Keenleyside and Schacht Call Each Other Names

JAKARTA, Indonesia (CP)—Hjalmar Schacht, Hitler's wartime financial wizard, today accused the Canadian United Nations official who visited him on Wednesday of "impertinence and slander."

The official, Dr. Hugh L. Keenleyside, Canadian director-general of United Nations technical assistance administration, refused to shake hands with Schacht at a private reception. Later, Keenleyside, in a statement, called the German "an unprincipled turncoat," "a disgrace to the human race," and a "despicable scoundrel."

Schacht, visiting Indonesia at the government's request to study the country's economy and finance, said: "That Dr. Keenleyside has the courage to call me a despicable scoundrel is impertinence which not only gives a clear picture of his ignorance but also of his character."

Sir Mirza Ismail, resident United Nations official in Jakarta, said today that he is quitting his job because his boss, the Canadian-born Dr. Keenleyside, insulted the former Nazi bigwig. He said "despicable" was the word for Keenleyside's conduct. The incident occurred when Ismail attempted to introduce Schacht to Keenleyside.

Dr. Keenleyside said he did not wish to have anything to do with Schacht. He stated later that he knew Schacht's record and that he considered an unprincipled turncoat a despicable scoundrel.

Dr. Keenleyside's remark was termed "unofficial." It was stated that such comment was "foreign to his character."

EVEN UP WORLD SERIES

Explanation Yanks Have Handy Win

YANKEE STADIUM (CP)—First Baseman Joe Collins gave the American League New York Yankees a 3-to-1 victory in the second game of the world series when he hit a home run in the second inning with no one on.

His blow gave the Yanks a two to nothing lead and, after the Giants scored a run in the seventh, the American League team added another in the eighth. The series is now tied at one win each and the third game will be played across the Harlem River at Polo Grounds tomorrow.

Sal Maglie will pitch for Giants and Vic Raschi for Yankees. Eddie Lopat was the winning pitcher with a steady performance, striking out eight batters. Larry Jansen was no match for the crafty Yankee lefthander.

As a result of today's victory for the Yanks, odds have increased in their favor to win the World Series. The game was played under threatening skies and, while the forecast was for occasional rain, it only sprinkled slightly.

A crowd of 66,007 paid $310,215.09 to see today's game.

Yankees—3 6 0
Giants—1 5 1

First Inning
Giants—Stanky, Dark and Bob Thomson went down in order.
Yankees—Mantle was safe at first on a bunt. Rizzuto also beat out a bunt, Mantle going to third on a wild throw by Lockman.

Censorship Not Meant

President Truman Defends Much Attacked Press Security Order

WASHINGTON, D.C. (CP)—President Truman said yesterday that he had ordered his hotly-disputed security order ten days ago because a survey showed that "newspapers and slick" magazines had published 95 per cent of United States secret information.

He said this is what he is trying to stop. He disavowed any effort at censorship and has no desire to curb the freedom of the press.

The order authorizes civilian as well as military officials to withhold information they believe might endanger the national security.

The order was attacked by editors, publishers and many members of Congress establishing censorship at the source of information.

Asked specifically what prompted the order, Truman said that Fortune Magazine had printed all locations with maps of United States atomic energy plants.

O'Neill Out-Boudreau in CLEVELAND (CP)—Steve O'Neill is through as manager of the Boston Red Sox and Lou Boudreau will succeed him, it is reported by Ed McAuley, veteran Cleveland sports writer, now in New York for the World Series.

Yankees—George Spencer, a right-hander, went in to pitch. Clint Hartung went to right field and Noble took over catching for the Giants. DiMaggio, Berra and Woodling went down in order for the Yankees.

Yankees—Brown singled, Martin ran for Brown. Collins grounded out, Martin reaching second on the play. Martin scored when Lopat single. Bauer filed out.

Ninth Inning
Giants—Irvin singled, Irvin was out at second when Lockman grounded to infield. Lockman was forced at second when Mays grounded to the keystone sack. Hartung ended the game when he dribbled to Collins.

Communists Retreating Before Allied Drive

EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS (CP)—Chinese front line defences appeared to be crumbling in the west today before the offensive of 100,000 United Nations troops.

The battered Communists retreated northward in some sections. Some hills were abandoned after days of bitter fighting.

Elsewhere only disheartened rear-guards delayed United Nations troops. Meanwhile, the Reds remained silent on Gen. Ridgway's invitation to pick up a new site in northern land to renew disrupted cease fire talks.

$2 Million Fire Razes DOT Offices

MONCTON, New Brunswick (CP)—A fire last night destroyed the Maritime district offices of the department of transport at nearby Lakeburn, causing damage estimated at close to $2,000,000.

The two-storey, 600 by 300-foot wooden structure was a total loss. Records described by officials as irreplaceable were lost in the flames.

Some employees escaped the rapidly-spreading flames by leaping from second storey windows.

King Signs Dissolution

LONDON (CP)—The King today signed in a firm hand a proclamation dissolving Parliament in preparation for the national elections October 25.

The signing took place in Buckingham Palace bedroom where the King is recovering from his dangerous lung operation on September 23.

The new House will meet October 30 to elect a Speaker. It will probably hold its first business sessions November 6.

Ontario Polling Day Announced

TORONTO (CP)—Attorney General Porter confirmed last night that a general election will be held in Ontario November 22. Nomination day will be November 8.

Eric S. Flowerdew, secretary of the Fraser Valley special milk committee, told the board that "we are not letting out any secrets but large number of dairymen feel if they do not get their demands they will strike."

Britain is Depressed

Situation Brings Despair Hour—Critical Comment

LONDON (CP)—The Iranian oil situation is having a depressing effect in Great Britain, if the content of some newspaper and editorial commentators is indication.

The departure from Iran of the 300 British staff members and employees from oil fields and oil supply depots in the world, for London, is the first time in two years that the Iranian oil situation cannot show substantial British representation.

It is being asserted, in the United Kingdom that the nation has been outlasted time and again in coping with the Iranian oil situation, and the final political partizanship is now being asserted.

60-Mile Gale Recorded Here

Forty mile an hour winds with gusts as high as 60 m.p.h. last night and early this morning marked the beginning of winter gales but left the northern coasts undamaged.

Light aircraft, however, were grounded until winds abated in the late morning.

Grain Storage Crisis—Rinks, Halls Used for Grain Storing

OTTAWA (CP)—Faced with a grain storage and transportation crisis, Trade Minister Clarence D. Howe empowered the Board of Grain Commissioners to relax regulations and find additional storage space to stockpile the record prairie wheat crop.

Meanwhile skating rinks and community halls are being pressed into use for storage. It is a crisis like that which occurred once during the war.

Under a new order-in-council, a three-man board will be permitted to licence even such buildings as skating rinks and community halls if they are available and are found to be suitable for grain storage.

"This will ensure," said Mr. Howe, "that as much as possible of the large crop will be suitably stored."

Rupert Boy in Cowboy Band

TELKWA—Len Knutson—"Rambling Len" of the Calgary Rangers, a Prince Rupert boy, until recently with the Kalen Islander's Band, has fetched up at Houston with his fellow cowboys—Eddie Stoltz, Bernie Laviney and Mike Goda.

They set out from Calgary, two-and-a-half months ago, after the Stampede, and have toured the East Kootenays, and Southern B.C.

An hour's floor show, followed by a dance to the accompaniment of Spanish and steel guitar, fiddle and piano-accordion, has been given each week-day in village centres, and guests have been entertained in several dude ranches.

Until recently, they have lived the outdoor life, pitching their tent each night, but they are now on their way to Toronto for the winter months, after completing their tour of Northern B.C.

Clyne Rejects Appointment

OTTAWA (CP)—Mr. Justice John V. Clyne of the Supreme Court of British Columbia has declined appointment as chief of the Board of Transport Commissioners at Ottawa. He had been named as successor to Mr. Justice M. B. Archibald who was expected to be named a puisne judge of the Exchequer Court of Canada.

Forty-nine years of age, Mr. Justice Clyne was, before his appointment to the Supreme Court bench in British Columbia, chairman of the Canadian Maritime Commission. He started his law practice originally in Prince Rupert, moving from there to Vancouver.

Mr. Justice Clyne's appointment to Ottawa was expected to coincide with a move to amalgamate with the Canadian Maritime Commission and the Air Transport Board.

British Cars Not Going Home

VANCOUVER (CP)—British car dealers here denied Montreal reports that $6,000,000 worth of British autos are being picked up at Canadian dealers' lots and shipped back to England.

Harold Plimley of Plimley's Motors said he had heard rumors that such a scheme was in the offing but he said the rumor may be "part of a whispering campaign" against British cars.

A Montreal report yesterday said that some 3500 British-built automobiles, representing sale value of more than $6,000,000, were being shipped back to England because of rigid government credit controls on purchase of new cars.

Readying Elevator

Prairie grown wheat may finally be loaded into Prince Rupert's long-ide grain elevator. This is the speculation in shipping and railroad circles today.

Orders have been received by railroad men here to repair and make ready for use the siding leading into the grain elevator.

Meanwhile, C. A. Berner, CNR superintendent here, who is expected to know the answer to whether or not grain is actually coming this way, is in Prince Rupert, returning Saturday night.

King of Safecrackers Seeks $40 Month Pension

VANCOUVER (CP)—A man who claims he is the "former king of United States safecrackers" is in Vancouver and says he will apply for a $40-per-month Canadian old age pension.

Hertart Emerson Wilson, former minister, who turned to crime, told reporters that "I am going along the line of least resistance. I'm just over seventy and taking things easy."

Wilson is seeking a pension under terms of new legislation granting $40 a month to all Canadians over seventy without the means test. He is a native of Fembroke, Ontario.

That does not mean that a man who allegedly looted United States vaults of an estimated $16,000,000 during the 1920's is broke. He still has a comfortable income from movie rights to his life story.

Const. Jamieson warned, however, that more attention should be paid by hunters to tagging their trophies.

WEATHER

Synopsis

Throughout the night the north coast of British Columbia was lashed by a Pacific disturbance which brought winds of 50 to 60 miles per hour to the waters adjacent to the Queen Charlotte Islands. However, the centre of the storm is now moving inland over southern Alaska with the result that the effect on the B.C. coast is weakening. Winds are abating and precipitation on the north coast is becoming less intense.

Cloudy skies with occasional light rain will remain over most coastal areas today and Saturday and spread slowly into the northern interior sections. The southern interior, however, will have sunny skies today with some increase in cloud tonight.

GALE WARNING
North Coast Region except Queen Charlottes—Gale warnings issued. Cloudy with intermittent rain today, cloudy with showers Saturday. Little change in temperature. Southeast gales (35) now blowing will slowly decrease to southeast (25). Southeast (25) tomorrow. Low tonight and high tomorrow—At Port Hardy and Prince Rupert, 48 and 55.

U.N. Official Visits Korean Hospital

To help the Korean people in rebuilding their war-shattered land, the United Nations this year established the U.N. Korean Reconstruction Agency, in which 43 nations are now cooperating. Here, J. Donald Kingsley, Agent General of UNKRA, checks conditions during a visit to the Akasagi Refugee Camp near the Korean city of Pusan.

Iran and Election

THE Anglo-Iranian oil situation may become a major issue in the British general election campaign, dispatches suggest. And that may very well be so.

Many Britons are finding it hard to accept the low prestige to which British influence has fallen owing to the manner in which the situation has been handled by the Labor government, particularly the current withdrawal of the British technicians from Abadan after it had only recently been stated that the policy was to be one of stand firm. The Conservatives will make a strong point of an apparent bungling of diplomacy and vacillating policy.

On the other hand, the Laborites ask the Conservatives if it came to a showdown, as it has done, would they act so as to make war with Iran inevitable? Certainly, Britain does not want war with Iran or any other country and there is the question if a war with Iran—almost certain to bring Russia directly or indirectly into the conflict—could have been justified anyway. After all, the oil belongs to Iran, even if its development and the machinery used was Britain's and Iran has been pretty unethical in its treatment of British property and rights.

Possibly the worst mistake of the British government in Iran is not the withdrawal from Iran but the instability of its stand in the whole matter. There have certainly been some immature and premature decisions and pronouncements and the government has handled the situation very irresolutely.

Press Responsibility

"IS THERE too much talk of press freedom and too little of press responsibility?" asks a publishers' publication. Robert A. Farquharson seems to think there is. In any case, the former managing editor of the Toronto Globe and Mail who is now editing Saturday Night, reversed the usual procedure by emphasizing that newspapermen "should guard this precious freedom not by talking about it but by making sure there is less and less opportunity for the public to complain about license of the press and the irresponsibility of newspapermen."

Responsible newspapermen will agree with Mr. Farquharson that honest objective reporting must reflect the daily events of our times without slanting the angles for political or other purposes, and that the editorial page is the one and only place for any responsible paper to express its opinion, in any way it likes: news columns, however, should be written not for the publisher, not for the editor or managing editor, but for the reader and the reader alone. Mr. Farquharson's long and varied experience in newspaper work also taught him some other lessons which every student of journalism should put down and paste in his hat—that is, that news pages in a sense are public property and use of these pages for the distortion of fact, for the twisting of truth to serve certain causes or persons, is a betrayal of public trust, a trust which responsible publications hold in a very definite way.

Sent Delegates To Cancer Meet

VANCOUVER—Mrs. M. Laird of Terrace and H. P. Estlin of Prince George were among the seventy-five directors and delegates registered for the semi-annual provincial conference of the British Columbia Division, Canadian Cancer Society, held in the Hotel Vancouver.

Reporting on Education, Research and Welfare activities during the first eight months of this year the Division President, R. Bruce Bucknerfield, said that development has been unprecedented. "There are now 68 units in British Columbia," Mr. Bucknerfield said, "and our goal is that every community which has contributed to past campaigns should be represented by a unit." To date this year the division has spent $23,583 on education, $31,178 on research and post-graduate study and $13,229 on welfare aid.

In his report on the 1951 "Conquer Cancer Campaign," Neville Y. Knox, vice-president of the Shell Oil Company in Vancouver and provincial chairman of the campaign committee, said that a final figure in the region of $185,000 could be anticipated. Mr. Knox said that 86 campaign committees had been set up throughout the province and these "committees had collected $83,000—nearly half of the gross returns."

Attending the semi-annual meeting were the Hon. A. D. Turnbull, Provincial Minister of Health and Welfare, his deputy, Dr. G. F. Amyot and Dr. G. R. Elliott of the Department of Health and Welfare in Vancouver.

Guest speaker was Professor D. H. Copp, M.D., Ph.D., head of the Department of Physiology at the University of British Columbia. Dr. Copp's address was on "Atomic Aids in Medicine" and he said that in the past six years radioactive isotopes have become commonplace in medical practice in the United States and in a number of centres in Canada. The "tagged" radioactive atoms are most useful in research because it is possible to trace them in the body and find out exactly what happens to them.

Orange Ladies Plan Bazaar

Plans for the annual fall bazaar were discussed when the Ladies' Orange Benevolent Association met Thursday night in regular monthly session at the Oddfellows' Hall. In charge of the bazaar will be Mrs. C. Wilson, assisted by Mrs. E. Mulder, Mrs. A. Turnovay, Mrs. M. Flew-in and Mrs. E. McRae. Mrs. Thomson, worthy mistress, was in the chair, assisted by Mrs. M. Wide, the deputy mistress.

Scarlet degree will be exemplified at the next meeting on October 11 after which a social will be held, each member to bring a guest. Mrs. B. Ellison to be in charge, assisted by Mrs. J. Hill, Mrs. M. Wide and Mrs. S. Carr.

ray.. Reflects and Reminisces

It may appear a bit odd but why is it that the broadcaster—no matter who, when or where—always seems the same. The brassy, twangy, swift drive of words, words, words. But of course to suddenly bawl, "Oh, for Pete's sake give us a rest," would never, never do just now.

ET COULD BE

Like everywhere else in the world, there are complaints even among fishermen. Yet it could be worse. Back in Lunenburg, Nova Scotia, a fisherman borrowed $600 for new nets and set them out the first of May. He only earned $72 before the nets were mangled into ruins by sharks. But it wouldn't be quite so sorrowful if he'd managed to stay out of debt. D--- the sharks anyway.

The modern equipped kitchen seems to have every possible needed appliance and gadget except a mechanical burnt toast scraper.

MEET MISS MACDONALD

The contest for a name for Prince Rupert, the western terminus of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, was advertised in the newspapers. Out of about 12,000 names which were received, the name selected was suggested by Miss Eleanor M. Macdonald of Winnipeg, who was the only competitor submitting the name. It had been stipulated that the name should not contain more than two syllables nor more than ten letters. The name submitted which most resembled that selected was "Port Rupert." This was offered by two others, but Prince Rupert was considered best, even if it has two more letters. So the company settled the matter by awarding the $250 prize to each of the three contenders.

STAY THERE

There has been more than one snowfall on the prairies since mid-September. No one in Prince Rupert will offer the slightest protest if it falls no closer.

WOULD LIKE TO KNOW

"Why should I be thankful?" is doubtless the thought, if not verbal inquiry, of many a Canadian as the annual and formal acknowledgment of gratitude comes round. He may be found even here in northern and central British Columbia, best from all standpoints to a superlative degree. Of course, if he thinks for a moment in a sober mood, his conclusions cannot but be otherwise.

Go where you will, as Thanksgiving dawns, you will find in a confused and anxious world a land or a region no better than this in the things that matter? Peace, reasonable security, high level of health and employment, physical resources on a vast and varied scale, natural beauty and the best of neighbors. We have indeed reason to be thankful.

WIDE-OPEN FREEDOM

Necessity of keeping an open mind on the Sons of Freedom question is urged by the Attorney General which is all right as far as it goes. It has been suggested that B.C. is wide and wild enough to provide almost any degree of liberty. The Sons could possess so much of it that there could be no public or private losses or annoyance, for there would be no neighbors. The Sons could be so free they could do whatever creed or conscience dictated, all of which might or might never be heard of. And it would be of small consequence, anyway.

New Garb for Toronto Prisons

TORONTO — Behind the brick walls and iron bars of Toronto's Don Jail, they're giving a new lease to the lives of men who have been shut off from society.

Soft pastels have replaced battleship grey in the monotonous interior of the building. The main rotunda and the dining room have colorful and attractive murals—painted by artistic prisoners.

The men no longer sit and brood through their sentences. They have cribbage, checkers, bridge and bowling tournaments—competitions between corridors for the championship of the institution.

The changes—a part of the new policy of the provincial department of reform institutions—were brought to the Don by its new governor, Charles Anderson, who came to the jail 15 months ago from the governorship of the Port Arthur jail.

"We aren't pampering the prisoners," says the governor. "They are in custody as the law says they must be. We have good discipline. But by keeping the men busy we're preventing them from just sitting around and talking crime."

Besides arranging recreational activities, prison officials find employment for many of the short-tempered and straighten out personal problems.

In the past three months the jail has found jobs for more than 70 men and most of them are making good.

"The man who wants a chance get it," says Mr. Anderson.

Then $1700 an ounce

Ninety-three years ago Queen's University, Kingston gave a medal to its first graduate in chemistry. The medal was made of aluminum—then cost $17.00 an ounce. Today aluminum costs slightly over one cent an ounce.

The price has been lowered by mass production of huge plants using the electrolytic process discovered eight years after the medal was presented.

By developing some of Canada's waterpower, power is running to waste. Alcan has succeeded in making this country the world's most developed producer of aluminum. Increasing employment to thousands of Canadians through exports of "power" and Canadian aluminum. Acquiring the impetus here. Aluminum Company of Canada, Ltd. (Alcan).

"Teach the Parents," Urges PTA Head

Head of one of the strongest organizations in America held the attention of several hundred parents and teachers last night as she called for a deeper study in child psychology, attacked the school report card system and questioned the present-day school curriculum.

Mrs. E. R. Evans, Vancouver, 16 years a worker for Parent-Teacher Associations in B.C. and recently elected president of the B.C. body, told a public meeting in King Edward school auditorium that "we are a most powerful organization" and "to never underestimate the power of the P-TA."

The effervescent speaker, holding her audience in rapt attention for more than an hour and a half, traced the history of the P-TA and told of the work that already had been accomplished by some 200,000 members across Canada.

"We are not reformists," Mrs. Evans countered. "But we try to correct anything that is detrimental to the health and welfare of our children."

Program of the P-TA, she said, was divided into two departments, the "material" and the "intangible."

A rough estimate last year, she said, showed that more than 250,000 had been spent by the association in B.C. during the last five years in supplying equipment for schools.

First exponent of visual education was the P-TA, she said, and in order to prove its effect, projectors, record players, radios and pianos had first been installed by the association.

"And now the department is doing it."

But such work was only being done where money for the equipment was not available from school funds.

"We are not just a women's auxiliary to schools, you know," she said. "The hardest work of the organization showed the least tangible results, and that was in the field of parent education."

"This organization was founded in the U.S. 56 years ago because someone felt parents were not interested enough in education of their children."

"In that field lies our hardest work."

Mrs. Evans called on all parents to take an active part in P-TAs.

"There are many problems of your child which you must first understand. Learn to become better parents."

She commended university extension courses in child psychology to be studied in P-TA meetings. Last year 300 such courses were studied in the province "but that is not enough. There should be at least five times that many people taking these courses."

Parents must familiarize themselves with today's teaching system, or "how else are they to know if their children are getting the best?"

She told the meeting that for some time the P-TA had tried to persuade the Department of Education to put in a new report card system. How many parents knew how to read the reports of their children today?

"Ask the principals if they can explain the report cards. I knew they can't, but ask them anyway. Put them on the spot."

She questioned the effectiveness of the present-day curriculum but charged parents should fully acquaint themselves with today's teaching system.

"Are the children today learning the rudiments of education or are they sacrificing something by a too-modern curriculum? Parents have to say something in this regard."

HIGHER SALARIES
The provincial P-TA head spoke of the "never-ending" province wide campaign for higher teacher salaries and better schools.

"But not only are we campaigning for higher salaries but higher teaching standards as well. Our teachers are responsible for building the future nation and this profession should attract the finest people in Canada."

"It won't do this, however, if teachers have to live in economic straits."

Referring to new schools, Mrs. Evans thought Prince Rupert was "especially fortunate" but said that much of the province was not. She also commended the work of the P-TA groups here.

"I think you have done a wonderful job here."

She said that in B.C. there were 430 P-TA groups with a membership of 33,000.

"That sounds like quite a lot. It is a large organization, but when you consider that there are well over a million people in the province it shows that only a small percentage of parents are interested in their children's education."

"Every citizen should be a member," she declared.

Robert G. Moore, King Edward principal, introduced the speaker. Refreshments were served after the meeting by members of the three Prince Rupert P-TAs.

Major R. Lahiff, who moved to a military health centre in New Westminster last summer, is gradually recovering from an attack of arthritis. He is numbered among the well known veterans of Skeena.

TODAY I TOURED

the new King Edward school as guest of hospitable Robert G. Moore, principal. Mr. Moore loves his new school as do all the teachers and "mostly all" the students. As much as the 41-year-old building—which the new school replaces—looked ancient in design, as much does the new structure look modern in every way. It's practically ultra-modern.

Manufacturers must have put on extra shifts to supply all the glass for King Edward, for the classrooms at least are practically all window. To further augment the lighting system, indirect incandescence is reflected from a ceiling which slopes sharply upward towards the windows.

The pleasing, pastel-shaded color scheme was also considered in the predominating eye-saving features throughout the school.

ELECTRONICS play an integral part in this school. By means of a public address system, orders, recordings, or radio programs can be transmitted to any individual room throughout the building.

A unique feature is the PA link to the auditorium where stage productions can be hooked up to all rooms.

THE MAIN ENTRANCE which faces Green Street leads straight towards a novel display case on the wall opposite to the door. Displayed here is not the best work of the best students, but of those in the cellar. That is, Mr. Moore explained, the most improved work is being shown here.

"This gives those of average or less ability in certain subjects added initiative to bring their work up to par. We think it helps a lot because students are proud to have their work displayed in public."

ALL WORK and no play is not for this modern day, says Mr. Moore, and so we entered the "fresh-air" play room, which is an extension underneath the gymnasium and, although not quite completed, provides several thousand feet of playing space roofed in.

This area, which gives ready access to the school playground will prove very handy, Mr. Moore believes, for it will keep the children protected from rain but at the same time gives them all the fresh air of the outdoors. There are no windows here, but heavy mesh screen is used on three sides.

The play room will provide a place for indoor games, semi-outdoor games, and sandboxes for the beginning grades.

Walkways lead off from the hallway near the playground and these are decorated in traditional blue for boys and pink for girls' style.

The girls have one "beef," however, says Mr. Moore. Although the blue paper towels are OK for the boys, they have to be used by girls as well. Manufacturers just don't make pink paper towels.

(Paper towel manufacturers take note!)

EATING IS A big item and to make the lunch period more convenient and comfortable, an 80-place lunchroom has been designed with tables and chairs and a kitchen from which milk, hot chocolate, hot soups will be served with the aid of the King Edward Parent-Teachers Association.

Only school in Prince Rupert to have a separate nurses' office, this medical room contains a couch and cot and convenient facilities for nursing equipment.

Never a Dull Moment Here

Jim Bruce hasn't had a dull moment since he came to Prince Rupert six years ago to become manager of Miller's cannery. That's what he told fellow Rotarians at luncheon Thursday in giving his biographical sketch. And although he was born in Winnipeg, he felt he was practically native to the west coast, having arrived in Vancouver at the age of six months.

A graduate of Vancouver College, Jim took a three-year commercial course and then headed out to make his way in the business world. But it was the time of depression which dictated the type of work he did for several years afterwards.

For several years he worked for the Department of National Defence, building airports at Hope, Kelowna and Grand Forks. Then followed three years of work in a gold mine, after which he entered employ of Francis Miller & Co. in Vancouver, subsequently coming to Prince Rupert.

Blackwood on Bridge

By Easley Blackwood

It was a pleasure to watch Mr. Masters wrap up 12 tricks on this hand against the best defence. The six of diamonds was opened and Mr. Abel made the right play of the nine spot.

After winning the first trick with the queen of diamonds, Mr. Masters entered dummy with the king of clubs and led the 10 of spades. When Mr. Abel played the king, 11 tricks were in sight. There were still two losing diamond tricks because Mr. Abel held the ace-jack of diamonds over dummy's king.

One way to get rid of one of the diamonds in the closed hand was to take a heart finesse. But that wouldn't have worked, as you see. Mr. Masters led one round of hearts, winning with dummy's ace. He didn't learn much about how the suit lay.

Next he led out all of his spades and cashed the ace of clubs. This left him with three cards—a heart and two diamonds.

In the dummy at this stage were the king-jack of hearts and the king of diamonds. During the running of the spade suit Mr. Abel suffered mightily. He threw away all of his clubs, the nine of hearts and all of his diamonds but the ace and jack.

When the ace of clubs was cashed against him he had to make one more discard. He chose the jack of diamonds which was the best he could do.

Mr. Masters now led a diamond, played dummy's king and was shown how the old type, often dingy cloak rooms were replaced by a partition only. With the exception of Grade 1 class, single unit desks are used, 10 per cent of which are adjustable. The beginners, however, use double seats.

"They need the companionship the first year of school," Mr. Moore explained.

Both King Edward and Booth Memorial are to be officially opened early next month, when open-house will be held. Dates will be announced well in advance.

pected to be provided at Port Elizabeth, Cape Province, where a motorcycle club was warned by police not to go ahead with a race advertised for Sunday. The club ignored the warning, and police then took the names of organizers and race riders. After this action several industrial firms contributed toward a "defence fund" for the bike riders.

ers. The club president, T. McNish, said further donations might come from "some sporting bodies closely concerned with Sunday sport."

At many centres police have turned up at bowling greens and golf courses to question persons playing on Sunday. At Cape Town a rugby game was called off when police gave warning they would take the names of the players. On a field near Cape Town an Indian soccer competition came to an abrupt end when police began taking names. Most of the players of four teams scattered among the crowd but a few gave their names and addresses.

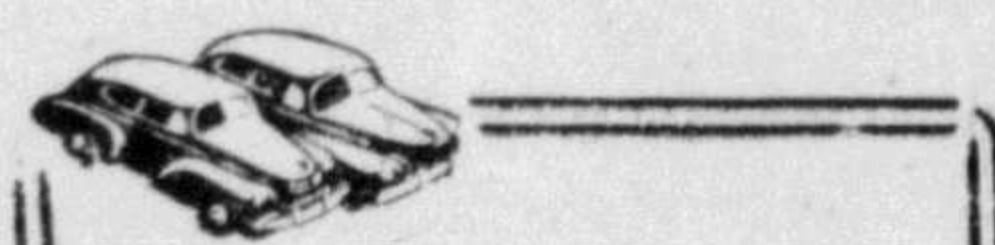

Detectives visited golf courses at Johannesburg and warned club professionals to close their shops during the week-ends. This warning was given under a Transvaal provincial shop hours ordinance, meaning the golf pros have to close up from 1 p.m. Saturday to Monday mornings, missing their most lucrative period of the week.

Tennis players at Harrismith got a surprise when they applied to town council for renewal of their lease of the municipal tennis courts. They were informed they could no longer play on Sunday and that a clause would be inserted in the lease barring tennis on Sundays.

Catholic Bazaar "Real" Success

Ladies Well Pleased With Results of Two-Day Affair

A gala two-day bazaar, featuring the sale of handwork and culinary achievements of many bazaar-goers, ended yesterday and the Catholic Women's League feels the occasion was a "real success."

Eight booths set up in the newly decorated Catholic Hall lent an atmosphere of the market place but for the youngsters at least the fish pond was the centre of attraction.

Throughout the afternoon many eager little fishermen lined up to try their skill with the rod to land "that big one."

Following the excitement of marketing, a restful contrast was revealed in the new committee room where amidst a profusion of flowers donated by Mrs. C. P. Balagno, refreshments were served.

Evening entertainment was augmented by the bingo booth, operated by the Holy Name Society, which had many patrons and "a winner every time."

Grand raffle last night was the climatic end of the event, with first prize going to Mrs. O. Vaccher, ticket 1193, a needle-point fireplace bench.

A pair of Hudson's Bay blankets, as second prize, was won by Mr. M. L. Cloutier, ticket 346.

A Toronto visitor came in for third prize with ticket 1681. Frank Hamp won the steam iron. Final prize of $25 in cash was won by Mr. Sydney Alexander with ticket 3470.

"Strawberry King" of Bulkley Valley and Well Trained Dog

By EVANGELINE VANN

HOUSTON. — Turning off the highway, seven miles from Houston, going west, in the Barrett district, winding upwards through bushes of scarlet rose-hips and yellowing cottonwood trees, with a backdrop of vivid blue sky, I found the cabin of Bob Eichenberger, "The Strawberry King."

There, "For so long, a man forgets," far away from his native Switzerland, but overlooking the beautiful Bulkley Valley and the Telkwa Range, with Morrice Mountain to the left, Bob has made his home.

On the wall, was the skin of a timber wolf, shot a few days ago, waiting for the Game Warden to come and punch one ear and pay the bounty of twenty-five dollars. Asking what he would do with the skin, Bob answered: "I hear the U.S. Army up north is buying wolf skins for parkas," and added: "This one is a pup born last spring, you can tell by its teeth, and it is small in body, only about seventy-five pounds, although fully grown. Its parents would probably weigh one hundred and twenty-five pounds. I have shot two or three every winter, for four winters now, I set traps up the river for mink, and for weasel, just any place."

Looking round at the five stuffed heads on the wall, Bob remarked: "I shoot deer at the end of October, when the meat will keep. I learned how to stuff them by reading. It's a hobby."

"How about the strawberries Bob?" "Nineteen thirty-five it was, I think. I was coming up the field, when I saw some large strawberry leaves. Too big to be wild ones, must be tame ones," I thought. So I stuck some runners out in the plough, and every spring I ploughed a little more, and now I have two acres. Three years ago I had ten tons. People come from as far as Moricetown and Smithers, and Burns Lake to pick them.

"If it's poor skiing I get no visitors in the winter, but my partner, Gypsy, is here. She came to me through the snow on a hunting trip in '45. I thought she was a little fox and she has been with me since. "Go, and see if there is a bear out there!" Gypsy vanished through the door barking.

"What time is it?" I asked, rising to go. "Gypsy can tell you," Bob volunteered. "What time is it, Gypsy?" and she disappeared through the curtains of the bedroom, bringing Bob's watch.

"Come again," I was invited

SHIPS AND WATERFRONT

B. C. Steamships freighter Alaska Prince was in port this morning discharging cargo here. The vessel sails on her return south after discharging.

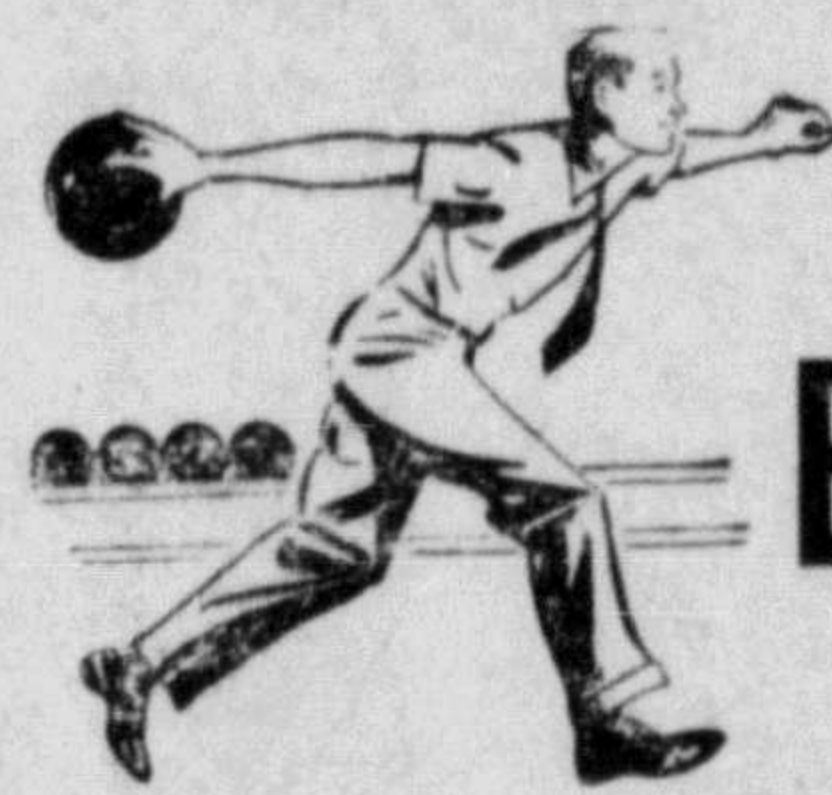

CPR freighter Yukon Princess, Capt. John Campbell, under charter to Frank Waterhouse line, was at Watson Island this morning unloading cargo. After unloading there, the vessel sailed for Stewart, Alice Arm and Swagway.

As I stepped out into the unbelievably brilliant scene, "I surely will, maybe in strawberry time," and left him to finish a meal of corn, which he had grown on the ledge, away from the frosts of the flat. A gentle wind stirred the light windmill on the house, as I descended the hill to the flat.
