Draw Horses in Big Sweepstake

VANCOUVER — Three British Columbians are known to have drawn horses in the Irish Hospital's sweepstake on the Grand National Steeplechase at Aintree this Saturday.

Norman Smith of Victoria has drawn the horse Chagrin, 8 to 1 shot. Should Chagrin win, Smith would take a prize of $140,000.

Alice Ettinger of Lulu Island has drawn Gay Heath and J. W. Lorimer of Vancouver, Queen of the Day.

Co-Insurance Is Effective

Beginning April 1, all new admittances to British Columbia hospitals are liable for co-insurance payment. In Prince Rupert such a charge will be $2 a day for the first 10 days.

D. C. Stevenson, administrator of Prince Rupert General Hospital, said to date one patient had come under the new ruling. Upon discharge, payment for each day spent in hospital—up to 10—is required. A special receipt is then given patients which they will be asked to produce upon re-entry to any hospital in B.C.

If a patient has paid co-insurance but cannot produce a receipt, an affidavit will have to be sworn to, stating days paid for and where.

Patients admitted to hospital prior to April 1, regardless of when they are discharged, are not liable for co-insurance, Mr. Stevenson said.

New premium rates also go in effect April 1, with first increased payroll deductions this month.

Shortage Of Labor

VANCOUVER (CP) — Labor shortages are developing in at least five major industries in British Columbia, a senior government employment officer said today.

Milton A. Hamby, manager for the Unemployment Insurance Commission in New Westminster and the Lower Fraser Valley, said there were "definite indications of general shortages." He predicted serious shortages of skilled workers for construction, logging, mining and millwork and said he looked for "scarities of farm labor of all types."

Students Are Hit by Draft

SASKATOON (CP)—Canadian students at United States universities are having a hard time keeping out of Uncle Sam's army.

The physics department at the University of Saskatchewan has received letters from a number of its graduates now in the United States.

One of them, Al McNamara, wrote that he abandoned his scholarship and went to Ontario to get out of the draft board's clutches.

Information received by the physics department here indicates that Canadian students who are not married face the possibility of induction into the armed forces only if they are in the United States under certain conditions.

Married students are safe, because only single men are being taken at present.

A Canadian on a student visa—which does not allow him to earn money in the United States—is also safe from the draft.

However, most students have to earn some money to help pay their way while on a scholarship and that apparently is where the difficulty starts for Canadians.

In order that a student may work part time to support himself, American consulates will issue a permanent resident visa. And a man permanently residing in the country (according to visa) becomes a target of the draft boards.

BRIDGE COLLAPSE—Here is another striking picture of the recent bridge collapse at Three Rivers, Quebec, which has caused a public scandal.

Tighten up on Citizenship

Skeena Member Warns Parliament Against Witch Hunting

OTTAWA (Special to Daily News)—Amendments to the Canadian Citizenship Act were introduced yesterday for second reading by Hon. W. E. Harris, minister of citizenship and immigration. The new act enlarges the provisions under which Canadian citizenship can be revoked, particularly in cases where a naturalized citizen has returned to his country of origin or has been convicted of an offence involving disloyalty.

Speeches supporting the bill and condemning pro-communist activity were made by Liberals and Conservatives and members of the CCF.

APPLEWHITE

Edward T. Applewhite, Liberal, Skeena, spoke in somewhat different vein, stating that he felt any Liberal government must have been reluctant to admit the need for such an act as any Liberal member would be reluctant to admit the need for supporting it. However, communist activity had been such that it was necessary for Canada to take steps to protect herself.

Applewhite stated the principle of the bill is not new but its provisions are becoming broader all the time due to the activities of those commonly described as subversive but for which the Skeena member preferred the word "traitors."

Applewhite outlined the value placed for years upon the status of "British subject," now replaced by "Canadian citizen," and expressed the opinion that, in most cases, naturalized citizens placed as high a value on citizenship as natural-born citizens although he regretted it had not been the Canadian practice sufficiently to emphasize this value at the time of naturalization.

While expressing sympathy with the need and intent of the proposed legislation, Applewhite warned against succumbing to mass fear which might result in a wave of witch hunts. He urged the minister and the government to take every possible precaution against this while "expeditiously and relentlessly proceeding against those who were definitely proved to be traitors."

Admitting that the legislation provides for a hearing in every case before citizenship can be revoked, the Skeena member said he did not wish to see an orgy of such hearings based only on suspicion across the country. He said that he believed and he thought Canada as a whole believed that "it is better that some guilty persons should escape punishment than that one innocent person should suffer for a crime he had not committed." He closed with a plea that the government and Parliament should not make it too easy for anyone's citizenship to be taken from him and he

HONG KONG (CP)—Five Canadian Roman Catholic nuns, arrested in Canton, have now been accused of causing a cholera epidemic in the city in 1938, according to press reports from the South China city of Canton.

Reports said that this charge had been made by 180 members of the Peasants' Association in Shako, a suburb of Canton, who attended a "public accusation meeting."

THE WEATHER

Synopsis

Maximum temperatures both today and Thursday are expected to range from five to ten degrees lower than those reported through the province yesterday.

Witnessed Drownings

Survivors of Barclay Sound Tell Story of Tragedy

Shipmates of the fish seiner Barclay Sound watched as two of the crew members perished before their eyes in breakers off Rose Spit, of Graham Island, Sunday afternoon.

The body of a Vancouver man, 23-year-old George Soutar, was found the same evening by RCMP, and was brought to Prince Rupert yesterday afternoon by the Barclay Sound whose surviving crew members gave the first hand story of the tragedy.

John Jolliffe, 41, of Alert Bay, owner of the 64-foot Barclay Sound, was the second drowning victim, but his body has not yet been found. Mrs. Leo Micholuk of Prince Rupert, is a niece of Jolliffe.

"We warned them not to go ashore," said the 21-year-old captain of the boat, Raymond H. Johnson of Vancouver.

At the time of the accident the Barclay Sound was anchored off Rose Spit in about five fathoms of water.

"If we had gone in with the boat we all would have gone," said Capt. Johnson, who said that the seiner should not have been as close to shore as it was.

It was Johnson's first trip as skipper with the seiner. He said that they had been dragging for sole and were getting ready to take shelter for the night. They were fishing for B.C. Packers.

As soon as the row-boat capsized the men radio-phonied through to Digby, in order to reach Masset, which caused some delay to make connections, the skipper said.

The Barclay Sound with two remaining crew members brought Soutar's body to Prince Rupert at 5 o'clock last night, it will be sent to Vancouver by the B.C. Undertakers here.

The owner of the boat and John Jolliffe leaves a widow at Alert Bay.

Jolliffe was rowing the boat at the time of the accident.

"We told them not to go ashore, Jack only laughed. They had the rifle along and were going to do some hunting they told us," said R. I. Fuerst, 22, of Vancouver who was the fourth member of the crew. He explained that they had already stocked up with supplies at Prince Rupert the week before.

"Although there were only swells where we were anchored, the breakers must have been 20 feet high when they filled the clinker boat about half a mile from us," said Fuerst, who was watching from the top of the pilot house with glasses.

"I only heard one cry from the men," he added.

"We called on the Violet P. which came alongside, but they couldn't do anything either," the skipper said.

They watched the breakers, a wall of water and surf throw the men and boat upon the shore.

Playing to Communists

TORONTO (CP)—Solon Low, National Social Credit leader, said last night that the Liberal government's economic policies are playing right into the hands of the Communists.

"It is perfectly clear that the Liberal government's anti-inflationary policy is a failure," Low said.

This was what the Communists wanted because they knew that inflation would sap the strength of democratic economies and undermine them to a point where they could be "easy pickings" for Russia's military might.

United Nations Still Move North of 38th

TOKYO (CP)—An Allied task force drove four miles north of the Korean border today against heavy Communist resistance. A field dispatch said the task force met heavy Red mortar fire and some artillery fire near Topyong, four miles north of the border on the western front. However, it drove ahead.

Another Allied force nearby punched two miles into Red Korea in the Yoppyong area.

Earlier reports said that an American patrol had crossed the 38th parallel on the central front and routed the Chinese Reds from two hills. The patrol was probing outer areas of the huge Red build-up where almost 600,000 Communist troops are massed for an expected Red offensive.

A Reuters News Agency dispatch from the front indicated that the Communists were offering the stiffest resistance since the start of the current United Nations offensive. The Reds are making a serious effort to stem the Allied push across the 38th parallel, Reuters added.

Ernest Unwin Passes Away

Prince Rupert lost another of its esteemed pioneer citizens at 7:15 this morning when death came to Ernest Unwin at the Prince Rupert General Hospital. A week ago Sunday, Mr. Unwin sustained serious injuries in a fall at the Canadian Pacific Railway wharf. Since then he had been in a critical condition.

Born in Stratford, Essex, England, seventy-five years ago (August 1, 1875), Mr. Unwin learned the accounting business in London and in 1911 he came to Canada. Joining the service of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway in Winnipeg, he was assigned to the west and became a time-keeper in the Port George area, gradually working through to Prince Rupert as railway construction proceeded. He had lived here ever since. For a while he was in the service of the city treasurer's department but for many years he had engaged in private accounting.

Mr. Unwin was a faithful member of St. Andrew's Anglican Cathedral and an active church worker. He also took a keen interest in Masonic affairs as a member of Tsimpsen Lodge. In the early days he was a member of the Sons of England Lodge.

Deceased was unmarried. Surviving are a sister, Mrs. Jessie Jacobs of Vancouver, who was called here a few days ago, and a brother, John E. Unwin, formerly of Prince Rupert and now of Vancouver.

The remains will be taken tomorrow night by the sister to Vancouver for interment.

Articles Found; Man Arrested

With the arrest of Donald Auger, 25, at his residence on Ninth Avenue West, last evening, police believed today that they had taken a step toward the clearing up of the mystery of a number of articles which have become missing during the past couple of months.

In Auger's residence a police search found several articles. Other articles were found in a cabin on Wantage Road, movements about which had led to information being given the police.

Auger appeared in city police court this morning on a charge of retaining a stolen bicycle and was remanded for eight days.

VANCOUVER (CP)—Nanaimo Clippers ganged up on Edmonton Mercurys last night and walloped them 6 to 0.

The win put the Clippers only a game away from the Western Canada Allan Cup hockey final against Fort Frances Canadiens.

They now have a 2 to 1 edge in the best of a five-game semi-final series.

A win on home ice Thursday night is all the Clippers need now.

First-aid arrangements meeting specific standards are compulsory in all factories in Britain.

Shortages Coming up

OTTAWA (CP) — The Trade Department said yesterday that prospective Canadian home owners will have trouble building new houses in 1951.

Shortages are likely for such essential home-building items as copper tubing, steel pipe and fittings, hot water storage tanks and wire nails and spikes.

The department outlined prospects for building materials in a white paper tabled in the House of Commons by George McRath, Parliamentary assistant to Minister of Trade Howe.

"Full realization of 1951 construction intentions is likely to be hampered by shortages of key building materials," said the report.

"The average house will probably take longer to build and the completion of other capital projects may be delayed."

Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Moore arrived here from Vancouver on the Prince Rupert today. Mr. Moore who is the bookkeeper during the fishing season for the Canadian Fishing Company on Porcher Island, arrived here with other cannery workmen, including Mr. Ross, the net foreman. They will continue to the Humpback Bay Cannery.

Clean-Up, Paint-Up

SPRING is here and it is time to think of cleaning and painting up. Certainly Prince Rupert is in need of a freshening up which goes for most everybody not excepting the Daily News office. We once called Prince Rupert the Garden City of the North and, indeed, there was a time when it was quite beautiful. Whether or not it still rates honors along that line is something that is to be questioned. Of course, the picture may be a little prettier a few weeks hence when nature begins to work her wonders of helping to cover up the ugly spots.

We can proclaim Prince Rupert's beauties and opportunities to great length but our most enthusiastic boosting loses most of its punch if dingy premises, unkempt yards, debris-cluttered vacant lots, broken-down streets and dilapidated sidewalks are prominently in the view of visitors.

This is the time for city, public service bodies and citizens generally to get busy with a "clean-up paint-up" campaign. It's good economy and pays dividends not only in the impression that will be conveyed on our visitors of the season but the results also have a wonderful psychological effect upon local citizens that comes from pleasant surroundings and justifiable civic pride therein.

Democratic Freedom

A GREAT FEATURE of our democratic way of life—a feature that distinguishes it from the communist way of life—is our freedom of speech and of search, our freedom to say and write what we will and read and listen to what we will about anything and everything in this country and in every other country.

We do not always appreciate the significance of the fact that fifty million newspapers are distributed every day on this North American continent, that fifty million people every day listen to radio broadcasts, that countless millions of people attend the movies and that at least as many read books and magazine articles of every shade of opinion on every imaginable subject, and that countless millions of discussions on every subject under the sun are held in countless millions of living-rooms, clubs and restaurants every day of the year.

In short, under our democratic way of life, the mind of every man and woman in the nation is given the freest possible access to all knowledge and to all opinion. Under our democratic way of life there is in the minds of every man and woman of the nation a capacity to weigh facts and arguments and come to individual decisions on them. Indeed, that is democracy: a system of government under which an informed people govern themselves.

Our democratic way of life lays supreme emphasis on the individual man. His development determines the national growth. And so every individual in a democracy is invited to think for himself and to try things out for himself. He is encouraged to experiment and adventure.

It is thus the duty of democratic governments to encourage the critical capacity, the questioning mind, the individual effort of every thoughtful and ambitious citizen. No tyrant can rule us as long as we have free access to all knowledge and to all opinion, as long as we can speak and act freely in accordance with our individual decisions. For thus is our freedom secured.

Kenney's New Hospital Plan

Urges Modification Of Premiums

VICTORIA—A new idea for hospital insurance was presented to the Legislature by a member of the Cabinet.

Lands and Forests Minister E. T. Kenney suggested that a select House committee be named to study H.I.S. in the coming year, might investigate the attitude of the people towards an alternative system of premium coverage.

Instead of all people paying the full premium for full coverage, the lower income groups might be given the opportunity to pay a lower premium which would provide only bed care in hospitals.

"We might then have more people taking part in hospital insurance," he said.

Mr. Kenney had no apologies to make for the action the government has taken in raising premiums and introducing co-insurance.

"We've brought it right out in the open and have not tried to hide anything and I think you will find that time will justify our action," he said.

Quebec Clears Out Its Slums

By BERNARD DUFRESNE

Canadian Press Staff Writer

QUEBEC—An unsightly slum settlement is being cleared away from the historic plains of Abraham. With it will go a pronounced limp in the best-foot-forward tradition of tourist-conscious Quebec.

The ramshackle settlement of former army barracks for six years has been a problem for city authorities puzzled about what to do with its more than 1,000 dwellers.

Located practically in the backyard of Upper Town, Quebec's posh residential district, "Flea Town" attracted as much tourist attention as the provincial legislature buildings, the citadel, the armories and other choice points of interest.

Few people strolling on the plains near the citadel—old British fortress—escaped gangs of ragged children from the cave fields begging for pennies to spend at one of the settlement's two stores.

Like the weather, everybody talked about the Cove Field huts but nobody did anything about them until a special housing committee recently hit on a plan to find new homes for the slum's 130 families.

The housing committee includes representatives of the Chamber of Commerce, the Catholic Federated Charities, City Hall, and service clubs.

The committee now plans to tear down the huts and put up elsewhere in the city about 30 four- or five-room cottages with the material that can be used.

ON INSTALMENT PLAN

The new cottages, costing less than $1,800 each, will be sold to evicted families on a low monthly instalment plan. Meanwhile, the committee is trying to find low-rent houses for other Cove Field families.

The rehabilitation plan follows a federal government eviction order designed to return the slum area that blocks off one end of the Plains to the National Parks and Historic Sites Commission.

The eviction order, postponed from year to year since 1945 at the city's request, now goes into effect May 1.

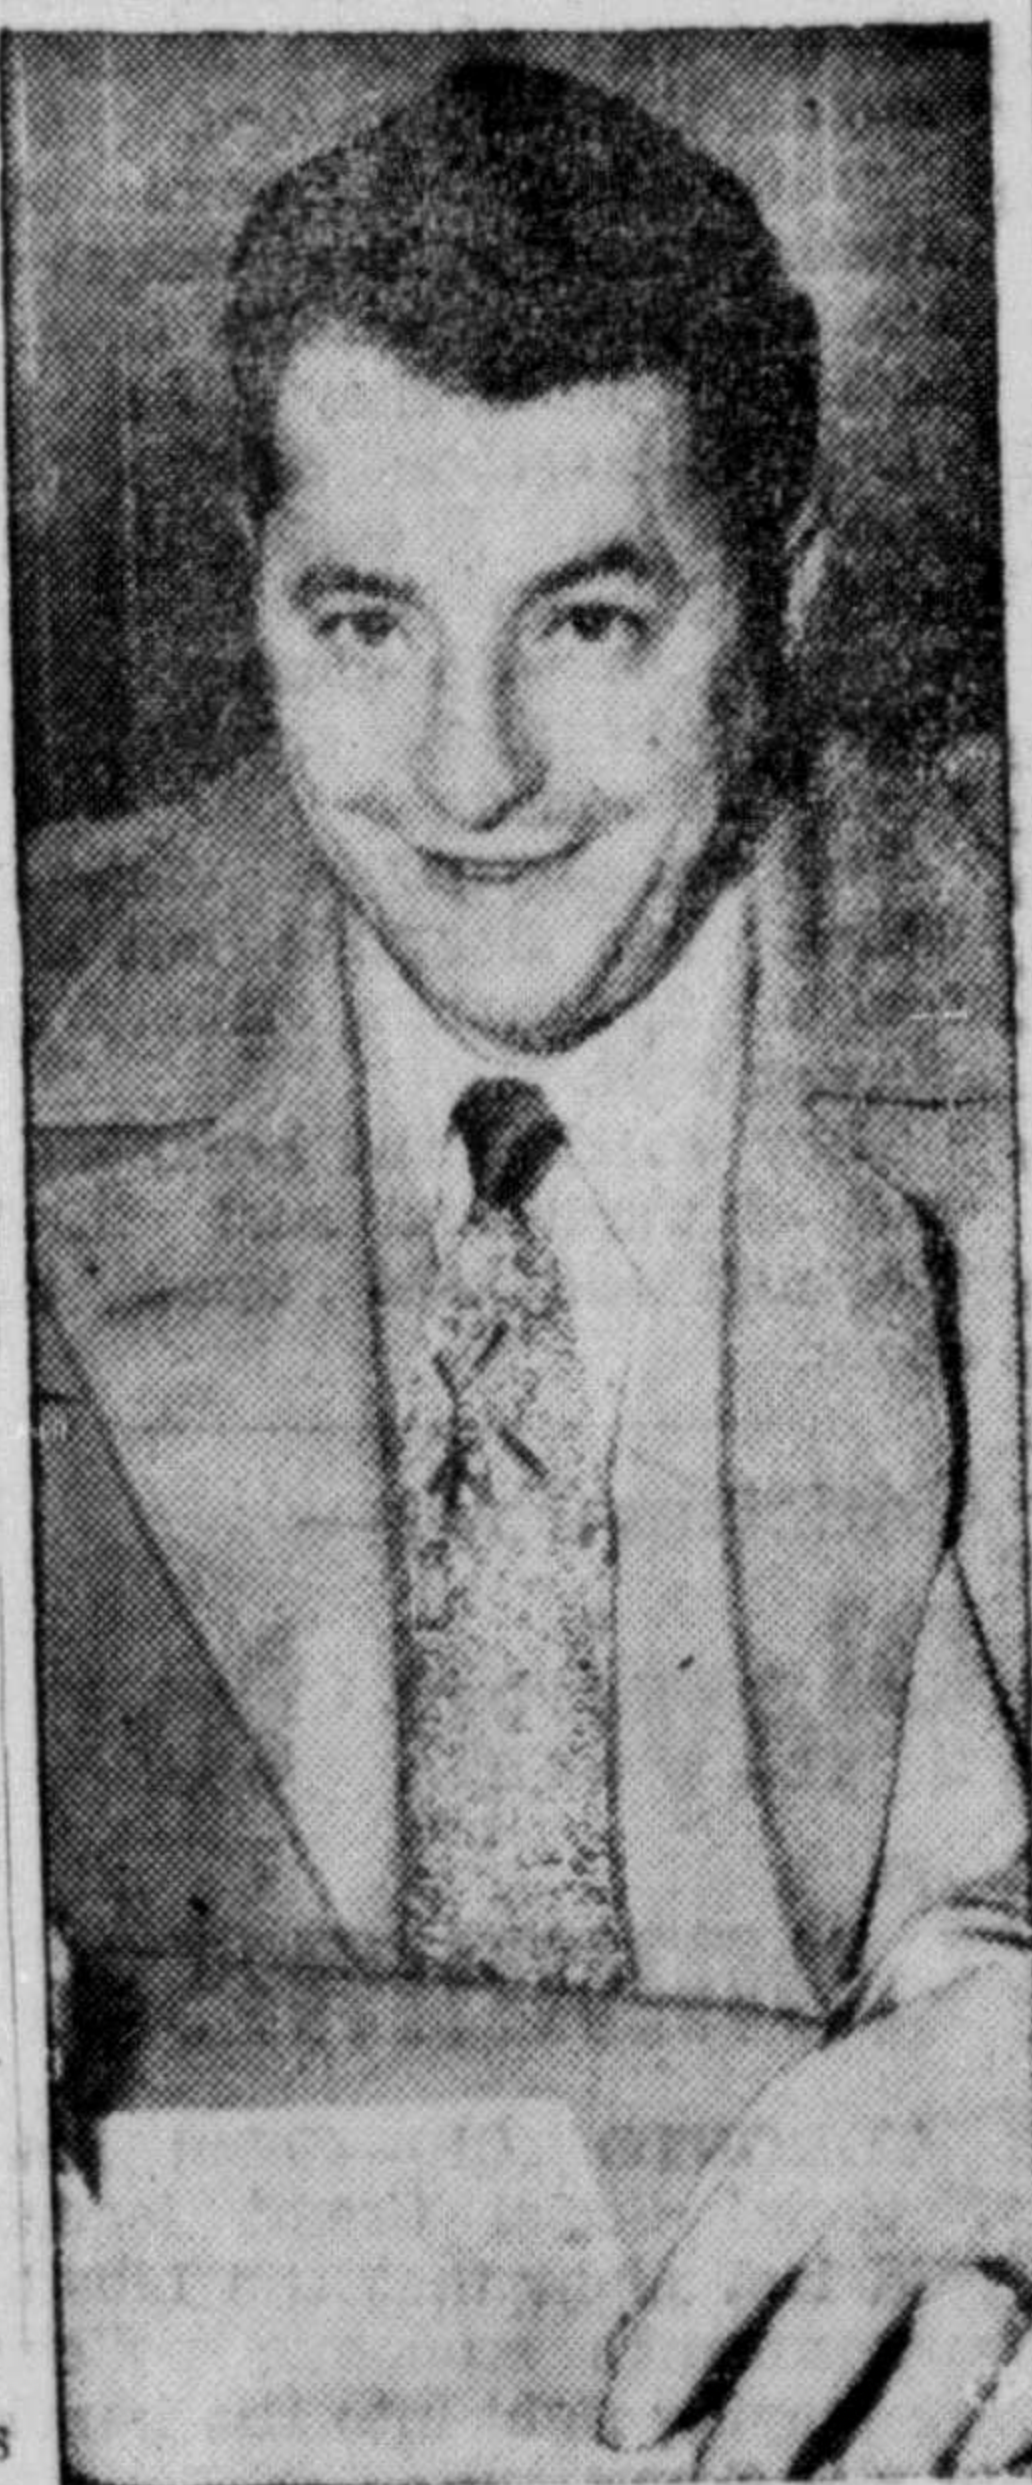

The Cove Fields settlement, outcome of postwar housing shortage and rising rents, saw as many as 16 persons jammed into five small rooms into which the barracks buildings were divided.

The apartments, described by authorities as "incredibly filthy, unheatable in the winter and like furnaces in the summer," were rented by the city for $5 weekly.

Mayor Lucien Borne once said the slum cost the city about $40,000 a year for services like a school, public health nursing, electricity and fuel.

Police who assigned three constables to a patrol of the area 24 hours a day, reported frequent family quarrels but a low crime rate.

The Cove Fielders had their own "council." It met mostly to ask Quebec city council for free rents and other special benefits.

Carson Oil Plant Changes Hands—$150,000 is Being Spent on Reconstruction

Construction of an estimated $150,000 fresh fish and liver processing plant has been started on the waterfront by Royal Fish Company, Manager A. I. Fletcher said today. Western Chemical Industries Ltd. are part owners of the plant.

Although plans for the installation have not yet been completed, it is expected the plant will be reducing all types of fish livers to vitamin oils and will also have facilities for holding fresh fish.

Mr. Fletcher expects there will be year-round employment for six or seven men and for about 25 when operation is at its peak.

Property was purchased from Shellfish Packing Co. (J. H. Carson Co. Ltd.), who operated a similar plant some time ago.

An extension of wharfage on the company waterfrontage also will be started on this week.

HALIFAX (CP)—E. S. Campbell, Nova Scotia vehicles registrar, said here there are nearly 130,000 drivers in the province "and we are well on the way to hitting the 100,000 mark in the number of vehicles." This year is expected to see a big increase over last year when 17,000 new cars and 16,500 new drivers were registered.

Atlin Gold Mine Active

Names outstanding in Canadian mining history are associated in a project designed to carry to production the Atlin-Ruffner mine in British Columbia's extreme northwest corner.

Robert Jackson (Bob) Jowsey, noted mine developer of Toronto, and associates have completed an underwriting and option agreement with Crang Securities Ltd. of that city placing $125,000 in the treasury at once with a further $287,500 to accrue as options are taken up over the next two years.

Bob Jowsey is president and Oscar F. Lundell, Vancouver, vice-president of Atlin-Ruffner Mines (B.C.) Ltd. Mr. Jowsey is head of Bobjo Mines Ltd., which has more than a million dollars invested in Canadian mines. Others on the board are H. R. Drummond-Hay, Winnipeg barrister who is a director of Sherit-Gordon and other companies; Maurice Crabtree, Toronto barrister, and H. T. Hurley, secretary-treasurer of Bobjo Mines.

The Atlin-Ruffner property is reached by a good road 14 miles in length from the town of Atlin.

Dr. Victor Dolmage, consulting geologist, has advised the company that the claims contain deposits carrying silver, lead, gold, zinc, and copper, in order of importance. Confined to two well defined and clearly marked structures, the ore is comparatively easily found. He reported that all known commercial ore is confined to a shallow depth of not more than 100 feet, but that the ore in this zone is high grade. The two principal ore bearing structures are wide and have a combined known length of 8800 feet, of which not more than 10% has been prospected.

The geologist stated that there was a possibility of finding a substantial tonnage of high grade ore by shallow prospecting along the two main structures. Because the overburden was light and there were no trees or roots, prospecting could be done cheaply by use of a bulldozer. Dr. Dolmage recommended that all available high grade ore be mined and shipped, that surface prospecting be extended over the full length of the two main structures and that any ore lenses so found be mined and the ore shipped. While mining this shallow rich ore, he said a limited amount of testing should be done to make certain that no bodies of deep, low grade ore were overlooked.

Lady Fletcher Visitor Here

Lady Fletcher, world traveller and student of international affairs, who is on a tour of Canada addressing Women's Canadian Clubs, is in Prince Rupert today to address the local club this afternoon. She visited East Africa not long ago and her subject is "Strains and Stresses in East Africa".

Lady Fletcher arrived in the city on the Prince Rupert this morning from Vancouver and was entertained at luncheon today by Mrs. G. E. H. Montgomery and Mrs. W. A. McLean. This evening she will have dinner with the executive of the Women's Canadian Club and will proceed to Edmonton by train.

To Revisit City After Many Years

Leroy F. Grant, field secretary of the Engineering Institute of Canada, will be a visitor in the city on Friday of this week to meet local members of the Institute. In connection with his visit, a dinner will be held Friday evening at the Canadian Legion.

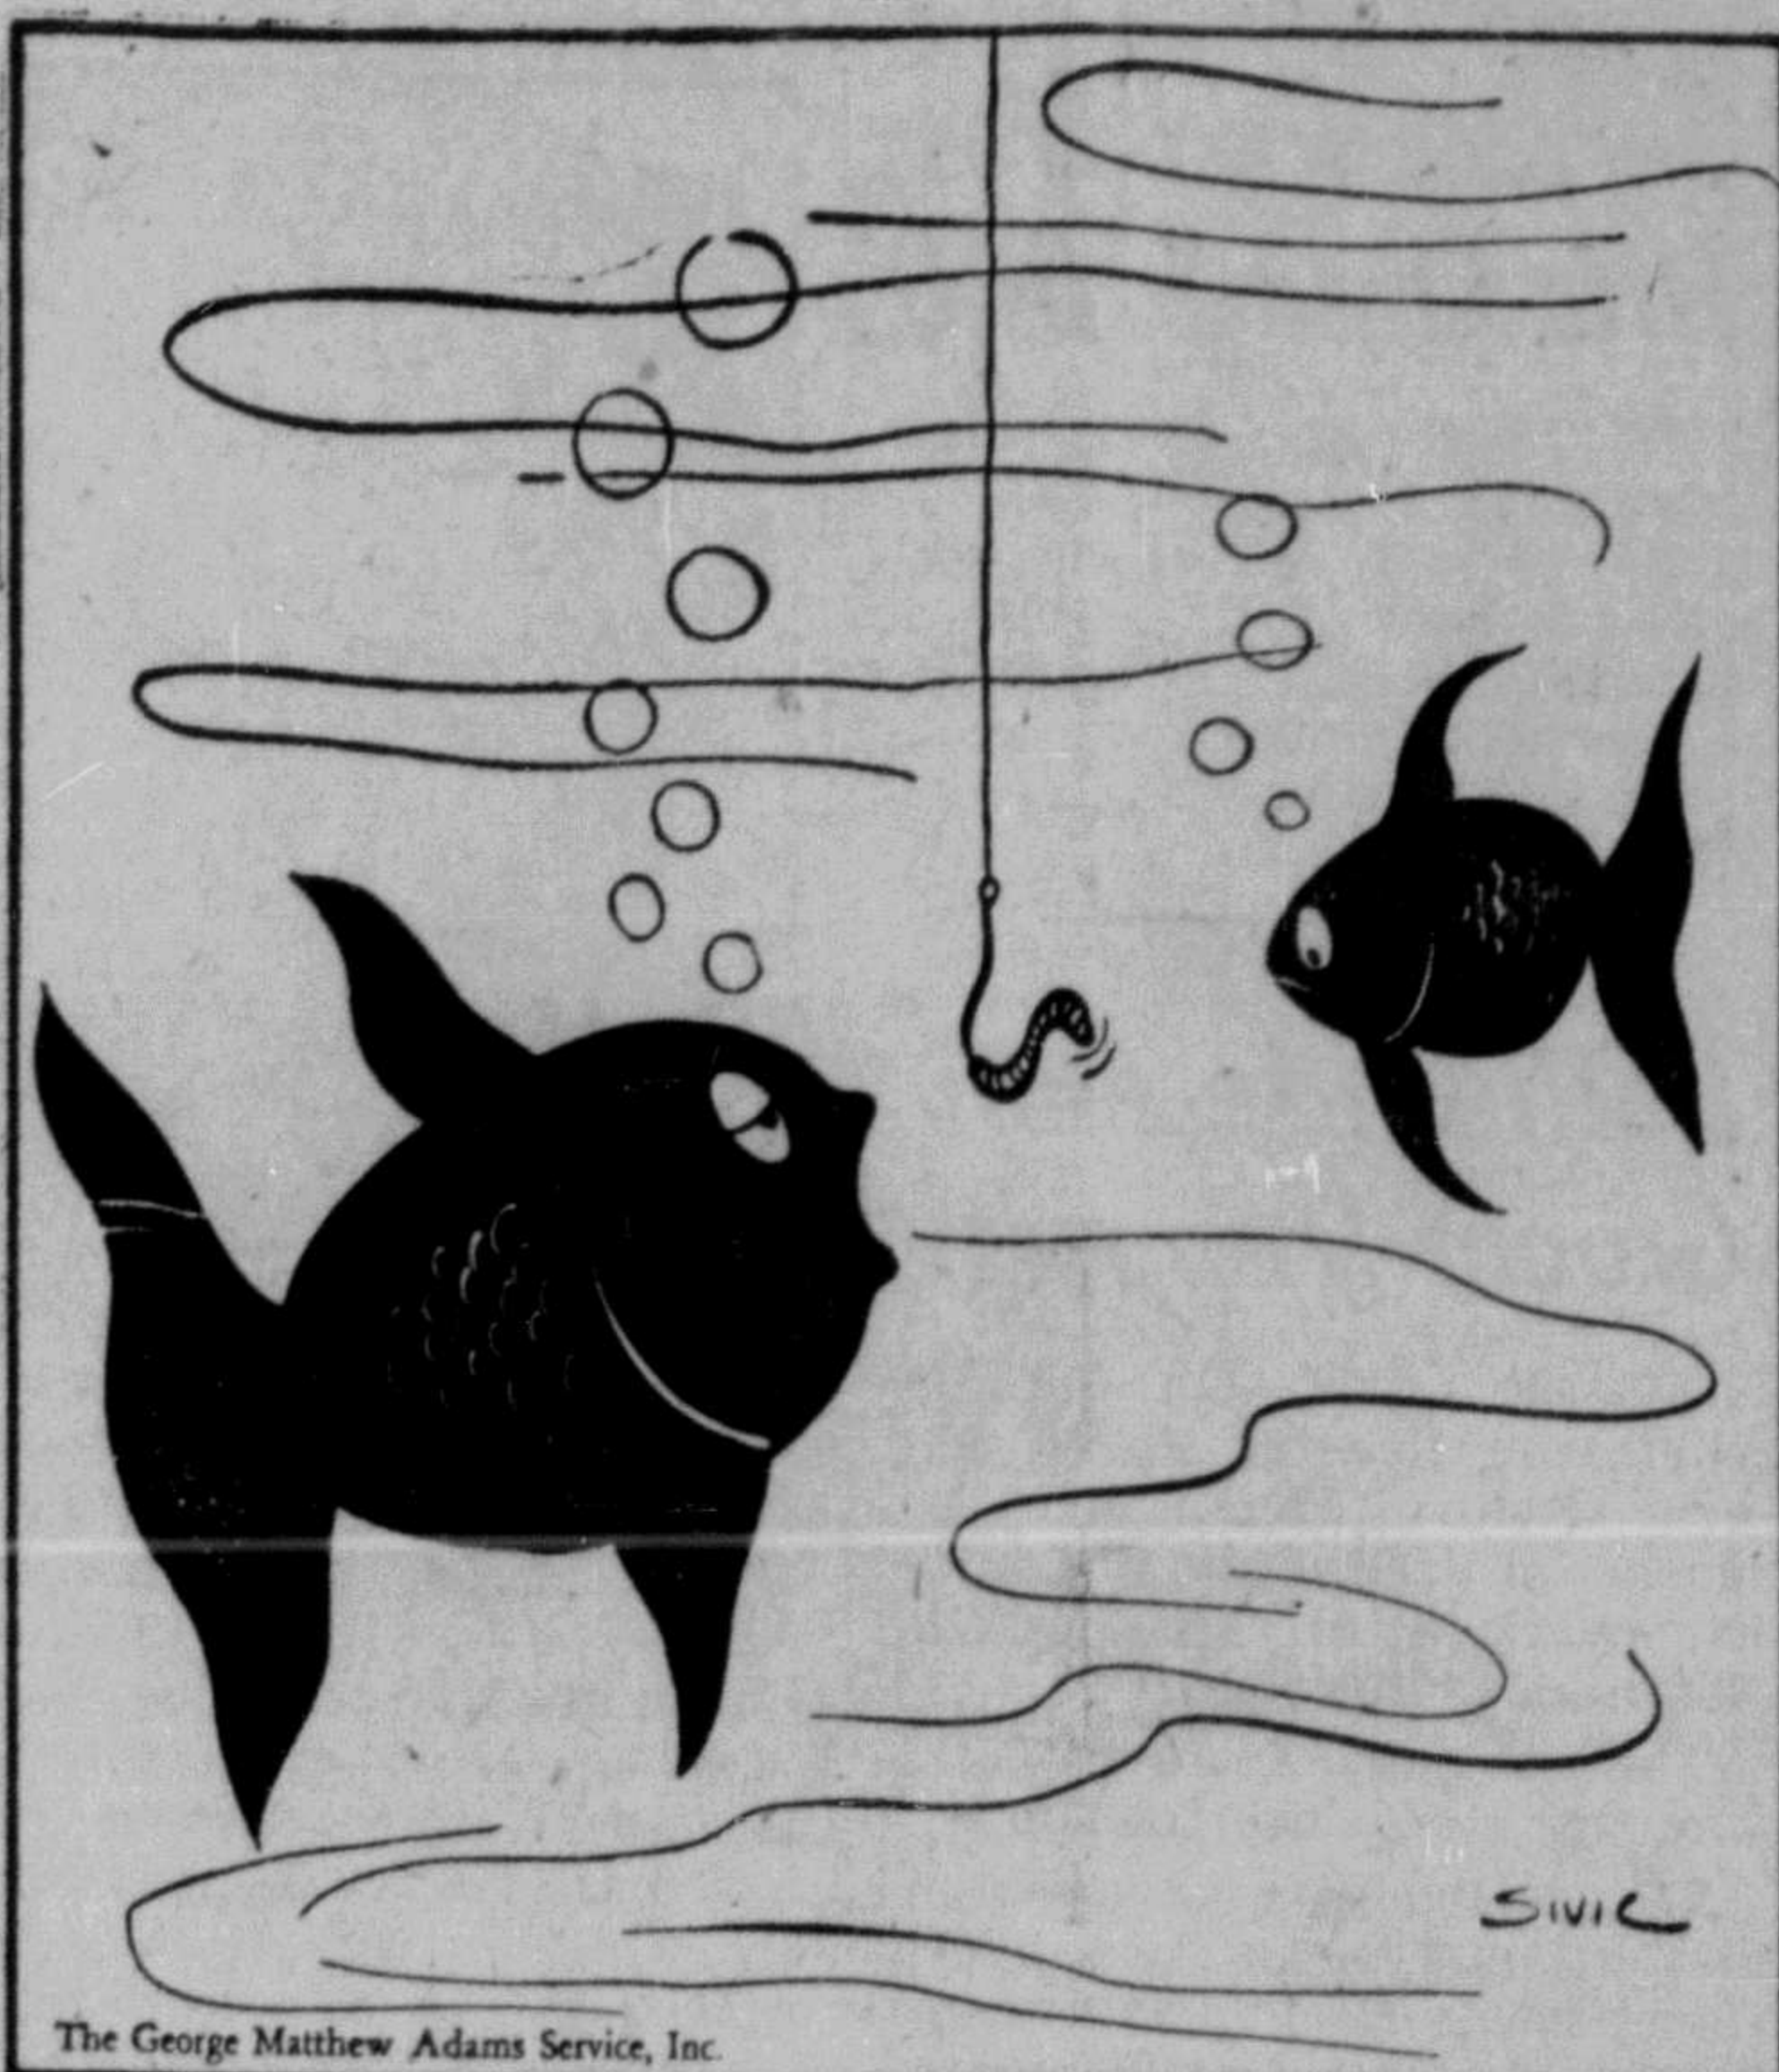

Visit here of Mr. Grant is of particular local interest. In the very early days he was one of the original townsite engineers, having been identified with such pioneers as J. Fred Ritchie, A. W. Agnew, J. H. Pillsbury and others.

Drowned Man's Niece in City

John Jolliffe, one of the victims of the drowning tragedy Sunday from the seinboat Barclay Sound off Rose Spit, Queen Charlotte Islands, was the uncle of Mrs. Leo Micholuk of Prince Rupert. He had been here last week while the Barclay Sound, which he owned, was storm-bound in port, since leaving for her fish dragging operations in Hecate Straits which culminated in tragedy.

Mr. Jolliffe, who was 41 years of age and born on Humberston Island near Alert Bay, was a married man and his wife has been holidaying recently in Vancouver. Deceased has three brothers—Alfred, George and Fred Jolliffe, all of Alert Bay, and one sister, Mrs. Thomas Johnson of Vancouver.

Jolliffe's body has not yet been found.

Art Club to Enjoy Treat

A special treat is on the program of this week's Art Club meeting at the Civic Centre. Forty linocut prints to be shown at the Art Exhibition in the small gym on April 26 to 28 have arrived and will be shown on Thursday night. These prints are large, attractive, very modern, with a splendid sense of design, color and movement. They have been exhibited in Britain, Prague, Vienna, Bucharest, South Africa, Australia, China and the States and prints have been purchased by many Public Museums and Art Galleries for their permanent collections. It is easy to understand why when one sees them.

It is certainly an unusual display to find in Prince Rupert.

Japanese Display Creates Interest

Display of colorful Japanese kimonos in the natural silk and of design and workmanship which is said to be dying out is attracting interest in the show window of the People's Store. One kimono, particularly, is declared to be a priceless heirloom.

The costumes were worn at a Japanese folk dancing display a few days ago at Port Edward in aid of the Red Cross, the show to be repeated here this Saturday under Job's Daughters auspices.

Mrs. Tanaka came in from Port Edward yesterday to direct the arrangement of the display which has a setting of orange blossoms and gay parasols. Joe Kameda and other Japanese ladies besides Mrs. Tanaka were also here.

Mrs. Sybil Andrews sent them free of charge from Campbell River, where she lives at present, merely to help create more interest in art and to show what is being done at the present day. After the display here the prints will be sent on to Smithers, Prince George and Quesnel.

Art Club members will review before Thursday night the last two lessons in their Art Appreciation book as well as reading the next chapter. Every one of the prints illustrate one or more of the points brought out in the last two discussions and, if all are familiar with the subject matter, it will be easier to discuss and evaluate the prints.

After a week's visit with friends in the city, Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Assu returned to Campbell River yesterday on the Camosun. While here they stayed with Mrs. Assu's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ambrose Robinson.

Science against pain

Science progresses: For 50 years we have used little white tablets—acetylsalicylic acid—for the relief of pain. Today this familiar pain-killer is available in a new form without the disadvantage of insolubility, acidity and bitter taste. It is called DISPRIN.

Why take DISPRIN?

Because DISPRIN is soluble and substantially neutral. When taken in water as recommended, it enters the stomach as a true solution and not as undissolved particles. It is therefore less liable to cause stomach discomfort.

DISPRIN is readily absorbed. Because it definitely dissolves (not merely disintegrates) it permits speedy absorption and gives quicker relief.

DISPRIN is palatable. Even children will take it readily.

A reception was held in the parlor of the Tweedsmuir Hotel and the happy couple will spend their honeymoon on their trap lines. Both bride and groom are active in trapping.

Nurse Covers 1600 Miles

By LOUIS L. LECK
Canadian Press Correspondent

BROKEN HILL, Australia (CP).—Sister Myra Blanch is the only nursing sister attached to Australia's Flying Doctor Service and her "round" is often 1600 miles and takes three to five weeks to cover.

When she sets out from her base in this western New South Wales mining town she packs into her utility truck: medical kit, canned food, 40 gallons of gasoline, a portable radio transmitter and truck repair equipment.

As assistant to the medical officer of the Broken Hill area, Dr. John Tillet, her main duty is to care for the general health of women and children in wild, bush country.

"And this does not mean only nursing, but also being able to deal with problems such as those that occur when a mother must be taken to hospital and leave a young family behind," she says.

"Being able to care for sick people is only one of the few requirements of a bush nurse." In spite of the fact that she is a member of the "flying" service, she does most of her travelling by road, as the country is often too rough to enable a plane to land safely.

She always travels alone, often through long stretches of sparsely populated country, but she has no fear.

"If the truck breaks down I have only to wireless back to the base and they will send help," she says. "And I can always sleep in the truck until help comes."

Sister Blanch was an army nurse in the Second World War and served in the Solomon Islands and Bougainville.

TERRACE TOPICS

Mr. and Mrs. A. Cote were in Prince Rupert last week with their daughter, Irene, who had surgical treatment at the General Hospital there.

Charles de Kergomarcq left on Tuesday's train for the south after having spent the week-end with his mother, Mrs. Newhouse.

Word was received on Monday afternoon that Mrs. Robert Corlett entered hospital in Vancouver that afternoon, suffering from a broken shoulder-bone incurred when she tripped and fell on the street car tracks. She and her brother, W. Donald, were to leave Vancouver on Monday's boat after a three-weeks holiday in the south. Mr. Donald will not be returning for another week.

Mrs. Murray Warner left on Saturday morning's train for Edmonton where she will join her husband who left Terrace two or three weeks ago to work there.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Sande left on Monday for Prince Rupert where they planned for the south.

Harold Smith has announced the sale of his transfer business to Stan Smith and Tom Julseth who took over on Monday and who will have their office in the same building as before.

Prince Rupert Boys Accepted For Golden Gloves Tourney

Prince Rupert will be represented with contenders in the Golden Gloves boxing tournament who are bucking down in their training in the Civic Centre for the next two weeks and are sure they will make "at least a good showing" in Vancouver. Tournament will be held at the Forum, Vancouver, April 20-21.

Without benefit of a club or membership in an amateur association, four young pugilists have disciplined themselves into training for the past three years under Manager Joe Ward. Now they have been accepted in the race which is the dream of every amateur—the Golden Gloves.

THE SELECTIONS

The boxers are:
Glenn Carlson, 20, 195 pounds, heavyweight; Charley Place, 19, 135 pounds, lightweight; Billy Morrison, 16, 160 pounds, middleweight, and Andy Marshall, 25, 170 pounds, light-heavyweight.

"These boys have been great in their perseverance," said Manager Ward. "Through all these years they have stuck to it, training fairly regular and only getting a few bouts once in a while. Now that they've got a chance to get in big time amateur, they are really in there punching."

And punching it is when big "Tiny" Carlson throws his weight behind a solid left to the heavy bag which he manhandles like a bag of feathers. Tiny's big problem is to find a sparring partner. Nobody wants to risk it, except one of the other three fighters and they go in the ring with a headguard on when jousting around with Tiny.

Billy Morrison is only 16 and, if he's a kid, he's a big strong kid. And it will take some crowding to lay a glove on Billy. He's fast and he's dangerous in the in-fighting. Last night 25-year-old Andy Marshall, 10 pounds heavier and much more ring-wise than Billy, had his hands full several times in their three-round sparring tussle.

Charlie Place has had several fights—about eight, he says—and some with former Golden Gloves contenders.

"And he could take them all," the manager said, tussling the curly hair of the lightweight.

Because this boxing team has no club or association to back it, half the trip expenses will

Gardening....

HELP GARDEN SEEDLINGS TO BREAK THROUGH SOIL

Seeds sown in the open garden encounter many dangers. They or their seedling plants may be attacked by insects and diseases, drowned by floods, eaten by birds, injured by animals, or buried alive by a crust which forms on the soil through which they cannot penetrate.

By dusting the seed with a disinfectant, the moulds and fungi which cause disease may be prevented; and this is especially advisable in sowing early when the ground is cold. If there is any suspicion that the soil may crust above the seeds, it will be wise to use a special soil to cover them.

If your garden contains clay, a hard rain may compact it sufficiently to imprison the seed. The tiny sprout often faces an impossible task in attempting to break its way to the sunshine.

THE PRINCE RUPERT CLUB LIMITED
(By Arthur Bruce Brown Secretary) (80)

The illustration shows two bean seedlings, one of the varieties most likely to suffer from crusty soil. The bean seed swells with moisture, and a sprout emerges which pushes the seed itself twice as large as when planted through the soil surface. This takes enormous power, and it is no wonder that a compacted or crusty soil may prevent it.

If you have a compost pile, there is no better way than you can use the humus from it than in preparing a special soil with which to cover seed. This should be mixed with sand, half and half. In addition to making sure that the seed sprouts will be able to emerge, this loose soil will hold moisture and keep the soil beneath it from drying out. It is therefore especially desirable in hot weather.

Most stores dealing in garden supplies carry modern seed disinfectant which can be used in either liquid or powder form. There is no danger to the seed in using these materials provided the simple directions furnished with them are followed, precisely. Never use any disinfectant in greater strength than recommended. It is remarkable what a small amount will do.

In today's hand Mr. Dale opened the queen of spades which Mr. Abel won in his own hand with the king. He looked things over and saw that he had eight tricks in top cards—two spades, two clubs, three diamonds and one heart. He decided the heart suit offered the best chance for the ninth trick.

The plan Mr. Abel had in mind was to lead a low heart and put the nine in from dummy if Mr. Dale played low—hoping Mr. Dale would have the ten and one of the other two outstanding honors. If that were the case, the nine would force the play of Mr. Masters' honor and the ace-jack of hearts in dummy would then form a perfect ten-ace over Mr. Dale's holding.

So at trick two Mr. Abel led the deuce of hearts. Mr. Dale had his play all ready. In fact he had it planned from the moment the dummy went down on the table. He promptly played the queen of hearts.

Mr. Dale had anticipated a natural triple finesse of the nine of hearts. He had the ten himself, so he knew that the finesse would work. He hoped to induce Mr. Abel to believe he was splitting his honors; that is, playing the queen from a holding of king-queen.

That is exactly what Mr. Abel did think. He won with the ace of hearts in dummy, returned to his hand with the ace of diamonds and led the five of hearts. Mr. Dale played the four and the jack was put up in dummy.

Mr. Masters won with the king and led back a spade. Mr. Dale's ten spot was permitted to win and another spade knocked out the ace, dummy's last entry.

Eventually Mr. Dale won another heart trick with his ten, plus a spade and a club to defeat the contract. Mr. Abel had won just a single trick in the heart suit instead of the three he would have won if Mr. Dale had wondrously played the four spot on the first heart lead.

The Traffic Cop

Now that the holidays are over and children are back at school police are cautioning motorists to "take it easy" in driving through school zones. Fifteen miles-per-hour is the speed limit. The school patrol tries to protect the lives of children. Motorists can help by obeying their stop and go commands.

For the children police have a special warning. They should not walk on the road where there is a sidewalk. And where there is no sidewalk, pedestrians should keep to the left of the street, facing oncoming traffic.

When necessary to cross streets, pedestrians should do so only at intersections and in the school zone if possible.

Two riding a bike is illegal. According to the Highway Act such a practice constitutes a hazard and is not allowed. Riding a bicycle on the sidewalk is also unlawful. Parents are asked by police to impress their children with these regulations.

Canteens Luxurious

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP)—Soldiers of other years would be amazed to see the luxurious canteen accommodations enjoyed by the privates at nearby Barrie-field.

In direct contrast to the old canteens with wooden forms and benches, the other ranks of the Royal Canadian Electrical and Mechanical Engineers school have a spic-and-span building featuring two lounges with leather upholstered furniture, a library, fireplace, rugs, billiard tables and elaborate bars.

Maj. G. L. Lodge, school adjutant, is one of the men responsible for the new order. When the old canteen was razed by fire in 1945, the job of supervising the erection and equipment of a new one fell to Maj. Lodge.

He envisioned quarters where the man without a stripe on his sleeve or a pip on his shoulder would be proud to bring his friends, a place where a man could relax and chat in an atmosphere apart from army routine. With the support of the area commander, Brig. Geoffrey Walsh, he gave the men just that.

In the quarters, a soldier can buy anything from a T-bone steak to a pair of shoe-laces at prices that compare favorably with civilian ones. The wet canteen that serves 120 in comfort has refrigerated bar facilities. Tea dances and moving pictures for the soldiers and their friends form part of the program.

The men make themselves responsible for the canteen's care

When an Alice Arm miner lost a keepsake ring—gold filled with valuable stones—he didn't reckon with the traditional honesty of the Union Steamship Lines.

With the off-chance that he might have left his ring on the steamer Camosun this morning, Roy Copley contacted F. J. Skinner, agent of the Union Steamship Ltd. office here.

Soon Copley was wearing his ring again. Lionel Mercier, waiter on the Camosun, had found the ring, turning it over to Chief Steward Norman Davidson.

Two Cases in County Court

Other case which stood over to next court, May 7, is that of Clarence Callow, plaintiff vs. George Ross and Gus Ross, carrying on the business of Ross Bros. Taxi Service.

Naturalization papers were granted to Percy Welter and to Wong Sack Fong, both of Prince Rupert.

Judge W. O. Fulton held the court.

CITIZENSHIP (Continued from page 1)

said for once he could agree with an opinion expressed by Alistair Stewart, CCF, Winnipeg North, who had said that a man's citizenship was the most valuable thing he could have.

THE EFFECTS

Following will be the effects of the new legislation:

1. Citizenship of naturalized citizens who return to their country of origin or former nationality without retaining substantial connection with Canada could be revoked after two years. At present, a six-year period must elapse.

2. Citizenship could be revoked for persons convicted under the Official Secrets Act, as in case of those found guilty in 1946 Soviet spy inquiry. At present, this can be done only on conviction of treason or sedition.

3. Citizenship also could be revoked in case of Canadian citizens by birth or naturalization who formally declare their allegiance to another state without technically acquiring national citizenship of that state.

Book Records Prison Break

Story of Famous War Incident Involving Canadians

By EDWIN S. JOHNSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—On a cold, dreary night in the spring of 1944, more than 200 captive British airmen, including many Canadians, stood poised for a mass break-out from the notorious German prison camp at Sagan, near the Polish frontier.

Of the 76 who got away from Stalag Luft III, as the camp was known, before a sentry sounded the alarm, only three reached the safety of England. The others, singly or in small groups, were recaptured and herded into solitary confinement.

A few days later, however, a shocked world learned that 50 of the officers, among them six Canadians, had been taken from their cells on orders from Hitler and shot in cold blood by Gestapo executioners who took pride and pleasure in their work.

Their bodies were cremated to hide all trace of the murders. To forestall the possibility of British reprisals, the official records in every instance stated that the men had been shot while resisting arrest or attempting further escape.

Nearly four years later, after more than 250,000 Germans had been interrogated, 13 trigger-happy Nazis were convicted and executed for their part in the slayings. Many others drew long prison sentences.

The grim story of the abortive break, its bold, systematic preparation and harrowing setbacks, is told for the first time in graphic detail by Paul Brickhill, Australian author, in his book "The Great Escape" (Faber and Faber).

TOILED MANY MONTHS

The audacious plan, drawn up by an efficient board of strategy, kept the prisoners, sometimes 800-strong, toiling day and night for more than a year on the network of tunnels and other undertakings.

Directing operations as chief tunnelling officer was Wallace C. Floody of St. Catharines, Ont. With him from time to time were more than 100 Canadians, working on three major escape routes, 30 feet below the surface.

Floody, taking his regular turn with the naked tunnellers, burrowing through hundreds of feet of sandy soil, was rescued from death several times after being trapped by cave-ins.

The men went about their task under the noses of the German guards. They built underground workshops, equipped with a makeshift ventilating system and electric lights from stolen wire and current tapped from the camp's power cables, as well as spur tracks for sand-carrying trucks.

In the prison huts above ground shops were set up for mass production of forged passports, leave-of-absence passes and an assortment of maps. There was also a photographic studio, tailor shop, compass factory and a combined intelligence-security organization.

IMPROVISATION

In the battle of wits, the men reached the heights of uncanny improvisation. The air-blowers for the tunnels were made from a pair of kit-bags and tin cans, compasses from moulded gramophone records, needles and broken glass. Solder was obtained from melted joints of bully-beef tins, ink from the lead of indelible pencils, while black shoe polish was used to dye the clothing for the escape.

The airmen also contrived to put together a radio receiver which kept them posted on the daily newscasts from Britain. Much of the material was obtained by bribing guards.

The long-awaited signal for the break-out was finally given on the moonless night of March 24, 1944. The first man out, however, got the shock of his life.

When he broke through to the surface, he found that the exit hole was in the open and only about 15 yards from a towering sentry box. But shielded from view by a pile of felled trees, the 76 laboriously snaked their way into the woods through wet snow and ice before a guard stumbled on the hole and sounded the alarm.

The camp commandant, Col. Von Lindener, was promptly arrested and relieved of his post as a nation-wide alert was broadcast. It was estimated that nearly 5,000,000 Germans had spent some of their time looking for the fugitives.

"Many of them were on the job full time for weeks," the author remarks. "That meant the break was some sort of success, if one could overlook the heavy cost."
