conservative Attempt to Upset Prix Legislation Voted Down

OTTAWA (CP)—The House of Commons today voted 122 to 28 against a Progressive Conservative attempt to kill the government's prices legislation and consider, instead, establishment of a fair trade board.

Prime Minister St. Laurent felt that the ban on resale price fixing would tend to lower the cost of living.

Progressive Conservative leader Drew reiterated belief that the ban would have the result of putting small merchants out of business.

Fire Cause Not Known

Inquiry Into Cause of Danish Ship Proceeding

ASTORIA (CP)—Testimony failed Wednesday to disclose the cause of the fire which swept the motorship Erria here last week, with the loss of eleven lives including five Canadians.

Captain Nels Agge, first witness in the coast guard hearing, said smoke from a waste paper basket was the first indication of fire aboard the ship. Captain Agge said the waste paper basket and contents were thrown overboard.

Within five minutes though there were other calls of fire from the same section of the ship, the crew's quarters.

Captain Agge said the second mate reported lights were out there.

The electrician who had been sent to the scene, came back saying smoke still was rising.

More Uncertainty Now As to Peace in Korea

MUNSAN (CP)—Truce negotiators will meet as usual again today 11 hours after expiration of the 30-day Korean cease-fire deadline for an agreement although there is no indication here that the deadline will be extended.

Sub-committees working on problems of exchanging prisoners and supervising truce were deadlocked when they adjourned their last session before the scheduled expiration hour.

The agreement deadline was timed to run out at midnight (7 a.m. Pacific Standard Time) Thursday.

However, each committee was scheduled for another meeting for 11 a.m. Friday (8 p.m. Pacific Standard Time Thursday) in Panmunjon.

Washington sources expressed belief that General Matthew B. Ridgway would approve a 15-day extension of the period in which the 143-mile line drawn across Korea November 27 could become the permanent cease-fire line.

On November 27 negotiators drew a tentative cease-fire line and agreed it would become the centre of a 2½-mile buffer zone if an armistice was signed within 30 days. Otherwise, the line would be redrawn just before a truce signed to follow changes resulting from battle action.

Reds Execute 220,000 People

HONG KONG (CP)—A Chinese newspaper has reported, in a Canton despatch that the Reds executed 220,000 people in Kwantung province in the last half of 1951. It said further, another 50,000 got death sentences.

Christmas Here Quiet

Prince Rupert's public walked and drove carefully over the festive holidays. No serious accidents were reported and only one man—an old-age pensioner—was admitted to hospital due to a fall.

In Prince Rupert General Hospital, with facial injuries is Andrew Johnson, of the Pioneers' home, after falling down some steps.

Driving, however, was treacherous and few vehicles ventured out Christmas Eve and the following day. Some cars were abandoned in various parts of the city after they slithered into wash-filled ditches.

Even some taxi companies thought it wiser to keep their cars off the road and closed down for at least a day. Police said it was one of the quietest Christmases in their experience.

Grain Ship Due Friday

Second grain ship to load wheat in Prince Rupert following resumed use of the elevator is due tomorrow at 3 p.m. She is the Japanese freighter Yamateru Maru which is expected to load 344,000 bushels of No. 4 Northern wheat.

Capt. William Ross, pilot, arrived here yesterday on the Prince George and will meet the freighter at Triple Island.

Capt. H. D. Perry, superintendent of Empire Stevedoring Co., also arrived from Vancouver with seven stevedores to handle loading which is to begin at 8 a.m. Saturday.

Meanwhile wheat is coming in steadily at the elevator at the rate of half to three-quarter million bushels a month. There is enough grain now to fill two ships, elevator officials say.

Rotarians Lunch Aboard Steamer

Rotarians, Rotariannes and guests, all numbering some 130, enjoyed a seasonable Boxing Day luncheon Wednesday in the spacious dining saloon of the steamer Prince George.

A reception in the recreation room of the ship preceded the luncheon over which President Fred Seaden was in the chair.

Entertainment, arranged by committee chairman George Mitchell, was provided by members. Feature attraction was a Rotary-Gyro chorus group contest. Rotarians claiming their team shouted down the rivals. Tunes were "Jingle Bells," sung by the Gyros, and "Three Blind Mice," by the Rotary chorus.

Cuisine staff of the steamer excelled themselves with the meal provided.

Xmas Tree Fire Fatal

MONTREAL (CP)—A mother and two of her children died today when fire, starting in a Christmas tree, razed their home here.

The victims were Mrs. Emilene Dugga, aged 40; Carl, 5, and Donald, 9.

Youngsters Pack Western Library For Big Opening

BARRHEAD, Alta. (CP)—Opening of a new library is usually a cut-and-dried affair but the youngsters really whooped it up in this small community north of Edmonton.

More than 1,300 students and many parents attended the official opening of the second regional library in Alberta. The contention was that the opening was most important to young people, and it was the young people who turned out in force.

Twenty-six school buses brought them to the modern Barrhead school. It was a school holiday in the district and the boys and girls made the most of the opportunity.

They swarmed through the corridors, inspected the art exhibits displayed by various districts, had their fill of hot dogs and soft drinks and heard speeches by government officials. It was topped off by a program of basketball, boxing, tumbling, movies and dancing.

The library, in a section of its own in the new Barrhead school, serves a wide area. Persons who attended the opening bought memberships at $1 each, and the money will be used to expand the original stock of books.

Heavy Snow Hits Power

Heavy snowfall on the day before Christmas plagued Northern British Columbia Power Co., repeated snow flurries, the like of which had not previously been experienced here, causing a series of brief interruptions. For some time supply from the Falls River plant was cut off because of transmission line troubles and the city was entirely dependent on the dry dock diesel and steam plant.

While it was a case of touch-and-go for some time, service was maintained without too much inconvenience.

The Daily News was working against time to get the paper out early on Christmas Eve and, interruptions notwithstanding, made it about an hour ahead of the usual time so the staff could get an early start on the long holiday.

Floods in Montreal

MONTREAL (CP)—Fire broke out in the flooded community of Riviere des Prairies today and at least three homes were destroyed.

Eight other houses, flooded by several inches of water from the rampaging river, were in the path of the fire.

No casualties were reported.

Engineers studied the possibility of blasting ice jams on the choked-up river.

More than 500 homes and summer homes in the suburbs at the north end of Montreal Island are affected by flood waters which receded a foot overnight although the level remains at 10 to 15 feet above normal.

Post Office For Kemano

Edward T. Applewhite, member for Skeena, announces that authority has been given for the establishment of a post office at Kemano to be placed in operation as soon as the postmaster has been appointed and arrangements have been made for the mail service.

It is understood that the district inspector will shortly advise for a postmaster in Kemano and the surrounding area.

WEATHER

Synopsis
Relatively warm moist air from the Pacific pushed into the southern coastal regions of British Columbia during the night. Temperatures along the lower mainland remained just above freezing and mixed rain and snow turned many of these areas into slushy puddles underfoot. Snow is still falling in the lower Fraser Valley and across the southern mountains. Central and northern interior regions of the province remain clear and cold.

Showery weather is likely to be quiet; general over the southern coast during the next 24 to 48 hours.

GALE WARNING
North coast region — Gale warning issued. A few clouds over the southern Queen Charlotte and northern Vancouver Island. Clear over the rest of the area today and Friday. Little change in temperature. Winds—northeast, 35 to 45, in the exposed areas and easterly 20 elsewhere. Lows tonight and highs Friday at Port Hardy, 30 and 37; Sandspit, 32 and 38; Prince Rupert, 20 and 35.

New Envoy To Russia

WASHINGTON, D.C. (CP)—Russia has agreed to accept George Kemano as new United States ambassador to Russia, almost at the same time is denouncing him as a foe of the Soviets.

President Truman announced at Kansas City last night the selection of the 47-year-old career diplomat, credited with being the principal author of the present American policy of containment, to the counter-threat of Communist aggression.

Admiral Alan G. Kirk whose request for retirement, presidential secretary Joseph Short said, had been accepted with reluctance.

SEUL (CP)—Gnr. Robert Walter Stirling of Vancouver Wednesday was convicted of the attempted murder of a Korean civilian and sentenced to seven years' imprisonment. He is charged with having wounded the Korean in a village near Yonchon September 30.

Spends Cold Christmas Trying Trek From Naas River Village

Christmas was not a very happy event for one man who spent the day wondering if he would ever see civilization again after failing to trek out of a northern native village in an attempt to get to Prince Rupert.

But today Art Curfman, construction engineer, is a happier man, on his way to the city in a native fishing vessel.

Curfman was in charge of waterworks' installation at the Naas River village of Greenville. His job finished last Saturday, he set out early Sunday with an Indian guide for Kincolthit to board a southbound Union Steamship Monday, according to word received by Indian Agent P. E. Anfield.

But the pair did not make the 20-mile hike through ice and snow, and the guide left the engineer in an unheated cabin at Red Bluff, 10 miles up the Naas, to seek the aid of a fishing vessel for further transportation.

Meanwhile, Curfman waited for two days without food while several boats made futile attempts to buck gales and ice floes to reach him.

Christmas night Mr. Anfield received word of the man's plight and a Queen Charlotte Air Lines plane was dispatched yesterday. But it could not land nearby and returned.

A top-flight river boatman of Kincolthit, Ernest Angus, reached Red Bluff yesterday. He brought the exhausted, shivering and half-starved engineer to the Kincolthit nursing station, from where he left today.

Curfman is employed by the Northwest Construction Co. and was loaned to the Indian Department to supervise installation of the Greenville water system which was started in the fall.

LOS ANGELES (CP)—The serenity of Christmas in Southern California was rent in late afternoon by an earthquake that was felt in six counties.

No damage was caused in Los Angeles.

The quake lasted between 20 and 30 seconds.

Seven Years For Soldier

SEUL (CP)—Police fired on rioting Egyptian students today as protest demonstrations broke out for the second day in Cairo and Alexandria over apparent entry of the palace into power politics.

Buckshot was fired from police riot guns and injured 15 students at Alexandria.

Several students and police were reported injured at Cairo. Students overturned and set fire to a street car near the Parliament Buildings and police waded in with clubs.

Yesterday King Farouk appointed two new ministers to key posts both being known to be pro-British. This is believed to have set off the new anti-British demonstrations.

King Farouk picked two pro-western sympathizers as his top advisers as signs grew that he may try to settle Egypt's deadly quarrel with Britain over the Suez Canal and the Sudan.

The pro-western banker, Hafiz Afifi Pasha, was chosen chief of the royal cabinet.

He also called in Abdel Fattah Amir Pasha, ambassador to London, to act as his adviser on foreign affairs.

Russia Building 1000 Subs

Also Battlewagons, Cruisers And Destroyers

LONDON (AP)—A British naval yearbook reports that Russia—believed to have no fewer than 370 submarines in service—has drafted plans to build 1000 speedy new subs.

Jane's Fighting Ships said in a new edition that 120 of the new craft are already under construction.

The sub fleet will include one mine-laying type with a submerged speed of 25 knots, Jane's said.

The new subs were reported being equipped with German-developed Schnorkel breather tube, which will permit them to operate for indefinite periods without surfacing.

Jane's said data from reliable sources indicates the Soviet ship building program also includes three battleships, 20 cruisers and 120 destroyers.

Again the yearbook "presented with reserve" what it termed persistent reports that the Soviet navy in recent years has been building from "one to four battleships of a new powerful type."

It said the new battleships were reported to be of 42,000 to 45,000 tons, 785 feet long, and carrying two batteries of guided missiles in addition to six to nine 16-inch guns and two dozen 5.5-inch guns of a new model.

Jane's said the ships are "said to be equipped with one or two catapult towers for firing radio-controlled aerial torpedoes, also rocket-firing apparatus and radio-controlled guns."

The yearbook said the Russians are believed to have rebuilt the former German aircraft carrier Graf Zeppelin for use as a guided missile test ship.

It said they also have resurrected a 1350-ton British frigate, the Lark, which the Royal Navy abandoned as beyond repair after she was torpedoed on the Arctic convoy run February 17, 1944.

British, which now has only 53 submarines, has been forced by the Russian underwater menace to concentrate on the development of submarine killer ships, Jane's said.

As part of this program she has converted two destroyers into anti-submarine escort frigates, has started converting five more, and plans in all to convert 45.

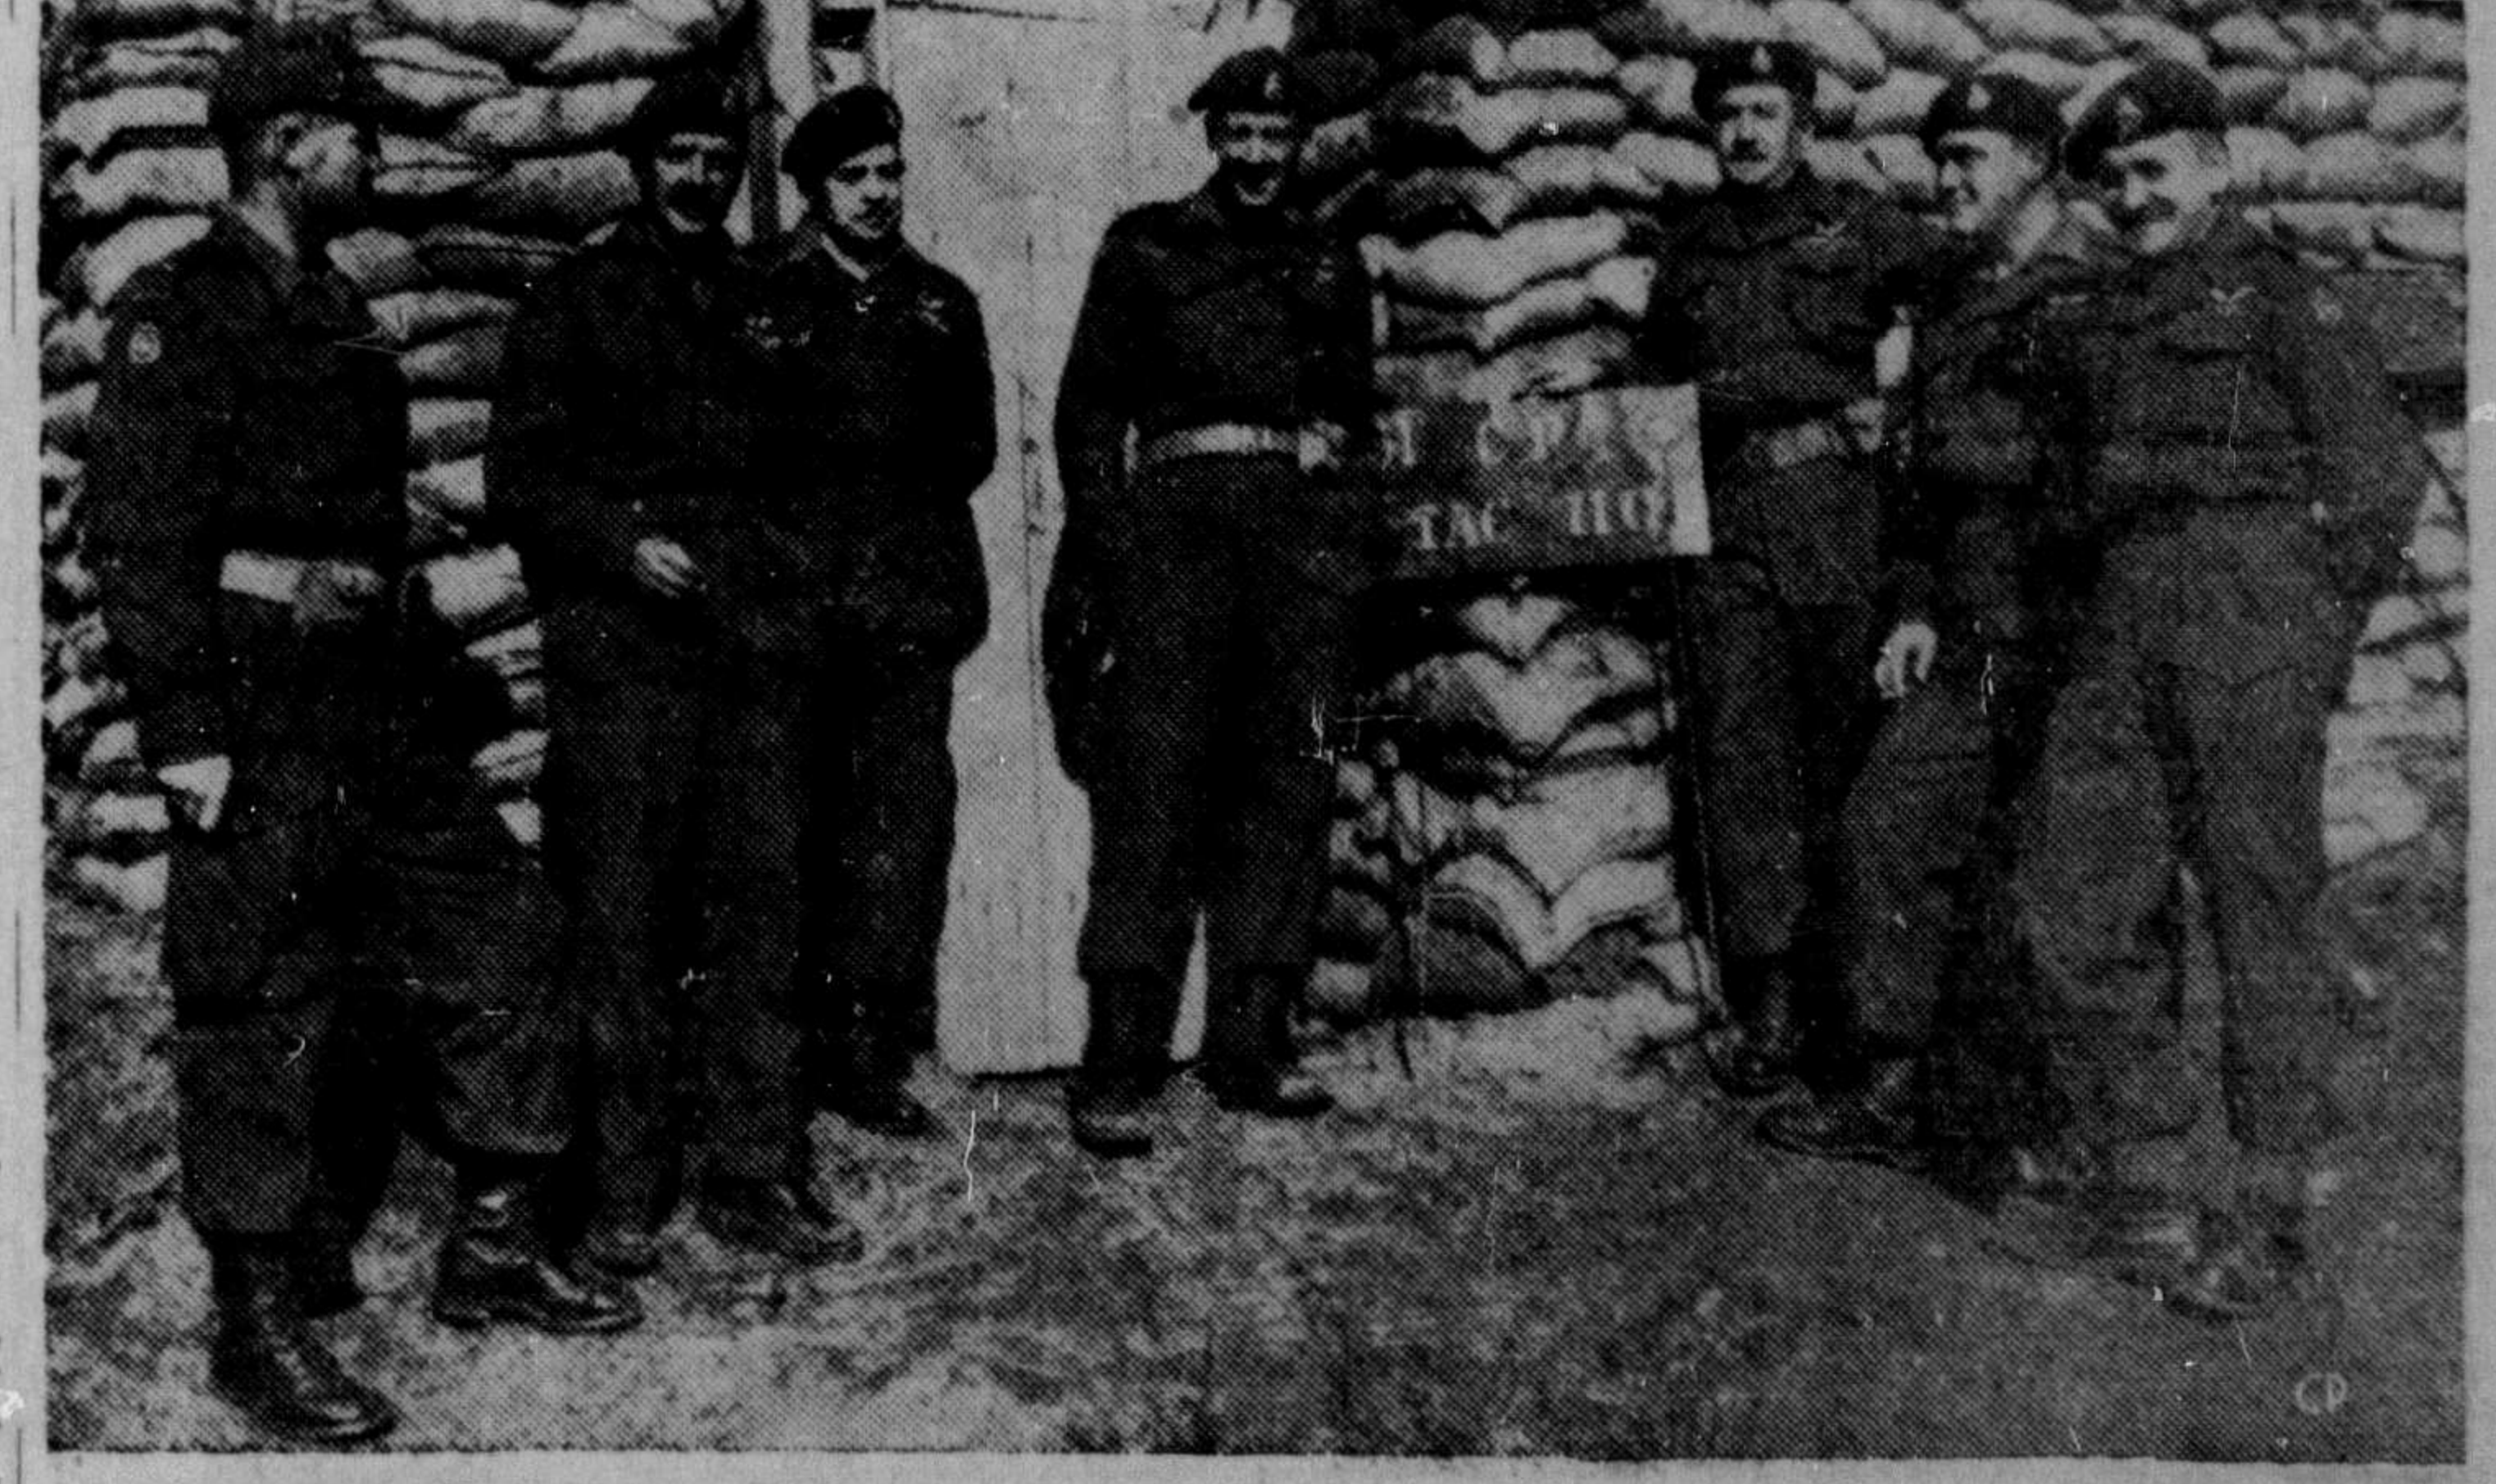

The Royal Navy also has ordered 41 minesweepers of new design and is experimenting with a light vessel which can be used either as a torpedo boat or gun boat.

Rupert and Alaska Trade

A COUPLE of years ago, Dick Neuberger, the prolific Oregon writer, told the world through the Saturday Evening Post that Prince Rupert, the future gateway to the burgeoning Alaska country, was on the make and that some Seattle personages were lying awake nights trying to figure out ways to retain that port's position in this Territory's trade.

The claim was at once denied by Seattle's Mayor Bill Devin and others of that city, but the prediction seems about to come true. Rupert's rail, highway and airway position vis-a-vis Alaska is going to figure largely in the industrialization of Alaska just as it helped in the war-time construction of the Alaska Highway and the Canol project.

The barge service for freight, which is under study by both U. S. and Canadian carriers, is the first new link expected to be closed in the coming year, or perhaps in 1953. A car ferry which would carry passengers, light freight and autos between Rupert and Haines is expected to follow. With it will come highway improvement on both feeder road systems and of course the speed-up of train service into Rupert, which already has begun.

Rupert well may become an airways centre, too. Already, as this editor predicted three or four years ago, an airline operation from Rupert to inland points has been started and will be expanded. With the beginning of international service between Rupert and Ketchikan by Ellis Air Lines of this city and Queen Charlotte Airways of Rupert, it will be possible for Alaskans to have a new choice in their air routing. Some will like to fly to Rupert and change to a Canadian Pacific plane for the hop on down to Vancouver by way of Sandspit and Port Hardy. Some will want to fly across much of B. C. to Prince George, and catch a plane down to Vancouver from here, or on over the Rockies to Edmonton, with stopovers at Jasper Park or Banff. The absence of a transportation tax in Canada will be rather attractive bait, though the Canadians are apt to restore it pretty soon with the costs of defence rising again. On the other hand, if they need U. S. dollars badly enough, they might some way exempt foreigners using their airlines from paying the tax, perhaps by letting them pick up their tickets in Alaska or the States. This system presently is being used by some Americans to avoid paying the U. S. transportation tax. They purchase their tickets for U. S. Airlines in Canada.

An additional car ferry service may be needed, too, for the B. C. coast, because some tourists will want to go back to the States by steamer rather than driving south. They will want to make stopovers at the big new aluminum centre of Kitimat, and at Ocean Falls and Vancouver, or to disembark at Campbell River, near the north end of Vancouver Island, for a delightful drive down the coast of that sprawling island.

There is one thing sure, that as industry and population expand in Alaska, transportation must keep pace. Bigger and better U. S. steamer and air service also would seem probable, especially with pulp mills providing a backhaul for the water carriers.—Ketchikan Chronicle.

As I See It

Egypt

IN 1951 I visited many countries on the way to and from India. One of the most fascinating of these was Egypt.

Have you ever wondered what the world would be like if all the races intermingled and intermarried? Well, you don't need to wonder in Egypt, for there you see the answer, part very good and part not so good.

There are some of the finest-looking human beings that you can imagine. They range all the way from blue-eyed blonds to ebony blacks. Perhaps I should call these very, very blacks "blue blacks" for they look twice as black as any ordinary African.

THE VEST majority of the people you meet in Egypt call themselves Arabs. They are light brown in complexion. Some of the men are extremely handsome. I did not see any very beautiful Arab women—for the dazzling Egyptian beauty of whom I wrote from shipboard was like Cleopatra of the white-skinned part of the population.

These Arabs are part of the vast Muslim or Mohammedan part of the human race which is now in revolt against the imperialism of the west—which in a vague way it blames for the local poverty.

As I reported at the time, you can almost literally "feel" the trembling of the political earth out there. What is really happening is that the modern industrial age is bursting up through the crust of the old order—much like a chick bursts out of its shell.

THE GREAT danger as I saw it in all those Mohammedan lands, stretching from Pakistan in the east right across Persia, Arabia, Egypt and all North Africa is that they have the makings of attempted "revolution without direction." It is not true that the troubles out there are due to Communism. In almost all the Muslim countries the Communist parties are fiercely suppressed. But there are no democratic parties worthy of the name. In fact, the miserable, downtrodden, ignorant and diseased people have no political tools with which to work. The corrupt grafting landlords run all those countries.

I saw some of the farm workers whose total family income was about 30 dollars per year!

I SHALL never forget this sight in Egypt. I knew that water was literally the lifeblood of the country—that where there is water for irrigation the sandy soil will grow produce in lush abundance—where there is no water it is just barren waste.

Mr. Macleod Boyer, our Canadian trade commissioner, drove me out to see how they deal with their irrigation canals. Hundreds of men were at work, in gangs. They stretched in groups from the middle of the canal up to the road on one side. Most of them were in water to their waists.

The man in the middle would reach down and take two handfuls of muck from the bottom of the canal. He would bring it up and hand it to the man on his right. So it went through about 20 hands—all the time slithering back into the water. At the end there was just a trace of the original handfuls left to be dumped on the road.

One bulldozer would have done the whole job better. But failing a social plane to give work to the men unemployed by the bulldozer, its advent would be anything but a blessing to the Expansion Of Economy In Canada

Donald Gordon Optimistic In Year-End Statement

MONTREAL — To review the past year is to be impressed with the marked and continuous expansion that has taken place in every facet of Canada's economy, says a year-end statement by Donald Gordon, C.M.G., L.L.D., chairman and president, Canadian National Railways. "There has been a healthy increase in our population; our stature as one of the primary food-producing countries in the world remains undiminished and our growth in industrial strength has brought us recognition appropriate to a senior member of the world community."

"The growth and development achieved during the past year represents the continuation of a trend which began with the onset of the Second World War and which has proceeded without interruption since. At the same time that new and important secondary industries have been taking form and thriving in our healthy economic climate, new discoveries of natural wealth have been simultaneously broadening our horizons. Improved technologies have given greater scope to the initiative and enterprise of development-minded Canadians and resulted in the opening up of areas whose significance has been known for some time but whose resources were not previously regarded as economically available."

"The international situation has played a part in the stimulation of industrial development in this country, giving impetus to the establishment of new sources of strategic materials and influencing the trend of industrial growth."

"The Canadian National Railways was intimately associated with these activities in 1951. From Newfoundland to British Columbia our engineers and development officers were active.

poor wretches getting a few pennies a day.

IF WE really wanted to help the Arab peoples we would give them the democratic tools to put through their necessary revolution, decently and in good order.

But let's not fool ourselves—Nature abhors a vacuum.

If we don't, sooner or later Uncle Joe's boys will have a crack at it.

ray.. Reflects and Reminisces

It will be remembered that a Canadian public man tried to make the public believe there is no Santa Claus. This was four or five years ago. By this time, surely he feels it was all a waste of time.

It seemed every home in Prince Rupert had a Christmas tree. And they were also to be seen outside and in places of business. But, we hasten to add, plenty are left.

And if Korea does not provide enough trouble for Washington, something else—but not serious—had to develop. Yet it could be called a nuisance. In the Southern States a women's organization is trying to start a new sentiment by trying to revive the Confederate flag. It's not encouraged. Press comment both north and south say the flag was buried in 1865 and it should continue to stay that way.

Permission to buy in beer parlors was given natives in December. That's close to Christmas, which may help explain the Indian-RCMP "general engagement" at Smithers. Persistent disorders would have resulted in 75 arrests, had there been jail space, say officers.

"Brother" Moody, who ran a barber shop in Prince Rupert away back in 1909, if not earlier, reached his 94th birthday anniversary a week or so ago. He has been living in Minneapolis since moving from Prince Rupert some years back and, according to a letter, is feeling in excellent health and as much interested in Prince Rupert as ever. Generally speaking, this pioneer is in good shape but for the fact that his eyesight has failed. Even this, however, does not seem to affect his blithe spirits.

So much unhappiness, it seems to me, is due to nerves; and bad nerves are the result of having nothing to do, or doing a thing badly, unsuccessfully or incompetently. Of all the unhappy people in the world, the unhappy are those who have not found something they want to do.—Lin Yutang.

The governor-general, officiating at some function in the Ottawa fire hall, noticed the shiny brass pole that enables firemen to slide downstairs and get out with minimum of time whenever an alarm sounds. The viceroy mentioned he had always longed to do it and was invited by the chief to make a start, right then and there. Cheerfully, he did so. One never can tell what anyone, no matter how excited, is thinking of, or would like to do.

Slump Hitting Smaller Mills

Caught Between Weakened Markets And High Priced Logs

VANCOUVER — Small lumber mills are reported to be suffering from weakened market and high-priced logs. Some mainland and Vancouver Island mills have been forced to close.

Schultz Lumber Co. Ltd., reported that the weakness extends to all divisions of the industry. "Cause appears to be a combination of seasonal slackening of demand for lumber products in the important eastern seaboard section of the United States, record cut in the United States Douglas fir region and a decline in both United States and Canadian residential construction," the company reports.

Larger mills and those with their own logging operations, however, are going full blast to fill United Kingdom orders.

Flying
freight elevator

"Open air" elevator service would amaze most folks, but at Alcan's British Columbia project it's just part of the job. At Kemano heli-copters are the elevators which lift men to work each day in perches atop 1000 foot cliffs. Men, tents, drill rigs, cigarettes, laundry and all the many items of camp life are delivered in a matter of minutes to heights which could not be reached in hours, even days, of climbing. Already 36,000 helicopter miles—mostly vertical—have been flown. That's just one of the answers to a construction problem that will eventually step up Canada's aluminum output by a billion pounds a year. Aluminum Company of Canada, Ltd. (Alcan).

Fishermen's Union Christmas Tree

The first annual Christmas tree party was held last Saturday by the Women's Auxiliary to the United Fishermen's and Allied Workers' Union for children of the members.

About 120 children were presented with gifts from Santa Claus. Entertainment for the youngsters was arranged by Byrle Karasoski.

Fruit and candy were donated by merchants and wholesalers of the city and the children enjoyed these along with ice cream and soft drinks.

The affair took place at the Oddfellows' Hall.

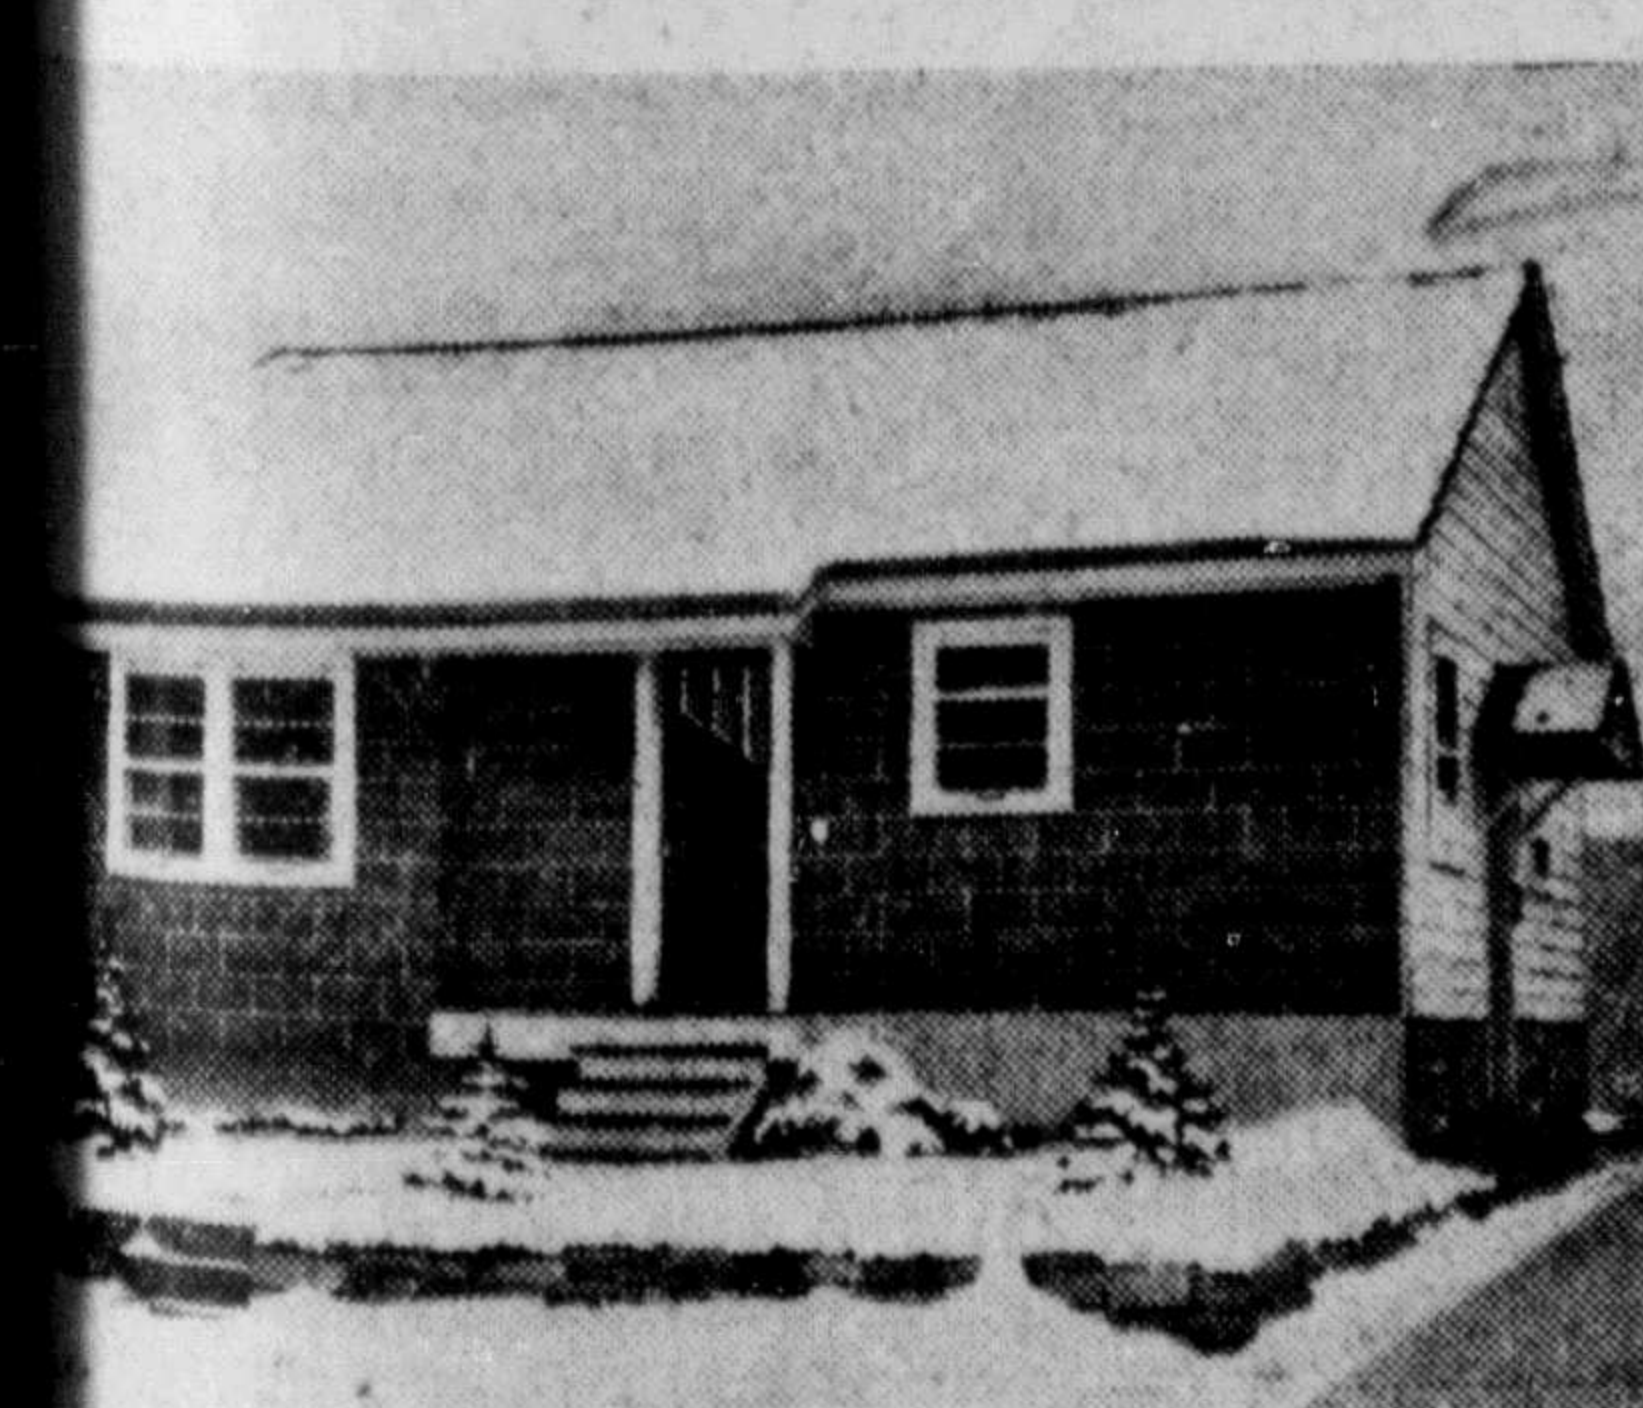

No Christmas Babies Here

No local babies will have to worry about untimely conflict with birthday and Christmas celebrations arising from 1951. There were no "Christmas" babies in Prince Rupert this year, Prince Rupert General Hospital reports.

One baby was born December 24, in the early afternoon. This is the second successive year of no Christmas babies here.

New Year babies are not too common either, according to a hospital spokesman. Only one birth was recorded on that day in the last three years.

H.A. DESIGN-OF-THE-MONTH

This bungalow provides a very comfortable home for a small family. It has an interesting exterior appearance and a well designed floor plan which makes excellent use of all available space—an item to interest many prospective house builders.

The large living room provides adequate space for family activities. As shown in the sketch of the floor plan there is room for a breakfast table in the kitchen while careful arrangement of living room furniture would allow space for dining on special occasions.

The window arrangement in the master bedroom, the living and the kitchen. The window over the kitchen sink provides bright light for the counter area.

There is direct access to the basement from the side grade entrance. Arrangement simplifies carrying out ashes or bringing in supplies. It overcomes traffic through the kitchen or other parts of the house.

The house is 30 feet by 24 feet and, for estimating purposes, the area is 720 square feet and cubic contents 15,228 cubic feet.

Broadway Audiences in Mood To Be Amused

By GLADYS LENNON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK (CP)—Broadway audiences in 1951 were in a mood to be amused—preferably by music—and a variety of light musical fare was offered them.

Foremost of the year's musicals, Rogers and Hammerstein's "The King and I," opened in late March with a fine cast headed by Gertrude Lawrence and Yul Brynner. Based on Margaret Landon's novel, "Anna and the King of Siam," it concerns the experiences of a young Englishwoman who went to Siam in the early 1860s to teach the king's children.

More recent popular musicals are "Top Banana," starring Phil Silvers as a former burlesque comedian in television, and "Paint Your Wagon," a fast-moving show in western mining-camp setting.

George Abbott's production of "A Tree Grows in Brooklyn," based on the Betty Smith novel, brought laurels to Shirley Booth, a seasoned actress in her first musical-comedy role, for her portrayal of Aunt Cissy.

Holidovers in the musical field are "South Pacific"—now past its 1000th performance—with Martha Wright replacing Mary Martin, and Roger Rico, bass from the Paris Grand Opera, in the role originally played by Ezio Pinza; "Guys and Dolls," based on a Damon Runyan story; and Irving Berlin's "Call Me Madam," starring Ethel Merman.

The demand for light musical fare showed up, too, at the Metropolitan Opera House in sold-out houses for performances of "Die Fledermaus," one of Rudolf Bing's additions to the repertory in his first season as general manager. Its popularity encouraged Bing, enterprising successor to Edward Johnson of Guelph, Ont., to form a second Met company to take the Strauss opera on tour.

Among additions to the Met roster in the current season is Montreal-born baritone George London. Recently with the Vienna State Opera, he made his Met debut on opening night as Amonasro in a completely revamped production of "Aida." Critical comment was scarce, but Virgil Thomson of the New York Herald-Tribune acclaimed him for "beauty of voice, perfection of musical style and a stage power—both by personal presence and by dramatic skill—of the very first order."

Non-musical comedies which survived the summer doldrums and are continuing are F. Hugh Herbert's "The Moon Is Blue," starring Barbara Bel Geddes as a young girl on a pick-up date; "Stalag 17," a comedy melodrama of life in a Second World War prison camp, and last year's hit, "Affairs of State."

A fall success is "The Fourposter," a two-player comedy by Jan de Hartog in which the plot revolves around an ancient fourposter bed. Canadian-born Hume Cronyn and his real-life wife, Jessica Tandy, won plaudits for the "grace, skill and wit" with which they hold the audience.

Of plays in serious vein, none achieved "hit" proportions. Most

Moose Xmas Whist Drive

Eleven tables were active in the "unofficial" whist drive at the Moose Hall Saturday night. Several presentations and drawings of food hampers were highlights of the evening.

Card winners were: Mrs. A. Norton and Mrs. O. Stegaviz, ladies' first and second; A. J. Croxford and John Mostad, men's first and second; B. J. Bacon, pool prize.

Mrs. Alice Good and Mrs. Irene Muncey were presented with gifts by Mr. Bacon on behalf of the Moose brothers in appreciation of their efforts in the whist drive. Mrs. G. G. McKee, who assisted, also received a gift.

Successful in the draw were R. Giske, winner of a turkey; Mrs. H. Tweed, a ham; Mrs. Janet Walker, two chickens, and Steve Dziopka, a suckling pig.

Next week will be another whist drive, but official tournament games are postponed until after the New Year.

Successful were Tennessee Williams' "The Rose Tattoo," which won the Antoinette Perry award as the outstanding play of the 1950-51 season, and Sidney Kingsley's "Darkness at Noon," an anti-communist drama based on an Arthur Koestler novel, starring Claude Rains.

The year marked the first Broadway performance of a professional drama in a church—Christopher Fry's "A Sheep of Prisons." Written for presentation in churches during the Festival of Britain and dealing with a group of prisoners of war housed in a church, it played a limited engagement here before starting a tour of United States and Canadian cities. The four-man cast included Toronto-born Don Harron, along with three members of the original English cast.

The presentation of most interest to Canadians, though among the year's shortest runs, was the English-language version of Gratien Gelinas' "Ti-Coq" which opened here in February after successful runs in Montreal, Toronto and Chicago.

Critics generally approved the acting of the French-Canadian cast, headed by Author-Director Gelinas—himself as Fridolin—in the title role, but the play drew adverse criticism, then a financial tangle led to closing after three performances of the first all-Canadian production on Broadway.

A musical drama by former-Winnipegger Cecil Broadhurst, "Jotham Valley," was presented for a short Broadway run by Moral Re-armament, Inc., with a cast including several Canadians. Critics refrained from comment other than characterizing it as frankly propaganda, seeming "a bit awkward surrounded by a successful commercial theatre."

Joe Slaggard, who suffered knee injury in a fall last week and had to be taken to hospital later, was able to leave the institution for home on Christmas Eve.

Miss Mary Armstrong, after visiting over Christmas with her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Allan Armstrong, is leaving by tomorrow's plane on her return to Vancouver.

Ted Forman arrived in the city on last night's train from his combined officers' studies at Royal Military College, Kingston. He is here for a visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Forman.

Among those of the staff of the Miller Bay Hospital who have left to spend Christmas season with family and friends are Miss Betty Gallego, who flew to Toronto, Miss Reta Long to New Westminster, Miss Dorothy Hamblin to Vancouver, Miss Hylda Walker to Winnipeg, Mr. George Williamson to Gibson's and Mrs. Rosalind Biggs, who is taking her daughter from North Bay to New York for a music audition.

Old Sweats' Xmas Party

A Christmas Eve party for "old sweats" was enjoyed at the Canadian Legion auditorium by 25 First World War and Boer War veterans.

Turkey dinner and "trimmings" were served, with catering in charge of Mrs. J. S. Black, after which entertainment was provided by Jimmy Green and Mrs. Peggy Andrews. Community singing also was a feature of the evening.

Drives Here Through Deep Snow—Spends Christmas at Home

Two feet of new snow between Terrace and Prince Rupert, which even held up scheduled bus operations, did not prevent Jack Cade from getting through on Monday to spend Christmas with his parents, Dr. and Mrs. J. P. Cade, Fourth Avenue West. He drove here from Williams Lake where he is engaged in the practice of law and is leaving tonight on the Prince George for Vancouver with his car. It is four years since he was last here.

Notice of Increase in Subscription Rates

Effective January 1 the price of the Daily News will be increased 25 cents to $1 per month.

The decision to increase the price, taken reluctantly by the management, is the direct result of continually rising production costs.

Wages, newsprint prices and other operating expenses have gone up tremendously in recent years.

The need for higher subscription rates is being felt all across the continent. Many papers have moved their daily price from five to seven cents, and some to 10 cents.

The scheduled increase applies to all carrier delivery prices. The carrier boys themselves, who also face the problems of inflation, will get increased remuneration for their work.

Street sale and store sale price of the Daily News will remain at five cents but the Saturday edition, with the comic supplement, will be 10 cents.

EXPANSION

working in close liaison with both government and industry, whose combined planning indicates that more than $600 millions will be spent in the immediate future on industrial plant and development along our lines.

"We have begun the construction of a 147-mile rail line from Sherridon, Man., to Lynn Lake where an important property, containing nickel and other strategic metals, is being developed by Sherrit Gordon Mines. Preliminary surveys have also started that will result in the construction of a 46-mile rail link from Terrace, B.C., to Kitimat where a water power and refinery project, costing at least $500 millions, has been started by the Aluminum Company of Canada. These are but two of the major projects with which we, as a railway, have been associated. There have been scores of others, and although many are less spectacular, all are making a contribution to Canada's economic future and in most cases to our defence.

RAILWAYS ESSENTIAL

"Railroads are essential when valuable new territory is to be opened up. They are essential, too, if established commerce is to flow in volume with efficiency and at economical rates. In 1951 the Canadian National carried in excess of 90 million tons of freight, 23 million shipments of express and 17 million passengers. Our communications system transmitted 14 million telegrams and cables, and we accommodated three-quarters of a million guests in our hotels.

"The essentiality of railways and their ancillary services is not questioned. As a matter of fact, it is taken for granted, and except when a dramatic change occurs—such as the trend to dieselization—little public notice is taken of the cumulative effect of improvements that have been made by the railways in their operating techniques, equipment and services.

"Nevertheless, the record has been one of constant progress since the era when the railways made possible a transcontinental economy which could prosper in a land of vast distances. The past year has been no exception, and the searching out of ways and means further to improve our facilities goes steadily forward. It is to be regretted that it has not yet been possible to conclude arrangements with the owners of the Second Narrows Bridge across Burrard Inlet, which would give the Canadian National access to the harbor front of North Vancouver and thereby help to stimulate the industrial growth of that community to the benefit not only of the community itself but to the province generally."

HOUSEKEEPING

GOOD COOKS NOT BORN— WISE TO FOLLOW DIRECTIONS

A woman blessed with natural talent for producing prize-winning dishes, or who has been cooking for years might get away with using "a pinch of this" or "a dash of that." But the average housewife is strongly advised to follow the directions closely when she uses a recipe, particularly these days when a failure in the kitchen can add worrisome costs to the food budget.

Home economists claim many of the common pitfalls in cooking can be avoided. They stress the absolute necessity of following recipe directions carefully and using level measurements and standard spoons and cups. "A variation in the amount of a single ingredient," they say, can often mean the difference between a tasty delight or a miserable failure." They offer these ideas.

Collect all required ingredients together where the mixing is to take place. Measure them carefully. Spoons and cups in recipe mean level spoonful and cupful; do not heap them.

When a recipe calls for a cup of sifted flour, it means to sift the flour first, then measure it. If it is measured first, then sifted, it will actually give more than the required cupful and affect the texture of the finished product.

When measuring flour, bear in mind that there are two main types, "all-purpose" and "pastry." If one is used in place of the other, an adjustment in quantity is necessary, because all-purpose flour is heavier. If pastry flour is substituted for all-purpose, use slightly more. For each cup of all-purpose called for, use one cup plus two tablespoons of pastry flour. This also works in reverse, if all-purpose is used in place of pastry flour, less is used. For each cup of pastry flour required use $\frac{3}{4}$ cup or one cup minus two tablespoons of all-purpose.

Incidentally, cake flour is pastry flour which has been sifted through a very fine screen.

Frequently a recipe will call for sour milk when only fresh milk is in the refrigerator. This can be overcome by allowing one teaspoon of vinegar or lemon juice and one cup of fresh milk for each cup of sour milk called for. Let the mixture of vinegar or lemon juice and milk stand for about half an hour before using it. If sour milk is used in place of fresh milk in a recipe, add $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon of soda to the flour for each cup of sour milk used and reduce the baking powder by one half.

Some of the cooking terms often misunderstood or misinterpreted are stir, cream, beat and fold. Stir means to blend the ingredients together, while cream means to work the ingredients until they are well blended, soft and creamy. The purpose of beating is to incorporate air into the mixture, while folding is a gently under and over movement with the mixing spoon, usually to combine two mixtures, of which one is beaten egg white.

So far reference has been to measurements and terms for cakes and pies. When making recipes requiring a large amount of liquid, for example bread and pickles, difficulties may arise if an American recipe is used. In Canada the standard liquid measurement is the Imperial pint and quart, while across the border the Wine measurement is used. A cup is the same in both countries, but the Imperial pint and quart are equal to two and a half cups and five cups respectively. The Wine pint and quart are equal to two and four cups respectively.

Terms in meat cookery not always clearly understood are dredge, roast, pot roast or braise and boil. Dredge means to coat, usually with flour. This helps to brown the meat and to thicken the gravy. Roast applies to dry cooking without a lid, the tender cuts of meat should be cooked by this method. The less tender cuts become more tender if they are pot roasted or braised, that is, cooked with some liquid added to the pan, and covered with a lid. The term boil, which is often used with regard to ham or making stew and also to eggs, is now old-fashioned. The word that should be used is simmer, which will require a longer time at a lower temperature.

Our office and plant will be closed from December 24 to January 2 for staff holidays.

Wishing All the Compliments of the Season.

Challengers Ready to Face Top B.C. Team

One of the greatest Prince Rupert basketball teams has ever been assembled and the next when they stand up to the top team in all B.C. hoops—Vancouver's Senators.

The Co-op Challengers wound up their preparation sessions, this year's all-around fit and ready, tough, aggressive and accurate. Around the Centre there is a great deal of speculation but very little decision as to whether or not Prince Rupert will compete in the Senior Championships at the end of the season.

Representatives of the minor, Junior Challengers must be the underdogs—at least in the final whistle Saturday afternoon at the last few practices have seen in action the finest shooting aggregation in Prince Rupert's basketball history—with respect to such stars as Lindsay and Beynon.

But today's stars, the Scherks, Flaten, and Webster present a formidable array of basketball players.

But a line of skyscrapers is another situation never before encountered here and it's anybody's guess how successful Alec Bill's strategy will be.

Regardless of the outcome, it's certain the games will be worth seeing and if the Challengers approach the heights of past performances, the visitors may return to their home court with a goose egg—the fate of every visiting Vancouver team here in the past.

No Menace Says Ezzy

BOSTON (AP)—Wild Bill Ezzy, hockey's renowned ruffian, today shrugged off charges that he is a menace and a detriment on the ice with a snarl that sounded like "I'll play hockey my way."

Reunited on Boston Bruins' top line with Milt Schmidt, last year's most valuable player in the National Hockey League, Ezzy seems interested only in catching any opposing player with his head down and splatting him in all directions at once.

He is dedicated particularly to a manhunt for Ted Lindsay, star left wing of Detroit Red Wings. Ever since last season, when Lindsay carved Ezzy across the face and whacked him into a stupor, Wild Willie has sought to square matters on ice.

But he'll never get the chance, according to Detroit coach Tommy Ivan.

"Why should I risk a $75,000 player like Ted against a wild man?" Ivan says.

So Lindsay and his linemates, Sid Abel and Gordie Howe, are replaced for less scintillating players every time Boston coach Lynn Patrick throws on Ezzy.

What does Ezzy think of this state of affairs?

"I'll answer that my way," says Ezzy, a deceptively powerful fellow of 170 pounds on a 5-10 frame.

A golf pro at the Colonial Country Club, Wakefield, Mass., in the spring and summer months, Toronto-born Ezzy never seems too eager to return to hockey. In each of the last two seasons he held out for no other reason than there was still a lot of good golf weather.

Ezzy has played for two big league coaches, Happy Day in Toronto and Patrick in Boston. Day now is a trouble-shooter in the Maple Leaf organization. "Every time I see Day," Patrick says, "he asks me: 'How's Ezzy?' And then he busts out laughing. But Ezzy isn't so funny to a lot of players who get careless when he's on against them. No, sir, he's not a bit funny."

Rangers End Win Streak For Detroit

NEW YORK (AP)—New York Rangers played the role of giant killers Wednesday night, ending Detroit Red Wings' nine-game winning streak by edging the National Hockey League leaders 1-0 in New York.

Montreal Canadiens at the same time won their first game of the season on Toronto ice as they came up with a two-goal third period rally to defeat the Maple Leafs 3-2.

Results left Detroit leading Toronto by 13 points, with Montreal only three points back of Toronto in third place.

A crowd of 13,556—largest of the season in Madison Square Garden—saw the exciting, hard-hitting game that squelched the Wings' winning sketh. Ed Slowinski scored the only goal in the first period and the Rangers completely outplayed Detroit for the remainder of the game.

The loss was the first for Detroit away from home this season. Red Wings had been undefeated in all 14 previous games on the road, equaling the record set in 1929-30 by the Boston Bruins.

Australia Near Win

SYDNEY, Australia (CP)—Australia virtually wrapped up the Davis Cup Thursday when its great doubles team of Frank Sedgman and Ken McGregor slaughtered the United States best pair of Ted Schroeder and Tony Trabert, 6-2 9-7, 6-3.

The American debacle was a sad disappointment to a capacity crowd of 15,300 at White City Stadium. They had anticipated a hard-fought match.

The Australians now lead two matches to one in the best-of-five matches.

The final two singles matches will be played Friday.

Christmas at Miller Bay

The Christmas spirit was in evidence for days at Miller Bay Hospital. Thursday evening marked the beginning of Yuletide celebrations when the hospital staff and their families and friends enjoyed a party in the Recreational Hall. About 150 people attended and all received presents from the hand of a gay and humorous Santa. Young eyes also danced with wonder and joy about a very Christmas-like scene.

After exchange of presents refreshments were served and casual dancing wound up the evening.

Their own fun over the staff turned its attention to giving the patients a real Christmas. With the combined contributions of various and many organizations and kind individuals much had been done to make Christmas a wonderful event for the 165 patients in the hospital. Many presents and donations were received and pooled so that every patient might receive appropriate gifts.

Outstanding attention came from the Kinsmen Service Club who accompanied Santa to the hospital Saturday night with many gifts and confections. The efforts of other groups and of individuals were very generous and were received with deep appreciation.

Christmas For Stewart Moose

STEWART—After the regular meeting of the Women of the Moose on Thursday last a Christmas party was held under the direction of the Moosehaven committee headed by the chairman, Mrs. Hilda Nelson.

Members of Portland Canal Lodge Loyal Order of the Moose and guests numbering over seventy, took part in a progressive whist drive. Winners were: women's first, Mrs. J. Bouzek; consolation, Mrs. M. Genge; men's first, Nick Gillof; consolation, T. Retvedt.

After the whist, Santa Claus arrived and distributed gifts to everyone, causing a panic when it was discovered that his nether garments had been improperly fixed. Two of the members had to follow Santa to hitch them up when the presentations were being made.

A fine supper followed.

Governor W. R. Tooth, on behalf of the members of Portland Canal Lodge No. 1218 and the assembled guests, congratulated the ladies on a very enjoyable evening and extended thanks. A birthday cake was cut in honor of two members whose birthdays occur in December, Mrs. Hilda Nelson and Miss Violet Manojovich being the honored members.

Instinct Prevails; Native Lights Fire On Station Floor

TELKWA — Something of the primitive still lingers with some of the natives, and anything can happen on this northern line as his case proves.

An intoxicated Indian, was he'd off one of the late passenger trains and with great difficulty was persuaded to remain seated until a taxi was called.

After four unsuccessful attempts to call a taxi the station agent decided to let the native stay in the waiting room on account of the freezing temperature. To turn him out would mean certain death as he was unable to stand, let alone walk.

During the small hours of the night the agent smelled smoke and, getting up to investigate, found the remainder of a fire still smouldering on the waiting room floor. Apparently the Indian became cold during the night and, finding some kindling from a couple of full orange crates that were put in the room to keep them from freezing, helped himself to the wood.

No trace of the befriended native could be seen.

SHIPS AND WATERFRONT

With an exceptionally light list of passengers in view of the fact that the vessel had been at sea on Christmas Day, CNR steamer Prince George, Capt. William Eccles arrived in port at 10:15 yesterday morning from Vancouver, Westview and Ocean Falls, sailing at midnight for Ketchikan whence she is due back here this evening south-bound. There were 14 passengers for Prince Rupert and four for Ketchikan.

Courses in Navigation

British Columbia fishermen at outlying points who earn a living pitting their boats and their know-how against the Pacific coast elements are going to have an opportunity this winter to brush up on their navigation. Starting the second week in January the Fisheries Co-operative Service and University of B.C. extension department will start a series of short courses on the fundamentals of navigation designed to enable B.C.'s fishermen to fish more efficiently and in greater safety. The series will get under way in the Queen Charlotte Islands with courses already scheduled at Skidegate and Massett. A third course will be given at Pender Harbor with further courses available to any community or group interested.

Each course, consisting of ten two-hour lectures, runs one week and covers such basic navigation problems as rules of the road at sea, compass and chart work, ships track and fixing position. Time permitting, the course will wind up with an introduction to some of the newer radio aids to navigation.

Instructor for the course will be Captain James F. Patrick, former examiner of masters and mates of the Pacific coast. Captain Patrick began his career as an apprentice before the mast and served many years as first officer and captain aboard the Empress ships in the North Atlantic trade.

LONDON — For people with sensitive skin a British firm is producing a type of wool treated with rayon in a way which gives the warmth without the "tickle."

A little New York boy, Edward Hospisa, made popular song history when he lisped and inspired: "All I want for Christmas is my two front teeth."

Lively Family Comedy Showing

A lively family comedy, "Elopement," starring Clifton (Belvedere) Webb, is the feature picture which opens today at the Capitol Theatre and continues until the end of the week.

Webb, departing from his customary Belvedere role, is the sharp-tongued father of Anne Francis, a cute ash-blond, who elopes with a young college professor, William Lundigan. The presence of the irrepressible Webb and Charles Bickford, leading their respective families in a chase to stop the marriage sets the stage for much of the hilarity in this wonderful human interest comedy.

The enmity between the two families leads to many hilarious complications before they learn to like each other. Bedded down in a barn after an all night chase, the parents discover that the elopers have called off their marriage after a heated pre-nuptial argument. Then they do an about face to patch up the differences between the youngsters. Naturally, love overcomes temperament and the elopers make a new and successful dash for their Gretna Green.

Stewart News

Miss Jeannan Crawford, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Crawford, and Miss Ella Haahli, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Haahli, are here to spend the Christmas holidays with their parents. Both young ladies are student nurses at the St. Paul's Hospitals in Vancouver.

Nicholas Lupick has arrived from Nechako on a visit to his brother, George Lupick.

Bulkley River Flooding Quick

TELKWA—The Bulkley river is causing some concern at Quick station. The ice apparently has jammed and the flow of water is backing up, flooding a large area of land.

Several families are practically cut off from contact with the main road. One family attended the Christmas tree only to find on their return that they were unable to reach home on account of the conditions of the bridge. The Quick store is completely surrounded with water and Pete Wilson's farm is isolated, as well as others.

Kinsmen's Santa At Miller Bay

Children of Miller Bay Hospital had one extra Christmas gift this year as a result of a visit Saturday night by the Kinsmen Santa Claus. This was the last act of the club program providing cheer for children at Christmas.

All hospital patients received bags of candy.

Meanwhile Kinsmen were Sunday delivering nut parcels and some were even delivering them Christmas Eve.

"We made sure they were all delivered," said President Stan Saville.

Stewart School Concert Enjoyed

STEWART—The school concert and community Christmas tree were held on Saturday in the Canadian Legion Hall.

The program opened with a welcome choral recitative and song by the primary intermediate room. The "Sleeping Beauty" and "Little Fir Tree" were presented by the primary class.

The intermediate grades presented "Waiting for the Christmas Special" followed by the senior grades in three side-splitting numbers entitled "Station BUNK," a radio number; "A Practical Joke" and "Bringing Up Junior."

The program was thoroughly enjoyed by everyone.

Santa Claus in the person of Fred Sprecklin, was enthusiastically welcomed by the youngsters and pandemonium ensued.
