Building New Native School

Canyon City Getting Job Done by Contract

Last of new schools in the Skeena agency planned by the Indian Department in its schools modernization program now is going up at Canyon City, near Alamyah, on the Naas River.

It replaces the old school which burned to the ground last April.

F. E. Anfield, Indian superintendent, said today the contract for the school has been let to Northwest Construction Co. and already foundation is being laid.

The structure will be "modern in every respect" containing one room for classes and a four-room teacherage. It is expected 30 students will be taught, in grade one to eight.

"This will give us a complete set of top-flight modern schools in this agency," Mr. Anfield said. The Canyon City school is to be open before Christmas.

Last year, similar units—some larger—were built at Hartley Bay, Kincolith and Greenville. In 1949, the new Kitkatla and Metlakatla schools were opened.

The Canyon City school, said Mr. Anfield, will be so constructed that another classroom can be added.

Yukon Mining Very Active

Mayo Area Particularly Active—Local Engineers Back

Eighteen to twenty companies operating in the Mayo district of the Yukon are creating imposing activity in that area, it is reported by Neely Moore, exploration engineer for Consolidated Mining & Smelting Co., who is back from a week's flight into the area. One company—United-Keno—is producing. The others are engaged in exploration and development work.

Mr. Moore also visited Whitehorse, Mayo, Dawson and Tulsequah.

He was accompanied by Dr. R. E. Whitmore, also of Consolidated local exploration department. Allan Armstrong also made the trip.

Winter has arrived in the north, Mr. Moore reports, and he just beat the ice deadline. There is snow on the ground. Temperature is down to zero. Some of the smaller lakes are already frozen over. He landed his DeHavilland Beaver on the running water of the rivers.

Veteran Dave Koslo Hurling Hero Today

Hitting of Alvin Dark and Monty Irvin Aided in 5 to 1 Victory over Yanks

YANKEE STADIUM (CP)—George Bernard (Dave) Koslo's steady pitching and Alvin Dark's mighty home run in the sixth inning of the first game of the world series with two of his mates aboard gave the New York Giants a 5-to-1 victory over their Yankee rivals today.

Monte Irvin's four hits for the Giants tied the record for a single World Series game, a mark held jointly with 26 others. He also stole home in the first inning.

Koslo worked the whole game and was credited, of course, with the win. He is the oldest Giant player in point of service, having been with the club since 1941. His choice as pitcher was actually a surprise. He yielded only seven hits, allowed three walks and had three strikeouts.

Allie Reynolds, in peril on several occasions, pitched six innings and was charged with the loss. He let the Giants have eight walks. The "Super Chief" just didn't have it today.

It was the first world series game the Yankees had lost since the Brooklyn Dodgers let them down in 1949. Since then they had won seven straight. It was the first time the Yankees had lost a series opener since 1935.

The attendance was 65,673, the gate $311,077.06—both a long way off records.

Tomorrow Vic Raschi or Eddie Lopez will take the mound to try and pull the Yankees even. Lawrence Jansen is expected to do duty for the Giants.

PROGRESS OF PLAY

First Inning—In the first inning for the Giants, Thompson walked, Irving singled, Lockman smacked a double, scoring Thompson who reached third on Irvin's single. Irvin stole home while Reynolds was winding up. Two runs, two hits, two errors.

Yankees got no runs, one hit and no errors.

Second—Giants were held scoreless in the second with the aid of a smart double play.

For the Yankees, McDougald lined a double just inside left field foul line. Coleman singled to right, sending McDougald to third. When Thirld Baseman Thompson had difficulty in taking the throw-in from outfield, McDougald scored. After the Yanks filled the bases, Rizzuto bounded to Lockman to retire the side without further scoring.

Third—The Giants failed to score in the top half of the third after filling the bases, Reynolds getting out of his first hole.

The Yanks went down in order in their half of the third.

Fourth—Again the Giants were unable to score in the first of the fourth.

The Yankees were also left scoreless, leaving the Giants with a 2 to 1 lead at the end of the fourth.

Fifth—Although Irvin smashed

To Search For Body

Intensive Effort Being Made To Find Remains of Drowned Fisherman

On the theory that a body comes up 10 days after a drowning, an intensive search will be undertaken this week-end by John Clausen & Son, local salmon packers, for the body of Raymond Olsen, young local salmon fisherman, who was lost overboard from his trolling boat Lazy Boy off Birnie Island in the Port Simpson district two weeks ago.

Party of volunteers will leave here Saturday morning led by Elmer Clausen with the packer Hillside. Groups of searchers will be landed on adjacent beaches to comb the shorelines on the chance that the body might have been washed up.

A reward of $50 has been posted for the finding of the body.

CLIFFSIDE PARK, New Jersey (CP)—Willie Moretti, self-admitted gambler and crony of underworld big shots, was shot to death today in a restaurant.

The dapper Moretti was a witness before the Senate crime committee in Washington several months ago. He told crime probes he made thousands of dollars legally betting on the horses.

Moretti was a close pal of Frank Costello and Joe Adonis as well as other high echelon racketeers. His brother is Sal Moretti, now serving a prison sentence with Adonis for gambling operations in New Jersey.

Food prices generally were lower but other price jumps were responsible for the rise.

Iran Policy May be Major Issue in British Election

LONDON (CP)—The Iranian oil dispute bubbled up today as likely the biggest single issue in the campaign for Britain's October 25 election.

The campaign is expected to be one of the bitterest in British political history with Winston Churchill leading his Conservative forces against the Labor administration of Prime Minister Attlee. It is aimed at breaking a near deadlock between Conservatives and Labor in the House of Commons.

Labor has been in power for six years.

King May Meet Privy Council

LONDON (CP)—King George, who underwent a major lung operation 11 days ago tomorrow, may hold a sickroom meeting of his Privy Council to dissolve Parliament.

However, if the King does not feel well enough to take part in tomorrow's ceremony, he can delegate authority to sign the proclamation to the Queen.

News that the King was well enough to want to perform one of his duties came as a pleasant surprise.

Reds Spurn Talk Plan

TOKYO (CP)—The Communists today rejected General Ridgway's proposal that stalled peace talks be switched from Red-held Kaesong to a nearby No Man's Land. The rejection came in a message from the Communist High Command.

Ridgway immediately replied that the Allies were willing to meet to talk about a new location.

The Red reply insisted that the talks be resumed at Kaesong but left the way open for further discussion.

Britain's Grave Crisis

Drop in Kitty of Sterling Backing Shocking

LONDON (CP)—The Labor government disclosed details last night of a grave new dollar crisis which shadows campaigning for the general election.

The Chancellor of the Exchequer, Hugh Gaitskell, said gold-silver reserves of the British-backed sterling area shrank by $598,000,000 during the last three months to $3,265,000,000.

The size of this drop in the kitty backing the sterling area's trade with the rest of the world shocked treasury officials.

Qualified sources had known there would be a drop but forecast only a few weeks ago that it would be in the neighborhood of $350,000,000 to $400,000,000.

The meaning of this financial storm warning is clear.

Whichever party wins the election will have a long hard fight to re-establish Britain's fortunes.

Speed up Housing

THE CITY is well advised by the Chamber of Commerce to pursue with a minimum of delay the steps leading to the implementation of a program of low rental housing in Prince Rupert. It is to be hoped that nothing will be permitted to delay the execution of the special agreement designed to provide 50 new housing units here.

We do not think that there need be undue trepidation about being unable to get reasonable bids. And, even if they are high, there will be a very considerable portion of the new industrial population here who will be able to pay substantial rents as long as they are compatible with the costs which should be ensured under the government scheme.

As a matter of fact, it is coming to a pass where housing is urgently required here at almost any price. Certainly we cannot go on without housing or in a situation where there are not enough decent houses for the people already here to say nothing of the large numbers of others who would come if they could only get accommodation.

School-Age Youth

THE United States is urging its school-age boys and girls to return to the classroom.

Secretary of Labor Maurice J. Tobin advocated in a special "stay-in-school" statement that youngsters "get all the education you can; stay in school." "Don't short-change yourself and your country," he said. To the high school boys and girls he said also:

"As school days come around again, the youth of the country has the centre of the stage.

"All of us are counting on you to return to school, to continue your preparation for whatever part you will be called upon to play in your country's defense effort.

"If you have been working this summer, your pay check probably looks good to you. But look ahead. This is no brief emergency which faces us now; it may be a long-range struggle in which we are engaged. We need all of our citizens working at their highest skills for years to come if we are to meet the obligations of world leadership which have been thrust upon us.

"To contribute your best skills to your country's efforts you need all the education and training you can absorb.

"The armed services advise you to get at least a high school education if you can; business needs trained men and women; industry needs skilled technicians; modern life itself puts a premium on education.

"During World War II over 600,000 more young people dropped out of high school before graduation than would have in normal times. These were the war casualties on the educational front. As the defense effort gets under way and jobs become plentiful, the school drop-out rate is again beginning to climb. I am counting on you to reverse this trend."

Election Puzzle

LONDON.—Now that the British MP's conference on world government is over, I am trying to collect my scattered thoughts after my first week back in this country.

My job this next month is to write about the general election—and it is going to be a puzzling task. But I am going to get around the country—including Wales and Scotland.

The British have their own quiet way of doing things, and I must say they go about this business of picking their government with an ease that must astonish all outsiders.

Here they confine their active campaign to less than four weeks. In Canada, at this same stage in an election, excitement would be pretty high. But here, at least in this election, you don't even hear the subject discussed unless you yourself deliberately raise the question. The public meetings are just starting now.

FROM WHAT I have seen and heard so far, however, I would stress again what I wrote before flying over from Canada—namely, beware of taking those public opinion polls too seriously.

They show that roughly 50 per cent of the people say they prefer the Conservatives, and that about 40 per cent say they favor Labor. But even in the short time since the election was announced there has been a marked trend in Labor's favor. Now, already we begin to see the same thing operate as operated in the 1948 election in the U.S.

When people have nothing at stake they give out quite honest offhand opinions which may be quite different than the verdict they give when the time comes that they must vote. We saw that happen over and over again in Canada in the era of Mackenzie King.

Just about everybody in the country damned King up hill and down dale but when the elections rolled around they voted King just the same, for most thought he was, as one farmer once said, "not as bad as them other fellers."

NEARLY EVERYONE over here has likewise been damning the government for the past few years—but in most cases just because it was THE government and not just the LABOR government. Hence, when they are forced to face a choice—Atlee or Churchill—Labor or Conservative—the great exponent of the welfare state or the great leader of the warfare state—they do some very deep thinking.

And my guess is, at this moment of writing, that the current mood of the whole nation is "things MIGHT be worse."

MOST PEOPLE with whom I have talked are politicians, or people whose work closely connects them with politicians. Most of them expect the Conservatives to win the election. In fact, although I have met a good many MPs and their wives, daughters, secretaries, I have still to meet a single such person, even in the Labor party, who will tell me that Labor can win.

But the strange thing is that the Conservatives (privately) are just about as cautious as Labor people. The Tories really do expect to win, and say so. But in private conversation they talk of "squeezing through" or about a party majority of around 20 to 25 seats.

THIS 1951 BRITISH election reminds me very much of the 1948 U.S. election—but with this crucial difference: Mr. Truman was about the only man in U.S. who really believed that he could win. Here I cannot find anybody who thinks and feels like Truman did. Mr. Atlee may or may not believe he can win—but he is not saying much, and certainly not DOING much to stir things up. He figures "less said the better."

There are wheels within wheels in this election. I am convinced that a considerable section of the Labor party wants the Conservatives to win. I don't mean the Labor job holders or office seekers. But especially among intellectuals, radicals, pinks there is this outlook:

Our party has accomplished all that can be accomplished in this "wave" of progress. If the Tories win, we can regroup, get stronger leadership, and next time really win for real socialism.

On the other hand you have many, many business men who want this present Labor and socialist government to stay in office, for in many cases the business men are better off than they ever were before.

But I personally would not bet any money on the election—not yet, anyway. Anything can happen.

Reflects and Reminisces

It's like 1940-45 again! Amid storms of cheers, Winston Churchill smiles on London and Liverpool street crowds and gives the victory sign.

RIGHT HERE IN RUPERT

A woman is the new mayor of Ottawa—and just now her official time is almost exclusively taken up with preparing to receive Princess and Duke. Ottawa says it's a very long time indeed since Canada has seen a mayoralty seat occupied by a woman. Hardly that! It seems only since yesterday Prince Rupert had a gracious lady mayor.

Often do you hear it said a mining camp never lasts long, and, while to some extent this is true, there are exceptions. Stewart is one. In yesterday's News there was correspondence from Stewart and it's been like that for umpteen years. Nothing sensational, but just enough to indicate that Portland Canal still manages to maintain community life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.

IT'S BEEN MISSED

Stewart used to print a weekly paper—two in fact. It was read, all over the district, and digested at leisure. If there was no live news during some weeks (and such calamitous happenings are not unknown) the editor and financier would skimpish forth and do valiant service. If subscribers were not actually absorbing the latest, they at least thought so, and all was well. The sheets were readable as well as informative and gave Stewart a certain standard and status. Today they are missed.

Some women don't only make good wives, but pretty good husbands, too.

AND DON'T JAY WALK!

The junction of Second Avenue and Second Street is a danger point and rapidly becoming more and more so. C. A. Berner's remarks in this connection are dead right. Cars whiz like a bat out of Texas. Traffic is growing fast—to and from the Canadian Legion, daily trains, daily boats (large and small but each meaning car fare). Traffic from around McBride Street corners, traffic from the west end, and up from the government dock, drydock road and Cow Bay.

Though a census has been taken no one knows officially what Prince Rupert's population is. The general impression makes it about twelve thousand. And what's that? A village. Nevertheless if all who wish to come here could find suitable shelter and housing, it is no overstatement to predict twenty thousand in a few years. And by that time, parking and driving will be a separate problem by itself.

Recalls Trip To Richmond

Alex Mitchell Tells Gyros of Job's Daughters Tour

Local Gyros heard yesterday at first hand from Alex Mitchell of the recent tour of victory by local Job's Daughters to Richmond, Virginia, and the supreme session of this girls' organization. Visits to many points and interesting incidents at each were recounted by Mr. Mitchell.

Nine drill teams took part in the international competition in which Prince Rupert cleaned up all the honors. The one team that gave us a scare, Mr. Mitchell confided, "was that from Wisconsin—a really smart and fast outfit." He attributed Prince Rupert's win to the fact that they stuck strictly to the routines as laid down and, with military men the judges, they gave the verdict according to the book. That was where Wisconsin, with its variations, undoubtedly lost out.

So excited were the girls when they were declared the winners that they even dropped their standards and there was some dismay among the Americans to see Old Glory lying on the ground.

It was a "marvellous" reception his girls were given in Richmond. When they arrived tired and disheveled after a twelve-hour bus trip in 108 temperature they won the hearts of the people at a fancy dress inaugural.

"Prince Rupert is here!" was the cry on every lip.

INCIDENTS ENROUTE
"A wonderful example of community effort" was the way Mr. Mitchell described that community's success in building swimming pool, ice arena, curling rink and tennis courts—and there are only 1700 people there.

The visit to Niagara Falls and the 6½-hour tour was something to be remembered.

Description of historic old Williamsburg, the only place in the United States where the British flag is still flown, and Washington, "the cleanest city in the United States" because there are no industries and all railways are underground, proved of interest.

How the Celanese Corporation of America—and Lois Stevens—took complete charge in New York, took the party on a cruise around Manhattan Island, to a stage show, to points of interest in the metropolis and provided them with hotel accommodation and meals came in for special acknowledgement.

There was also a good word for the Canadian National Railways and their courtesies—especially in Winnipeg and at Niagara

One of Best Farms in North
Is Greene's Near Telkwa

Ten miles from Telkwa, one mile from the highway going east, there is a striking sign, "Meadow-brooke Farm, Ayrshire and Holstein, Greene Bros.," which leads to one of the best dairy farms in the north.

CALLS FOR

ria's loss through fire amounted to more than $90,000,000 in property alone; 420 men, women and children were burned to death, and about 1500 were injured.

Fire has scarred our history and economy. Year by year, losses are increasing. Whole communities have been laid waste. Many years ago it was Chicago when a cow kicked over a kerosene lamp and set the city on fire. Last year it was Rimouski and Cabano, Quebec.

During the last 10 years, when the country was attempting to conserve and maintain its national wealth and prosperity, fire struck more than 500,000 times, destroying $490,000,000 in property, bringing death to 3897 persons, and injuries to another 13,000.

The Governor-General, Viscount Alexander, has emphasized this in a proclamation on Fire Prevention Week. He has pointed out that humanitarian and economic considerations demand that human life and resources be conserved and prosperity be maintained.

TO INSPECT HOMES

You can help prevent fires. During Fire Prevention Week, fire chiefs and firemen in every community, with the assistance of 110,000 Boy Scouts and Cubs, have undertaken to inspect every dwelling. They will ask you a few simple questions on fire hazards in your home. Answer the questions carefully. Protect your home by making quick changes if hazards are found.

Each year, top cities in Canada and the United States compete against each other for top spots on fire prevention and clean-up reports. Last year 127 Canadian municipalities gained merit awards.

Five of them—Sherbrooke, Hull, Ottawa, Port Alfred and Arvida—were granted 90 per cent and over. Another 42 cities and towns were given a special merit grade of 80 to 90 per cent. The Canadian Chambers of Commerce, Boards of Trade and Canadian Legion and service clubs are assisting in the organization and operation of fire prevention committees in your communities. Help them and help your community get top marks in this critically-important contest.

An analysis of 1950 fires shows that there are certain weaknesses in some Canadian structures which help fire spread. These include ineffective fire walls, weak outer walls, air conditioning ducts which help transport fire; insufficient water supplies, partial and shut-off sprinkler and poorly designed and maintained automatic systems; insufficient equipment and manpower in public fire departments and poor fire protection training.

Any Canadian citizen can get pamphlets and other literature to show him the proper handling of approved materials to fight fires. He can get with little or no cost a standard fire code covering the manufacture, storage and operation and handling of materials; a dwelling construction code or a Canadian electrical code merely by going to his fire chief, or the provincial or Dominion fire authority, or his fire insurance company.

If you have any problems, discuss them with your fire chief. He'll give you the kind of advice you need—advice that may prevent suffering and destruction at your doorstep.

milking by electricity provided by their own plant, which also operates the cooler and refrigerator kept at forty-five degrees, accommodating one hundred cans. When a remarked how wonderful it was, Joan Greene commented emphatically: "It would be much more wonderful if the B.C. Power Commission would provide the electricity."

One thousand, heat-sealed, quart cartons of Grade A milk are sent to Telkwa, and Smilars, every week. Until recently, five hundred gallons, and at the present time, two hundred and fifty gallons a week are shipped in bulk to Prince Rupert.

Sixteen calves, from a day old to four months are housed in a barn, where they are fed twice a day, T.B. tested at two months, and the pure bred R.O.P. tested. Some are raised for breeding stock.

Barnyards clean as a city lot, buildings all in good shape, fences and gates in good order, are all the features of this farm. A full set of power machinery, including a crawler tractor, several tractors, and other machinery provides for the carrying on of all necessary operations. A saw-mill provides lumber for their own building purposes, with some for sale.

All four brothers, Bill, John, Fred and Burton, have families and separate houses, assisted by J. C. Meiklem, and William Viessman, who also have families, a total farm population of twenty-seven. Efficient business methods, are their policy, and characterise all their dealings.

Moose Fete Great Day

The "greatest day" in the history of the Moose Lodge here was celebrated last night when local members honored with a banquet the first visit of the supreme governor.

And first official act by James R. Ballard, assisted by Walter Lecky, past supreme governor and secretary of the Seattle Moose, was to unveil a plaque in honor of the late Gillis Royer. James Bacon, past local governor and old-time Moose member here, introduced the guests at the head table and said a few words on behalf of the deceased member. He called on Senior Regent Mrs. C. McIntyre to read a poem written by Mrs. Lena Grimble for Mr. Royer on his return last year from the opening ceremonies of the House of God.

Mr. Ballard also described the Moose home for the aged, Moose Haven, located in Florida, where Moose members can spend the last years of their lives in comfort.

Italian Port Is U.S. Base

Leghorn Is Resuming
Second World War Role

By STAN SWINTON

LEGHORN, Italy (AP)—Bomb-blasted Leghorn is resuming its Second World War role of a major United States supply base. Through the still-scarred port, liberated by American soldiers in 1945, flow the supplies of the U.S. occupation army in Austria.

With in a few months, 100 officers, 650 soldiers and 2,000 Italian civilian employees will be operating this end of the supply lifeline running a rail through the famed Brenner Pass in the Alps.

It's a ticklish job. Leghorn's city government is communist. The port union and the stevedore's association are bossed by the Reds. So far, however, there have been no incidents involving Italians and U.S. personnel.

In charge of the new base, granted to the United States by Italy over furious Communist protests, is Col. Norman H. Vissering of Lake Wales, Fla.

Vissering has leased a 25-acre dock area north of Leghorn in the same location as the huge wartime dumps of Gen. Mark Clark's Fifth Army. A bombed-out 15-acre steel works was taken over for warehouse space.

A temporary headquarters has been set up in a former gambling casino at Tirrenia, six miles north of Leghorn.

Five floors of a half-completed new office building will be the permanent headquarters.

The troops are living in a former resort hotel where they eat off white table cloths and have a spic-and-span new post exchange. An American school for dependents opened Sept. 10.

Little post-war reconstruction has been done in Leghorn. Italian capital avoided the city because the communists pulled strike after political strike in the factories.

As a result there is a housing shortage. When news broke of the new U.S. base, a major Red propaganda claim was that the Americans would make the housing situation more acute.

PRIVATE DEVELOPMENT

Colonel Vissering trumped that propaganda, ace. He persuaded private Italian capital to build a housing development especially for the Americans. Married soldiers will pay about $80 a month for a home. That's far below the average rent here.

The major task of the new base is to provide a safe, short supply route to Austria.

The former route ran from the German port of Bremen across Germany to Austria. That could be quickly cut if the Russians attacked across Germany.

Informed sources say if the Russians struck at Austria, Allied armies would fall back on the easily defended Alps around the Brenner Pass. Leghorn could keep ammunition and guns rapidly moving up to forces fighting there.

One indirect result of the U.S. base may be that Leghorn will abandon communism. The city has 14,000 unemployed, according to best estimates. The Americans will lower this by 2,000 and also stimulate indirect employment.

American soldiers in the command are in a peculiar position. Modern Italy never before has permitted foreign garrisons within her borders in peacetime.

One tricky political problem still has to be solved. The Americans are unwilling to hire dock laborers from the communist-controlled Stevedores Association. They have been hiring non-union non-communists. Five hundred of the 1,300 stevedores in the association are non-communist. They are bitter that they have been by-passed for jobs.

Leghorn's non-communists fear bitter labor strife may begin between the association stevedores and the non-union men working the docks for the Americans. They are hopeful a compromise will be arranged in which the U.S. authorities will hire non-communist members of the stevedore's association under a special arrangement guaranteeing they would not abide by any political strike call.

THE COOKING ROOM looks like a row of modern kitchens adjoining each other. Electric stoves, of course, and all the necessary equipment to whip up a tested recipe or an experimental cake.

THE INDUSTRIAL ARTS section for the boys also is divided into two departments, woodwork and metal work training shops. Both of these departments would be the envy of any carpenter or machinist. There is no lack in the variety of machines and tools. In the machine shop Mr. Hurt pointed out several innovations, such as the protected grinding machines. Heavy plate glass protectors cover the top of the grinders.

"Most students fail to wear goggles. This feature protects their eyes."

Besides several lathes and other metal working devices there is a unique time-saving machine, known as the "automatic hack-saw." Heavy pieces of iron placed into position in this machine are cut through without any effort on the part of the operator.

The machine starts sawing by pressing a button, but it stops automatically when set to a certain depth. With this device the instructor can cut pieces for his next class. Usually, this is done by laborious hand method, and by the student himself.

The rest of the building houses five classrooms, which in their design, appear as modern day Utopias for pupils. Perhaps I should have mentioned this earlier—about the lighting, I mean. As many windows as possible have been incorporated in the construction design and comprise the main feature in the modern school building. Every room gets as much natural light as possible, and when this is not sufficient, a flick of a silent switch floods the room with a soft glow of bright, indirect artificial light.

All rooms, too, are air-conditioned, and the heat thermostatically controlled, giving just the right comfortable room temperature at all times.

Mr. Hurst assured me that parents would have the opportunity to see for themselves in the near future the modern structure they helped build for their children, and this they should do without fail.

When Stalin came to inspect a Moscow insane asylum, the inmates were assembled in the hall. According to instructions they shouted: "Long live our beloved leader, the great Stalin!" (Continued on page 7)

HERE and NOW

By LARRY STANWOOD

BORN 20 YEARS or so too soon. That's how I felt yesterday when under the escort of Principal A. M. Hurst I had a preview of one of the most modern schools in our province, the new addition to Booth Memorial High School.

Upon entering the full-glass doorway and the stone-faced foyer, I fully expected to see a doorman bow politely. I said nothing of this omission, however, and we proceeded straightway to the huge gymnasium where electricians were ironing out the kinks in an electrical-operated folding partition. Even with the partition which divides the gym in half—one side for boys, the other for girls—the floor space is ample for several classes at once.

The basketball court, I don't doubt, is among the finest in the country.

A fully modern stage was built in at one end of the gym providing every opportunity for cultural expression of today's student.

IF THERE WAS any one feature in this palatially-designed learning place which impressed me more than others it was the Activity Room. Practically as large as the gymnasium, it is located on ground level with huge windows providing adequate day-lighting.

A kitchen and cafeteria-style bar are incorporated in the design and here it is planned to serve hot drinks and probably lunches, and to hold school parties.

THE HOME ECONOMICS Rooms—there are two, one for sewing and one for the cooking class—are designed to facilitate in every way teaching young women today how to take their place in the home tomorrow.

Little has been spared in the way of equipment. Mr. Hurst assured me, and each room was designed specifically for its use.

For instance, the sewing room is lined with a series of sewing machines. At one end is a fitting room. Throughout the room are working tables. One side of the room is lined with lockers, one for each class, and in the lockers are contained individual student drawers to hold the projects. These drawers can be removed from the lockers and shipped underneath the specially designed working tables.

The cooking room looks like a row of modern kitchens adjoining each other. Electric stoves, of course, and all the necessary equipment to whip up a tested recipe or an experimental cake.

Blackwood on Bridge

By Easley Blackwood

One thing Mr. Meek hates worse than taxes is to double an opposing contract and have it made against him. He never doubles on suspicion. He never makes a chance double, based partly on what his partner "might" turn up with in the way of high cards.

Because of this he misses picking up some nice penalties. On the other hand, when he does double the hapless opponent is usually in for a very bad time.

Today's hand is an exception. Mr. Meek felt he was taking no chance in doubling four spades. Look at the West hand and see if you can disagree with him. In addition to the array of high cards, there was the fact that it was Miss Brash who had made the four-spade bid.

She often gets out beyond her depth. She was out there this time. But she was lucky enough to find her partner with three winners and to be able to execute a rare trump throw-in.

Mr. Meek opened the king of clubs, followed with the queen of clubs, and then shifted to the king of hearts. (If he had led a trump at trick two he could have defeated the contract.)

Miss Brash won the heart lead with the ace on the board. She led a heart back and ruffed it. She cashed the ace of diamonds and trumped a diamond in dummy. She ruffed her last diamond on the board. A club was now led from dummy and ruffed in the closed hand.

At this stage Miss Brash was down to A K 9 8 in spades and

Mr. Meek's last four cards were Q J 6 5 in spades. Miss Brash cashed the ace and then led the nine of spades. Mr. Meek won with the jack and had to lead from his Q 6 into Miss Brash's K 9.

This is Mr. Meek's "bad double" for the year. In fact this one may hold him for the next five years.

BLONDIE

—You Can't Make Old Goats out of Young Kids

SEATTLE — Emil Sick, owner of the Seattle Rainiers baseball team, has announced that he will quit the team at the end of the season.

Hornby is through as manager of the club.
A waiver has been given him a week to make up his mind whether he wants to return next year. Sick said.
Hornby piloted the Rainiers to the Coast League championship. He is now in New York, presumably to look for a Major League managerial berth.

SPORT SHOTS

Enlarging of baseball's official home plate, now 17 inches wide, to 20-inch width, is urged by Eddie Stanky of the New York Giants. "Instead of 10 to 15 walks in a game, there would rarely be one," Stanky argues further that the trend toward scatter-armed pitching would be halted and games could be played out much more quickly.

The five-sided slab of whitened rubber will probably continue to be used in its present diameter, however. Not only are there experts such as Paul Eckley, head baseball coach at Amherst, who will point out that enlargement of homeplate would affect the foul lines angle of spread and thus increase the hitting of foul balls, but there's a resistance to change in baseball tradition that's hard to break.

Bill Veck, new owner of the St. Louis Browns, found that out when he tried to innovate with a midget in his line-up for an almost certain base-on-balls, grandstand management and some other attention-getting gimmicks. American League quickly outlawed midgets. The sports writers took a dim view of other "confused out-door vaudeville," as one of them dubbed the Veck antics.

Baseball is so conservative that for nearly 60 years it has clung to an official specification that sneaked in by mistake. In 1893 when the distance from homeplate to the pitcher's box was changed to 60 feet a surveyor misread the specification and made it 60 ft. and 6 inches—and so it has remained ever since.

The size of the baseball has remained the same since 1872; the distance between bases has remained the same since 1872; and four balls have sent a batter to first base since 1889. Eddie Stanky may be right—but he'll have a long, hard pull before he'll change anything in arch-conservative baseball.

SMILES

—all except one man, who was immediately accosted by an agent of the secret police.
"Why did you not greet our beloved Comrade Stalin?" was the stern question.
"Because," the man answered, "I'm not insane. I'm just the janitor."
"Dick," said his mother, "I wish you would run across the street and see how old Mrs. Rush is."
"Yes'm," said Dick.
He bounced back in a few minutes and said: "Mrs. Rush says it's none of your business how old she is."

A coal merchant advertised for a boy and in due course a number applied for the job.
"Do you like work?" he asked one of them.
"No, sir," was the prompt answer.
"Then you can have the job," said the coal merchant. "You are the first boy I've seen who has told the truth."

Mother had her numerous offspring out shopping, and as they waited for a bus she began to tell them a story to keep the peace.
"One time I was in the middle of the jungle," she said wearily, "and I looked up to see a tiger only a few feet away. I tried to run, but with a bound it was on me and I was struck down dead."
"But it couldn't have. You're still living," protested several of the children.
A weary glance swept the family as mother closed her eyes and replied, "You call this living?"

A young lad in the lower grades complained to his teacher that he had a terrific stomachache. The teacher sent him to see the principal.
When the little tyke returned to the classroom, he walked in such a manner that his stomach stuck way out. When the teacher asked him why he was walking that way, he replied: "I told the principal I had a stomachache and he said if I could stick it out till noon, he'd do you want for her?"

drive me home."
"You can't marry her without permission," said the father.
"Why not?" asked the swooning swain.
"Remember she's a minor."
The young man looked stumped for a moment, then asked: "You mean I gotta ask John L. Lewis?"
"What will it cost me to have my car fixed?"
"What's the matter with it?"
"I don't know."
"Fifty-two dollars and fifty cents."

A certain magistrate was once discussing beverages with a fellow club member.
"Have you ever tried gin and ginger-beer?" asked the young fellow.
"No," replied the magistrate, "but I've tried a lot of folks who have."
"This knot in my handkerchief? Oh, that's to remind me to try and get something for my wife."
"Really, old boy? How much do you want for her?"

New Machines To Make Sleds

THE FAS, Man. Co.—Electric power-saws and planers lend a modern touch to the sleigh and toboggan industry here, but the basic art is as old as the north-land itself.

The local industry operated by W. Lyons however is one of the few in Canada's northland that still uses some primitive methods in manufacturing items of snow transportation.

Steaming and bending of sleigh runners and toboggan fronts for instance is done in much the same fashion used by early Indians and adventurers who explored the northern reaches in the 17th century.

Mr. Lyons has found that hand craftsmanship pays dividends. Famous dog mushers have been using his sleighs for years. He has filled orders from the Yukon, northern Quebec and many parts of the United States and Alaska.

He learned the carpentering trade in Scotland and continued as a carpenter when he first came to Canada. He started making sleds and toboggans here when he was discharged from the Canadian Army in 1914.

Unclaimed Shoes Make Headache

EDINBURGH (CP)—Scotland's cobblers have applied through their union for a change in the laws governing shoe repairs. They are tired of unpaid bills.

It is estimated that boots and shoes worth more than £2,000,000 now await collection. Under present laws, repairers must keep unclaimed shoes for "seven years and a day" before they can be sold. When they are, the repairer must claim only one amount of repairs. The rest goes to the owner.

One small Edinburgh repairing firm is waiting for payment of £130. Some of the shoes left in the store belong to Festival visitors who have already left town. "I have shoes here from practically every corner of the world," says the owner.

Mr. Leckey also said a few words, entertaining the audience with a recount of incidents of the party's travel across the continent and up to Prince Rupert on the boat.

Both Mrs. Leckey and Mrs. Ballard, who accompanied their husbands, brought greetings from their lodges to the women here. Dr. Arthur Moninger, eminent Baltimore surgeon and Supreme Councilman, and Supreme Auditor Herman Fisher, also briefly addressed the banquet.

Mrs. Amy Kasper, past senior regent, welcomed the visitors and the guests to the banquet, who numbered about 150, filling the Moose Hall to capacity.

The visitors left for Ketchikan on the Prince George after the festivities, where they will attend the Associated Alaska Moose convention.

"Moonlight Bay" Here

With popular song stars Doris Day and Gordon MacRae in the leading roles, "On Moonlight Bay," another of the popular series of musical comedy series, based on young romance in an earlier day, comes to the Totem Theatre this Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Set against a background of collegiate Indiana a few years before World War I, "On Moonlight Bay" is a whimsical comedy with plenty of nostalgic singing, dancing and laughs, especially pleasing to those who like the lighter motion picture fare.

Doris Day is a pretty, tomboy type girl whose principal interest is baseball—until handsome Gordon MacRae turns up. Together the two fashion a number of song and dance melodies. Father leans, however, to Jack Smith who has a good job. On graduation day, MacRae is revealed as heading for war and father relents to allow the lovers to wed and have a honeymoon before Gordon ships out.

In addition to "Moonlight Bay," such popular hits as "I'm Forever Blowing Bubbles," "Until We Meet Again" and "Tell Me" are revived.

The story of "Moonlight Bay" is taken from a famous Booth Tarkington novel.

There are 8,400 square miles of Indian reserves in the state of South Dakota.

The Statue of Liberty in New York harbor rises 305 feet above the water line.
