United Nations Must Fight On In Korea

Communists Will Have to Move if Peace is Wanted

Secretary General Trygve Lie Does Not Expect World War

LAKE SUCCESS (CP) — Secretary General Trygve Lie said today that the United Nations must fight with all the force it can safely commit in Korea until the other side signals it is willing to negotiate for a cease-fire. Lie said also that he does not now expect a third world war although it will take time to restore calm.

Lie, at a press conference, shielded from a storm over statements by General MacArthur, United Nations commander in the Far East. He said any questions relating to MacArthur should be addressed to the unified command (actually the United States government) to which MacArthur was responsible. He refused to say whether United States forces should cross the thirty-eighth parallel but insisted that the United Nations aim is unified and independent Korea.

"There has been no sign for many weeks that the North Koreans or those supporting them are willing to open negotiations for a cease fire," Lie said in a prepared statement. "Unless and until there is such a sign the United Nations has no alternative but to continue the fight to repel and, if possible, end aggression in Korea with all the force it can safely commit to that action."

Fortunes in Sweepstakes

Young Ottawa Man Gets $140,000—Vernon Man Picks Up $20,000

OTTAWA (CP)—Ernest Reid, 26-year-old immigration inspector from Emerson, Manitoba, today won $140,000 in the Irish Sweepstake on the Grand National Steeplechase.

On his visit to Ottawa, he said the first thing he plans to do with the money is to spend his parents on a trip to their homeland—Scotland. Reid now becomes one of the most eligible bachelors in Canada but he doesn't think he'll marry. "Not at the moment, anyway."

Joe Ouimet, Hamilton, Ontario, won $34,500, top prize in Quebec Legion Army and Navy sweepstakes.

Second prize money in the veterans' sweep—$20,000—went to C. W. Kempton, 32-year-old garage mechanic of Vernon. He was the only big winner in B.C.

Coalition Conservative Snubbed at Point Grey Association Meet

VANCOUVER.—Mrs. Tillie M. Rolston, one of the breakaways from the coalition government ranks in the Legislature at Victoria, was endorsed by her own Vancouver-Point Grey Progressive Conservative Association last night.

A. R. MacDougall pleaded with the association against endorsing Mrs. Rolston's action but made little impression.

He said that, if the Progressive Conservative party could get together, it would "go somewhere." "Where?" asked one questioner.

England Beats Scotland

GLASGOW (CP)—England defeated Scotland 3 to 2 in an international amateur soccer match today.

Fire Destroys Galiano Lodge

GALIANO, B.C. (CP)—Volunteer bucket brigades last night saved this resort town of 260 persons from destruction by fire.

The town is on Galiano Island in the Gulf of Georgia, 39 miles southwest of Vancouver. Fire leveled the two-storey Galiano Lodge with loss placed at $75,000.

The hotel was unoccupied at the time except for a watchman and no one was hurt. Billows of black smoke were visible for 25 miles.

The fireplace had been lit and the fire is believed to have started in the attic.

Leaving for holidays in the south, Mr. and Mrs. E. Loftus will sail on the Chilcotin to Vancouver tomorrow night.

PRINCE RUPERT "GETS" ONE—

Pioneer Engineer Back To Organize Profession

Twenty-five professional engineers—civil, electrical, mechanical and other categories—the majority of whom have become located in Prince Rupert as a result of the advent of the Columbia Cellulose operation, gathered at the Canadian Legion dining room last evening as the guests of Col. Leroy F. Grant, field secretary of the Engineering Institute of Canada.

They heard Col. Grant reminisce nostalgically on the real early days of Prince Rupert between 1907 and 1911 when he was an engineer on the original laying out of the port and townsite of Prince Rupert. (A street here—Grant Place in Section Five—is named after Col. Grant.)

They also heard this pioneer of pioneers propose that, now the profession had gained strength in numbers here, a local section of the Engineering Institute of Canada might be organized in Prince Rupert for the welfare and development of the profession and its members along various lines.

Ross A. Ritchie had charge of the arrangement of a pleasant evening's proceedings. After disclosing that Prince Rupert had figured vitally in his own career—he had met his wife here and it was from this city that he had joined the Engineering Institute of Canada—Col. Grant observed that "Prince Rupertism is a disease that gets you. Once you have been here you never stop talking about Prince Rupert."

In the course of his travels—his present duties carry him from coast to coast including Newfoundland—Col. Grant told of meeting former Prince Rupert people at far-removed places. PIONEER EPISODES Then Col. Grant recalled some (Continued on Page 4)

"WAR" IN ALASKA—

"Aggressors" Thrown Back From Anchorage Air Base

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (CP)—"Aggressors" threw 60 medium bombers at the Anchorage military area today but were "wiped out" at Kodiak Island in another phase of Alaska's "Exercise Firestep" mock war games.

Sixty bombers, the largest force so far employed, struck at Elmendorf air force base and nearby Fort Richardson in a three-way simulated raid from 20,000 to 30,000 feet.

The bombers concentrated their attack on Elmendorf industrial housing areas.

At Kodiak impres ruled that the entire "aggressor" army had been annihilated by defending forces in mid-morning. Most of the action took place in rugged terrain north of Kodiak naval air station.

The "aggressors" could not reach the main portion of the huge naval base, army, navy and marine forces which combined in the operation.

THE WEATHER

A fresh outbreak of Pacific air has moved inland over the British Columbia coast during the night causing variable cloudiness over many of the interior regions and scattered showers in parts of the Cariboo. The coast remained relatively unaffected but fresh northwest winds will be general in the exposed areas of the coastal waters during the day.

Another rather intense low pressure area is developing south of the Alaska peninsula. The centre itself appears to be moving northward but the leading edge of the associated disturbance will cross the Gulf of Alaska causing strong southerly winds over the exposed waters near the Queen Charlottes early tomorrow morning. It is not expected to affect the southern coast in the next 24 to 48 hours.

Forecast North coast region — Cloudy along the west coast of the Charlottes and clear over the remainder of the region today, becoming overcast tonight with rain Sunday morning. Scattered showers Sunday afternoon. Little change in temperature. Winds—northwest (25), becoming southerly (30) in the exposed areas early Sunday morning. Lows tonight and highs Sunday at Port Hardy, 36 and 50; Sahnspit and Prince Rupert, 40 and 48.

Plane, With 22, Is Lost

SANTA BARBARA, California (CP)—A Southwest Airways plane carrying 22 persons—19 passengers and three crew members—is missing and feared lost in mountains or at sea near here. Ground, air and sea searches are under way for the Douglas DC-3, missing since shortly after 8 p.m. Friday.

The lost plane left San Francisco at 5:45 p.m. bound for Los Angeles.

It has been estimated that the first generation of Norman settlers in Canada numbered 800 families with over 5,000 children.

Tories Back Mrs. Rolston

ORMSKIRK, England (CP)—Conservatives retained their House of Commons seat in this traditionally Tory Lancashire town in a by-election Thursday. Both parties showed big drops in voting strength.

Nearly 10,000 voters who cast ballots in the 1950 general election stayed away Thursday. Figures announced today showed Sir Arthur Salter, former independent turned Conservative, received 24,000 votes and the Labor candidate, Lt.-Col. H. A. Kelly, 8,969.

The by-election was made necessary by appointment of Sir Ronald Cross as governor of Tasmania. Cross received 28,654 votes in the general election to 14,583 for Labor's L. C. Edwards. The Conservative victory whittled down Labor's effective working majority in the 625-seat Commons to seven.

Spy Gets 15 Years

NEW YORK (CP)—Atom spy David Greenglass, who helped doom his sister and her husband to death, got off today with a 15-year prison sentence. It was his reward for key testimony which convicted the higher-ups in the international war-time ring of Russian-bossed spies.

Greenglass could have gotten the death penalty or 30 years' imprisonment.

Metlakatla Incorporation

Local Village To Make History Soon
A struggling group of British Columbia natives are soon to make history in Canada. With the incorporation of their 17,000-acre reserves under the "white laws" they will be the first band enfranchised in the Dominion.

Numbering 153 from what was once a population of 1900, the Metlakatla Indians near Prince Rupert are awaiting the first order-in-council from the Dominion government for enfranchisement. Next will be application for incorporation as a B.C. municipality.

"It will be the first thing of its kind in Canada," said Indian Superintendent F. E. Anfield here, explaining that the natives will be enfranchised in a body instead of individually. "The end is now in sight. We hope it will be only a matter of months," Mr. Anfield said.

On the enfranchisement board are Commissioner W. S. Arneil, Mr. Anfield and Peter Leighton, councillor of Metlakatla. With the incorporation and white privileges, secret ballot elections will be used, the superintendent said.

Formal negotiations have been under way since 1941 but natives have pressed to rid themselves of wardship since 1917. Prominent have been such men as E. A. Leighton, secretary of the village council for 34 years.

Five miles across the harbor from Prince Rupert, Metlakatla, on the Tsimpsan Peninsula, was once "broken in spirit and skeptical of the white man."

In 1886 Father William Duncan disagreeing with his church, took 1300 natives to form New Metlakatla, Alaska. Anglican Bishop W. Ridley succeeded him at Metlakatla. However, the B.C. village remained and recouped itself.

Part of a trust of $100,000, paid to the band for the present Prince Rupert site by the Grand Trunk Pacific Development Co. in 1907, will be distributed on enfranchisement, Mr. Anfield believed.

Signatures Are Forgeries

VANCOUVER (CP)—A handwriting expert testified in Supreme Court yesterday that signatures of two witnesses to the disputed $900,000 James Thomson will are forgeries.

Henry B. MacLean said the signatures "were not written" by witnesses Angus Campbell and Charles E. Smith. Both men have died since the will was found in Smith's Vancouver real estate office in 1949.

Distribution of the bachelor hotelman Thomson's estate hinges on the validity of the will. Chief beneficiary named in the document is a city fireman, Gilbert Campbell, son of one of the witnesses.

Campbell withdrew from the case several months ago, saying there were indications the will was a forgery.

If the will is proven invalid, the $900,000 will be divided among six cousins of Thomson. The case will continue Monday.

"MING" DAY—

ase Honor Ancestors Ceremony in Cemetery

"Ming" Day marks the beginning of the "new growth" and with this opportunity these last Thursday gathered at Fairview to pay respects to their ancestors.

Several hours were spent there by a large gathering of the Chinese plots and making sure the buried were well.

This is a bi-annual Chinese, said Mah, a city merchant. The ceremony will take place in September which is "Ming" Day and means summer.

Each family pays respects to their ancestors these days, but here, they have died without the public gathering as the ritual of re-animated Chung Kee.

As I See It

OLD MAN TAKES PLUNGE

BOMBAY, India. — A professor of sociology introduced me to the librarian of the University of Bombay as "the oldest journalist in Canada."

That made me gulp with surprise, but it put me in a laughing mood.

So when a good friend of our trade commissioner's, Bob Renwick, invited us all to the Bombay race track, I accepted gladly. After all, they had gone temple hunting and shrine seeking with me, and turn about is fair play.

We had lunch at the Turf Club, the best meal which I had had since leaving Delhi. Our host was Nazim Chinoy, whose uncle Sir Sultan Chinoy, had six horses running in various races that day.

The race track was about the only place in Bombay I ever did get cool. I was able to forget, for a few hours, that I am covered from head to foot with "prickly heat," or as we call the affliction in Canada, hives.

TRUE TO MY SCOTTISH half ancestry I decided not to risk any real money. However, I had to bet something. So I changed my plane ticket to go by night and thereby got a refund of 51 rupees. Also, by going at night instead of next morning, I saved an extra 17 rupees. Thus I had about 70 rupees to play with.

I did not tell my genial host that I had only been to one other race in all my life. But I silently remembered it was on the 24th of May, 1915, when I was a young kid in the Field Artillery at Kingston. There was to be a matched race between the fastest horse owned by the Royal Canadian Horse Artillery and a brown plow owned by some other army unit. In our crowd we were all betting against the RCHA horse because the regular artillerymen were so cocksure. But my gambler's instinct only led me to bet 50 cents, which I thought I had lost when the RCHA horse left "our" plug so far behind it was painful.

But luck was on our side after all, for about three-quarters the way around the track the RCHA black demon jumped the fence and made for home and our nag won in a walk.

AT THE BOMBAY RACES I started out by betting 10 rupees on each race. But it seemed that almost every horse I picked came in second, never first. After a few races, when I saw my dwindling roll of bills, I cut down my bets to five rupees.

Usually Rosemary Renwick, wife of the trade commissioner, would go 50-50 with me. But even that did not change my bad luck, nor hers.

After I had lost on the first, second, third, fourth and fifth races I really began to ponder the evils of gambling; in fact had just about reached the conclusion that there was a lot to be said for banning horse racing and other forms of gambling.

But then Nazim took us all out for tea and we perked up a bit. Nazim was telling us jokes about his days at the General Motors school in Detroit; how he froze the tips of his ears by wearing a turban in February to celebrate his graduation.

BUT WHEN I LOST ANOTHER 10 chips in the seventh race and still another in the eighth my only consolation was that anyway that day's gate receipts went to the Assam relief fund.

WHEN THE NINTH AND last race came up I decided that the situation called for desperate measures. I did not look at the horses, nor try to pick one with a nice name. I ignored the record of the jockey or the weight the nags carried.

I waited for the odds to go up on the board and said to my companions: "Which one has the longest odds?" The answer was "Number 11—Takakul."

So I placed 10 rupees on Takakul and believe it or not, that brown Indian-born four-year-old filly won nicely. I got back 94 rupees for my investment of 10, thus ending the day with quite a tidy net profit.

Still my warning is shun gambling especially horse racing, unless you too can nick a long shot winner in the last race.

Saturday Sermon

"First Word From Cross"

(By REV. FRED ANTROBUS, First Baptist Church)
"Father forgive them, for they know not what they do."
—Luke 23:34.

The impressions made on the different groups around the Cross of the Crucifixion of the Lord Jesus were varied. On the soldiers, who did the deed, it made no impression, except on the centurion, who confessed Him as the Son of God. The members of the Sanhedrim, and the others who thought with them, were thrown into convulsions of angry opposition. Even the friends of Jesus saw only a very little way into the meaning of what was taking place before their eyes. The victory of their Master over sin, death, and the world, appeared to them a tragic defeat.

The true meaning of Calvary would be revealed if we could see it as it appeared to Him as from His painful station. He looked forth upon the scene. Now the sentences He uttered, as He hung there, provide us that glimpse into His mind. They are mere fragments of course. Yet they are charged with eternal significance. Words are always photographs, more or less true, of the mind which utters them. These were the truest words ever uttered and He Who uttered them,

Cancer Drive

THE CANCER Fund drive is one of those campaigns which has become long since recognized and generously supported in Prince Rupert. The annual canvass will be on again here next week.

The good work of the Cancer Society in its propaganda and preventive efforts, after many years now, has been amply demonstrated. It has brought about a new outlook, has done much to remove blind fear and to spread the gospel of the importance of early diagnosis and treatment. Doubtless, much benefit and blessing has thereby accrued, lives saved, suffering obviated and health and happiness given.

Not a few Prince Rupert people have been aided directly by the Cancer Society's facilities. Some have received treatment which, had it not been for the Society, they could never have obtained.

Generous support of this campaign can be unhesitatingly recommended.

Just Propaganda Contest

AS EXPECTED, the long drawn out meeting of Big Four deputies at Paris has developed into little more than a propaganda contest which is now petering out.

The conference has got no further than the suburbs of nowhere. The British and French indicate a desire to keep on trying. The United States seems ready to quit.

That attitude may in itself be partly a maneuver to press the Russians nearer to reasonableness. But it throws some doubt on the efficacy of American preparations for a conference which nearly everyone guessed would turn out to be mainly a propaganda contest.

What is a propaganda opportunity for the Soviet goose ought to be a propaganda opportunity for the western gander.

"Now just watch the way they act when they find it in the hole."

"ANCIENT" SADDENED
Editor, Daily News

We read, with disgust, the howls from tenants about rent control. It reminds us of the howls of the Russians and Chinese who want the land taken from the owners and given to them. We have no use for thieves or for governments who will steal. We spent billions for democracy, fighting Hitler and other swine, but it appears to us that we are fast approaching that very system ourselves. The socialists, unions and Communists nearly ruined the world today. They have long since passed the old conditions, where the greedy capitalists were making hogs of themselves and gone one better.

Why is there such a housing shortage? No one but a fool would build houses today and have the idiotic governments set the rent at 1940 levels, while the price of wages and everything else has advanced many times. The governments of the United States and Canada have gone completely nuts and the property owners and the employers are being robbed and swindled at every turn. Talk about "Britons shall never be slaves." The poor dopes of businessmen—so-called—are working for nothing and hoarding themselves and haven't the heart to do anything about it. The government is stealing from the "HAVES" and giving to the "HAVE NOTS". The businessman of today spends half his time keeping books for the government, without pay, which is a swindle and pays an army of parasites to drive around collecting Workmen's Compensation, Unemployment Insurance, Income Taxes, Union dues, Hospital boodle and 3 percent taxes. That reminds one of the Israelites having to make bricks without straw.

Where does this place the businessmen and the employers, without whom there would be no jobs for those who want high wages, for little work, and free rent? The next step will be just what happened in Russia and we should like to be where we could see what these people who are now stealing off the landlord and yapping about high cost of living while getting $15 and $20 for eight hours loafing, will like it when there are no unions, no eight hours, five days a week, or soft snaps. Today the person who talks about the high cost of living better do some figuring—the dopes in the government, also.

There was never a time in history when living was so luxurious and so cheap as it is today. The cost in money may be more but compared to wages it is less. An hour's work will buy more than it ever did before. Of course, money is of little value. Landlords, old people who have to live off their savings, those on pensions, etc., are getting it in the neck. Even government bonds are not a good investment any more. The value of property of any kind also is a question.

The only people who have it soft are those who get controlled rents; Workmen's Compensation, Unemployment Insurance, baby bonus along with $12 to $25 every eight hours, which is increased by overtime.

All of these conditions are the same in Britain, Canada and the U.S.A. The places where "Britons shall never be slaves," "the land of the free and the home of the brave," make one wonder what next. They remind us of what happened in Russia about 1917, what has happened in most of Europe since then, what happened in China and Korea, the asinine mess made of all these situations by our so-called statesmen. We can think of only two who have shown any intelligence — Churchill and Stalin.

Under these conditions we are wondering about those days of "The Great Tribulation." Just how much worse does it need to get before we reach that place in the destiny of the world? Just where does Armageddon come into the picture? God will not tell us. Possibly our ministers cannot do so. But we would like to know what happens after Armageddon, when we understand that God and his army, finishes the battle, and Christ lands on the Mount of Olives, and takes over the job of running the world.

After all of this it seems time to shut up but we are also reminded of Lot and Sodom. Sodom was destroyed because of the sins of the people, because Lot could not find ten just men therein. In B.C. we have so far only TWO persons with the courage and intelligence to walk across the floor of the legislature, in disgust of our socialist, dictatorial, order-in-council brand of democratic government. What B.C. needs at present is an Independent majority, who will wipe out most of the actions of the Johnson regime, but what a hope that is, with so many wanting to get something for nothing.

Sadly yours,
"ANCIENT"

DOESN'T HAVE TO STAY
Editor, Daily News:

In answer to "Another Disgusted Tenant's" letter in Friday's Daily News, I would like to call to his (or her) attention that there are trains, planes and boats leaving here every day, and if they are so down on this city, I for one would be only too happy to see them take advantage of these services.

This type of people come here with nothing, contribute nothing, yet expect we, who call ourselves citizens and try to better our town, to break our necks so they may have the best of everything. To me this knocking is like waving the proverbial red flag. Sure, things could be better here—and elsewhere—but they could also be a lot worse as "Another Disgusted Tenant" must know—or he wouldn't have to come here to keep from starving to death.

You don't care if you never see our city again—we return your feelings—we don't care if you never see you or your kind again.

Thank you for your space, Mr. Editor.

BILL COLLINS.

Nurse is Favorite

MOOSE FACTORY (CP)—Irene (Fran) Mann nips sickness in the bud in the Indian settlements near this Hudson Bay post and the Indians love her.

This tall girl's job is to trek to lonely settlements on James Bay on her mission of preventive health education.

She herself treats cases which aren't sufficiently serious to be removed to the big new Indian hospital here. A native of Campbellton, N.B., she also wages a continuous campaign to improve sanitary conditions.

Fran is a field nurse for the Indian health service of the Department of National Health and Welfare. She has been doing her job since the service was started 18 months ago.

Three times a week she is taken to the north end of the settlement by snowmobile. She works the rest of the way and back on foot; house by house. Another three days are spent in calls to patients requiring regular treatment.

There is one call that she makes every day—to the Indian residential school, where she keeps an eye on the welfare of more than 300 pupils. Temperatures frequently are taken, as are X-ray examinations for tuberculosis, the disease to which the Indian is most subject.

Fran moves through the village to the accompaniment of howling sleigh dogs, staked and chained before each home. Many are vicious, but they, too, have got to know her. She's never been bitten.

Hers was a lonely job till last autumn when the new hospital was opened. Now there is a big staff and Fran has plenty of company.

She takes her work calmly. "The Indians are good people," she says. "All they need is a little help."

Tonight's train, due from the East at 10:15, is reported three-and-a-half hours late owing to connections at Jasper. This will bring the train in at 1:45 a.m.

Cancer Drive Starts Monday

Prince Rupert Cancer Society will shoot this year for $2000 when their campaign opens on Monday. Plans for the drive were announced last night at a public meeting of the society by D. C. Stevenson, campaign manager.

The city has been divided into 28 districts, he said, and it is expected each canvasser will be able to cover his district in two afternoons.

Volunteers from the 22 persons at the meeting were few but representatives of three IODE chapters and the Sons of Norway pledged their support. Twenty-eight canvassers will be needed, said Mr. Stevenson, for the campaign is to be completed in two weeks.

Mrs. William Rothwell volunteered to organize the canvassers. Headquarters for the campaign will be the hospital office.

President Rev. F. Antrobus said last year seven persons in Prince Rupert had been helped by the Cancer Society. Fare of trip and expenses were paid for those recommended by their physicians to attend the cancer clinic at Vancouver.

"This can only be accomplished through your contributions," said Mr. Antrobus.

Mrs. G. V. Hanley, secretary-treasurer, who had attended the semi-annual convention of the B.C. Cancer Society in Vancouver, told the meeting how the contributions from the campaign were spent.

For research of the disease $74,000 had been used in 1950; more than $15,000 had been spent in direct aid to cancer sufferers; $3000 were used in visiting home patients. Since inception of the society in 1943, 341 persons had been assisted, she said.

After the meeting, films were shown.

BIGGEST BOOST—Canada's cost-of-living index took the biggest jump in its history during February, rising 4.5 points to a record 179.7 as of March 1. Higher food costs were the main factor in the boost, although every sub-index showed an increase. The solid line represents the Canadian index, while the dotted line shows the U.S. Consumer's Price Index which stood at 181.5 on Jan. 15. HOUSEKEEPING ...

SPRING CLEANING IN AIR —JOBS FOR EVERYBODY

more music, more more prose written than about any person of the year. To makers there is no poetry to spring because the word spring means meaning. Home economy spring cleaning too, at this time, home are revising for Can-wives bulletins on and freezing of Can- and vegetables, so may include the many different methods of and freezing that were fall. Now, as spring is these tests must be tastefully checked in order which is the best which is the best relative to the Canadian neither know the importance of homemaking nor are they very sure how to go about homemaking.

When actually cleaning the kitchen perhaps it would be easiest to start with the refrigerator. It should, of course, be religiously cleaned out and defrosted but right now it needs that extra special cleaning. If there is any spilled milk which has soured and dried on the surface of the refrigerator it is most important to remove it as soon as possible because acid stains are very bad for the enamel and hard on the refrigerator. When washing your refrigerator all the food and racks should be removed and the refrigerator turned to defrost. All compartments and racks should be washed with hot water and a mild solution of soap or one of the new detergents. The refrigerator should then be rinsed well with clear hot water and wiped dry. A mild solution of ammonia and water may be used if there is any odor present in the refrigerator.

Perhaps the pots and pans and baking dishes are beginning to look a little worn out from winter use. They too need new faces for spring. If the utensils are aluminum they should be washed well with a mild soap and hot water. The use of a dilute acid will brighten the aluminum immensely. It is important to remember that soda, lye and strong soaps all darken aluminum. If the utensils are the stainless steel type with copper bottoms perhaps they too are dull and stained. To polish copper bottoms use a soft cloth or a soft brush and rub with a cleanser suitable for polishing copper. If there is evidence of corrosion a dilute vinegar solution will help remove it. Wash well with hot soap suds or a mild detergent, rinse well and wipe dry. Stainless steel should need very little cleaning but hot soap suds and a good polish won't do it any harm. After this treatment the warm shiny glow of copper should glisten through your kitchen. Enamel utensils are used in many homes and perhaps they too are stained and grey looking. If they are soaked in a solution of washing soda and water they should come out white and shiny. They should then of course be washed in hot soap suds, rinsed well and dried thoroughly. Iron frying pans or dutch ovens should be washed well with a stiff brush in hot soapy water. A little abrasive cleanser may be used if necessary. They should then be rinsed well and dried very thoroughly. When pots and pans are thoroughly cleaned they do not discolor the drying towel. This job of cleaning of cooking utensils is one which the children may easily do on Saturday morning.

Father may help too, perhaps he wouldn't mind cleaning the garbage can. This is one piece of equipment which is so often neglected. It is not necessary to describe how disagreeable and dangerous a dirty garbage can may be. It should be cleaned regularly with hot soap and water and a long handled brush. A little washing soda may be used to keep the can sweet smelling. The brush should be scalded thoroughly afterwards and hung up to dry.

These hints should give a start on the yearly clean-up.

Blackwood on Bridge

By Easley Blackwood

Again today the ladies emerged triumphant, as the better sports writers say. Miss Lucy Brash, one of the world's luckier women, battered her way into a game contract as shakily as a politician's promise—and then made it by means of a well-considered backward finesse.

Mr. Abel won the first two tricks with the ace and king of diamonds. Then, fearing a shift to any of the other three suits might lose a trick, he continued with a third diamond which Miss Brash trumped in dummy with the eight of spades.

She drew the opponent's trumps in two leads, ending in her own hand, and then paused to consider her chances. She was frank with herself—they didn't look too good. Two tricks were already lost and there was a sure club loser. What about hearts? A "normal" finesse, leading low to the ace and back toward the king-jack, would win if Mr. Meek had the queen.

But Miss Brash didn't go for that play—not yet anyway. First she wisely did a little mental checking on Mr. Abel's first hand vulnerable opening bid. Clearly he had little enough. Could he have opened without the queen of hearts? Yes, it was barely possible. But on the bidding, Miss Brash figured that any honor card was much more likely to be in Mr. Abel's hand than in Mr. Meek's.

On this reasoning she placed the heart queen on her left and that meant the "normal" heart finesse would lose. All right, then, what about an abnormal finesse? That's right down Miss Brash's alley. Nobody could call her a routine player.

Mr. Abel probably had the queen of hearts but he didn't have to hold the 10, too. So at the sixth trick Miss Brash led the jack of hearts, determined to let it go if it wasn't covered. Mr. Abel covered with the queen and dummy's ace won.

Now the trey of hearts was led back. Mr. Meek played the four and Miss Brash put in the nine, which was a winner. She conceded a club trick at the end, making four spades on the nose.

PIONEER ENGINEER

episodes of pioneering days here—the week-end dances at Port Essington, the men social centre; the vicissitudes of John Houston, founder of Prince Rupert's first newspaper; week-end cruises of the old steamer Camosun to Port Essington on which the rugged workers in the "dry town" embarked in order to "take their thirst. Some leading personalities of those early days were also mentioned.

The adventures of John Houston were of particular interest. He recalled how John got a search warrant and, with the assistance of Lionel Crippen (killed in World War I as a special constable, established the freedom of the press by seizing his machinery out of the wharf, where it was being held, moving it up Centre Street and Rupert Road as crowds sang "Britons Never Shall Be Slaves" to set up the "Empire" on a "mining claim" he had located.

Stating that the Engineering Institute now had 34 branches in Canada, Col. Grant suggested how a branch or a section could be formed here. Functions, he suggested, could be the development of public speaking, the encouragement of local boys to enter the engineering profession, helping young engineers getting established, to have regular meetings for the discussion of common problems and new ideas and to bring together those engaged in various phases of the profession. And such a group could also be a benefit to the community with professional advice in public improvement.

In the United States there was a shortage of engineers today but in Canada that was not so apparent. The desirability of developing a professional consciousness rather than going out merely to be "super-mechanics" was suggested by the speaker.

The profession stood high in Canada, Col. Grant declared, and it was desirable that the institute should render service to members of the profession in places such as this.

G. A. Hunter, who had been asked to introduce the speaker, gave some brief early background.

R. A. Ritchie thanked Col. Grant and expressed approval of the idea of a section of the institute being formed here.

Chairman of Conciliation

Since nominees of the City of Prince Rupert and the Fire-

Fighters' Association failed to agree upon a conciliation board, the provincial Labor Relations board has appointed Hugh MacLaren of Vancouver. Mr. MacLaren is expected here next week when the Conciliation Board will decide upon a salary agreement between the city and the firemen. Representing the city as nominee for the employer, T. W. Brown, K.C., will negotiate with Thomas Elliott, nominee for the Prince Rupert Fire-Fighters' Association. Agreement is to be reached by April 15.

Terrace Enjoys Evening of Song

TERRACE—A very fine entertainment was presented in the auditorium of the Civic Centre on Thursday and Friday evening when the Civic Centre Choral Group presented "An Evening of Song"—a program of well-chosen songs, sung well and thoroughly enjoyed by over two hundred people who were there each night. Conductor was C. J. Norrington, Roger Campbell, with his fine baritone voice, and Mrs. W. Christy, soprano, were the soloists whose performances were top-rate. The backdrop of the stage—a seascape with sailing vessels and seagulls, was appropriate for the sea chantes which were sung at the end of the program. This seascape was realistically done in colored chalks by four of the elementary school pupils, Vance Johnson, Earl Larson, Victor Zaporzan and Gloria Maxwell under the guidance of Mrs. Labelle, school teacher. Cedar boughs and tulips decorated the front of the stage.

The announcer was George McAdams and he, as well as the president of the choral group, Harry Philip, thanked all those who had made the entertainment so successful. They also thanked the singers, their conductor and their pianist, Mrs. Norrington.

Personnel of the Group included: Thelma Christy, Jenny Smith, Pat Collins, Catherine Fraser, Florence Campbell, Mollie Wilson, Lorraine Johnstone, Margaret Carlson, Mien Van Heek, Colleen Sande, Ruth MacPherson, Alice Campbell, Allan Campbell, Roger Campbell, Oliver Baxter, Dave Bain, John Kill, Harry Philip, Dave Hamilton. Stage assistant was J. Peddie and Carl Phillip, Larry Smerfield were in charge of the public address system. George Anderson and O. Kaulbeck at the door.

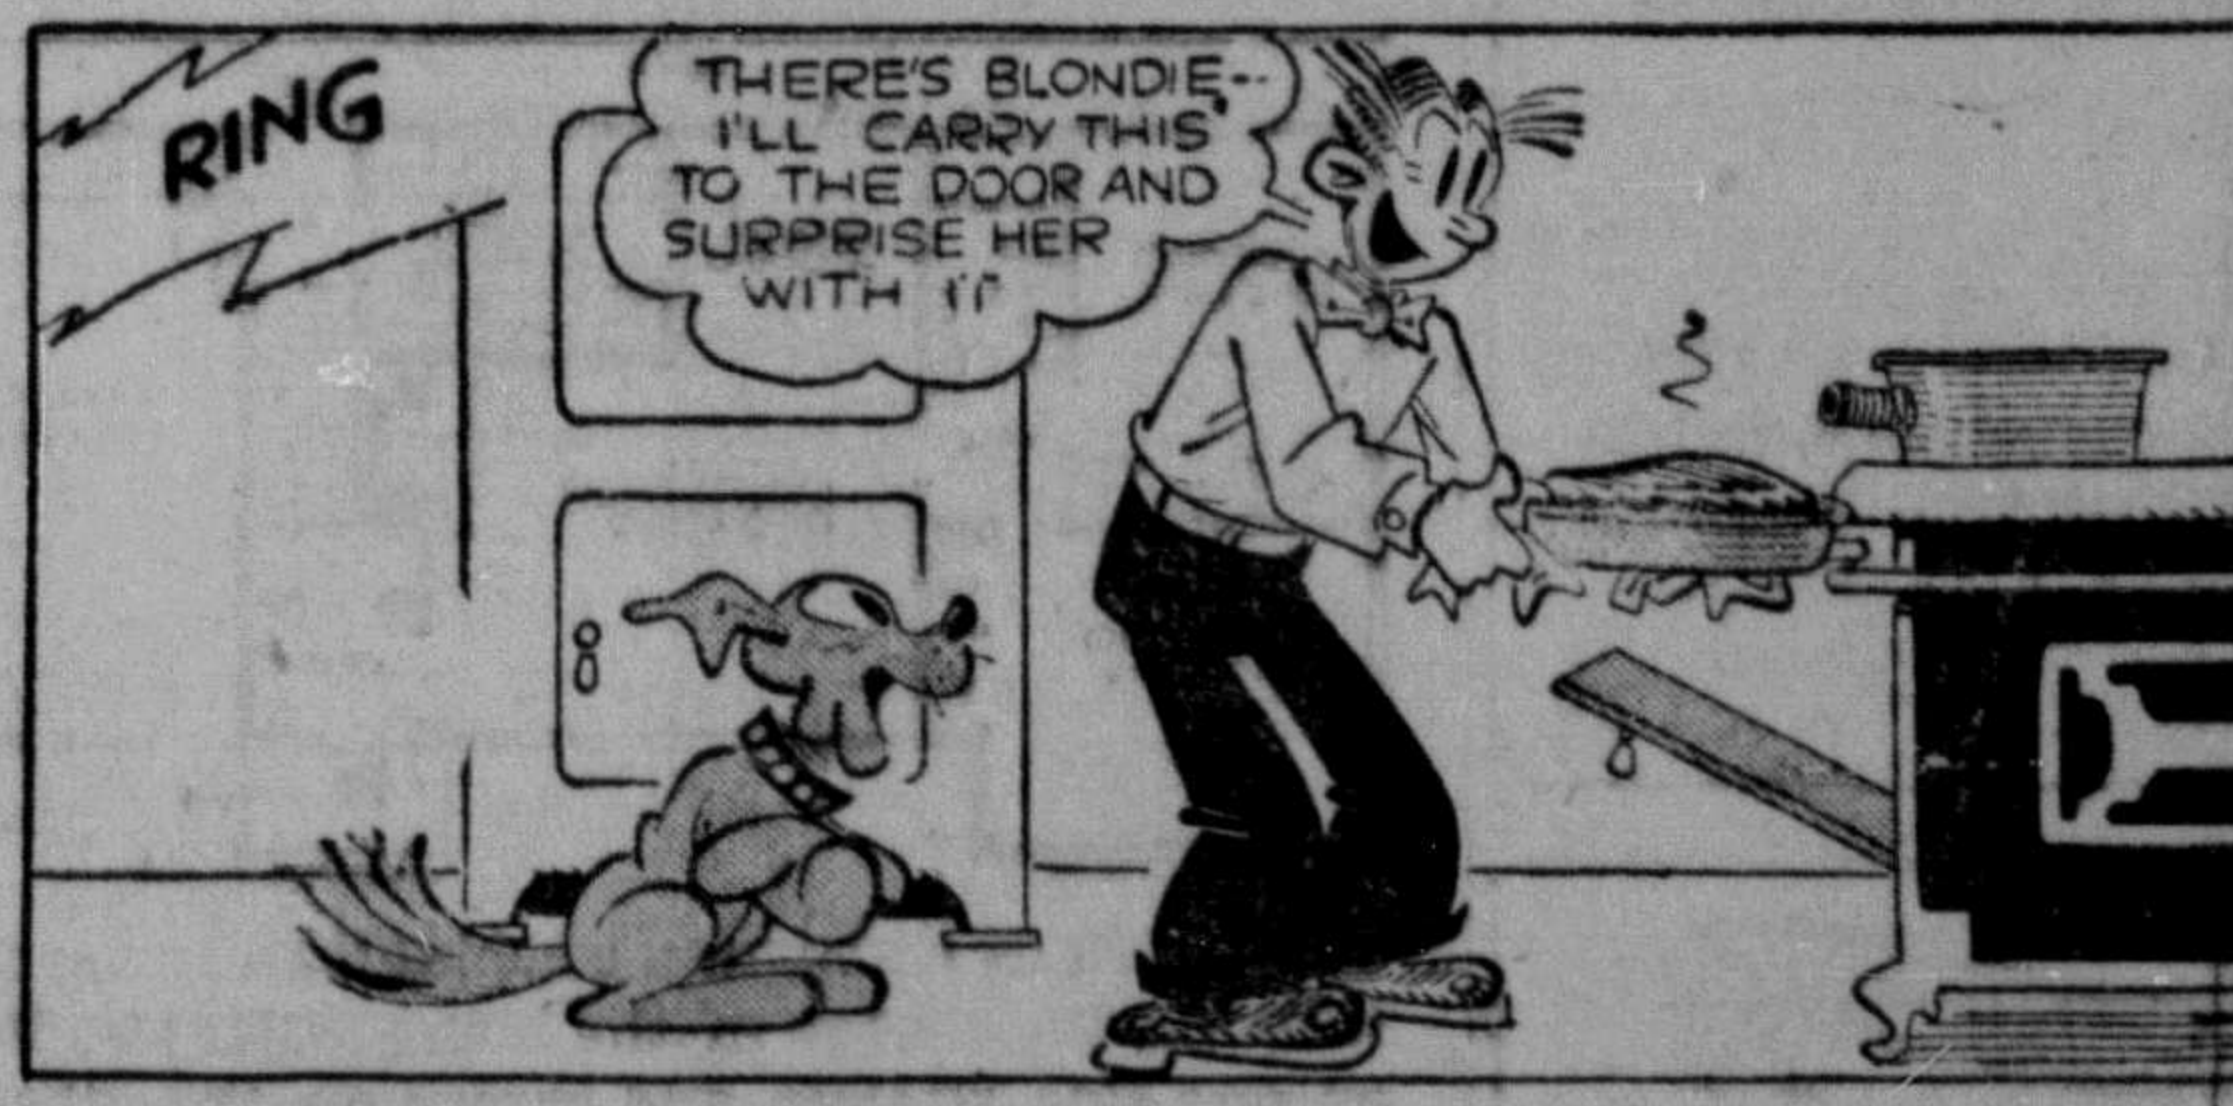

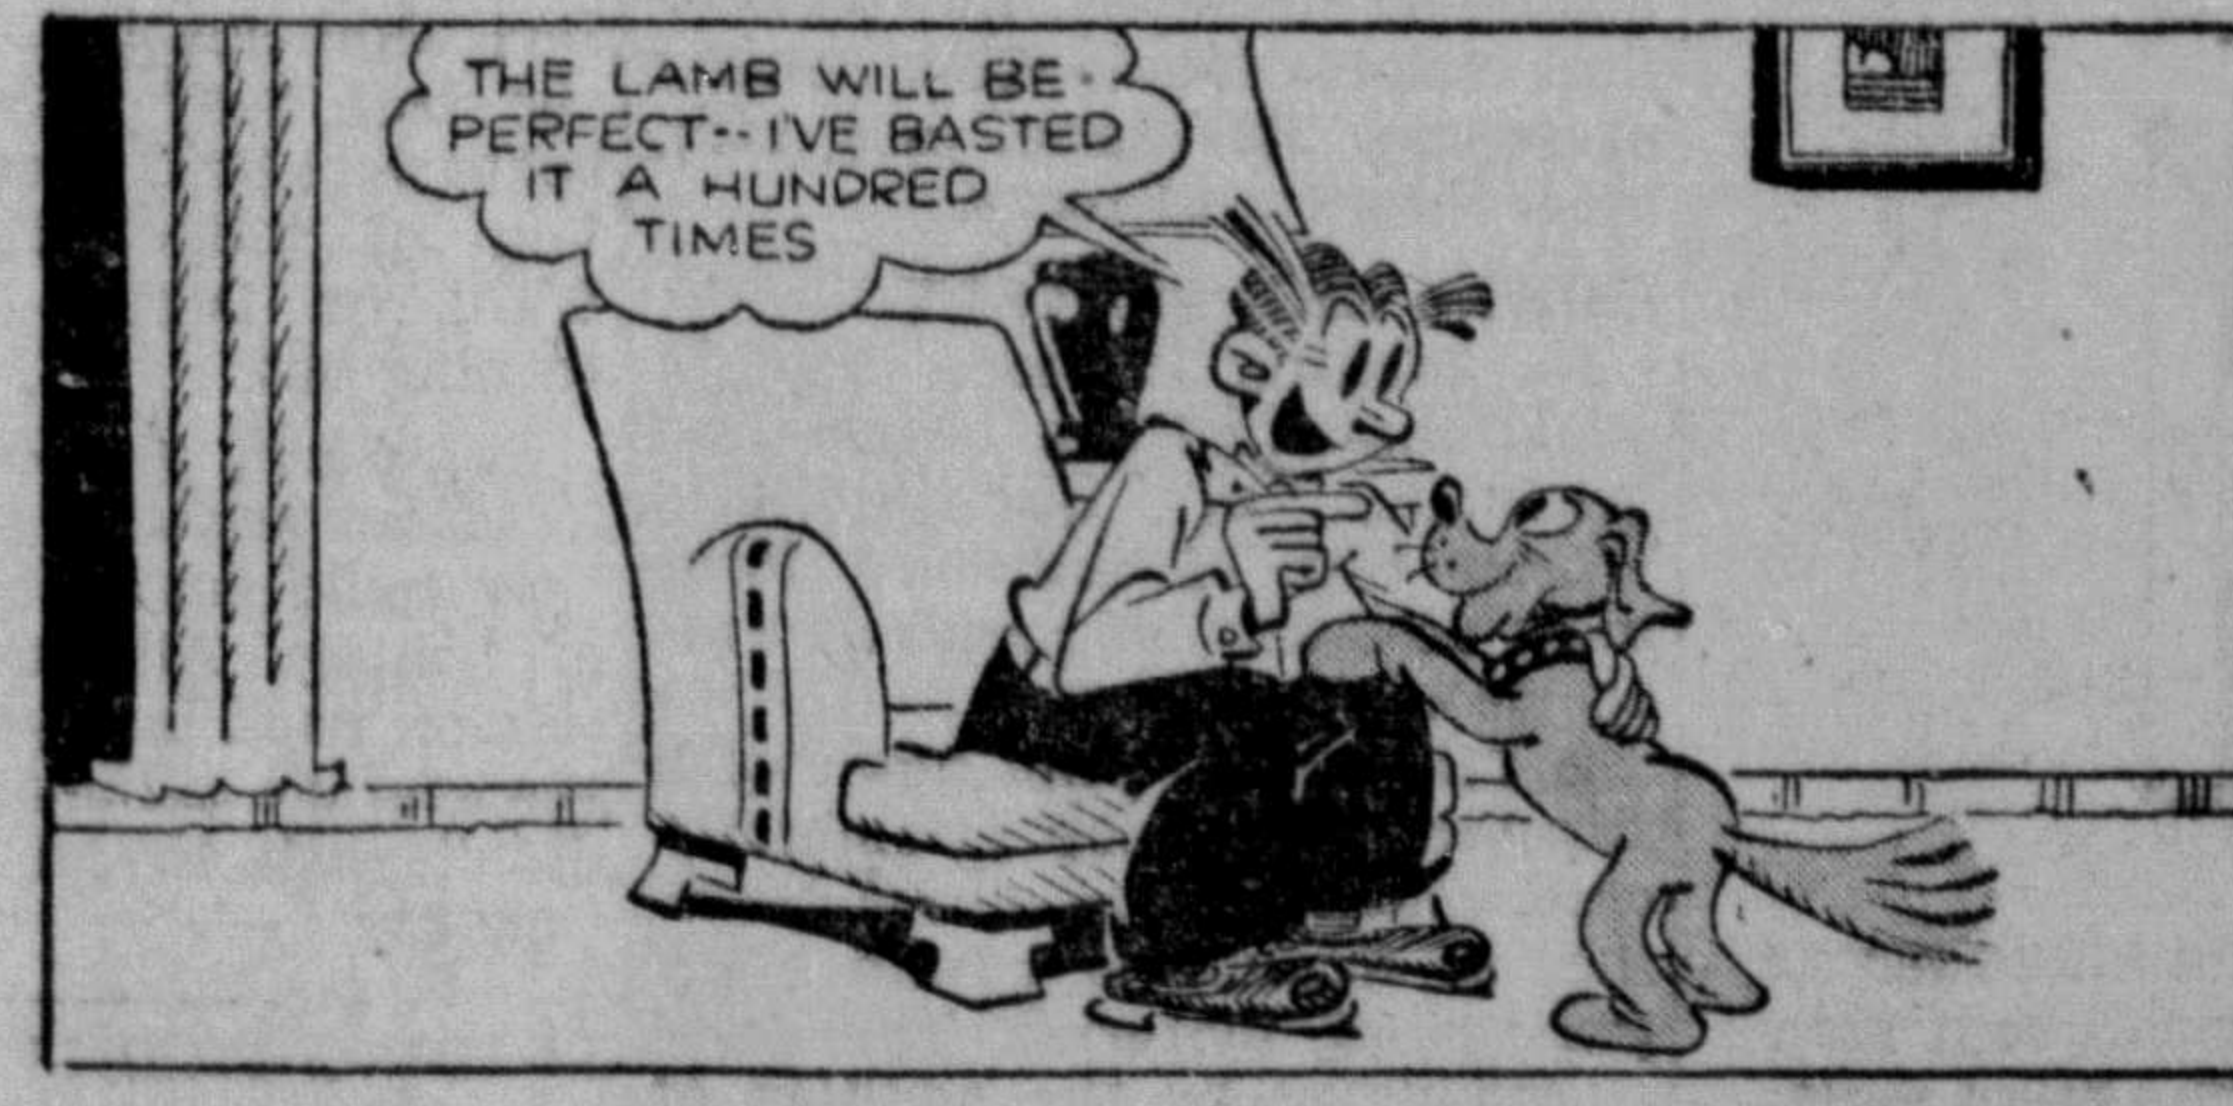

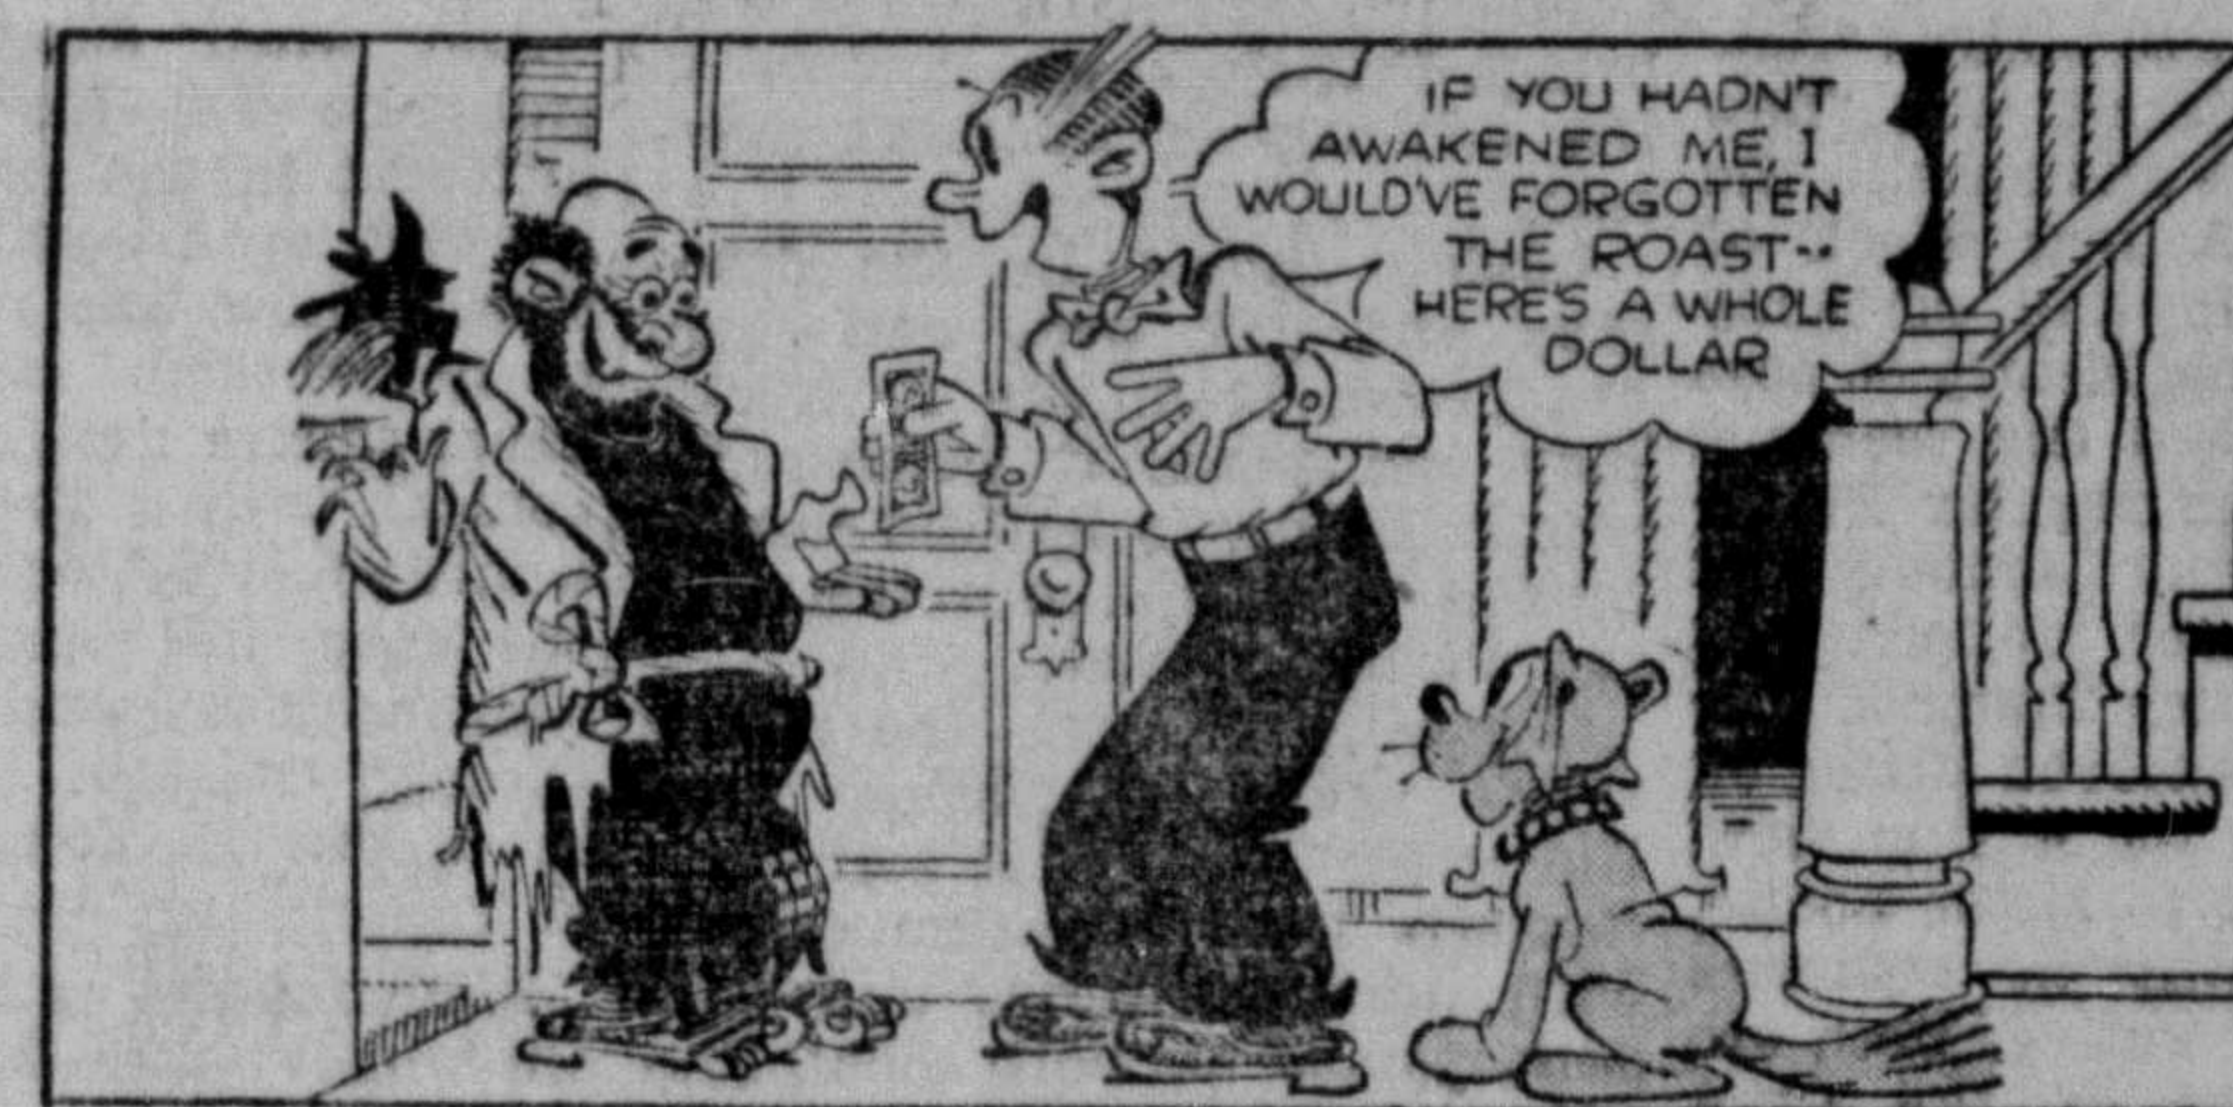

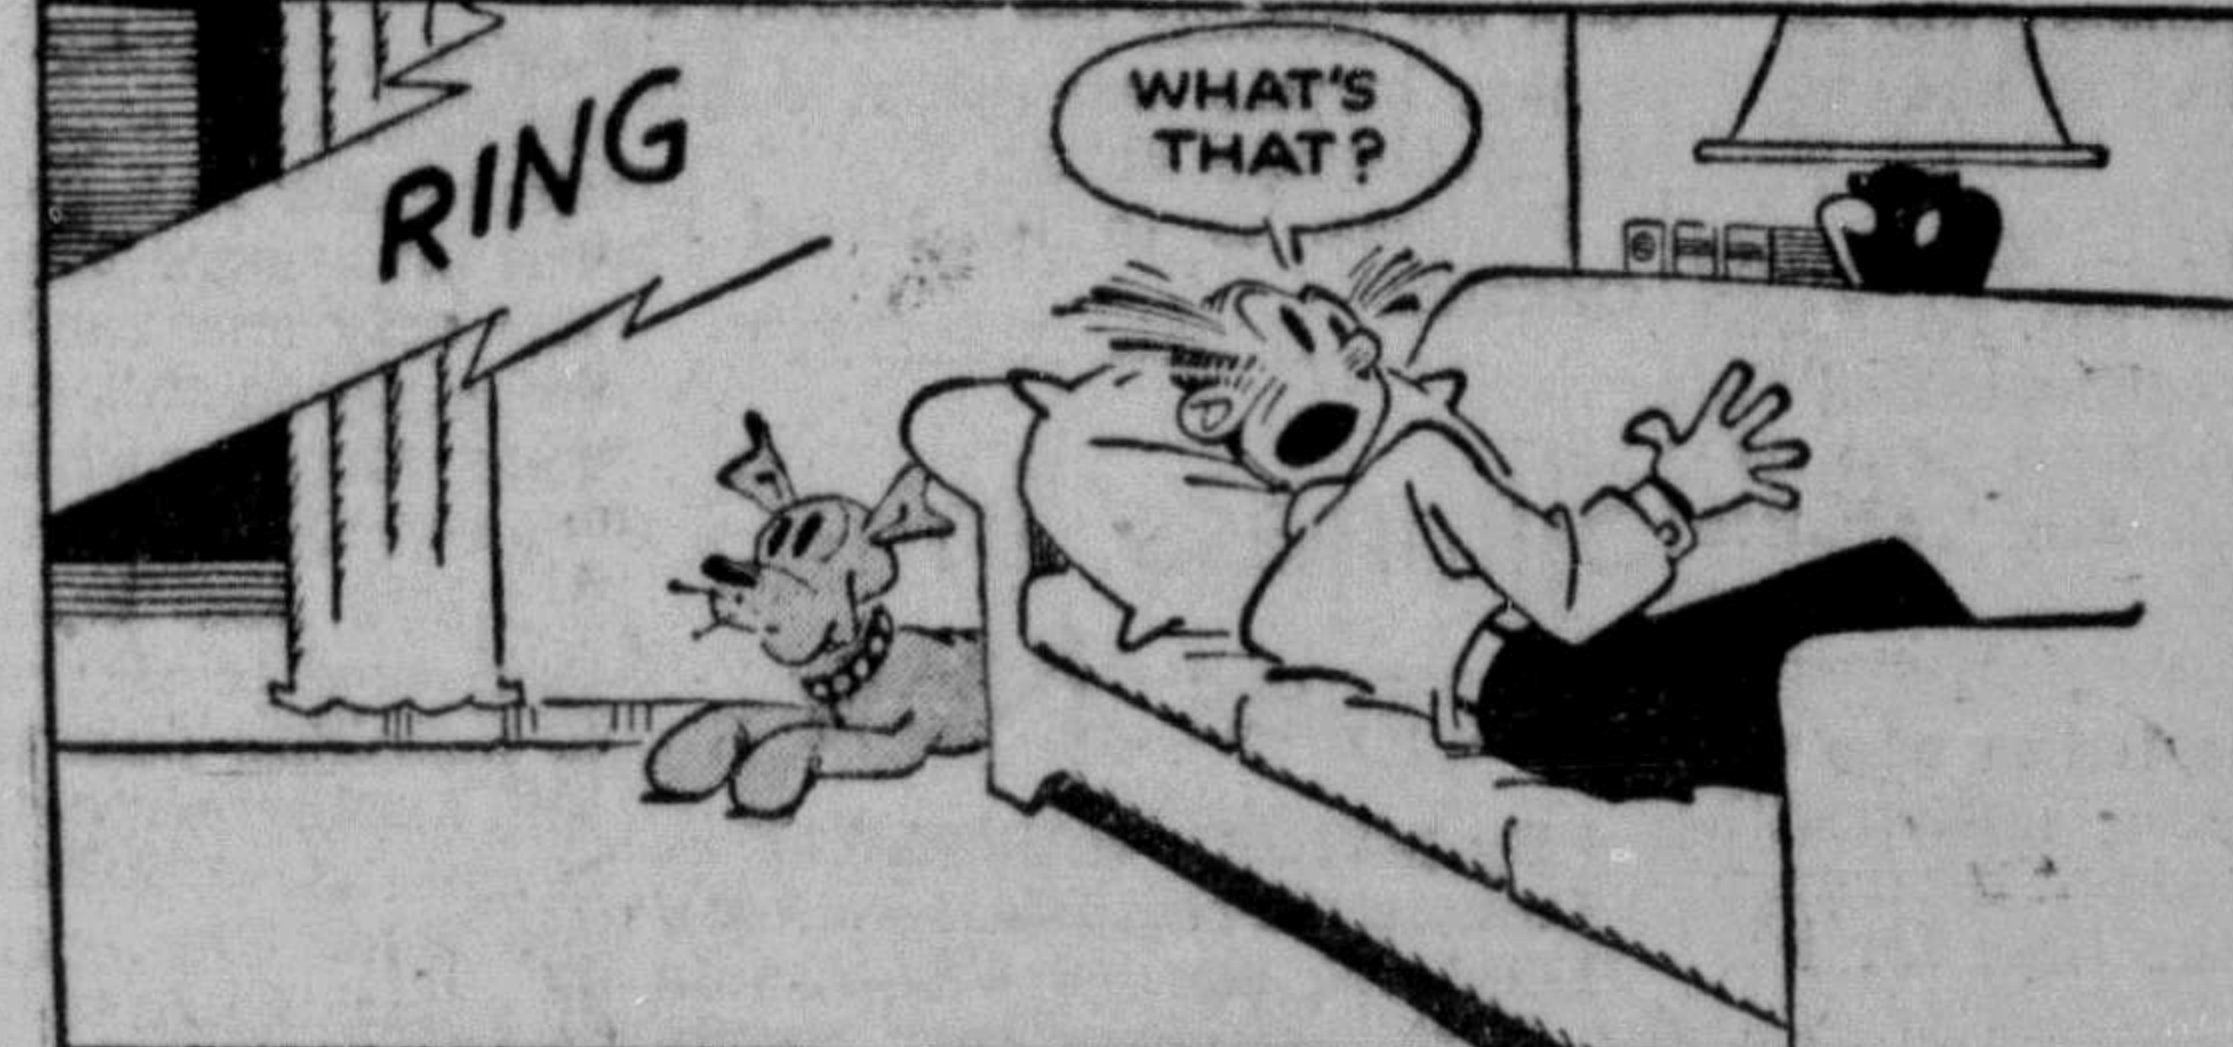

The program was:
Choral—"The Ash Grove", "Drink to me Only", "Cradle Song", "Rose of Tralee", "Bendemeer's Stream", "Linden Lea", "Dear Land of Home", "Come to the Fair", "Rolling

"Steels" Not "Nickels" Now

OTTAWA (CP)—Federal assistance to marginal gold mines—those which have a tough time meeting costs—will total between $10,000,000 and $11,000,000 this year, Minister of Mines Prudham announced yesterday.

Prime Minister L. St. Laurent announced that Canadian five-cent pieces will now be made from steel instead of nickel after July 1 due to shortage of nickel.

18 Months For Theft

Eighteen months' imprisonment was given Donald Auger, 25, in city police court yesterday by Magistrate W. D. Vance.

One of three separate terms to run concurrently, was breaking and entering a railway car, and stealing groceries, for which Auger was sentenced to 18 months' imprisonment.

Special Agent for the Canadian National Railways here, William Beaton, laid the charge against Auger.

With other evidence, the accused was arrested by officers of the city detachment of the RCMP at his Ninth Avenue West home Tuesday night.

Six months for the theft of a radio, tools, and other articles and six months for retaining a stolen bicycle was given Auger by Magistrate Vance.

Sentence is to be served in Oakalla.

LONDON (CP) — Russia said last night there are no Soviet troops being concentrated in Manchuria. American press reports, Tass said, are "invented and slanderous."

Slimness in Dresses Now

By MURIEL NARRAWAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer
LONDON, April 6 (CP)—Paquin of Paris, showing his second London collection since the war, brings French haute couture to the doorstep of London's Mayfair.

Models shown in the dove-grey and gilt west end salon are drawn from the Paris display and make it possible for women to buy in Britain current models from the collection of a top Paris designer.

Typically French, the spring styles draw inspiration from the letter X. This is seen particularly in pencil-slim dresses with neat waistlines and wide skirt panels on both sides. Fitted bodices carry out the line by means of wide revers necklines filled with straight little vests.

Despite the make-believe skirt fullness, however, the silhouette is essentially slim. Tailored suits are pencil-slim with neat jackets clinging to a narrow waist and buttoned on a half-hidden waistcoat of contrast color. Basques stand out sharply from the hips and button-interest is given at the waist and on the pockets.

Many waistcoats are in white pique sporting pretty jeweled buttons that match the jacket buttoning at waist and pockets. Suit colors follow the London preference for stone, grey, rust, beige, black and navy.

GOWNS ARE STATELY

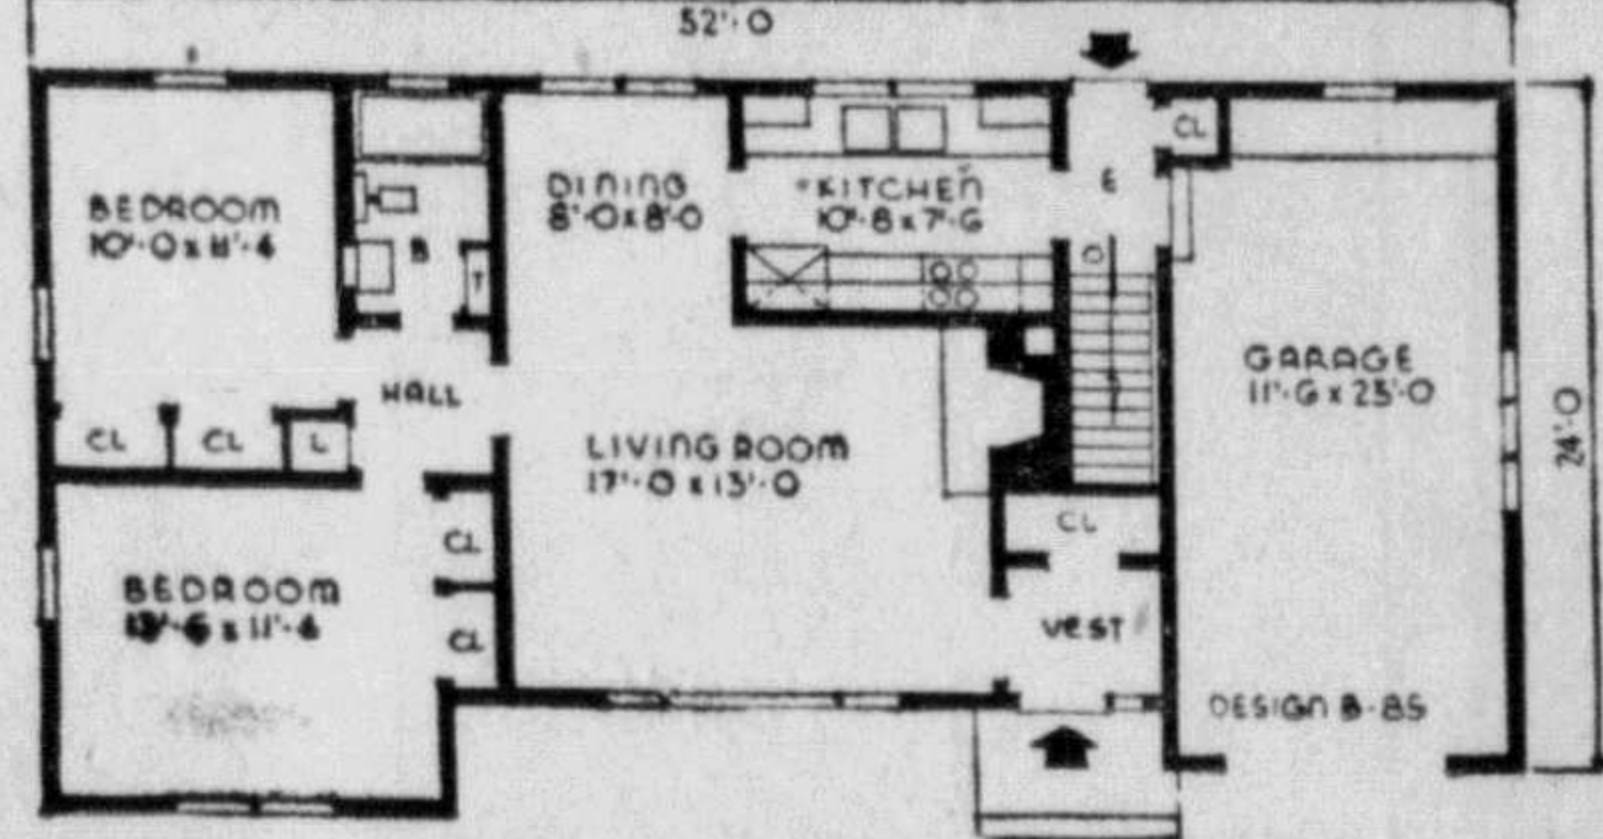

In evening dresses, Paquin could challenge the beauty and originality of Hartnell and Worth—two of London's foremost designers of exquisite embroidered ball gowns.

A full-skirted pink gown with straps apron top is embroidered completely in silver beading, so minute it covers every particle of material. The dress is completed by the addition of two huge puff sleeves of white fox comprising a double strand of fur joined by bands of pink.

A full rustling dress of pink grosgrain, with wide shoulder straps and straight neckline, has embroidery running from waist to hips in pointed spears. This is repeated at the neckline.

An interesting evening coat is a red-tiered grosgrain lined with white and having short cap sleeves topped by huge winged white cuffs. It is worn over a square-necked dress of white chiffon intricately gathered and tucked.

The huge winged cuffs on short cap sleeves are a new fashion interest this year and are shown also on dresses and other ensembles. Mostly they are accentuated by white pique or embroidery.

THE BAFFIN features a combination living and dining alcove through the center of the house with two bedrooms and bath on one side, kitchen and garage on the other. The front vestibule with a coat closet. The rear goes to the garage and basement. Rear has closet, too.

The kitchen is small and compact with cabinets on both walls. Sink is under the windows, stove, next to chimney, and refrigerator on inside wall.

Each bedroom has twin wardrobe type closets. Linen closet is in hall, towel cabinet in bath.

The roof lines of the Baffin are low, featuring overhanging eaves and asphalt shingles. The exterior walls are planned to be finished with wide siding.

Not counting the garage, the dimensions of the main house are 40 feet by 22 feet. The floor area totals 938 square feet, while the cubage contains 18,291 cubic feet.

Already people are anxious to "start something" at the proposed townsite of Kitimat. City Clerk R. W. Long said today "quite a few" inquiries had come from as far south as Arizona and from Canadian provinces.

Inquiries concerned opportunities for starting business, such as grocery, garages; some asked about employment.

Queries also referred to Prince Rupert, its industrial potential and proximity to the Kitimat region.

City Clerk Long is answering the letters enclosing Prince Rupert pamphlets. Further requests of such nature will be turned over to Prince Rupert's Public Relations Council.

'Front Buzzing These Days in Anticipation of Halibut Opening—Back from Fishermen's Convention

"Busy? Can't you see?"

The machinist was hardly heard above the din as he pointed to half a dozen orders for repairs. Yes, the waterfront is busy. This was the general answer a Daily News reporter got today—and proof of it were the halibut boats brought out for general overhaul, the way machine shops buzzed with activity, and the way the talk ran about fishing.

May 1 is still expected to be opening day of the halibut season. According to one shop, fishermen were slow to start preparing this year, "but now they're after us all day and night."

Returning from what he said was a "very successful conference," Thomas Parkin, northern representative of the United Fishermen's & Allied Workers' Union, arrived in the city yesterday aboard the Camosun. "Many resolutions were discussed, among them one opposing the new increases in the provincial hospital insurance premium rates," said Mr. Parkin. "We support any move to change the present system of hospital rates."

NEW TYPE CRABBER

By the end of this month a brand-new 26-ton vessel will slide into the harbor, just ready in time for the halibut season. All winter Jack Deane has been working on the 46-foot hull at his Cow Bay workshop. A few weeks ago he slid her off the blocks and into the backwater, to install the Chrysler 90 engine and to work on the superstructure.

But halibutting will just be a preliminary, says Jack. Come September he's going crab-fishing on a large scale. He will be the only one fishing crab commercially in this area, excepting Sam Simpson and his fleet at Masset, Queen Charlotte Islands.

Jack's new boat will be all rigged out to carry live crabs. He is installing pumps—one intake and another expelling—so a continual flow of sea water will be in the hold. The engine room will be separated from the hold by a watertight bulkhead.

And when Jack goes after crabs he will have something different in the way of a trap. Drawing on a block of wood, he showed how this new invention of his worked. Instead of the usual square design, the trap is conical, with a 12-inch top and a three-foot bottom. Crabs enter the trap by climbing up the slanting sides and dropping through the top. To hold them in a reverse cone is inserted in the top.

Main feature of the trap—the one which led to the invention—is the hinged bottom. By opening the traps full out they can be stacked so that one fits top of the other, in that way saving much space. And his traps will be a lot lighter than the average. According to the shipwright-fisherman, his weigh only 25 pounds, compared to the 70-pounders in use elsewhere.

The new boat—Jack hasn't got a name for her yet—has a 13½-foot beam and a 5-foot draught. He figures he'll get eight knots out of her.

Boat-building isn't what it used to be, most shops contend. In fact, said one builder, 1946 was the last year any number of boats were built here, with exception of gillnetters which Ed Wahl, on Digby Island, keeps turning out.

Fishermen would build boats if prices weren't so high, and they could get in a good season of fishing. Although the total salmon pack last year was good, the average gillnetter and troller didn't cash in on the amount, they say.

LOADING PROBLEM

Now that fish-talk is in the air again, a subject which is being swept from Fairview to Seal Cove is the problem of loading facilities. For years, fishermen say, they used to lay alongside the oil docks and get their "grub supply" on board with the little crane. None of them, they admit, paid much attention to the fact that such a practice was a fire hazard.

This winter Capt. William Koughan, harbor master, has enforced an existing regulation which prevents boats tying up at the oil docks for purposes other than taking on oil and gas.

The fishermen admit this should be done, for they are well aware that one careless spark could send up the whole waterfront in roaring flames. But meanwhile, they are faced with the problem of loading stores.

"If we tie up at the Fishermen's Floats we have to work all day getting stuff aboard. Seal Cove and Fairview floats are so far out stores won't deliver there." That's how most of the men put it.

Capt. Koughan realizes their problem as well.

"I'd like to see something done about it," he said. "Fishermen spend a lot of money in the city—keep it going, as a matter of fact—and they should have some facilities to make loading simpler." Then he added:

"But it is only to their interest that we keep a flock of boats—mostly unattended—away from the oil docks. Every fisherman could lose his boat if we got a big fire there."

Shortage of steel is felt in marine repair shops and it's getting worse all the time. One shop said "substitution is about all we can do now," and the machinist only shrugged his shoulders when asked by a boat-owner for an eight-foot steel shaft.

"Engine parts are the same and delivery seems to be getting pretty bad." He had a worried look when he said what this could mean to a fisherman suddenly needing parts or equipment at the peak of the season.

"It could break him if he didn't get the stuff in time."

But radiophones and echosounders are still available. Fritz Mostad, who just had a unit installed on his troller, All Star, said:

"Looks like the whole fleet is going to have sounders and phones this year. It's hard to get along without them now, so many having them." He plans to get out in a few weeks with many other trollers after springs "providing the weather isn't too rough."

Unloading 180 thousand gallons of diesel oil and gasoline, the Frank Waterhouse tank freighter Argus, Capt. Jack Wood, docked at the Imperial Oil wharf yesterday morning from Vancouver. Returning to Tacoma, 450 tons of caustic soda will be loaded by the Argus in liquid form for the Poor Alice pulp and paper.

Frank Waterhouse freighter "Chilliwack," Capt. Gar Pengelly, left at noon yesterday for Skagway where she will load 900 tons of ore for Vancouver. From the south yesterday morning, powder and caps and general cargo were unloaded here. Two graders, and other construction machinery were being shipped north.

There was an excellent turn out to see the National Film Board pictures in the hall. Ernie Merrill operated the projector.
