Ketchikan Mail Delivery

THE Ketchikan Chronicle hopes that the committee of three due there next week to survey the possibilities of mail delivery in the town "will do a scientific and objective job of their assignment instead of stool-sitting, political study as was done by the Kentuckian (who claimed to be a postal inspector) here two years ago."

The Kentuckian hit town says the Chronicle in an optimistic mood, saying there was no reason why there couldn't and shouldn't be free delivery in town once a day as there is in the states.

This time, it appears, conditions will be changed. There is no money to build a bigger post office at Ketchikan or even to buy the 1,500 to 2,000 more boxes that will be needed in a couple or three years.

Another factor has entered in, too. The business houses that once opposed the delivery now realize that newcomers will want it and, if it is not available in Ketchikan, perhaps it will be available in Wacker, and some of them will move out there instead of into the First city.

The Chronicle hopes that, in the interests of progress, everyone will give mail delivery a fair hearing and that any straw vote will be thorough and representative. "Alaskans are paying our share and more of U. S. taxes and it would save some shoe leather and some travelling expense, as well as a lot of time, to have mail delivered once a day, at least in the residential district."

"To say that this would make it easier to order goods by mail is rater fatuous, especially when another mail order house could come here if the town became large enough. Safeway stores already, has tried to buy a downtown location, we are reliably informed. Gradually the town will see new ways of doing business. The new people want it that way, and their progressive demands may help to make the city more livable for us so-called old-timers."

Reflects and Reminisces

Oil gives British Columbia a resounding wallop and how it will all work out, or what it will disclose. It's the first time B.C. has felt the magic touch, and it's introduction looks substantial.

Percy Bengough, only recently, was heard to say he fancied a lower wage scale so long as the cost of living was also easier on the eyes. Where's the difference, anyway? Yet, we all like big, or what appears to be big money. If we're paying $20 for just an ordinary pair of shoes—see what the buyer of the boots is being paid.

Put forcefully and with obvious truth, the Juneau Empire offers the following comment concerning the British election: "Probably the greatest encouragement that troubled 1951 brought to the non-Russian world was the defeat in Britain of the Socialist regime. After six unhappy years, during which the British Empire was reduced to national bankruptcy, her people to socialistic serfdom, her industry to its lowest output and her national prestige to the vanishing point, the embittered Britons were forced to admit that Socialism had flopped."

Twenty years ago, or thereabouts, Prince Rupert people would argue for hours about the Peace River outlet. This was the logical natural port for that purpose. It was a favorite debating point. And perhaps we're right, only then, not a single soul said a word about oil.

It might be a good idea, if you want to end your financial problems not to purchase anything you can't buy for cash.

Officially, Montreal's population is slightly in excess of a million. There's one thing noticed about that city. It is what the people do with winter. They have always had the knack of playing with it or finding some sort of entertainment just because it is winter, instead of lamenting the season until waiting for summer.

Let's see now! Why all this writing and talking about gentlemenly small boys? Who on earth ever saw one? If, in his early teens he's not tough, something must be explained. He is tough. He likes to think himself that way. He can use soap and water when he wants to or in the event of having to. And from May to August, he doesn't fancy boots and stockings.

LETTERBOX

DEFENDS RUPERT Editor, Daily News, I just had to write an answer to Rupertite's letter. It boils me up when someone like you makes such statements as she did. Why some of our best nurses in B.C. were born, went to school, and trained in Prince Rupert. A lot of them married here and are now bringing up their families here. I am quite sure they are equally as good at their profession as Rupertite is and none the worse for being brought up here.

Born on the prairies myself and going to school there, I have been living in Rupert for 28 years now, married and have three children attending school here. I have been all through B.C., Eastern Canada and elsewhere on trips and I may say truthfully there is no other place I would rather be than right here in good old Rupert. Some folks come into our peaceful town to try and make all the money they can and at the same time try to make it over and the people, to suit themselves.

But Rupertite, after living here as long as I have, you will learn to like our people very much and find them equally as clean and good living folks as anywhere else. Maybe, when you get older and wiser, you will say, maybe that lady in Rupert was right, that does not pay to run down any town or its residents.

Thank you, Mr. Editor, for your space.

ANOTHER RUPERT BOOSTER.

Britain Denies Oil Shortage

LONDON—The British government denied Friday there had been any stoppage of oil pipeline to Cairo although some ships had been held up due to security reasons.

The Cairo government has warned that any stoppage of oil supply would result in revolution.

As I See It

by Elmore Philpott

In Britain's Steps TORONTO.—It is a wonderful thing—this modern way of travel. You leave Scotland after dark and you are in Canada before daylight next morning.

But there is a time lag in your mental and spiritual adjustment. It takes a little while to re-adjust yourself to the mental wave length of whatever country you happen to land in.

HERE IN Toronto I pick up the newspaper and read, in comment on the British election that "socialism is everywhere on the wane."

That is a remarkable statement in view of the fact that more votes have been cast for socialism than ever before; also that the victorious Conservative party only emerged victorious (in seats, not votes) because it convinced a sufficient number of voters that it would "leave well enough alone" in regard to such things as the nationalized coal mines, and the state health scheme.

IT IS true that talk of socialism is on the wane in Britain. The Labor party people, by the way, never call themselves socialists.

officially. It is the Tories and Liberals who use the tag "socialists" on every possible occasion to describe their antagonists, because they know there is a hang-over of distaste for the term.

Yet all the time the Conservatives are using the term socialism as a bogeyman they themselves are adopting more and more socialism in practice.

OVER AND over again I heard Mr. Churchill argue that his government—and not Labor—was the one which adopted the principle of the welfare state. He declared that the whole nation had accepted the principle of planned full employment, and that never again under any government would there be great numbers of jobless people.

All of which is proof that the "world does move" in a certain direction. It may not be towards "socialism" in the strict text book definition of that term. But it is certainly toward social welfare and a planned economy. I was mildly surprised to get back to Canada and find that there was an election in the offing here in Ontario. Just now they are unlimbering the guns which before long will go into action.

But already I notice one significant thing. All three parties in Ontario are competing on the basis of who can promise the best hospital insurance system.

I see in the papers here in Ontario a lot of talk of Saskatchewan's hospital insurance plan, but so far not even a mention of B.C.'s somewhat similar plan.

IT IS no secret that the Liberal government at Ottawa is in the first stages of considering a national health insurance plan for all Canada.

I say "considering" for that is as far as the project has got, to date. It will take several years before it becomes practical immediate politics.

The point is that the social welfare schemes which Britain pioneered are being taken up one by one by us here.

It doesn't matter what you call it—socialism, social welfare or what not. The fact is the whole world is moving toward more of it.

"If Any Man Thirst"

(By Rev. H. O. Olson, St. Paul's Lutheran Church)
John 7:37—"If any man thirst, let him come unto Me and drink."

"If any man thirst," cries the Lord, "let him come unto Me and drink." If any man thirst! The whole world is consumed with a burning thirst. The heart of man, held in bondage by the desire for pleasure, the greed for gain, demands sinful joys to satisfy its thirst.

The world is thirsty. When one means of pleasure has been exhausted, it employs another, until finally only gross sin, open ungodliness, can seem to satisfy its cravings. Then the stage is reached where the capacity for enjoyment is gone and all pleasure seems vanity. The heart is filled with bitterness toward men and hatred toward God.

Upon the earth there is always some means to give pleasure to the natural heart but in eternity there will be the thirst of hell without any drop of water to lessen its consuming agony. Once we depart from this earth, there remains no more hope for salvation. The rich man in hell pleaded for mercy but was told: "Between us and you there is a great gulf fixed, that they that would pass from hence to you may not be able, and that none may cross over from thence to us." Could any one ever receive a more sobering answer? No hope—a great gulf fixed, none may cross from thence to us. The cry of mercy came too late. The rich man was told: "Son, remember that thou in thy lifetime." He was told to remember. What torture that must have been! To spend the rest of time in regret and remorse over neglecting the opportunities of God's grace! No wonder there shall be weeping and gnashing of teeth. He who will despise these truths now will some day despise himself. What a frightful risk is assumed here in this life for those who reject Salvation and walk the paths of sin.

Possibly, you have experienced thirst of another kind in your soul, a new and wonderful yearning for something better, a feeling of dissatisfaction with yourself that you find stealing upon you in moments of solitude. In other words, you long to be

Job's Daughters Show What They Did With Celanese Gift

Jobs' Daughters, who during their pilgrimage to supreme sessions in Richmond, Virginia, in August, visited New York and were presented with lengths of celanese dress goods made from the product which originated in the Columbia Cellulose pulp mill at Prince Rupert, appeared at the social hour which followed last night's Bethel session in the dresses and blouses made from the material.

Smartly fashioned and sewn creations were seen and many were the admiring comments which were made all round.

Again appreciation was expressed by the girls for the gift from the Celanese Corporation whose Lois Stevens took them in charge in New York and really showed them the sights of the big town.

Photographer Jack Wrathall took pictures for a permanent record.

Following were the girls and what they wore last night:

Ladies Plan Legion Week

Amendments to the constitution were discussed with the members and will be voted upon at the semi-convention and executive meeting which will be held in Vancouver November 16 Mrs. Molly Montgomery and Mrs.

Margaret Love will attend as delegates.

United Church Anniversary

More than 200 persons gathered at the social parlors of First United Church Thursday night to join in a happy and appropriate celebration of the church's 40th anniversary. A fine turkey dinner, provided by the Women's Auxiliary under the leadership of Mrs. Owen Green, was a feature of the evening which started the proceedings off to a fine start.

Rev. L. G. Sieber, the pastor, presided and, dealing with the anniversary occasion, referred to the rich Christian heritage within the church and city. He invited a greater participation therein.

Dr. L. M. Greene emphasized responsibility to the church from the material and financial, as well as spiritual, standpoint.

William Dunn offered a vote of thanks to the ladies for the splendid dinner.

The entertainment program consisted of a showing of films, one entitled "Shadow Painting" and the other a historic travelogue of Eastern Canada.

REMEMBRANCE DAY

NOVEMBER 11th, 1951

Buy a Poppy on Sat., Nov. 10th

President's Message

Once again this year The Canadian Legion is asking the people of Prince Rupert to wear a poppy for remembrance. This is an excellent appeal, and one that should not be overlooked. During the years since Col. John McCrae wrote the challenging poem "In Flanders Fields" the poppy has taken on a peculiar significance. It has come to typify in many countries of the world the debt which we who live owe to those who died in battle.

One day in the year the people of Canada are asked to wear a poppy to show that they remember. One day in the year they are asked to pause briefly to honor the dead. That is little enough. While remembrance of the dead of the two wars is the spiritual aspect of the poppy, there is the other practical purpose of assisting the living, for the money raised through the fund is used for emergency assistance to veterans and to families of veterans.

While it is true that veterans under certain circumstances have the advantage of specific legislation, such as the veterans' allowance, it should be remembered that when an emergency crops up in any family, speed is the essential requirement in providing assistance.

There are many cases on record with the Poppy Fund where the necessary assistance has been forthcoming in a matter of hours. It should be remembered also that there are many worthy veterans who hesitate to apply to any of the organized charities. Many of them have twice gone into uniform, and have given ten years from their productive life in the service of their country. Through the comradeship of the Canadian Legion their needs are learned, and the assistance is forthcoming. It should be remembered too, that while the Poppy Fund is a national appeal, the money raised locally is used locally to assist veterans and their families.

The Legion slogan "Wear a Poppy for Remembrance" is a good slogan. It is one that deserves the support of every citizen.

R. M. MacLEOD,
President, Canadian Legion,
Branch 27, Prince Rupert.

Order of Service

O Canada, we stand on guard for thee,
O Canada, we stand on guard for thee.

Lieut. Col. John McCrae

Died in France, January 28, 1918.
In Flanders fields, the poppies grow
Between the crosses, row on row
That mark our places; and in the sky
The larks, still bravely singing, fly
Scarce heard amid the guns below.

In
Flanders
Fields

We are the dead: short days ago
We lived, felt dawn, saw sunset glow
Loved and were loved, and now we lie
In Flanders Fields.

In
Flanders
Fields

Take up our quarrel with the foe!
To you, from falling hands, we throw
The torch; be yours to hold it high!
If ye break faith with us who die
We shall not sleep, though poppies grow
In Flanders Fields.

Garbage Man's Shirt

There have been plenty of cases of the dog biting the men and the newspapermen have said that a worthwhile story would be the man biting the dog. However, a unique incident occurred this week when a rat bit a garbage man under odd circumstances.

Angus Gillis, in charge of the city's garbage truck in the residential area, was dumping a garbage can into the truck when out jumped a huge rodent and slithered down his open shirt.

"It didn't take long to get rid of it," said Mr. Gillis. "It just jumped out again and disappeared. Rather unpleasant experience but no ill effects!"

On the South Queen Charlotte Island week, the sailing time from here for the south will be midnight Sunday. SATURDAY SERMON cleansed from your sins and to find peace with God.

Listen to the words of Jesus: "If any man thirst, let him come unto Me and drink." Thirst is never satisfied through exertion and labor. We have to come to God as we are and receive what He has for us in Christ. What you need is someone who has borne your sin, who embraces you with unfailing, everlasting love. And this you will find nowhere else except in Jesus Christ. Get yourself a Bible and read and receive His message of sin and grace, that your heart may be filled with the peace of Salvation.

STOCK WINTER LARDER
