

An independent daily newspaper devoted to the upbuilding of Prince Rupert and Northern and Central British Columbia.

1951-1952

THE PROBLEMS of a troubled world may not be settled by any means as yet. There is still confusion and uncertainty.

As the focal point of the hot war, insofar as it has developed, it has been contained to Korea during the twelvemonth just ending.

There are also still the wars in IndoChina, Malaya, Burma and other lesser theatres in the Far East, the progress and outlook in which are more obscure.

After many anxious months, there are signs of an easing up if not a settlement in the Suez area where Britain and Egypt have come to crisis.

A year ago defence and organization of Europe was only an uncertain plan. Today, there is a great difference with a strong western bulwark now organized and getting stronger every day.

So the international scene may be surveyed more cheerfully. The prospects have veered during the past year more from war to peace and the air is not without signs today that that trend may be continued in the year about to be ushered in.

While common defence of the western world must still be developed and expanded, it could be that we may be able to give more attention during the coming year than we did in the last to matters of domestic concern.

And this is of even greater importance in some of the less favored countries than Canada where the demands of immediate defence have been hampering recovery.

As the New Year dawns, Canada is still a gem among the nations, British Columbia among the provinces and this part of British Columbia the most favored part of the province.

The dawn of the year 1952 finds us having much to be thankful for and much to be hopeful about. All the gloom, all the doubts and all the dangers may not have been dispelled.

If the trend toward better and more secure things that marked 1951 is continued in 1952, and we confidently believe it will, a year from now, with more crises settled and behind us, we should be facing a really happier year.

As I See It

by Elmore Philpott

No Big War in 1952?

A KEEN business man, who heads an organization which keep a weather-eye open for squalls ahead, is willing to pay me good money to try to answer this question:

WILL THERE BE A WORLD WAR IN 1952?

My answer, for what it is worth, is NO. A world war would mean one in which Russia and the U.S. were openly engaged. I do not believe that such a war will occur in 1952.

REGULAR readers of this column know that I have never accepted the theory which suggests that Russia is frantically building up strength in order to launch a war of armed conquest against her neighbors.

IT HAS always seemed to me that another world war would be just as likely to result from U.S.A. decisions, policies or blunders as from those of Russia.

I do not mean of course that any U.S. President would deliberately, openly order a Pearl Harbor type of attack against Moscow. Nor am I cynical enough to agree with one of the

OF COURSE, 1952 and 1953 ARE crucial and dangerous years. Russia has plainly warned the West that she "will not tolerate" the re-arming of Western Germany.

I see that the U.S.A. military authorities have ordered all the wives and children of their men in Berlin to leave there before October 1952.

So, to sum it all up—my guess is, no big war in 1952—but look out for squalls toward the end of the year, especially if the U.S. elects a President whose policies would make for aggravation, not stabilization, of the big-bloc struggle.

Reflects and Reminisces

Weather is frosty at times just now, but you can always dodge cars at Second Avenue and Second Street, thereby working up a feeling that encourages warmth.

Roumanian doctor, moving to Canada and unable at first to develop a practice, was obliged to wash dishes for a year. That's enough to make anyone feel in hot water.

DISTANT CRUISES

As the New Year is about to dawn, it may be noted Canada's Navy has set another example of substantial growth. Some contrast to that dashing craft, the Rainbow, that once roamed the north coast instilling a feeling of respect in the bosoms of one and all!

Heavy stamping near the doorway, and the distant sounds of a shovel. Somehow there's a suspicion winter is here.

NOTHING IN PARTICULAR Several University of Toronto students say they have their doubts about college training.

New Carrier Rates of Daily News January 1

Effective January 1 the price of the Daily News will be increased 25 cents to $1 per month.

The decision to increase the price, taken reluctantly by the management, is the direct result of continually rising production costs. Wages, newsprint prices and other operating expenses have gone up tremendously in recent years.

The need for higher subscription rates is being felt all across the continent. Many papers have moved their daily price from five to seven cents, and some to 10 cents.

The scheduled increase applies to all carrier delivery prices. The carrier boys themselves, who also face the problems of inflation, will get increased remuneration for their work.

Street sale and store sale price of the Daily News will remain at five cents but the Saturday edition, with the comic supplement, will be 10 cents.

Make Power From Atom

CHICAGO — Electric power has been produced from atomic energy by United States scientists for the first time, the Atomic Energy Commission said Saturday.

Power—more than 100 kilowatts—was generated and used to operate pumps, reactor equipment, provide lights and electrical facilities at the national reactor testing station in Arco, Ohio.

Sgt. Pope is stationed at Fairchild Air Base, Spokane. Wedding plans will be announced later by the family.

Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Sharpe were passengers arriving today from Vancouver on the Princess Louise.

Home School Ass'n Active

Annunciation Home and School Association, under president Walter Lahti, is now making plans for activities in 1952.

Matters under discussion at a recent meeting were the B.C. Catholic Education Association Drive and the Preventative Dental Program for pre-school children. The Parent-Teachers' Association of Prince Rupert is the sponsor of the latter program and indications are that Catholic children will be included.

The Home and School Association also plans to repair the school gymnasium this year.

Annunciation Home and School Association was started in 1949 by Phil Lyons who was also the first president. The purpose of the group is to further the interests of the parish school which is under the supervision of the Sisters of St. Joseph.

President Lahti, in his first year as Treasurer Mrs. Art Murray, Secretary Mrs. Armstrong and Recording Secretary Sister St. Rose. During 1950 the school was completely redecorated and insulated from top to bottom by volunteer workers from all parish groups as well as individuals.

Early in December a successful turkey raffle was held in order to buy gifts for the children's Christmas tree.

Salvationists Reaching City

Reference to how industrial activity in and around Prince Rupert is helping the Salvation Army appears in the War Cry. It says, in part: "The development projects in this part of Canada are bringing an influx of people, among them Salvationists. Three families and two men soldiers have recently been welcomed."

WOMAN NOVELIST—Gabrielle Roy, of St. Boniface, Man., and Montreal, has recently completed her second popularly-received novel, "Where Nests the Water Hen." Her first, "The Tin Flute," received a wide sale and won the Governor-General's award in 1948.

Swedish Girl Bride Here

A quiet ceremony took place in St. Paul's Lutheran Church when Rev. H. O. Olson united in marriage Sanis Blum and Miss Ingrid Sandal. The bride had recently arrived from Stockholm, Sweden. Mr. and Mrs. James Taylor acted as witnesses. Mr. and Mrs. Blum will reside at Seal Cove Circle.

Horses and Humans Please Note

SOME CHICKENS in Britain have an almost human look these days—they have taken to wearing what at a glance appear to be pince-nez. Stranded Eilers Here at Last—Arrive by Boat

Three days after six players and the coach of Vancouver Eilers basketball team left Vancouver in a small chartered aircraft bound for Prince Rupert they arrived here—not by plane, but by boat.

They disembarked this morning from CPSS Princess Louise. Forced down at Ocean Falls Friday noon because of snowstorms the Associated Airways Fairchild team chartered was kept weatherbound.

An attempt was made to take off Saturday morning, but icing conditions were severe and the plane returned to Ocean Falls. The team boarded the vessel there Saturday night.

Eilers were scheduled to play Prince Rupert's all-star senior E team, Co-op Challengers, Friday and Saturday nights. The games now have been scheduled for Wednesday and Thursday nights this week. The team expects to leave here Thursday midnight on CNSS Prince George homeward-bound.

The stranded Eilers lamented heavily this morning when they learned of the new playing schedule. Many of them were to be back at their jobs today. Now they won't be able to report back for work until next Monday morning.

Coach Jim Bardsley said it was the "toughest trip" he'd ever made to play an out-of-town game. From the start, everything had seemed to go wrong.

"In the first place, we didn't take off in time from Vancouver. Then we ran out of gas and when we landed at Prentiss Is-

YEAR-END REVIEW—

International Sport Brought New Laurels To Britain in 1951

Randy Turpin Brings Glory in Boxing—Poor Season for Horse Racing

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—A shy, lazy-lidded prize fighter named Randolph Turpin climbed into a ring one night last July against invincible Ray Robinson—and when it was over British boxing had its moment of glory in an otherwise discouraging year.

They called Sugar Ray the world's greatest fighter, "pound for pound," but Randy Turpin of Leamington Spa youngest of three fighting brothers, upset the odds at London's Earl's Court Stadium and whipped the fabulous American champion.

Sixty-four days later, in New York, Turpin and Robinson met again. This time the verdict went the other way and the title returned to the United States. Thus Britain started the boxing year without a world crown and ended it the same way.

Great things had been expected of hopefuls such as flyweight Terry Allen, the London barrow boy; of Young Ray Wilding, especially groomed in New York; of featherweight Ronnie Clayton and heavyweight Jack Gardner and Don Cockell. In one way or another, all suffered disappointments. One of the most unexpected was the drubbing Cockell received in December from Jimmy Slade, an American with none-too-impressive credentials.

In other lines of sport, 1951 brought few laurels to Britain. Among the exceptions were the victory of 35-year-old Max Faulkner of Bexhill, Sussex, in the open golf tournament at Portrush, Northern Ireland, during the first week of July, and the triumph last winter of Jeanette Allwegg in the women's division of the world's figure-skating championships, held at Milan, Italy.

Other bright spots were the emergence of college student Roger Bannister, a brilliant runner up to mile, and a host of lesser luminaries of track and field. Experts such as coach Jack Crump expect these youngsters, most of them unknown outside Britain, to go close to winning in their divisions at the Olympic Games at Helsinki next summer.

In cricket, the big news of the season was provided in England's test matches against South Africa. South Africa won the first of last summer's matches by 71 runs, but England won the second by 10 wickets, the third by nine and the fifth by four. The fourth match was drawn. Freddie Brown, captain of the English team, was named one of this country's "Sportsmen of the Year" in a poll conducted by the Sportswriters Association. (Turpin was first choice in most of the polls.)

Horse racing ended, an unusually poor season for the favorites with sensational suggestions of a doping scandal. News-apers talked of "doping gangs" and Lord Rosebery, one of Britain's leading horsemen, came forward with a £1000 reward for information leading to the arrest of the person or persons who doped one of his horses.

Lord Rosebery at first declined to disclose the name of the drugged horse, but later the animal in question was revealed to have been Snap, a two-year-old which finished 10th in a seven-furlong race for which it was a hot favorite. During the season longshots won all the principal races, except the Cesarewitch which went to Three Cheers. Marcel Boussac French textile magnate, again won more purse money than any other owner competing on the English turf.

The Epsom Derby, famed three-year-old classic, went to John McGrath's Arctic Prince, which won by eight lengths, and the richest race ever run in Britain, the Festival of Britain Stakes at Ascot in July, was taken by Mrs. T. Lilley's Supreme Court, since retired.

Canadian hockey players continued to dominate the British scene. A novelty in the 1951-52 season was the first National League game ever played in London on a Sunday, between Earl's Court Rangers and Stretton. The game was played at Empress Hall, after an ice pantomime forced the Rangers to seek alternative dates.
