Sugar Ray Is Winner

ZURICH, Switzerland (CP)—The middleweight champion, Sugar Ray Robinson, scored a ten-round non-title decision over France's Jean Wanes here Saturday night. Lithe, the New York negro, pounded the 162-pound Frenchman to the canvas five times during the one-sided contest.

Fire Threat To Timmins

TIMMINS, Ont. (CP)—More than seven hundred fire fighters today battled to blunt the northward surge of a giant forest fire which in the last two days raced 24 miles from the Gogama district, sixty miles south of here, to cover more than fifty thousand acres of birch, pine and dead timbers. A shift in light winds, veering from the north, was forecast to lift any danger to this gold mining town of 29,000 persons.

Two Children Perish in Fire

VANCOUVER (CP)—Two children died Saturday night in a fire which razed two dwellings and damaged two more in the tenement district bordering on False Creek here. The victims were Frank McKerry, 2½ years, and his sister, Linda, 18 months.

Dr. John Gibson, former local physician and surgeon and for the past several years located at Penticton, arrived in the city by car last night from the south, accompanied by R. J. Adams and C. B. Ewart. They left with Dr. R. G. Large and W. J. Scott this morning aboard Dr. Large's power cruiser Yalora for a trip to the Kitimat and Kemano Bay area.

In Preliminary Manslaughter Hearing After Auto Accident Decision as to whether or not Clifford Borge, 24-year-old taxi driver charged with manslaughter, will be heard in a higher court will be known Tuesday afternoon. Police Magistrate W. D. Vance reserved judgment until that date at the conclusion of the preliminary hearing Saturday afternoon.

Borge is charged in connection with the traffic fatality on May 5 when the taxi he was driving struck and killed Joseph Addison, 48-year-old carpenter, on Second Avenue West, beyond the intersection of Park, First and Third Avenues. Police Magistrate Vance said he was reserving judgment because "another case with similar circumstances" was coming up early next week and he did not wish to "confuse the evidence."

Defence Counsel Rod MacLeod, called no witnesses. After all the testimony of crown witnesses was heard, he suggested there was "not sufficient evidence" to commit the case for trial in a higher court. Mr. MacLeod said evidence showed the taxi had been travelling at a moderate speed at the time of the accident. He said evidence by Mrs. Marchant, a passenger in the taxi, saying that her two small boys sitting in the front seat had not been hurt when brakes were suddenly applied, was "a very eloquent" bit of evidence to prove that speed was "not fast."

Testimony that the automobile had only gone a short distance after it had struck the body was further evidence of moderate speed, he continued. There was no evidence of drinking by the driver, Mr. MacLeod pointed out. He called it a "tragic and terribly unfortunate accident" with no blame attached to Borge.

Cpl. Wales, on behalf of the crown's case, called for commitment to a higher court, citing evidence of H. Bush, companion of Addison on the fatal night, who testified the taxi had "swished" by him in speed. Const. Gordon Horne, who had been called to the scene of the tragedy, said he arrived in the patrol car. He said he saw the "man lying beside the road" at right angles to the pavement and about three feet from the edge of the "travelled portion." The taxi was stopped "wholly on the black-top and parallel to the edge" about three feet away. Witness could not estimate what speed the car was going from position of the body in relation to the car.

Const. Horne said he found a pair of eye-glasses approximately eight feet from the hard surface of the road, and a similar distance from the body. He identified the glasses which were produced as an exhibit. NO LIQUOR SMELL Witness said he checked but found no skid marks where accused had stopped the taxi, nor in the vicinity. He said he saw accused at the scene and had spoken to him. There had been no smell of liquor on breath of the accused.

Const. Horne said he had seen Mr. Bush and had spoken to him. In cross-examination by Mr. MacLeod, witness said there had been the smell of liquor on Mr. Bush's breath but would not admit that it was "quite noticeable." Mrs. Mary Ruth Bush said both Addison and her husband had (Continued on page 6)

WEATHER FLASHES

(Synopsis) Very cool air has moved over all the coast and into central British Columbia in the past 24 hours and will during the day drift over the remainder of the province. Thunderstorms were very general late yesterday as this air thrusts into the province and are expected to develop in the southeast interior today as the air continues its eastward motion. The coldness of the air is well illustrated by the fact that snow has been falling for several hours at Dog Creek a weather station near the three thousand foot level in the Cariboo region. Showers will continue on the south coast until mid-afternoon. General clearing is expected and the coast should enjoy sunny weather tomorrow. The interior will remain cloudy and showers through the day and overnight but some clearing can be expected tomorrow.

SOX STILL WINNING

NEW YORK — Chicago's amazing White Sox made a clean sweep of their road trip Saturday, registering tenth and eleventh straight victories with a double win over Cleveland Indians 5 to 2 and 6 to 4. That made it four in a row over the Indians. Finally, the Sox were able to pick up some ground on the league-leading New York Yankees who lost the second game of a double-header at the Yankee Stadium to the Philadelphia Athletics by a score of 7 to 4 after winning the first 9 to 0 behind Frank Shea. The White Sox are now only a single game out of first place.

NEW YORK—Russia's Jacob Malik said today at United Nations headquarters here that reports of Russian peace feelers to the United States over Korea were "completely groundless."

NO HITS, NO RUNS

SEATTLE — Paul Calvert, Seattle right-hander, hurled the first no-hit no-run game of the Pacific Coast League season Sunday as the Rainiers took over first place with a 4 to 0 victory over Sacramento. Seattle then won the second game 7 to 2.

On the passenger list are Mr. and Mrs. W. Cruickshank, of Prince Rupert, who joined the party here and are making the round-trip cruise. Also on board is James H. Bell, Canadian National Railways representative from Seattle, and Mrs. Bell.

A. L. Lamb, formerly a "north country sourdough" and Mrs. Lamb are making this trip for the third time. Mr. Lamb packed over the White Pass in 1898, the days of the Klondyke gold rush.

One of the real old-timers aboard the ship is Judge Walter Evans, of Portland, 84-year-old retired judge of the U.S. court. Representing the Journal newspaper is R. G. Hubbard, northwest editor, with the newspaper for 31 years.

Since these cruises were organized, said Mr. Hubbard, tickets have been sold out. The Journal charters the ship or other means of transportation and then sells tickets to its subscribers. The fare includes everything, said Mr. Hubbard. "You can start out and finish without a nickel in your pocket."

The outstanding part of the cruises, he said, was that in this way people "get a chance to see parts of North America they would ordinarily never visit" as the trip is specially chartered to include ports not on the regular scheduled runs.

On her return south from Skagway, the Prince George will call again at Prince Rupert, arriving 7 p.m. Saturday, and leaving 11 p.m.

Other tours the Journal has sponsored include an ocean trip around the United States from Portland, Oregon to Maine, on the Atlantic coast; a trip to Houston, Texas, to view a football game between the two state teams; a cruise to Mexico and a chartered flight to Honolulu.

Oregon Tour Party Here

Prince Rupert today was invaded by Americans—224 of them—all subscribers to the Oregon Journal—arriving on SS Prince George chartered by the newspaper for an 11-day cruise. Upon arrival here, scores of taxis were waiting to pick up individual parties on tours of the city during their two-hour stay. From here, the Prince George will proceed north and will call on most Alaskan ports as far north as Skagway.

Before returning south, the cruise party will board a special parlor car train on the White Pass and Yukon route for Carcross, Yukon Territory.

The party started out from Portland by special train Saturday morning and sailed from Vancouver Saturday night. The cruise will end June 6. A number of prominent ranchers as well as many business men and their wives are making the trip.

In charge of the cruise—the third of its kind—is Vernon R. Churchill, assistant publisher of the Journal and general manager of the Journal tours.

Other members of the newspaper staff on the cruise are Roger Bailey, promotion department, as cruise service officer; William V. Schwartz, purchasing department, and C. H. McCrimmon, transportation consultant, who with Mr. Churchill originated the idea of these cruises as a "goodwill" measure.

On the passenger list are Mr. and Mrs. W. Cruickshank, of Prince Rupert, who joined the party here and are making the round-trip cruise. Also on board is James H. Bell, Canadian National Railways representative from Seattle, and Mrs. Bell.

UN Fundamentals

THE TROUBLE with the United Nations may be that it was created without sufficient forethought, and it never had the advantage of normal development.

Its founders, in their haste to bring it into being, didn't take time to consider the essential nature of the thing they wanted, or the most suitable material of which to build it.

They proceeded on the assumption that all nations wanted peace and all believed in the same principles; and the only thing needed to assure world peace was to get them all together under one roof. It never occurred to them that some nations might have motives of their own for joining the new organization.

As might have been expected from such wishful thinking, what was intended to be an organization of like-minded nations has turned out to be a gathering of discordant elements, which clashes every time they meet.

The same haste was shown in setting the organization to work. While it was still in its infancy, and before it had shown any indication of its capacity for the work, it was made judge among the nations, and given the responsibility of maintaining world peace.

Not until it was brought face to face with a dispute among its own members, did it realize that they differed on fundamental principles; they did not all subscribe to the same code of ethics.

Disputes of this nature can't be settled according to any established moral principles. In the past they have always been settled by the might of the stronger, and there is no indication that the present one will be settled by any other means.

The United Nations can never hope to become an effective instrument for peace until its members are agreed on the fundamental principles of right and wrong.

Release Working Wives

THE HIGH cost of living in Canada is sending more and more married women into office and factory jobs in an effort to balance their family budgets, Sidney Katz writes in the current issue of Maclean's in an article, "Why Wives Are Going Out to Work."

In the 1930's, says Katz, only ten per cent of women workers were married; today the figure has jumped to more than thirty per cent. Of sixty applications for employment received recently by one Ontario firm, thirty were from married women, several with two or more children.

"The vast majority of women are not working to acquire luxury frills," says Katz, "but to pay for necessities — medical attention, fuel, housing and clothes. In one Toronto family two pre-school children were forced to stay indoors for seven weeks during the winter because they didn't have proper clothing. They finally got out after their mother went to work and used her salary to buy clothes which her husband couldn't afford."

The effects of married women going to work have been harmful in many cases on family life, the care of children and on the women themselves, says Katz.

"The average husband is bitterly opposed to his wife working, particularly when there are children in the family, although he usually appreciates the circumstances which require her to work. Many children are neglected when mothers go to work. And there is an emotional burden as well for the working mother, who often has little time or energy for the proper care of her family after a day's work and who feels guilty about her inability to look after the home."

Katz suggests half time shifts with better pay for working women.

VICTORIA REPORT

... by J. K. Nesbitt

VICTORIA—United Nations, with pretty well the pick of the world's best brains, every now and then comes to the British Columbia Government for an expert to help modernize far-away countries. This is a splendid tribute to the civil service of this province and it should not go unnoticed.

Latest to be chosen by the United Nations is George P. Melrose, the government's deputy minister of lands. He will head a 20-man mission of experts to El Salvador to help put that Central American republic on its feet. The Melrose mission will particularly study El Salvador's forestry and agricultural resources, in an effort to make the country more self-sustaining and better able to play a part in the United Nations.

In irrigation and economic utilization of land, Mr. Melrose is one of the experts of Canada. He is the third British Columbia civil servant to be borrowed by the United Nations in recent months.

Dr. F. T. Fahey, deputy minister of education, is expected to return in a month from Rangoon where he went as a member of a three-man commission to plan a modern educational system for Burma. He brought along with him B.C.'s curriculum and this province's plans for modern schools.

Reginald Bowering, a public health engineer with B.C. Department of Health, is now in Korea and adjacent islands with the United Nations, planning a modern public health program in areas devastated by war.

So, as you can see, British Columbia may well be proud of its civil service, when the United Nations so hungrily eyes a member of our public servants. It is a tribute to them, personally, and to the whole province.

Speaking of Mr. Bowering—the Department of Health here received a letter from him the other day and he told of an island where the male is supreme. "O Happy Isle"—sang the males in the Department of Public Health.

Mr. Bowering works on the island of Cheju-do, in the East China Sea, about 50 miles south of the Korean mainland.

He wrote to his former colleagues in Victoria: "The population of the island normally is about 250,000—about 70 per cent of the adults are women and about 30 per cent are men. Naturally, this is a man's world!

"All the heavy work is done by women. The women till the fields. They carry the building stores for construction work. They mix the cement. They go to the woods to cut wood for fuel and they haul it to their houses on their backs. It is quite common to see a family returning home with the females, from little girls up, carrying bundles as big as themselves, and the menfolk walking along with no load at all. No wonder life is wonderful for a man on Cheju-do. Would any of our girls like to come to Cheju-do?"

There were absolutely no volunteers among the female employees of the Department of Health.

One of the really excited visitors in the Legislative Buildings in recent days was Allan Bennett of Los Angeles. Nearly 50 years ago he was a page boy in the Legislative chamber. In 1903 as a teen-ager, he went to Los Angeles and never returned until a few days ago. He had his wife with him and he wasn't off the steamer an hour from Seattle before he had her in the legislative chamber, talking of the days when he was a page, and James Dunsmuir and E. G. Prior were the Premiers.

Victoria, he admitted, has changed out of all recognition since he went away 48 years ago. There was no Empress Hotel and the city was just starting to build the Causeway across the smelly mud flats.

HITLER NUMBER TWO?

HANOVER, Germany — It seems fantastic to think that, six years after the total overthrow of Hitler's Nazism, people here are watching and waiting to see whether a Hitler Number Two is already on the make.

I shall not clutter up this report by trying to give all details of how the neo-Nazi Party came into being here; nor about its family quarrels.

The main points are:

1. The new Nazi Party is a fact.
2. There are such striking similarities between Hitler Number One and the potential Hitler Number Two that my simple Canadian mind tells me that some occult force or secret group has actually picked the Number Two prospect BECAUSE of that fact.

THE ELECTION IN LOWER Saxony is just a few days ahead—and the main questions are: Can the new Nazi Party—the SRP-Socialist Reichspartei—get a real foothold?

Yet you can't go to a meeting of this party in Hanover or any other big city. They are having meetings, all right. But they are on an "invitation" basis, in homes, basements and other out-of-sight places.

But in the country districts it is different. The SRP is drawing crowds numbering thousands to its meetings. These farm people are PAYING a half a mark apiece (12 cents) to hear the neo-Nazi speakers. Above all, they want to hear the prospective Hitler Number Two—Major-General Otto Ernst Remer.

THEY DO NOT GO TO HEAR Remer because he has any of Hitler's ability to harangue. Everybody agrees that Remer is a humdrum, even boring speaker. (They also said that about Mackenzie King.) Also, Remer makes substantially the same speech that he has been making ever since August, 1949. And the whole point of this speech is that he—Remer—was the man who suppressed the revolt of July, 1944, when high German officers tried to assassinate Hitler, and so get a government able to make peace.

OTTO ERNST REMER WAS

Rotary Club Show is Hit

Fine Array of Local Talent Presented in Project Benefiting Concert

Prince Rupert talent presented a really high-class program of entertainment at the Capitol Theatre last night to help the Rotary Club raise funds for its community projects. A capacity house turned out to support the effort and enthusiastically expressed its appreciation of a really fine show. As Rotary President Bruce Brown said, in a brief speech of acknowledgements before the final curtain, it was gratifying that Prince Rupert was able to provide such excellent entertainment from within its own community.

The program featured the debut of the Rotary Club's own mixed chorus making its first appearance since having expanded from the former male chorus to include women who are actually in the predominance. And it is a smoothly blended group of some thirty-five voices, including a number of Prince Rupert's best known and esteemed vocalists as well as several new and meritorious ones, that has been developed under the capable conductorship of Charles Balagno.

The chorus opened on a high plane with Mozart's "Gloria in Excelsis," the English-worded version, a pleasing feature of the rendition being the remarkably clear enunciation, particularly of the women's voices. Excellent co-ordination of these women's voices against the background of the men's was deftly achieved by Mr. Balagno in this as well as the other numbers. The chorus appeared in three separate sequences. The first group also included a negro novelty "Water Boy," followed by "Can't You Hear Me Moanin', Lord?", the first of several spirituals. The second group was made up entirely of spirituals. "Walk Together Children," "I Got Shoes," and "Dry Bones," last-mentioned with its agile pianissimo wind-down effect. Program concluding number was again the chorus in the popular "Going Home" from Anton Dvorak's New World Symphony, and Rachmaninoff's hymn "Triumph."

It is to be hoped the public will have further opportunity of hearing this new Rotary chorus which has already achieved a remarkable degree of proficiency and appears well on its way to becoming an outstanding local institution.

The able accompaniment of Henry Plym is also an important factor of assistance to the chorus.

OTHER PROGRAM FEATURES
A light and intriguing bit of program were the two dancing numbers—the airy "Cuckoo Waltz" by little Deanna Peterson in Victorian costume and a Dutch clog by Elizabeth Pierce. Mrs. J. S. Black was accompanist for the girls, who are Mrs. Lance Fotterton's pupils.

Father Mohan with his boys' choir from Annunciation School won well deserved acclaim with Albino's "Jim, the Carter Lad," turning then to a spiritual vein in "Ave Verum," a Gregorian chant Miss Olive Strand was accompanist.

Mike Colussi's growing accordion band—offered a variety of selections—in group, quintette, quartette, duet and solo—and also won its full share of audience approval. They played several typical accordion numbers, combining harmony with precise skill. Personnel: Mike Colussi, Robert Wood, Stella Chaprun, Casey Wilson, Sandra Giske, Ronnie Ciccone and George Pearson. The last-mentioned three are really juniors but they have already come a

Mr. Abel missed the boat on this hand. He only led one round of trumps—but that was one round too many.

The bidding:
West North East
1 H Pass 2 H Pass
4 H All Pass

Against the four-heart contract Mr. Masters led the nine of diamonds, dummy and Mrs. Keen played low and Mr. Abel won the jack. He could count nine winners—that is, five hearts, two diamonds and two clubs. The tenth trick was easily obtainable, but Mr. Abel didn't see it.

He wanted to lead a spade up to his king, in the hope that the ace was in Mrs. Keen's hand.

If that had been the case five-odd could have been made. But Mr. Abel was only in four—and that should have been his prime objective.

See what happened, Dummy's only entries were in the trump suit, so Mr. Abel led a heart to the ace and then played low—and the king was smothered by Mr. Masters' ace.

Mr. Masters fired back a trump and it now dawned upon Mr. Abel that he was going down unless a miracle happened. He won the trump lead in his hand and led another spade. No miracle happened. Mr. Masters went in with the ten of spades and led the last trump off the board.

Mr. Abel had to lose a third spade as well as a club trick for down one.

Mr. Champion's lecture was not long in starting. He pointed out that Mr. Abel could afford to lose two spade tricks, but not three. After winning the first trick with the jack of diamonds, he should have led a spade at once. As soon as he got in again he should have led a second spade.

Playing in this manner, nothing could have prevented him from trumping a spade in dummy. He would always have been one jump ahead of the enemy.

Funny thing, but the king of spades was actually a liability to Mr. Abel in this hand. If he had held three small spades there wouldn't have been any point at all in going to dummy for the first lead of that suit. The correct play would have been automatic.

Well, Mr. Champion's analysis of the play was right as usual. It was exhaustive—and exhausting. It impressed everybody but Mr. Abel. Mr. Abel continued to insist that if Mrs. Keen held the ace of spades, his method of play would have won. His partner's lecture accomplished nothing but to get him badly upset for the next hand.

Darkness Ends Season's Opener in 11-11 Tie

"All tied at the end of the eighth inning, the season's opening baseball game last night at Roosevelt Park was called because of darkness. Commercial tied the score 11-11 with Gordon & Anderson by batting in two runs in the eighth to overcome a two-run lead.

The "opener" of thirty games of the three-team league is scheduled to play this season was lived up all the way and saw some near playing by both teams.

First team up was G & A with Larry Warner starting pitcher for Commercial. Warner pitched all the way through the game giving up four safe hits with earned runs, and two bases on balls, the other on a struck batter.

Stan Cornwell, manager of G & A had trouble with his pitchers after Vern Ciccone, starter, was relieved. But both Kristman and Don Scherk, each pitching two innings, while handing out walks, pitched several solid strikeouts.

Star batter of the game was Andy Marshall, left fielder for G & A, who brought in three runs, two of them with a three base hit.

Gunn, left fielder for Commercial, was the other strong hitter in the game, with two two-baggers. He brought in three runs.

Benny Windle, Commercial's third-baseman, hit twice in four times at bat and brought in two runs in the last of the eighth with a two-base hit.

G & A chalked up two runs in the first inning, one by Doug Shier on a base hit and the other by playing manager Cornwell on an error, and at the bottom of the third inning were leading Commercial 6-1.

With Commercial's bases loaded in the last of the sixth, a quick double play at third from shortstop Shier to third-baseman Scherk put out Gunn and stopped two extra runs coming in. Commercial raked up a double play towards the end of the game with the Wiens-Losedeal combination, second and first-baseman respectively.

Weather was perfect for the season's opener although a cold breeze fanned the loaded bleachers toward the evening.

The first game crowd gave $34.20 in a Sunday collection, Bill Gordon, vice-president of the Prince Rupert Baseball Association announced.

Umpire-Referee Letouneau called the game at the end of the eighth because of darkness.

Wages War on Wasteful Fare

PARIS (Reuters)—A leading French nutrition expert is waging a campaign against "wasteful eating for purse and stomach."

Professor Hughes Gounelle, president of the French Clinical and Biological Research Unit on Nutrition, a Rockefeller foundation set up in 1940, believes that the majority of people, irrespective of income, are still unable to eat sensibly.

He says that the average Frenchman who is obliged to spend 57 per cent of his earnings—the highest in western Europe—on food still does not eat to the best advantage for his health. By organizing his meals on a rational, balanced basis, the average Frenchman could eat more healthily for less money, he says.

Gounelle has these comments on:

French Kitchens: Among the best in the world. They provide varied palatable dishes which also aid digestion. The American kitchen comes after the French. There is no such thing as an English kitchen. Tasteless food is one of the unfortunate results of English cooking. Many valuable salts and minerals are lost through overcooking.

"Makeshift" Meats: Whale, goat, reindeer and beaver may not suit everyone's taste but they have as much nutritive value as pork, beef or mutton.

Cafeterias, particularly the kind in the United States: "The nutritive value of the meal is wastefully offset by the atmosphere of noise, haste and nervous tension in these rapid self-service restaurants."

Sugar: Sugar is one of the greatest enemies of healthy nourishment. In 1823, the aver-

Organic Matter Needed by Soil

OTTAWA—Frequent applications of barnyard manure and the use of short crop rotations are recommended for the improvement of soils in the Prince George area, where there is a natural deficiency of organic matter.

R. G. Savage, of the Experimental Station at Prince George, who makes the recommendations, says the deficiency is particularly noticeable in the fine-textured clay soils.

Because of their fine texture and their lack of organic matter these soils are slow to warm up in the Spring, are difficult to manage when wet and have a very dense subsoil.

Addition of organic matter will help correct these structural conditions, and, in time, modify the sub-soil, Mr. Savage says.

Barnyard manure not only adds organic matter, it also increases the bacterial activity in the soil and acts as an excellent fertilizer.

Rotations should include grass and legume mixtures and not more than two consecutive cereal crops. Fertilizing these crops adds more organic matter through root growth. Keeping the rotations short-term means more organic matter is plowed in.

SHIPS AND WATERFRONT

On board SS Louise, arriving in Prince Rupert at 11 a.m. today enroute to Skagway and return, were 40 tourist "round-trippers" among a total of 150 passengers including general cargo.

Disembarking at Prince Rupert were Mrs. Alex McRae, Mrs. Bannerman, R. Day, K. Smith, Mrs. M. Botsford, L. Halton, Mr. Todd, Mrs. Kios and W. McKnight.

Mackerel, a fish seldom or ever seen on this part of the coast, will be marketed this summer. It comes, in considerable quantities, from the island of Atka, in the middle Aleutians. Spawning will be in June and July. The fish lend themselves to salting and are considered excellent eating.

BEAVER INCREASE
NORTH BAY, Ont. (CP)—About 2,700 beaver were officially "sealed" after being trapped in the North Bay district in the season just ended. The total is about 400 higher than last year, due to an increase in the district's beaver population.

TIMBER SALE 53118
Sealed tenders will be received by the Minister of Forests at Victoria, B.C., not later than 11 a.m. on the 26th day of June, 1951, for the purchase of Licence 53118, to cut 3,285,000 lb.m. of Hemlock, Spruce, Balsam, and Cedar on an area covering part of S.T.L. 7987, situated on Cortina Canal, 14 miles south of Stewart, Range 5 Coast Land District.

Five years will be allowed for removal of timber.

Attack Could Come

Atomic Bomb Will Kill 60,000 People in Ottawa

OTTAWA—Hon. Brooke Claxton, minister of national defence, said the Royal Canadian Air Force is on alert for a possible atomic bombing attack on Canada in two directions—Alaska or via Spitzbergen.

Claxton believed that attack most likely be by the route.

Gen. F. F. Worthington, Canadian defence co-ordinator in Canada, told the Association a well-laced atomic bomb might kill 60,000 people in Ottawa.

Bus Driver Sees Moose

A bull moose was sighted on the Skeena Highway between Terrace and Hazelton by David Jones, driving the Canadian National Railway bus, early Saturday. He was making the regular schedule run from Smithers to Prince Rupert. It was not long after the break of day and the moose did not appear much alarmed. After a few glances at the approaching bus, it moved toward the edge of the woods and quietly disappeared.

Where Lind Sang Now Ballet Spot

TORONTO (CP)—Jenny Lind once sang in the dusty old hall here that is to become a headquarters for Canada's dance devotees.

The old St. Lawrence hall—a century-old auditorium not far from the waterfront—has been taken over by Celia Franca for her dance studio.

Beneath the ornate ceiling, gingerbreaded to 19th century tastes, Miss Franca will teach advanced ballet. She came here in February on the recommendation of Ninette de Alois, her former employer and instructor at Sadlers Wells in London. She also came at the request of some of Canada's best-known dance teachers who thought it high time to set up a national ballet.

"And I'm going to do it," said Miss Franca, "if it takes me five years, 10 years or 20..."

She doesn't seem to mind the fact that her studio is smack in the middle of a vegetable market.

"It's just the sort of place I wanted," she said. "It couldn't be better. The city has rented it to me for a very nominal sum and has promised to brighten it up with some paint."

COLORFUL HISTORY
Meanwhile the hall in which Jenny Lind once sang, where a Toronto audience once heard a lecture on slavery, is filled with chairs piled on tables and mattresses. During the winter it served as a hostel for homeless men.

Soon however some 60 ballerinas will be climbing its rickety staircases to spend summer mornings and afternoons learning their routine.

They will be members of Miss Franca's summer school which she will conduct this coming season, assisted by Betty Oliphant, fellow and examiner of the Imperial Society for Teachers of Dancing in London, and by Wendy Canetta of the Royal Academy of Dancing.

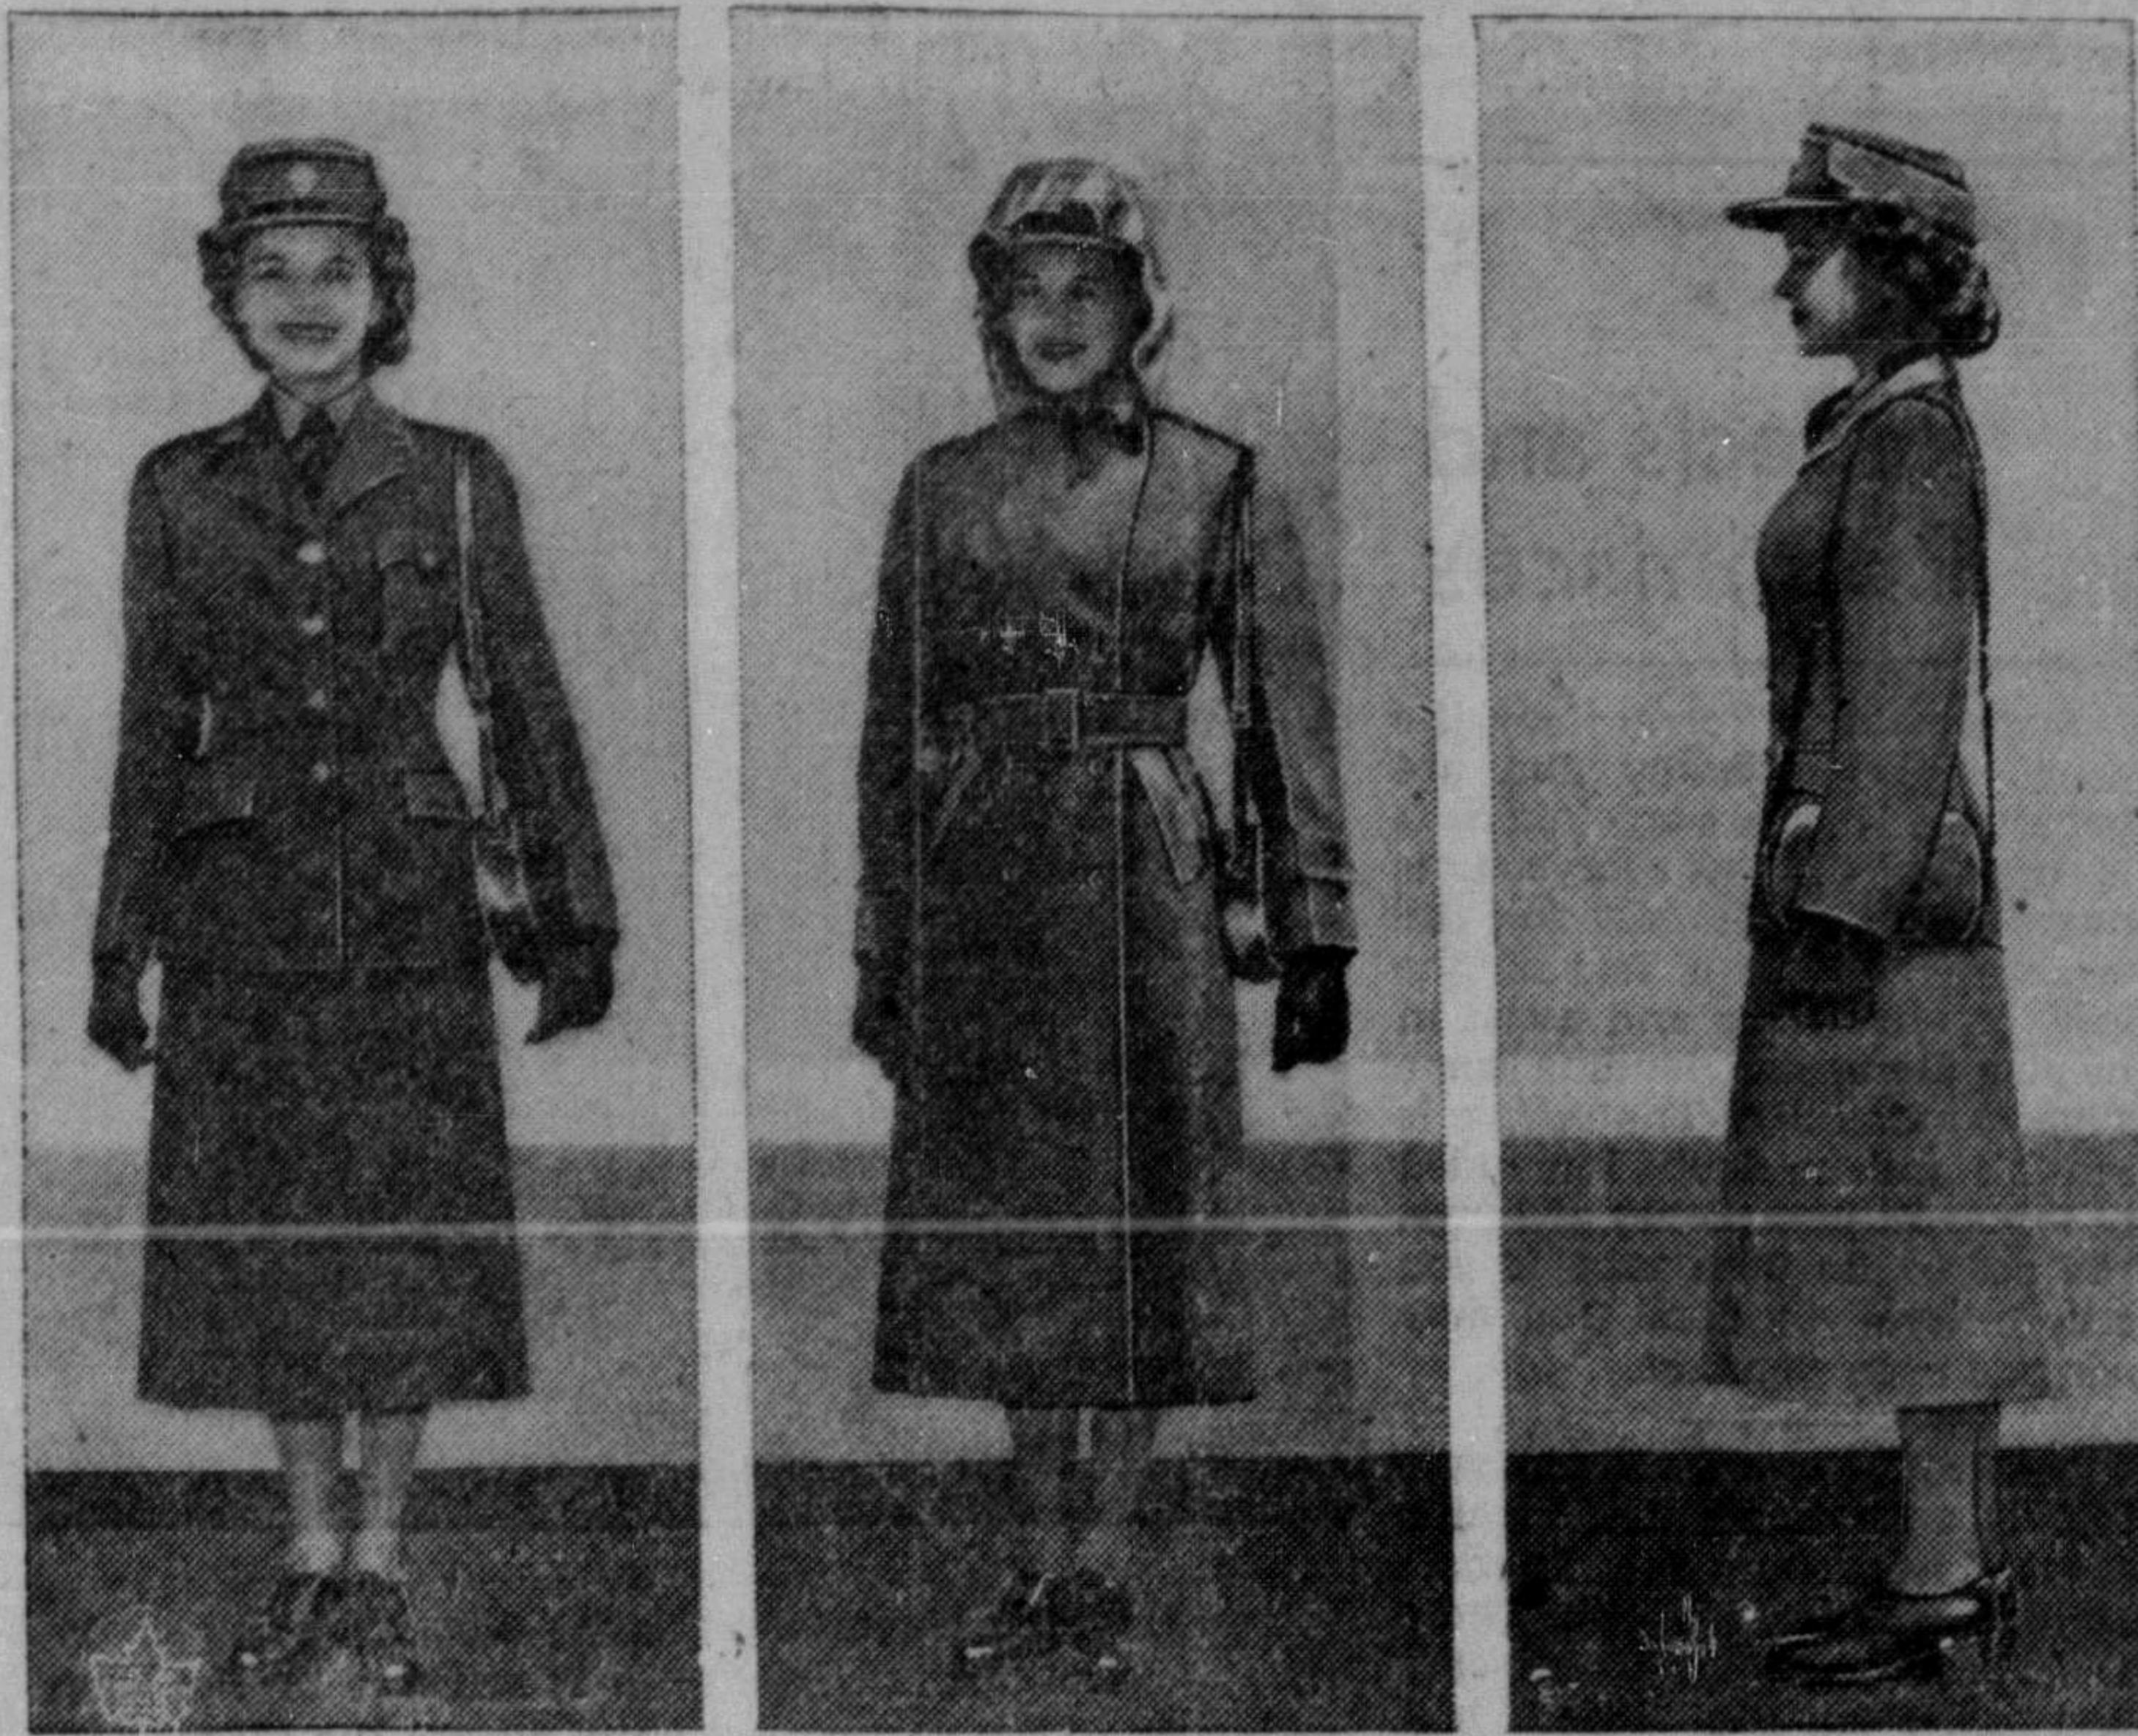

Students from across Canada are expected to attend.

NEW FASHIONS AND FACES—Up-to-minute styles and fair faces will brighten the Canadian Army Reserve Force soon when the Canadian Women's Army Corps come into being. Smart new uniforms of botany serge for winter and tropical worsted for summer, form-fitting and designed to give "a slim effect," have now been approved by Army Headquarters. Similar in many ways to the CWAC uniform of the Second World War, the new ensemble features false pockets on the jacket, longer skirts, beige nylon stockings and improved shoulder purse of genuine leather. The raincoat is made of gabardine with a full belt and detachable hood. A new item in the CWAC wardrobe will be a battle dress style jacket that may be worn with slacks or skirts. Model shown in these pictures is Miss Mary MacAulay, a secretary in the Directorate of Inter-service Development, Ottawa. (National Defence Photos)

FOUR DIE IN FIRE—Three firemen and a volunteer were killed in this fire at Peterborough, Ont., when ceiling and floors collapsed. The building—in the centre of the city's business district—was a total loss. Damage was estimated at $300,000. (CP PHOTO)

City's Consulting Engineer Passes

There died recently at Riverside, California, W. R. Bonnycastle, a widely known hydro engineer. Mr. Bonnycastle will be remembered in Prince Rupert. He had been engaged by the city to study the city water system.

Central Interior Enjoys Summer

Summer appears well advanced in the region around Hazelton, says David Jones who has charge of the CNR bus making regular trips between here and Smithers. Wild cherries are blossoming and the breeze is pleasant. Returning here, numerous salmon were noted jumping at many points along the Skeena.

Lamb Killing Bear Slain

BURNS LAKE—A bear had been making heavy inroads on the sheep farm of Lee Cooper, in spite of careful watchfulness on the part of the owner, who finally reported his losses to Game Warden William H. Richmond.

The bear had been making kills of a lamb every night, eating only the choicest parts. He would usually encounter the mother of the lamb in search of her offspring and kill her forthwith.

On Thursday night Game Warden Richmond, accompanied by Roy Lord, well known guide and join members of the Tweedsmuir Park Rod and Gun Club, camped on the sheep range between Franco's and Tehesinkut Lakes. During the early hours of the morning the bear snarled in and made his kill. Tracking was easy until they entered a jungle of heavy windfall. Each circled the down timber and finally the game warden spotted the bear dragging a lamb. He signalled to Bud Lord and they closed in, opening fire as they cornered the bear, an average black bear weighing over 350 pounds, fat as a seal.

been drinking the night in question. She had been away most of the evening but when she came home at "about 11:15 p.m.," both the men were feeling happy but they were not drunk, she added. She said she heard a "screach of a car" after Addison and her husband left the house. Her first thought was of her husband, she said. Then she thought about her dog and ran "quickly to the road."

DID NOT SAY "TOO DRUNK"
Witness said she saw her husband but did not say to him: "We should not have let Mr. Addison go, he was too drunk," as suggested by Mr. MacLeod. Further, witness denied suggestion by defense counsel that her husband had said to her: "Shut up."

Mrs. Bush said she told a neighbor he was "too drunk and shouldn't be there." Benjamin Humphrey, instrument mechanic, said he lived at the Angus Apartments and had been at the scene of the mishap the night of May 5. He had seen the headlights of a car going west on Second Avenue, he said, as he was about to enter his apartment. A few seconds later, he heard the "screach of brakes and a thud coinciding," which brought him to the scene.

The taxi had stopped on the pavement, he said, about two or three feet from the edge. He said he had not seen the car moved after it had stopped. He had seen no one on the road just prior to seeing the car, he said.

Cpl. Wales put himself on the witness stand and said he had been at Second Avenue West at about 11:45 p.m. May 5, and had taken charge of the vehicle involved in the case.

As witness, he testified the brakes which he had tested were "in good working order" when first applied, but after steady application they gradually weakened until they were ineffective.

The windshield, he said, had been covered by a film, which he called a "traffic film." He had found it hard to remove, and it had greatly reduced his vision as he drove the car.

"I had to go slowly to make sure I struck no objects," he said. The film he described as a "sticky substance hard to remove on the outside of the windshield."

Reflects and Reminisces

Newcomers to Terrace say the people are unfriendly and are being told they are mistaken. It is suggested that, as everybody is busy, it might be best for the strangers to join a few of the local organizations and assist in helping along and lending some support generally. The advice is sensible and no doubt has aided in Prince Rupert plenty of times. It's not so hard to mix, if you only believe you can. You may surprise even yourself.

In Winnipeg, one railway system is advertising four trains east and west every day. There is another railway system there and it advertises six trains east and west every day. This is just another way of announcing that there is more going on in Canada. Ten trains every day says this country must be waking up. It's about time.

To even guess at the number of cars and trucks in and around Prince Rupert might astonish one. That they are increasing need occasion no surprise. Today, block after block indicates that clearly enough. Scores have a new, a fresh look. And yet, it's not such a long time back since Billy Wright was driver of the first, and Alf Halligan travelled on tires along the Bulkley Valley, later coming into town. And that made two. He had previously lived in Chicago.

Fourteen correspondents have died in Korea within the year. They have perished at the front, or in some other form of casualty. But the military authorities do not appear to be any more liberal in releasing news while it is news.

Wainwright is becoming more populous. There, or near there, five thousand troops, it is expected, will be established in connection with training. In Wainwright park, approximately five thousand buffalo are thriving. No Doukhobors, however, have been heard of.

Plans Big Display For Toronto Fair

LONDON (CP)—Robert Asquith, president of an association which does a £2,000,000 ($6,000,000) a year business in Canada, claims the association will have the largest British section at the Canadian International Trade Fair in Toronto this year. From three countries had applied.

Asquith told reporters that the Machine Tools Trade Association has ordered 32,000 square feet of show space—to display everything from a dentist's drill to a 30-ton machine that presses out automobile bodies. Asquith was one of 200 exporters attending a reception at Canada House. Also among them was Sir Colin Gubbins, wartime head of an organization directing sabotage and underground activity. Part of his peacetime job is selling carpets and textiles to Canada.

To Record Work For Vets

History of Rehabilitation To Be Written

By DAVE MCINTOSH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VANCOUVER (CP) — Of the 1,000,000 second world war veterans in Canada, there are probably a good many who would like to shake hands with and say thank you to Dr. Walter S. Woods.

As deputy minister of veterans' affairs from 1940 until 1950, Dr. Woods played a vital part in formulating the rehabilitation program, on which the government spent $2,000,000,000 to put hundreds of thousands of servicemen and women back into civilian life.

Dr. Woods is retired from government service now but he has taken on one of the biggest jobs of his life—writing the story of the veterans' rehabilitation program.

He joined the government's cabinet committee on rehabilitation in 1939 and became its chairman the following year. He stayed with that job for 10 years, helping to map a plan which has since been internationally acclaimed as the best in the world.

"Rehabilitation—A Combined Operation" is the title of the 200-to-250-page narrative report Dr. Woods hopes to complete this summer.

"I want to tell more about the concept and the philosophy of veteran re-establishment than I do about the actual mechanics," Dr. Woods said in the study of his home in Vancouver, where he and his wife came to live last fall.

"So far, only cold-blooded statistics in government records are available for future guidance if ever Canada needs to go through another post-war era." COMPREHENSIVE REPORT The report will tell the story, not only of the part played by government, but by private citizens from coast to coast who voluntarily gave of their time and experience to help shape the program, and by Canada's veterans who by their own efforts made that program successful.

Dr. Woods recalled that the wheels of rehabilitation machinery were set in motion barely three months after the outbreak of war in 1939. The late Rt. Hon. Jan MacKenzie was appointed chairman of a cabinet committee to start planning for demobilization.

"Canadians should be permanently reminded that this has been a co-operative effort in the broadest sense of the term," Dr. Woods said.

"Long before most of our troops ever saw action, leading Canadian citizens from all walks of life were meeting in 15 different sub-committees to draft plans for their eventual return to civilian life.

"It is with extreme pride that I can report not one private citizen who was asked to serve in this capacity ever refused."

Volunteer citizens' rehabilitation committees were formed in more than 700 Canadian communities to lend assistance to returning servicemen and women.

"I am not writing this book to make money, but because I am the only one left who worked on the rehabilitation program from the very beginning," Dr. Woods said.

"When it is finished, the manuscript will be turned over to the federal government to use as they see fit."

WIDE BENEFITS A total of 4,150,000 men over 65 and women over 60 receive retirement or old age pensions under British government schedules.
