Carry War Into China

Should Keep Infantry at Home—Pearkes

Churchill Faces Big Task as Year Closes

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—Britain acknowledged in 1951 that she could not carry out her £4,700,000,000 rearmament program in the three years originally allotted, but will arm as quickly as she can "with the idea of deterrents rather than the idea of danger."

The announcement came from Prime Minister Winston Churchill at the close of a year in which the British lion found its tail energetically twisted in Iran and Egypt, looked uneasily at growing United States air strength in East Anglia and came into conflict with her own western partners over the question of arms standardization and military commands under the North Atlantic Treaty.

As 1951 drew to a close, Britain also found herself under growing criticism in Europe and the United States for her stand-offish attitude toward European federation.

On the credit side, the United Kingdom won recognition in an official North Atlantic report as one of the few countries judged to be contributing all possible support to the common defence effort. This report said it was felt Canada could do more.

Domestically, the country showed its determination to be prepared with announcement that the wartime Home Guard is to be revived and that a naval mine-watching organization will be recruited.

FAIR-FLUNG BATTLEFRONTS

British troops were on the move throughout the year. In Korea, exploits of the gallant Gloucestershire Regiment and the King's Own Scottish Borderers went far to support a statement by Field Marshal William Slim chief of the general staff, that the British soldier is the best in the world. First man to win the Victoria Cross in Korea was Maj. Kenneth Muir, Argyll and Sutherland Highlanders, who received the award posthumously.

Paratroopers flew into Iran in mid-summer but were flown out again as the Iranian government insisted on its law nationalizing the oil fields and the refinery built by British-owned Anglo-Iranian Company. Loss of the oil revenues caused a sharp strain on Britain's balance of payments.

Native Is Shot At Ft. Babine

An Indian is reported to have been shot at Fort Babine yesterday. No further information was available today but RCMP here say the case is being investigated by Burns Lake police who left the interior town by plane this morning.

Alida Johnson Traffic Victim

A well known city telephone operator is in Prince Rupert General Hospital after being struck by an automobile Tuesday evening at the top of Fulton Street. She is Miss Alida Johnson, 719 Lotbiniere Avenue, suffering from shock, bruises and possible internal injuries.

Police said driver of the car was Arthur T. Hanberg, 252 Ninth Avenue East. The case is still under investigation.

Mayor-Elect Takes Oath

Mayor-elect Harold S. Whalen took his oath of office yesterday before City Clerk R. W. Long. Several newly elected aldermen and one parks board commissioner also were sworn in. They were Ald. George Casey, T. Northington Youngs, and J. W. Prusky (council); and C. P. Balagno (as parks board.)

Would Separate Departments

VANCOUVER — Whether the present provincial government Department of Lands and Forests should be separated into two divisions, each with its own cabinet minister is one of the questions which will be debated at the Truck Loggers' Association ninth annual convention in Vancouver next month.

"In our early history, when forestry was relatively unimportant, the union of the Department of Lands and Forests was a logical one," says association president J. W. Baikie. "With the expansion of our provincial economy, over the years, the problems of administration have become more acute. There is a belief that the operation of these two complex divisions should be separated for greater efficiency."

The year's final review of British defence was given to the House of Commons early in December by Premier Churchill. His general message was that the danger of war seems to be reduced, although the country will not be able completely to fill all its target under the original three-year £4,700,000,000 arms budget.

On home defence, the Prime Minister said the country should conjure up for any potential paratroopers the picture of "the back of a hedgehog rather than the paunch of a rabbit."

He said the greatest concern in rearmament is caused by the slow process in developing the RAF, particularly in the supply of the latest machines. In this respect it had previously been hinted that aircraft construction was lagging, largely because of a lack of skilled manpower. One of the country's big problems is to find the 500,000 workers needed for various armament factories.

On the vexed question of a supreme commander for Allied forces in the Atlantic, Churchill showed himself still unconvinced by American arguments. He said it wasn't a question of national pride but of good working arrangements on which salvation might depend.

On Anglo-American differences of opinion over whether the Allied armies should adopt the British or American rifle, Churchill emphasized the need of a harmonious long-term plan. But he did say he thinks the British 280 may be the best yet made.

Churchill closed with an unexpected tribute to the "sterling patriotism" of Emanuel Shinwell, former Socialist defence minister and long one of his principal foes in Parliament. The kind words to Shinwell, coupled with Churchill's soft treatment of former Labor Minister Aneurin Bevan, led political observers to believe one of the premier's principal objectives is to win national support of defence policy.

He may also be seeking to clear himself of charges of "warmongering" — charges levelled by some socialists before the October general election, and criticized by many responsible commentators as among the most unscrupulous in modern British politics.

Increased diesel generating potential was assured by new installations at Burns Lake, Dawson Creek, Houston, Merritt, Quesnel, Sechelt, Smithers, Terrace and Williams Lake.

The Dawson Creek installation is a dual-fuel unit which can burn either oil or gas. The Commission entered into an agreement with Northland (B.C.) Utilities Ltd. early this year for the supply of natural gas which is piped to Dawson Creek from Alberta. This gas now is being used as a fuel in the 1880-kilowatt generating plant there.

Natives to Vote Soon

January is election month for the natives in Indian villages in B.C. and for the first time Indian women have the right to vote for their own chief councillor and councilmen. This provision is made under the new Indian Act.

Prince Rupert Indian Superintendent F. E. Anfield said today 10 villages in his district will have elections. He is returning officer and no election can be held without his supervision.

Another new provision under the Act is election of chief councillor in a separate vote. Under the old version, chiefs were appointed from the body of elected councillors.

First on the list for election is Hatzley Bay, on January 12, followed by Kikkatia, January 14, and Port Simpson, January 17.

One councillor is elected for each 100 people in the village. Eligible persons must be 21 or over, reside on the reserve and must be "persons of good report." Nominations must be filed before elections.

Indians are heavy voters, says Mr. Anfield and an extra heavy turnout is expected this year due to the women's vote and an increased interest in civic affairs.

B.C. Power Commission Plans More Expansion; North Gets Attention

VICTORIA — More relatively remote areas of British Columbia may have electricity before too long, it was indicated in the B. C. Power Commission's annual report for its sixth year of operation.

During the past fiscal year investigations were made into the possibility of supplying the communities at Queen Charlotte City and Skidegate, both on the Queen Charlotte Islands, and at Port St. James.

In the fiscal year, two new power districts were added by the Commission—Merritt in the central interior and Houston on the Bulkley River south of Smithers.

Since the end of the year, Hope and Lillooet districts have been transferred to the B. C. Electric Company.

Also since March 31, a new power district has been set up on the west coast of Vancouver Island serving the Tofino-Ucluelet area. The generating plant there purchased from the War Assets Corporation, formerly provided power for the RCAF station at Tofino airport. It has been rehabilitated and now has a generating capacity of 300 kilowatts.

Increased diesel generating potential was assured by new installations at Burns Lake, Dawson Creek, Houston, Merritt, Quesnel, Sechelt, Smithers, Terrace and Williams Lake.

The Dawson Creek installation is a dual-fuel unit which can burn either oil or gas.

The Commission entered into an agreement with Northland (B.C.) Utilities Ltd. early this year for the supply of natural gas which is piped to Dawson Creek from Alberta. This gas now is being used as a fuel in the 1880-kilowatt generating plant there.

During the fiscal year, a distribution system was completed to serve the coastal community of Sointula, fed by a submarine cable from Alert Bay; major extensions were made in the North Okanagan region; the Merritt distribution system was rebuilt and conversion from 25 to 60-cycle power proceeded in the Comox Valley.

Having made an offer to adhere to the British Columbia Teachers' Federation schedule or give a $375 increase across the board, school trustees met last night to consider certain adjustments proposed by the teachers.

The negotiations cover the 1952 scale.

Fort St. John Well Yields 25-30 Barrels

VICTORIA — Tests at Pacific Petroleum Limited Port St. John No. 1 well, British Columbia's first oil well, show it capable of 25 to 30 barrels a day flow plus a small quantity of gas.

Operations have been suspended awaiting better weather.

After the holiday season, a service rig will be moved there in the effort to make the well a commercial producer.

Sixty Miners Perish In Illinois Disaster

Victims of Methane Gas Five Hundred Feet Underground

WEST FRANKFORT, Illinois (CP)—Sixty or more coal miners, trapped in an underground explosion, were feared dead today as rescue workers labored frantically to reach them. Only five bodies were recovered but both mine and state officials held little hope that any of the men had survived the blast.

State Mine Director Walter Eadie said that at least 60 men had been entombed 500 feet below the earth and some two miles back from the shaft.

Grim-faced rescue workers thought there were at least 100 caught in the blocked soft coal pit.

The explosion came less than an hour after the night shift of 220 men had reported for work at 8:30 p.m. (Eastern Standard Time) yesterday.

Rescue workers, some wearing gas masks, were impeded by foul air as they timbered their way toward the trapped men.

The blast, believed to have been set off by methane or marsh gas knocked out a cross-section of airlocks in the vast workings of the Chicago, Wilmington & Franklin No. 2 mine. Because of the shattered concrete airlocks, fresh air from

Air Field Essential

COMMERCIAL flying out of Vancouver has been hampered during recent days by fog, snow and wind. Delay at Sandspit is frequently caused because of high winds. Prince Rupert very rarely has flying interference because of unfavorable meteorological conditions but it has a greater handicap than all these things.

If there was ever ample demonstration of the urgent and immediate need at Prince Rupert of a landing field and the proper air navigational aids and facilities, it has been during the last couple of weeks and yesterday was a culminating example.

Snow and smog conditions at Vancouver Friday morning prevented departure of the daily flights for Prince Rupert until about the noon hour. The flights got through as far as Sandspit but there the passengers, express and mail had to stay overnight because they had missed the daylight deadline into Prince Rupert. Had there been the air field and the beam facilities here, the flights would have been able to come through, daylight or night, without the delay and inconvenience which has been pretty persistent here of late.

Prince Rupert has gone just about as far as it can now in commercial flying until a landing field is provided. Its lack, as air traffic mounts with the increasing demands of rapid industrial development requiring speedy transport and communications, is now seriously delaying and inconveniencing business. Immediate action on getting Prince Rupert equipped with an adequate and properly equipped air field is now an immediate "must."

Safe Christmas Trees

NOW that so many of us are engaged in putting up our Christmas trees, another word of warning might be in order.

Don't say to yourself—it couldn't happen in my home. Beware! Christmas trees will burn—if they are ignited. Don't run any risks with the lighting. Use approved electric lights and not candles for illuminating your tree and window decorations. Make your Christmas this year a safe one.

A fire hazard exists when the wiring of Christmas lights is frayed or the bulbs used are unsafe or if sparks are created in connecting or disconnecting lights. Be sure there are no frayed wires, loose connections or broken sockets. Watch those Christmas gift electrical toys and your electrical appliance gifts.

In decorating the home for Christmas, don't place cotton and other inflammable material around the tree. It is safe practice to keep electric trains and other electrical toys away from the Christmas tree. Don't hook up electric toys near water, heating or gas pipes. A child might be badly shocked.

So do not take a chance! Be sure your Christmas tree and electrical decorations are safe! Don't let a preventable accident ruin a joyous Christmas!

Had Petain possessed a plane in 1942, he would have joined the Allies. But, unable to fly, he had to do the best he could in a France held by Germany. This was told at an investigating committee four years ago and has now been divulged. He had wanted to escape from France. Planes must have been scarce.

That long ago, Prince Rupert had already been fooling around with civilian defence ideas since the previous winter and getting nowhere. NAVY NEWS— Chatham Decorates For Christmas; Santa Comes

The Christmas spirit has sprung forth over the entire land invading one and all. The Navy has several customs prevalent at Christmas time, one of which is the tree at the masthead. Chatham has hoisted four small trees this year and decorated the large Drill Hall for the coming festivities.

One custom found in all three Armed Forces is the custom of officers entertaining the men at Christmas time so Wednesday night found the men and Wrens as guests of the Wardroom.

Lieutenant Commander Jack McRae, M.L.A., spoke for a few minutes, wishing the troops a Merry Christmas and pointing out that during these troubled times the Navy must remain constantly at the alert and well trained.

SANTA'S VISIT
Santa Claus should again have no trouble at "Chatham" this year as the large chimney has been cleaned and Santa's reindeer have snow to travel over this year.

The Ship's Company dance was a success, and much credit is due to the Wren Organization and A.B. Sid Alexander, A.B. Eddie Dawes and A.B. Peterson. The profits of the dance went directly into the "Christmas" Tree fund.

The RCN staff have spent a busy week cutting and decorating trees in preparation for Santa's visit Sunday afternoon. Music and a show will help to keep the children busy while awaiting for Saint "Nick."

Wren's will be serving tea to ladies attending Chatham's Christmas tree party.

The Officers, Men and Wrens of HMCS Chatham wish to take this opportunity to wish all the citizens of Prince Rupert a Very Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

NEWS—
Eby & Sons Limited were granted the contract for repairing and painting the new Wren's mess at Chatham. Work should be completed by mid-January.

Three more RCN recruits arrived from Prince George and were duly examined and attested by Lt. N. D. Langham, departing for HMCS Cornwallis Friday, December 21 with a short stay.

NAVAL TRADITIONS.
The decoration of the ship on Christmas Day, the officers' rounds of the mess decks and the boys wearing petty officers' rig, and so on, descends from the Romans who celebrated this festival by the masters taking the place of and waiting on their own servants.

The youngest officer striking 16 bells on New Year's Eve, is of great antiquity. Probably the youngest officer is chosen for a similar reason as the Roman custom of reversing positions when celebrating Christmas.

Bill Morrison Named Mayor Of Jaycees' Future Citizens

Mayor-elect for the Junior Chamber of Commerce sponsored Future Citizens' Day next month is popular athletic Bill Morrison, Booth Memorial High School Grade XII student. The complete council of mayor and aldermen were elected yesterday.

Two other nominees for mayor were Miss Margo Brown and Darrel Young.

Aldermen elected were Misses Patricia Hill, Flora Ball, Dorothy Marshall, Shirley Patrick and Marjory Way; Jimmy Bateman, Roald Fennessy and Bill Donaldson. Other nominees were Misses Joan Grimble, Claire Ritchie, Jean Sharpe, Muriel Sheir and Ken Malcolm.

Voting was heavy with an 85 per cent average turnout. Miss Verna Graham, appointed city clerk, was returning officer. Deputy returning officers were Misses Margaret Strachan and Jean Chesser.

Future Citizens' Day—when the High School students take over civic, business and industrial administration of the area—will likely be in the third week of January, says Sid Gonic, Jaycee chairman of that committee.

Our office and plant will be closed from December 24 to January 2 for staff holidays.

Warm Christmas Faith

(By Most Rev. Anthony Jordan, O.M.I., Vicar Apostolic of Prince Rupert)
"There is no corner of the world but has witnessed how our God can save: in God's honour let all the earth keep holiday."—Ps. 97.

When we wish one another a Merry Christmas, there are doubtless some among us who do not feel in our hearts the surge of joy that the season is meant to bring. Some others there are who have become cynical about the universal exchange of greetings which characterizes this season and exude icy coldness instead of warmth with their handshake and their words.
Adults surely should know that the ordinary gaieties of the season are not enough to make a really happy Christmas. Jesus Christ, our Blessed Lord, is the centre of the festival and without Him it would be an empty mockery.

We truly make Him welcome into the world, into our everyday world when we renew our firm belief in His Divinity; when we profess in the very depth of our being that He is truly the Son of God. It is this fundamental conviction of Christians that inspires our confidence in God's love for us. But faith must be all-pervading; it must give meaning to our way of living; influence our relations with our neighbors as well as impel us to worship God.
The Child born in Bethlehem long ago came to teach us that He is the Way, the Truth and the Life. The celebration of His birth reminds us of the importance of following Him. If it does, then the effects of this greatest of birthdays will be lasting.

Most Beautiful Story

(By Rt. Rev. J. B. Gibson, Bishop of Caledonia)

We are in the light and beauty of the Christmas story. We never weary of it. What other story so thrills the heart of childhood? What other story gathers all people of all climes and conditions within its vast and tender heart, making them all rejoice and be glad?

The birth of Christ is God's greatest story told to me in deeds rather than in words so that we might not only understand His great love to us but also be affected and changed by the great Deed itself. Actually the historical event of the first Christmas Day was a very simple act—the birth of a baby. He was foretold by prophets, heralded by angels, and begun by the overshadowing of the Blessed Virgin Mary by the Holy Spirit of God. It was unique and mysterious. As yearly we worship before the Manner we are filled with wonder.
Here heaven and earth have met in one Divine act—here in truth
God is with us.

One writer has said that at the first Christmas "God left a Baby on the doorstep of the world."
That is exactly what He did in order that we might be transformed, lifting us out of the mire of sin and selfishness and turning our faces to the sunshine of God's peace and joy. That event has had a profound effect upon the life of the nations of the world. If you think the history of nations for the past 1900 years makes dismal reading, consider the history of nations before the coming of Christ.
With the birth of Jesus there begins all the goodwill this old world knows. Before Christ—no hospitals were built, no children were safe, little reverence was paid to womanhood, no nation in a great war gave of its treasures of men and gold and took not a foot of territory in return, but rather turned in loving helpfulness to the dispersed people and starving children of their enemies. Before that won-derous night in Bethlehem no man lived for others in such full and un stinted measure as thousands

Church Choirs In Carol Sing

Church choirs have been invited to attend community Christmas carol singing Sunday evening at the Civic Centre, under direction of Peter Lien, well-known musical conductor.

The auditorium has been suitably set up for the occasion by the Centre staff and some 800 people are expected to attend. At least, there'll be that much seating capacity, says Jack Stirn, Centre director.

The choirs and audience will assemble after evening church services and will join in such popular carols as "Silent Night," "The First Noel," "O Come All Ye Faithful," "Hark! The Herald Angels Sing" and a host of others. This event has been popular here for several years.

Won 'Money' Doll For Her Mother

Miss Muriel Vincent of Miller Bay Hospital staff bought many tickets on the "Money Doll" which was being raffled by the Soroptimist Club of Prince Rupert. When she bought ticket No. 1414 she wrote on it the name of her mother, Mrs. H. H. Vincent of Pennant, Saskatchewan. That ticket proved to be the lucky one for it was drawn by Santa Claus himself Friday evening at the Civic Centre on one of his brief visits to Prince Rupert.

All proceeds from the raffle will go to the Hospital Modernization Fund.

Christmas Pie Is Popular at Kinsmen's Party

Kinsmen are convinced Prince Rupert's young folk love pies and for their next year's Christmas party intend to get a bigger supply than was used at last night's party for children.

Nine pies were used, cut in half, and each of the 18 contestants gobbled their slice in no time flat. Presiding Kins judges were hard pressed to decide the winners.

Another feature of the children's Christmas party held at the Civic Centre auditorium last night was the "dollar" contest in which participants had to compete in bringing a dollar bill to their lips by picking up a string with their teeth.

Feature attraction, of course, was Santa Claus, played by Hugo Kraupner, who handed out close to 1,000 bags of treats. The auditorium was packed.

Carol singing was led by Santa and Pianist Allan Currie and was enjoyed with enthusiasm by the children.

Three comedy films were shown by Projectionist A. E. Evans.

Tonight, Kinsmen visit Miller Bay Hospital and Prince Rupert General Hospital with gifts for children.

Marriage at United Church

First United Church was the scene of a pretty wedding on Thursday evening, when Norma Jean Mackenzie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Murray Mackenzie, and Norman Leroy Mierau exchanged vows. The bride was given in marriage by her father and Gordon Mackenzie was groomsmen.

At a reception held in the private dining room of the Hollywood cafe, a toast to the happy couple was proposed by the bride's brother, Gordon Mackenzie.

A navy blue dressmaker suit with dove grey topcoat and matching accessories was worn by the bride for going away.

On their return from a southern honeymoon to Vancouver and Matsqui, Mr. and Mrs. Mierau will make their home in Prince Rupert.

Christmas at Kindergarten

First, United Church Kindergarten party was held in the church hall Friday afternoon with the mothers of the children as a very appreciative audience. There were 34 of the pupils in attendance and 26 mothers and some younger brothers and sisters of the children.

The program began when Rev. Lawrence Sieber welcomed the mothers and spoke a word of greeting to the boys and girls.

It was "open house" at the Prince Rupert Hotel dining room last night when Chef Lennard Cocklin and his staff, who have come from Harrison Hot Springs to take over, entertained many visitors who inspected the completely re-equipped and renovated premises.

Kitchen has been completely modernized and is a picture of spotless cleanliness. Practically all the old equipment has been replaced.

In the cosy dining room itself new tables and chairs have been installed with a complete rearrangement of seating.

S. R. Donaldson, hotel manager, and Mrs. Donaldson and Mr. Cocklin received the guests and spoke briefly.

Delicious refreshments were served.

Coming here from Harrison have been three trained waitresses—Miss Bunny Lohrgan, Miss Helen Mayers and Miss Nola Shaw. Locally obtained help are Peter Moroz and Miss Ethel Edwards.

Mrs. C. Strand is the kindergarten teacher and her helper is Mrs. Bob McBride. Miss A. M. Stewart was pianist. Some of the mothers helped with the party.

Scouts Have Xmas Party

Howls and three-fingered salutes were featured in another Christmas party last night when the group committee of the Second Prince Rupert Scout Group presented its fifth annual Yuletide celebration.

An elaborate program of entertainment in the Conrad Street School auditorium was followed by a dinner. Skits, solos and instrumental numbers were presented by scouts and cubs to the enjoyment of more than 150 members, their parents and friends.

Leading the entertainment was a skit presented by the cubs in which a mock meeting entertained a cubmaster and three "black-face" cubs from South Africa. The one-act play was written and directed by Cubmaster Len Sykes, program convener.

Scouts presented instrumental solos and duets.

A highlight of the evening came when Mrs. E. Schmidt presented scarves to the cubs and

Fishermen Protesting New Fisheries Treaty— Would Have Separate Pact With Japan

A meeting with all B.C. Members of Parliament is planned by the United Fishermen and Allied Workers' Union in Vancouver on January 5 at which time delegates from all locals will lodge protest against the recently negotiated Japanese-U.S.-Canadian fisheries treaty.

UFAWU will oppose the treaty and will ask for a new agreement concerning Canada and Japan alone, today said T. E. Parkin, secretary of the Prince Rupert local.

The union is protesting the five-year term during which Japan has agreed not to fish salmon, herring and halibut in offshore North American waters.

"This should be a permanent bar to the Japanese. Why should we conserve our salmon for the next five years, just so a foreign country can exploit our resource?" asks Mr. Parkin, who will be Prince Rupert's delegate to the Vancouver meeting.

No provision has been made in the present agreement, the union holds, to prevent Japanese fishing fleets from "exploiting other species of fish off the B.C. coast" such as flat fish and cod.

A card is being circulated by the union among its members, addressed to the Member of Parliament of their riding, urging a "simple bilateral treaty with Japan which would bar fishing vessels from Japan joining in the offshore fisheries adjacent to our coasts and would bar Canadian vessels from participating in the offshore fisheries adjacent to Japanese territory."

"I am opposed to the ratification of such a treaty (present one) and of the Japanese peace treaty which serves as the basis for the present peril to our fisheries, since these treaties are not conducive to establishing peace and amity amongst the Pacific nations."

Cards are signed individually and from UFAWU members in the Prince Rupert area will be forwarded to E. T. Applewhite, MP for Skeena, who was a member of the union.

And much more is bound up in our Christmas worship, in our Christmas Communion, and in our happy family celebration of the Festival of the Christ Child.

ber of the Canadian negotiating delegation at Tokyo.

Oldest remaining CPR vessel on the British Columbia coast, the SS Princess Mary, has been retired. For 42 years she has voyaged to every part of this vast and busy region. No steamship was better known. Her last run was to the Gulf Islands. She was built in Scotland for the Nanaimo-Comox service, later being transferred to the Vancouver-Granby-Prince Rupert territory. Following the Princess Sophia disaster, she plied between Vancouver and Skagway, this continuing for fifteen years.

The boat was rolling and rocking pretty badly. A seaman, naturally enough, leaned over the rail when he came to it. For sailors will do that very thing sometimes.

"Hey," called the skipper, "you can't get sick here."

All the tar did was give the captain a quick glance and say, "Watch."

Quick frozen halibut, packed in steak form, and shipped from Iceland, is finding a ready market, chiefly in the United States. It is something of an innovation. There is an American sales agent and to date, the general run of prices is not at all high. It seems the halibut, in the form of a steak, is sold much easier. The weight is from nine to fourteen ounces, wrapped in moisture proof cellophane and packed in cardboard shipping cases.

Nothing suited the late Rev. W. H. Pierce better than answering tourists' questions. And there were plenty of them. It is not to be supposed from this, that he had misgivings as to his ability to reply to all. Born and raised on this coast, he was an authority. Son of a native woman, he knew all about the gradual growth of Prince Rupert, as well as the history of all the out of the way places far up the scenic inlets and channels which make British Columbia an artist's Heaven. Mr. Pierce looked the part. He wore semi-clerical dress, was of lean build and had sharp features with dark moustache. What did tourists wish to know about? Oh, the wharves, the warehouses, fishing fleet, the fishermen themselves, the railway, retail trade, anything and everything. And if he did not know, which was seldom, it could not be called his fault.

Union steamer Chilcotin, Capt. William McCombe, arrived in port at 10:15 last evening from Vancouver via Kemano Bay and other coastal points and sailed this morning for Masset Inlet points. The vessel is due back in port tomorrow evening south-bound.

All fishing vessels were tied up by Friday for the holiday season and, in general, fishermen won't venture out to sea again before New Year's Day, after which codding is expected to get under way again. Activity on the waterfront, as a whole, is at low ebb.

Some fresh frozen fish shipments are moving, however, and, according to some reports, business in that line is brisker than usual.
