

U.N. QUILTS CHASING COMMUNISTS

China Blockade Planned— Watch Formosa, Hong Kong

WASHINGTON (CP)—Secretary of State Acheson said today that the naval blockade of Red China is "under constant planning" but it is not practical at this time to seek United Nations backing for one.

Acheson said flatly that the United States is not going to allow Formosa to be taken by force.

He also said that British-owned Hong Kong is a place of importance whose fall to the Communists would have a very adverse effect upon United States interests.

Secretary Acheson said yesterday that the United States had made no effort to get the United Nations to impose a naval blockade against Communist China.

Senator Richard Russell (Democrat, Georgia) asked Acheson at the Senate's inquiry into the case of General MacArthur whether any effort was made.

Admiral Sherman, chief of naval operations, strongly urged such a blockade.

Acheson told Russell that the United States "cannot get the nations to go further in regard to naval blockade since it is more drastic action."

40-Hour Week Closes Offices

Saturday is now about the same as Sunday for railway offices as the 40-hour week, agreed upon last year following the railway strike, goes into effect.

Uptown ticket office of the Canadian National Railways closes all day Saturday now although the depot ticket office continues its normal hours.

District freight office uptown is also closed on Saturdays henceforth as is the local freight office on the waterfront—except for one clerk to handle carload billings. At the freight shed, a checker will also be assigned when necessary to handle cargo from vessels.

"And what about emergencies?" asked a newspaperman.

"I guess there just can't be any emergencies," replied a railroad official.

Iran Firm Over Oil Will Nationalize or Be Destroyed

TEHRAN (CP)—Hussein Maki, right-hand man of Premier Mossadegh, said today that Iran either will achieve her goal of nationalization of oil or "we will be destroyed and all the world with us."

This statement was given out after the premier read to a secret session of the Senate the text of President Truman's letter urging Iran to settle peacefully the British-Iranian oil dispute.

Maki said: "We have burned all our bridges behind us and there is no way of retreat."

One senator termed Truman's letter as being "very strong."

Three Planes In Air Crash

NEW YORK (CP)—A three-plane air force formation tangled in mid-air over Long Island today and two of the planes plunged in flaming dives to earth. At least two men were killed.

One plane escaped with little or no damage and flew on.

Men Get Bargains

NEW YORK (CP)—Men took advantage of Saturday off today to rush the bargain counters in a shopping scramble to set off this week by price-warring department stores.

Some of the men proved as adept as women in wrenching their way to a variety of goods marked down in price as much as 30 per cent.

Sales people going to work shuddered when they saw hundreds of people clustering outside doors even before the stores opened.

Some manufacturers have threatened to cut supply lines to warring stores.

Contract Settled

A settlement between city council and Mitchell & Currie, sewer contractors, finally was reached yesterday when City Clerk W. R. Long deposited $21,674.52 in $10 and $20 bills into the hands of the contractors.

The city's final offer of $129,210.25 for the Cow Bay sewer outfall was accepted. Until yesterday, contractors had held out for approximately $141,000, maintaining they were entitled to additional costs incurred when the ground did not meet city specifications.

Original tender was for a little more than $114,000.

Stowaway Was Blind

VANCOUVER (CP)—Travels of a blind stowaway, who climbed aboard an Air Lines plane in Japan and got as far as San Francisco, will end as soon as his parents are home in Mission.

United Air Lines officials said George Shikaze, aged 24, landed two weeks ago and was taken into custody by immigration officials. They allowed him to continue his travels when it was found he was a Canadian citizen and when his parents removed him by paying his passage from Yokohama.

The youth, born in Canada, will leave for Vancouver today and then continue on to Mission.

Why Butter Went Wild

OTTAWA (CP)—Minister of Agriculture Gardiner said yesterday that any province could have controlled the price of butter within its boundaries this spring when prices jumped from 62c to 64c to as high as 84c.

During continued discussion of his 1951-52 estimates of expenditure, Mr. Gardiner told the House of Commons that provincial government, and not federal, had the power to control prices.

The commission noted the "remarkable" role which the Canadian Press, Canada's co-operative news-gathering agency, plays in gathering and distributing news in Canada.

"We are not aware that the Canadian Press has been seriously criticized for any lack of thoroughness or objectivity."

"The Canadian Press, however, reflects both the virtues and the defects of good newspaper men throughout North America, and no doubt throughout the world. The news which it selects, the emphasis and the priority which it gives, its sense of news values are those which prevail in any competent daily newspaper in North America."

"The limited prominence which it gives to matters of educational, scientific and cultural matters is no doubt a reflection of the attitudes of the reading public of Canada."

As for periodicals, they made a successful appeal to the country as a whole, though faced with stiff competition from American magazines, and gave encouragement to Canadians writing about Canada.

Mr. and Mrs. E. A. More and three children leave for Vancouver tomorrow night on the Coquitlam for a holiday.

Strict Censorship is Being Clamped Down

TOKYO (CP)—Lt. Gen. James Van Fleet said today that the Eighth Army has quit chasing the Communists in North Korea but will continue to check Communist aggression. The United Nations commander gave no clue as to future possible Allied operations.

After General Van Fleet spoke, Army headquarters clamped down most restrictive news regulations since censorship was imposed last December.

When the lid fell, United Nations forward elements had run up against bristling Chinese and Korean Communist lines a short distance inside North Korea. This line had been strongly reinforced overnight.

Newspapers And Culture

OTTAWA (CP)—The Massey commission, in a lengthy report made public yesterday, approached cautiously the question of how much the newspapers of Canada contribute to the development of Canadian arts and letters.

The question, the commission noted carefully, "is a matter of opinion."

It added: "Although many of our leading newspapers over the years have devoted generous space to book reviews and to commentaries on music and the arts, and although we have in Canada many editors who write thoughtfully and with distinction, we should hesitate to assess these influences upon our cultural life."

"If our critical literature is slight in volume, this may be a natural consequence of our tenuous creative abilities in the arts."

The commission said it had been informed that many editors would gladly engage competent writers in musical, dramatic or literary criticism or in the sciences, but Canada did not seem to "produce enough people interested in writing for the press with the qualifications essential to able criticism."

"Things are much better, apparently, with the press in French Canada where the Old World traditions of criticism have been more carefully preserved and cherished."

PRESS VIGOROUS

The commission observed that Canada's daily and weekly newspapers, and periodicals, with their circulations running into the millions, indicated a "vigorous press."

"The opinions, attitudes, tastes, beliefs and prejudices of Canadian citizens must be enormously affected whether for good or ill, by this vast quantity of reading matter which so readily comes their way."

But the commission could not venture even to speculate on the importance of the newspaper press as an agency contributing "to our national unity and our common understanding." That in itself would be a formidable inquiry.

King Shows Improvement

LONDON (CP)—The King, suffering from a slight lung inflammation, is making satisfactory progress, his doctors said today.

The King's physician, who made the announcement after a morning visit to Buckingham Palace, said the 55-year-old monarch is suffering from a small catarrhal inflammation of the lung.

Meanwhile the Daily Express said the King is overworked. "It is time that people and statesmen of this country arranged things so they take less toll of the King's strength," the newspaper said.

Death Sentence Again Imposed

WINNIPEG (CP)—Henry Malanik, 49-year-old plumber, was Thursday night found guilty of murder for the second time in the shotgun slaying of a Winnipeg detective.

Malanik appealed an earlier conviction for slaying Sgt. James Sims and won a new trial.

He was sentenced to be hanged August 21.

Building Mortuary

Prince Rupert is to have a new funeral home at the southwest corner of Fifth Avenue and McBride Street.

With Allan Barr's big clamshell shovel on the job, excavation is under way for a building which will measure 70 by 70 feet.

There will be a full concrete foundation, A. E. Ferguson announced today. On this will be built a two-storey frame and asbestos shingle structure. Ground floor will be funeral home, upstairs apartments.

Forms will be put in as soon as the excavation is completed preparatory to the pouring of concrete.

A permit for $10,000 has been taken out.

Ellis to Run Here

WASHINGTON, D.C. (CP)—The Civil Aeronautics Board today authorized the Ellis Air Lines to establish regular passenger and cargo service between Ketchikan, Alaska, and Prince Rupert. The air line is southeastern Alaska operated.

WEATHER

Synopsis
The high pressure area off the British Columbia coast became well established this morning, giving every indication of a relatively fine weekend over most of the province.

Along exposed sections of the coast extensive fog and low cloud has moved in and will follow the usual pattern of drifting on shore at night and clearing off the land during the afternoon.

Considerable cloudiness still persists over the northern and central interior and a few light showers are looked for again today. However the southern regions of the province should have no more than a thin cloudiness and temperatures will again rise to the levels reached yesterday.

Forecast
North coast region — Cloudy today and Sunday with sunny intervals in afternoon. Fog patches over Queen Charlotte Sound. Light winds. Little change in temperature. Lows tonight and highs Sunday—Port Hardy and Sandspit, 48 and 58; Prince Rupert, 48 and 60.

Graduation

AS clean-cut and promising a group of young graduates as has ever been turned out by Prince Rupert's Booth Memorial School had their exercises last night, marking the completion of one important phase of their careers and the commencement of another.

It was interesting to note the large proportion of this year's graduating class that is going on for higher and specialized studies — some for further academic learning in Grade 13 here or in University, some for nursing, others for teachers' training.

Several remain in Prince Rupert to take advantage of the many opportunities that exist here today in business and industry. Certainly, they are needed here and there are none who, if choosing wisely and with the long range view, could not fill out successful careers without leaving home. The situation in that regard is a great deal different today than it was a few years ago.

Another gratifying feature of this year's graduating class is that four promising young native students are included in the group of forty-three. The most of these professed the intention of going on for higher studies.

The 1951 Bo-Me-Hi graduating class is well entitled to the congratulations and best wishes of their home town. Good luck to them!

The Open Door

YEARS AGO a cardinal principle of diplomacy in regard to China was the "open door policy." In those days it meant that China should be open to the trade of all nations in equal terms, not parceled out by spheres of influence. The phrase has, of course, lost its meaning now because the new China, either by its own initiative or coercion, has closed its doors to the west.

There is an echo of the open door principle, however, in the extreme efforts now being made by the western powers to sit down and discuss the vexed problems without appeasement, or rigid selection or precedence of what shall be discussed.

However, it seems to be a discouraging and thankless business, getting the Soviet down to some agreement even on preliminaries.

Last winter Moscow indicated it would like a new conference of the Big Four Foreign Ministers. For more than two months now the Deputies of the Big Four Foreign Ministers have engaged in a verbal wrestling match at Paris, merely to try to agree on an agenda for the main bout.

The deadlock today is seemingly complete. Mr. Gromyko will approve an agenda only if by its phrasing it spells out agreement of the three Western Powers to the Russian formula for armament reduction. In essence, the west would be agreeing virtually to abandon its defense program. That, of course, cannot be done for that would be open, obvious appeasement. It would shatter our only hope of peace, which is our ability to re-arm fast enough and far enough to meet any Soviet threat.

Queen, Princess Visiting Belfast

BELFAST — Queen Elizabeth and her younger daughter, Margaret Rose, stepped ashore here Friday from the cruiser H.M.S. Sheffield and were given an enthusiastic welcome with a drive through city streets.

At the same time police searched the countryside around and across for demonstrators who early today burned down a royal customs house, a large one-storey

Sen. Gladstone, Ontario, Dies

OTTAWA — Senator Robert William Gladstone, aged 71, Liberal senator for Ontario, died in hospital here Friday following a heart seizure. He was appointed to the Senate in September 1949.

A Sinn Fein patriotic organization flew its black flag Friday and under it this poster: "The British conqueror still rules. The royal visit means that Irishmen have failed."

CREATING AN ESTATE...

When you pay the first premium on a $5,000 life insurance policy you immediately create an estate of $5,000. If you die the full amount is available for your family. If you live you can take as long as thirty years to pay for it. Why not create your estate today?

As I See It

IN FRENCH PARLIAMENT

PARIS, France. — We watched the French Chamber of Deputies perform a strange political operation, something like a cow chewing its cud, mysteriously recalled from the belly.

The new electoral law, designed to strengthen the big parties at the expense of the weaker, had failed to pass by the necessary margin.

The then President of the Chamber, Mr. Herriot, roared in a stentorian voice something which we learned later meant they would do it all over again.

They did. A few days later, the revised bill was voted, and the way was cleared for a French election in mid-June.

THE BILL ITSELF IS IMPORTANT as showing how things are drifting in France.

The old law was based on proportional representation. That is, in French cities corresponding to Vancouver, Toronto, Montreal, the voters named their preferences by marking 1, 2, 3, 4, 5 and so on, opposite the names of the different candidates. That meant that if one-tenth of the voters were Holy Rollers, and there were ten seats to be filled, the Holy Rollers would be sure of election.

The argument is that this system makes for too many splinter groups and that all the odds and ends of parties in the parliament contribute to the chronic instability of French governments.

SUPPOSE THE FRENCH ELECTION were taking place in Canada, under the new French law.

Suppose we take Vancouver and Toronto as examples of how the new French law might work out. In case more than half the voters of Toronto voted Tory all the Toronto votes would go to the Tories and the Liberals and the CCF would be right out of the picture.

Suppose in Vancouver more than half the voters voted Liberal, then the Conservatives like Howard Green and the CCF members like Angus MacInnes would be wiped out.

I FEEL QUITE SURE THAT the new French election law will work against the Communists in the June, 1951, election. But I am not at all convinced that it will do so indefinitely.

THE FRENCH CHAMBER OF Deputies strikes a visitor from Canada as much less formal than ours. There is far more hubbub than we permit. There is much more back-talk too, between the MP's from the floor and the President of the Chamber, or Mr. Speaker as we would call him.

During the time I was there, the women took the main part in the discussions. There seemed to be a sort of war-within-a-war between the Communist women MP's and the MRP women MP's.

One young Communist woman looked like the cartoonist's idea of a school-marm, with her hair severely parted in the middle, horn-rimmed glasses and clothes to fit the part.

Her particular antagonist on the MRP benches was a smiling lady with a penetrating low-pitched voice. The Communist gal seemed to be winning in the arguments, but the other lady's group was winning in the votes.

They vote differently in the French chamber than they do either in the British House of Commons or in our own.

Here in France, tellers go around with little baskets in which they collect the yes and no ballots. I noticed that these are fully locked and filed away.

THE SETTING OF THE French Parliament seems to me to be one reason for the comparative lack of prestige of the democratic process in France. There are too many evidences of France's past monarchial glory. All around are the palaces of the magnificent kings and the monuments of Napoleon's pomp.

Half of France is deeply, passionately proud of the Revolution of 1789.

But the other half of France still seems to me to spotlight mediocre democratic politicians deliberately to belittle them against the background of past regal splendor as if to say: "See, we have come down to these."

Saturday Sermon Scripture Knowledge

Jesus said: "He that rejecteth me and receiveth not my words hath one that judgeth him: the word that I have spoken, the same shall judge him in the last day."
—(John 12:48)

As our eternal destiny is to be fixed and regulated according to the word of the Saviour, it behooves us to read the Scriptures and find out what is required of us. Ignorance cannot be allowed as an excuse when He has declared beforehand that we must stand in judgment according to what is written.

He commanded us to "search the Scriptures" (John 5:39) "which are able to make thee wise unto salvation through faith which is in Christ Jesus" (2 Timothy 3:15).

Without a knowledge of the Scriptures we cannot be prepared for the Judgment Day. We must give account for what is written to us.

Reflects and Reminisces

A medical columnist inquires what happens when the body is immersed in warm water. A bell has often been known to ring.

Spending a month in a district the size and character of Skeena and committed to the job of finding everybody there and all about him seems enough to send a fellow home with a few gray hairs in his head.

This is apple blossom season and fish specialty time back in the maritimes and how the papers are playing it up. The market for mackerel and shad, lobsters and salmon is active—and reasonable although the salmon seems costly. Salmon appears a bit high. And thousands of New Englanders join their neighbors in the Annapolis Valley, where they used to pack apples carelessly. But not now.

Forty-seven old timers have ridden 340 miles to attend a convention of Washington Cattlemen in Centralia. They used saddles instead of cars and said they'd travelled that way because of "an ancient instinct." There was no further explanation. But how they kept on feeling themselves.

"My Lords, I entrust you, and I entreat the government, not to forget that a great country like this can have no such thing as a little war. They must understand that if they are to enter on these operations, they must do it on such a scale, and in such a manner, and with such determination as to the final object as to make it quite certain at the earliest period."—Duke of Wellington, January 1833.

Speaking of census taking there is precious little expectation of the province of Saskatchewan making an impressive showing. The people are simply not there, and it has long been that way. There will be comparisons, of course, all over Canada but nowhere will there be less cause for anxiety than here.

The first violinist in British orchestras is called the "leader"; in North America he's the "concert master."

COMMANDS GUNNERS — Lt. Col. Marcellin Louis Lahaye of Buckingham, Que., 37, will command the 79th Field Regiment of the Royal Canadian Artillery, a unit of the 27th Canadian Infantry Brigade Group. Col. Lahaye served with the 4th Medium Regiment in Northern Europe in the Second World War. Later he held appointments in the directorate of military intelligence. (CP from National Defence)

PAKISTAN GROWTH

KARACHI (CP) — Pakistan's two-year development plan to make the country self-sufficient in "most urgent" manufactured goods and to develop shipping involves a total cost of 450,000,000 rupees, roughly $1,350,000,000. Approximately half the total is for industries, the rest for power, shipping and communications.

Outstanding Students are Honored at High Graduation

Minister of Education Principal Speaker at Bo-Me-Hi Exercises

A "surprise package" fell into the hands of the two most outstanding students in the 1951 graduating class of Booth Memorial High School when each received a $100 scholarship last night.

Before a thronged house of proud parents, friends, official guests and graduating class mates, Peter Harvey and Miss Luella Maxine Macdonald received their awards on the stage of the Civic Centre auditorium.

The former was presented with the IODE War Memorial Scholarship by Mrs. G. G. Withers, municipal chapter regent, for "high scholastic standing and a high standard in citizenship."

Miss Macdonald received the first bursary award offered by Prince Rupert Sorooptimist Club, presented by President Mrs. Willa Ray, for "having proven herself in her studies with the intention to carry on." Miss Macdonald, a Junior Citizen award winner, will enter University of British Columbia next semester. Mr. Harvey also will go to UBC.

Of the 43 Grade XII students in the graduation exercises, 26 were young women who presented a colorful picture in their white gowns and corsages. To open the ceremony, the high school band played the "Diligence March" while graduates proceeded up two aisles towards the stage to take their seats in orderly and ceremonious procession.

Two other awards were presented by Principal A. M. Hurst, one to Miss Iona Vivienne Hardy for the highest percentage in non-university subjects. The other appreciation award went to Gordon Graham, the valedictorian.

Official guests on the stage were Hon. W. T. Straith, K.C., minister of education; Mrs. E. W. Becker, representative of the school board; G. W. Graham, school inspector; Mrs. Ray, Sorooptimist Club and Mrs. Withers, IODE. R. H. Davidson, vice-principal of Bo-Me-Hi, introduced the graduates.

Mr. Hurst was master of ceremonies. In his valedictory address, Gordon Graham called on his

Summertime is Picnic Time—
That Delightful Fire Aroma

One glance at the calendar signifies that this is the season for picnics, those wonderful outdoor meals. Whenever the weatherman is generous with his sunny days, picnics are in order.

According to home economists the origin of the word picnic is rather indefinite. However, the meaning is clear. A picnic is a pleasure party, the members of which, carry provisions along with them on an excursion to the country. But they often picnic in their own back yard or even on their porches. At least they serve the food picnic style, right at home and everyone enjoys it immensely.

Food always tastes better when it is eaten outside. Any fisherman will tell you that when he comes into shore from a fishing trip, started. Baked beans and bacon, eaten around a bonfire, is the most wonderful food in the world. Most people agree that coffee never tastes better than when it is the old fashioned type boiled over a bonfire.

The main attraction to most people, on a picnic, is the contents of the picnic basket. Sandwiches have always been the top favorite, but recently the trend has been to salads and cold meats, bacon and eggs and so on, which are cooked in the open. Which type of salad is best for a picnic? Potato and egg salad is wonderful but meat or fish salads are very good too and even some moulded salads are suitable for a picnic. With potato salad some prefer it freshly mixed. Others like it mixed well before hand. For those who like it freshly mixed the potatoes, onions and eggs should be mixed together and should be served in a quart jar or large bowl. The mayonnaise should be carried separately and added to the salad just before it is to be served. If the salad is to be a vegetable or green salad it should not be prepared ahead of time. The salad vegetables should be cleaned and wrapped in waxed paper and a damp towel. When the time comes to serve the salad the vegetables will be crisp and clean, all ready to toss together. If the salad had been made ahead of time it would be soggy, colorless and unattractive.

Home economists suggest saving used ice cream cartons or frozen food cartons for picnics. They should be thoroughly cleaned and stored in a dry place. Salads, potted meats, or puddings may be placed in these cleaned cartons for the picnics, then they are ready to eat and they do save plates. Not only that, they are easily carried. The newer pliable plastic containers, which have air-tight lids, are ideal for carrying salads, liquids or fruits to a picnic. There is a wide variety of paper or plastic plates and cups on the market so Mrs. Wise Homemaker uses these unbreakables to save the kitchen-war.

The camp fire widens the scope for picnic meals. Eggs, bacon, canned or home baked beans, hamburgers, wieners and soups are some of the many foods which may be prepared around a camp fire. Home economists say a piece of resistance of the picnic can be barbecued spareribs. The spareribs can be marinated overnight in a little vinegar, mustard, salt and garlic. The camp fire can be built with stones around it and allowed to burn until there are red hot coals. The whole, unpeeled potatoes can be placed in the hot ashes to bake. A few minutes later an old grate can be placed over the hot coals and the spareribs arranged on it to barbecue. Soon the delicious aroma starts to waft into the air. However, potatoes and spareribs are not the entire meal. Each member of the party can be given a sharpened stick to roast their own corn. The hostess can prepare a large bowl of wonderful barbecue sauce and, when the spareribs are done, each person can be given a plate with a baked potato (with lots of butter), a paper cup of barbecue sauce in which the spareribs are dipped and, of course, the corn all tasty and brown, is dripping with butter. Nothing can taste better than this wonderful food. This menu would be suitable for any barbecue supper prepared in the back yard or prepared around a bonfire somewhere in the country. If new corn is not on the market at the time a green salad or sliced cucumbers and tomatoes might be used instead.

Mostly Women At Catholic Party

The Catholic Hall card party Thursday night saw 12 tables playing but only a few men attended. Winners were:

Refreshments were served by Mrs. J. Rogerson and Mrs. L. Colussi.

SEEK SILVER—Mining week in Port Arthur was officially opened Monday, May 28, when drilling operations for silver got underway in the heart of the city. So far no trace of silver has been found. THE EXPERTS Say...

By KAY REX
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Asparagus—There is plenty in the stores. And the tasty green stalks will be available for at least another month, so make the most of the opportunity!

A favorite food connoisseur throws up her hands in horror at mention of asparagus in cream sauce. "Don't insult it that way," she says. "On the other hand don't turn up your nose at a 'drawn' butter sauce."

Incidentally, "drawn" means melted. Some persons still strain the melted butter through fine mesh to clarify it.

Here is one way the French like to eat their asparagus. But if you're a bit delicate about table manners the expert recommends enjoying it en famille.

Put a dash of pepper and salt to taste in individual saucers. Add two teaspoonfuls of vinegar (wine preferably and nothing highly spiced) plus two teaspoonfuls of good quality olive or peanut oil. Whip the mixture with a spoon.

The reason for the etiquette hint is because this asparagus must be eaten with the fingers. Fresh stalks are chosen and they shouldn't be cooked more than eight minutes.

Asparagus is then placed on a dish. The pieces are picked up, dipped in the sauce and eaten with bread and butter.

Did it ever occur to you to cook your asparagus? It makes an excellent vegetable juice and also may be used in soups and gravies.

An asparagus omelet also will provide a welcome change in the supper menu at this season of the year.

Heat any left-over asparagus on hand. When omelet is ready to be lifted from the pan put pieces of asparagus on one side of the omelet and fold over.

Remove crusts from thinly sliced bread and butter the pieces. Roll each slice around a piece of asparagus which has been touched with mayonnaise. Pin with a toothpick.

French Mayonnaise—By the way have you ever tried to make French Mayonnaise? Here's your recipe and your method.

Remove every bit of white from the yolk of one egg—be certain that yolk is as nearly dry as possible before you add salt and pepper and dry mustard to taste.

With spoon—preferably a wooden one—mix the yolk and seasonings, taking care to stir always in one direction only. Add

BATTER UP

(By LARRY STANWOOD)

Three new players were introduced to baseball in Prince Rupert when Abel & Odowes took the field against Gordon & Anderson Thursday evening.

Ian McHardy, left-handed first baseman, hails from Vancouver and the University of British Columbia where he is majoring in physical training education to become an instructor.

McHardy is a veteran ball player of Vancouver's Senior A league. He was induced to come to Prince Rupert by Don Forward, Civic Centre director, to take over as swimming instructor and playground director this summer.

Meanwhile, McHardy also was snafued up by Alex Bill, A & O manager, to play first base, and at his first game Thursday, it looks like Manager Bill used good judgment. McHardy stopped a big hole on first and brought in two runs as well.

Tom Pope is another newcomer and playing for Bill as second baseman. Pope comes from Osoyoos and Enderby, playing in both the Northern and Southern Okanagan leagues.

The second baseman, employed by the Bank of Montreal, is used to "the sunny south" but says "as long as I can play ball here, I'll like it very much."

Joe Jordano is another ball player from the interior—Kelowna. An electrician by trade, Jordano plays shortstop, but came in only as spare the last game. He batted twice, made one hit and took a walk.

The question was raised this week about junior baseball. There must be a lot of youngsters, say from 13 to 16, who would play baseball if they had a chance, and who would be the baseball strength of tomorrow.

Although McHardy will be very busy this summer when he takes over the spot of playground director, Mr. Forward has indicated his willingness to organize a junior baseball league if there are enough players who are interested and will remain interested throughout the season.

Several local service clubs also have said they would be glad to sponsor a junior team, fitting them with uniforms and major equipment if someone will undertake to organize a league.

Looks like these three factions, the young players and would-be players, the Civic Centre, and the service clubs could get together on this and find out if three teams can be put together.

It would certainly be a boost for the juniors and would give them an "in" where otherwise they would have to wait until they are big enough to get into the senior league and then they would have little or no experience.

Prince Rupert should be able to provide a few players of their own for tomorrow instead of depending on "imported talent."

Another game will be played Sunday. Commercial and Abel & Odowes contending. Both teams are down one game, giving to Gordon & Anderson, so the play should prove interesting.

Gardening....

LOVELY PERENNIALS ARE AS EASY TO GROW AS HUMBLE RADISH

Every amateur gardener has within his reach hundreds of beautiful perennial flowers, which he can plant a border which will bloom every year from spring to winter with a minimum of care. Such a border will distinguish any home grounds, and especially the small place, since many small gardens excel in charm. If started now by sowing a few packets of perennial seed in a square yard of a few hundred square feet, the perennial border can be in full bloom next year.

The only plants you will have to buy, to provide a complete "succession of bloom" from May to October, are iris, peonies and chrysanthemums. The iris and peonies should be set out in August, the chrysanthemums next spring. But, right away, you should sow seeds of these perennials:

Coreopsis, columbine, delphinium, New York pink sweet william, fall geranium, double hollyhocks, linum perenne blue, pyrethrum, shasta daisies, dianthus plumarius, gremadin carnations and anemone.

There are dozens of others which you can grow, but these will make a good start, and you will want to add a few each year. Sow the seed in rows, just like vegetables. Cover the seed with porous soil, in which a third sharp sand and a third humus have been mixed with soil. Keep the seed bed moist until they germinate.

Spring weather is as good for perennials as for vegetables, and they will all grow vigorously in the cool weather. By late summer they may begin to crowd, and can be thinned out, the plants that are removed being set out in new rows where they have room to grow. Water these plants as you do the vegetable garden and fertilize them the same way. The same insecticides should be used if insects bother them, which is rarely the case.

By fall there will be hundreds of vigorous plants, heavily rooted, for a fraction of the amount they would cost in the market. In early October they should be moved to the border, artistically arranged, and the summer you will enjoy beauty.

Dale: 1H, 2D, 4D, Pass
Abel: 2C, Pass, 5D, All pass
Keep: 2C, Pass, 5D, All pass
Brash: 3S, 3S, Pass

When Mr. Abel led the king of spades and the dummy went down, Mr. Dale rather wished his partner were playing five clubs on the hand. If the opposing clubs were 2-2, five clubs could be made even if Mr. Abel did have four diamonds to the king, 10. And if that diamond holding was on his left, Mr. Dale would find it impossible to make his own contract.

He won the first trick with dummy's ace of spades, laid down the ace of clubs and then a small club. Here was the big break in the hand. The clubs broke 2-2 and the suit was set. Mr. Abel won the second club with the king and returned the queen of spades which Mr. Dale ruffed.

Now where was that entry to the dummy? Getting there by ruffing a second round of hearts wouldn't do any good. He had to get there AFTER trumps were out. Trying to set up an entry, he led the queen of diamonds. But Mr. Abel didn't go for this. He played the six spot.

Mr. Dale then shot the eight of diamonds. Mr. Abel toyed with the idea of going up with the king and firing back a spade. But he knew Mr. Dale had started with five diamonds and therefore another ruff in the closed hand wouldn't be damaging. So he ducked again, playing the 10.

Dummy's jack was put up and it won the trick. Miss Brash followed suit to this second diamond lead and the contract was assured. Mr. Dale started leading clubs and the king of diamonds could be taken any time Mr. Abel felt like it. But that was the last trick for his side. Actually he trumped in at once and led a spade. Mr. Dale threw a club from dummy, ruffed in his hand, led the ace of hearts, and ruffed a heart with the seven of diamonds on the board. Irritatingly enough, these little clubs in dummy were all good, and the old master had rolled in another close one.

SPORT SHOTS

The long-smouldering debate over the controversial stymie has flared up once again in Britain—as it likely will in golf clubs elsewhere throughout the world. The argument was renewed following the recent announcement that the governing authorities of golf in the United Kingdom and the United States had agreed to recommend abolition of the stymie rule, after years of bickering.

If the proposal is officially approved the hazard on the green will die a natural death at the end of this year. But there are plenty of golfers in the United Kingdom, at least, who insist there must be no tampering with match play's most "heroic shot." The opposition has a less picturesque and unprintable name for it.

Strong support for retention of the stymie has come from Calgary-born Brig.-Gen. A. C. Critchley, former holder of the French amateur golf title. The stymie, he contends, is a traditional element of a grand game and a shot that can be negotiated by any skillful player. The last canvass had shown an overwhelming majority against any change in the rule.

One of Britain's leading golf authorities, Henry Longhurst, disagreed with the General. In the United Kingdom, Longhurst said the golfing unions, not the clubs, had been consulted. He insisted that if the players instead of the unions were asked about the stymie, the vote against it would be almost unanimous.

Minister of Education
Enthusiasm—On to Interior

Hon. W. T. Straith, minister of education, enthused again and again yesterday about the beauties and attractions of the Queen Charlotte Islands. He had just returned from a two-day flying trip there in the course of a northern tour. The minister was accompanied by his wife and J.
L. McRae, MLA for Prince Rupert, and Mrs. McRae.

Mr. Straith foresees the Queen Charlotte Islands also benefitting from the new industrial era on this part of the mainland through the establishment of the Columbia Cellulose pulp mill at Prince Rupert and the advent of Aluminum Co. of Canada at Kitimat.

"You will see people from these industries visiting the Queen Charlotte Islands in large numbers to enjoy the beaches, the fine fishing and the hunting," Mr. Straith predicted. "And there will be a market for all the agricultural products they can produce."

The minister told of the unprecedented experience of seeing no less than fifty deer along the road during an hour while driving between Port Clements and Queen Charlotte.

The party, flying to Sandspit
by Canadian Pacific Air Lines and then being picked up by Pilot Roy Barryman with his Queen Charlotte Air Lines plane
at Alford Bay, visited Masset, Port Clements, Skidegate and Queen Charlotte.

A night was spent at "The Dunes" at Tiel where Mr. Straith had a couple of hours fishing.

Mr. Straith, who officiated at the graduation exercises of Booth Memorial School here last night, left this morning for Terrace where he had a luncheon engagement with the Terrace and District Board of Trade.
Sunday will be spent quietly at Lakelse Lake and on Monday the minister will open a new consolidated school at Hazelton.
On Tuesday he will meet the Board whose guest he will be at luncheon in Telkwa.

The minister will then continue his trip eastward through Burns Lake, the Lakes District, Vanderhoof, Fort St. James,
Prince George and on to Vancouver through the Cariboo.

Jamboree Going on

Dancing to the strains of tunesome music by Ernie Stevens' Swing Band from Port Edward featured the second night of Job's Daughters' jamboree and it was a merry party for several hundred people.
Carnival features again pried a good trade, attracting the generous patronage of the visitors.
The affair goes on tonight with the grand raffle drawings and other features.

First mystery prize, a satin cushion donated by MacKenzie Furniture, was won by Bob Hitchens last night. Second, copper bottom frying pan, donated by Al Manson, was won by Bob Moore. Two pairs of nylon stockings donated by Fraser and Payne, were won by Agnes Smith.
Door prize—turkey dinner for two at Broadway Cafe and show by J. H. Black and taxi—99 Taxi, was won by Diane Kennedy with ticket number 172224.

LOOSE ENDS

policemen's ball. Or else, the Government's medicine having failed to work, we shall proceed with another round in the big binge.

The primary question in Canadian politics, however, is whether a Government which has felt only pea-shooters so far can stand a real barrage. The Government knows this better than anyone and is steeling its soul for a summer and autumn of misery.

Already the first protests are coming in. Little business men and even big tycoons who can't get all the money they want at the banks are blaming the Government for ruining all their plans of expansion. Provincial and municipal treasurers, who had intended to spend more this year than ever (having somehow overlooked the news of the threatened world war), are fit to be tied, very tightly, in the bond markets.

Before long pockets of actual unemployment may begin to appear here and there—temporary, unavoidable, but full of political danger to any government. And the worst of it all is that the Government cannot hope to explain to the Canadian people what it is doing, since the people are not economists and see only that their bonds have dropped in price while the price of goods is still rising.

Can the Government stand up to all this? It is not in the least worried by the parliamentary Opposition, now joined in a quiet Conservative-Socialist coalition on the issue of direct price control. The Government, indeed, hardly bothers to answer the Opposition, thinking its complaints too unimportant and too contradictory

ATTRACTS YOUTH
LONDON (CP)—Edward, the young Duke of Kent, visiting the British Industries Fair paid most attention to a model Hebridean village made entirely of Harris tweed. The model, measuring five feet by three, uses every known shade of the material.

NEWCASTLE, England (CP)— Skeleton of a bear believed to be anywhere from 5,000 to 7,000 years old was found recently near here. Authorities will make further search for traces of prehistoric man in the area.

to be worth an answer. But if the public is sufficiently upset by deflation—that is, if the new remedy works—then the Opposition, having damned the Government for inflation, will turn right around and damn it for the opposite. That could be politically serious since, for once, the Opposition might represent a widespread public sentiment.

For all this the Government is prepared in its own mind, though it is saying little.
It is determined not to retreat from its deflationary policy. It proposes to stand on its present line, believing that if it stands for a few months longer the public will see that it is getting results. As Wellington waited at Waterloo for night or Blucher, so the Government is waiting for a real deflationary policy in the United States (where the trouble originates) or for a lull in the cost-of-living index, or rather for both, since they are inseparable.

OUTSTANDING STUDENTS

ever, with higher ideals . . .
The education minister pointed out that the students were "very fortunate" to graduate in Prince Rupert; "an area of great development," but he warned against the "glitter of gold."
"Happiness doesn't come from riches. Life not only consists of knowing how to make a living, but also of knowing how to live."
He could sense a "tense thread of fellowship and happiness" in the teacher-student relationship in Prince Rupert. Mr. Straith said and emphasized that such a relationship is "the most important thing" in education.

THANKSGIVING
Mrs. Becker addressed the class and visitors on behalf of the school board and compared the occasion to "Thanksgiving."
She was thankful, she said, for the graduating body of students who were "our future citizens."
Mr. Davidson, before introducing the students individually, requested of the audience not to applaud the individual students.
After the introduction, the fading hands of many parents released their held-back response in a thundering ovation.

Esteemed Fisherman Dies and Leaves Bequests— Final Halibut From Area No. 2

Two thousand dollars to the Pioneers' Home, a similar amount to the Cancer Society for research and $400 to St. Paul's Lutheran Church were bequests of Charles Erickson, well-known and esteemed salmon troller, who passed away Thursday at the Prince Rupert General Hospital. Mr. Erickson resided near the Hays Cove fishermen's floats and had many friends along the waterfront. Born in Sweden 73 years ago, deceased came to Prince Rupert in 1909 and was engaged for a time on railway construction. Then he turned to salmon trolling and was engaged in that pursuit for nearly 40 years. As his health began to fail about a year ago, he sold his boat. Funeral will be held Monday from the chapel of B.C. Undertakers.

Canadian Fishing Company is rushing completion of its new cannery at Ocean Dock so it may open with the sockeye season June 17.

James Lee, former manager of Atlin Fisheries and now a company consultant, said the plant was well on the way to being completed with exception of installation of recently-arrived machinery.

With Area No. 2 closed since Monday and the last flock of boats in, the halibut business has seen a drop and fish-buyers agree that, although vessels still will be unloading halibut here from Area 3, the "big rush" is over. At least, until the salmon start rolling in.

Final reports of the total catch in Area 2A this year and comparative figures haven't been released yet but for Area 3 the total catch to May 31 is 8,900,000 pounds, compared with 7,400,000 pounds in 1950. These are International Commission of Fisheries figures.

A visitor to the waterfront Friday was P. S. Ganty, Pelican, Alaska, who flew into Prince Rupert on an Aeromarine seaplane to tell halibut fishermen that Pelican is an open port of entry to Canadian fishermen.

The little Alaskan fishing village is situated near the boundary of Area 3 halibut zone. This is the first year it has been opened by Canadians, following co-operation of its four independent fish buyers and the United States Customs.

Mr. Ganty, Pelican Cold Storage Company manager, flew in yesterday morning and expected to be back home for supper after touching down at Ketchikan and Juneau.

"It gets me around pretty fast," the pilot said. He liked the looks of Prince Rupert's waterfront.

"You've got a swell-looking fleet here. It must do a lot for a town like this." Then he asked about the "big operations" east of here, which he was told was the new pulp mill.

"Really looks like you people are going to town," Mr. Ganty said that during World War II he had been in Prince Rupert on air force official business and had then been "royally entertained" by its people.

WATER TAXI HERE

Something new has been added to the fleet tied up at Prince Rupert Rowing and Yacht Club. It is the 20-foot by eight "Nine-

Nine" water taxi which arrived yesterday via the inside channel from Vancouver. Capt. Alfred Dyer said he had little trouble except when crossing "the Sound."

Navigator on the trip was Perry Woods, formerly of the RCAF, and Jim Sheddson was deck-hand. The Nine-Nine was built for her owners, 99 Taxi, by Arrow Boatworks, Vancouver, and has a shallow draught of only 18 inches, fully loaded with nine passengers and freight. She will be operated from Port Edward to Skeena River cannery points.

The squat but sturdy looking vessel is capable of 27 knots, derived from her 110-horse Mercury engine.

"She rides lovely," Capt. Dyer told the owner, Art Murray, yesterday, "but we sure took a beating crossing the Sound. There was quite a choppy sea."

Trip took total running time of 44 hours with several stop-over for fueling and a weather-wait at Kelsey Bay. This is the first time to Prince Rupert for all three of the water-taxi's crew.

Another new-comer to the Yacht Club is Dr. J. A. MacDonald's new purchase, the Hazel Point, which he recently bought from Canadian Fishing Co. Ltd. The sturdy cabin-cruiser is well known along the waterfront.

The Union Steamship's Coquitlam, Capt. William McComb, arrived at 2 p.m. yesterday with a full cargo of general freight and several passengers for Prince Rupert. The vessel sailed last evening for the Queen Charlotte Island whence she will return here tomorrow southbound. Disembarking here were F. A. Matheson, Dr. A. M. Gee, R. A. Pennington, E. E. McKenzie, Rev. and Mrs. P. H. Mallet, R. A. Smith, F. McAllister, Usui Koh-her, Mrs. M. Garner, R. Welsh, Miss G. Assen, Mrs. Mamart, Mrs. F. Olney.

Beam-trawl fishermen are still bringing in a goodly weekly catch of flat-fish, and report the Hecate Straits area has been "considerate" as far as fishing conditions go. Last week's catches unloaded in Prince Rupert totalled 151,000 pounds. Boats landing included Jean W1, Capt. L. Nicholson, 26,000 pounds; New Laurel, Capt. D. A. Ritchie, 39,000, dover sole; Carolina Maria, Capt. Frank Gale, 30,000 pounds; Sea Biscuit, Capt. J. Watson, 18,000; Alva M., Capt. George Robinson, 10,000 pounds and W1, Capt. J. Adkins, 8,000 pounds. Prince is ranging from 5½ cents to four cents.

Mrs. N. R. Youngs returned from Smithers on Thursday night's train after attending the Diocesan conference of the Catholic Women's League as a delegate from Prince Rupert. While in Smithers, Mrs. Youngs stayed with Mr. and Mrs. Norman Baker, formerly of Prince Rupert.

A few drops of oil and keep stirring and make certain mixture is kept stiff. Add a drop or two of vinegar—but be careful here—much more oil than vinegar should be added at the beginning otherwise the mayonnaise will become liquid. Continue adding drops of oil—and vinegar when necessary—until you have the required amount of mayonnaise.

Back to Asparagus — For a really exotic asparagus dish try this formula:
Boil some rice. Don't cook too long. The grains must remain separate.

Empty a tin of tuna fish into another dish. Add cooked asparagus cut into one-inch pieces. Add a little butter to prevent sticking.

When rice has been cooked and strained add the asparagus and tuna mixture to it. Toss lightly.

Western Film is Stirring Drama

Stirring drama and challenging romance mark "Red River," a western saga co-starring John Wayne, Montgomery Clift, Walter Brennan and Joanne Dru which concludes tonight at the Capitol Theatre. "Red River" brings to the screen the story of the first cattle drive up the famous Chisholm Trail from Texas to Kansas just after the Civil War.

Through it all runs a dramatic feud as the trek proceeds, a feud that would have ended in tragedy but for the timely intervention of a girl who meets up with Garth during an Indian attack on a wagon train.

The romance adds a warm and colorful note to the drama which holds the audience to its seats.

Church In Army Camp

Diocesan W.A. Hears
Mrs. Henderson—
Officers Elected

"The Church in Action in a Military Camp" was vividly and at times humorously portrayed by Mrs. Helen Henderson to the Caledonia Diocesan Board at the luncheon hour on the last day of its sessions. She had seen the Church in operation at Petawawa in all its phases from her three year association with Major R. C. F. Durnford, D.S.O., the Protestant chaplain there, formerly of this city.

"People just didn't die at Petawawa," she said so there were few funerals but baptisms were plenty as well as the occasional wedding at St. George's Chapel. Services were held both in chapel and on the parade grounds with Sunday School and week-day activities for the sons and daughters of soldiers. But one of the most important parts of a padre's work was that of giving counsel, sympathy and encouragement. The men turned to him when in need of advice and he was always accessible at stated hours.

There is strict adherence to the demarcation of rank and title in a military camp. "This is necessary for discipline," said Mrs. Henderson "but in the Church and in the Red Cross there was no dividing line—all were equal."

Candidates were prepared for confirmation and the spiritual life of the soldiers enriched by devotion and earnestness of purpose.
